Attempted Suicide.

Robert Brettun, a Waltham watch factory employe, was called to Nantasket Friday by a dispatch which announced that Miss Rose Coates had attempted suicide by poison. He responded and took her to the Massachusetts General Hospital. Sickness and melancholy are the causes, it is thought, of her attempted suicide. She is 24 years old, has a sister in Waltham, and parents in Cushing, Me.

Correction.

In the communication from Saccarappa concerning the sermon of the Rev. Mr. Pendexter, published in yesterday's PRESS, this sentence occurred: "Would he [Mr. Pendexter] swear in his pulpit at a reputable citizen because he attends some church other than his?" The word in the communication was sneer, but the compositor changed it to swear.

THE STATE FAIR.

Promise of a Big Show at Lewiston This Week.

LEWISTON, Sept. 10.—Tomorrow is the opening day of the State Fair and the indications are that the exhibition will be a big one. A large number of the fastest horses in Maine are already on the ground and some of the best cattle in the State.

Trustee George E. Brackett, whose departments are Park Hall and Agricultural Hall, has had his force organized and at work for two days and the hall exhibits, especially the heavy machinery and goods, are already in position. His department is a busy rushing place today and almost chaos seems to reign in the big building from which order will be evolved in season for the opening of the Fair tomorrow.

The following are his corps of assistants: Assistant Superintendent J. W. Knowlton in main hall, C. W. Foss in implement building under the grand stand; Frank A. Wright and Charles M. Craig, clerks; Clarence Rand and Marston West, engineer and fireman; S. B. Skillings, elevator; E. E. Hatch, gate tender; E. A. Brackett, watchman.

Trustee Alonzo Libby, of Saccarappa, has brought along some splendid colts and Jerseys.

Just a few of the celebrated Maine stallions which were on the grounds Monday forenoon, and will remain at the fair during the week are Nelson, All-So, Dictator Chief, Red Hawk, Lawrence, Glenarm, Lamont, Tleonic, Broadway, Redwood and others.

The fastest trotters in Maine are here. So are the best knights of the ribbon in the State. The great Hereford herds of Hall C. Burleigh, of Vassalboro, and Mr. Bailey, of Winthrop, are on the fair grounds loaded with premium ribbons from the New England show.

MAINE.

Tried to Burn Their Way Out.

BELFAST, Sept. 10.—This afternoon the Waldo county jail was set on fire in the attic by two prisoners, with a view to escape. Damage: a few hundred dollars.

A Maine Vessel's Adventures.

BUCKSPORT, Sept. 10.—Schooner Carrie A. Buckman arrived at Bucksport Saturday, deeply laden and in fine condition. She has had a queer experience the past year. About twelve months ago when off the Florida coast she became disabled in a heavy gale and a heavy sea, and was abandoned by the crew and officers. For a while she drifted at the mercy of the elements, being at last picked up by an ocean voyager, and towed into a Florida port and sold. Capt. M. Graves, of Bucksport, bought her, and at his home made masts, rigging and sails, which he afterwards shipped out South. The vessel was refitted, and comes home looking as good as new.

CANADIAN TALK.

What our Dominion Neighbors are Told of Retaliation.

TORONTO, Sept. 10.—Referring to the passage by Congress of the retaliation bill, the Globe says. "The whole business is disgraceful to Congress. Canadians must just possess their souls in patience, hope for the best and influence Ottawa as much as possible to do whatever may honorably be done to avert the threatened evil. It is not improbable that the politicians of the republic may be brought up with a round turn by the decent element of the American people."

1840 BEATEN OUT OF SIGHT

How Yesterday Was an Old Fashioned Tippecanoe Day.

The Fishery Treaty Was Swept Away By the Tide,

And the British Flag Flies at Half Mast at Halifax.

For the Fishermen All Went Halifax-Bent,

And Grover Was Knocked Off the Quarter Deck.

But the First District is the Place for You,

For It Gives Thomas B. Reed 2700 Plurality.

Maine Gives a Tremendous Verdict for Protection,

And the PRESS Has Sent the News to Cleveland.

Hon. E. C. Burleigh Comes Through With Flying Colors,

And All the Maine Congressmen are Happy.

It is the grandest victory that has been won by the Republicans of the State of Maine since the war. It has been won, too, in the face of the best organized and most active opposition that the Republicans have met in many years. The candidate who headed the Democratic ticket was a gentleman whose personal character is above reproach and whose ability is recognized and admired throughout the State. He made an active personal canvass throughout the State, and enjoyed the active and enthusiastic support of all the prominent men of the party. He was, too, closely identified with the national administration, and received from it all the aid that it could give and that was a good deal. Money the Democracy had in abundance, contributed (?) by the Federal officials in the State and poured in from the coffers of the National Democratic Committee. The Democrats hoped to cut down the Republican majority to 6000 or 7000; they expected to prevent it from going above 10,000. They expected, also, if not to defeat Mr. Reed, at least to cut his majority down to half what it was two years ago. What is the result? The Democracy have marched to a defeat which, when their efforts are taken into account, is the worst defeat they ever met with in this State. Four years ago they were defeated by about the same majority as this year, but then Mr. Blaine was the Republican candidate for the Presidency and they made no fight worthy of the name. But this year they fought with desperation. The returns below give the details of the Republican victory. It is a magnificent result and presages the triumph of Harrison and Morton in November.

BERRY'S ESTIMATE.

Burleigh's Plurality Put at 19,807.

Mr. Stephen Berry, agent for Maine of the Associated Press, makes the following estimate:

There are 507 towns and plantations in Maine. Of these we have received returns from 241 which give Burleigh, Republican, 56,019; Putnam, Democratic, 41,646; Cushing, Prohibition, 1,774; scattering, 957. The same towns, in 1886, gave Republican, 48,160; Democratic, 38,095; Prohibition, 2,442; scattering, 28. Burleigh's plurality is 14,373, against 10,065 in 1886, a Republican gain of 4,308. The 266 towns to hear from gave in 1886, Republican, 20,831; Democratic, 27,194; Prohibition, 1,426. If the same ratio of gain and loss is maintained the final vote will stand, Republican, 80,252; Democratic, 60,445; Prohibition, 2,810; scattering, 957; total, 144,464, with a plurality for the Republicans of 19,807.

In 1884 the vote stood, Republican, 78,699; Democratic, 58,959; Republican plurality, 19,745.

The labor vote this year is included in the scattering, but evidently some of the scattering should be assigned to the Prohibition vote. The Presidential vote in 1884 was smaller than the governor vote in the aggregate but showed a slightly larger plurality, viz.: 20,064. The legislature in 1886 stood Republican Senators, 27; Democrats, 4; Republican representatives, 122; Democratic, 27; Prohibition and Independent, one each. The Republicans will gain a few in the House and perhaps in the Senate. The four Representatives to Congress are elected with increased majorities.

VOTE FOR GOVERNOR.

THE PRESS.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 11.

FOR PRESIDENT,

BENJAMIN HARRISON,

OF INDIANA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

LEVI P. MORTON,

OF NEW YORK.

Hurrah for the First District.

Selection of Hon. Thomas B. Reed, an event of national importance, is circumstances more than usually g to the Republicans of this State ressional District. Since Mr. Reed Congress he has steadily risen in d influence until to-day he stands owledged leader of the Republican the House of Representatives. In ession of Congress his leadership so conspicuous and the effects of it were so harassing to the dominant Southern and Free Trade wing of the Democratic party, that this District was, by their determination to defeat him, made the scene of most desperate assault directed against him personally and against the industrial policy which he champions. That assault has failed disastrously. The Republicans of York have rolled back the tide that nearly swept them under two years ago, and have joined with the Republican voters of Cumberland in saving for the seventh time the First District for Reed, for protection to American industries, and for the Grand Old Party, and in burying the Democracy beneath a majority of nearly if not quite $2,700. It is a Democratic Waterloo in this district. It is the grandest victory the Republicans of York and Cumberland ever won.

The President's Letter of Acceptance.

Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance has at last appeared, more than two months after the St. Louis convention. It must certainly be regarded as a remarkable document, and it is not surprising that it took the President so long. Mr. Cleveland has again "argued the free trade position" as the English papers describe the performance, and has again at the end of the document declared that he means protection. In doing this he has drawn the document out to considerable length, perhaps with the hope that the country may forget the free trade beginning as it is reading the protection ending. "I suppose," says Mr. Cleveland as he starts out, "it is needless to explain that all these [the protective tariff] duties and assessments are added to the price of the articles upon which they are levied, and thus become a tax upon all those who buy these articles for use and consumption; I suppose, too, it is well understood that the effect of the tariff taxation is not limited to the consumers of imported articles, but that the duties imposed upon such articles permit a corresponding increase in price to be laid upon domestic productions of the same kind, which increase paid by all our people as consumers of home productions and entering every American home, constitutes a form of taxation as certain and as inevitable as though the amount was annually paid into the hands of the tax gatherer." It is certainly needless for Mr. Cleveland or any other free trader to attempt to explain that the tariff is a tax of the sort described in this paragraph. It has been again and again demonstrated that the tariff does not increase the cost of a protected article by the amount of the duty or anything near it; and the free traders have never been able to show any fallacy in this demonstration. They meet it by bare assertions, as does the President. Again says Mr. Cleveland: "The absolute duty of limiting the rate of tariff charges to the necessities of right and economical administration of the government, seems to be perfectly plain," and with this statement should be taken also his other statement that "the cost of the government, must continue to be met by tariff duties collected at our custom houses upon imported goods and by internal revenue taxes assessed upon spirituous and malt liquors, tobacco and oleomargarine." This means that to the theory of free trade which he enunciated in the paragraph first quoted, Mr. Cleveland now adds the directions for the practical steps. Keep up, he says, all the internal revenue taxes and let them pour all their millions into the treasury; then cut down the tariff duties so that the revenue derived from them, will when added to the internal revenue taxes, be just enough to run the government. And what does this mean? It means a tariff so low that it will cease to be in any sense a protective tariff. Mr. Cleveland knows, too, that it means this; but he puts on the cloak of an ardent protectionist and goes about proclaiming that black is white, and that, therefore, no one need be frightened. Yet the plain and unadorned truth is this: Cleveland means, by hook or by crook, to smash the tariff system.

Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance abounds in interesting passages, than which there is none more interesting than this, which describes one of the needs of the country as,—

> A strict and steadfast adherence to the principles of civil service reform and a thorough execution of the laws passed for their enforcement, thus permitting to our people the advantages of business methods in the operation of the government.

This is certainly one of the needs of the country, and it never was such a pressing need as it has become under the administration of Grover Cleveland. Four years ago Mr. Cleveland wrote another letter of acceptance, in which he foreshadowed a state of affairs which has since come to pass. Then he said, in support of his suggestion that the constitution should be so amended as to disqualify the President for re-election:

> When we consider the patronage of this great office, the allurements of power, the temptation to retain public place once gained, and, more than all, the availability a party finds in any incumbent whom a horde of office-holders with a zeal born of benefits received and fostered by the hope of favors yet to come, stand ready to aid with money, and trained political service, we recognize in the eligibility of the President for re-election a most serious danger to that calm, deliberate, and intelligent political action which must characterize a government by the people.

The people of Maine saw yesterday the effect of a "horde of office holders with a zeal born of benefits received," on hand "ready to aid with money and trained political service" in the work which the administration tried unavailingly to do in Maine; and they agree thoroughly with the President that there is a crying need of "a strict and steadfast adherence to the principles of civil service reform." Now, Mr. Cleveland, what are you going to do about it? The state of affairs which you foretold has come to pass and you are the one who has brought it about; the remedy which you prescribe is a good one and you are the one to administer it. You may begin right here in Maine with your Commissioner of Navigation, your postoffice officials, and the whole swarm of federal officers in Maine, whose interference with yesterday's election was as unblushing as anything that ever occurred in this State.

There was no place in the First District where the fight was hotter than in the city of Portland. Here resided the Democratic candidate for governor and here the Democrats made their most strenuous exertion. The Republicans had not only to meet the able management of the Democratic leaders, but they had to contend against large sums of money sent to corrupt the voters. Nevertheless the Republicans won a splendid victory. The Democratic designs were almost completely thwarted and the city saved to the Republicans A large share of the credit of this victory belongs to Mr. H. G. Briggs, the chairman of the Republican city committee. It is rarely that a campaign has been conducted with so much skill as has been displayed by Mr. Briggs in that which has just closed. The campaign in the county has been under the charge largely of Mr. Isaac W. Dyer, the chairman of the county committee, and the result is the best tribute that can be paid to his ability and skill.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER.

Full Text of the Long Delayed Document.

The following is the full text of the President's letter of acceptance:

In addressing to you my formal acceptance of the nomination to the Presidency of the United States, my thoughts persistently dwell upon the impressive relation of such action to the American people, whose confidence is thus invited to the political party to which I belong, just entering upon a contest for continued supremacy. The world does not afford a spectacle more sublime than is furnished when millions of free and intelligent American citizens select their chief magistrate and bid one of their number to find the highest earthly honor and the full measure of public duty in ready submission to their will. It follows that a candidate for this high office can never forget that when the turmoil and the strife which attend the selection of its incumbent shall be heard no more, there must be in the quiet calm which follows a complete and solemn self consecration by the people's chosen President of every faculty and endeavor to the service of a confiding and generous nation of free men.

These thoughts are intensified by the light of my experience in the Presidential office which has soberly impressed me with the severe responsibilities which it imposes while it has quickened my love for American institutions, and taught me the priceless value of the trust of my countrymen.

It is of the highest importance that those who administer our government should jealously protect and maintain the rights of American citizens at home and abroad, and should strive and achieve for our country her proper place among the nations of the earth, but there is no people whose home interests are so great and whose numerous objects of domestic concern deserve so much watchfulness and care.

Among these are the regulation of a sound financial system suited to our need, thus securing an efficient agency of national wealth and general prosperity; the construction and equipment of means of defence to insure our national safety and maintain the honor beneath which such national safety reposes, the protection of our national domain still stretching beyond the needs of a century's expansion, and its preservation for the settler and the pioneer of our marvelous growth; a sensible and sincere recognition of the value of American labor, leading to scrupulous care and just appreciation of the interests of our workingmen; the limitation and checking of such monopolistic tendencies and schemes as interfere with the advantages and benefits which the people may rightly claim; a generous regard and care for our surviving soldiers and sailors and for the widows and orphans of such as have died, to the end that while the appreciation of their services and sacrifices is quickened, the application of their pension fund to improper cases may be prevented; protection against a servile immigration, which injuriously competes with our laboring men in the field of toil and adds to our population an element ignorant of our institutions and laws, impossible of assimilation with our people and dangerous to our peace and welfare; a strict and steadfast adherence to the principles of civil service reform and a thorough execution of the laws passed for their enforcement, thus permitting to our people the advantages of business methods in the operation of the government; the guaranty to our colored citizens of all their rights of citizenship and their just recognition and encouragement in all things pertaining to that relation; a firm, patriotic and humane Indian policy, so that in peaceful relations with the government, the civilization of the Indian may be promoted with resulting quiet and safety to the settlers on our frontier; and the curtailment of public expense by the introduction of economical methods in every department of the government.

The pledges contained in the platform adopted by the late convention of the national Democracy lead to the advancement of those objects and insure good government, the aspiration of every true American citizen and the motive for every patriotic action and effort. In the consciousness that much has been done in the direction of good government by the present administration and submitting its record to the fair inspection of my countrymen, I endorse the platform thus presented with the determination that if I am again called to the Chief Magistracy there shall be a continuance of devoted endeavor to advance the interests of the entire country.

Our scale of Federal taxation and its consequences largely engross, at this time, the attention of our citizens, and the people are soberly considering the necessity of measures of relief. Our government is the creation of the people, established to carry out their designs and accomplish their good. It was founded on justice and was made for a free, intelligent and virtuous people. It is only useful when within their control and only serves their will when regulated and guided by their constant touch. It is a free government, because it guarantees to every American citizen the unrestricted personal use and enjoyment of all the reward of his toil and of all his income, except may be his fair contribution to necessary public expense. Therefore, it is not only right, but the duty of a free people, in the enforcement of this guaranty, to insist that expense should be strictly limited to the actual public needs. It seems perfectly clear that when the government this instrumentality created and maintained by the people to do their bidding, turns upon them, and through another perversion of its powers, extorts from their labor and capital tributes largely in excess of public necessities, the creature has rebelled against the creator and the masters are robbed by their servants.

The cost of the government must continue to be met by tariff duties collected at our custom houses upon imported goods, and by internal revenue taxes assessed upon spirituous and malt liquors, tobacco and oleomargarine.

I suppose it is needless to explain that all these duties and assessments are added to the price of the articles upon which they are levied, and thus became a tax upon all those who buy these articles for use and consumption. I suppose, too, it is well understood that the effect of the tariff taxation is not limited to the consumers of imported articles but that the duties imposed upon such articles permit a corresponding increase in price to be laid upon American productions of the same kind, which increase is paid by all our people as consumers of home productions and, entering every American home, constitutes a form of taxation as certain and as inevitable as though the amount was annually paid into the hand of the tax-gatherer.

These results are inseparable from the plan we have adopted for the collection of our revenue by tariff duties. They are not mentioned to discredit the system, but by way of preface to the statement that every million of dollars collected at our custom houses for duties upon imported articles and paid into the public treasury represent many millions more, which, though never reaching the national treasury, are paid by our citizens as the increased cost of domestic productions resulting from our tariff laws. In these circumstances, and in view of this necessary effect of the operation of our plan for raising revenue, the absolute duty of limiting the rate of tariff charges to the necessities of an upright and economical administration of the government, seems to be perfectly plain. The continuance, upon a pretext of meeting public expenditures of such a scale of tariff taxation as draws from the substance of the people a sum largely in excess of public needs, is surely something which, under a government based upon justice, and which finds its strength and usefulness in the faith and the trust of the people, ought not to be tolerated. While the heaviest burdens incident to the necessities of the government are uncomplainingly borne light burdens become grievous and intolerable when not justified by such necessities.

Unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation, and yet this is our condition. We are annually collecting at our custom houses and by means of our internal revenue taxation many millions in excess of all legitimate public needs. As a consequence, there now remains in the national treasury a surplus of more than $150,000,000. No better evidence could be furnished that the people are exorbitantly taxed. The extent of the superfluous burden indicated by this surplus will be better appreciated when it is suggested that such a surplus alone represents taxation aggregating more than one hundred and eight thousand dollars in a county containing 50,000 inhabitants. Taxation has always been the feature of organized government the hardest to reconcile with the people's idea of freedom and happiness. When presented in a direct form, nothing will arouse popular discontent more quickly and profoundly than unjust and unnecessary taxation. Our farmers, mechanics, laborers and all our citizens closely scan the slightest increase in the taxes assessed upon their lands and other property and demand good reasons for such increase. And yet they seem to be expected in some quarters to regard the unnecessary volume of insidious and indirect taxation visited upon them by our present rate of tariff duties with indifference, if not with favor. The surplus revenue now remaining in the treasury not only furnishes conclusive proof of unjust taxation, but its existence constitutes a separate and independent menace to the prosperity of the people.

This vast accumulation of idle funds represents that much money drawn from the circulating medium of the country which is needed in the channels of trade. It is a great mistake to suppose that the consequences which follow the continual withdrawal and hoarding by the government of the currency of the people are not of immediate importance to the mass of our citizens, and only concerns those engaged in large financial transaction.

In the restless enterprise and activity which free and ready money among the people produces, is found that opportunity for labor and employment and that impetus to business and production, which brings in their train prosperity to our citizens in every station and vocation. New ventures, new investments in business and manufacture, the construction of new and important works, and the enlargement of enterprises, already established, depend largely upon obtaining money on easy terms with fair security, and all these things are stimulated by abundant volume of circulating medium. Even the harvested grain of the farmer remains without a market unless money is forthcoming for its movement and transportation to the seaboard.

The first result of a scarcity of money among the people is the exaction of severe terms for its use. Increasing distrust and timidity is followed by a refusal to loan or advance on any terms; investors refuse all risks and decline all securities and in a general fright the money still in the hands of the people is persistently hoarded. It is quite apparent that when this perfectly natural, if not inevitable stage, is reached depression in all business and enterprise will as a necessary consequence lessen the opportunity for work and employment and reduce salaries and the wages of labor.

Instead, then, of being exempt from the influence and effect of an immense surplus lying idle in the national treasury, our wage-earners and others who rely upon their labor for support are most of all directly concerned in the situation. Others seeing the approach of danger may provide against it, but it will find those dependent upon their daily toil for bread unprepared, helpless and defenceless. Such a state of affairs does not present a case of idleness resulting from disputes between the laboring man and his employer, but it produces an absolute and enforced stoppage of employment and wages.

In reviewing the bad effects of this accumulated surplus and the scale of tariff rates by which it is produced, we must not overlook the tendency towards gross and scandalous public extravagance which a congested treasury induces, nor the fact that we are maintaining, without, excuse in a time of profound peace, substantially the rate of tariff duties imposed in time of war, when the necessities of the government justified the imposition of the weightiest burdens upon the people.

Divers plans have been suggested for the return of this accumulated surplus to the people and the channels of trade. Some of these devices are at variance with all rules of good finance; some are delusive, some are absurd, and some betray, by their reckless extravagance, the demoralizing influence of a great surplus of public money upon the judgment of individuals. While such efforts should be made as are consistent with public duty and sanctioned by sound judgment, to avoid danger by the useful disposition of the surplus now remaining in the treasury, it is evident that, if its distribution were accomplished, another accumulation would soon take its place if the constant flow of redundant income was not checked at its source by a reform in our present tariff laws.

We do not propose to deal with the conditions by merely attempting to satisfy the people of the truth of abstract theories or by alone urging their assent to political doctrine. We present to them the proposition that they are unjustly treated in the extent of present federal taxation, that, as a result, a condition of extreme danger exists and that it is for them to demand a remedy and that defense and safety promised in the guarantee of their free government. We believe that the same means which are adopted to relieve the Treasury of its present surplus and prevent its recurrence, should cheapen to our people the cost of supply in their daily wants. Both of these objects we seek in part to gain by reducing the present tariff rate upon the necessaries of life. We fully appreciate the importance to the country of our domestic industrial enterprises. In the rectification of existing wrongs, their maintenance and prosperity should be carefully and in a friendly spirit considered. Even such reliance upon present revenue arrangements as have been invited or encouraged should be fairly and justly regarded. Abrupt and radical changes which might endanger such enterprises and injuriously affect the interest of labor dependent upon their success and continuance are not contemplated or intended.

But we know the cost of our domestic manufactures and products in increased and their price to the consumer enhanced by the duty imposed upon the raw material used in their manufacture. We know that the increased cost prevents the sale of our productions at foreign markets in competition with those countries which have the advantage of free raw material. We know that confined to a home market our manufacturing operations are curtailed, their demand labor irregular and the rates of wages paid uncertain.

We propose, therefore, to stimulate our domestic industrial enterprises by freeing from duty the imported raw materials, which by the employment of labor, are used in our home manufactures, thus extending the markets for their sale and permitting an increased and steady production with the allowance of abundant profits.

True to the undeviating course of the Democratic party, we will not neglect the interest of labor and our workingmen. In all efforts to remedy existing evils we will furnish no excuse for the loss of employment or the reduction of the wages of honest toil. On the contrary we propose in any adjustment of our revenue laws to concede such encouragement and advantage to the employers of domestic labor as will easily compensate for any difference that may exist between the standard of wages which should be paid to our laboring men and the rate allowed in other countries. We propose, too, by extending the markets for our manufactures, to promote the steady employment of our labor, while, by cheapening the cost of the necessaries of life, we increase the purchasing power of the workingmen's wages and add to the comforts of his home, and, before passing from this phase of the question, I am constrained to express the opinion that while the interests of labor should be always sedulously regarded in any modification of our tariff laws, and additional and more direct and efficient protection to these interests would be afforded by the restriction and prohibition of the immigration or importation of laborers from other countries who swarm upon our shores, having no purpose or intent of becoming our fellow citizens or acquiring any permanent interest in our country, but who crowd every field of employment with unintelligent labor at wages which ought not to satisfy those who make claim to American citizenship.

The platform adopted by the late national convention of our party contains the following declaration:

> "Judged by Democratic principles, the interests of the people are betrayed when, by unnecessary taxation, trusts and combinations are permitted and fostered, which, while unduly enriching the few that combine, rob the body of our citizens by depriving them, as purchasers, by the benefits of natural competition."

Such combinations have always been condemned by the Democratic party. The declaration of its national convention is sincerely made, and no member of our party will be found excusing the existence or belittling the pernicious results of these devices to wrong the people under various names they have been published by the common law for hundreds of years, and they lose none of their hateful features because they have assumed the names of trusts instead of conspiracies.

We believe that these trusts are the natural offspring of a market artificially restricted, that an inordinately high tariff, besides furnishing the temptation for their existence enlarges the limit within which they may operate against the people and thus increases the extent of their power for wrong doing.

With an unutterable hatred of all such schemes we count the checking of their baleful operation among the good results promised by revenue reform.

While we cannot avoid partisan misrepresentation, our position upon the question of revenue reform should be so plainly stated as to admit of no misunderstanding. We have entered no crusade of free trade. The reform we seek to inaugurate is predicted upon the utmost care for established industries and enterprises, a jealous regard for the interests of American labor and a sincere desire to relieve the country from the injustice and danger of a condition which threatens evil to all the people of the land.

We are dealing with an imaginary danger. Its existence has been repeatedly confessed by all political parties and pledges of a remedy have been made on all sides. Yet when in the legislative body where under the constitution a remedial measure applicable to this subject must originate, the Democratic majority were attempting with extreme deliberation to redeem the pledge common to both parties, they were met by determined opposition and obstruction and the minority refused to co-operate in the House of Representatives or propose another remedy, have remitted the redemption of their party pledges to the doubtful powers of the Senate, the people will hardly be deceived by their abandonment of the field of legislative action to meet in political convention and flippantly declare in their party platform that our conservative and careful effort to relieve the situation is destructive to the American system of protection, nor will the people be misled by the appeal to prejudice contained in the absurd allegation that we serve the interest of Europe, while they will support the interest of America. They propose in their platform to thus support the interests of our country by removing the internal revenue tax from tobacco and from spirits used in the arts and for mechanical purposes.

They declare also that there should be such a provision of our tariff law as shall tend to check the importation of such articles as are produced here. Thus, in proposing to increase the duties on such articles to nearly or quite a prohibitory point, they confess themselves willing to travel backward in the road of civilization and to deprive our people of the market for their goods which can only be gained and kept by the semblance at least of an interchange of business, while they abandon our consumers to the unrestricted oppression of the domestic trusts and combinations which are in the same platform perfunctorily condemned. They propose further to release entirely from import duties all articles of foreign production (except luxuries) the like of which cannot be produced in this country. The plain people of the land and the poor who scarcely use articles of any description produced exclusively abroad and not already free, will find it difficult to discover where their interests are regarded in the proposition. They need in their homes cheaper domestic necessaries. This seems to be entirely unprovided for in the proposed scheme to serve the country.

Small compensation for this neglected need is found in the further purpose here announced and covered by the declaration that if after the changes already mentioned there still remains a larger revenue than is requisite for the wants of the government, the entire internal taxation should be repealed rather than surrender any part of our protective system. Our people ask relief from the undue and unnecessary burden of tariff taxation now resting on them. They are offerred free tobacco and free whiskey. They ask for bread and they are given a stone.

The implication contained in this party declaration that desperate measures are justified or necessary to save from destruction or surrender what is termed our protective system should confuse no one. The existence of such a system is entirely consistent with the regulation, the extent to which it should be supplied and the correction of its abuses. Of course in a country as great as ours with such a wonderful variety of interests, after leading in entirely different directions, it is difficult, if not impossible, to settle on a perfect tariff plan; but in accomplishing the reform we have entered, the necessity of which is so obvious, I believe we should not be content with a reduction of revenue involving the prohibition of importation and the removal of the internal tax on whiskey. It can be better and more safely done within the lines of granting actual relief to the people in their means of living and at the same time an impetus to our domestic enterprises and farthering our national welfare. If misrepresentations of our purposes and motives are to gain credence and defeat our present effort in this direction, there seems to be no reason why every endeavor in the future to accomplish revenue reforms should not be likewise attacked and with like result; and yet no thoughtful man can fail to see in the continuance of the present burdens on the people and the abstraction by the government of the currency of the country, inevitable distress and disaster. All danger will be averted by timely action. The difficulty of applying the remedy will never be less and the blame should not be laid at the door of the Democratic party if it is applied too late.

With firm faith in the intelligence and patriotism of our countrymen, and relying on the conviction that misrepresentation will not influence them, prejudice will not cloud their understanding, and that menace will not intimidate them, let us urge on the people interest and public duty for the vindication of our attempt to inaugurate a righteous and beneficent tariff reform.

(Signed), GROVER CLEVELAND.

Spectacles and Eye Glasses!

These lines should all appear equally black to a normal eye. Persons having weak eyes who cannot read the above letters and to whom the lines do not appear equally black at five or ten feet, have a visual imperfection which common spectacles will not improve. They must have special lenses ground to correct the deformity of their corneas. This defect is called ASTIGMATISM. THIS PRINT should be read with ease at ten inches and is a test for NEAR VISION.

We have a large parlor and are prepared to adjust the same upon scientific principles. We use NACHET'S TRIAL CASE, together with the OPTHALMOSCOPIC TEST LENSE, combining the best methods known for detecting all optical defects of the eye and determining the lenses needed for their correction.

DEATH AND THE QUACK.

As death was about to enter a door,
He met there a "doctor" he'd oft met before;
And said with a grin, "It is needless to be
A-hunting for that which is coming to me.
I'll drop in elsewhere, for I've not any fear
But you will attend to the work I have here."

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

Minister—What will your father say, little boy, when he discovers that you have been fishing on Sunday?

Boy—I dunno, sir; it depends on how many fish I ketch.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may be termed "Perfection."

The little brother had watched the baby until he was tired. At last he climbed up to the telephone and shouted:

"Please, Dod, won't 'oo jes' watch 'e baby till I tum back! I tink it's do tif 'oo jess keep one eye on her."

A SURE test of greatness is to be used as a standard, and when the country doctor or cheap city grocer tells the consumer that this or that Flavoring Extract is better than Burnett's, we consider it a victory for Burnett's.

MISCELLANEOUS.

It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

Mrs. Brooks Cured of Rheumatism by Dr. Smith, the Magnetic Physician.

Mrs. Brooks, who resides near this city, was ...ken one year ago last October with rheumatism ...e joints. Her feet, knees, wrists and hands ...erribly swollen, and so painful and tender ...ender them entirely useless. After suffer...ere very much aggravated during damp ...ainy weather. She suffered from cold, ...ht sweats, loss of appetite, impaired diges..., constipation and from general nervous debility. After suffering from rheumatism for several months, she began to be tortured with sick headache, which deprived her of what little pleasure in life remained to her. Her sufferings finally became so much aggavated that she became entirely helpless, and it was only when aided by her nurse that she could walk from her bed to a chair. In this helpless and hopeless condition she applied to Dr. Smith, the magnetic physician, at the United States Hotel. After the first magnetic treatment she began to improve, and is now convalescent. Dr. Smith treats successfully all forms of chronic disease, and will cure seven cases out of ten that have been pronounced incurable. He permanently cures every case of piles that he undertakes. He will continue to heal the sick free of charge at Congress Hall every morning from 10 to 11 o'clock, all of next week. Everybody cordially invited to go. Thursday evening, Sept. 13, he will deliver a free lecture to women, at the hall, at 8 o'clock. You are all invited. Letters of enquiry must contain postage. Consultations at the hotel free from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. daily, except Sundays. sep10 dtf

AN EXPLANATION.

What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown,—to day it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in time past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass on through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous novl dlyeTu

The owners of the schooner Mabel Hooper of this city, have just received in the United States Circuit Court in New York, a verdict of $5000 against the owner of the tug M. A. Hogan. In July, 1885, the tug took the schooner in tow in New York harbor to take her out through Hell Gate, on her way to Boston. The tug run the schooner on a ledge. She sank and was badly damaged, so much so that it took $500 to repair her.

Christian Endeavor.

An Incident of the Late Campaign.

While Hon. W. W. Thomas, Jr., was making a political speech to the citizens of Blaine, in Aroostook County, on Friday last, he received a telegram announcing the arrival of a twelve pound boy at his home in Portland.

Portland's Answer to Cleveland's Free Trade.

Portland Republicans were thoroughly pleased with the news last night and well they may have been as the increased pluralities were constantly coming over the wires. The day, which opened rather sultry, with fog and heavy clouds, indicating rain, had one effect, if no other, of keeping at home any Republicans who might have felt inclined to go on that excursion to Centre Harbor, and they consequently stayed at home and helped add to the Republican pluralities.

All through the day there was a constant stream in and out of the ward rooms. It became known at an early hour that the Democrats were determined to strain every nerve to carry Portland for Putnam, if possible, and wipe out Reed's old majority. It is understood that large sums of money were sent here to buy up voters, if they could be bought, $10,000 arriving Saturday. It is claimed that many men were openly solicited on the street by Democrats for their votes, for money, six to eight dollars being offered. It is alleged that the large sum of $1000 was expended in Ward 1, which explains the reason of the ward going Democratic by a small plurality. But boodle was of no avail. The Republicans were up and doing and the result was the largest vote polled in Portland of which we have record —7305—Burleigh receiving a plurality of 525, while Reed's plurality for Congress is placed at 689, he running very much ahead of the ticket.

There were many stickers employed, and the result was a long count for the ward clerks. It will be seen by the returns that these stickers played an important part in determining the pluralities received by different candidates. Sheriff Webb, it will be seen, received over a thousand plurality. In comparing the vote Mr. Reed had in 1886 with that of this year, it will be seen that the vote of this year is largely increased.

After 10 a. m. the skies cleared and the day was one of the most beautiful with which September favors us. The Prohibitionist vote did not appreciably increase from its usual figures although, from an early hour the committee left envelopes containing circulars and ballots on doorsteps all over the city. There was little, if any, disorder manifested in the election, all effort made being good natured.

We append the city vote as follows:

IN THE EVENING.

When people came down town after tea they began to take in the good news. The PRESS had established a stereopticon in the second story of the PRESS building, and Mr. Fuller, of the Natural History Society, threw the returns upon a screen on the Jose building opposite as fast as they arrived, interspersed with interesting pictures. These were received by the great crowds, that completely packed Exchange street, with tremendous cheers. A picture of Mr. Reed was cheered to the echo, and the cheering was resumed when Mr. Burleigh's portrait was seen. At the Young Men's Republican Club rooms the returns were read to the members, and also at the Portland Club. As the news kept coming better and better the public couldn't be restrained, and rushed to City Hall to jubilate.

The scene in City Hall was simply one of tremendous enthusiasm. From eight o'clock until nine the people were gathering and at a few minutes past hour there were fully three thousand if not four thousand people present. Every seat was occupied and the outside aisles, corridors and stairway was one vast mass of humanity.

When Mr. Reed appeared the audience rose as one man and cheer upon cheer filled the air. Men stood upon settees and waved their hats. The air was dense with canes, and handkerchiefs and the wild and deafening yell continued for several minutes. It was a scene seldom, perhaps never before, witnessed in City Hall.

As Mr. Reed rose to speak the cheering began again but at last there was quiet, and he said:

MR. REED'S SPEECH.

Fellow Citizens: It is perfectly evident that you have taken the advice which I gave you on Saturday evening. [Laughter and cheers.] Rather unexpectedly to me the President of the United States also volunteered some advice upon the subject. [Laughter and applause.] He had been waiting evidently, during all these long weeks, for the purpose of making his opinion as emphatic as possible to the people of the State of Maine. He evidently intended to affect the vote of this State, and he has done so. [Laughter and cheers.] It may possibly now enter into his mind that the terms "revenue reform," and "free trade" are synonymous. [Applause.] It is quite evident that he had been misled upon that subject, and was disposed to make complaint that his purposes and intentions had been misrepresented. That is not so; they had been amply understood. [Great applause.] The result which we have in the First District of the State of Maine, which has been remarkable, but, [illegible] with the results in the other districts in the United States of a very successful character. [Great cheering.] When the President [illegible] her that portion of his letter, in which he [illegible] of the figures which today has proved, he may be satisfied that the moderation which he says characterized the Mills bill was entirely in his mind and not an actual fact. [Applause.] He will find that he has used the surplus argument utterly in vain; that the people of this country comprehend the difference between taxation which draws money from the people of the country without recompense, and their benificent system of import duties which gives to the American laboring man and to the farmer the best markets in the world, the markets of the United States. [Great cheering.]

It takes some labor, it takes a great deal of pains, to educate high public [illegible] ries, but in this country the edu[illegible] bly worth the wages that [illegible] [applause], and here [illegible] this election the [illegible] of the friends [illegible] erstand with a di[illegible] to the delight of [illegible] the American [illegible] them which they have [illegible] made this country prosperous. [Laughter.] The figures illustrating our do[illegible] today will carry go abroad all over [illegible] land, giving heart, comfort and courage to all our people, and when we get the re-echoes from them we shall be satisfied with the result of our labor. [Great applause.] I know that all I can say tonight will be totally inadequate to express my feelings much less your own. The figures are astonishing. They show a deep feeling on the part of the American people. They show that our belief and our faith sweep clear across that grand belt of empire which extends from Oregon to the New England coast, [applause], and when the most intelligent, the most skillful and the greatest laboring section of the United States has spoken, it will be found that so speaks the nation. [Loud cheers.]

MR. REED SERENADED.

At about 10 o'clock last night the Young Men's Republican Club, headed by the First Regiment Band, left the club rooms to go to serenade Mr. Reed. The street in front of the club rooms was thronged with people, and when the Young Club moved up Congress street, carrying red torches and a handsome banner, an immense crowd of citizens formed in line and fell in behind. The greatest enthusiasm was manifested, and the magnificent appearance made by the Young Men's Republican Club sent the feelings of the crowd up to the highest point. The band commenced playing "Marching Through Georgia," and this was followed by "There's a land that is fairer than day." The procession marched up Congress to State street, to Spring, to Mr. Reed's residence, where they found already assembled hundreds of citizens who were awaiting the appearance of Mr. Reed. At the corner of State and Spring streets the procession was joined by the Harrison and Morton Drum Corps and the Harrison Artillery, and the booming of cannon was added to the music of the band and the enthusiastic cheers of jubilant Republicans. Just before the band reached Mr. Reed's house a grand display of fireworks was made that lighted up the street for a long distance. Here the club halted and soon there were loud cries for Mr. Reed who soon appeared on the front piazza. When the great crowd caught sight of the successful Congressman the cheering was prolonged and loud. Again and again Mr. Reed tried to quiet the enthusiastic throng but still they cheered and shouted and threw their hats in the air. Red and green lights were burned, and Roman candles and rockets were discharged. To this was added the booming of cannon. After many minutes Mr. Reed succeeded in quieting the throng and said:

"Gentlemen: This crowd is like the victory, almost too big for belief. I beg to thank the gentlemen of the Young Men's Republican Club for their kindness, not only in appearing here tonight, but also in giving their support the other evening in City Hall. They see what the effect is now of giving ample support upon the proper occasion. But I can say to them with perfect frankness that even with their assistance I did not think we should be able to do what we have done. I was a prophet who did not fully believe in my own prophecy. For it so happened that in opening the campaign at Boston I predicted that we should see an uprising this year not equalled by that of thirty-two years ago when our great statesman, Hannibal Hamlin, marched triumphant from Kittery to Eastport.

There has been on this occasion a similar uprising of the people for a similar cause, belief in the principle which is for the benefit and advantage of the people of the United States. And our example, let me tell you, is so decisive that it is sure to be followed. After being victorious ourselves and promising you victory all over the United States. I really do not see how I can do anything more.

After Mr. Reed had finished speaking, three cheers were given for the "Speaker of the next House," the band played a serenade cannon boomed, and then the club marched on, followed by a vast crowd of cheering citizens. March was taken down Spring street, to Oak, to Free, to Middle, to Exchange, to the office of the PRESS, which was serenaded. The club then marched to their rooms, in Mechanics' building, where the ranks were broken.

The serenade was a grand one, and the members of the Young Men's Republican Club are to be congratulated upon the success of their demonstration and the fine appearance they made upon the streets.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

STOCKBRIDGE COURSE.

Our readers will bear in mind the sale of the Stockbridge course tickets at City Hall, by auction, tomorrow, at 9 o'clock. One of the great features of the course will be the Campanini Concert Company. Freund's Music and Drama says; "Campanini will bring a capital Italian company of singers across the Atlantic this fall. The engagements so far made by him are Sig. Del Puente, Signora De Vere, a popular Italian light soprano; Sig. Carbone, the basso, and Sig. Cuffs as accompanist. Before leaving here last spring Sig. THE NEW HOWARD SPECIALTY TROUPE.

Managers Isaac B. Rich and William Harris have the best reason to be proud of the new Howard Anthenæum specialty company. The Cinquevalli acrobats are marvels, and Cinquevalli, their chief, is one of the very strongest, most adept and successful jugglers ever seen. In the "Australian Wonder," Ida Heath, the menagement have a star that is sure to be very popular everywhere, and that other acquisition from abroad, the troupe of musical knife grinders, will be appreciated. As for the Poluskis, Harry Kennedy, the popular Hoey, with Lydia Yeamans, the songstress, Tennyson and O'Gorman, and other members of the company, they all gain applause and deserve it. They will be at Portland Theatre tomorrow and Thursday.

HERNE'S HEARTS OF OAK.

This company will play at City Hall Friday and Saturday, instead of the theatre, as announced. The St. Louis Republican says: "Mr. James A. Herne makes a strong and vivid characterization of Terry Dennison from first to last, and it improves as it goes. At the start it promises little; but it develops into an incisive character and a strong nature, and it plays upon the pathetic chords with a master hand. The blind scenes with the child are suggestive of Couldock's power of delineation."

Stabbed in the Breast.

John Gibbons, a telegrapher who lives at 510 Fore street, was stabbed in the breast early last evening by a man named Mulkern. The wound is a severe one and Gibbons nearly died from loss of blood before a doctor arrived. Gibbons refuses to tell how it happened that he was stabbed, but says that it was accidental. It was feared that the wounded man would die but up to 1 o'clock this morning he still lived. The police have been unable to learn any particulars concerning the affair and no arrests have been made.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

SACCARAPPA.

In Westbrook much interest was manifested yesterday concerning the State Representative ticket. Mr. Lamb was the Republican candidate and Mahlon Webb was the Democratic candidate. As is well-known Mr. Webb is a butcher and the Democrats said there would be some slaughtering on election day. It so happened, however, that the Lamb downed the butcher, precisely as the Republicans predicted he would.
