MOTOR CAMPING IN MAINE

Typical Camp Site maintained by State Forestry Department

DISTRIBUTED BY STATE OF MAINE PUBLICITY BUREAU
PORTLAND, MAINE
The unincorporated townships or so-called “wildlands” territory is, broadly speaking, that section of the State of Maine north of a line drawn from Bethel on the west to Mattawamkeag and Houlton on the east, with the exception of Penobscot County in the vicinity of Patten; Aroostook County in the vicinity of Houlton; northern and eastern Aroostook County along the New Brunswick border and in the vicinity of Fort Fairfield, Caribou, Presque Isle, Ashland, Van Buren and Fort Kent; Piscataquis County in the vicinity of Dover-Foxcroft and Greenville. The greater part of Washington County is unorganized territory, with the exception of coast towns in the vicinity of Cherryfield, Machias and Eastport, and border towns in the vicinity of Perry, Calais and Princeton. There is also some unorganized territory in the eastern part of Hancock County.

ON THE SHORES OF SEBAGO LAKE

These unorganized townships are mostly in that part of the State where lumbering operations are carried on and the law referred to above has been made for protection against the menace of forest fires.

Attention of motor campers is called to state fire regulations which require campers to obtain permission of land owners before camping or building fires. This particularly applies to incorporated townships where it is desired to camp on a farm or shore of lake or river or on the seashore.

Many public camp sites have been established in the last season by the Maine Forestry Department. These sites are built alongside the highways near a spring or brook. Each area is cleared of all rubbish and inflammable material and in the center is a substantial rock fireplace with a table near that will seat twelve persons, the metal signs of the department are placed in conspicuous places alongside the roads indicating the location.
WHERE FISHING INVITES YOU

It is the intention of the Forestry Department the coming season to make as many more camp grounds as possible in all appropriate places in the state.

Their location is indicated on the State highway map.

There are established camp grounds in different parts of the State, at some of which a charge is made, while others are free, as listed on the following pages.
NOTE—Where no rate is given it generally means free camping space.

IN GENERAL

Under certain conditions camping may be had on the shores of lakes and streams, if permission is first obtained of property owners and due attention given to fire danger and sanitation, and to not transgress the laws of the State Public Health, Fish and Game and Forestry Departments. Information can be obtained on application to these departments at the State House, Augusta, and to the city clerks or chairmen of selectmen or any public officer of the cities and towns. To put it in a nutshell: You may camp beside almost any lake and stream if you obey the general laws and do not create a nuisance. Some public grounds have been closed because campers cut or marred the trees, left empty tin cans to breed mosquitoes, vermin and other dangers to health, did not extinguish fires and in general did not observe the laws and requirements of common decency. Help us to make the State of Maine such a place that the "Welcome" sign can be always on display. Treat others as you would want to be treated and consider the rights of others as well as yourself—that is all that is necessary.

Non-residents of the State who want to fish or hunt must take out a license to fish costing $3.15, to hunt birds costing $5.00, or birds and deer or deer $15.00. These may be purchased of the State of Maine Publicity Bureau, Portland, Maine, or at sporting goods stores, hotels and camps in the fish and game sections of Maine.

We want to make this record as complete as possible and the co-operation of motorists is desired to this end. Motor campers are invited to report to us full particulars of camping places which they find that are not included in this list, and also as to conditions and accommodations at these listed camping grounds, for our guidance in future issues of this publication.

EXTRACTS FROM MAINE MOTOR VEHICLE LAW

MOTOR VEHICLES

All passenger vehicles owned by non-residents and properly registered in their home state may be operated for an unlimited period on the highways of the State of Maine.

The above also applies to trucks, tractors and trailers up to and including one ton rated carrying capacity.

OPERATORS' LICENSES

All persons who are residents of other states and are duly licensed in the State of their residence may operate motor vehicles in this state for an unlimited period.

All non-residents operating motor vehicles in this state who are residents of states that do not require the licensing of operators must be licensed in Maine before operating here.

SPEED

35 miles per hour is maximum in open country. A speed of over 25 miles per hour places the burden of proof on the operator that the speed was not excessive or reckless.

15 miles per hour in thickly settled sections where signs are posted reading “speed limit 15 miles.”

Municipal officers may designate places on highways which are unusually dangerous and post signs “automobiles go slow” where the speed shall not be greater than ten miles an hour.

Operators of trucks with pneumatic tires not to exceed 20 miles per hour in open country and not to exceed 12 miles per hour in built-up sections. With two or more solid tires, not to exceed 15 miles per hour in open country and not to exceed 10 miles per hour in built-up sections.

LIGHTS

One-half hour after sunset and one-half hour before sunrise. Two headlights with red light in the rear, with white illuminating rear tag.

RULES OF THE ROAD

Keep to the right at all times, allowing free passage at left to more swiftly moving vehicles and to approaching vehicles.

Car must be stopped not less than 5 feet from the rear of street car, heading the same direction, when street car is taking on or discharging passengers.

When overtaking another vehicle pass to its left.

Do not overtake another vehicle on a sharp turn or curve or on approaching crest of hill where full view of highway is obstructed.

No person shall leave his vehicle standing on the highway so as to obstruct the free passage of other vehicles.

All vehicles shall have the right of way over other vehicles approaching at intersecting public ways from the left, and shall give the right of way to those approaching from the right, except that traffic officers stationed at such intersection may otherwise regulate traffic thereat.

Motorists from other states may remain in Maine so long as they choose to, without taking out a Maine automobile license. Maine has thrown her doors wide open and invites everyone to come in and stay as long as they choose.
RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH OF MAINE GOVERNING CAMP-GROUND SANITATION

Under authority conferred by Chapter 197, Public Laws of 1917, as amended by Section 14 of Chapter 172 of the Public Laws of 1919, the following rules and regulations are hereby made by the State Department of Health to be in effect on and after June 1, 1924.

Definition.—The following regulations shall apply to any city and county, village, community, institution, person, firm or corporation, operating, maintaining or offering for public use, or permitting to be used by the public within the State of Maine any tract of land on which persons may camp either free of charge or by payment of a fee.

Water supply.—(1) A water supply of sanitary quality shall be provided in ample quantity to meet all requirements of the maximum number of persons using such a tract at any time. Said water supply shall be easily obtainable from its source or from faucets on a pipe distributing system within a distance of not more than 300 feet of any camp spot within such tract. The source of all water supplies must be protected from pollution in a manner satisfactory to the State Department of Health.

(2) Any water considered unsafe for human consumption in the vicinity of such tract of land, to which campers or picnickers on said tract may have access, shall be either eliminated or purified, or shall be kept posted with placards definitely warning persons against its use.

Disposal of excreta.—(3) Fly-tight privies or water-flushed toilets shall be provided and shall be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition. Separate toilets for men and women shall be provided, one toilet seat for each 15 men, and one for each 15 women, or fraction thereof, of the maximum number of persons occupying such tract at any time. No camp within such tract shall be at a greater distance than 400 feet from both a men's and a women's toilet. The location of all toilets shall be plainly indicated by signs.

Disposal of refuse.—(4) Supervision and equipment sufficient to prevent littering of the ground with rubbish, garbage or other refuse shall be provided and maintained. Fly-tight depositories for such materials shall be provided and conspicuously located. Each and every camp on said tract shall be within a distance of not over 200 feet of such a depository. These depositories shall not be permitted to become foul-smelling or unsightly or breeding places for flies.

No nuisance permitted.—(5) The method of final sewage or refuse disposal utilized in connection with
