QUARANTINE NOTICE.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that in consequence of the prevalence of "Glanders and Farcy" among the "Texas Mustangs or Bronco Horses" brought into Maine and sold to the number of 2900 during the season of 1887, no more Broncos will be allowed to be landed or exposed for sale in this State until further notice.

The Cattle Commissioners of Massachusetts say in a late circular directed to "Boards of Health" of cities and towns: "The deaths of citizens from that loathsome and fatal disease, glanders, contracted from diseased horses, the too general negligence of animal owners, veterinarians and others, injuring notice of the suspected existence of contagious diseases and the lax or indifferent action of boards of health in some of the cities and towns, makes it imperative that we call the attention of all good citizens to the statutes provided for the suppression of contagion among domestic animals."

The attention of all persons is directed to Section 7, Chapter 138, of the Public Laws of Maine, applying to cattle or horses affected with contagious diseases, and which will hereafter be rigidly enforced.

LABOR STATISTICS.

Mr. Matthews Securing Material for His Next Report.

[Special to the Press.]

AUGUSTA, March 9.—Labor Commissioner S. W. Matthews is already taking preliminary steps towards the preparation of his next annual report, and just now is taking measures to secure full statistics concerning workingmen, which will be made a very prominent feature of the report. He wants to secure returns from 1000 or more of these, and will place blanks in the hands of agents throughout the State for distribution. Tables will be compiled from the replies, which will be very valuable. Tomorrow Mr. Matthews goes to Boston, where, by appointment, he will meet the Commissioner of the Connecticut Labor Department, to consult about matters pertaining to their respective bureaus.

J. E. Blanchard of Chelsea and J. H. Stoddard of Gardiner, formerly deputy collector of internal revenue, are candidates for county treasurer.

MAINE.

Powers in the Field.

BIDDEFORD, March 9.—Detective Powers, of Halifax, is in Saco again today to demand of the Saco and Biddeford Savings Institution the reward of $7,500 offered by the bank last fall for the arrest of Frank McNally, the defaulter, and a return of the securities. He claims that he could have recovered the stolen bonds after he arrested the defaulter in Halifax but that he released the prisoner at the bank's request. The detective has engaged Judge Charles L. Hamilton, of Biddeford, as his counsel and if the bank does not give him a satisfactory answer a suit will be commenced immediately.

Hon. Robert H. Thompson.

GARDINER, March 9.—Hon. Robert H. Thompson, president of the Gardiner Savings Institution, died at the Johnson House in this city this morning of pneumonia, after a brief illness. He was 80 years of age and one of Gardiner's wealthiest citizens. He has served as mayor and represented the city in the State legislature. Mr. Thompson was one of the founders of the Oakland National bank, and formerly was prominently connected with numerous business enterprises on the Kennebec. He leaves a son and three married daughters.

A Boy Charged with Homicide.

BIDDEFORD, March 9.—Last fall Herbert Lord, a boy of Lebanon, struck Willie Davis of the same town with an apple in the temple. The Davis boy died 24 hours later, it is said, as the result of the blow. After several months' inaction the Lord boy has been arrested and arraigned for homicide today and held for appearance at the grand jury at the next term of the supreme court of York County. The boy got bonds.

Lewiston's Election.

LEWISTON, March 9.—Andrew Scannel and Jere McGillicuddy, were arraigned in the Municipal court in Lewiston today for illegal voting on Monday. They waived examination and were bound over to the April term of the supreme court.

Franklin County Indictments.

FARMINGTON, March 9.—The grand jury rose this morning. But few indictments are reported. Those made public are one for liquor nuisance, two for larceny and one for arson.

Breaking a Channel.

ROCKLAND, March 9.—Ice still blocks navigation up the Penobscot river. The steamer Lucy P. Miller, from New York, has succeeded in cutting her way above Fort Point and will probably reach Bucksport tomorrow, from which place she has a big freight. The United States cutter Dallas, Capt. Frank Barr, has gone up to assist her. The ice is softening somewhat.

Peter Bennett's Thousands.

NEWPORT, March 9.—There is a strong belief entertained by many people here that, admitting Dr Weed's connection with the crime, Peter Bennett's robbers had still another accomplice and that he was somebody in the village and now has the stolen money in his possession. Sheriff Brown and Deputy Maloney have been here hunting for evidence in the case. Bennett, it is said, believes that there was an attempt made a year ago by Dr. Weed and two New York crooks, to rob him, but that the New Yorkers became dissatisfied at the last moment and refused to do the job. It is generally believed that there is some mistake regarding the statement that Inspector Byrnes knows Foster as a professional thief. The work at Bennett's did not seem to be that of professionals.

Arraigned for Murderous Assault.

DOVER, March 9—The case of State vs. Geo. Larrabee began in the Piscataquis S. J. Court Thursday. The indictment was for assault with intent to kill. It is alleged that on the 21st of September last, the respondent, at Northeast Carry, near Moosehead Lake, shot John Arboo in the back with a shot gun, causing severe but not fatal wounds.

Business Reverses.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Business failures occurring throughout the country during the past seven days as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., and E. Russell & Co., of the mercantile agency by telegraph, number for the United States, 195; for Canada, 58, or a total of 253, as compared with a total of 244 last week and 270 the week previous. For the corresponding week of 1887, the figures were 235 in the United States and 27 in Canada, a total of 228.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Secretary Maddocks on the Negotiators and the Fisheries.

Senator Dolph's Fortification Bill Agreed Upon in Committee.

Provision Made for Portland and Other Maine Ports.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—In his pamphlet, "Fisheries Treaties between the United States and Great Britain, Discussed from a Fisherman's Standpoint," Secretary Maddocks of the National Fishery Association has this to say regarding the new treaty:

"When former treaties have been negotiated, wherein the welfare of the fisheries have been concerned, it may have been pleaded in extenuation of any mistakes that have been made, that the gentlemen charged with the responsible duty of negotiation may have lacked that definite knowledge of the subject under consideration, which might have enabled them to avoid mistakes, and which might make it possible to state the terms of the treaty so clearly and so explicitly that it could not well be misunderstood.

"But no excuse of this kind can be offered in the present case. If the negotiators charged with the duty of representing the interests of the American fishermen in this case are not well informed upon the subject they had to deal with, it is not because they lacked the requisite sources of information. Not only have the rights and needs of the American fishermen under previous treaties, and all matters pertaining to this controversy, been fully set forth in public press and pamphlets prepared by the highest legal authorities, but the fishermen of the United States have sent to Washington, and have maintained there during the progress of these last negotiations, representatives who were ready to state their claims and give expression to their needs and their wishes. It is a rather remarkable commentary to this entire proceeding that since the abrogation of the fishery clauses of 1871, and during the progress of these last negotiations, no authorized agent of the Atlantic fishermen has been called upon to state their case in a personal interview with the gentlemen who were officially charged with the responsible duties of negotiating for the rights of the fishermen. This is a matter for still greater surprise, considering the fact that the officers of the fishery associations have sough to state their case in personal interview, and have not been granted this privilege."

Revenue Legislation.

The Democratic newspapers print an absurd yarn, alleging that the Republicans are split into factions in regard to revenue legislation. The story is a baseless fabric. Mr. Reed, Major McKinley, Governor Long and Governor Dingley, all deny the statement as without any foundation. No specific action in formulating a tariff bill has been taken as yet by the Republicans as a body, or by any individual Republican; but, as all discussion goes to show, there is substantian unanimity on the several points. Said Governor Dingley, Tuesday night: "The Republicans in the House are substantially a unit on five propositions, and if any tariff bill is framed in the House by the Republicans which may or may not be, according to the course of circumstances—it would probably include them. They are: (1) Removal of the tobacco tax; (2) abolition of the tax on alcohol used in the arts; (3) a large reduction in sugar duty; (4) the wool and woolen schedule adopted by the recent tripartite conference; (5) the Arkwright club cotton schedule."

Sea Coast Defences.

The Senate committee on coast defences practically agreed today to report favorably the bill introduced by Senator Dolph to provide for fortifications and sea coast defence, with an amendment providing that the gun factory to be established be located at Watervilet Arsenal, New York, instead of the Frankfort Arsenal in Pennsylvania. The bill provides that there shall be appropriated $126,378,800 for the purpose of providing fortifications at the following ports: New York, San Francisco, Boston, the Lake ports, Hampton Roads, New Orleans, Philadelphia Washington, Baltimore, Portland, the Rhode Island ports in Narragansett Bay, Key West, Charleston, South Carolina, Mobile, New London, Savannah, Galveston, Portland, Ore., Pensacola, Fla., Wilmington, N. C., San Diego, Cal., Portsmouth, N. H., defences of Cumberland Sound at Fort Clinch, defences for the ports of the Kennebec river at Fort Popham; New Bedford, Mass., defences of the ports on the Penobscot river, Maine, at Fort Knox; and New Haven, Conn. Of the amount appropriated, $21,500,000 is to be expended during the fiscal year of 1889, $9,000,000 during each of the 11 fiscal years thereafter, and $5,877,800 during the fiscal year 1901, the money to be expended according to the recommendations of the fortifications board appointed under the act of March 3, 1885. The floating batteries and torpedo boats recommended by the Board will be constructed by contract, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Navy, according to plans approved by a board of naval officers. The guns for their armament will be fabricated at the Washington navy yard.

The House committee on military affairs have agreed to report favorably the Cutcheon bill appropriating $7,435,000 for coast defences.

The Pension List.

Pensions have been awarded the following Maine people:

INCREASE.

Levi Chapman, Seal Harbor.
Charles B. Gilman, Solon.
Lewis E. Parker, Plymouth.
Henry Young, Danforth.

Lth CONGRESS--FIRST SESSION.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, March 9.

Mr. Herman, of Oregon, was excused from further service on the commitee on manufactures, and was appointed on the committee on Indian depredation claims, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Buchanan of New Jersey, who was appointed as a member of the committee on manufactures. The House then proceeded to the further consideration of the omnibus war claim bill, coming over from last Friday.

The amendment agreed to in committee of the whole appropriating $20,000 for the relief of the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary and High School of Virginia, was again the subject of discussion being earnestly opposed by Messrs. Taylor and Kennedy, of Ohio. Messrs. Lee and O'Ferrall, of Virginia, supported the amendment.

Mr. Reed, of Maine, said that the naked proposition of the amendment was to pay $20,000 to a corporation on account of the fact that it was deprived of the use of its buildings by the operation of war. If the precedent contained in the amendment were set, Congress might have to pay rent for the fields used in actual combat. The amendment was finally agreed to—yeas, 130; nays, 96. The bill was then passed—yeas, 105; nays, 100.

The remainder of the day was consumed in the consideration of a few private bills. The House at 5 o'clock took a recess until 7.30.

Evening Session.

Thirty-four pension bills were passed, including one increasing the pension of the widow of Gen. Robert Anderson, the hero of Fort Sumter to $100 a month. The House, at 10 o'clock, adjourned.

OUT OF THE FLAMES.

Narrow Escape of Professors and Students at Mitchell, Dak.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 9.—The Journal's Mitchell, Dakota, special says: "Fire broke out in the Methodist University at three o'clock this morning from spontaneous combustion of oily rags in the oil rooms. There were forty inmates, including faculty, students and servants. All but ten escaped without trouble. Four young men jumped from the second story windows, and four others and a professor jumped from the third story. Another professor descended from the roof by a clothes line. The loss is $50,000; insurance, $75,000. The building will be rebuilt. Norton Pitcher of Northville, has since died of his injuries.

Canadians Want More Light.

OTTAWA, March 9.—The Dominion is stirred to wrath and indignation from one end to the other by the suppression of the fishery papers. Strong words were used in the House of Commons last night on the subject. Mr. Laurier, leader of the Opposition, protested against the Government bringing down practically blank protocols, and demanded the publication of the whole proceeding, particularly the American counter proposals.

Thirty Killed.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Steamship Athos from South American ports, just arrived in New York, reports that on leaving the harbor of Carthagena, February 22d, it was learned that the boiler of the river steamer Rafael Reyes had exploded, killing thirty persons.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

JULIUS CÆSAR.

A dramatic company is possessed of good courage that is willing to attempt Shakespeare's famous tragedy of Julius Cæsar in these later days when it is sure to be criticised by so many earnest students of the great master of play writing; and especially is this the case when the company has been preceded in this city, within a few years by a combination of remarkable talent who have presented the tragedy with an attention to detail that is not surpassed on the metropolitan stage. And yet, in the face of these facts, Mr. Mack's company is entitled to much credit for their work last evening.

Mr. Downing's Marc Antony, like his Spartacus, from a physical point of view, is very attractive and picturesque. His delivery of the great speeches is marked by intelligence, and deep study, and the grand sentiments of the poet find admirable channel for their conveyance to the audience in the beautiful sonorous voice and clear cut enunciations of the actor. His acting is realistic and forcible and he was heartily and enthusiastically applauded.

The supporting characters of Brutus by Mr. Harry Meridith, and Cassius by Mr. William Harris, were very well assumed, and the same clearness of enunciation we have first mentioned appertained to them as well as to Mr. Downing. Miss Earle was a pleasing Portia, of fine, commanding presence, dignified movement, and in the scene with Brutus, womanly and effective. The other parts were taken acceptably.

The play was well staged and well costumed, and the details that often are made ridiculous, like the cheers and actions of the populace, were realistic and in good taste.

Grimmer's orchestra played with their accustomed skill and the large audience expressed much pleasure as they left the theatre.

DOCKSTADER'S MINSTRELS.

Next Monday the sale of seats for the performance of Dockstader's Minstrels will begin at Portland Theatre. The performance will be given Wednesday evening. The New York Sun says: "In the first part singing the Dockstader troupe are unapproachable. Jose's alto, Reiger's tenor and D'Alton's baritone, and Pillman's bass contribute to a skillfully arranged hour of excellent vocalism, and Carl Rankin's witty work on the end gives this portion of the entertainment positive hilliarity."

NOTES.

Tommaso Salvini, the Italian trage dian will play twenty weeks under the management of Wesley Sisson. Next season Alexandro Salvini will be the leading man.

The new entrance of the Union Square Theatre will be moved back twenty feet and will occupy the space formerly used for the office of the Morton House.

Dunlap's Stage News says: "Among the graduates to the stage are daughters of Moncure D. Conway, General Sherman, Mr. Walsh and General Banks, and a niece of Edwin Booth, while a daughter of Mrs. Crowley (Jennie June) has gone upon the stage and Mr. Thomas Barry of Boston, has a daughter following in her mother's footsteps. These girls are well bred, carefully educated, cultured, intellectual and ambitious. They have gifts, talent, brains, invention, push and perseverance, and are giving to the dramatic profession the same study, earnestness and conscientous thoughtfulness they would bestow upon the profession of music, literature or medicine. The young men in the same circle as these girls are not studying for the stage to any great extent, their nearest approach being the stage door of a burlesque theatre."

An exchange says: "It was up at Augusta, in Maine, that Nat Goodwin was brave enough to challenge theatre goers with a company of his own. The Orlando' won his own too. He played one night; the next he turned up in Boston, the forlornest looking citizen in all New England. 'Why, Nat,' quoth one of his astonished friends, 'didn't your audience like your play?' Nat looked deeply as he answered, 'Well, I think he would have liked it if he had only waited for the second act.'"

Ocean Park.

The arrangements for the assembly at this favorite resort the coming season are far in advance of any previous year. New features are introduced and those upon the usual line of its assembly work are greatly enlarged and strengthened. The full course of the Normal Chautauquan Union under Rev. A. E. Dunning, D. D., as superintendent of instruction with an able corps of assistants, together with the work of the C. L. S. C. furnish strong features. The musical department of the Normal Assembly is to be under the management of Mrs. M. D. Shepard of Boston whose musical ability has become well nigh national. Mrs. Shepard will give daily rudimental musical instruction to the children and conduct an advance class in chorus drill. Prof. H. R. Clark will serve as director of the jubilee convention and Miss Lizzie Smart as organist of the O. P. department of the assembly. Added to the above will be grand concerts and bell ringers entertainments. The platform will be furnished with a grand piano in addition to the organ.

The temperance Normal department will be in charge of Dr. C. R. Crandall, an able medical practitioner and public educator, as well as lecturer, and Mrs. L. R. Burlingame, superintendent and State temperance lecturer of the W. C. T. U. for Rhode Island. This important department will be most ably sustained with addresses and daily Normal Instruction.

Mission Day will contain the strong features of an address by Dr. J. L. Phillips, who is always fresh and full with other able speakers. Children's day so popular heretofore with band of music, fireworks and sea of lanterns is to be reinforced by Miss S. A. Perkins of Myrtle fame with her try class and bands of "busy bees" all over New England. Into this will go the Woman's bureau and convention are to have Mrs. Mary Livermore of national fame, Mrs. L. R. Burlingame, Miss Dr. Avery as lecturers, and will dedicate Curtis Home as an evidence of their faith and enterprise to the line of their advance work for woman and benevolence. This house meets a pressing need at the Park and presents one of the most important and attractive features of the new year.

Recognition Day is to be the great day of the Normal Union Assembly with addresses by Rev. E. E. Hale, D. D., and Rev. Smith Baker with music, fireworks, campfire and feast of lanterns. All persons in New England pursing the C. L. S. C. course of study who graduate in the class of 1888 and would find it more convenient to do so at Ocean Park are requested by the assembly committee to report their desire to do so to the chairman of the committee, Rev. E. W. Porter, Blackstone, Mass., as early as June 5th. They may expect a profitable season at a delightful place furnished with the best advantages; also a most cordial welcome will be given to the members of each of the other classes with special arrangements for ninety-one which was organized at the Park last year, with such flattering prospects. This members of ninety-one will signify their intentions to be present to the Ocean Park class secretary, Mrs. Webber of North Berwick, Me., before the above named date.

Chautauqua Day, C. L. S. C. Day is to have able speakers with novel and strong features.

The lectureship course is to have a strong corps of able lecturers and preachers supplemented by the efficient work of the Christian Temperance convention and by round table conferences and practical talks.

A. C. F. Day, a new feature will bring together an additional number of the young people to illustrate the fresh young blood in Christian service and will be supplemented on the following day by the Guild which will make a delightful and attractive occasion.

There will be other days and conventions of equal attraction and interest as the Layman's Congress and the Alumni Day.

The Park is well furnished with accommodations for guests in hotel or cottages and the rates are moderate.

There is no assembly ground is New England better supplied with railroad accommodations than is this both by the Maine line of the Boston & Maine, and the Beach railroad, one running directly by and the other through the grounds.

The City of Richmond.

On Tuesday, March 13th, the steamer City of Richmond, will receive freight and passengers for Millbridge, the ice having left that harbor, Deer Isle and Sedgwick are the only landings on the route not open.

The North Franklin Telegraph and Telephone Company are soliciting subscriptions to build a telegraph line from Strong to Eustis.

Mayer Brothers & Co., New York coffee importers, assigned yesterday. Their liabilities are supposed to be large.

P. T. Lawrence, a broker's agent at Toronto, has departed for New York. He left behind a shortage in his accounts and some unpaid bills.

The New York Sun says that during Joseph Chamberlain's stay in thus country he was closely guarded by Pinkerton detectives employed by the State department.

CONGRESSMEN INVESTIGATE.

Lawyer Parsons Describes the Working of the Sugar Trust.

Its Effect on the Market as Told by Witnesses.

Senators Give a Hearing to the Unprotected Authors.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The investigation into the sugar trust was resumed by the House committee on manufactures this morning. Mr. Parsons, attorney for the trust, being placed on the stand. Chairman Bacon examined the witness in regard to whether any changes had been made in the agreement since it was entered into, to which answer was made that the deed had not been changed but it had since been required that instead of new refineries being admitted by action of the board the consent of a majority of the certificate holders should be obtained. The witness thought that the price of sugar had not been increased as a result of the agreement, nor had any sugar refineries been purchased by the board, but that members of the association had, since the formation of the trust, purchased the entire stock of refineries in which they had not previously been interested. Being asked why they had not taken the stockholders into the trust instead of buying the stock the witness replied that the number of trustees was limited by the agreement to eleven, that all persons holding stock were satisfied to have the gentlemen constituting the board represent them, and that a large number of persons having control would make the board unmanageable.

Parsons stated that in the case of the North River Refining Company, of which Mr. Moller was the principal owner, there was no transfer of interests. After Moller signed the agreement he desired to withdraw. Then Searles, of the sugar trust board, bought out Mr. Moller. The par value of the stock of the North River Company was $300,000. Mr. Searles paid $325,000 cash for it. When the stock was turned over to the trust, its certificates to the amount of $700,000 were given in lieu of it, less 15 per cent., or $595,000 net. This ratio of exchange, however, the witness maintained, was no criterion as to the dealings with other refineries.

Chairman Bacon pressed the witness as to the amount of certificates owned by the various parties to the trust. Mr. Parsons declined to answer for the reason that it was simply a private matter.

The press representatives were asked to withdraw temporily, as Mr. Parsons desired to make a statement with closed doors. When the doors were opened the chairman announced that the committee had decided not to press the question for the present. Continuing, Mr. Parsons said the board believed that 70 per cent. of the trust capitalization of $50,000,000 was represented by real property of the various refineries and the other 30 per cent. by patent rights, the experience and the good will of the members of the trust board.

Mr. Parsons stated that the machinery and processes for the combined manufactories did not tend to dispense with labor.

John Dodworth, of the New York Commercial Bulletin testified that both raw and refined sugar had advanced since the formation of the trust.

Francis B. Thurber, of New York, said the price of standard sugar had advanced probably one cent per pound in the last 5 months and, if the prices got too high, there would be other refineries started. He also knew of 18 refineries which had failed or gone out of business in the last 15 or 20 years; that the sugar business had not been adpaying one and he looked upon the present trust as not unnatural.

James E. Nicholas, of Austin Nicholas & Co., wholesale grocers, New York, said the difference between the trust prices and those outside the trust were not large enough to make it profitable to purchase outside.

Francis H. Leggett testified that prices have advanced about 1 3-8 cents per pound, but are now about one cent higher than in September.

The Authors' Bill.

The Senate committee on patents gave a hearing this morning to gentlemen interested in the pending international copyright bill.

George Walter Green, secretary and counsel of the American Copyright League, stated that never before in the history of copyright agitation had there been that unanimity of purpose which now existed on the part of all classes. A few years ago, when a like hearing was had before the committee, there was absolute want of harmony. Today, every organization concerned and every class of the great American people, the great consuming public was practically unanimous in their endorsement of the pending bill. It was time that the stigma of piracy was removed from all concerned in the book trade, because they were all pirates so long as the present conditions continued.

Edmund C. Stedman, of New York, addressed the committee in advococy of the pending measure.

In reply to many questions propounded by the committee, Mr. Stedman said in substance, that he did not think the proposed law would materially increase the price of books of American authors in this country, but would increase the sales of such books very largely because they would then have equal chances with the books of English, French and German authors. He thought the passage of the proposed law would elevate the American taste.

Messrs. Eggleston of New York, and Walsh of Philadelphia, also spoke in favor of the bill.

Michael Corcoran, of Cambridge, Mass., of the Pressman's Union, gave the committee information as to his branch of the book publishing business.

Gardiner G. Hubbard of Washington, opposed the bill as one, the only effect of which would be, and the only reason for asking it was the increase price of books. He claimed to represent sixty millions of people in the United States, and argued that American authors are better protected under the existing laws than American inventors are, the former being protected for 42 years, and the latter for only 17 years. He declared there was no such thing as right of property to be found anywhere in the annals of the world, and no such thing as a national right of property. Mr. Hubbard proceeded with his argument, quoting Lord Macaulay's declaration that "a copy right is a tax on knowledge," and arguing that that was the character of the proposed legislation.

Dana Estes of Boston, secretary of the International Copyright Association, spoke in favor of the measure. He thought the American author fully protected now in his own country, but that he was not protected from competing with foreign wares which were put upon his market by American publishers, not only lessening the sales of the works of American authors, but often preventing their being published at all, because the American publisher would say: "Why should I pay for your work, when I can use an equally good foreign work without any cost to me?" He spoke of France as a country whose authors are best protected and where books are cheapest, and laid it down as a demonstrated fact that where the broadest protection is given books, books are the cheapest.

Senator Hiscock—As I understand it the only change proposed by the bill in the existing law, outside of the reciprocity section, is that the proposed measure opens the United States to copyright foreign authors.

Mr. Estes—That is all there is of it.

Senator Hiscock—And it has other provisions that they cannot take advantage of it except that their books are printed in this country?

Mr. Estes—Yes, it has these two elements.

As an illustration of the lack of conscience on the part English book pirates, Mr. Estes mentioned the case of a book by an American author, on the pleasures of being an American child, which was republished in Glasgow and made to apply to British children, while the name of the author was retained and the list of his other books.

Mr. Eggleston here explained in reply to other questions by Senator Hiscock, that, if foreign works were copyrighted in this country, they could not be pirated, and cheap editions would not be issued; and American authors would thus be secured from the unfair competition to which they are now subjected.

The ladies of the work-room gratefully acknowledge gifts of material from Mrs. N. M. Moulton, Mrs. Andrew Spring, and Miss Elizabeth Merrill. Several other ladies have given equally welcome aid by making generous purchases from the large and varied stock of garments now for sale.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S DEATH.

The Aged Monarch Peacefully Ends His Long Reign.

As Frederick III., the Crown Prince Becomes Emperor.

Germany's Regret Shared by the Civilized World.

BERLIN, March 9.—Emperor William died at half-past eight o'clock this morning. At 7 o'clock the following bulletin was issued:

After a slight flickering up of his vital powers yesterday evening, the Emperor's weakness increased during the night, and has now attained a high degree. VON LAUER,
LEUTHOLD,

The Empress and the Grand Duchess of Baden remained with the Emperor throughout the night. At 1 o'clock this morning the Emperor's voice was so strong that it could be heard outside his room.

Eye-witnesses of the scenes at the death of the Emperor state that during the last few hours of his life he suffered no pain. Shortly after 8 o'clock, all the members of the family staying at the palace, the court dignitaries, generals and ministers of State, were summoned to the chamber in which the Emperor lay dying. The Emperor was in a half-sitting position, on a camp bedstead. All the members of the royal family took places at the bedside. The room was crowded. Prince William stood nearest the Emperor, half bending over the couch. He earnestly watched the face of the dying monarch until he expired. The Emperor died holding the Empress's hand. He had been in a stupor since 3 o'clock. He was delirious for a brief period at 5 o'clock, during which he is reported to have exclaimed, "I am a man of peace, but if Russia forces me to war I shall faithfully side with my ally, Austria." The Emperor will be buried in the mausoleum at Charlottenburg. His remains lie, covered with a white cloth, on the bedstead on which he died, in the imperial chamber. The body is surrounded with candles. The expression of the face is extremely peaceful and placid. The members of the royal family left the palace at 10 o'clock.

The morning papers speak of scarcely anything other than the changes that will arise on the Emperor's death. The North German Gazette's leading article begins as follows: "During the time of grave and deep anxiety and sorrow which has so long oppressed the hearts of the German nation it has been a strong consolation that the Almighty has bestowed upon the venerable Emperor such health and strength that, although very old and not free from incidental trouble, he has carried out unfailingly the duties of his high office, as he has done all his life long amidst threatening dangers."

The Emperor yesterday morning was able to sign the order proroguing the Reichstag, otherwise the signing functions have been assumed by Prince William. All the troops are kept in the barracks in readiness for the contingency of taking a new oath of allegiance.

Public feeling is greatly scandalized by the recklessness of the press in announcing the death of the Emperor, and by the conduct of a clergyman in a church at Potsdam, who informed the congregation that prayers for the recovery of the monarch were useless.

In the Reichstag.

The Reichstag assembled at 12.30 this afternoon amid unusual excitement. It had been agreed that the ringing of the bell, the customary signal for the assembling of the members, should be stopped and that deputies should enter the hall quietly, and without ceremony. All the benches in the House were speedily filled and the galleries were crowded. A profound silence reigned. A large number of federal commissaries were in their places at the federal councillors' table from an early hour. Meanwhile the plenipotentiaries awaited Prince Bismarck in the lobbies, and, as soon as he arrived went with him to the hall of the federal council, where he held a private conference.

At 12.30, the members of the council entered the Reichstag and took positions to the left of the presidential chair. Immediately afterward the president was called away

will be held in

NOROMBEGA HALL, Bangor,

Thursday, April 26, 1888, at 11 o'clock a. m.

For the purpose of selecting two candidates for Electors of President and Vice President of the United States, and four delegates at large, and four alternates to attend the National Convention, to be held at Chicago, Illinois on Tuesday, June 19th, 1888, and transacting any other business that may properly come before it.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for each seventy-five votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1884, an additional delegate, and for a fraction of forty votes in excess of seventy-five votes, an additional delegate.

The State Committee will be in session in the reception room of the Hall at nine o'clock on the morning of the Convention, for the purpose of receiving the credentials of delegates.

All electors of Maine, without regard to past political differences, who are in sympathy with the sentiments expressed in the call of the Republican National Committee for the Republican National Convention, are cordially invited to unite with the Republicans of the State in selecting delegates to this Convention.

Per order Republican State Committee.

JOSEPH H. MANLEY, Chairman.
WILLIS H. WING, Secretary.

AUGUSTA, MAINE, February 11, 1888.

David Bennett Hill still continues to figure as a possible Democratic candidate for the Presidency. But Grover Cleveland still continues to reduce that possibility by a discreet use of the offices. Right in Hill's own State within a day or two the President has made himself solid in Syracuse by appointing a lively Democratic editor to the post office.

The dependent pension bill passed by the Senate is the bill generally endorsed by Grand Army posts. It closely resembles the bill which the President vetoed last winter, but there are some modifications to meet the objections which the President raised in his veto message. All the votes against the bill came from ex-Confederates. The fate of the bill in the House is somewhat uncertain, though the probability is that it will pass.

It looks as though most of the lives lost in the Springfield fire might have been saved had the fire department been provided with proper apparatus and been as efficient as it should have been. As it was there was no ladder that would reach to the fifth story of the building, and the crowd was allowed to take possession of the street so as to interfere with the firemen. A proper ladder will probably be bought now and the department subjected to some discipline.

The Argus has begun to complain again that the Republicans will not let the Democrats pass a tariff bill. The Democrats have a working majority of the House, and can pass any bill they may agree upon in spite of the Republicans. This was true in the two last Congresses, but no tariff bill was passed, simply because the Democratic party could not agree upon the kind of a tariff bill that ought to be passed. If they fail to pass a tariff bill through the present House it will be for the same reason. The cry of Republican obstruction will hardly blind the public to the incompetency of the Democratic party.

Mayor Hewitt apparently is a sufferer from dyspepsia. On no other theory can be explained his treatment of the delegation of Irishmen that called on him a few days ago to invite him to review the parade on St. Patrick's Day. Instead of courteously declining, he abused them as if they had been a gang of thieves that had invited him to a banquet in their honor. The mentioning to him by the delegation that they were all Democrats he construed as a threat, and proceeded to tell them that he wasn't a candidate for President or Governor or Mayor, and didn't care a straw about the Irish vote. The delegation retired very much chagrined.

The performance of District Attorney Fellows in the proceedings against Gould and Sage are not wholly what could be desired in a public prosecutor. After the public prodding which he received from the attorneys of the aggrieved Kansas-Pacific bondholders he carried the matter of the trust funds before Recorder Smyth, but instead of moving that it be brought before the grand jury went into a long explanation. Recorder Smyth reminded him that he was not there to listen to explanations but must have a motion to act on. This forced the apparently reluctant District Attorney to make the motion. It was charged at the time of Fellows's election that he was the candidate of the boodlers. His performances in this case, unless the New York papers misrepresent, are calculated to give color to these charges.

The Waterville Sentinel is informed that many Winslow people are positive that the young man employed in Winslow in 1877 was one George Snow, and not the ubiquitous Charles Stain. They think the confusion comes from the fact that one of Stain's aliases was Frank Snow. As the PRESS has before said this testimony of the Winslow people must be carefully sifted and weighed before any predictions on account of it can be safe. This much may be said, however, in relation to the theories of the Winslow people quoted by the Sentinel: They ignore entirely the statement of Mrs. Lamb, who not only harbored young Stain, but was made the recipient of some of his marvelous stories about the "Stain gang" of Medfield. Frank Snow could not have done that, probably, as without doubt Charles Stain in his own specialty is not approached by any othey young man in New England.

Emperor William is dead. Field Marshal Von Moltke and Bismarck still live, but the former has reached an age when he can look forward to but few years more of life at most, while Bismarck's physical infirmities are serious and may end his career at any moment. At best it can be but a few years before these two lieutenants of the Emperor who made his reign the distinguished one that it was and wrought those changes which raised Germany from a loose confederation of States to an empire, all things considered, the strongest in Europe, will have followed their chieftain, and the direction of the empire will have to be committed to new hands. Who is there worthy to succeed these two men is a question which the German people have often asked themselves, and are asking themselves today more anxiously than ever. Soldiers the empire has in abundance, and the question as far as Von Moltke is concerned, may not be very difficult to answer But of statesmen it has few. The system that Bismarck built up with the approval of the Emperor has been fatal to the development of statesmanship. There has been little chance for its exercise, and therefore little encouragement for its cultivation.

The application of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad to the courts to compel connecting railroads to perform their duties as common carriers is an important move and if granted can but have a very marked effect upon the present strike as well as similar strikes in the future. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road has succeeded in manning most of its engines with competent engineers and were it not for the refusal of connecting roads to take its freight would suffer little embarrassment in the transaction of its business. But its inability to guarantee that freight committed to its charge for shipment to points not on its own line shall reach its destination is obviously a very serious embarrassment. The refusal of other roads which cause this inability is the result of three weeks on the part of their engineers to strike if its freight is received. The roads dare not accept the freight lest they be tied up. But this refusal undoubtedly constitutes a violation of the obligation which they are under as common carriers. There can be little doubt therefore that the courts will decree that they must accept this freight. The Inter-State commerce law punishes not only the corporation that refuses to accept freight from connecting roads, but every individual connected with or employed by the corporation who is responsible in any degree for this refusal. It confers therefore ample power upon the courts to punish engineers who undertake to discriminate against connecting railroads, so that, if the court decrees that roads must take the freight offered them, the engineers must submit or subject themselves to fine and imprisonment.

Harper's Weekly is much troubled these days at the bad company that President Cleveland is getting around him. This trouble is considerably increased by a very aggravating case of impropriety lately perpetrated by some distinguished members of that company. Not long ago, Public Printer Benedict and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Maynard allowed their names to be used at the foot of a circular addressed to postmasters. The circular requested a list of all the voters receiving mail at each office, with a description of the politics of each, the object of getting the names being the distribution of public documents and papers of a political nature, and such as would help the Democratic party. Another circular, signed by the same gentlemen, but addressed to Democratic committees and politicians, was prepared asking those addressed to "call upon" the postmasters in their town and help in making up the lists. Mr. Benedict said that one of the documents which the Democrats were planning to distribute right and left through the aid of the postmasters, is Senator Hale's speech, in which was shown how many Republican office-holders have been turned out by Cleveland to make room for Democrats. "The object of this," said Mr. Benedict, "is to let the people know that this is not the kind of an administration that many persons think it is." In other words, Public Printer Benedict thought some Democrats yet believed Mr. Cleveland to be floundering in what seems to them the slough of civil service reform, and he thought that the perusal of Senator Hale's exposure of the President's hypocrisy would be just the thing to stiffen up these waverers by showing that Cleveland is, after all, a spoilsman, after the Democrats' own heart. Mr. Benedict is undoubtedly right in his opinion that the speech will have a powerful effect in uniting the Democracy by diminishing the discontent with Cleveland, and his plan of using the post offices is very easy and available. But Harper's Weekly points out this week, more in sorrow than in anger, that this effort to show that earlier professions of reform have been forgotten, is a direct insult to President Cleaveland. And the worst part of it is that Mr. Cleveland does not resent the insult, although Mr. Curtis calls upon him to in these plain words:

> It seems to us impossible that high officers of the government, who are engaged in such flagrant prostitution of official patronage to party purposes, should continue in the service of an administration which retains any practical interest in civil service reform. The President would hardly tolerate a subordinate who publicly and offensively questioned his good faith in the views expressed in his annual message to Congress. But the confessed conduct of these gentlemen assumes his bad faith upon one of the most important of public questions. That the circular, upon being made public, may have been abandoned, does not change, in any degree, the action of the officers in question, nor what seems to us the plain duty of the Executive since the facts are made known.

Mr. Curtis has evidently not yet learned what hypocrisy this administration is capable of. His eyes seem to be opening gradually, however.

CURRENT COMMENT.

SHOULD BE JUDGED ON ITS MERITS.

[Harper's Weekly.]

The history of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, as stated by Chief Engineer Arthur, is that of an intelligent, sagacious and right-minded body of men. A strike which has his approval is not to be dismissed as necessarily a frantic and foolish movement which all good citizens must condemn.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The Story of Ireland, by the Hon. Emily Lawless, is the last volume of the "Story of the Nations." The book is opportune and will be read with interest, as it gives in a succinct and graphic form the prominent features in the history of a country, whose misfortune it has been never to have attained an independent national existence, and whose present heroic struggle to acquire by peaceful and legitimate means the right to control its own internal affairs is exciting the sympathy and admiration of the world.

The early history of Ireland is shrouded in the mist of legend and tradition, and its history for centuries is that of a semi-civilized and rude population broken up into antagonistic and contending clans, whose chieftains acknowledged no supreme head, and whose warring elements were cemented by no strong central force, without which union and good government are impossible. The history of English rule in Ireland is one long page of injustice and tyranny,—injustice so gross and tyranny so heartless as to excite the wonder and indignation of the reader. The treatment of Ireland by the English nation is a story of conquest accompanied by long continued oppression and misgovernment; of a succession of viceroys whose administration impoverished the country and wasted its resources; of a legislative domination which suppressed the national aspirations, hampered the industrial development and attempted to prescribe the religion of its people. England used its power not to introduce good government into Ireland, but to confiscate the property of its inhabitants. In place of wise laws and salutary restrictions it set up arbitrary authority and impossible government. This is the story not of one generation but of six centuries of misrule, which has continued down to our own day, for it was not until 1870 that monstrosity,—the Irish Church establishment—was finally abolished, and the evils of absentee landlordism and of suppression of political rights still continue. Englishmen have not cared to say much about these things, and Irish history has been little written for that reason. This little book, written by a lady, who extenuates nothing but sets down naught in malice, and who writes with sober judgment of one, who has read and thought much on the subject, will prove of special value. It gives in compact form what all want to know—the facts of history without prejudice of distortion. (New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.)

Outlooks on Society, Literature and Politics. By E. P. Whipple. Mr Whipple was a pioneer in the species of writing now cultivated by a host of writers. Thirty years ago the number of men who could throw off such essays as Whipple's were few and far between. In fact, he was easily first in time and excellence. He had read widely and was specially versed in old English literature, and above all, in the dramatists. His style was equal to his learning, piquant, clear and sparkling, abounding in terse epigrams and humorous comparisons. Of late years the tribe has largely increased, but no member of the literary guild has surpassed Whipple as an agreeable, diverting and instructive essayist. The present volume is made up of occasional articles which originally appeared in different magazines, and are now for the first time collected in one volume. Those who have not read them heretofore will find them fresh and timely, while former readers will be glad of an opportunity of meeting old friends in a new dress. Some of the topics are Panics and Investments, Business Men of the New School, The Swearing Habit, Religion and Scientific Theories, Lowell as a Prose Writer, In Dickens Land, etc. (Boston: Ticknor & Co.; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.)

In Memoriam, Governor Bodwell, by Dr. Wm. B. Lapham. This brief biographical sketch of Governor Bodwell should be read by all. The Governor was a typical New Englander, a liberal, kind hearted and self-dependent man, and his life furnishes an example for every American boy to study. From a poor farm boy, Joseph R. Bodwell rose by his own exertions to be one of the wealthiest and most honored citizens of Maine; and what is better than all, one of the most useful. Dr. Lapham in the brief biographical sketch which he has written, has done a public service, and we have no doubt that his pamphlet will be widely read. Published by Burleigh & Flint, Augusta, by order of the Governor and Council.

PERSONAL AND PECULIAR.

Recently at Genoa, in the presence of the special and royal delegate Pevesi, the chest was opened in which was preserved the celebrated violin of Nicolo Paganini. The instrument is in excellent preservation, and the veteran Italian violinist, Camillo Sivori, after having tuned it, played several pieces of music, arousing the admiration of all present. Afterward Paganini's violin was deposited in a case covered by a glass lid.

Some interesting details are published concerning the personal fortune of the Pope. St. Peter's pence will form a reserve fund to protect and sustain the Papal dignity during troublesome days, which are foreseen and predicted. The presents given to the Pope on his jubilee amount in value already to 90,000,000f., and still continue to increase. With these the Pope has decided to form a museum, and then endow poor churches and chapels all over the world.

MAGAZINE NOTICES.

Harper's Magazine for March is prolific in good things, artistic and practical. The Art work is unsurpassed. The gem of the number is a sonnet of Wordsworth's, illustrated by Albert Parsons—In Sight of the Town of Cockermouth. The initial article is devoted to a description of Spanish Art and Artists in these days. Mr. Edward Bowen Prescott writes it, and gives interesting sketches of the leading modern painters in that kingdom. A Visit to a Colonial Estate describes what Frederick S. Dadlet recently saw on a plantation called Romancoke, owned by the Lees of Virginia. The fiction consists of William Black's In Far Lochaber—the third instalment; Miss Lillie's In the Red Room, which is a capital study of human nature in its most interesting phases; and Mere Pochette, a touching story by Sara Orne Jewett. C. H. Farnham's Canadian Voyageurs on the Saguenay describes the wild life of the French watermen who rove the woods from the St. Lawrence to Hudson Bay, especially those to be found along the Saguenay. Charles Dudley Warner's first paper in his series on the Great West contains a vigorous, full and entertaining account of the country we know as the Northwest. A Little Swiss Sojourn is the final paper under title by W. D. Howells. Miss Anna Laurens Dawes's (the daughter of Senator Dawes) paper An Unknown Nation, describes the progress made towards civilization in the Indian Territory. The Empress Eugenie and the Court of the Tuileries Anna L. Bicknell describes the court life of the lady known as The ex-Empress. It presents Eugenie in a different light from that in which she is usually beheld, and contains many new details of her life.

The frontispiece of the March Scribner's entitled Blucher Unhorsed at Ligny is one of the illustrations of the first article, which is on the Campaign of Waterloo. The author, John D. Ropes, finds excuse for reviewing this much discussed field from the fact that national and personal feeling have usually influenced the descriptions of the battle. Part ii., which is given in March, carries the operations along to Blucher's retreat after the first day's fighting at Ligny. There is another instalment of Mendelssohn's Letters to Moscheles, illustrated with autographs and scenes of the great musician's life. The romance entitled Natural Selection comes to a somewhat whimsical end with Part III. First Harvests, by F. J. Stinson, is carried on through three more interesting chapters. For new stories, there is one entitled Beggars, by Robert Louis Stevenson, another, The Day of the Cyclone, by Octave Thanet, both complete in this number, and The Nixie, by Fannie de Grift Stevenson. For new prose articles there are two of great interest, A Shelf of Old Books, and the Electric Motor and its Application. The former is a very entertaining talk by Mrs. Field on the private collection of books made by James T. Fields. The latter, by Franklin Leonard Pope, is an instructive account of the development of the electric motor. The poetry is by Bessie Chandler, C. P. Cranch, Thomas Nelson Page and Charles Edwin Markham.

The March Century contains several features of romantic interest. First in uniqueness, perhaps, is Mr. Kennan's continuation of his revelations in regard to the Russian state prisons, the details of which are remarkable for interest and bear every evidence of authenticity. An interesting incident related by Mr. Kennan is the celebration in the House of Detention at St. Petersburg of the Centennial Fourth of July. A narrative paper of thrilling detail is Captain Frank E. Moran's account of the planning, mishaps, and finally successful execution of Colonel Rose's Tunnel at Libby Prison, the narrator having been one of the party who escaped. The article is illustrated. In "The Home Ranch," Mr. Theodore Roosevelt gives a continuation of his graphic papers on the daily life of a ranchman. Mrs. van Rensselaer's paper in the "English Cathedral" series is devoted to Salisbury. Different aspects of the cathedral, the cloisters and the closes, are presented in the sketches by Mr. Pennell. Mr. Albert Morril Bagby writes of "Some Pupils of Liszt," with especial reference to Eugene D'Albert, Arthur Friedheim, Alexander Siloti, Alfred Reisenauer, and Fraulein Adele, aus der Ohe, of all of whom, as well as of Liszt himself, there are portraits. A paper of out-of-the-way biography is contributed by Mr. John Bigelow, in his "Franklin's Home and Host in France," the host being M. Donatien Le Ray de Chaumont. The unpublished letters from Franklin, Adams, and others help to complete the record of this friendship. The fiction comprises the conclusion of Mr. Cable's "At Large," and this of his trilogy of novelettes, the other two being "Caranaco" and "Grande Pointe;" also Edward Eggleston's novel, "The Graysons," in which Abraham Lincoln appears as a character; and a short story by Miss Helen Gray Cone, entitled, "Hercules: A Hero." The Lincoln History deals with "The Call to Arms," the story of Sumter being retold authoritatively, the narrative being as before, with the aid of unpublished material.

The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same: feverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back, headache, etc. In a few days you may be well, or, on the other hand, you may be down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard, of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption, and that they could do nothing for him, but advised him, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold, which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."

THE BEST SPRING MEDICINE.

A Spring Tonic Absolutely Necessary to Maintain Perfect Health.

Advice What People Should Take During the Spring Months.

The Remedy Certain to Produce Beneficial Results.

IN the spring everybody begins to think about taking a spring medicine. Not only is this a very common practice, but a very necessary and healthful one. It is a fact which physicians acknowledge and the people recognize generally that a spring tonic taken during the months of March, April and May is more conducive to the restoration of health in cases of those who are sick than any other course of treatment that could possibly be adopted.

It is further understood by everybody that even for those who call themselves well it is very important at this season of the year, if they would maintain good health and vigor, to take a spring remedy to strengthen and invigorate nerves, tone up the action of all the organs, and thus, by creating a healthy condition of the nerves, blood, stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, assist nature in the efforts which she always makes in the spring to cleanse, purify and invigorate the system.

In the spring there are great and important changes going on throughout all nature, and a similar process takes place in the human system, a throwing off the old and assuming new conditions. During the cold months of winter the system, from the partial closing of the pores of the skin, lack of care and exercise, often.

with morbid materials. The stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys have been more torpid or inactive than they should be, and, as a result, the system is more or less filled and clogged with biliary matter, uric acid and other acids from the kidneys, and other worn out substances, which should have been thrown off, but which instead have been retained in the body.

Perfect health cannot be maintained while this condition lasts, and the person has a languid and weakened feeling with more or less nervousness and debility. If the person has previously been sick, these symptoms will be much aggravated; there will be a weak, tired and nervous condition, with sleepless and restless nights, a tired waking in the morning, no appetite for breakfast, a bad taste in the mouth, dull head and general disputed feelings. In severe cases there will be a feeling of great and the nervousness will be very marked, with no inclination for exertion, the work of the day being done with an effort.

For such cases as these be sure and use that remarkable invigorator and tonic, Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic. It is pronounced by everybody, doctors as well as the people, to be the best Spring medicine in existence, and has taken rank as the greatest and most important medical discovery of modern times. Under the use of this wonderful remedy that weak, tired and nervous nervous feeling disappears; the nerves become strong and steady; the nights are restful and the sleep natural and refreshing; the appetite returns, good digestion and regular action of the bowels are established, the kidneys and liver are restored to healthy action, and the vital energies, strength and vigor of the system perfectly built up.

This truly remarkable Spring medicine, which is purely vegetable and therefore harmless, is for sale by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle, and if any one desires to be perfectly and permanently cured of all those disagreeable feelings, weakness and exhaustion incident to Spring, take our urgent recommendation and get a bottle of this medicine. It will well repay you, as we can testify from our own experience of its marvellous curative powers, and you have our assurance that you will not be disappointed. Be sure and ask for Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic, as druggists sometimes recommend their own preparation or something on which they make a greater profit. Do not be persuaded to take any other remedy in place of this, as we really believe that this is the greatest and best of all Spring medicines. Dr. Greene, the discoverer of this remedy, is the eminent and skilful specialist in the cure of nervous and chronic diseases who gives consultation and advice free of charge at his office, 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., personally or by letter.

DR. DYER'S PHOSPHATED CRACKERS!

THE FINEST TABLE, LUNCH AND WINE CRACKER FOR GENERAL USE.

A delicious entire wheat water cracker, thin and brittle, carrying additional animal and vegetable phosphates, etc.—Baked with wood embers in old-style tile ovens.

Their tendency in the stomach is to prevent the rising and disagreement of too rich foods, and to correct there and throughout the body undue acidity, while furnishing to the teeth, bones and blood the phosphates and other salts natural to them and necessary for their healthful growth and preservation; also through the blood, carrying to the brain and nerves their natural stimulus and food. The tone thus given to the system is due to the supply of proper food elements and not to the addition of drugs.

Besides their other advantages these crackers, unlike many common articles of diet, furnish abundant materials for the building of strong teeth and markedly tend to arrest decay, remove discolorations, and correct unhealthy secretions of the mouth. By drinking plenty of water the phosphates, etc., are more thoroughly distributed through the body.

WIT AND WISDOM.

Mr. Gotham (after the performance of Julius Cæsar)—And so yor were pleased, Miss Breezy?

Miss Breezy (of Chicago)—Delighted with the whole performance, Mr. Gotham, and so much obliged to you. I think Marc Antony's oration over Cæsar's body was the cutest thing I ever saw.

If you have a friend with a cough or cold tell him to try Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cts.

"Mamma, papa says you wern't pretty last week but you are to-day." "Ah! my child, last week I had neuralgia, to-day I have Salvation Oil."

"Well, Joslah," said a Dakota woman to her husband, the other morning, "I guess you can safely bring the oleander tree up from the cellar and put it out in the yard. The temperature is only two degrees below, and it looks as if the cold weather was over at last."

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Grandparent—Your uncle, dear, was so careful of his playthings that when your cousin was a baby he had all his father's toys, just as good as new.

Grandchild (after sober reflection)—Guess your children didn't take much enjoyment with their playthings, did they?

"I will never buy a cheap extract, again," said a Mrs. Wilson, when she found her child's life in danger from eating an ice cream flavored with an extract recommended for its cheapness. Buy Burnett's, and be sure.

"Why do you suffer from catarrh?" asks a medical advertisement. What a fool question. Because that's what's the matter with us. Do you expect a fellow to suffer from dislocation of hip joint when he has catarrh.—Burdette.

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Small price. Small dose. Small pill.

In the Theatre:

"Why do you weep? The acting is surely not so touching."

"Excuse me, I am bewailing the money I paid to come in."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The Breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he cannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked and, frequently, entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best, if not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrh.

Perkins—Well, after many failures, I have at length struck a dead sure thing in the line of Smith—I'm glad! What are you at now? Perkins—I am an undertaker.

HOW MEN DIE.

If we know all the methods of approach adopted by an enemy we are the better enabled to ward off the danger and postpone the moment when surrender becomes inevitable. In many instances the inherent strength of the body suffices to enable it to oppose the tendency toward death. Many however, have lost these forces to such an extent that there is little or no help. In other cases, a little aid to the weakened Lungs will make all the difference between sudden death and many years of useful life. Upon the first symptoms of a Cough, Cold, or any trouble of the Throat or Lungs, give that old and well known remedy—Boschee's German Syrup, a careful trial. It will prove, what thousands say of it, to be the "benefactor of any home."

Gray's Business College.

The eleventh lecture in the annual course was delivered yesterday by Mr. Wm. H. Smith, editor of the Masonic and Odd Fellows register on the subject, "A tour in the West."

Mr. Smith gave a graphic description of his trip through Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado, presenting their various resources in a very interesting manner. So comprehensive and minute was his survey, that the students received a valuable amount of information. Mr. Smith's portrayal of the mineral, agricultural, mercantile and stock wealth of these states was so vivid that one could imagine himself seeing this wonderful sight with his own eyes rather than listening to a description of it. Much credit is due Mr. Gray for the successful arrangements he makes in furnishing interesting, instructive and valuable lectures to his students.

PORTLAND LATIN SCHOOL.

Presentation of a Flag at City Hall Yesterday.

Stirring Address by the Rev. Dr. Dalton.

The galleries and all the space allowed to spectators on the floor of City Hall, were filled with the lady and gentlemen friends of the Latin School Cadets yesterday afternoon, who came to witness the presentation of a flag to the company, and the evolutions of the youthful soldiers. The lads under their military instructor, Lieut. Leary, U. S. A., and their captain, Strout, made a fine appearance as they marched into the hall at 3 p. m., in their neat gray uniforms and white cross belts, numbering between thirty-five and forty members. After being drawn up in line facing the stage, prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Bayley, and then Rev. Dr. Dalton presented the flag, which is the gift of a lady friend of the company.

In his address Dr. Dalton spoke of Napoleon's address to his soldiers when he told them that forty centuries looked down on them from the pyramids, that had seen all the events that had transpired in the Egyptian empire, and symbolized them as the most characteristic of all Egyptian monuments that had come down to them to stand for light and civilization. This is the idea of a national flag. It is the symbol of national sentiment and national life; all that is characteristic of the nation and therefore held in the highest reverence by the nation. Among the ancients the Romans developed this idea most fully. Wherever the Roman standards went the soldiers ever dared to follow. The Roman eagle flapped its wings in the forests on the Danube, soared over the plains of Parthia, and towered over the snows of Dacia. On their return to Rome they were followed by the princes, generals and mighty monarchs of great nations, often bound in iron chains. Thus the Roman eagle symbolized the extension of empire by force; by force acquired and by force retained.

The modern nations of Europe claim to have advanced beyond Roman ideas; England in particular. Her national flag waves as a symbol of sovereignty over one-fifth of the human race, wherevery it is unfurled. In the language of the immortal Webster her drum beat reverbrates around the world. But England's empire was to a great extent gained and retained by force of arms, although her rule may be called the most equitable of that of all European nations. Our flag is a symbol of American ideas, which we believe to be asfar in advance of those of Europe as England's are in advance of those of ancient Rome. Our territory has for the most part been enlarged by negotiation and purchase. We have no array of classes against the masses. Our flag stands for the education of the people, and the entire people; for equal rights to all men. It does not stand for foreign conquest. Some Europeans have an idea when we are full grown we shall be disposed to attack them, but we shall do nothing of the kind. Our pursuits are the arts of peace, and not those of war. But if attacked by foreign combinations our people will maintain the honorjof our glorious flag, a flag that had a history before that of the present flag of Britain; a flag born in 1777, that was carried successfully through the Revolution and waved in triumph at Yorktown; that was hoisted by John Paul Jones on the Bon Homme Richard and by him made historical, and that reflected still more glory in subsequent naval battles. To maintain its honor, dignity and sovereignty, the United States, which it symbolizes, fought the Rebellion and carried it in triumph through every bloody battlefield. It is now the symbol of our unbroken Union, loved and honored by all. Although there is some danger threatening if if something is not done to stem the new class of immigration seeking these shores. But if any one should attempt to pull down this flag, in the words that are now historic, "shoot him on the spot," and if our shores should be invaded by a foreign foe the sentiment with which the flag originated, and by which it has been upheld, will surely suffice to repel any possible invader.

The hope of the future is in our young men, represented here today by you, young gentlemen, who constitute the Cadets of the Portland Latin School. Doubtless the military training you are now receiving will be an advantage to you in every respect, and especially tend to develop the sentiment of patriotism. This flag you will receive with sentiments of affection and reverence. You will cherish it as the symbol of your nationality, will preserve it untarnished, and transmit it to your successors, who, in time, we trust, will hand it down to theirs, with this sentiment ever present in their hearts:

"The Star Spangled Banner, O long may it wave, O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Capt. Strout responded briefly, but in a few manly words, for the company.

The flag is of silk, large and very handsome. It bears the name of the corps, and is mounted on a handsome staff.

After the presentation the company was inspected by their commandant. Then came a drill, showing the proficiency of a selected squad in the bayonet exercise. After that there was an exhibition drill by the entire company, conducted by Capt. Strout. The boys showed that they are making good progress in military exercise, their work being very creditable both to themselves and their instructor. The teachers at the Latin School are to be congratulated on having a fine body of pupils.

The Advertiser says: "After hauling off the snow from the travelled streets it has been necessary to put large quantities of it back again; and still the sleighing is very hard." There are many travelled streets where it would be a great boon to the public if the snow was hauled off. Witness Park street, through which there is as much travel as on Congress street, and where 18 teams collided in one day.

Willis C. L. S. Circle.

The Willis Chautauqua Circle and several guests met Thursday evening with Mrs. N. S. Fernald on Brackett street, to listen to a lecture on the Crimean war, by Rev. Samuel Paine. After the reading of the "Charge of the Heavy Brigade" and the "Charge of the Light Brigade," and some fine music, Mr. Paine proceeded to give his hearers a very vivid account of the trouble that culminated in the Crimean war. His description of the seige of Sebastopol was one of the clearest that we have ever heard. It seemed as though we were eye-witnesses with the lecturer. Mr. Paine is to deliver the lecture before the public soon, and we hope none will neglect the opportunity of hearing from one so amply qualified to tell it, the story of this recent struggle between the great powers of Europe.

Rev. E. N. Smith, pastor of the Congregational church at Waterville, is now in this city for surgical treatment. For a number of months he has suffered from a difficulty with his knee which was at first thought to be rheumatism, but which has developed into a disease of the joint, of a serious nature.

Many of the Maine people who visited Philadelphia at the time of the Constitutional celebration remember the courteous treatment they received from Hon. John C. Grady, president of the Pennsylvania Senate, formerly an Eastport boy. Pennsylvania papers relate that, Mr. Grady having recently purchased a new home in Hallowell, his neighbors introduced themselves by getting up a grand fox hunt in his honor. Two foxes were pursued by twelve hounds and the riders of the party.

New England League Meeting.

After the schedule was completed at the New England League meeting in Boston on Thursday, several of the delegates made a proposition that Portland should pay a $75 guarantee, instead of $50, as formerly. Mr. Mahoney immediately objected, and telegraphed to President Vose for instructions. Mr. Vose answered that if such a measure were passed, Portland would withdraw from the League. This frightened the delegates, and they decided to lay the matter over until the next meeting.

As a matter of fact, Portland, in the last two seasons, has paid to the visiting clubs over $4000 more than they have received from the same clubs in the same number of games that Portland has played away from home. If the managers who proposed this measure imagine that Portland is going to support their teams entirely they will be doomed to disappointment.

Alonzo Knight of Boston was elected the third member of the regular staff of umpires for the coming season, and E. J. Callahan of Boston, James F. Mullin of East Boston, and Fred Burden of Worcester were elected substitute umpires.

Accident to the Ella M. Doughty.

Thursday afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock, the shooner Ella M. Doughty, which was anchored off Little Chebeague Island, was run into by the schooner Forest Maid, Captain George Hewey, and damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars. The Forest Maid struck the Doughty a heavy blow amidship, making a tremendous crash. The main chain plate and rail were broken and the shrouds carried away. The captain of the Doughty said, concerning the accident: "It was broad daylight, between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The Forest Maid was coming directly down upon us and the captain shouted to the man at the wheel to keep her off. The man replied, 'I'll bring her round all right.' But he waited a moment too long, for when he tried to bring the vessel around she didn't answer the helm soon enough, but came right down upon us and there was no way to prevent the accident." If the Forest Maid had been sailing under a heavy wind the result would have been fatal to the Doughty.

Dr. Nicholls' Work.

Less than two years ago the renowned Specialist, Dr. Nicholls from London, England, came to Columbus. The success which has attended his efforts since he came to this city is simply wonderful, and the number treated and cured by him is astonishing. Every person nearly is endowed with some special gift, quality or calling, and Dr. Nicholls' mission is unmistakaby to heal the sick and afflicted. Ne has built up a large practice and is kept busy from early morn till late at night. ALMOST A MIRACLE

At Damariscotta Mills, Me.

One of the Most Remarkable Cures of Blood Poisoning ever Accomplished.

"The statement which I here make may seem too extraordinary to be true. But I will tell my story plainly and truthfully, and refer for corroboration to almost any resident of this town, where I have lived all my life.

I am now 34 years of age, and 14 years ago began to have epileptic fits, caused by injuries to the spine received by a fall. Some nine years ago, by advice of a physician, I began to take a bromide compound, which had a quieting effect upon my nerves. This being, as I am told, a 'cumulative drug,' and taking nothing to carry it out of my system, it had a disastrous and upon my blood. Soon after I began with the bromide, sores appeared on the calves of my legs. Slowly but surely they spread over my body. I tried all the medicines we could hear of, but nothing stayed their terrible progress. They became very severe under my knees, and when I walked blood would start from them and mark on the floor my path from room to room. At length the cords became contracted so that I could no longer walk, and was obliged in despair to take to my bed from which I never expected to rise. Except in my head, hands, feet, and breast, I was literally covered with sores, constantly discharging corruption. No words can convey an idea of the terrible sufferings I endured, as my condition was almost too terrible to describe.

I HAD NO APPETITE

or strength, could eat hardly anything, and was in such pain that I could sleep only when I became totally exhausted and relapsed into unconsciousness. In September, 1886, I asked mother if I could try Hood's Sarsaparilla, as we had read of its remarkable success. When on the fifth bottle we noticed that the sores seemed to look better, and the flesh under them natural. The smaller sores gradually healed up, and even the more stubborn ones were forced at last to yield to the medicine. New and healthy skin formed. My appetite came back to me, I ate well, and increased in flesh. I began to get natural sleep, and now rest as well as any one. After being confined to the bed a year and five months I was able to get up. I seemed to grow stronger every week, and could soon work about the house, and later walk around the village. I am now having all over my body only the scars as reminders of my sufferings. My whole improvement I attribute solely to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and can truthfully say I belive I owe my life to this wonderful medicine." G. WARREN RANSIN, Damariscotta Mills, Lincoln County, Me.

FREE FROM SORES,

Over one-half of the persons troubled with Catarrh have an offensive breath, which is very disagreeable and sickening to those with whom they come in close contact. Dr. Nicholls removes the bad breath in three treatments.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.

Constant disposition to clear the throat, hacking cough, dimness of sight, pain over the eyes, pain in one or both temples, roaring in the ears, pain in the back of the head, nose stopped up, sick stomach, dizziness, poor digestion, no appetite for breakfast, you feel a general depression imagining you have dyspepsia, liver trouble, lung disease, and you are treated by your physician for various diseases, yet you get no better, and are advised to change climate, and in the matter of a very short time you are a confirmed invalid, and nine out of ten cases run into a confirmed case of consumption. Now, reader, why is this? We will tell you: Catarrh is an ulcer formed in the posterior nerves just above the uvula, the passage between the nose and the throat; the ulcer continues to eat and discharge a poisonous flow of pus, running down the throat into the stomach and lungs. This, my friend, is what causes the constant clearing in the throat. Can you wonder why you do not have good health with all this poisonous matter constantly running into your stomach? The remedy is applied directly to the ulcer, cleanses and heals in a few applications. The treatment is very simple and harmless.

Dr. Nicholls does not pretend to cure all cases of catarrh in one treatment, but is confident that the sufferer, after one treatment, will at once recognize immediate relief, and he would leave the patient to judge what the result would be if the treatment were continued. First treatment given free of charge.

What there are left of the Men's Colored Percale Shirts, advertised Thursday at seventy-five cents, will be closed out TODAY. This is the best shirt bargain we have offered this year, and at such a price the lot ought to be gone by six o'clock. The only out about them is that the skirts are cut a little shorter than the regular length, otherwise they are all right, and but for this would be worth much more than we ask for them.
