AUGUSTA TOPICS.

Forty Thousand Dollars for Uncovering the Ice.

[Special to the Press.]

AUGUSTA, Jan. 29.—The ice men have been exceedingly busy for two days past removing the snow from their fields, and it is very exhausting work for both horses and men. It is estimated that the total cost of scraping occasioned by the great storm will be $40,000 to the companies on the river. The houses on an average are about half filled, and with good weather, harvesting will be completed in three or four weeks. All expect to be running ice again on Monday or Tuesday.

The roof of the Great Falls houses at Green's Ledges, Pittston, caved in Saturday afternoon, the weight of snow being so great, and a delay will be necessitated to allow of making repairs.

Saturday afternoon a man walking on the railroad track between Hollowell and Gardiner barely escaped being run over by Jewett's train. The brakes were applied and he plunged into a snow drift.

Master Workman A. A. Beaten, will accompany the General Lecturer, who is to be employed by the Knights of Labor, on his tour through the State.

MAINE.

Maine Free Baptist.

[Special to the Press.]

AUGUSTA, Jan. 29.—Under the present arrangement the Free Baptists of Maine hold three annual meetings a year; one in the Eastern portion of the State known as the Penobscot yearly meeting; one embracing a district in the central part and a third the Western and Southern. A movement is on foot to hold but one annual meeting the same as other denominations, to be attended by representatives of all the Free Baptists in the State, and a general convention will occur in Augusta on the 15th, 16th and 17th of May to arrange for the consolidation, after which there will be but one meeting annually.

Contagious Diseases.

AUGUSTA, Jan. 28.—Cases of the contagious diseases were reported to the State Board of Health during the week ending Jan. 28th as follows:

Typhoid fever—Leeds, 1.
Diphtheria—Alfred, 3; Castine, 1; Hallowell, 6; Kennebunkport, 3; Rabbinston, 2; Windham, 1.
Scarlet fever—Calais, 1; Portland, 1; Sidney, 2; Westbrook, 2.
Measles—Islesboro, 9; Portland, 1.

Bangor Items.

BANGOR, Jan. 29.—Two men, Mack Silvester and John J. Curtis, detained at the police station on a charge of robbing a store at Molunkus, escaped Saturday night while an officer was after a mattress for one of the men, who was sick, and nothing has yet been heard of them. They did not stop to take their overcoats and the night was bitter cold.

The body of Thomas Porter, killed Friday night by the cars, will be sent to Fredericton, N. B. This morning the coroner's jury found that his death was due to his own carelessness and exonerated the road.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Some of the Matters Awaiting the Action of Congress.

Mr. Dingley Tells Representatives About the Shipping Laws.

Plans for Making More Light for the Mariners.

[Special to the Press.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Congress finds itself ready at work as it assembles this week. Several bills of considerable general importance have been passed, and more are under discussion. The Blaine bill seems likely to get out of the Senate before long; territorial legislation is assuming importance there. The adulterated lard matters, and postal telegraphy are being probed. More interest in the immigration problem is also a feature of the developing year. The speeches of Senators Merrill and Palmer on the bill have awakened attention, even though no pointed debate or committee work have come out of it. In the House the appropriations committee are pushing work on the many bills. Something regarding the Chinese is also before the committees and likely to come to a point. The requests for public buildings are numerous and there is the same sharp fight on the part of each locality for recognition which always grows out of attempts at this sort of legislation.

The Shipping Laws.

As for matters of chief interest to Maine there is the revision of the shipping law, which can best be explained in Gov. Dingley's remarks on it before the House, in full as follows:

Section 1 of this act amends section 11 of the shipping act of 1886, in reference to tonnage tax; and the amendment I may add is suggested by the Secretary of State in view of certain questions which have arisen under the act of 1886. Sections 11 and 12 of the shipping act of 1886 tendered to foreign countries which would remove from American vessels all tonnage taxes, light house dues, and other equivalent charges, a similar reciprocal treatment of their vessels on the part of the United States, and authorized the President to issue his proclamation suspending the collection of tonnage tax on vessels of such foreign countries as reciprocated with us.

Under that provision of the shipping act of 1886 the President has issued his proclamation in certain cases where certain countries have abolished charges on American vessels. But having done this in the case of certain Spanish-American countries, certain European countries have made claim that they, under what is known as the "most favored nation" clause in treaties with this country, are entitled to have their vessels exempted from tonnage tax and light house dues. The Secretary of State has very properly responded to such a claim that the exemptions which we have given to vessels of certain foreign countries have been in consequence of certain considerations given by them; that if these other foreign countries will give the same compensation we will give the same exemption to them; and that the "most favored nation" clause in our treaties does not authorize them to make a claim to similar favors unless they give equal compensation.

In order to make this clear, according to the original intention of the shipping act of 1886, and to carry out the construction which the Secretary of State and the Attorney-General have put on the shipping act of 1886, it has been thought advisable to embody in this amendment to that act of 1886 this interpretation and this limitation, and this is simply the effect of the first section of this bill.

The second section of the bill supplies certain omissions which were made in the shipping act of 1886, when the fees for certain services to American vessels were abolished, and a provision adopted that officers receiving payment in whole or in part from fees should be paid thereafter from the general Treasury, instead of from the fund which previously accumulated from those fees, thus making that transfer it was discovered subsequently that two classes of expenditures had been omitted, namely, the compensation of clerks of inspectors of steam vessels and the fees of witnesses in certain cases of collision. The omission is now supplied.

The third section of the bill amends the shipping act of 1884 in that section which relates to the care of distressed and sick American seamen in foreign ports. By the act of 1883 seamen could be discharged under the provisions of law in foreign ports on payment to the United States consul by the vessel of arrears of wages and one month's extra wages. And further provision was made that the consul, in ports where these seamen were discharged, should pay from a fund of arrears of wages and extra wages, pay the board and necessaries required by the seamen and the expense of his transportation from the foreign port in which he then was to some port in the United States. The district court of the southern district of New York has held that the words "board" and "necessaries" used in the act of 1884 do not cover medical care or nursing, notwithstanding it was the intention in the use of these words to cover all necessary expenses to which the destitute American seaman was exposed in a foreign port until his return to this country. The amendment proposed by the bill inserts the words "medical attendance and nursing," in order to make the original intent of the act clear, and provides distinctly, as was provided inferentially by the original act, that whatever expenses there may be shall be paid from the arrears of wages and extra wages of such destitute seaman, and the balances from the fund appropriated annually by Congress for the relief of distressed American seamen in foreign ports and for their transportation to a port in the United States.

Maine Light Houses.

The letters from the Board of Engineers regarding the new light houses in Maine, mentioned in your telegraphic reports, explain the demand for the new buildings.

Maj. Gregory writes:

The Light House Board has the honor to state that a petition addressed to Congress, asking that a light house be erected upon Channel Rock, at the eastern entrance of Fox Island Thoroughfare, in the county of Knox and State of Maine, having been referred to it by the Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., M. C., the matter was referred by the Board to the officers of the first light house district for investigation and report.

From the reports received it appears to be the unanimous opinion of citizens interested in navigation that a light at the eastern entrance of Fox Island Thoroughfare is imperatively needed to secure safe navigation at night, and in the general interests of commerce, hundreds of vessels being delayed because there is no light there, and many large coasters being deterred from seeking an anchorage there in heavy weather for the want of a light to guide them.

From a careful consideration of the subject, it appears that the best place to locate the light would be inside of the entrance, at or near Goose Rocks, and that a day beacon should be erected at or near Channel Rock, to serve as a guide in thick weather when the light-house could not be seen.

This matter was considered by the board at its session, held on Jan. 10, 1888, when the conclusion was reached that, as this is one of the most important passages on the coast of Maine for large fleets of coasting and fishing vessels, a light station and fog bell should be established at or near Goose Rock, to guide into the entrance and past Widow's Island, and that a day beacon should be built at or near Channel Rock to mark this danger in thick and foggy weather, and this ordered that the proper steps be taken to have an appropriation in the sum of $35,000 made by Congress for these additional aids to navigation.

Recommendation is therefore made that Congress be asked by the Department to make the following appropriation, namely:

For the establishment of a light station and fog bell at or near Goose Rock, and for the establishment of a day beacon at or near Channel Rock, both at the eastern entrance of Fox Island Thoroughfare, Maine, the sum of $35,000.

Also touching another matter, he says:

Sir,—The Light-House Board has the honor to state that the keepers' dwellings at Bear Island, Maine, and Dumpling Rock, Bird Island, and Wing's Neck light stations, Massachusetts, are all in a dilapidated condition.

These dwellings are of stone, built, respectively in the years 1819, 1828, and 1849, and are so inferior that it would be a waste of money to apply anything further to repairs.

If these dwellings are to be kept habitable during the winter of 1888-'89, it would be imperative to expend in the repair a sum that would amount to a considerable part of the cost of entirely new ones.

Both in the interest of true economy, for the comfort of the keepers and the efficiency of the public service, new dwellings should be built at these stations at the earliest day practicable, and request is therefore made that Congress be asked to make an appropriation for building new dwellings at these stations, as follows:

For building new keepers' dwellings at Bear Island, Maine, Dumpling Rock, Massachusetts, Bird Island, Massachusetts, and Wing's Neck, Massachusetts, light station, the sum of $15,000.

Mr. Reed's Leadership.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The Star, in the course of a chatty article on the Fiftieth Congress, says: "Without Mr. Hiscock, Mr. Reed is alone in his leadership of the minority except for the occasional assistance of his colleague, Mr. Boutelle, who seems less active than of yore. Governor Long makes no contest for the leadership, and he and Mr. Reed are so different that they seldom are much together.

The Department's Reply.

The War Department's reply to Congressman Boutelle's bettle-flag resolution is about completed, and will probably be forwarded to the House early this week. An army officer says the answer will show that the resolution has developed into a boomerang and will show that if any law has been violated by the administration by the return of captured trophies, some former secretaries of war are equally guilty, for the lists compiled and which will form part of the Department's reply, show that many more flags were delivered by Secretary Stanton and some of his successors than under the present regime.

Notes.

There are indications that the fishery conference is approaching a conclusion and that the commission may adjourn without any formal announcement. The first of the commissioners to depart is Mr. Putnam, who goes Sunday, and will not probably return. The others will probably leave soon. It is understood that the commissioners reached no agreement.

THE FLAMES.

Pittsburg's Unfortunate Experience Will Cost Several Millions.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 29.—Dr. C. G. Hussey's four story building, at No. 42 Fifth Avenue, occupied by Uriling & Sons, merchant tailors, and Heeren Bros., manufacturing jewelers, and the adjoining building, occupied by Wm. Haslage & Sons, wholesale grocers and fancy goods, burned today. The neighboring buildings were deluged by water. Total loss is $225,000; insurance, $205,000. The fire started in Hussey's building from a defective flue and burned three hours. C. P. Thiers and C. Herbert, who slept in the upper part of the building, were rescued with difficulty. The firemen suffered greatly from the cold. Fireman James Lawley was knocked off a ladder and badly hurt. This makes the seventh disastrous fire in the centre of the city during the last nine months, the aggregate loss being several millions.

In Other Places.

The large building at York, Pa., occupied by the York Daily Publishing Company as a printing office, D. H. Welsh, clothier, and R. F. Pollock, jeweler, burned yesterday morning. The total loss is about $60,000; insured for $40,000.

The Howard House block at Malone, N.Y., containing the opera house, hotel, Farmer's National Bank, and an undertaker's establishment, burned Saturday night.

By the bravery of two little girls, the alarm of fire in the New York hospital for the ruptured and crippled was so quietly given last evening that the occupants were removed without a panic.

REVOLUTIONIST STEPNIAK

Makes a Formal Protest to the Proposed Treaty With Russia.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Senator Hawley has received a letter from Sergeant Stepniak the well-known Russian revolutionist, protesting against the ratification of the proposed extradition treaty with Russia, by the Senate. Stepniak sought an introduction to Senator Hawley while the latter was in London last summer, for the purpose of making inquiries whether he would be given an opportunity to state his views on the proposed treaty before the foreign relations committee in the Senate, in case he should visit America this year, as he at that time contemplated doing. Senator Hawley told him he presumed the committee would grant him a hearing. He has now received a letter from Stepniak saying he will be unable to make the proposed trip. The letter is accompanied by a statement why, in the writer's opinion, the treaty should not be ratified. Senator Hawley said tonight he had not read the statement but from conversation with Stepniak, in London, thought it was a temperate argument opposing the ratification of the treaty on the ground that it permitted the extradition of political offenders. He declined to give the letter to the press for the reason that it related to matters which could be considered by the Senate only in executive session.

IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Formation of a Portland Branch at I. A. R. A. Hall Yesterday.

The call for a meeting of those who desired to form a branch of the Irish National League in this city drew a large number to the I. A. R. A. hall yesterday afternoon. Mr. Thomas F. Donahue and Mr. Frank Melaugh were respectively chosen chairman and secretary pro tem.

In response to calls from those present Mr. Wm. H. Looney briefly addressed the meeting. He outlined the history of the struggle which the Democracy of Great Britain and Ireland are now waging for Irish nationality, eulogized Gladstone and Parnell, denounced the Tory government, and predicted the speedy fruition of Ireland's hopes. Mr. Looney spoke of the moral and material support which the people of this country have given the movement, and alluded to the great mass meetings in this city which were presided over by Governors Plaisted and Robie and addressed by T. P. O'Connor and James G. Blaine. He was convinced that the people of Portland would sustain an active vigorous branch of the league, and urged the formation and continuation of such an organization until Home Rule is granted to Ireland.

Mr. T. F. Donahue earnestly endorsed the position taken by Mr. Looney. He said that Maine must be represented at the future conventions of the League, and that Portland with a population of forty thousand, of which over one-third was Irish Americans, should keep in active, vigorous existence, a branch of the League, and should help to encourage the hearts and strengthen the hands of the gallant men who were so heroically fighting for Irish freedom.

Mr. Thomas F. Sheehan spoke of the sacrifices made by prominent Englishmen in the present struggle, and drew a graphic picture of the terrible woes inflicted upon Ireland by centuries of English misrule. He was convinced that Portland people, deeply sympathizing as her citizens always have been with every effort made for freedom, would sustain a branch of the League.

Brief remarks were also made by Daniel M. Mannix, Cornelius Connelly and Francis Cunningham.

A committee consisting of W. H. Looney, E. J. Young and Francis Cunningham were appointed to draft a constitution and bylaws. After the committee had reported, some fifty gentlemen signed the roll, and the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year:

President—Thomas F. Donahue.
Vice President—W. W. McIntyre.
Secretary—Edmund J. Young.
Treasurer—Thomas McMahon.

The secretary was directed to procure at once from the officers of the central organization five hundred anti-coercion certificates, and it was decided to appoint at the next meeting, two weeks hence, a committee in each ward of the city to canvass for the purchase of the same, and for membership of the Branch.

From the well known energy of the officers and prominent members of the Branch, the friends of Ireland can rest assured that every consistent effort will henceforth be made to promote the success of the objects and principles of the Irish National League.

A Mysterious Team at Augusta—Was Its Owner Frozen?

AUGUSTA, Jan. 29.—Friday morning, during the height of the great storm, a blacksmith, living a mile out of the city on Western Avenue, discovered a horse and empty sleigh standing in a drift at his shop door. The horse was benumbed with cold, and parts of its body frozen, and the blacksmith worked half a day reviving the animal. No owner has been found, and it is feared the driver lost his team in the night, during the blizzard, and is frozen to death somewhere in a snow bank.

Business Suspended.

MECHANIC FALLS, Jan. 28.—The storm is over, but the wind is still blowing hard. The authorities are trying to open the roads. It is estimated that it will cost the towns of Poland and Minot each $2000 to open the roads. The weather is still very cold, the thermometer registering 14° below at 7.30 this morning. The paper mills and clothing shop have not been in operation since Thursday noon. The Webb's Mills stage has not arrived since Wednesday. The Rumford Falls & Buckfield mail train arrived at midnight Thursday, 13½ hours late. They left for Canton at 4.30 yesterday, with three engines and a plow.

Where Drifts are Huge.

SPRINGVALE, Jan. 28.—Huge and impenetrable drifts extend across all the streets here. All female operatives are carried to and from the factories, and some of the teams could not reach them. No effort has yet been made by the town authorities to break the roads. The Press is the only daily paper received here since Thursday. The temperature fell rapidly last night.

Snowshoes a Necessity.

GORHAM, N. H., Jan. 28.—This has been the most severe storm ever known here. The mercury has not been above zero since Sunday, and since Thursday travel on our streets and highways has been suspended. The streets are blocked, and snowshoeing is the best mode of travelling. We were entirely shut out from the outside world from Wednesday night until this morning. Our first mail from Portland has just got through.

Rescued by the Cutter Woodbury.

ROCKLAND, Jan. 28—The revenue steamer Levi Woodbury, Capt. Fenger, arrived here this morning from the eastward, having forced her way through the ice with much difficulty. She had on board the captain and crew of the British schooner Riverside, of St. Andrews, N. B., six men in all, whom they took off Gooseberry Island, north of Isle au Haut and near McLaughery's Island. The Riverside was bound for New York, with

THE PRESS.

MONDAY MORNING, JAN. 30.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

The developments at the recent meeting of the New York Democratic State committee leave no room for doubt that Gov. Hill has still an eye on the Presidential nomination, and that Cleveland is not going to have things all his own way in the Empire State if the wily governor can help it. Of course the chances of Hill's defeating Cleveland seem small, yet it must be remembered that a two-thirds vote of the National Democratic convention is necessary to nominate a candidate.

The Charleston News and Courier, which used to preach that slavery was a good thing for the negroes, now tries to prevent the proposed exodus to Brazil by holding up slavery as the great bugaboo of that country, telling the prospective emigrants that slaves are worth three hundred dollars each in Brazil, and that the colored people from the United States who go there are likely to be sold into slavery. This of course is a story manufactured for a purpose, as it is well known that Brazil is getting rid of its slaves as fast as possible. But it shows how anxious the people of the South are to keep the negroes with them, and suggests the hope that a people so useful to their white neighbors, may in time be accorded freely all their rights.

Apparently the fishery commission is about to disband in disgust. It is generally agreed that absolutely no progress has been made toward a settlement and that there is no better prospect of an arrangement being made than when the conference began. Canada continues stiff in her demands and the United States firm in its refusal of them, while the British commissioners, who apparently would like to compel Canada to come to terms, dare not do it for fear of the bad feeling it would create among the people of the province against the mother country and the bad predicament in which it would place the Macdonald government. The foreign hope that Congress might put fish upon the free list is gone, and there is really nothing left now for the commission to do but to go to.

The periodical war scares in Europe have come to be looked upon in the light of cries of "wolf", raised for a purpose by interested persons such as stock brokers and newspaper correspondents. But that there is reason, abundant reason, for these periodical scares is proved beyond doubt by the extraordinary efforts which Germany, the great peace keeping nation, is continually making. The enormous cost of the work provided for by the German military bill, as well as the gigantic results contemplated by the measure, has completely astounded the English press as their articles commenting thereon plainly indicate. The St. James's Gazette thinks it incredible that such a demand as the bill enforces should be made upon the people if the projectors of the measure believed in the continuance of peace. The ablest English journals express the view that the drafts made upon the resources of Germany for military purposes are more than the country can stand, and predict national bankruptcy. It is coming rapidly to the point where the Germans at home cannot produce enough to support themselves and the Germans who are in the army too.

The Democratic leaders of New Hampshire met in council in Concord last week. It was not, according to reliable accounts, a pleasant time for the old war horses like Harry Bingham, John H. Pearson and John H. George. Mr. Frank Jones, of Portsmouth, who divides his time between the interests of the Boston & Maine railroad, the management of the Portsmouth breweries and the control of Grover Cleveland's forces in North Eastern New England, reached out for the reins of the party team with better luck than he had when he reached after the scalp of the Concord railroad people last summer. It is understood that Mr. Jones will be president of the Grover Cleveland Democratic corporation of New Hampshire this year, and that Messrs. Sulloway and Sanborn will be on the board of directors. The Portsmouth Chronicle says that Mr. Jones will "name the delegates to the national convention, review and re-form the Democratic State committee, and see to it that in the State conventions the president is endorsed to the fullest extent." The Democratic voters of New Hampshire, it will thus be seen, are to be relieved of all trouble and perplexity over political affairs, and all will be as pleasant as a midsummer night's dream.

The Western farmers who took coal from railroad trains to prevent themselves and families from freezing during the recent blizzard afforded a remarkable instance of theft, justifiable theft as most will agree. A still more remarkable instance, for which there seems to be neither justification nor reason, has occurred at the small Ohio town of Bainbridge. At that place a carload of coal would at times disappear in a single night, and the peculations became so extensive that the railroad company employed detectives to unearth the thieves. The result has been the arrest of 15 prominent citizens of Bainbridge, including the marshal, hotel proprietor and a Presbyterian preacher. Half the citizens of the town are said to be implicated, and it is suspected that the other half are not wholly innocent as not a single carload of coal has been billed to a resident of the town this winter. There was no necessity to justify the people of Bainbridge; and it seems hardly possible that half the people of an Ohio town, and especially the half containing the most prominent citizens, should be thieves. It must be that they were suffering from some mental troubles that made them kleptomaniacs. The kangaroo jumps of the price of coal this winter may account for their remarkable performances. Unless some such charitable explanation is possible, there is no escape from the conclusion that Bainbridge is at least half as bad as the city that Lot fled from.

The Democratic Tariff Bill.

The Democratic majority of the ways and means committee have agreed upon the general features of a tariff bill. As we predicted, it by no means follows the line marked out in the President's message. Instead of being straight like the President's, its line is zigzag and reminds one very forcibly of the boundary line of a Congressional district in a State which has been gerrymandered. It starts with free trade straightness by putting all raw wools on the free list, then there is a little angle made by reducing the tariff on sugar about 25 per cent. The angle is believed to be big enough to conciliate the people who kick at the price of sugar, but not so big as to disgruntle the gentlemen down in Louisiana who raise sugar cane and vote the Democratic ticket. Then the line runs on straight for a spell. Lumber, salt, and some other less important raw materials are put on the free list, and then comes another good big angle, big enough to take in North Carolina, Virginia and Connecticut, made by putting manufactured tobacco on the free list. This is directly contrary to the President's advice, but the Democracy of the States mentioned became so obstreperous that it had to be done. It is not quite settled yet whether there shall be another angle to keep coal protected for the benefit of the President's Pennsylvania constituents. Some of the members, influenced, no doubt, largely by the nearness of the Presidential election, think it will be well to throw this sop to Mr. Randall, while others are in favor of giving him no quarter and letting him do his worst. There is to be some reduction on cotton goods and on steel rails, and a few unimportant chemicals are to be put upon the free list.

The bill is manifestly a compromise and the free traders have frequently surrendered important points with a view to getting votes enough to pass it. By removing the tax on tobacco they think they have made North Carolina and Virginia solid for the bill, with little regard to whatever else it may contain, and they are probably right. But it is by no means clear that even with the concessions in the way of bribes the freetraders have made to various interests they can put the bill through the House. The votes of very few, if any, Republicans can be got for the bill, because, by removing the tariff from raw material it will inflict a fatal blow to the protective system, and Mr. Randall's followers, if they are the sincere believers in this system they have professed to be, must also oppose this scheme.

CURRENT COMMENT.

STOOD IT WELL.

[Albany Journal.]

We read occasionally of men dying at an extreme age who have voted the Democratic ticket for 60 or 70 years. When you think of it their toughness is remarkable.

WHO IS THE DARK HORSE?

[Bridgton News.]

Hon. Henry B. Cleaves has definitely determined to allow the use of his name as a candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket. State Treasurer Burleigh and Governor Marble are also aspirants for the nomination, and it is likely that these three gentlemen will be the contestants before the convention, with possibly another name to be introduced somewhat later.

THE CANDIDATE OF WESTERN MAINE.

[Camden Herald.]

We publish elsewhere a warmly appreciative article from the Portland PRESS in favor of the nomination for Governor of Hon. Henry B. Cleaves of Portland. That section of the State will probably quite generally unite upon him as their candidate. The most prominent in the field besides Mr. Cleaves are Hon. S. S. Marble of Waldoboro and Hon. E. C. Burleigh of Augusta. With such material to choose from the State will be likely to secure a good Governor.

Benedict Arnold a Drunkard and Dead Beat as Well as a Traitor.

[Letter to the Belfast Age.]

The landlady of the hotel where I am now stopping is a lineal descendant of Col. John Allen, one of the most noted of revolutionary heroes. After the war closed, Col. Allen settled upon the island of Campobello, just across the New Brunswick line, where he entered into trade. Among the residents of the island was Gen Benedict Arnold, the traitor. After the capture of Major Andre, near West Point, Arnold took refuge on the war ship "Vulture," and shortly after sailed for England. At the close of the revolution, finding himself heartily detested by even the English whom he sought to serve, Arnold returned to New Brunswick and for several years was engaged in the business of shipbuilding at Campobello. Here he lived a neighbor to his former comrade in arms. Among the effects of Col. Allen, now in possession of Mrs. D. W. Smith, of this village is the "Day Book" used in his Campobello store. To beguile the tedium of a stormy, day, Mrs. Smith brought the book in question to my room as a curiosity of revolutionary times. It bears date from 1783 to 1793, covering a space of ten years. The writing is in a clear and beautiful hand and is still perfectly legible. Among the entries I found these which I copy verbatim et literatim. The first one is dated Dec. 11, 1786, and runs thus:

BENEDICT ARNOLD, DR.,

To one gallon of rum.....3—6

I presume the above "3—6" means English shillings and pence. If so the cost of the rum would be about eighty-seven cents of our present American money. The second entry bears date Feb. 6, 1787, not quite two months later. Here it is:

GEN. ARNOLD, DR.,

To cordage and rum delivered to Capt. Gregg.

The amount due is not stated in this entry. As the books are not balanced or the charges stricken out, it is conclusive evidence that the debt was never paid. These discoveries that I have made throw a flood of light upon the personal habits of the most noted traitor of all time. In the first place they show that Arnold was a drinking man and got away with a goodly amount of bad liquor. We are forced to the conclusion that he must have drank it himself. Friends he had none. Ostracised and shunned by every one, it is hardly to be supposed that he had many guests to drink his liquor. This evidence is well nigh conclusive that he was but little better than a common drunkard. Another point established by this discovery, is that Arnold had no more scruples about cheating his store keeper out of his just dues than he had about betraying his country. However brave in battle, he was destitute of patriotism and private honor alike. After the lapse of more than a hundred years a musty book comes to light in this quiet country town establishing the corruption of his personal habits and lack of personal honor. It cannot be said that he was poor and unable to pay his bills, for we know that he received thirty-thousand dollars from the British government as the price of his treachery. His lack of conscience showed itself in the small affairs of life as well as the more momentuous affairs of government. As Col. Allen was an ardent patriot it is a puzzle to me how he could have sought his trade or even tolerated his presence. But here is the evidence in black and white, which has been preserved for more than a century. Arnold subsequently returned to London where he lived in obscurity, and at last died in contempt.

Graphic Description of a Boom.

["Bill Arp" in Atlanta Constitution.]

Last summer I overheard two men talking as they were digging away in the mines, and one said: "Jim, they say thar is a big bum up at Rome."

"What's that?" said Jim.

"Why hit's a kind of a thing whar one fellar gits nothing for something."

"Why that's a faro bank or a lottery, ain't it?" said Jim.

"No it ain't. I tell you it's a bum—a kind of new tradin' business what swells and shrinks and the sweller and shrinker stays down in a cellar and works the machine. They trade in stock."

"Horses and mules," said Jim. "No hit's all on paper and nobody can see what he is buyin'. You put your money in and wait for a swell. If it comes you are all right, but if a shrink comes you are busted, and you feel so ashamed that you don't say anything about it, and it never gets into the papers—nothing but the swells gits in the papers."

Sneezing Catarrh.

The distressing sneeze, sneeze, sneeze, the acrid, watery discharges from the eyes and nose, the painful inflammation extending to the throat, the swelling of the mucous lining, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in the head and splitting headaches,—how familiar these symptoms are to thousands who suffer periodically from head colds or influenza, and who live in ignorance of the fact that a single application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH will afford instantaneous relief.

But this treatment in cases of simple Catarrh gives but a faint idea of what this remedy will do in the chronic forms, where the breathing is obstructed by choking, putrid mucous accumulations, the hearing affected, smell and taste gone, throat ulcerated and hacking cough gradually fastening itself upon the debilitated system. Then it is that the marvellous curative power of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE manifests itself in instantaneous and grateful relief. Cure begins from the first application. It is rapid, radical, permanent, economical, safe.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT and an IMPROVED INHALER; price, $1.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

PORTLAND WHOLESALE MARKET.

PORTLAND, Jan. 28, 1888.

Jobbers report a very dull business all along the line, due to the cold weather and blockaded roads. Flour is very dull at unchanged prices Wheat during the week was weak, but closed a little firmer. Corn and Meal show a reduction of 1c. There is firmer tone to the market on fine grades of Butter, but no change is reported here. Apples are stronger with an improved demand, but the movement is light on account of the cold weather. Choice Maine Baldwins in car lots sold recently in Boston at $3 a barrel.

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

All the diseases of the throat, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE HASKELL.

SATURDAY.—Court came in this morning, and after the disposition of several interlocutory matters, adjourned finally. The term, which was a very busy one, occupied 17 days.

The following rescripts have been received:

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

State vs. William J. Craig, appellant.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—The act of 1885, chap. 275, prohibits the destruction of lobsters within this State, even though taken or caught more than a marine league from the shore.

That act is not unconstitutional by reason of the penalties imposed by it.

The act of 1885, chap. 258, is not unconstitutional by reason of the enlarged jurisdiction given to magistrates under it.

A magistrate is not disqualified by reason of interest in cases where a part of the penalty goes to the municipality in which he is a resident and taxpayer.

State vs. Bernard Devine, appelant.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—This complaint is sufficient. State vs. Welch, 79 Me. 99.

State vs. Henry F. Conwell.

Rescript by Haskell. J.—A prior conviction is not well laid at a term of court ending before a certificate of decision was received from the Law Court in the cause.

Charles R. Milliken et als. in equity vs. Kate H. Dockray.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—A defence that may be interposed in an action at law cannot be invoked as a cause for relief in equity.

YORK COUNTY.

State, by William E. Towne, libellant, vs. intoxicating liquors claimed by Charles H. Walker.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—Libels against liquors seized on search warrants are separate proceedings from the search and seizure process.

Such libels must be filed with the magistrate before whom the search warrant upon which the liquors were seized is returnable.

It need not have been returned.

Such warrant, when issued by a trial justice, must be made returnable before any trial justice in the county.

The libel in this case avers the search and seizure warrant to have been issued by the magistrate with whom the libel was filed.

The law required it to be returnable before himself as well as all other trial justices in the county, so that the averment, in substance, is that it was returnable before himself, and shows a case within his jurisdiction. In other respects also, the libel is sufficient.

ANDROSCOGGIN COUNTY.

E. Stanley Hart vs. Fidelia C. McLellan.

Rescript by Haskell J.—Assumpsit against the indorser of a negotiable promissory note payable at a certain place.

A careful consideration of the evidence fails to show legal notice to the defendant of the dishonor of the note.

The notice seasonably mailed was not addressed to a post office in the city of defendant's residence, nor, as the authorities cited by defendant's counsel clearly show, was reasonable diligence used to ascertain the defendant's proper address. Judgment for defendants.

Maine Benefit Association vs. George Hamilton et al.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—The exceptions are prematurely brought to the Law Court. The decree below was interlocutory, and exceptions should not be brought to the Law Court until the final decree has been entered, except in such cases as will not admit of that delay.

Robert Tillson, appll. from decree of Judge Peabody vs. William H. Small, admr.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—The appeal in this case was properly taken, and the evidence discloses no error in the decree of the probate court.

FRANKLIN FOUNTY.

Pembroke S. Marsh vs. Otis Hayford.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—The owner of a promissory note, payable to the order of another and not indorsed by him, cannot maintain an action at law upon the same against the maker in his own name. If such owner of the note sell and deliver the same, and guarantee the payment of it, without the request, assent or knowledge of the maker, and be compelled to pay his guaranty, he cannot maintain an action for money paid to the makers use against him.

KENNEBEC COUNTY.

City of Augusta vs. inhabitants of Mercer.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—Under the act of 1875, chapter 21, supplies furnished to relieve the distress of a soldier, to operate as pauper supplies and prevent his gaining a new pauper settlement, must have been furnished to relieve a distress not occasioned "in consequence of an injury sustained in the services."

The evidence authorized the jury to find that the supplies furnished by plaintiff in June, 1880, were not of this character, and, therefore, operated to interrupt five consecutive years residence of the soldier in plaintiff city prior to the furnishing of the supplies sued for, and furnished in March and April, 1885. The act of 1875 partially, and the act of 1885 completely save the exception contained in it, removed pauper disabilities from soldier's whose distress calls for relief under the pauper laws of the State. Under either act, supplies furnished to relieve a soldier from distress may be recovered of the town charged with his legal settlement.

The charge of the presiding judge so declared the law, and the evidence fully sustains the verdict.

KNOX COUNTY.

Medora C. Perkins vs. Thomas W. Hix, Administrator.

Rescript by Haskell, J.—The issue raised by the pleadings is whether the defendant individually promised to pay the plaintiff's claim

The verdict finds a promise by the defendant's intestate and the evidence supports the verdict and not the declaration.

The cause has been fully tried as though the promise laid was by the defendant's intestate. We think the evidence sustains the verdict and that substantial justice does not require a new trial.

We therefore advise the court below to grant suitable amendments of the writ to sustain the verdict, neither party to recover costs. Doherty vs. Dolan, 65 Me. 87.

This being done, motion and exceptions overruled otherwise sustained.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

Sup. Jud. Court, W. Dist., July 1., 1887.

Joseph C. Nugent vs. The Boston, Concord & Montreal Railroad.

Rescript by Virgin, J.—In the trial of an action on the case against a railroad corporation for a personal injury resulting from the alleged defective construction of the defendant's station house, the question of contributory negligence, though depending upon undisputed facts is properly submitted to the jury, when intelligent, fair-minded persons may reasonably arrive at different conclusions thereon.

A railroad corporation, over a section of whose track another company, by virtue of a contract, runs its trains, is liable in tort to the latter's brakeman, who, while in the due performance of his duty on his employer's train, receives a personal injury solely by reason of the negligent construction of the former's station house.

When a railroad corporation leases its road and appurtenances by virtue of a legislative enactment containing no provision whatever exempting it from liability, the lessor is liable to one lawfully there, for a personal injury which resulted solely from the original defective construction of its station house, though the lessee had long been in full possession and control under the lease and had covenanted therein to maintain, preserve and keep the station houses in as good order and repair as the same were in at the date of the lease.

In an action by a brakeman for an injury received while ascending the side ladder on a box car and which resulted from the proximity of the station awning to the car, testimony that no other awning on the road was like this one is admissible.

In such an action the admission of testimony by an experienced brakeman on the same train that the undivided attention of a person ascending them was required, affords no ground of exception to the defendant.

A careful examination of the reported evidence in this case has failed to satisfy us that the jury erred in their verdict.

Motion and exceptions overruled.

WALDO COUNTY.

Sup. Jud. Court, E. Dist., July T., 1887.

Andrew J. Stevens vs. Benj. Kelley et al.

Rescript by Virgin, J.—Nothing herein is involved which is dependent upon or affected by the mill act. The gravamen of the plaintiff's complaint is that the defendants, during several of the six years next preceding the date of the writ, maliciously drew off the water through their dam and thereby let his ice which formed on the mill pond down on the mud and destroyed it.

The case presents an ancient mill dam, though the mill on the dam has been idle for the past nine years, with three or more ancient mills below on the same stream, one of which belongs to two of the owners of the dam; all of them operated by water vented through the dam and coursing along the natural channel; and the plaintiff's land flowed by the dam covered with ice in the winter season, which the plaintiff has more or less frequently harvested.

So long as the dam rightfully stands, it is the bounden duty of its owners to vent the water thereof for the use of the mill owners below, so that each shall have the natural flow of the stream except so far as that flow is modified by the reasonable use of the water by the successive riparian proprietors. The jury have found that the defendants were guilty of no malicious intent, since they only vented such water as had been done for the long series of years during which the mills have existed. If the defendants had let less water from their dam they would have been liable to the lower mill owners for the injury caused by unlawful detention. We think, therefore, that the instruction was not prejudicial to the plaintiff, and that the verdict is neither against law nor the evidence. Stevens vs. Kelley, 78 Me. 445; Davis vs. Winslow, 51 Me. 290; Davis vs. Getchell, 50 Me. 602; Gould vs. Boston D. Co., 13 Gray 442; Gould. Wat. § 218.

Motion and exceptions overruled.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

GILMORE'S BAND.

Two splendid concerts were given by this famous organization at City Hall Saturday afternoon and evening. There was a good audience present at the matinee and a packed house at night. Of the various numbers played by the band it is only necessary to say that their precise playing, wonderful exactness and perfect time, delighted all and surprised those who had never heard them. While such selections as the overture to "William Tell," the "Huguenots," the first march from "Tannhauser," and the "Semiramide" overture delighted the more musical, the general public were captured by such numbers as the "Echoes from the Old South." Gilmore was the same old Gilmore, adept, precise, full of the old time dash. Miss Fritch proved herself a very attractive soloist, with a very pleasing, well cultivated soprano voice. The band soloists were all that could be asked for and they were encored again and again. Next time we hope to have the band under warmer weather auspices.

JOAN OF ARC.

The Philadelphia Times says: "The remarkable success of Miss Maude Banks during her first year upon the stage is nothing less than phenomenal. Illustrious parentage, high social standing, kindly criticism and careful management, are but trivial factors compared with the natural talent—the divine spark of genius—with which this beautiful girl is surely endowed. General Banks may well be proud of his gifted daughter, and those who witness her earlier performances will tell of it proudly ten years hence." Miss Banks will play Joan in the great spectacular production of "Joan of Arc" at Portland Theatre tonight and will be supported by an excellent company.

SEVENTEEN.

Theatre goers from Prince Edward Island to Southern California know that there is but one Sol Smith Russell. It would be unfair to say that his face is his fortune, although Mr. Russell has but to look his audience square in the eye to excite a roar. He will appear in his new play, "Bewitched," at City Hall tonight, and tickets should be secured at Stockbridge's. This performance is in the Stockbridge popular course.

BOUCICAULT.

The Boucicault Company, with Mr. Dion Boucicault and Miss Thorndyke in the cast, will be at Portland Theatre next Friday and Saturday evenings and will present Mr. Boucicault's new drama, "The Fortunes of Myles O'Hara, or the Jilt," on Friday evening, and his well known "Shaughraun" on Saturday evening. The tickets will be ready Wednesday at the box office.

A Good Idea.

Saturday as two boys, each about 13 years of age, were digging a tunnel through a snow drift, the snow fell upon one of the boys and completely covered him His companion, becoming frightened, ran to his mother and told her in a very excited manner what had happened. She told him to run to the unfortunate boy's aunt and tell her of the accident. The aunt lived at quite a distance but the frightened boy made all haste to reach her house. All this time the other boy lay buried in the snow. The good aunt's house was at last arrived at, and she, in great excitement, bade the boy run to the apothecary for medicine for the poor little fellow under the snow. This he did, and then hastened with it to the scene of the disaster. Upon arriving he found that a neighbor had happened to think that it would be a good idea to dig his companion out of the snow, and with shovel in hand had proceeded to the spot and rescued the poor unfortunate. A prominent Free street physician was called and found his patient bleeding at the nose, badly chilled and suffocated. Three hours were required to restore the boy, who is now doing finely.

Its new contract is clear, brief, just, liberal and embraces many desirable features not offered by other companies.

Cold Waves

Are predicted with reliable accuracy and people liable to the pains and aches of rheumatism dread every change to damp or stormy weather. Although we do not claim Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a positive specific for rheumatism, the remarkable cures it has effected show that it may be taken for rheumatism with reasonable certainty of benefit. Its action in neutralizing the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of rheumatism, constitutes the secret of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in curing this complaint. If you suffer from rheumatism give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial; we believe it will do you good.

"I suffered a long time with rheumatism in my left arm and shoulder, my blood being in a very low condition. I was advised to use Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I did so with great success. Since I have been taking it I have not been troubled with rheumatism, and my blood is in better condition." Mrs. M. Moutt, 303 Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.
