The Greatest Spring Tonic.

At this season of the year almost every one experiences a sensation of general lassitude and debility, which, if neglected, results in a low, vitiated condition of the vital forces, that follows the sufferer throughout the summer, and usually terminates in some form of malarial or typhoid fever. If, however, the patient has the wisdom to take some reliable remedy that gently acts on the sluggish liver, enabling it to speedily carry off all impurities, while at the same time the system is vitalized and invigorated, and the blood enriched, the result is a condition of vigorous health. This result is invariably brought about by Lumbermen Shooting Deer.

[Special to the Press.]

SKOWHEGAN, April 5.—The logging season is endeavoring to all the teams have come out of the woods, those of Lawrence & Philipps, thirty-five horses, coming today. There is six feet of snow in the woods and the travelling on the river road is exceedingly bad, so it is reported. A lumberman, who has just arrived from the logging camps where he has been all winter, says the men have had all the fresh meat they wanted, derived from slaughtered deer, caribou and moose, notwithstanding it is illegal to kill them now. They are easily captured in the deep snow through which they can make but slow progress. He states that in front of his camp he saw twelve deer skins as he was coming away.

Into the Kennebec.

[Special to the Press.]

AUGUSTA, April 5.—Patrick Hand, an inmate of the National Soldiers' Home, at Togus, committed suicide at 10.30 a. m. this forenoon by jumping off the Kennebec bridge. He went to the second window on the upper side of the bridge beyond the pier, gazed for an instant at the water fifty feet below and crawled upon the sill and jumped. He dropped like a bullet and sank deep in the cold water, rose to the surface and floated down with the swift current to ice, five rods below the bridge. He clutched at the ice, but ineffectually, and was carried beneath it and drowned. It is impossible to recover his body at present. Harris was about 45 years of age, and has a family in Lowell, Mass. He once before made an unsuccessful attempt at suicide by drowning in Togus pond. It is said that his mind was effected because of certain family troubles.

Off the Track.

THOMASTON, April 3.—A freight train on the Knox & Lincoln railroad run off the track here at 4.25, by reason of the spreading of the rails. Thirty rods of track were torn up. Three cars ran off but only one was much damaged. The engine went to Rockland and got a passenger car by which the mail and passengers of the latter train were sent forward. The track is now being repaired and will be clear by morning.

Injunctions of Secresy Removed from Two Already Published Treaties.

Mr. Putnam Mentioned for Both the Bench and Cabinet.

Our Troubles with Morocco Drawing to a Close.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The Senate removed the injunction of secresy from the Chinese treaty but not from the President's letter of transmittal, both of which have been published. The injunction has also been removed from the British extradition treaty, reported by Senator Morgan January 24 and subsequently recommitted in consequence of Senator Riddleberger's opposition. This, too, has been published. Article 1 of the treaty extending the provisions of the existing extradition treaty to manslaughter, burglary and embezzlement to the amount of $50 and malicious injury to property, was amended in clause 4, by the committee on foreign relations. Among its provisions is one which Secretary Bayard's friends have disavowed and which is understood to be the chief grounds of Riddleberger's opposition. The clause as it appears in the treaty sent to the Senate was "malicious injury to property, whereby the life of any person shall be endangered, if such injuries constitute a crime according to the laws of the high contracting parties."

The Senate committee on foreign relations amended this to "malicious injuries to persons and properto by the use of explosives, or malicious injuries or obstructions to railways whereby the life of any person shall be in danger, if such injuries constitute a crime according to the law of both contracting parties or according to the laws of that political division of either country in which the offense shall have been committed, and of that political division of that country in which the offender shall be arrested."

Our Trouble with Morocco.

The United States Consul at Tangiers, has telegraphed that an early and amicable settlement of our difficulties with Morocco is probable.

Concerning Mr. Putnam.

It is announced tonight in a semi-official manner that the nomination of a successor to Chief Justice Waite will be made within a short time. It will be a northern man and quite probably a New Yorker. The President has not positively fixed on the name, but he has decided against a number of the names most conspicuously mentioned by the press. He would appoint Judge Thurman without a moment's hesitation if it were not for his advanced age. He will not appoint Justice Field on account of his years, and Justice Miller is effectually barred by his connection with the electoral commission of 1877. The President realizes that an ex-Confederate would not be confirmed by the Senate, and he does not propose to nominate any Southerner. He will nominate a chief justice directly, instead of promoting one of the associate justices. It may be added that should Mr. Putnam not be named for the existing vacancy, he is still likely to get the first place that falls vacant among the associate justices.

From another source it is learned that a succession of changes may ensue, each of which will satisfy some urgent demand, conciliate some faction, and bring about an adjustment which will be benefcial in a variety of ways. The fact that the first term of President Cleveland is nearing its end, and the presidential election is at hand, perhaps gives rise to these suggestions. One series of moves is as follows: The Pacific coast and many citizens of other sections would be pleased to have the long service of Judge Field recognized by placing him at the head of the court of which he has been a member for twenty-five years. This would make a vacancy among the associates for Senator Gray of Delaware, who is said to be quite disposed to don the ermine, and who might acceptably and to his own satisfaction be assigned to the Southern circuit. It is said that it would be agreeable to Mr. Gray to return to his hereditary seat in the Senate after having held during one presidential term the State portfolio. This would open the way for the President to call Mr. William L. Putnam into his Cabinet family, and it is well known that Mr. Cleveland is much impressed with the abilities and statesmanlike qualities of Mr. Putnam, who has been relied upon as one of the most trustworthy advisers in New England of the administration, and while it is quite probable that he can have a seat on the Supreme Bench if he desires, it would probably be pleasing to the President to have him even more intimately associated with his administration.

What Mr. Cleveland Will Not Do.

NEW YORK, April 5.—A Washington despatch to the Evening Post says that a U. S. Senator, who has conferred with the President on the vacant chief justiceship, says the President indicated these points: He will promote no associate justice: he will make no assignment from the South; he will not appoint any man over 60 years of age, and hoped to find a man about 55.

Mr. Bradford's Complaint.

The President pro tem, has laid before the Senate a communication from J. M. Bradford of Portland, Me., protesting against the manner in which the Civil Service law is being administered. The communication sets forth that Bradford and five others were examined for the office of Weigher of Customs at Portland. A man named Farnsworth passed with an average of 80, and Bradford, who was the only other applicant who successfully passed the examination, had an average of 66. Farnsworth was appointed, and when another weigher was wanted, a new examination was ordered, and a man named Bridgham, who had failed to pass a previous examination, was selected. Bradford alleges that both Farnsworth and Bridgham are party workers, and that he is not. He insists that as his was the only name on the eligible register when the second weigher was wanted, he should have been appointed, but the Civil Service Commission, when complaint was made, replied that the Collector was entitled to four names from which to make his choice, and that a new examination had therefore been ordered by the Commission without solicitation from the collector of Portland. With regard to this policy of ordering new examinations, notwithstanding there are already names on the eligible register.

Bradford declares that it is no better than the "spoils" system. The communication was referred to the select committee on investigation into the civil service.

1st CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 5.

Senator Wilson of Iowa addressed the Senate on the subject of the President's annual message. He quoted figures contained in the last annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury showing receipts and expenditures of the government for the last three years, aggregate receipts over expenditures being $178,000,000, or an average of $59,000,000 a year. The result thus disclosed, he said, presented the limit within which Congress should move in the matter of reducing the revenue. However much the Senators might differ as to the methods of reduction, all would doubtless agree that the revenue should be reduced.

Senator Wilson then continued to discuss the surplus question. He granted the folly of collecting more than was necessary for the proper purposes of government. He reviewed the history of the Republican party, and gloried in its work in the saving of the country, taking the government when bankrupt, fighting a great war successfully, restoring national credit and reducing the debt. He said the party had showed boundless capacity and undaunted courage. It erred in following the Democratic land grand policy. Its protective policy was built to follow, and was one to plant manufacturing establishments in every agricultural State, and not concentrate them in a few large towns and cities. That was also the best way to reduce the price of manufactured articles, because then the manufactories would be on the ground where the raw materials and food supplies are produced, and could, consequently, be procured cheaply. To follow the President's advice, would not distribute or increase manufacturing plants, but would embarass those now established. None of the various schemes urged by the opponents of protection, would produce such happy results as had been witnessed in the cotton manufacturing industries of the Southern States for the past seven years. He suggested the removal of the duties on sugar and molasses, amounting to $55,000,000, as a means of guarding against the annual surplus of $60,000,000. He would admit free all sugar and molasses coming from countries which did not impose export duties on those articles, and which admitted American products free. European countries had adopted the practical business plan of paying a bounty to sugar producers, such as would give an impetus to the production of sugar in the Western States.

President Wilson criticized the President's suggestions on the subject of wool and said no one would infer from them that under tariff tinkering, the wool product of the country had fallen off 43,000,000 pounds in three years. The President was not a skillful economic artist and his conception was not that of a bold hand, not and cunning a presentation. It was pale, dull and flat. After discussing the wool and flax questions, as affecting the farmers, Senator Wilson said the farmers should demand that all the articles produced by them should be taken from the free list, and at least a moderate rate of duty be imposed upon them. He further said he way to get rid of the surplus without disturbing the industrial interests of the country was the abolition of the whiskey tax. He would deeply regret the passage of any bill looking to the reduction of revenue which did not make a pronounced start towards the ultimate elimination of the liquor tax from the law.

At 3 p. m. the consideration of the bond bill was renewed. Senator McPherson withdrew his amendment of the substitute bill, as amended by Senator Beck. It was agreed to without discussion or division. The bill was read the third time, passed and a committee of conference ordered. The substitute bill thus adopted in place of the House bill was offered by Senator Spooner and is as follows:

That section 2 of the act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the government for the year ending June 3, 1882, and for other purposes and which is as follows: "That the Secretary of the Treasury may at any time apply the surplus money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated or so much thereof as he may consider proper, to purchase for redemption of United States bonds provided the bonds so purchased or redeemed shall constitute no part of the sinking fund, but shall be cancelled," was intended as a permanent provision of law, and the same is hereby declared to have been, since its enactment, and to be now in full force and effect.

Section 2.—That whenever the circulation, or any part thereof, of any national bank, not in liquidation, be surrendered by the deposits of United States notes in the treasury, or otherwise, and the same, or an equivalent amount, not taken by other national banks within 30 days thereafter, the secretary of the treasury is directed to sell at the market price thereof, an equivalent amount in silver bullion in excess of the limit of two million dollars now coined per month for such purposes, which shall be coined and used, as provided in the act passed Feb. 28, 1878, entitled "an act to authorize the coinage of the standard silver dollar and restore its legal tender character," provided that nothing in this shall alter or repeal said act of Feb. 28, 1878.

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the bill to provide for the establishment of a bureau of animal industry to facilitate the exportation of live stock and their products and extirpate contagious pleuro-pneumonia and other diseases among animals.

After a couple of hours spent in reading the bill, the report and various communications, including one from the Commissioner of Agriculture, criticizing the bill, and after some discussion the bill was laid aside without action.

Senator Hawley, from the committee on military affairs, reported a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to receive for instruction at the military academy at West Point, Jose Andreas Urtebo, of Nicaragua. Passed. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of executive business and adjourned.

HOUSE.

The House continued its filibustering tactics of yesterday until 2.15 this morning, when it adjourned until 11.45.

The fight over the direct tax bill was resumed this morning, when at 11.45 the House met in continuation of the legislative day of Wednesday.

Mr. Reed, of Maine, immediately demanded the regular order, which the Speaker announced to be a vote on the motion that when the House adjourned today it be to meet on Saturday next.

This motion having been defeated, Mr Lanham, of Texas, raised the point of order that the day assigned for the consideration of the direct tax bill, had expired. To adopt any other construction would be to violate the intention of the committee on rules in reporting assignment, and of the House in agreeing to it. A clear construction of the assignment would show that it applied, not to legislative day, but to calendar day.

The speaker disclaimed any power to adjourn the House beyond that which is long as the House refused to adjourn, the legislative day of Wednesday would continue. He recalled many precedents for the decision and especially the precedent presented in the case of the electoral commission bill when the legislative day extended over 30 calendar days. He overruled the point of order.

The dreary round of roll calls on dilatory motions was then resumed.

In the interval between the votes, Mr. Hatch of Missouri, by unanimous consent, introduced the following resolution:

Resolved—That the Interstate Commerce Commission be instructed to consider what can be done to prevent the loss of life and limb coupling and uncoupling cars used in interstate commerce and handling the brakes on such cars and in what way the growth of a system of heating passenger cars from the locomotives or from some other single source can be promoted to the end that such Commission may make a recommendation in premises to the various railroads within its jurisdiction and report its doings to Congress at an early date with such suggestions as to legislation on such subjects as may seem necessary and expedient.

The resolution was referred to the committee on commerce.

The entire day was consumed in roll calls, not an incident of interest occurring. Finally, wearied out, the House, at 5.10, by unanimous consent, took a recess until 11.45 tomorrow.

PROTECTING SHORT LOBSTERS.

Work of the Wardens Along the Maine Coast.

[Special to the Press.]

THOMASTON, April 5.—Commissioner of Sea and Shore Fisheries Counce, of this place, is waging a war against the dealers in short lobsters, and is determined to stop the traffic in crustaceans below the regulation length of 10½ inches. Warden James Bailey of Bath has been actively engaged in the service of the State since the first of March, and will continue at least throughout this month. In addition to the large number of over 1100 at Woolwich, he has recently seized four lots in Portland, of a length prohibited by law, two of which were made on Fuesday. The same warden lately visited a large number of cars at Pemaquid, and liberated the short lobsters contained therein. He says there would be but few short ones sold if it were not for the smacks which proceed along the coast, purchase all that can be found, and urge the fishermen to save their catch of illegal length for sale. The short lobsters are largely shipped to Boston and New York on the steamers.

On Tuesday, Warden Peabody of Thomaston seized seven barrels of short and "count" lobsters mixed, at Rockland, and today was holding them twenty-four hours as provided by law, for the owner to appear. Mr. Baily was in consultation with Commissioner Counce today, as to the further prosecution of the campaign against the illegal traffic. A sharp outlook is being kept all along the coast by the wardens.

RUMORS OF A SETTLEMENT.

Burlington and Its Employes Reported to Have Buried the Hatchet.

CHICAGO, April 5.—A well authenticated rumor into night is that the Burlington Company and the striking engineers and firemen have reached a mutually satisfactory settlement and the strike will soon be officially declared off. It is stated that the company would reinstate all the old engineers and firemen as rapidly as possible.

An Appeal to Powderly.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Referring to the reported deal between the Brotherhood of Engineers and Firemen and General Master Workman Powderly by which Knights in the employ of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road were to be called out, the Chicago Times says this morning: "The proposition is still pending and a decision may not be reached for some days yet. The engineers, firemen and switchmen desire Mr. Powderly to call out the Knights of Labor who have taken their places on the "Q" and, if it should become necessary, the train and section hands so far as they are Knights of Labor. In short they want him to make the strike official with the Knights of Labor. All of his men who strike under this arrangement are to be supported by the Brotherhood in return. The engineers, firemen and switchmen will obliniate themselves to stand by the Knights on other roads if it should become necessary.

"This Mr. Powderly may agree to do and probably will so far as those men are concerned who took the places of the strikers if he can exercise any authority over them. These propositions rest upon the condition that the engineers, firemen and switchmen are to act in concert. Such a combination is in existence. The switchmen have been promised that if they would strike on the "Q" the engineers and firemen would assist them on other roads when they had any just grievances. This refers especially to the Lake Shore where the switchmen want to compel the employment of Union men in place of those who took the places of the striking switchmen in 1886. But this effort is not to be made until after the trouble with the Burlington is settled. It is not at all improbable that the engineers and firemen will amalgamate permanently."

One Striker in Trouble.

James Derry, a night switchman in the employ of the Northwestern road, is locked up, charged with assault with intent to kill, yesterday afternoon. He assaulted a Pinkerton watchman in the Burlington yards and drawing a revolver threatened to shoot him. Last evening he stood behind a telegraph pole and fired two shots at the cab of a Burlington switch engine which was passing. The bullets shattered the windows of the cab, but fortunately did not strike the engineer or fireman. The fireman returned a shot at Derry, who then ran away. He was arrested soon after by the police.

Carnegie's Thousands.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 5.—The strikers at the Edgar Thomson steel works at Pittsburg yesterday, rejected Andrew Carnegie's cooperative proposition, and last evening an order was received for the complete shut down of the great plant until Jan. 1, 1889. This decision was received with dismay by the large army of workmen, as they did not apprehend any movement of the kind. It will throw out of employment 5000 men, and will seriously affect all branches of business.

YOUNG LOGAN'S WAR.

Trouble With Striking Miners Leads to His Arrest.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—A Philadelphia Press special from New Castle, Pa., says: "Sheriff Warnock received a summons the other morning from Carbon which requested his immediate presence with a posse sufficiently large to protect the extensive limestone quarries in that section, which are principally owned by Mr. Chauncey Andrews, of Youngstown. He is father-in-law of John A. Logan, Jr. His employes, consisting chiefly of Italians and Swedes, struck against a reduction in their wages. Mr. Logan has full supervision of the property, and gathering together a number of loyal men, made known his determination to defend the property at all hazards. The strikers assembled at various places discussing the situation, though no unlawful action was committed until Mr. Logan, or some one under him, ordered two of the men, at the point of a revolver, to leave the place. They became frightened, not being able to understand English, and tried to make known, they say, their peaceful intention. The Logan men then fired upon them. The shots created considerable excitement and the other strikers hastily ran to the scene to ascertain the cause. At their approach another posse was telegraphed for from this city, which hastily left under the charge of deputy sheriff. The Italians, finding themselves under fire, ran for their lives to the woods, a number stopping at times to return the fire by volleys of stones. One of them, while behind a tree, was shot by one of the officers, and will lose his leg. A number of the Italians were arrested and lodged in jail.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 5.—John A. Logan, son of the late Senator, who shot a riotous striker at the Carbon, Pa., limestone quarries, of which he was superintendent, last Tuesday, to-day was arrested and taken before a magistrate at New Castle, Pa. He gave $10,000.

JACOB SHARP DEAD.

He Succumbs to the Sickness Contracted in the Blizzard.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Jacob Sharp died at 9.20 p. m., after a severe attack of coughing and vomiting. Sharp had been growing weaker all day, and fits of coughing and choking during the evening lessened his strength still more. One of these fits came on just before 9 o'clock, and was followed by another, from which he never rally, and died, it resulted from heart failure. Dr. Loomis was called away by an urgent summons shortly before. He returned a few minutes after the death. He says Sharp's final illness was a pulmonary bronchitis, complicated with heart and kidney disease and diabetes.

That Old, Old Story.

PITTSBURG, April 5.—The Chronicle-Telegraph says this afternoon: "James D. Draper of this city has received a letter from a personal friend, a Pittsburger now in Texas, a leading citizen and wide awake politician, in which this passage occurs: 'I see Mr. Blaine quite often, and it is evident that he is very broken in health. He looks every day of 70, yet he is only 58. Washington excitement and too much hard work have been his trouble. Any one seeing him will know the reason of his withdrawal from presidential aspirations. I fearfully life will not be spared long.'"

A Statement from Deputy Sheriff Chute.

CUMBERLAND MILLS, April 5.

To the Editor of the Press:

Will you kindly allow me through your columns to make one more explanation and answer an inquiry, not that I expect to convince my enemies, for I is evidently no part of their purpose to get at facts, but only to injure me in my official position. The charges of bribery mad against me by Mr. Ansel Stevens, I have already met with a denial, which being a truthful one, cannot be made any stronger by repetition. But the statement of Mr. Stevens that he once came to me to see if I would enforce the prohibitory law and receive the profane rebuff which he says I gave him is wholly false.

Mr. Stevens did come to me, and requested me to resign my office of deputy sheriff in favor of a Democrat, and with this request I refused to comply as I felt in duty bound to do so much thereof as he may consider proper, to purchase for redemption of United States bonds provided the bonds so purchased or redeemed shall constitute no part of the sinking fund, but shall be cancelled," was intended as a permanent provision of law, and the same is hereby declared to have been, since its enactment, and to be now in full force and effect.

Section 2.—That whenever the circulation, or any part thereof, of any national bank, not in liquidation, be surrendered by the deposits of United States notes in the treasury, or otherwise, and the same, or an equivalent amount, not taken by other national banks within 30 days thereafter, the secretary of the treasury is directed to sell at the market price thereof, an equivalent amount in silver bullion in excess of the limit of two million dollars now coined per month for such purposes, which shall be coined and used, as provided in the act passed Feb. 28, 1878, entitled "an act to authorize the coinage of the standard silver dollar and restore its legal tender character," provided that nothing in this shall alter or repeal said act of Feb. 28, 1878.

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the bill to provide for the establishment of a bureau of animal industry to facilitate the exportation of live stock and their products and extirpate contagious pleuro-pneumonia and other diseases among animals.

After a couple of hours spent in reading the bill, the report and various communications, including one from the Commissioner of Agriculture, criticizing the bill, and after some discussion the bill was laid aside without action.

Senator Hawley, from the committee on military affairs, reported a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to receive for instruction at the military academy at West Point, Jose Andreas Urtebo, of Nicaragua. Passed. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of executive business and adjourned.

HOUSE.

The House continued its filibustering tactics of yesterday until 2.15 this morning, when it adjourned until 11.45.

The fight over the direct tax bill was resumed this morning, when at 11.45 the House met in continuation of the legislative day of Wednesday.

Mr. Reed, of Maine, immediately demanded the regular order, which the Speaker announced to be a vote on the motion that when the House adjourned today it be to meet on Saturday next.

This motion having been defeated, Mr Lanham, of Texas, raised the point of order that the day assigned for the consideration of the direct tax bill, had expired. To adopt any other construction would be to violate the intention of the committee on rules in reporting assignment, and of the House in agreeing to it. A clear construction of the assignment would show that it applied, not to legislative day, but to calendar day.

The speaker disclaimed any power to adjourn the House beyond that which is long as the House refused to adjourn, the legislative day of Wednesday would continue. He recalled many precedents for the decision and especially the precedent presented in the case of the electoral commission bill when the legislative day extended over 30 calendar days. He overruled the point of order.

The dreary round of roll calls on dilatory motions was then resumed.

In the interval between the votes, Mr. Hatch of Missouri, by unanimous consent, introduced the following resolution:

Resolved—That the Interstate Commerce Commission be instructed to consider what can be done to prevent the loss of life and limb coupling and uncoupling cars used in interstate commerce and handling the brakes on such cars and in what way the growth of a system of heating passenger cars from the locomotives or from some other single source can be promoted to the end that such Commission may make a recommendation in premises to the various railroads within its jurisdiction and report its doings to Congress at an early date with such suggestions as to legislation on such subjects as may seem necessary and expedient.

The resolution was referred to the committee on commerce.

The entire day was consumed in roll calls, not an incident of interest occurring. Finally, wearied out, the House, at 5.10, by unanimous consent, took a recess until 11.45 tomorrow.

CRUSHED BENEATH THE WATER.

An Express Train Plunges into a Swollen Creek.

The Engineer and Several Passengers Killed in the Wreck,

While Twenty or Thirty Others Suffer Injuries.

NEW HAMPTON, Ia., April 5.—A terrible accident occurred this morning on the Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, by which at least a dozen persons lost their lives, and fifteen or twenty more were injured. The train which left Chicago at 11.30 yesterday morning, due here at 2.13 this morning, passed nearly on time. When about four miles west, it plunged into a creek, the bridge being washed out and the creek swollen by floods. A gorge of ice formed, which carried away part of the bridge. Nothing showed the danger ahead. The engine and three cars were submerged in the creek, which had overflowed its banks. A scene of the wildest confusion ensued. The passengers who escaped death or injury attempted to release the injured ones, but it was with the greatest difficulty that the prisoners were reached, owing to the rushing waters. The smoking car was almost entirely submerged, and those rescued had to be taken from the car window. Some were so malmed that they could not help themselves, and others were nearly drowned before aid reached them.

At 11 a. m., six dead bodies had been recovered, and three more are known to be under the debris. It will be difficult to reach them. It is also stated that the engineer and fireman were killed or drowned, but the confusion and excitement is so great that it is difficult to secure information. A number of the injured are dangerously hurt, and it is feared cannot recover.

As soon as a train hand could be spared, he was despatched to the station, and relief trains were telegraphed for from Mason City and other places near by. It was several hours before the relief train arrived with physicians and additional help to aid in rescuing those still in the wreck.

Another Account.

CHARLES CITY, Io., April 5.—Some claim that the wreck was caused by ice on the track, others by the spreading of the rails. The engine jumped the track first and then the baggage car plunged over the engine into the water. The smoker struck the top of the engine and was badly smashed. The engine is under water and the baggage car is almost covered. About 30 people were in the smoker and forward coach. As far as known, besides the engineer who was crushed between the cab and the smoker. The fireman escaped unhurt. About 23 or 30 are wounded, and about 10 killed. Some more bodies are known to be in the wreck. The conductor kept the passengers quiet till they could help the injured out. The mails and baggage are under water.

PORTLAND TURNVEREIN.

Their Annual Dinner at the Preble House Last Evening.

The history of the Portland Turnverein for the past three years has been one of phenomenal progress. The association has grown in that time from a membership of 50 to 350, and has become one of the foremost among our local organizations.

The success which was scored in their annual dinner last evening was just in keeping with their history. There were 113 gentlemen present, and with the exception of three delegates from Bowdoin College, all were members of the Turnverein. The ladies' parlor, as well as the entire suite of rooms on the lower floor, were utilized by the assemblage and for an hour previous to the dinner they chatted and smoked and played whist as inclination led them, while all the time Prof. Grimmer and his orchestra were playing delightful melodies.

At 3.30 the procession formed and marched to the strains of Boulanger's March to the banquet hall. The tables presented an appearance of more than ordinary beauty. The guests of the Association from the Bowdoin Athletic Association were Henry W. Brock, S. L. Tagg and Geo. Thwing.

The menu card was specially designed by Mr. Fred B. Smith and, characteristic of his drawings, was a work of art. The first page bore a representation of a pyramid of athletes, each with a knif or fork in hand, and this was neatly lettered. The menu, which was served in a manner beyond criticism by Mr. Gibson's efficient corps of waiters, was as follows:

Blue Points.
Mock Turtle Soup.
Olives. Radishes.
Baked Whitefish, Madeira Sauce.
French Fried Potatoes.
Banana Fritters, Port Wine Sauce.
Veal Cutlets, Breaded, Tomato Sauce.
Browned Potatoes. French Peas.
Roast Turkey, Cran

THE PRESS.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 6.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

Jake Sharp seems likely to get a change of venue that he has not petitioned for.

The Kennebec Democrat is still harping on the Stevenson trial. If it wants information as to why the jury failed to convict Stevenson perhaps it can get it from the foreman of the jury who is a prominent Democrat and who voted for acquittal.

One year of Democratic rule has been quite enough for the people of Rhode Island. This year the Republican have made a clean sweep, electing all their candidates for State officers by good majorities, and nearly the whole of both branches of the Legislature. The Providence Journal's fight against the candidate for lieutenant governor did not accomplish much. He was cut only 200 votes in the whole State.

M. Floquet is likely to get enough of the fierce white light that now a days beats upon the premier instead of upon the throne. Few leaders have entered office under more unfavorable conditions. A succession of weak governments in France have thrown discredit on all governments; he will be opposed by the most powerful faction of his own party, the Opportunists, who are led by M. Ferry, the ablest of French Parliamentarians; his minister of war is M. de Freycenet, a civilian and not a soldier; his minister of foreign affairs is M. Goblet, intensely patriotic, but so hot headed that during his premiership he would have hurried troops to the frontier at the time of the Schnaebele incident had he not been restrained by President Grevy; and finally, he is a friend of Boulanger, a circumstance which will be more likely to embarrass than help him. The new government has come into power on the issue of the revision of the constitution, but it is doubtful if there is an honest desire on the part of the French delegates for such a revision, which would probably be in the direction of making the Senate a less aristocratic body.

Commissioner Reed, of the New York Bureau of Labor Statistics has sent to the Legislature of that State a report which takes ground quite unusual for a man who is presumed to have made a systematic and logical study of the labor question. He devotes his report almost entirely to strikes; and he reaches the conclusion that they are profitable for the laboring man. "Strikes," he says, "have helped to raise wages, to shorten hours, to improve the condition, not only of the particular workmen who have risen up in protest, but also of the masses. A strike in a particular shop for reasonable cause often ends in general improvement. Bakers have reduced their hours of labor from eighteen to about twelve. The nine hour day is due to the strike system. Wages in whole trades have gone up from ten per cent to thirty per cent because the men in particular shops have asserted themselves and made good their claim to consideration." From the brief reports furnished by the telegraph it is impossible to follow the chain of reasoning by which Commissioner Reed has arrived at this conclusion. His statistics of the number of successful and unsuccessful strikes in New York State certainly cannot justify such conclusions. In 1887 there were 695 unsuccessful strikes, to 694 that were successful. There were 190 classed as "compromised or partially successful," 300 as "doubtful" and 22 as "pending." By the successful strikes some things may have been gained; but how much they cost both the laborers and the capitalists the Commissioner does not probably know; nor does he know that the same results might not have been accomplished by other means. Nor is it probable that he has taken into account the suffering and destitution caused by those unsuccessful strikes where much was lost and nothing gained.

The City's Gas Stock.

The city in its corporate capacity owns 1700 shares of stock in the Portland Gas Light Company. On this stock for many years back the city has received annually regular dividends of ten per cent. and on two occasions large sums as special dividends. It is now proposed that the city dispose of this stock and use the proceeds for the liquidation of the floating debt. The matter was brought up in the Mayor's message, and since the city council has passed an order directing an inquiry to be made to ascertain the value of this stock. We do not understand that the council has voted to sell the stock or has expressed any opinion as to the advisability of its sale. That question is to be settled later.

There can be no objection to an inquiry such as the council proposes, leaving the question of sale entirely for future decision. Indeed we are inclined to think that it is a wise move, and that if conducted in the proper manner it will throw light on the condition of this company which will be of great aid in determining what the city should do with its stock. But mere inquiry of this prominent citizen or that prominent citizen what he considers the value of the stock will not be sufficient. From such an investigation as that we shall get simply a lot of guesses, for there is no gas stock in the market and it is very rarely that a share is sold. The true way to get at the value of this stock is to examine the books of the company, and ascertain precisely what its condition is. If the company has a large surplus, as is suspected, that fact would have a very material bearing on the value of its stock. If its real estate is very valuable for other purposes than those for which it is now used and could be disposed of for a large sum that fact would have a bearing on the question whether the city should hurry to sell its stock lest its investment should be lost by the supplanting of gas lighting by electricity. These are matters which can be found out only by a thorough investigation of the company's books, and the ascertainment of its exact assets and their value. When these things are known there will be no great difficulty in figuring up what gas stock is worth and what the city ought to get for its shares.

What objection can there be to such an investigation? The city—or the people of Portland in their corporate capacity—own a large interest in a corporation. Confessedly their knowledge of the condition of that corporation, and consequently of the value of their stock in it, is very meagre. They are asked to sell this stock. Isn't it rational for them to ascertain before doing so or deciding to do so, what the value of the stock is? And isn't it proper for them to avail themselves of the only certain way in which this information can be obtained? There can, it seems to us, be but one answer to these propositions, and that in the affirmative. The city council is acting for the interests of the whole people, and it is its duty to take every precaution that those interests are not sacrificed. One of the precautions in this case, indeed the only one which will be of much avail, is the ascertainment by the method we have suggested of the value of this stock. Let the council through a committee of its own number examine the books and submit the results to the people. Let all the facts that have any bearing on the value of this stock be made public through the press. Then when the question of sale comes up the people can act understandingly.

There is no need of haste in this matter. There is no call for precipitate action. Private holders are showing no anxiety to dispose of their holdings. To sacrifice a ten per cent. stock to pay a debt that can be funded at 4 per cent., would not be wise financiering. There is plenty of time to get at all the facts before any action need be taken in favor or against the sale of the stock.

As to the question of the advisability of selling this stock at all, we have but a few considerations to submit at the present time. As a rule we should say that it was not wise for the city to invest in business enterprises. They should be left to individuals. But light and water are necessities which every citizen must have, and the supplying of them may be strictly within the legitimate business of a municipal corporation. Ownership by the city in corporations whose business it is to supply them may be for the advantage of the people, inasmuch as it tends to expose the business to publicity and thus to prevent extortionate charges. Suppose one result of the sale of the city's gas stock should be to put the business of electrical and gas lighting under the control of the same individuals, would it be as well for the city in its corporate capacity or for its individual citizens? Would a monopoly of all the means of illuminating in the hands of one company tend to the welfare of the taxpayers? These are questions that ought to be thoroughly discussed and settled before a sale of the city's gas light stock is determined upon. Just now, however, what is most important to ascertain is what that stock is worth.

GOV. PLAISTED GIVES THE PRESIDENT GOOD ADVICE.
[Augusta New Age.]

We are inclined to believe there is something in the report of the probable appointment of Mr. Putnam to the exalted position of Chief Judicial Magistrate of the Republic. We have regarded it from the first as a question, not of qualifications but of locality, whether the great honor would fall to Maine. This country is very large, New England so very small, and Maine is not much larger than New England! we have not felt at liberty to expect such a good thing. But it is believed that the new Chief Justice will not be taken from the South. The Senate would refuse confirmation; nor from the bench, and no Western man is named for the position, who takes the country by storm. Thurman is too old. Mr. Putnam is of suitable age, younger than Marshall or Taney when taken from the bar, and made Chief Justice, serving the two for sixty years. The new Chief Justice should have at least twenty-five years of good service in him. Mr. Putnam is of suitable age as well as character and qualifications. We anticipate, Mr. President, and hail it with cordial salutations.

CONCERNING BOOKS.

BY E. CAVAZZA.

Maximina, the latest story by the Spanish novelist Don Armando Palacio Valdes is a genuine triumph of rightly applied realism. Here we find the actual employed as a means toward the ideal; the minute study of detail which explains the everyday life of personages who are representative as well as individual, and in either capacity are worth knowing. At present, the realistic school of fiction is too apt to concern itself with types which are not typical, with traits which are neither significant or interesting, and fictitious people who merely add to the list of bores. Life is worth living, in the measure in which its energies and powers are joyfully employed for love of that which is most dear to us; and a novel, to have any worth beyond the amusement of the passing hour, must depict something of the ideality inseparable from even commonplace existence. It is the perception and acceptance of this first law of novel-writing that gives point, coherence and value to this novel of Senor Valdes. The heroine, Maximina, is an exquisitely modest and affectionate little bride from a small Spanish town, brought into the dangerous social atmosphere of Madrid. Her husband, Don Miguel, is a young journalist, upright, spirited and sympathetic. The scenes of the domestic life of these charming young people are sketched with naturalness and gayety—occasionally, it is true, with a little more of intimacy than the reader has the right to expect or care for. The dainty dissensions of Maximina and Miguel have nothing of the pettish pertness, or nervous nonsense that often spoils the dialogue of American fiction; and the common cares of the family are irradiated with genuine tenderness of description. Almost imperceptibly the tone of the story ennobles itself as it records the life of these faithful young creatures. After the rapturous passage when the married lovers watch the stars from their window, the imminent tragedy seems natural as right itself. Read, after this, the reflections of Miguel as he sits near the sleeping politician and contrasts the low ambitions of the world with the alternate light and darkness of the infinite regions where his love and imagination wander, not all in vain—and you have watched realism in fiction at its noblest task, to raise a mountain of earth that shall approach the skies.

There is little attempt at plot; the minor characters are well drawn, often with excellent comedy. It is a viva loua picture of Spanish society—at once akin to and very unlike American life. (New York: Thomas Y. Crowel & Co.; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.)

The Abbess of Jouarre, Mr. Ernest Renan's recent literary blunder and moral offence, after making its failure on the stage, has come to America in the garb of a comically poor translation. The repulsive plot is drawn out with inconceivably wearisome rhetoric, occasionally relieved by blasphemy. It is impossible to find anything either respectable or picturesque in this mass of dreary didactism of evil. It seems the outcome of a diseased brain; and therefore offers no occasion for a reviewer to criticize, it, only to say that M. Renan is to be pitied and his tragedy to be condemned. (New York: G. W. Dillingham; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.)

Orestes and Other Poems. By Harry Lyman Koopman. Mr. Koopman's verse shows good feeling, some acquaintance with the best models, and occasional touches of graceful and vivid fancy. His translations from the Anglo Saxon are good, and some of his less ambitious verses are tuneful and not seldom elevated in tone. With practice and careful comparison of his better and his worser work, Mr. Koopman should write very acceptably. (Buffalo: Moulton, Wenbourne & Co.)

Messrs. Putnam of New York add to their delicious series of little volumes, the Knickerbocker Nuggets, the Vicar of Wakefield, that tender, witty, dignified English pastoral and classic. Nothing is so dainty, in the literary field, as these little books; it was surely some beneficent elf, Oberon's librarian perhaps, that suggested the design to the American publishers. (Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.)

Only a Coral Girl, is the title of a pleasing and romantic novel by Gertrude Forde. The story is eventful and the characters clearly defined. One cannot but resent the unnecessary tragedy; for, although the heroine, Margherita, is a trifle impossible in some directions, her loveliness and worth win for her the entire interest of the reader. The descriptions of the island of Capri and of English fashionable life are quite effective. (NewYork: Harper & Brothers; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.)

In Mr. William S. Gottsberger's inexpensive and convenient series of paper-covered novels, he reprints the immortal idyl of Paul and Virginia in a new and excellent translation from the French by Clara Bell. (New York: William S. Gottsberger; Portland: Loring, Short & Harmon.)

THE PRESS.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 6.

WIT AND WISDOM.

A leap year suggestion.

"John," she said softly, "have you been saying anything about me to mother lately?"

"No," replied John, "why do you ask?"

"Because she said this morning that she believed you were on the eve of proposing to me. Now, I do not wish you to speak to mother when you have anything of that kind to say. Speak to me and I'll manage the business with mother."

And John said he would.

If it is a case of cut or bruise, or break, or sprain, Salvation Oil will settle matters for 25 cents.

A shipwrecked sailor waiting for a sail is like a business man sitting at home and nursing a cough or cold. Get Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and be cured.

Doctor Scalpel—I think I will have to call a consultation in your case, sir.

Patient (alarmed)—And why?

Doctor (calmly)—To ascertain whether you will be worth more to me dead than alive. You see, I can easily collect my claim from the estate, but—

Patient (who has the name of calling a strange physician every time he feels ill)—That's all right doctor; if you'll tell me about what you think it will be, I'll pay in advance.

Must not be confounded with common cathartics or purgative pills. Carter's Little Liver Pills are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

Fenderson—I don't know whether to feel complimented or not. You say I am intelligent; very well; but you called your dog intelligent not five minutes ago. Isn't that putting us on the same plane?

Brown—It does seem so, that's a fact; but for heaven's sake don't let on to the dog when he comes in!

Have no equal as a prompt and positive cure for sick headache, biliousness, constipation, pain in the side, and all liver troubles. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Try them.

Little Rosie, walking slowly past the verdant meadow, sees Many cows, and some are standing, others lying beneath the trees.

In the road stands little Rosie, caring not for dust or mud,
While her eyes are bent upon them as they calmly chew their cud.

Great surprise her face expresses, for awhile her lips are dumb;
Then she cries out: "Mamma! mamma! all those cows are chewing gum!"

What Constitutes a Family Medicine?

A preparation which is adapted to the relief and cure of ailments to which members of a household are most subject, and which is not only alleged to do this, but has long and unfailingly proved its ability to do it, assuredly deserves the title of a reliable Family Medicine. Among the time-honored preparations, which experience and the sanction of the medical profession indicate as deserving of popular regard and confidence, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine adapted to the eradication of dyspepsia, constipation and billiousness, the three most frequently occurring ailments that vex mankind. Derived from a botanic parentage, it is efficient as well as pure and wholesome. It relieves nervous disquietude and inactivity of the kidneys, and counteracts a tendency to rheumatism. For renewing flagging strength and imparting appetite it can be implicitly relied upon. Fever and ague, rheumatism and debility are remedied by it.

Husband (impatiently)—If the fool-killer would strike this town he would find plenty of work to do!

Wife—Is there such a person, dear?

Husband—Of course there is.

Wife—Well, I do hope, John, that you will be very careful!

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

PORTLAND WHOLESALE MARKET.

PORTLAND, Apr. 5, 1888.

There are no new features to note in the business situation. Breadstuffs and Provisions are quiet and steadily held at previous quotations Sugars continue quiet, but firm. Eggs have been in good supply at 18c, while at Boston the stock is light and for fresh stuff 22c is obtained, but with any liberal receipts prices would drop. Butter very firm, but not quotably higher. Cheese firm at the recent advance.

Are You Familiar with the Plans — OF THE — Union Mutual LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF PORTLAND, ME!

DO you realize that this old and sterling company is a HOME INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848 under the laws of Maine?

ARE you aware that this Company has paid to policy-holders or their representatives more than TWENTY-THREE MILLION DOLLARS?

IT has to-day more than SIX MILLION DOLLARS IN ASSETS, and over THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS IN SURPLUS calculated by the most conservative standards known to the law.

IT pays its losses promptly. Its policies after three years are free from all limitations as to Residence, Travel, Suicide and Occupation. Military and Naval Service excepted.

IT has liberal plans. Its affairs are carefully managed by its Board of Directors and Officers, whose integrity and ability are unquestioned.

THE wise provisions of the Maine Non-Forfeiture Law apply only to the policies issued by this Company, and under it extended insurance is provided for in case of lapse after the payment of three or more annual premiums in cash.

THE NEW MAINE LAW CONVERTIBLE POLICY of the UNION MUTUAL contains every desirable feature in a PERFECT LIFE INSURANCE POLICY.

If you will send your address to the Home Office, or to any of its agents, we shall be glad to furnish full information in regard to the Company and its plans.

THE UNION MUTUAL appeals to residents of Maine for their especial patronage, because it is a HOME COMPANY, and because of its age, experience, strong, financial condition, large surplus, equitable and attractive plans and conservative management.

Advice to Mothers.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it prodnces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub, awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes Twenty-five cents a bottle.

HOW MEN DIE.

If we know all the methods of approach adopted by an enemy we are the better enabled to ward off the danger and postpone the moment when surrender becomes inevitable. In many instances the inherent strength of the body suffices to enable it to oppose the tendency toward death. Many however, have lost these forces to such an extent that there is little or no help. In other cases, a little aid to the weakened Lungs will make all the difference between sudden death and many years of useful life. Upon the first symptoms of a Cough, Cold, or any trouble of the Throat or Lungs, give that old and well known remedy—Boschee's German Syrup, a careful trial. It will prove, what thousands say of it, to be the "benefactor of any home." nov1-d1yeT

Can Men Live Forever?

BOSTON, April 6.—A very important announcement is made here today. A few weeks ago an article by Dr. William A. Hammond appeared in THE BOSTON SUNDAY GLOBE, taking the ground that there is no reason, barring accidents, why men should not live forever. This startling theory has set everybody to talking. Another article by this famous doctor will be published in the next BOSTON SUNDAY GLOBE, and in it he will tell why men should not die. The same issue of THE SUNDAY GLOBE will also contain a number of interviews with leading doctors, ministers and philosophers on this most interesting subject. On account of the great demand for THE SUNDAY GLOBE, you should order of your newsdealer at once.

He Didn't Get the Reward.

A towboy on the Congress street line of the Portland railroad found a roll of bills on the street yesterday, and, like an honest boy took it to the street railroad office. Not long afterward a lady anxiously inquired if any money had been found. Being answered in the affirmative she identified her property and received it. In the gladness of her heart she wished to reward the finder, but the clerk told her it was against the rules. She insisted, however, and taking a ten-cent piece from her purse besought the clerk to bestow it upon the boy. But the clerk was firm and the boy is unrewarded except in the possession of an approving conscience.

Nearly Drowned.

Mr. P. A. Durgan, second keeper of the Half Way Rock lighthouse, has resigned his position. He had a very narrow escape from drowning the other day. Standing on the rock, he shot some sea ducks. The dory was launched and Mr. Durgan entered it to get the ducks, but the sea was rough and the dory was turned over, throwing Mr. Durgan 15 or 20 feet, alighting on his face. He gained a foothold on the rock, but was swept off again and again, until finally he was rescued by First Keeper Holbrook.

STEVEDORE'S STRIKE.

A Crew of "Scabs" Begin Work in the Hold.

There was a considerable interest manifested in the Longshoremen' strike yesterday, and it formed the topic of conversation on Commercial street. One of Sargent, Dennison & Co.'s men became frightened and quit work, and two teamsters were put into the hold to take his place. Other than this the company had no trouble. Randall & McAllister sent to Biddeford for eight Frenchmen, who came to this city yesterday morning and began to unload the coal barge David Brown. The "scabs" were sent into the hold, but the stageman was a longshoreman and intentionally or otherwise he allowed the tub of coal to strike the staging which turned it bottom up, allowing the coal to fall back into the vessel. The scabs barely escaped serious injury, and when the tub was again overturned they became frightened, left the hold and said they would work no more until they had a stageman of their own. Accordingly, at about three o'clock, with dinner pails in hand, and officers Mosely and Skillings for an escort, they marched through Commercial street to the Boston & Maine depot where they took the train for home, saying they would return in the morning with a stageman of their own and commence work again.

Much to the surprise of the stevedores, President Conley himself returned to work remained during the forenoon. This act on the part of the president did not please the men and many of them manifested their displeasure during the afternoon. When questioned concerning the strike President Conley said: "The men are firmer in their demands than they were yesterday and are bound to hold out. Stevedore Capt. B. J. Willard advised the men who met at his office to return to work, saying they might do so at the old price. The men strongly refused to return and I think their demands will be granted. There has been and there will be no violence on the part of the men."

The sympathy of most people is with the shipers and not with the strikers, for it seems evident that the stevedors have been fairly dealt with.

A largely attended private meeting was held last night in the Longshoremen's rooms, but it is not known what action was taken in regard to the strike.

Born in Hallowell, Me., Oct. 1, 1827, a descendant on the maternal side of the noted family of Sewalls, William S. Gardner inherited many of the strong traits that were prominent in the characters of his ancestors. He entered Bowdoin College in 1846, having among his classmates Gen. O. O. Howard, U. S. A., Hon. William P. Frye of Maine and Prof. C. C. Everett, and, after graduating, he entered upon the study of law in Lowell.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

PORTLAND & OGDENSBURG.

At the Conway House, Wednesday, a hearing was given by the Commissioners to parties who claim that the Portland & Ogdensburg Railway Company have discriminated against them in regard to charges for freight sent over that road. The hearing was adjourned without having come to any decision.

Aristotle.

The extra lecture interpolated last evening into Dr. Hill's course on the "Heroes of Hebrew History," dealt largely with Aristotle. The lecture was entitled, "The Absolute, a Person." By the Absolute the lecturer meant the original or ultimate ground of being; on which all being depends; but which is itself dependent only on itself. By a person he meant a being which both knows, and knows that he knows. The thesis which he would maintain is that the Absolute is a Person. The person is the highest form of conscious life, the highest of the entelechys of Aristotle. That philosopher, in the fourth century before Christ, getting some conceptions of monotheism, perhaps, from his known acquaintance with a Jew, had worked out a demonstration that the universe is dependent on one God. He had begun with the mere fact of the existence of motion, and then added the consideration of its forms; and from this showed that we are logically compelled to admit the existence of one original, ever acting, intelligent cause. The necessity for this admission was threefold; there must be an origin of the energies of the universe; there must be a cause of the harmonies and symmetries in it, and there must be an explanation for the unity which binds all harmonies and symmetries together. The Doctor, after giving a summary of the arguments of Aristotle, added a translation of the closing passage; in which the great Grecian expresses himself in grandly eloquent terms; attempting to describe the ineffable blessedness of God, in his ceaseless activity, and ceaseless joy. He then gave a restatement of the whole argument, in more modern forms of thought and language; and closed by briefly pointing out two or three other lines of reasoning, which would confirm Aristotle's great conclusion.

A Card.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Parish church wish to acknowledge, with thanks, the services of all those who so kindly assisted in the course of entertainments just finished; also to extend our thanks to the newspapers, for notices.

THE BAZAAR.

The Bosworth Relief Corps Fair at City Hall.

The Bosworth Relief Corps were so unfortunate as to meet with rain the second evening of the fair, and consequently their audience was comparatively small. Those who were present, however, were more than repayed by the excellent entertainment provided. The Maine State Fife and Drum Corps gave a pleasing concert; Miss McClellan and Mr. J. T. Somers sang with much taste and expression; Messrs. Barnum and Glynn showed their skill on the banjo; Messrs. Doldt, Moore and McGowan delighted everyone with their acrobatic feats, as did Messrs. McGowan and Moore by their posturing and tumbling. Prof. Lee was exceedingly graceful with his club swinging, and Miss Annie Hyer's reading was very effective, heightened by beautiful tableaux.

The Bazaar will remain open until next Wednesday, and we hope that it will be freely patronized and a large sum realized. The ladies are working very hard now and have for a long time back in this most worthy cause. They have almost everything that enters into the daily use of a family on sale, and there is no reason why our citizens should not purchase there as well as elsewhere. Assuredly better bargains can be obtained, and in fancy articles, lovelier articles than can be secured elsewhere. At Mrs. Legrow's "Recruiting Office" is the superb silk quilt which is being raffled, and the beautiful soldiers' album, besides many other things. It would be useless to try and enumerate the attractions. Be sure and go and see for yourselves.

Tonight the following programme will be provided:

Tableaux.

Waltz.....Select d
Imperial Mandolin and Guitar Club.
Selection.....Imperial Banjo Quartette
Readings.....Mr. Robert L. Whitcomb

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

FORGIVEN.

Tonight Frederic Bryton and his selected company will appear at Portland Theatre in the intense romantic drama "Forgiven." It is essentially a play which appeals directly to the heart. Therefore it could not be but just what it is, a great success. The drama is written in a charming style, is clean and wholesome, and will be welcomed by people who go to the theatre to see a strong home play. Frederick Bryton as John Diamond, gives a strong realistic piece of romantic acting, and is natural and easy throughout. In the strong scenes where real strength is required, Mr. Bryton was more than equal to the demands. In the more quiet scenes he acts with such grace and intelligence that one would be apt to class him with the leading light comedians of the American stage.

EVANGELINE.

This charming burlesque and musical extravagananza, which will be presented next week at Portland Theatre, will draw large audiences. An exchange says: "Evangeline, in its new dress and with a new cast and brilliant costumes filled the Columbia Theatre every night this week. The company is first-class in all particulars."

A Bold Forger.

Charles F. Fuller, of Portland, committed a bold forgery Wednesday afternoon at Salem, Mass. He walked into Abbott & Reynold's produce store on Prout street, borrowed a blank check on the Naumkeag Bank, and coolly filled it out for $25 and forged the firm's signature to it. He blotted it and went out. The tracing of the letters on the blotter led to suspicion of crooked work. Mr. Reynolds was about to notify the police when Mr Frank Winn came in with the check and said he had cashed it. It was pronounced a forgery. Officers were sent to the depot and Fuller was arrested. He admitted his guilt at once, and said that he would make it all right. He had letters of recommendation from well known people in Portland, but he said rum was his worst enemy, and, being without a penny, he had recourse to this step. He was a bookkeeper and is 38 years old.

The committee having the matter in charge are sparing no time or pains to make all enjoy themselves, and that it will be so is attested by the large number of tickets disposed of. The music will be under the personal direction of Chandler which will be a guarantee of its excellence.

The following is a list of prizes: Silver tea set, ladies' gold ring, gold runic vases, plush album, gents' shoes, gents' easy chair, silk or stiff hat, box of cigars and box soap.

Odd Fellows' Fair.

At a meeting of the general and sub-committees held last evening, encouraging reports were made by all of the soliciting committees. Among the donations already received outside the State, is an elegant Grand Representative's collar from Mrs. J. E. Marshall of Boston, which is to be given to the Grand or Past Grand Representative receiving the largest number of votes, to be decided on the closing night of the fair. The collar is on exhibition in the window of Charles O. Hudson's candy store, under Odd Fellows' Hall. There are several other donations which will be on exhibition in a few days.

Be Sure to Get Hood's

"Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, my child. See that they do not give you anything else. You remember it is the medicine which did mamma so much good a year ago—so reliable, beneficial, pleasant to take—my favorite spring medicine."

This advice should be heeded by everybody. If you make up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not allow polite persuasion or argument to induce you to take anything else. Insist upon having Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

A Boston lady, who has been taking, with benefit.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Says: "In one store the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's Sarsaparilla. He told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was perfectly satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Makes the Weak Strong

"I gladly attest the peculiar building-up power of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For some time I have been unable to attend to business, but finally at the request of a friend I used a part of a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gave tone and strength to my system and made me feel young as when a boy." G. T. WOODS, 64 and 66 Lodge Street, Cincinnati.

"We value Hood's Sarsaparilla very highly in our family. My wife has been a severe sufferer from dyspepsia, and has found great relief by taking this excellent medicine." A. NELSON, 88 Walnut street, Portland, Maine.

WHY HER MAJESTY'S CORSET is BETTER than any other made in EUROPE or AMERICA, is BECAUSE 1st, IT IS THE ONLY CORSET EVER MADE that will reduce the size and increase the length of the waist of FLESHY LADIES without injurious tight lacing.

2d, IT IS THE BEST SPINAL SUPPORTER ever made, and it supports equally well the abdomen and all other parts of the body.

3d, IT IS PROOF AGAINST PERSPIRATION and moisture. Will neither corrode or soil the underwear, stretch or break at the waist. The bones never move or come out in wear.

4th, IT NEVER CHANGES ITS FORM, always retaining its original shape; it is invaluable to young ladies, because it removes and prevents stooping and round shoulders.

5th, THIS CORSET MUST NOT BE MORE than 2 inches smaller than the size of your waist when measured tightly over your dress. If so ordered no Corset Maker can make one to order (at any price) that will fit as well, or with as much ease and comfort, or give such a magnificent form.

Fourth Annual SPRING ANNOUNCEMENT!

Observe closest attention in its perusal for the time is at hand when changes in the furnishings of our houses, either from custom or necessity, are brought forcibly to notice. For example, while the storms of the last severe winter were upon us we did not notice that the Chamber Carpets,

Sitting-room Carpets,
Parlor Carpets,
Hall or Library Carpet,
As Well as the Stair, were showing signs of wear, and brush them ever so well, do not harmonize with the balmy days of Spring. Again, the PARLOR, subjected as it always is to more frequent occupancy in the Winter season, does not look as bright and cherry as a year ago. The whether of Crushed Plush, Silk Plush, Hair Cloth, or any other kind of covering will wear out by continual use. The

of Pine, Ash, Walnut Cherry, Oak or Mahogany is perhaps to be set up one flight higher and make place for something of later design. The

HEAVY DRAPERY

begins to look too wintry and you are, perhaps, considering how much

will cost, Or it may
