"Clifford, why don't you Speak?"

The New York Herald is working itself into an ecstasy of importunity that the President should declare himself on the subject of the third term. Cæsarism is the Herald's pet invention. It has not only disported itself thereupon with prodigious redundancy for a twelve month, but it has had the satisfaction of seeing half the newspapers of the country take up the theme with every appearance of being quite serious and in earnest about it. It is doubtful whether there ever was so tremendous a flood of speculation emitted from so diminutive a fountain of reasonable probability.

But Gen. Grant distresses the Herald by perversely adhering to his rule of silence. It is an inveterate habit of his, and there seems to be no way of curing it. When those amiable organs of public opinion which boast so loudly of their independence were wont to air their playful humor by intimating that he was fond of low company, addicted to bad habits, inclined to venality, with alarming tendencies to larceny and various other crimes he maintained the same inflexible taciturnity, in spite of the most ingenious and persistent efforts to beguile him into print. Occasionally some specific and circumstantial lie about him was coined and put in circulation, accompanied by the query, "if this isn't true why doesn't he come out and deny it?" No use! He was not to be caught in that way. If he had once begun to defend himself against malicious aspersions, he would have enlarged the market for slander, to such an extent that no one man, nay not a hundred, could have hunted down the calumnies which would have been aimed at him. Besides that the defensive is no part of Gen. Grant's policy. It never was. Alike in military and in civil life he moves on the enemy's works, instead of waiting to parry assault.

The old line of attack having been abandoned altogether, the new offence attributed to the President is inordinate ambition. He is charged with the purpose of ignoring a precedent which has acquired almost, if not quite, the force of written law, by allowing himself to enter the lists for another election. There is nothing under heaven to base this fantastic conjecture upon. Not a thing he has ever said or done gives the smallest warrant for it. No man was ever more indifferent to the arts by which places are supposed to be gained or retained. He vetoed the currency bill, when the idea prevailed that the entire West and South had gone stark mad about inflation, and would never forgive the man who hindered it. He refused to throw to the mob a single peace-offering when a concerted howl was vociferated against certain officials of the government in whose integrity and worth he had confidence.

The simple truth is that Grant's popularity has come of his never having shown any indications of anxiety to make himself popular. He has pursued the even tenor of his way with such self-respecting manliness and courage, that his course has met with very general and hearty approval. He has certainly had an inordinate share of the abuse which it is the vice of our times to visit upon prominent men in public service, but it has proved as harmless as it has been groundless. The press has been largely against him, but he has lived in the sight of the people, and they have believed in, trusted and honored him.

We have always treated this third term nonsense as a harmless jest, and are still indisposed to lift it to the importance implied by a deliberate discussion of it. But we hear some well-meaning people re-iterating the old question, "if there is nothing in it, why isn't the purpose disavowed?" To which we respond with the answer which seems to us conclusive, "it will be time enough for the President to speak when the period arrives for discussing the succession." Just now we deprecate the consideration of any names in connection with the next Presidency. The moment is inopportune, the agitation premature. At the same time, we give Gen. Grant credit for the possession of a great deal of common sense, and that is reason enough why we are immovable in our conviction that he has not, and never had the slightest idea of incurring the wear and tear of another campaign. He has enjoyed all the honors which the office can confer. He has endured the semi-martyrdom which a candidacy entails. Blackguard tongues have wagged with unrestrained license, and blackguard pens have been driven with preternatural ferocity in his dispraise. Through this simoon of unreasoning detraction, he has walked unscathed. The future to him is full of promise. The rest befitting his retirement will be sweetened by memories of the great drama, in which he has played the leading part, and by the esteem of his gratified countrymen.

We cannot but regard it as impeaching the wisdom of Gen. Grant, to entertain for a moment the fancy that he has the smallest sympathy with the discussion which connects his name, with an innovation, which would be sure to infuse a confusing element into our national politics. But we are quite sure, no arts or appliances will avail to extort from him an authoritative utterance on the subject. He is not that sort of person. The "great silent man" whose reticence has withstood so many temptations to speech, may be relied upon to hold his tongue till the proper time comes for his voice to be heard. Then it will be found that a third term is out of the question, simply because it takes two parties to make a contract and he will not be one of them.

NOT to be outdone in the originality of methods of warfare the women of Fort Wayne, Indiana, have invented a peculiar manner of inflicting bodily injuries, known as "gouging with parasols." It is said to be very effective in the hands of a muscular woman. The point of the parasol is inserted in the corner of the eye, an expert turn given to the wrist, and the eye-ball drops out. Sometimes, by way of variety, the handle of the weapon is inserted in the back-hair of the enemy, and a peculiarly vicious turn given, productive of astounding and ear-splitting results. The amusement is said to be very popular with the women of Fort Wayne, and was tried with wonderful success on a certain day last week. One remarkably vigorous and agile amazon came out of the conflict with a whole pocketful of eyes, which she proceeded to string to her chatelaine, after the manner of the onions sometimes seen in the grocery shops.

THE American Railway Master Mechanic Association have taken steps to lessen the frequency of railroad accidents, by setting on foot inquiries in regard to the use of brakes and the construction of locomotives. Circulars are to be sent to all railroads, asking for a description of the continuous brakes in use, the cost of their maintenance and repair, accidents caused by their failure to act at critical times, and their effect on car wheels as compared with the hand brake. Information is also asked about the improvements in boilers and water boxes in locomotives, the use of spark arresters and smoke consumers, &c. These last pertain rather to the comfort than to the safety of travelers, but are not the less of public interest. From the data collected it is thought that conclusions of great benefit to the managers of railroads may be drawn.

THERE never has been a time when freights from the interior of the country to the seaboard and across the ocean have been as low as during the present season. During the summer it has cost less than three cents a bushel to send wheat from Chicago to Buffalo; less than twelve cents to New York, and only twenty-eight and a half cents from Chicago to Liverpool. It is said that all the through railway lines have been doing this business at a loss, particularly those less direct. The existing lines have shown that they can take care of the present business without great detention to shippers, from which it may be concluded that with the new road building, there will be no occasion for Mr. Windom's double track lines.

NOT satisfied with the already mixed and chaotic system of English grammar which the school book publishers persist in inflicting upon us, a correspondent of one of the New York journals desires to add to the perplexities of the American school-boy by grafting a "middle voice" upon our incomprehensible grammar books. His only reason for perpetrating this enormity is that he may be grammatically correct in making the entirely uncalled for assertion, "Broadway is paving." Let us give over the misguided man to the tender mercies of Richard Grant White. That fierce word critic is doubtless already longing for his scalp.

THE Pennsylvania state government appears to have done a wise thing in requiring the publication of detailed reports of the assets of the different insurance companies of the state. The reports are minute in detail, showing just how much capital is and is not paid up, stating the aggregate liabilities for losses unadjusted, and debts unpaid and particularizing the assets, giving par and market values. They are made under the new insurance law of 1873, and give the first really full, trustworthy and intelligible account of the standing of the companies. The public learn for the first time exactly what the ill-understood "surplus" means.

MR. Boynton, Christian name unknown, announces his intention to immortalize himself by dropping overboard from an outgoing ship when two hundred miles from land. He has a three-fold object in trying this little experiment; a consuming thirst for fame, a desire to test a new life-saving dress, just invented, and the wish to earn a substantial pecuniary reward. It is safe to say that Mr. Boynton will attain to immortality whatever may be the issue of his experiment—as indeed he will in time if he stays at home and dies quietly in his bed.

THE New Jersey State Democratic committee have issued an address abounding in generalities which are quite the reverse of glittering, and noticeable chiefly for wild and extravagant charges against the administration. Apparently the Jersey men are greatly perplexed by the hostile platforms of the Indians and Maine Democracy, and so say never a word about the currency.

SHOULD the watchful eye of a cheese factory manager chance to fall upon a statement that the ruling price of cheese at the recent Utica sale was eighteen cents a pound, let him not be deceived thereby and hold a grudge against the "middle man" because he offers but thirteen cents for the commodity, for in fact the latter figure is correct.

THERE comes from New York the dismal rumor that Senator Reuben Fenton is acting the part of the prodigal son and making good time to the Republican party again. The organization is a hardy one, but can't stand everything any more than a stone dray. Fenton is the natural Uriah Heep of politics.

"LET brotherly love continue;" "In honor preferring one another," and such are good texts to remember and apply at all times, but to forget them is, on some occasions, unseemly and leads to unpleasantness.

BARRING the frequent libations of western whiskey, the article on candidates published elsewhere and adapted to the latitude of Missouri, applies remarkably well to Maine about this season.

THE cheering report comes from the eastern part of the state, particularly Aroostook, that crops of all kinds, particularly grain, never promised a better harvest.

Current Notes.

This is the way in which the Detroit Post looks at the political situation: "Oh! Lord, what miserable sinners we are!" cried a praying brother, at a camp meeting; whereupon half a dozen sympathizers shouted 'Hallelujah!' This indiscretion in putting in the applauses is very apparent in the reception given by the Democratic platform. The Indiana Democratic platform proclaims that the Democratic Party is in favor of repudiation. 'Hallelujah!' instantly shout most of the Democratic journals."

An official schedule of appropriations made by the late Congress shows that the total amount of appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, is about $20,000,000 less than the last fiscal year, but only $12,000,000 less the amount appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874.

Senator Stewart of Nevada announces that he is not a candidate for re-election, and that state, which never saw him oftener than once in four or five years, does not refuse to be comforted on the prospect of his permanent absence. He will practice law in Washington.

Congressman Maynard, who is extremely desirous of becoming Governor of Tennessee, made a speech at Tuckahoe in that state recently, defining his position on the civil rights bill. Like Senator Brownlow, he gave evidence of the unanimity of sentiment there against the mixed school provision by declaring his willingness to leave that section out of the bill. He was in favor of the bill as a whole, but opposed to that provision since there was so much prejudice against it.

Regret has been expressed in some quarters that Mr. Saunders, the great-grandfather of the grange, is disqualified for the presidency by the circumstance of his Scotch birth. "This should not be allowed," remarks the New York Herald, "to interfere with a legitimate ambition. To oblige the grangers, we presume there would be no difficulty in making an amendment to the constitution in favor of Saunders."

In response to a query from the Cincinnati Gazette as to the position of the Democracy on the currency question, the New York Commercial Advertiser opines that it is much like that of a man who has got astraddle of a tight rope, and isn't at all particular on which side he gets off, so long as he gets off safely.

Steam, like Dryden's plough-boy, "whistles for want of thought." It pretends to have a thought behind it, but if there was one in the mind of the man who lets loose this screech-demon, he would surely pause before he poured out so much hot and vaporous misery. —Brooklyn Argus.

The decided action of the President in refusing to send a detachment of United States troops to Vicksburg to guard the polls on Tuesday cannot be too highly commended. The fact of putting an armed force into a Southern city on such an occasion would have seemed like an attempt to intimidate, and would have invited an outbreak.—Boston Globe.

There is certainly good sense enough in the South to recognize sooner or later the fact which thus far seems to have been left out of consideration,—that a great majority of both races, black as well as white, will prefer a good government to a bad one whenever they give themselves the trouble to think upon the matter at all. Whenever reform comes it must be through the union of the honest men of the two races.—New York Tribune.

The day of third party bolts is over. It has ended in discouragement and failure. It begins to be seen that when in the beginning God created Americans, He created them either Republicans or Democrats. Those who thought the former party needed the discipline of defeat have learned that Republican defeat means disaster, and many lately half-hearted supporters are likely to rally around its standard again this year.—Springfield Union (Rep.)

The issue of this campaign is in many, if not in all, of its aspects, one of race. The white people, alarmed at the constant encroachments of the negroes, and driven to the wall, have at last turned to defend themselves, their wives and their children from the embraces of the negro. Disguise it as you will, this is the issue now before us.—Wilmington (N. C.) Sentinel.

The Washington Republican does not find sufficient diversion in the Beecher scandal, and consequently it has revived the White House scandal during the administration of Gen. Jackson.

Mr. O'Brien, the devoted Democrat who has accepted the Democratic nomination for Congress in the third Maine district, is probably a lineal descendant of Quintus Curtius. Mr. Blaine's majority last time was rising 3500, and is as likely to be larger as smaller this time. Several better known Democrats with political futures to look out for refused point-blank to be made ten-pins of in any such way.—Springfield Republican.

[From the St. Louis Republican.]

A Stroll With a Candidate.

The campaign is coming on. In fact, it is already here. A campaign is something that makes candidates plenty. It makes drinks cheap, too—for everybody but the candidates. You have all seen a candidate and know how he looks. The fact is, you can't see much else at this season of the year.

But the Americans are a patriotic race. Ninety-nine out of every hundred of them will give up a situation worth $5,000 a year to take an office worth $2,000, and think he has done a big thing. It is so genteel to be a servant of the state at Jefferson City or in Washington. By the way, let us draw a distinction. There are two great public buildings at Jefferson City, both of which are set apart for the servants of the state. In one case the servants are nominated by a convention and elected by a majority. In the other case they are nominated by a grand and elected by a petit jury. There is a great deal of difference in the service rendered by these two classes of servants of the state, but sometimes there isn't as much difference between the two classes of servants as there ought to be.

But to resume. About every other man you meet now-a-days is a candidate. You can always tell him when you see him, by the benevolent look on his face. Well, one of the intellectual agents (vulgarly called reporters) of the Republican met a candidate yesterday. Walked with him around two squares. It was a terrible ordeal.

Did you ever walk with a candidate at this season of the year, and if so, how did you get home? Probably in a handcart. But maybe in a wheelbarrow. If you never did, don't try it. It is not good for the liver.

The intellectual agent first saw the candidate at the corner of Fourth and Chestnut. He was talking with a saloon-keeper in the Third ward. The saloon-keeper is a hard case, and his place is a resort for the b'hoys. But the candidate held him affectionately by one hand and was patting him familiarly on the shoulder with the other. The saloon-keeper had the best of it, and he knew it. So he let his hat slide down over his west eye and shrugged up his east shoulder, as much as to say he was a sort of king-pin in the political apple cart.

Something was said about King's. The candidate said it, of course, for he was doing all the talking. So King's it was. When we had gone about ten steps we met a somewhat dilapidated Irishman.

Candidate rushes up to him and grasps him by both hands. The intellectual agent has known this candidate for a space of four years and this was the first time he ever heard him talk with a brogue. But there it was, as unmistakable as Tipperary.

"Never knew I was an Irishman before! Why, Lord bless you, I've always been an Irishman."

"Av coorse bez an Irishman."

Then there was a brief season of whispered confidence, and the advance upon King's was resumed with reinforcements. By the time we got there we had picked up seven recruits. They were a hard set—all but the candidate and the intellectual. Then we went out and on down the street. Met two more Irishmen. They were old friends of our candidate. Had known him sixteen years; knew him in the old country. More drinks—of course. This time it was the Hole-in-the-Wall. Then went out on the sidewalk and met more constituents. The constituent is a thirsty soul, particularly at this season of the year. Still more drinks. Then we started for Olive street. Between Pine and Olive met thirteen constituents. Candidate shook hands with all of them, patted nine of them on the back, took four of them to one side for a confidential talk, and loaned one of them half a dollar. At the corner of Fourth and Olive street met three more constituents; shook hands with them, and said something about going down towards Third; started down and on the way picked up five recruits. It is amazing how many constituents it takes to make an office holder. This time it was beer. Then more beer. Finally more beer. It requires a great deal of beer to create the same amount of patriotic fervor that can be envolved from a small quantity of whiskey. It would never do for a candidate for any important office, with a large constituency, to depend on beer. He would burst before the campaign was half over. Beer is undoubtedly healthier for the constituent than whiskey, but it would be death to the candidate.

Recapitulation: Walked around two blocks; met thirty constituents; treated eight of them to whiskey; had confidential talks with seven; inquired after the families of nine; beered nine; loaned half a dollar to one. And the convention is not even called yet.

Mrs. Tilton and Anna Dickinson.

The Eli Perkins who attempts to pass for a wit, sends the following to the New York Sun from Saratoga:

One day last December, while in conversation with Anna Dickinson, the Beecher-Tilton scandal came up. It seems that every one of the strong minded women have been discussing the question for two years. The week before Miss Dickinson had spent a day with Mrs. Tilton. When I asked her what she thought of Mrs. Tilton, Miss Dickinson said:

"Mrs. Tilton is a queer woman. I do not know what to make of her. She changes like a kaleidoscope; you cannot depend on her word for twelve hours. She will state a thing one moment and deny it the next.

"How?" I asked.

"Why, for instance," replied Miss Dickinson, "the other night Mrs. Tilton took me in her room and told me the most woeful stories about Theodore's treatment of her. She said her husband didn't love her, didn't support her, was cruel and abusive to her, and she wished she had a divorce,' and the very next morning," continued Miss Dickinson, "I received a letter from Elizabeth contradicting flatly all she had said the night before. This is the letter:

"My Dear Anna: I am afraid you may have gotten the impression last night from something I said that my love for Theodore has grown cold. If I conveyed the impression to you that Theodore was not the most gentle and loving of husbands, I wish to retract it, and ask you not to remember anything I may have said, or not to interpret it that I do not love my husband and he me. We are devoted to each other. Affectionately yours.

ELIZABETH."

"What do you think of this letter?" I asked Miss Dickinson.

"Why, I think Elizabeth in a petulant mood told Theodore what she had said to me, and that Theodore made her sit down and contradict the truth in this note."

The incident will, perhaps, shed some light on the changeable character of all Mrs. Tilton's letters and sayings.

The same correspondent writes as follows in regard to Miss Susan B. Anthony: At one time I was spending an evening at her rooms on East Twenty-third street. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, Mrs. Hooker, Mrs. Stanton, Miss Pauline Wright Davis and others were present. Miss Anthony was in charming spirits.

"I see you wear a new dress to night, Miss Anthony," remarked Mrs. Elmes of Birmingham, Conn., looking down at a neat, plum-colored silk.

"Yes," replied Miss Anthony, "I'm under obligations to Theodore Tilton for this. He gave it to me—the generous man!"

It occurs to me now that Theodore was very generous to give Miss Anthony a plum-colored silk dress while his wife was keeping boarders at 174 Livingston street, and it occurs to me that Susan has a good reason—a good plum-colored silk reason—for not wishing to testify against Theodore.

A festival held at Avignon recently in honor of Petrarch brought out 1,000 candidates for prizes.

WANT IN MINNESOTA.—The Mayors of the larger cities are receiving communications from a committee of the residents of Martin county, Minnesota, who have been so severely afflicted with the locust plague during the past two years. The communication states that the red-legged locust or grasshopper of the plains lighted on the fields in that county and commenced its ravages. In a month the entire crop with the exception of a small portion of the cereals, was entirely destroyed. Several other counties in this State have suffered from this cause, but none so severely as this, and in all of the counties the loss was a hard one because the people are mainly engaged in agricultural pursuits, and are dependent almost entirely upon their crops for support. Of the $5000 appropriated by the state for the aid of sufferers, Martin county, with over a fourth of the entire population, received less than one-twentieth part. The locusts left after destroying the crop, and the ground was literally filled with eggs, which were hatched in May of the present year, when the ravages were renewed with results, if anything, more deplorable than during the previous season. In their course nothing was left for the nourishment of man or beast. Labor has become unsalable, and it is feared that if aid is not received at once, the approaching winter will be one of much suffering in this locality. Money, clothing, flannels, seeds, dried fruits and groceries are earnestly solicited by the committee. Those who desire to aid this people by contributions can send them to the Commissions of Fairmount, Martin county, Minnesota, via S. M. R. B. to Winnebago City.

MRS. TILTON'S CROSS EXAMINATION.—Many of the New York papers, particularly the Times and Post, are very careful to reserve their opinions until the whole case is heard. Other papers, however, freely give their opinions, as the following extracts respecting Mrs. Tilton's cross-examination indicate. The Tribune says:

Mrs. Tilton's testimony before the Plymouth Committee is a heart breaking history; and its ingenuous candor is as plain as its pathos. Whatever men may still say about the general issue they will believe this woman's account of her husband's conduct, and her own sufferings. That at least is not the ingenious effort of cunning guilt. It is a picture from the life.

The Herald is less pronounced in favor of Mrs. Tilton, but says:

That she loved him but sinned is not the theory of her defence, and this theory is supported by her "Catherine Gaunt" letter. Her story is marvellous, heart-rending, well nigh impossible, but it is, after all, the first gleam of light which has yet fallen on this tangled web of sorrow and suffering. It may be the beginning of the end, and if it should prove so it would bring joy to men and women who neither know nor care for either Beecher or Tilton, and teach anew to all the world how important it is to cling to the old-fashioned notions of virtue and morality.

The World, which has been especially severe in its assaults upon Mr. Tilton, says:

It is a pitiful story—most pitiful. Tilton in his testimony before the same committee paid high tributes to his wife's character. But her story needs no such guarantee of its verity from him. Its improbability surpasses all invention, yet no reader will question its truth.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH IN ENGLAND.—A Parliamentary return for the year 1873 shows that the deficiency of the revenue from the postal telegraph was £288,007. It seems that the government paid more than a fair value for the lines bought up, and the system has been conducted with a continual loss. A singular fact in connection with the conduct of it is that the managers, not wishing to call on the House of Commons to make good successive deficiencies, had quietly, and without any legal warrant for doing it, converted to the postal telegraph department £600,000 held by the Post Office savings bank as the property of an army of small depositors. This became known in 1872, and had to be acknowledged by the Gladstone government, which was obliged to restore the "borrowed" money.

Is Your Stomach Uneasy?

Many a dyspeptic Croesus would be willing, it is said, to give half his wealth for an easy stomach. If this is a fact why do many of our "solid men" continue to endure the pangs of indigestion? Is it not patent to the whole community that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will cure the worst case of chronic dyspepsia in six or eight weeks? No occasion for the expenditure of half a fortune; a few dollars will suffice to accomplish the object. Surely every man who is not "sand blind" to the great utilitarian facts of the day must know that this celebrated vegetable specific promptly relieves all diseased conditions of the stomach, liver, bowels and nervous system, restores their vigor and imparts regularity to their functions. Is your epigastrium uneasy? Is the vulture, disease, gnawing at your liver? If so, resort at once to the Bitters.

The carriages for the procession yesterday were from the establishments of J. W. Robinson, C. Sager and Fernald & Sawyer.

Although there were a large number of persons in the city yesterday the streets were remarkably quiet.

Sheridan Post, G. A. R. of Biddeford go to Little Chebeague on a picnic to-day.

Don't forget the grand concert by the Hayes quartette at Old Orchard this evening. It will be well worth attending.

The carpet stores of Marrett, Bailey & Co., and W. T. Kilborn & Co., will be closed Saturday afternoons at two o'clock during this month.

The Pythian Celebration.

A THOUSAND KNIGHTS IN LINE.

The first celebration of the Knights of Pythias in Maine took place in this city yesterday, and was very creditable to the young and flourishing order. The three lodges established in this city have made the organization familiar to our people. The Order was founded in the city of Washington, by J. A. Rathbone, on the 19th of February, 1864. It now numbers over 125,000 members, and has comrades in every state of the Union, in Canada, and in the Sandwich Islands. It derives its name from the old story of Damon and Pythias, and its principles are symbolized by the "F C. B." friendship, charity, benevolence, which are blazoned on all its banners. Portland possesses three lodges of Pythias, Bramhall Lodge No. 3, with a membership of 250; Munjoy Lodge No. 6, with a membership of 150; and Pine Tree Lodge with 50 members.

In the Order there are three grades of rank—The Page, Esquire and Knight. These grades are distinguished by the color in the shoulder straps and in the escutcheon on the cap. The uniforms consist of a black suit, over which is worn a baldric of blue, orange and scarlet, a white helmet or a black cap with a band of silver lace, and the scutcheons of the Order, shoulder-straps, sword and belt, and gauntlets.

Some of the visiting Knights arrived Wednesday noon, but the majority did not reach here until an early hour yesterday morning. A little after midnight the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island, Hiram L. Howard, Grand Chancellor, with delegates from sixteen lodges, under escort of delegates from Massachusetts lodges, accompanied by the Salem Brass Band, put in an appearance. Two hours later the Norombega Lodge of Bangor, and the Gardiner Lodge of Gardiner, headed by the Bangor Cornet Band, arrived at the railway station. At five in the morning the Webster and King Philip lodges of Boston came in on the steamer Forest City, while a little later other Knights came in on the New Brunswick. The Biddeford, Saco, Lewiston and Saccarappa Knights came in on trains soon after.

THE PROCESSION.

The weather was fine and a better day for a street procession could not have been wished. The Knights assembled at Pythian Hall, from which floated the red-blue-orange banner of the Order, at nine o'clock. The sidewalks were crowded with curious spectators, and many were the praises showered upon the Knights as they hurried to and fro in their showy uniforms. At ten o'clock the different lodges began to fall into line, but it was nearly eleven before the procession was formed in marching order. Finally the procession started in the following order:

The published route of procession was gone over, and about noon the Knights embarked for the clam-bake at Hog Island. The display was a brilliant one, the splendidly blazoned banners of the Portland lodges, the parti-colored pennons of the visiting camps, the glittering helmets and showy baldricks of the Knights combining to make a procession the like of which has not been seen in Portland. It was voted a decided success, and so won the spectators that the Order in this state at least will not soon cease its already marvelous growth.

AT THE ISLANDS.

It is altogether probable that the steamer New Brunswick never was more jammed with humanity than when she left her wharf with the Knights. Saloons, ladies cabin, deck and hurricane deck were a seething mass of Pythians, laughing, talking, joking and singing. On the hurricane deck were stationed the bands, which did their best to drown the babel of voices below, but with only partial success. Women struggled violently and pleaded touchingly to be admitted on board, but the hard-hearted Pythian who presided over the gangway sternly informed them it was a party for ganders only. The boat left her wharf a little before one o'clock, and sailed about due northeast until a smoking volcano was sighted on the easterly end of Hog Island. The signal was then given, engines slowed and the steamer was brought to the wharf.

There is something absolutely maddening in the odor of clams. We have seen men who said they produced intoxication and they were in a condition which seemed to justify the assertion. The effect of this aroma was visible as soon as the boat touched the wharf yesterday. Decorous Knights instantly plunged pell mell for the gang-way. It was useless for the bold Knight who stood on the hurricane deck to cry "Gentlemen, get to the starboard! The boat will heel over!" &c. The clams had been scented and the species of emotional insanity produced was only to be subdued by huge doses of the bivalves.

As fast as they got on shore the Knights seated themselves at the long tables which had been set it the grove, the seaweed was raked off the smoking pile and the tables loaded with lobsters, clams, eggs, green corn and potatoes. It is no use to attempt to describe the scene which followed. Doctors and apothecaries were jubilant as they saw the indigestible viands disappear.

After lunch the Knights devoted themselves to physical exercises until five o'clock when dinner was served, which, strange to relate, was devoured with as much eagerness as the lunch a few hours before. The capabilities of the human stomach are past all finding out. It was intended at this meal to indulge in what is tritely called a "feast of reason," but no sooner had the tables been cleared than a general stampede to the boat took place. It was no use to attempt to stop it, and so the toastmaster found his occupation gone.

When the boat arrived at the wharf in this city the procession was re-formed and marched to the City Hall, where it was disbanded.

IN THE EVENING.

City Hall in the evening presented a brilliant appearance. The banners of the order were hung from the galleries and the national flag above the stage. Uniformed Knights escorted more than the usual amount of youth and beauty in the promenade preliminary to the dance, and though the proposed band concert had to be dispensed with, the Bangor and Portland bands furnished some excellent music. In the Reception Hall the weary and warm disciple of Terpsichore could rest and cool off with an ice cream and recuperate his or her energies for the next polka.

Dancing commenced at about ten o'clock. The couples literally covered the floor. The masculine dress was monotonous but the ladies' presented all styles of make-up and all shades of color. Crowds of spectators looked down from the galleries upon the merry scene below or peered in from the halls. Dance followed dance in quick succession until an inspection of the clock and the railroad time tables compelled the visiting Knights to reluctantly take their departure for the Pullman trains, by which they returned to their homes.

It is only just to say that the celebration in every respect was a success. A programme has seldom been carried out with fewer mistakes. There was, as far as we can learn, a total immun ty from accident of any kind, and on the island there was not even an approach to any act which could be characterized as disorderly or rowdyish.

U. S. Commissioner's Cases.

Yesterday afternoon U. S. Marshal Marble arrived in the city having in charge B. J. Fallier, the seaman who refused to do duty on board the Effie J. Simmonds at St. John the 24th ult. He was brought before Commissioner Clifford, and bound over for appearance Saturday morning. The captain of the vessel William R. Harrington states that he shipped Fallier last May at Bath, and at once set sail for Baltimore. Before leaving that port to return to St. John Follier showed signs of being unwilling to work several times and tried to get the crew to join him, but they refused. No serious trouble was had on the voyage to St. John, but on arrival there he refused to work, and went to see the U. S. Consul, who told him to go back to the vessel. He did so, but at once made trouble, and the captain went to the consul to have the man arrested. He was arrested and taken to Tennants Harbor, whence Marshal Marble took him. The prisoner complains that the captain owed him and refused to settle, and he told him he would not work without pay. He is a man about twenty-five years of age, with a desperate look in his eyes. Col. A. W. Bradbury is his counsel.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Marble arrived here with William and John E. Hastings, two men whom he arrested at Bristol for selling liquor without a license. They were brought before Commissioner F. M. Rand, and the case continued until this morning. They furnished bonds for their appearance.

A game will be played, Saturday afternoon, at Deering, between the Resolutes and Haymakers of this city. LOST.—The following was on the slate at the station at 2 o'clock this morning: "A light-haired, blue-eyed boy five years old, named Stephen Burke, left his home on Park place at 12 o'clock yesterday to follow the Knights of Pythias procession. He wore a blue flannel, sailor cut suit, and a pair of slippers buckled across the instep, with short stockings and calves of legs bare." Doubtless the little fellow has been found or we should have heard more of it.

Mayor Havemeyer's Reply to Charges Against Him.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Mayor Havemeyer's answer to charges brought against him is made public. The mayor reviews the charges and says as to neglect of duty in refusing to investigate the official conduct of Commissioners Charlick and Gardner that he believes it to be quite unexpedient as a general rule for the Mayor to institute formal investigation into the conduct of heads of departments with a view to removal from office, except on some grave charge made by some responsible person who avers his readiness to maintain it by proof.

As to the charge of gross misconduct in office and abuse of the appointing power, the Mayor says he considers that charge from a legal and moral point of view. Touching the legal question he says all must agree that Charlick and Gardner were not ineligible to reappointment after their conviction and resignation, unless they were made so by the provisions of some statute, as he had been and is still advised.

The Mayor concludes thus: "It may not be inexpedient for your Excellency to consider whether the present appeal to your authority under the guise of a concern for the city of New York is in the interest of those who have been instrumental in securing and are still laboring to preserve whatever we have of good government, or of those who are seeking to undermine it.

WASHINGTON.

Polite Intimation.

WASHINGTON, Aug 6.—The Secretary of the Treasury has notified Inspector General Smith of the bureau of steamboat inspection service, that his resignation will be accepted. The cause of this step is on account of expenditures for experiments on boilers, etc., at Sandy Hook and Pittsburg, Pa., the Secretary holding that no good has been accomplished by such experiments, and besides four other members of the Board to examine causes of boiler explosions disagreed with Smith as to the manner of making experiments. The appropriation for experiments was $100,000, of which $60,000 has been expended.

THE GREAT SCANDAL.

Various Rumors.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The appearance of Moulton before the Beecher Committee last night occasioned great surprise by its members, and lawyer Hill is said to have excitedly fled to Sherman's house, where a long interview was held with him.

Beecher's testimony will be taken Monday night, so it is stated.

Lawyer Morris and Tilton are said to be at Coney Island preparing the papers to open the case in court. Shearman Tracy and Professor Raymond were closeted with Beecher all day yesterday.

Harriet Beecher Stowe is at Beecher's house.

A Chicago Yarn.

A Chicago dispatch states that a woman of that city, prominent in the suffrage movement, states that Miss Susan Anthony three years ago urged her to identify herself with the suffrage movement, but she then declined on the ground of lack of harmony between the New York and New England factions. Miss Anthony said the blame of the distractions rested on the New England factions, which had charged Miss Anthony fals ly with free love doctrines, while some of their own members were not only guilty of holding but practising such doctrines; for instance, Mr. Beecher, the first President of the Boston Society, was criminally guilty concerning a certain named woman of Brooklyn. But she said Mr. Beecher will never attack the New York ring again, giving as the reason that when they began to abuse Mrs. Stanton she (Anthony) went to Beecher and asked him if he proposed meddling by a party that accused so pure a woman as Mrs. Stanton. She (Anthony) then told Mr. Beecher what she knew of his practices, to which he made no denial, but said:—"Susan, what do you want me to do?" She told him that he should not suffer himself to be re-elected President of the Society again, and should withdraw his support from that faction, and said Susan, "from that moment he has never squelched."

Another Witness.

Mr. J. J. Sudwell, a fruit importer, and formerly publisher of the "Revolution" said today that Moulton told him at the St. James Hotel in Jacksonville, Fla., almost directly after the Woodhull connection at Washington that there was no truth in the rumors about Beecher.

Mr. Tilton's Lawyer Gossips.

Judge Morris, counsel for Tilton, said to-day that he had never seen a case as strongly fortified on all points as his client's. He exhibits to reporters a variety of letters which show that down to May, 1870, there was no vindictiveness on the part of Tilton toward Beecher. Mr. Morris also showed a receipt of Mr. Page dated 1868, for a portrait of Beecher purchased by Tilton and now hanging in Moulton's house, saying that in the following year, 1870, after Mrs. Tilton informed her mother of her guilty relations with Beecher, her mother threatened to cut the canvass into slits, and Tilton unwilling to see a work of art destroyed, removed it to Moulton's house, where it still remains.

Mr. Morris also said that Mrs. Tilton's statement concerning her husband's cruelty and his locking her in a room like a prisoner, his freezing and starving her, will be shown to be fictions, and if there be any insanity in the family at all the charge will be not at the door of Tilton but of his wife.

Moulton's Statement Ready.

It is reported that Moulton's statement is already prepared with the help of Gen. Butler. The services of the latter gentleman are said to have been offered Beecher and not declined but replied to with thanks. Moulton said to-day he had not said anything either with tongue or pen to justify any one assuming he was in the slightest unfriendly to Beecher. His statement to the committee would characterize no actions and interpolate no inferences of his own. There were some papers in his possession they desired to obtain. He should gratify the desire, recording the order in which they came to him, leaving the committee and the public to make their own inferences. He had thus endeavored to maintain peace between Beecher and Tilton and should continue to do so by the removal of misrepresentations and the intelligent realization of interest he should never despair of maintaining or renewing peace.

Saturday for Moulton.

The Beecher committee of investigation held no meeting to-night but will be in session tomorrow evening. Frank Moulton is busy preparing his statement to be laid before the committee Saturday evening, and is denied to all callers. It is stated that he denies having engaged Gen. Butler for counsel and announces his intention of conducting his own case before the committee.

THE RAILROADS.

The Saratoga Conference.

Important Regulations Adopted.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 6.—The Secretary of the recent conference at Saratoga of the Managers of Trunk Lines and Western Railroads gives some interesting information in regard to the meeting. He says that the following is a substance of the resolutions adopted at the conference:

Commissioners are to be located in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, and at such other points as the western lines may hereafter choose.

The commissioners for Cleveland and Toledo are to be appointed by lines centering at these points. An agreement is being drawn up, to be signed by all Western roads in the interest, with the exception of specific matters passed upon above the present contract between New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads, which form the basis of agreement. The several fast freight, dispatch and colored lines will be directed to stop buying or presenting paid tickets to any of their patrons. There are two bureaus of commissioners, an Eastern and Western bureau. The commissioners are to be located in the respective cities named. The Eastern bureau, representing trunk lines, is composed of Wm. Dennison of Columbus, T. S. Jewett of Philadelphia and B. W. Blanchard of New York. The following are the commissioners of Western bureau: L. M. Hubby of Cleveland, Geo. B. Wright of Columbus, Warren Colburn of Toledo, M. Drummond of Chicago, L. N. Andrews of Indianapolis Saml Gill of Louisville and J. H. Sturgess of St. Louis.

The Railroad Case Opened at Madison.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 6.—In the Supreme Court at Madison yesterday, in the railroad case the court decided that it would hear an application for a preliminary injunction upon the unverified complaint of the Attorney General, and that the objection raised by the counsel for the railroads would be considered in determining whether the application should be granted. The counsel for the railroads then read the affidavits, setting forth the depreciation of the gold bonds and preferred stock of the companies since the passage of the Potter law. After some objection the counsel for the State read a counter affidavit from Commissioner Osborne and Private Secretary Bird, stating that the companies were demanding and receiving illegal rates. Judge Orton then opened the argument in behalf of the State, confining himself to the question of jurisdiction. He had not concluded when the court adjourned.

The Grangers Warned Against the Railroads.

The Executive Committee of the State Grange has issued an address to the Granges of Wisconsin. It warns them that an attempt will be made in the next Legislature to secure the repeal of the railroad law, and urges them to resist the effort.

Two Cases of Manslaughter.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 6—Frank Howard of Providence, a private in Company A. 5th U. S. Artillery, deserted two years ago, and was recently re captured and returned to Fort Adams to await trial. This afternoon while at work on a wood pile with two other prisoners in charge of private Cassidy, Howard slipped his ball and chain and knocked Cassidy down with a stick of wood. Cassidy recovered his feet and fired at Howard, who was wounded in the stomach and died in half an hour.

Coroner Knowles held an inquest to-day over the body of Frank Casey, who died suddenly Wednesday morning after having been clubbed by officer Baker, who was attempting to arrest him for drunkenness Monday night. The verdict of the jury was that the deceased came to his death from injuries received while resisting the officer, but whether the injuries were inflicted by the officer's club or were received from a fall upon the sidewalk, the jury was not able to determine, but inclined to the latter view.

Negro Mob.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Aug. 6—A negro mob attempted to capture a white man who had taken refuge in a store on Market street. For an hour or two the danger of a collision between the whites and blacks was so eminent that the whites formed in a line of battle on Front street, between Market and Princess, and waited expecting an attack. The negro mob was finally dispersed by a large body of special police.

A fight occurred Thursday at Rocky Point fourteen miles from Wilmington, N. C., between about 100 negroes and 30 whites. The whites were seriously injured. The fight was still going on at last accounts.

The St. Louis Forgers.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—The junior members of Dorman & Co., have been released, and Alexander Dorman, who remains in custody, states that the forgeries were made some six months ago, and if he discovered the forged cotton receipts would have all been taken up by the firm in fifteen days. The amount involved is some $100,000, of which the German Savings Bank $24,000; Fourth National Bank, $20,000; Third National Bank, $40,000; and the remainder distributed among other banks, firms, etc. Attachments have been issued against cotton and other property to secure the creditors.

POLITICAL.

The Kansas Independents.

TOPEKA, Aug. 6—At the Independent state convention last evening the following platform was presented:

Resolved, That the past differences be laid aside and unite to secure the needed reforms; that all rights of the federal constitution should be secured to all the people; that states have exclusive right to control their own domestic institutions; that the conduct of the present administration is in defiance of public good and public sentiments, is wasteful, extravagant and incapable; that the public debt should be paid as per terms of contract; that the legal tender act be repealed and currency be issued direct from the Treasury; that the tariff on lumber be repealed; that the tariff on the necessaries of life be abolished and the income tax be restored; that donating public lands to railroads is illegal; that the reform party of Kansas will aid the settlers on the Osage lands to recover their homes; that railroad corporations should be subservient to the public good, and federal states legislation is demanded to prevent monopolies from harming farming and industrial interests; that Kansas senators and representatives vote for the unconditional repeal of the law vesting certain powers in the courts of the District of Columbia; that to secure voters for reform, party candidates in Kansas be supported only for integrity, honesty and capacity; that the President, Vice-President and United States Senators should be elected by the direct vote of the people; and that such legislation should be had as to prevent future defalcations and punish past defaulters.

Nominations for State Officers.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 6.—The following nominations for State officers were made by the independent convention to-day: For Governor, J. Cusey; Lieut. Governor, E. Harrington; Secretary of State, Nelson Abott; Treasurer, C. F. Kaester; Auditor, S. P. Smith; Attorney General, J. P. Hall; Superintendent of Public Schools, H. P. Morton; Associate Justice, W. P Dorthil. The nominations of candicates for Congress was left to the people of the several districts. After the adjournment of the convention the independent convention of thi congressional district met and nominated M. J Parrott of Leavenworth. The conventions for the 2d and 3d districts will be held next month.

Nominations.

J. A. Kasson has been re-nominated for Congress from the 7th Iowa District by the Republicans.

DENVER, Col, Aug. 6.—The Republican convention nominated H. P. Bromwell, formerly a congressman from Illinois, for a delegate to Congress.

The Tennessee Election.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 6.—The election is progressing very quietly. Not a single disturbance has occurred at the polls so far, and there is less drunkenness than ever seen on election days. A heavy vote will be polled. Business is almost entirely suspended.

A later despatch says that it is generally conceded that the Conservatives swept the city and will carry the county for their entire ticket, by from 1500 to 2000 majority. The official vote will not be known before to-morrow evening. The election passed off quietly.

It is believed now that the Conservative ticket has carried the city by over 2000 majority, and that the majority in the county will reach 300. Telegrams from surrounding counties show heavy Democratic gains.

The returns received render it almost certain that the conservatives will carry the 3d, 5th 6th, 7th and 8th congressional districts, with the chances largely in their favor in the 1st and 4th. The best estimates gives them 7 out of the 8 Congressmen, a gain of two members. The returns from every precinct thus far received except two show conservative gains on the vote of 1872, when the Republican majority in the State was less than 2000. Indications all favor the election of Stephen D. Pool, conservative, as superintendent of public instruction.

A National Reform Party.

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 6.—A convention to organize a national reform party for Michigan met in this city to-day, and was participated in by men of all political creeds. About 100 persons were present. Among them Hon. Austin Blair, R. Strickland, J. P. Cook and M. D. Wilbur. Resolutions declaring war on the existing governmental wrongs, favoring a single presidential term, sound currency and a return to a specie basis, state rights, moderate taxation, legislative control of railways, condemning the refusal of the state treasurer to make public the securities for loans from the state and on railroad passes to state officials were adopted. A state central committee was appointed who will call a delegated convention to nominate a ticket.

Utah Election.

SALT LAKE, Aug. 6.—The three police arrested for the alleged interference with voters were discharged yesterday by the United States commissioner. The vote in this county was: Cannon (Mormon), 5,233; Baskin (Liberal), 2,365.

Election at Wilmington, N. C.—Great Excitement.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Aug. 6.—The election for Superintendent of Public Instruction, Congressmen, Judges and Solicitors of the General Assembly and county officers took place in this state to-day. In this city the election passed off very quietly till nearly time for the polls to close, when James Heaton, a Republican politician, created a disturbance and successfully resisted the power of the city to arrest him for some time, being backed by a negro mob of several hundred. The whites took no part in it. The negroes now fill the streets, and the excitement runs high.

The few precinct returns received show conservative gains on the vote

POETRY.

[Derived from a Monkish Legend of the Twelfth Century.]

Why The Robin's Breast is Red.

BY PAUL H. HAYNE.

Know you why the robin's breast
Gleameth of a dusky red,
Like the lustre 'mid the stars
Of the potent planet, Mars?
'Tis—a Monkish myth has said—
Owing to his cordial heart;
For, long since, he took the part
Of those hapless children, sent
Hadean-ward, for punishment:
And to quench the fierce desire
Bred in them by ruthless fire
Brought on tiny bill and wing,
Water from some earthly spring,
Which in misty droplets fell
O'er their dwelling of unrest,
While the sufferers, faces grew
Softer 'neath the healing dew!

But, too far within that hell
Venturing, some malicious fiend—
A small devil, hardly weaned,
Seized bold Robin in his claw,
And athwart the flames did draw
His poor body, until fled
Sight of eyes, and sense of head,
Scorched he lay, and almost dead!

Then, a child, whose tongue and brow,
Robin's help had cooled but now,
Clutched the baby-fiend in ire,
And in gulfs of his own fire
Soused the vile, misshapen elf.
Fluttering upwards, scarce himself,
After all the pain and fear
Of his horrid sojourn there
In that realm of flame and smoke,
Lo! earth's happy sunlight broke
On the bird's dazed view at last;
But the ordeal he had passed
Left a flame-spot widely spread
Where the wind-blown feather's part
Just above his loyal heart,
So the robin's breast is red!

History of Seven Days.

The news for the week ending Wednesday August 5th.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL.

During the past week and for some time past, reports have come from the states of Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama, of an organization known as the White League. It is a secret society and is designed to unite the white men against his colored fellow citizens. The order is spreading very fast and as its purpose is to overcome rather than to conciliate and run the colored voter, we may expect serious consequences. In this direction are the resolutions of the Democratic State Convention of Alabama which met last Thursday. They declare against the colored man and call upon white men to unite to crush out what they call negro equality. The paper of a rebell recently pardoned by Congress, makes proclamation to the white men to defend a white man's government, in terms calculated to stir up bad feeling which will lead to bloodshed. In Vicksburg, Miss., there is trouble between the colored men and whites, the exact merits of which are un known. Gov. Ames has asked the President to send two companies of troops to that locality just for fear of trouble and to exercise a healthy influence by their presence. With this request, the President has declined to comply. He will only send troops when the Governor represents that they are necessary to prevent domestic violence. The issue now pending in the South will be watched with deep interest.

Senator Morton, who is the Republican leader of the south-west, has during the past week delivered a speech on the political issues of the hour. He thinks there is no chance for a third party, and that the Republican party is needed for the work of the future. He concludes that the negro question isn't settled, and that the Republican party can but deal with the transportation problem. He shows himself rather a follower than director of public opinion by declaring in favor of currency expansion.

The question of races either in a social or political aspect, appears in the case of the colored cadet, J. N. Smith of the West Point Military Academy, who was dismissed without being allowed to graduate because of deficiency in certain studies. He has made a statement to the effect that he was dismissed, not for deficiency, but in accordance with suggestions from high authority to prevent the War Department the trouble of assigning him to regiments with white officers, where he would be an equal. In reply to this, a professor at West Point is reported to have said that more allowance was made for the colored cadet, and more pains taken with him than there would have been with any other student similarly dull and vicious.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

The flood in Moravia, a district of Austria, reported last week proves more severe than stated. Eleven villages and two towns were devastated. The district where the storm occurred is very mountainous as was the case where the storms occurred near Pittsburg, Pa., and in Eureka, Nevada. It is said that these storms are likely to occur in localities of a similar conformation. The three floods reported, occurred very nearly at the same time, though thousands of miles apart.

The reservoirs above referred to, cannot be provided against by man, but the evidence increases that he doesn't take care of those he can make safe. The latest instance of this carelessness is furnished by Trenton N. J., where the main reservoir for furnishing the city with water, containing 30,000,000 gallons, gave way and nearly the entire quantity was poured in a flood into the city. Several houses were swept from their foundations, cellars filled and considerable damage done. Loss $50,000.

The Indians probably exceed in number and disagreeable features all the rest of the nation al paupers. They have a way of enforcing their demands, and their "claims" are as good as many others. Gen. Sherman is not inclined to believe that a general Indian war will take place. Even the average bad Indian has found that general wars don't pan out well. The wiser and older ones do not like to put on war paint. Only the young braves who haven't been to Wasoington and don't believe much about Uncle Sam's power, are anxious to take the war path. During the week several insignificant raids are reported on the part of the Indians; the troops are getting briskly after them and as a consequence several sharp fights have occurred. The following are the most important: On Canadian river, in north-western Texas, nine Comanches were killed last week. White scalps were found in their possession. A severe fight is reported near Jackson, Texas, but isn't confirmed. An Indian village composed of raiders was surprised at Oil Creek Mountains Wyoming Territory, and 25 killed and 100 wounded; two soldiers were killed and three wounded.

Quite a number of fires are reported the past week, among which are the following: Richie's mills, Newcastle N. B., one man burned. Salem Ind., loss $100,000. A square of small houses in New Orleans, loss $15,000. The four factories of Messrs. White of Danbury Ct., loss heavy and 80 people out of employment. Long & Barnhill's steam mill at Indiantown N. B., loss $30,000 and 80 men out of employment. Nos. 57 & 59 South St. Chicago, damage $25,000.

The following are some of the minor crimes and accidents of the week: Miss Ella Johnston who was presented with a revolver because she showed spirit in driving burglars from the house, went to practising with the weapon and has fatally shot a friend. Two trains on the Grand Trunk collided at Fort Erie, killing three persons. Lord Gordon, so called, who has gained some notoriety for swindling New York swindlers of the Bros. Drew and Jay Gould type, committed suicide Saturday in Manitoba while under arrest. The abduction of another child in New York is reported. Nothing has been heard from the Ross child—Three horse thieves were hanged by a vigilance committee in western Kansas.——Grasshoppers are harvesting in south-western Kansas.—Friday a sail boat was run down and sunk off Long Island head and three men drowned.——A girl named Welch is under arrest at West Farms N. Y., for setting fire to the room of a hotel in which she saw a child asleep.——In an attempt to tar and feather a man named Elliott at Oak Bluffs, Mass., he shot a man named Caleb C. Smith. The court discharged the man. It was a family trouble.——The state police of Boston has caused the detention of Thomas Cahill in Ireland for the murder of Bridget Landergan in the suburbs of Boston last December.——A bridge fell at Little Falls N. Y. Friday, upon which were a hundred people nearly all of whom were thrown into a canal. About 20 were injured, but not very severely.——A place called a baby farm has been discovered in New York where illegitimatel children are fed on soothing syrup and swild milk till they die. The "farm" is run in connection with a house of prostitution.——In some parts of Missouri, people let down fences and travel across lots. Four men did this at Sedalia, Sunday. On their return the owner of the farm, named Davis, met them when a fight occurred, and two of the former party were shot. A party was then raised to arrest the Davis brothers and two of them were shot in the attempt. The next day the Davises gave themselves up. Two or three of the wounded men will die.——An insane drunken student named Nevins attempted to assasinate Bishop Whipple at Fairbault, Minnesota, Sunday in church, because the bishop refused to ordain him as priest. The bishop seized and disarmed him.——Two New York lawyers get in jail two years each for cheating clients.——Two brutal and drunken husbands in New York have kicked their wives to death the past week.——A boy was sent from Springfield, Mass. to New York by express but the party to whom he was sent could not be found.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

The Secretary of the Treasury has called in $20,000,000 of coupon 5-20 bonds of the third series, dated May 14th, 1862, and $5,000,000 of registered bonds. The interest on these bonds will cease November 1st.

The Secretary of the Treasury decines that all lines of steamers plying between the United States and British provinces on the Atlantic coast, must conduct their business in all respects as foreign going vessels.

The Treasury Department is executing in the spirit and to the letter, the rules of the civil service reform. The Secretary is making arrangements for the re-organization of the department.

The public debt statement for July shows a reduction of $1,283,866, which considering the large and unusual payments, is favorable. The receipts of the internal revenue bureau continue unusually large. The expenditures of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1874, were $287,133,873.17. The currency in Uncle Sam's box is increasing, the amount being nearly $17,000,000 Monday, while the coin holds its own. During the month of August $5,000,000 of gold will be sold. The treasury payments for July were $16,516,576.08.

Congressman Platt of Va. has brought a libel suit against the publishers of the Sunday Gazette of Washington.

The Senate naval committee will start on their tour of inspection at once. They have it in their power to recommend reforms in the way of economy which will save the nation several millions. The navy yards from the first have been little better than asylums for the lazy.

The War Department reports of the deaths of Major Crittenden of the 5th Cavalry, and Gen. J. A. Haskin, retired. Gen. H. had charge of the defenses of Washington during the late war, having lost an arm in the Mexican war.

FOREIGN.

In France there have been few developments of interest. The wrangle of factions continues and nothing but MacMahon seems permanent. The Assembly will adjourn from August 6 to November 30. In the meantime the constitutional committee will devise, or attempt to devise, some constitutional measures. The committee is made up largely of Monarchists or conservative men. The Bonapartists have no representative thereon. With the MacMahon ministry, the Bonapartists are suspected, and their houses are searched for treasonable documents. The Republican government of Spain complains that the MacMahon government gives aid and comfort to the Carlists. Of late several Bourbon adherents have been bold enough to declare in the Assembly that they considered it their right and duty to do every thing in their power to establish a monarchy.

During the week slight Republican successes are noted, but there has been no great change. The question of armed intervention has been discussed, but the English government declares that it never had a thought of it, and does not think that other powers will consider the proposition favorably. The question of acknowledging the republic of Spain has also been considered but these crowned heads and their governments are very careful not to recognize too much republicanism in Europe.

In the British House of Commons the public worship regulation bill has passed to a third reading. In Germany there is nothing new as regards the conflict between the state and Romish church. It is said that the Catholic bishops have forwarded a protest declaring that they cannot submit to one sided laws and asserting that legislation respecting the church belongs to the Pope alone.

The international Congress does not seem to be doing much.

Strikes are reported among factory operatives at Belfast, Ireland.

BUSINESS, ETC.

There is a general feeling that business will begin to revive by the end of August. Crops are good, money is plenty in money centers, the dry goods and iron trade are quickening a little and speculation is generally at a low ebb.

The other day the Chicago grain gamblers succeeded by the aid of Toronto capital in making a corner of corn by which the price was advanced about 15 cents on a bushel. Several small dealers were ruined, but the leaders made something. A corner in oats was made in New York the same day. A full report of the various markets may be found elsewhere.

THE GREAT SCANDAL.

Because of the absence of any reliable facts the past week relative to the scandal which so seriously affects the character of Rev. H. W. Beecher and others, the papers of New York and Brooklyn have been filled with all sorts of reports, rumors and interviews. All sorts of people are anxious to get their names into print in connection with this deplorable affair, like the cockney who pined to be kicked by the Duke of Buckingham that his name might appear in the court record in connection with that of the noble lord.

Last week we left Tilton surprised at an arrest for libelling Mr. Beecher on a warrant procured by the complaint of one Gaynor, an attache of the Brooklyn Argus, the paper which espouses Tilton's cause. Since that time Mr. Tilton has appeared in court, and the upshot of the whole affair is that the case will be dismissed. Tilton says he had nothing whatever to do with the affair, and Gaynor, who appears to be a notoriety seeker, claims the act as his own for the good of society. The Brooklyn Investigating Committee have been holding sessions nearly every evening, but little that has transpired there has been made public. For more than a week the Committee have been looking for Frank Moulton, who as a friend to both parties is mixed up with the whole scandal, if he was not indeed the confederate of Tilton in the whole business. For a week previous to Tuesday he was flitting about the country, being one day the guest of Gen. Butler at Bay View on Cape Cod, another at Narragansett, R. I., and a third visiting a sick wife. Tuesday he was seen in Brooklyn by the reporters of the Argus and the Eagle. The former represents him as saying that he had received no request to appear before the Committee, while the latter declares that he said that he found at his house two requests dated July 27th and 29th, but had not yet received the letter from Mr. Beecher requesting him to appear and tell all he knew. He told the Eagle reporter that he would not appear unless he received a request from both parties to do so. Moulton thinks the trouble should have been arranged by compromise. He declined to say whether or not he had the original letters in his possession. Frank Carpenter, who has made a great deal of talk about the scandal, refuses to appear before the Committee. Mr. Tilton could not let a week pass without publishing a letter. The last is addressed to the Investigating Committee and declines to furnish the original letters of Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton, which he says he was willing to do before the Committee when he appeared there and which it was agreed one of its members should examine, but who, he says, never called upon him. He says he is advised to this course by his legal counsel, intimating that he was arrested at the suggestion of Beecher's friends. He also charges that the Committee, though composed of honorable men, are bound to exonerate Mr. Beecher and criminate him (Tilton.)

The Committee has also given to the public the authorized cross-examination of Mrs. Tilton. It is very long and is only explanatory of her statement, an abstract of which was given last week. She complains at all times, even when she was very sick, that her husband never gave her any more attention than if he had been an entire stranger. She asserts that years ago he began to criticise Mr. Beecher and repeat scandals respecting him and other ladies than Mrs. T. long before she had an idea that he was suspicious of her—that when Mr. Beecher came to visit her in sickness, she always made it a point to tell him (Mr. T.) all the conversation and inform him of every visit—that at length he began to charge her in fits of passion with improper and criminal action with Mr. Beecher, which she always resented, and until it became a common occurrence, with indignation—that her husband has constantly belittled her and treated her with indignity in public, telling her to keep away from him in hotels and public places and once declaring in a party that he would give $500 if she was not by his side. She reiterated her denials of receiving improper attentions from Mr. Beecher, declaring in the one case instanced by Mr. Tilton (at Beecher's house) that it never occurred; and in the other instance, where she and Mr. Beecher were found in a sleeping room, she says that Tilton left them there and returned in five minutes finding them as when he went out. In reference to the letters written by her accusing Mr. Beecher, she said that all of them were written by Tilton and copied by her in bed from severe illness or at his personal solicitation nearly amounting to violence, on the pretext that it would help him in the adjustment of his business troubles. The note declaring that Mr. Beecher asked her to be his wife, "with all that it implies," she told him at the time was false and wrong, but he represented that it was necessary to help him out of the Woodhull affair. She says she also went to Dr. Storrs and told him the letter written to him was false. Tilton was always excited when he asked for these letters, and usually did so after consultations with Moulton. She even declares that when she gave some of these letters she was unconscious of the act from great sickness, and cannot now recall what took place. She denies telling Miss Anthony that she had done wrong with Beecher, but remembers of telling her as a friend of the unfaithfulness of Mr. Tilton, who frequently admitted that during his lecturing tours he had committed adultery and did so as often as he desired. In the course of the cross-examination Mrs. Tilton says that Tilton accused her of criminal conduct with other men than Mr. Beecher.

Wednesday a number of letters passed between Mr. Beecher and Mr. Moulton, which are published elsewhere. Mr. Moulton is to testify.

Treatise on Nervous Diseases
—AND THE—
Cordial Balm of Syricum.

During the year 1865 Dr. G. Edgar Lothrop had a new and peculiar drug, from the interior of Africa, brought prominently under his notice by the very strange effect it produced on an animal who had accidentally swallowed a large quantity. Owing to this circumstance he was led to make many experiments on the lower animals, and he soon discovered that it had a very peculiar effect on the Nervous System. This induced him to experiment both on himself and some of his patients, and such was the wonderfully beneficial effects, and so rapid the cure of those afflicted with nervous diseases, that Dr. Lothrop came to the conclusion that he had discovered a new and valuable addition to the medicines of the pharmacopoea. He soon found that this medicine, in conjunction with some others, cured nervous diseases of all kinds with a certainty and rapidity of which he had no previous conception.

A few words on that special disease generally known as Nervous Debility or Weakness. This is in most cases brought on by total ignorance of the fearful pernicious effects, but it is also brought on in many cases brought on by no fault of the person afflicted, but by disease, long confinement, and several other causes—but in all cases the effect on the constitution is the same. Heretofore, there has been no cure for this disease, but Dr. Lothrop, having put up this medicine in the form of CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM and TONIC PILLS, combined with other medicines, offers them to all sufferers as a safe and speedy cure. Our Lunatic Asylums are full of patients, in many cases brought thither by the effects of Nervous Debility. Many thousands suffer in silence, hopeless of relief, having often been deceived by unprincipled quacks. Such is not the case with Dr. G. Edgar Lothrop's CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM and TONIC PILLS. A very short trial will demonstrate their efficacy.

Any who suffer from the effects of over indulgence in tobacco, or alcoholic stimulants, Palpitation of the Heart, St. Vitus' Dance, Epilepsy, Nervous Headache, Sleeplessness, Restlessness during Sleep, Loss of Memory, Irritability, Nervousness, Twitching of the Nerves, and all other Nervous Diseases, will find this medicine a real blessing.

Should any person into whose hands this notice comes, have a friend whom he knows or thinks is afflicted with any Nervous Disease, Nervous Debility, etc., he will confer a real kindness on his friend by sending it to him, so as to give him an opportunity of being cured by the use of Dr. Lothrop's CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM and TONIC PILLS.
