E. P. JONES, Pvt 1 S. C., U. S. A.

INTERNATIONAL LAW FOR AUTHORS.

Senator Beck Declares the Copyright Bill Protection Gone Mad,

And Draws a Terrible Picture of Its Probable Effect.

Distinguished Names Which Will Help Along the Sorrento Boom.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—After preliminary business in the Senate today, the international copyright bill was taken up. The amendment offered by Senator Morrill, as to re-publications of magazine and newspaper articles, was withdrawn by his authority and another amendment offered for him by Senator Chace, who said he would accept it as a matter of compromise. It was that any publisher of a newspaper or magazine may import for his own use, but not for sale, not more than two copies of a newspaper or magazine published in a foreign country. The amendment was adopted.

Senator Beck spoke against the bill as one which proposed to give an absolute monopoly to a few favored individuals in the United States in a combination with foreign authors It was protection gone mad. It was a bill for trusts, pools, combinations and exclusive rights to certain men. If the bill became a law the American people would no longer have the benefit of cheap books. The union of publishers and the union of printers would force publication at such prices as they saw fit to ask. He was opposed to the establishing of a monopoly under the guise of promoting science and the useful arts. It was the worst job he ever saw. No tariff protectionist would ever have dared to deprive the American people of their right to purchase books cheaply. The object of the bill was to build up a monopoly, and give to the publishers of the four great publishing cities—New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago—the exclusive power to publish foreign books and exact any price they saw fit.

Senator Call said he was not prepared to vote for that feature of the bill which created a monopoly of thought, and which attached a condition to it requiring books to be published from type set up in this country.

Senator Chace said the bill simply extended the provisions of existing law to foreign authors, and gave no privilege to them not enjoyed already under the existing law by American authors.

Senator Jones of Arkansas moved to strike out all of Section 2, requiring as part of the conditions of the copyright that printed copies of books and works of art be sent to the Congressional Library, the books to be printed from type set within the United States.

This amendment gave rise to a discussion participated in by Senators Jones, Chace, Kenna, Call and Gray. Senator Chace opposed the amendment as tending to emasculate the bill, destroy its unity, and throw it out of the conference with the House. The motion to strike out the amendment was, yeas 14, nays 18, no quorum voting. The Senate then adjourned.

Sorrento's Opportunity.

The new resort, Sorrento, on the shore of Maine, opposite Bar Harbor, is liable to become the summer headquarters of a considerable portion of what is known as "the administration." During the past week Secretary Whitney has purchased one of the most charmingly picturesque places on the shore of Sorrento, known as Oak Point, a peninsula jutting into the waters of Frenchman's Bay. This is one of the finest places at this new summer resort. There is a beautiful grove of Oak, maple and fir balsam trees covering the estate purchased by Mr. Whitney, in the midst of which he intends to construct a handsome summer residence. Another equally important acquisition to Sorrento is the President's esteemed private secretary Col. Daniel Lamont, who has purchased a summer residence belonging to Col. Lewis, the president of the company owning the whole territory in the neighborhood of Sorrento. The property which he has purchased is known as the Frank H. Smith cottage, and it is somewhat noted as containing a unique fire-place built of rough boulders from the ledges and shores.

Col. Lamont's family, consisting of his wife and two children, will spend the summer at Sorrento; and the Colonel will, of course, be there part of the time. The President himself has been much interested in hearing about the attractions of this locality which have been made known to him by Hon. Frank Jones and Col. Lewis, and in view of the fine fishing and game preserves that the company owns in the same county, it is quite probable that he will make a trip there this summer.

Senator Frye's Glasses.

Senator Frye of Maine has bought his first pair of spectacles. He is 57 years of age, but has never felt the need of glasses till now. For some weeks his eyes have been troubling him, and he finally went to an oculist, who told him that the only difficulty was age and neglect to use the precautions that all should adopt. Senator Frye, although the grandfather of nine stout, healthy children, is among the youngest looking men in the Senate, and from the galleries does not appear to be more than thirty or thirty-five years of age.

Notes.

It is estimated at the Treasury Department that there has been a decrease of $3,630,000 in the public debt during the month of April.

The President has vetoed the Senate bill granting a pension to William S. Oakman, on the ground that the petitioner was injured by being thrown from his horse while intoxicated and on detached service. He has also vetoed the bill granting a pension to Mary Sullivan.

RIVERS BREAK THEIR BONDS

And Cause Alarm in Many New England Towns.

BIDDEFORD, April 30.—The Saco river has risen rapidly within twenty-four hours. There is a large body of snow in the back towns and if the rain, which began tonight continues, it will cause a freshet even greater than last spring. Several saw mills along the river have been obliged to shut down on account of high water. Extra crews of river drivers are at work securing the booms and keeping the logs from drifting on to the intervales.

Washed Away.

MECHANIC FALLS, April 30.—A dam of the Harper Manufacturing Company on the Little Androscoggin at Welchville, Oxford county, went out this morning. The water in the river is rising to a dangerous pitch. Some of the roads are completely submerged.

Damage in New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., April 30.—The Merrimac river has been rising steadily at Concord since early yesterday morning. The lowlands and many roads are inundated, which interferes with travel from towns lying east of the city. The freshet is greater than that of 1884. The water is rising at the rate of one and a half inches an hour, and although little damage as yet has been reported in Concord much is liable to happen unless the water recedes.

The new pulp mill dam and pen stock, erected last season by James H. Hubbard at an expense of $10,000 at Croydon, was entirely swept out by high water last night, carrying with it an excelsior shop and dam below and 200 cords of poplar pulp wood; also a blacksmith shop and other buildings and the bridge on a branch of the Sugar river at Croydon flats. The damage cannot be less than $20,000 and everything is a total loss to the owers.

A dispatch from Lebanon states that the water in the Mascoma river is higher than since the great freshet of 1869. There is much danger to the railroad bridge and cars loaded with sand have been put upon it to weigh it down.

Trouble in Vermont.

WINDSOR, VT., April 30.—The Connecticut is up 12 feet, and the road near Senator Evarts' farmhouse is three feet under water. The meadows on both sides of the river are flooded, and the water is rising an inch an hour.

BENNINGTON, April 30.—An immense body of snow in the forests on the western slope of the Green mountain range is rapidly melting and pouring into the valleys in freshets and flooding the flat farming land along the river banks, two to three feet deep. Many people have been obliged to desert their houses and seek refuge on the higher lands. The water has swept away two substantial railroad bridges and torn up and undermined the railroads and highways. There are three feet of snow in the woods.

HARTFORD, April 30.—Since Saturday night, the Connecticut and White rivers have risen six feet. At 4 a. m. they reached the highest paint since the great freshet of 1869, but have fallen 18 inches in the last 4 hours. The Central Vermont Railroad embankment, a short distance in South Sharon, is washed out considerably.

CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER.

A Native of Maine Selected to Succeed Judge Waite.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The President has nominated Melville W. Fuller of Illinois, to be Chief Justice of the United States.

Mr. Townshend of Illinois, a warm friend, who urged the appointment of Mr. Fuller as Chief Justice, says that Fuller is one of the ablest lawyors and most accomplished gentleman in the United States. His private and public life are free from any stain whatever.

Judge Cooley, chairman of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, said the appointment was most excellent. He telegraphed Mr. Fuller his congratulations.

Melville W. Fuller.

CHICAGO, April 30.—The nomination of Melville W. Fuller of Chicago, as Chief Justice of the United States is regarded here with unbounded satisfaction by the leading men of both parties. Mr. Fuller was born in Augusta, Me., in 1833. He was a son of Frederick A. Fuller and Catherine, daughter of Hon. Nathan Weston. He fitted for college in Augusta, and graduated at Bowdoin in the class of 1853, his classmate being E. J. Phelps, Minister to England. Fuller, after leaving college, began the study of law, and began practice in Augusta in 1856. He practiced in Augusta with B. A. G. Fuller, with whom he published and edited "The Age." In 1856, he was president of the common council and city solicitor. He removed the same year to Chicago.

For thirty years he has enjoyed a lucrative practice in Chicago, and has won distinction among the foremost at this bar. In 1861 he was elected a member of the State Constitutional Convention. In 1862 he was chosen to the Legislature, and although a Democrat running in a town where the strong Republican majority was wiped out. The vote on the amendment was, yeas 14, nays 18, no quorum voting. The Senate then adjourned.

TRUSTS REPRESENTED BY DEMOCRATS.

Mr. Cannon's Embarrassing Question to a Free Trade Orator.

The Remarkable Change of Policy in Democratic Ranks.

Raw Material as Viewed By Mr. Gallinger of New Hampshire.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, took the floor when the House went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill today. He denounced the Democratic party for changing front on the internal revenue question. He said the party had been denouncing the system for 30 years, had opposed all the government's efforts to enforce the law, and had educated the Southern people in the belief that the system was tyrannic, and that to defeat, and mutilate and destroy it by fraud, violence, bloodshed and murder was but a question of the God given right of rebellion against the tyrannous action of a tyrannous government. Now, at the dictation of the President, the party ordered that the most sacred monument of taxation in the country was now, and must be in the future, the internal revenue system. Republicans were not in favor of free whiskey and free tobacco, as charged, but favored the abolition of national taxes on whiskey and tobacco, and the turning over of those articles to the States for State taxation and regulation. Reviewing the history of the Morrill tariff, Mr. Grosvenor showed that it was not a war measure, as charged, but was passed in 1860, before the war, and was signed by President Buchanan and Vice President Breckenridge. The surplus was the cause of no honest anxiety. If the government paid its just debts there would be no surplus. In concluding, Mr. Grosvenor insisted that under the administration of Republicans the country had grown in wealth and prosperity in ratio never witnessed in this or any other country, while under the Democrats it had stood still or retrograded.

Mr. Rayner of Maryland, said the contest was between protected monopoly and capital and the unprotected people and tax-payers. He criticised severely the trusts of the country, especially the Standard Oil, which he pronounced composed of fraud, corruption and oppression.

Mr. Cannon of Illinois, asked Mr. Rayner if he did not know that the President appointed one of the principal representatives of the Standard Oil Company Secretary of the Navy, another representative being the Democratic Senator from Ohio.

Mr. Rayner replied that the fact of a man's being the son-in-law of somebody connected with a trust did not mix him up with the fraud.

Mr. Henderson of Iowa, opposed the bill as crippling where it should support and fearing to cripple it should build up.

Mr. Gallinger, of New Hampshire, opposing the bill, said the pending struggle was between England and America. He characterized the bill as a wicked assault upon the industries of New England. It should be entitled "a bill to reduce New England to the position of a dependency of Great Britain." New England preferred a protective to a destructive policy. So, he said, would the South when it came to know the benefits of protection. He knew of no raw material except Democratic statesmen. The surplus was large, not because of tariff laws, but because of the niggardliness of the Democratic party. The Republican party desired the House to pass a general pension bill, to provide for fortifications, armament and for the extending and encouragement of the American merchant marine, but the Democratic party shouts, no, with an unanimous voice. Mr. Gallinger concluded the committee rose and the House adjourned.

Mr. Fuller's Family.

[Special to the Press.]

AUGUSTA, April 30.—Melville Weston Fuller, upon whom the President has conferred the highest judiciary office in the land, was born in Augusta, Maine, in 1833. The house which was his birthplace is still standing on Elm street, and is an unpretentious two story brick structure with ell and stable attached. He came of a legal family on both sides. His father, Frederick A. Fuller, Esq., was a lawyer and the son of Judge Henry W. Fuller, who was judge of probate in Kennebec county for many years and dropped dead in the streets of Boston in January, 1841.

His mother was Catherine Weston, daughter of Judge Nathan Weston, who for 30 years was chief justice of Maine, being one of the most eminent jurists ever in the service of the people, and possessing a powerful and discerning legal mind. Young Fuller gained his preliminary education in the common schools of Augusta.

Mr. Fuller has many friends and relatives here, among the latter being ex-Governor Williams and the latter's son-in-law Conery, own cousins, and the appointment is generally gratifying to citizens here of both political parties.

Buried At Brunswick.

[Special to the Press.]

BRUNSWICK, April 30.—The body of the late Benson Sewell, who was drown last December while shating on the Penobscot near Hampden, was recovered last Saturday very near the place where he broke through the ice. The body had lain on the river bottom during the winter, and after the ice left rose to the surface, and when found was in a good state of preservation, the features being but little changed. The remains were brought to Brunswick today for burial. Mr. Sewell was a graduate of Bowdoin College of the class of '83 and a member of the graduating class of Bangor Theological Seminary. He was a young man of marked ability and of high promise, and his untimely death is mourned by a large circle of friends.

Foreign Notes.

The affray Saturday night between Boulangists and students was not in Paris, but at Toulouse. The conflict was resumed Sunday night, but was suppressed by the police without serious results. On April 26, the Mexican Home Guards overtook a large party of Yaqua rebels, killing seven and capturing 14 prisoners, mostly women and children, and lots of guns and ammunition.

A desperate conflict took place yesterday at a mosque, near Alexandria. BASE BALL.

New England League.

LOWELLS, 10; PORTLANDS, 2.

An Associated Press despatch from Lowell says: "The champions defeated the Portlands today easily by heavy batting, Mitchell proving no puzzler. Shinnick and Burns led at the bat, the former making a hit every time and the first home run. Burns lined out two long drives for home runs and Shinnick, Cudworth and Campion ran bases finely. The features of the game was the fine battery work of Burns and Murphy, the former striking out ten men, with but four hits off him and one scratch hit. Toffling made a brilliant catch of a fly in short left field after a long run. Myers split his hand, in the 6th inning and was replaced by McAuliffe. Marston fined Koons $10 for back talk. The attendance was 1500. The following is the score:"

THE PRESS.

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 1.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

STATE OF MAINE.

A Proclamation by the Governor.

The Sixty-third Legislature of Maine passed the following act, approved March 10, 1887:

"That the Governor shall annually set apart a day in the spring as Arbor Day, and shall issue a proclamation recommending that it shall be observed by the people of this State in the planting of trees, shrubs and vines, in the adornment of public and private grounds, places and ways, and in such other efforts and undertakings as shall be in harmony with the general character of a day so established."

In obedience to the foregoing, believing in its wisdom, and that it has been fully approved by the public sentiment, I, Sebastian S. Marble, Governor of Maine, do hereby designate to be observed as Arbor Day.

Experience has demonstrated that good results follow tree planting wherever practiced, and I do earnestly invite the people of Maine to prepare, and devote that day to the purposes in said act.

Given at the Council Chamber at Augusta this ninth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight, and of the independence of the United States of American, the one hundred and twelfth. SEBASTIAN S. MARBLE.

By the Governor,
ORAMANDAL SMITH, Secretary of State.

Republican District Convention.

The Republicans of the First Congressional District will hold a Convention in

Reception Hall, Portland, May 2, 1888,

at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for Representative in Congress, and Elector of President and Vice President of the United States, and selecting two delegates and two alternates to attend the National Convention to be held at Chicago, on Tuesday, June 19, 1888; and transacting any other business that may properly come before them.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for each 75 votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1884, an additional delegate; and for a fraction of forty votes in excess of seventy-five votes, an additional delegate.

The District Committee will be in session at the Hall at one o'clock on the afternoon of the Convention for the purpose of receiving the credentials of Delegates.

Per order Republican District Committee,
ANDREW HAWES, Chairman,
SAMUEL W. JUNKINS, Sec'y.

Portland, March 26, 1888.

The German Emperor may be more comfortable, but this is probably a temporary condition. It is evident that he has failed greatly since his assumption of the throne.

The students of Paris seem to be in these days playing a role similar to that played by the students of the English universities hundreds of years ago in the tumultuous days when there was a saying that ran about like this:

When Oxford draws the knife,
All England's soon in strife.

The people of Maine would have preferred the appointment of the Hon. William L. Putnam to succeed the late Chief Justice Waite. The selection of Mr. Melville W. Fuller, appears, however, to be a fairly good one. Maine can rightly claim him as one of her sons, for he was born in Augusta and began the practice of the law in this State.

The problem of prison labor is vexing the souls of the Massachusetts legislators again. The other day the House passed a resolve to set up a printing office at the penitentiary in Boston. The printers are now up in arms about it, and have induced the Senate to postpone its consideration and give them a hearing.

Gov. Hill will probably stick by his friends the rumsellers, and veto the High License bill. His standing in the eyes of the decent wing of his party has been so thoroughly settled by the aqueduct investigation that the signing of the bill would help him but little with that class, while it would alienate his only remaining supporters, the saloon men.

Gen. Boulanger's star seems to have reached its zenith and to be beginning to decline. His friends have been badly defeated in the Vosges department, half the deputies have refused to dine with him, and he has shown a disinclination to accept the challenge of one of the deputies, who offers to resign his seat and run against him on condition that he shall openly make known his views to the electors, that will tend to shake the confidence of his admirers both in his statesmanship and his courage.

Bishop Taylor, of the Methodist church, whose diocese is all Africa, preached last Sunday in New York on the difficulties of missionary work in the Congo region. The two great difficulties seem to be the ignorance of the natives and the ignorance of the missionaries. A missionary landed in the Congo country a year ago with a big tent, expecting to introduce the camp-meeting feature among the Africans. The latter were moved by great astonishment, and by nothing more. Indeed the difficulties of language are so great that Bishop Taylor's band have found it thus far impossible to convey to the natives any conception of an abstract subject like religion. They have therefore devoted themselves to the more practical work of teaching the natives to wear clothes, the use of clothing being little better understood than the nature of religion.

A convention of farmers will meet in St. Louis to-day for the purpose of forming an association or trust by means of which they hope to force up the prices of the products which they have to sell. The meeting is the outgrowth of a recent conference of agriculturists in Topeka, Kansas. It was decided at that conference to issue a call to all farmers and stockmen of the States west of the Alleghanies and east of the Rocky Mountains to meet in St. Louis May 1st. The men who are at the head of the project, however, are apparently confident of success. An elaborate programme has been marked out, and the whole scheme of operations carefully considered. Whether it will be possible for the farmers to devise any means of making the prices of their produce higher is a question on which most observers will give a negative opinion. That they have an excuse for forming such a combination if any class of people have an excuse for such methods everyone will agree. About once every year the western farmer sees some of his products, pork or wheat for example, "cornered" by a ring of speculators who force the prices up for their own profit. Agricultural produce becomes high, but the farmer has none of the advantage of it. He now thinks that he and not the speculator should have the advantage of the high prices. In a more limited field the farmers of Aroostook county, in this State, have successfully resisted the league of potato buyers by simply organizing and acting as their own agents. Perhaps the western farmers may be able to make successful a similar organization on a grander scale.

The Dynamite Cruiser.

The dynamite cruiser launched at Philadelphia, Saturday, is another American contribution to the art of naval warfare, which may be of as far reaching importance as was the little Monitor, that by its performances at Hampton Roads gave the death-blow to the old line of battle-ships of wood. Both the ship and her guns are untried experiments; but both are built upon such novel plans, that, whether she promises to be a success or a failure, her trials will be watched anxiously by all nations. About 264 feet long and 26 feet wide, the cruiser is designed to have the great speed of 20 knots an hour. She has no spars or sails, and the only projections above the deck are a conning tower, built of steel, and a small superstructure aft. She will be a dark and mysterious looking craft, and will steal upon an enemy with a terrible swiftness. The dynamite guns are three in number, placed side by side, at an inclination of 16 degrees, projecting a few feet above the deck, near the bow, and extending down nearly to the keel. The lower part of the guns and the crew engaged in loading them are protected by a light water-tight protection deck. The guns are fixed in position—built into the ship, and will be pointed by the helm, the steam-steering engine, and the two screws furnishing the power for quick turning. Each gun is capable of throwing shells containing each 600 pounds of explosive gelatine and dynamite at the rate of two a minute. The range may be varied at will between two hundred yards and a mile. It will be a terrible thing for the sailors of even the stoutest iron-clad afloat to see a low-lying cruiser, capable of throwing out 2,400 pounds of dynamite a minute at a range of a mile, approaching at the speed of twenty knots an hour. To the moderns the dynamite cruiser, may be what the boats carrying Greek fire were to the mediæval sailors.

Concerning Rebukes.

An innocent little paragraph in which the PRESS defended the Hon. E. C. Burleigh from the charge of being a sectional candidate is made the occasion of a more or less severe rebuke by our esteemed contemporary the Bangor Whig. It is described as a "petty attack" and as in bad taste. As the Whig's rebuke seems to be administered in sorrow rather than in anger it naturally awakens in the PRESS a spirit of contrition. We hasten therefore to assure our esteemed contemporary that we are profoundly sorry that we have said anything that could give it pain. Its sensitiveness, however, surprises us. It was only a week ago that the Whig published an editorial in the interest of Mr. Burleigh which contained practically the same statements in regard to him that the PRESS is now rebuked for publishing. "Mr. Burleigh," said the Whig, "is not a sectional candidate * * * While officially located in Augusta in the performance of his duties as State Treasurer, Mr. Burleigh holds a residence in this city and represents one of the most sturdy and influential families in Aroostook." This is precisely the same defence against the charge of being a sectional candidate that the PRESS made for him. It pointed out, as did the Whig, that Mr. Burleigh lived in Augusta, that he owned a house in Bangor and that his ancestors lived in Aroostook. When the Whig paraded these facts it did not, we presume, consider that it was making a "petty attack" on Mr. Burleigh or that it was violating good taste. Why then should the soul of our esteemed contemporary be so deeply grieved when the PRESS brings them out in a modest little paragraph of half a dozen lines? The Whig is altogether too sensitive—sometimes.

And now having displayed, we trust, a proper amount of contrition, we hope the Whig will pardon us if we administer to it a little rebuke. It was with mingled feelings of pain and astonishment that we discovered in its editorial columns a few days ago a political paragraph copied with approval from that ancient enemy of the Republican party of Maine, the Eastern Argus. That paragraph too had relation to one of the candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination—indeed it was designed to help the canvass of the Whig's own candidate, the Hon. E. C. Burleigh, and that was the object of the Whig in transferring it to its columns. For some years past the Whig has taught its contemporaries that to parade the opinion of a Democratic paper, or of a person employed on a Democratic paper, to assist a Republican was little short of treason, and it has been wont to contend that a favorable opinion from such a source was certain to hurt a candidate and what is more, that it ought to hurt him. Therefore, as we before remarked, we were both astonished and pained, when we saw this paragraph from the Eastern Argus, in the editorial column of the Bangor Whig. We hope that the Whig can offer a satisfactory explanation. We hope it may turn out that the paragraph was smuggled in by some wicked subordinate of Democratic proclivities after the editor had retired. If there be any sufficient explanation surely the Whig owes it both to its candidate whom the paragraph must unfavorably affect as well as to its Republican contemporaries, to make it known forthwith.

CURRENT COMMENT.

HARRISON IN THE WEST.
[St. Louis Globe Democrat.]

Harrison will evidently have the votes of most of the Indiana delegation at the convention on the first ballot. Ohio, however, voted for Sherman for several ballots in 1880, but another Ohio man got the nomination for all that. There will be thirty-seven other States besides Indiana in the convention, and, outside Indiana, Gresham is much stronger than Harrison.

THE PORTLAND & OGDENSBURG RAILROAD.
[Portland Advertiser.]

The city of Portland has an interest in the Portland & Ogdensburg Railway, amounting now, principal and interest, to nearly $2,500,000. From this stock there is no income, and no prospect of any so long as the line is isolated. A powerful corporation could do something with the property, but so long as it remains in its present condition it will be unprofitable and worse; for it will constantly depreciate. The Maine Central offers an annual rental of about $25,000 for the first three years, and $50,000 afterward. That is much better than nothing. Can we do better?

THE PISCATAQUIS OBSERVER NOT FOR BURLEIGH.
[Piscataquis Observer.]

Early in the campaign the Observer contained an article favorable to the nomination of Mr. Burleigh for governor. Since that time the paper has changed ownership, and has announced that hereafter it will be the organ of nobody, and will advocate only what seems to be for the interest of the people of the whole county. Certain newspapers, however, still continue to print extracts from the first Observer article, and claim it as a Burleigh paper. Nothing could be more unfair or further from the truth. While the Observer is not a Burleigh paper, it recognizes the right of every voter to express his own preferences in his own way. And so long as each candidate has many friends among the Republicans of this county, we do not believe it is fair or judicious for this paper to undertake to exert its influence for either candidate. We desire to be understood in this matter, and if we are hereafter misrepresented it will not be our fault.

HOW TO PROCURE NATURAL SLEEP.

SLEEPLESSNESS, with restless and wakeful nights, followed by a weak, tired and exhausted feeling on arising in the morning, are sure forerunners of physical prostration and complete nervous exhaustion, ending in insanity. Thousands allow themselves to drift toward the awful verge of insanity, without knowing that the feelings and sensations which they experience day by day are fast hurrying them on to utter mental collapse and absolute prostration of nerve power. Save yourself from these terriable results while there is yet time by the use of that wonderful nerve restorer, Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic, which is a purely vegetable remedy and perfectly harmless. It may be given to children or the most delicate invalid without fear. It soothes, calms and quiets the weakened, irritated and over-excited nerves, producing perfect repose and refreshing natural sleep; at the same time it imparts renewed life, strength, vitality and vigor to the nervous system and restores the physical energies and powers to perfect health and strength.

I have been troubled for the past ten years with what the doctors call nervous debility and disturbed sleep or wakefulness at night. I took Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic, and the results are most gratifying. I am sleeping as quietly as an infant and feel that I have a new lease of life. For nervousness and sleeplessness I never found anything like it.

WIT AND WISDOM.

Old gentleman (getting his boots blacked on Sunday morning)—Boy, do you know what the good book says, "Remember the Sabbath day?"

Bootblack—Yes, sir. I allers remembers it.

Old gentleman—Then you go to Sabbath school, do you?

Bootblack—No, sir; I don't go to Sunday school, but on Sunday I charges 10 cents for a shine.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Patron (to restaurant waiter)—Got any Brie cheese?

Waiter (astonished)—Only the pair I've got on, sir.

AMERICA again takes the lead. "We could hardly believe our good luck when we ventured to ask for Burnett's Extract of Vanilla in Paris to have it handed us; it was like meeting an old friend."

"In court," said the card on the lawyer's door; "Back in ten minutes," on many more; "Gone to the hospital," on the doctor's slate; On another, "Sit down and wait;" "Gone to the bank," on the notary's sign; "Arbitration," the tailor's door bore of mine; "Back soon," on the broker's book; "Collecting rents" on my agent's book. They were all too busy to attend to me, very sorry was I I had nothing to do; Then I hied me hence to the base-ball ground, And every man on the grand stand found.

All cases of weak or lame back, backache, rheumatism, will find relief by wearing one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters. Price 25 cents. Try them.

"I had no idea that Meissonier was such an old man."

"Why?"

"Why this is marked 'Friedland, 1807;' that is 81 years ago, and no small boy painted that!"

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. One bottle has done me so much good that I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing, pleasant and easy to apply, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

Apply balm into each nostril.

Patent medicine man—You made a nice mess of that testimonial advertisement.

Editor—How?

P. M. man—John Smith wrote: "Your 'Live Forever Pellets' are doing me a great deal of good. Send another box;" and I told you to give it a prominent place.

Editor—I did—immediately preceding the death notices.

P. M. Man—Yes, and the first death notice on the list was that of John Smith!

If you are nervous or dyspeptic try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Dyspepsia makes you nervous, and nervousness makes you dyspeptic; either one renders you miserable, and these little pills cure both.

Editor—Your style is unique, to say the least, Mr. Scribbley; I've never seen anything like it from Howells to Shakespeare.

Scribbley—Yes, sir, I flatter myself—but you know Shakespeare never had the advantage of a college education.

Advice to Mothers.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub, awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

HOW MEN DIE.

If we know all the methods of approach adopted by an enemy we are the better enabled to ward off the danger and postpone the moment when surrender becomes inevitable. In many instances the inherent strength of the body suffices to enable it to oppose the tendency toward death. Many however, have lost these forces to such an extent that there is little or no help. In other cases, a little aid to the weakened Lungs will make all the difference between sudden death and many years of useful life. Upon the first symptoms of a Cough, Cold, or any trouble of the Throat or Lungs, give that old and well known remedy—Boschee's German Syrup, a careful trial. It will prove, what thousands say of it, to be the "benefactor of any home." nov1-d1yeT

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE WEBB.

MONDAY—United States by indictment vs. Judiah Morrison, for cutting trees belonging to the United States at Cow Island. Verdict, not guilty. Bird, District Attorney; George H. Townshend.

HANCOCK COUNTY S. J. COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE HASKELL.

Ellsworth, April 28.

In the case of John P. Gordon vs. Franklin Land, Mill and Water Company, the jury this morning rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $269.94.

Eliza A. Welch vs. Franklin Land, Mill and Water Co.

Francis B. Patten vs. Same.

Both cases tried together. The defendant is the same as in the case last tried, and the claims of upon arose from the same disaster, namely, the breaking away of the defendant's dam on Franklin stream on May 2, 1887. Plaintiffs cultivated cranberries upon meadows below the defendant company's dam, and claimed that their cranberry fields were ruined by being flooded and covered with sawdust and debris by the breaking away of the dam.

The question of the liability of the company for maintaining an insecure dam having been settled by the jury in the Gordon case, the result was accepted by the parties as decisive of that issue in the these suits, and the cases were heard before the same lury, the testimony of the plaintiffs being limited to the cause of the injury and extent of the damages.

Defendant denied the title of the plaintiffs to the premises where the damages occurred, claimed that the flooding and covering of the meadows was due to the extreme high tide at that time which backed the sawdust and debris over them, and alleged that the damages sought were excessive.

Ad damnum in the first case $1000, and in the second $2000. Evidence closed.

Wiswell, King & Peters. Charles H. Bartlett.

Frank Hamlin, Henry Boynton, George R. Fuller, Bradford E. Tripp, and Arthur M. Foss were today admitted to practice in the courts of this State.

SUPERIOR COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE BONNEY.

MONDAY—Carrie L. Whittier vs. Maurice West. This is an action to recover damages for personal injuries sustained by the plaintiff by the negligence of the defendant in driving his horse against and upon the plaintiff.

On Sunday, the twelfth of September, 1886, the plaintiff, on her way to Sabbath School, when nearly opposite Plymouth church on Congress street, crossed the street to speak to a friend. She then started to re-cross, got a few steps from the curbstone, turned her head to speak again to her friend, pausing as she did so with her back toward High street, when she was hurled down by a horse driven up street by the defendant, her clothes torn, and her leg below the knee lacerated in once place and receiving other slight bruises. The defendant took her in a carriage to her home where she was confined to her bed by the injuries and nervous shock for two weeks. She claims that she suffered by the shock for months and in fact now has not entirely recovered. She asks in her writ for two thousand dollars damages.

The defendant says he had his wife and little girl in the carriage; that they had taken the girl from Sabbath School and were on the way home with her; that he stopped his horse at the High street crossing 185 feet below the place of the accident, to allow a number of people to pass; that he then looked up the street and saw no one in the street, but did not notice who or how many were on the sidewalk. He then started his horse at a slow trot; the child made some remark which attracted the attention of himself and wife, and the next thing he knew was a cry of alarm and he saw the plaintiff upon the ground between his wagon wheels. He immediately stopped his horse, helped her up and offered to carry her home; she refused saying she was not hurt and would be all right as soon as she got over her fright. He, however, did take her home in his carriage. The defendant claims that the plaintiff in crossing the street at a point where there is no crosswalk without looking down the street, and proaching teams was herself guilty of contributing negligence and therefore cannot recover.

The plaintiff claims that she was free from guilty of contributory negligence; that the negligence of the plaintiff was the sole cause of the injury, and without his fault the accident would not have occurred. The case was tried before the judge without a jury and the decision will be rendered next term.

Byron D. Verrill for plaintiff.
H. C. Peabody for defendant.

Court adjourned sine die.

The May criminal term opens this, Tuesday, morning.

FIRE IN DEERING.

The Tripe Factory of Charles W. Belknap & Son Burned Last Night.

Last night at about 10 o'clock the western sky was illumined by the light of a large fire that seemed to be in the vicinity of Woodford's Corner. Investigation proved that Charles W. Belknap & Son's bone fertilizer, formerly tripe factory, at Brighton Corner, on Stevens' Plains road near the Deering town house was burning. When the PRESS reporter arrived upon the scene the entire main building, about 50x75 feet, had fallen. The fire must have started at about half past 9 or 10 o'clock, but it burned so rapidly, owing to the quantity of grease that had accumulated on the floor and sides of the main building, that it was well under way when the first persons arrived. The flames evidently started near the boiler in the main building which contained very little of value excepting an engine and boiler and a small amount of ground bone and oyster shells. A wing of the building, which made a right angle with the main factory, was soon burning, and the bright flames rose high in the air, and the sparks still higher, making the vicinity as light as at midday. About 25 feet from the factory was a storehouse about 20x50 feet and this was soon in flames. A shed, about 80 feet long, containing eight open stalls, extended toward the street from the north end of the factory, and at midnight this was in ashes. At just 11 o'clock the roof of the storehouse, which contained the stock, fell, and three-quarters of an hour later nothing but a heap of red hot ashes remained of it. In the rear of where the store house stood is a stable at a distance of not more than sixty feet, and for a long time it looked as if it must be consumed. Several times fire caught on the roof from the falling sparks, and quite a blaze got started over the door. A few buckets of water were sufficient, however, to extinguish this flame and by so doing the building was saved. Another barn is situated not far from where the north end of the factory was, and if there had been but a light southeasterly wind this, too, would have been destroyed. A small story and a half house, unoccupied, in in which had lived a part of the help that had been employed in the factory, is situated near the street and not more than 50 feet from where once stood the horse shed. This, also, escaped the flames owing to the fact that there was very little wind. At midnight the main building and both wings and the storehouse was a smouldering heap of ruins. Nothing but the chimney remains standing.

Some twenty-five or more persons from the city went to the fire and from the neighboring houses a large number came, but the flames had gained such headway when the first arrived, that no effort was made to save any of the buildings, except the barn. All stood quietly and watched the destructive work of the flames until the last roof had fallen and all was in ruins.

The factory has been used very little of late, and as it contained things of no great value, the loss cannot be very large. Mr. Belknap stated last night that the loss was fully covered by insurance, and that in his opinion the fire was incendiary.

Washington has rather a notable new dining and talking club, known as the "Six o'clock Club." It meets and dines every Thursday at Willard's Hotel. The curious feature of it is that it has no organization. Certain people with brains have informally agreed to come together and discuss different subjects, and the last two dinners have been exceedingly interesting. At the dinner last Thursday Commissioner Webb presided, and among others present were Senator and Mrs. Manderson, Gen. Van Vliet, Mrs. Elizabeth Stanton and Mrs. Willis, widow of the late N. P. Willis.

A Washington despatch to the Boston Journal has the following concerning the launch of the new cruiser at Philadelphia, Saturday: "There was lying at anchor near the wharf at which the Secretary of the Navy and the Congressmen took the steamer to proceed to Cramp's Yard a vessel that was very interesting and an important practical object lesson to the free traders, who only last week insisted that we have not and cannot have a merchant marine. The object lesson was furnished by the beautiful ship R. D. Rice, of Thomaston, Me., Captain Jordan. The ship was a noble vessel of 2200 tons, with three spare sail yards across, bound for Hiogo, Japan, with a cargo of petroleum. She was then loading with petroleum. Mr. Dingley and Mr. Boutelle, who were of the launching party, joyfully pointed their free trade associates to the practical refutation of their theories with respect to the American merchant marine."

Reuben A. Wills.

We are pained to announce the death of Mr. Reuben A. Wills, which occurred at his late residence on Howard street yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. He was an honest, conscientious man, faithful to the interests of his employers. Mr. Wills was born in Kingsware, England, January 16th, 1855, came to this country from Liverpool, England, some sixteen years ago, and learned his trade. He worked in various cities in this State, and also, for several years in Boston. He was a member of Atlantic Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, and Ivanhoe Lodge, Knights of Pythias. MAKING OF THE PERFECT MAN.

also furnished with what is termed his condition. This is a technical term to represent a feature of the Sargent system which is very interesting. It has has been already shown that measurements are taken of both the size and the power of the muscles. It has been noticed that when in the case of healthy persons the measurements of the size of the various muscles are added the sum expressed in centimeters is expressed by numerals very nearly identical with the numerals which express the sum of the measurements of the power of the muscles expressed in kilograms. The difference between the two, i. e., between the size of the muscles and their power, between the potential strength and the actual strength, is termed the condition. If the strength is not equal to the development the condition is called minus; if the strength is greater than the development, it is termed plus. The best condition is slightly plus. Too much plus shows that the strength is more than the muscles can really afford, and that the man is working "on nerve" as the expression is; too much minus shows that the muscles are not healthy and are not furnishing the power that they should.

So the student labors not only to straighten his line on the chart, but also to give himself the slightly plus condition which is the healthy condition. Prof. Whittier gives an example illustrative of the effects of training on the condition. One student when first measured had a total strength of 375.9 kilograms, and a total development of 485.5 centimeters, giving a minus condition of 107.6. After five and a half months of training his total strength had come up to 498.7 kilograms; and his development to 496.3 centimeters, giving a healthy plus condition of 2.4.

It is the work of the instructor to give to each student the instructions necessary to suit his particular case. These instructions pertain not only to general exercise, but to diet, sleep, air, bathing and clothing. The instructor is also a physician and he prescribes for each individual case with the care that would be used by the doctor whose work is to make people well instead of to keep them well.

Of course a system is measured by its results. That the results are good in both Colby and Bowdoin there can be no doubt. This is the testimony of both Instructors Adams and Whittier. At Colby exercise in accordance with the instructor's directions is compulsory in the winter term and part of the spring term; in Bowdoin in the fall and winter terms. Instructor Whittier says that every man in the Bowdoin Frenchman class of over forty has shown improvement under the instruction. One man has brought the girth of his chest up three inches; increased the fifteen cubic inches and the strength of his lungs from 1.3 to 1.9 kilograms.

Professor Sargent, who devised the system of charting each student, has a standing offer of $500 to the American student who brings himself up to the normal straight line which on the chart represents the typical man; and a prize of $200 to the student who approaches the straight line so that all his measurements shall be within five degrees of it on the chart. Bowdoin has the man who so far stands ahead in the contest for the $200. Mr. H. C. Jackson, of the Junior Class, of Wiscasset, is only a few points outside of the five degrees, and is as may be imagined, a fine specimen physically of the college boy.

Bowdoin also has the man who has made the greatest leg lift ever made in a college. His record is 532 kilograms or 1173 pounds.

The measurements made at Colby and Bowdoin show this interesting fact: The students are above the average of the college boys of the country in the girth of their chests and waists. This is very likely because the greater part of them are farmers' sons, and used to hard work and plenty of fresh air.

Although Bowdoin and Colby are the only colleges in Maine using the Sargent system of physical culture, the system is also used largely in the Portland Turnverein, which is ably and carefully conducted by Professor Doldt.

VETERAN REPUBLICAN CLUB.

Interesting Meeting Last Night at the Club Rooms.

A meeting of the Veteran Republican Club was held last night, and in the absence of President Perry, Hon. Geo. W. Woodman was called to the chair. The records of the last meeting were read and approved, after which William G. Soule repeated by request his poem, "Why I Became a Republican." The poem was listened to with greater pleasure, if possible, than it was when first read at a previous meeting. Mr. Woodman was asked to address the Club, but he declined to speak at length, and called upon Samuel Leavitt, Esq., who said: From 1832 to 1852, I voted the Democratic ticket. Mr. Soule has told us why he is a Republican. And I think I can give some good, satisfactory reasons why I was a Democrat from 1832 to 1852. Democracy meant something in those days, but it doesn't mean anything now. I came back of 1870 in my Republicanism back to 1853. The Republican party was not organized in 1853, but the seed was sown that res ulted in the glorious harvest of Republicanism. The political struggles of 1853 and 1854 in this State, and the election of William Pitt Fessenden to the Senate were poken of in an interesting manner.

In 1855 the Republican party in the State of Maine was formally organized at Augusta. A convention was called for that purpose and Ex. Gov. Kent presided. Then came the June riot in Portland in 1855, that upset the Republican party in Maine. It killed us all off. Next came the presidential campaign of 1856. I had voted for Pierce, as I have said before, but couldn't go Buchanan. I voted for Fremont.

In the fall of 1860 we heard here in Portland that Abraham Lincoln was up in New Hampshire making speeches. The chairman of the Republican City Committee came to me and told me I must go up in New Hampshire, somewhere, he didn't know where, and get Mr. Lincoln to come down to Portland and make a speech. I went, and, on my way began to inquire where Mr. Lincoln was. As the train came into New Market Junction I saw Mr. Lincoln on the platform, and I jumped out, took him by the hand, introduced myself and told him that we wanted him to go down to Portland and make a speech. He said he had no time to speak about the matter then, but if I would get on the train and go over to Exeter where his son was attending school, he would talk with me. I went to Exeter and dined with Mr. Lincoln and his son who was attending Exeter Academy. Mr. Lincoln told me that he would speak to us in the coming campaign.

Mr. Lincoln was nominated as president, as you all know, and after his nomination he never made any speeches. This accounts for Mr. Lincoln's not coming to Portland to make a speech as he told me he would."

After the reading of Thomas Wiley the meeting adjourned, having extended a vote of thanks to the speakers.

WHY BAKING POWDERS ARE BEST.

(From Hall's Journal of Health.)

Baking powders properly compounded and containing pure cream of tartar, are more convenient than yeast; and bread and pastry made with them are just as wholesome and far more palatable.

We are in entire sympathy with the manufacturers of the Royal Baking Powder—who commenced and are vigorously conducting the war against the use of adulterated baking powders.

Before committing ourselves, however, we made tests of a sufficient number of baking powders to satisfy ourselves that the substitution of alum for cream of tartar in their composition has not been over-estimated, while a careful examination of the Royal Baking Powder confirms our belief that Dr. Mott, the Government Chemist, when he singled out and commended this powder for its wholesomeness, did it wholly in the interests of the public.

We do not hesitate to say that the Royal Baking Powder people deserve the gratitude of the community whom they are endeavoring to protect.

Health and Strength

If you feel tired, weak, worn out, or run down from hard work, by impoverished condition of the blood or low state of the system, you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The peculiar toning, purifying, and vitalizing qualities of this successful medicine are soon felt throughout the entire system, expelling disease, and giving quick, healthy action to every organ. It tones the stomach, creates an appetite, and rouses the liver and kidneys. Thousands who have taken it with benefit, testify that Hood's Sarsaparilla "makes the weak strong."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, for my health, and I think it is one of the medicines for giving an appetite, purifying the blood, and regulating the digestive organs, that I ever heard of. It did me a great deal of good." MRS. N. A. STANLEY, Canastota, N. Y.

"I had salt rheum on my left arm three years suffering terribly. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the salt rheum has entirely disappeared." H. M. MILLS, 71 French St., Lowell, Mass.

Makes the Weak Strong

"Feeling languid and dizzy, having no appetite and no ambition to work, I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, with the best results. As a health invigorator and for general debility I think it is superior to any thing else." A. A. RIKER, Utica, N. Y.

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla for loss of appetite, dyspepsia, and general languor. It did me a vast amount of good." J. W. WILLEFORD, Quincy, Ill.
