A KNOWING DOG. There is a dog in the jail and house of correction, at Lawrence, that is so familiar with the routine of his master's duties, and so willing and able to assist in their performance, that he is more feared by the prisoners than the master himself. After the prisoners leave the workshop for their cells and are properly secured, the dog, at stated intervals, promenades the staircases leading to the different cells, and if all is right, quietly returns to his quarters. On one occasion, the cells being all full, it was found necessary to make up a bed on the floor of one of the balconies for an inmate. As this arrangement had not been communicated to the dog, he found, on making his evening patrol, this prisoner out of his cell, and immediately hauled off the bed clothes, seized him by the arm and led him into the rotunda, where he kept him standing, without clothing, until the return of the keeper, who took him back to his quarters in company with the dog, to inform him not to further molest him. On another occasion, while the dog was in the sheriff's office, a gentleman called upon business, and the sheriff being absent at the time, the party concluded he would call again; but the dog insisted upon the stranger's stopping, and taking him by the arm, led him to the chair, where he was obliged to remain till the sheriff came in.

MAKING ENVELOPES. A ream of paper, or about five hundred sheets, is placed under a knife of a shape corresponding with an envelope when entirely opened, which is forced down by a powerful screw press, worked by a hand lever. The pieces cut out, slightly adhering to the edges from the action of the knife, resemble a solid block of wood until broken up. The flap is afterwards stamped by a similar process, a boy being able to prepare fifty thousand per day in this manner, taking one, two or three envelopes at each movement of the hand. They are then taken by one hundred girls seated at long tables, by whom they are folded and gummed. A single girl will apply the gum to sixty or seventy thousand in a day, and five to seven may be folded at the same time. In these processes the girls acquire great celerity and skill.—[London Journal.]

A Catholic priest, called Don Gurliano, has been tried and condemned at Turin on the charge of having seduced a number of young women. Thirty-three of his victims bore testimony to his guilt, and how many more he had ruined is not known. He is described as a very handsome man, in both face and figure, and as being about forty years old. His crimes extended over a period of several years. He was sentenced to seven years solitary confinement, but it is thought he will soon die, as the sense of shame has fearfully undermined his constitution. Those who may be inclined to attribute his conduct to his Catholicism, ought to recollect that he was detected and exposed by Catholics, tried by Catholic authorities of a Catholic country, and by them sentenced to severe punishment under a Catholic country.—[Traveller.]

ROMBERG BIRDS' NESTS. The boy who will calmly go and rob a bird's nest must have, it seems to us, a very bad heart. If the beautiful, innocent little warblers, who make all nature jocund with their morning songs of praise, are not safe from the marauding hands of vile urchins, we don't know of anything that would be sacred to them. We should be afraid to trust the boy who will rob a bird's nest, for he must have very feeble ideas of right or wrong, to say the least of it. We hope none of our little readers will commit such a crime, and more than that, if they should happen to know where there is a nest, we hope that they will keep it to themselves, so that those who are evil disposed may not disturb it.—[Lynn Reporter.]

The New York Tribune states that Postmaster Pack of Brooklyn has ordered all the letter carriers attached to his office to shave their upper lips, under pain of dismissal from office, and the order has been complied with. This piece of post-magisterial despotism is worthy of Bumba or the Emperor Joseph.

OXYGENATED BITTERS. To such of our readers as are troubled with the debility incident to the approach of warm weather, we cordially recommend the use of the Oxygenated Bitters, as an invigorating tonic—safe, efficacious and highly palatable when diluted according to directions, containing no alcohol in its composition, and possessing more real merit than any preparation of the kind we have ever known. Many leading physicians use it in their practice, and have spoken of it in the strongest terms of praise over their own signatures. Its reputation as a cure for dyspepsia is universal.—Ogdensburg Republican.

This peculiar and excellent remedy is worthy of all the numerous tributes which have been paid to its rare qualities as a healing medium.

Much has been said of the Eastern Esculapian in his robes, but one has not yet been told of the indomitable perseverance of this singular man. Imbued with the conviction that Scrofula is the parent of disease, he has been years engaged in searching the boundaries of the earth, for its antidote. With vast labor has he canvassed the products of sea and land, through both continents which he has discovered that combination of remedies which expurgates this human rot and corruption from the system.—This new invention we now offer in our columns under the name of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, although its virtues are from substances far more active and effectual than Sarsaparilla. Mercantile Journal.

HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY AND ITS POSITION. The introduction of this great development of medical science, was through a six years' trial in most obstinate cases usually found among the poor, and made more so by their poor living. In all the common compounds for Cough and Lung Complaints, that most fatal of all to good results, is the introduction of three perfect opposites, such as Opium, Ipecac or Antimony, and a stimulant as basis, producing one result. To give to the world a preparation which was obliged to caution patients to abstain from, where nausea or prostration follows, is not only unwholesome as a cure, but is against all mathematical laws of medicine. If you cannot make a common enemy of your complaint, and use a constant weapon to drive it out by a constant application, without fear of nausea or prostration, then your complaint will hold its position, and your system is being debilitated and the complaint becomes chronic. In the UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY none of those objections exist, but with "in one hand a weapon, and in the other a tool," you drive out disease, and build up or sustain, a debilitated constitution. Let our friends endorse our remarks by trial on all Throat, Lung or Bronchial Complaints, and before doing so, procure and read the pamphlets to be found with our agents or dealers, and buying only of such as they can rely upon, to get the genuine, then the endorsement will be found real, and the results perfect. See advertisement.

DYSPEPSIA. There is perhaps no disease which destroys the happiness and comfort of individuals, and families to the same extent as Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Previously to the discovery of the OXYGENATED BITTERS, There existed no medicine accessible to those suffering from this widespread disease, which relieved it in any marked degree. The power of these Bitters over the above named disease as well as over all those having their origin in imperfect digestion, and functional diseases of the stomach, as well as Asthma and General Debility is beyond all question.

Its speedy and permanent cures of some of the severest and stubborn cases on record is sufficient confirmation of this fact. COPY OF A LETTER FROM A SCHOOL TEACHER IN DETROIT.

DETROIT, Mich., June 10, 1837. Messrs. S. W. Fowler & Co., Boston.—In reference to the Oxygenated Bitters, I can say, that after having the Dyspepsia for several months, and almost dying with pain and heaviness in my stomach, I was prevailed upon by a friend who had been cured by the same medicine to try a bottle of Green's Oxygenated Bitters. Before using half a bottle I felt greatly relieved, and a half the time had used two bottles and a half I was entirely well, and still remain so. I know of several cases more distressing even than my own, which have been entirely cured by this invaluable medicine; and it gives me great pleasure to recommend it to any and all who may be suffering from this dreadful malady. W. A. BACON, Teacher of Detroit Select School.

A BATTLE HYMN.

IN HONOR OF SIR JOHN C. HEENAN.

The New York Times has a "Battle hymn" in honor of the American champion in the last international "mill," the following extract from which we commend to the "hero," and all similarly inclined:—

But, Heenan, boy,
I fear one day there'll be a "mill"
When champions all will get their fill
Of fight;
A sort of general grinding day—
In thy quality phrase, the devil to pay.
With heavy weights and light;
O, Heenan boy,
Within the bounds of this World Ring,
There walks a certain Champion King,
With whom we all must tussle;
Perhaps you know the right I mean—
He's quietly laid, link-jawed and lean,
Without a sign of muscle.

But yet though his "conditions" poor
As poor can be, one thing is sure—
He makes his "mawley" felt;
No fairness shows he to his foes—
He deals the foulest kind of blows,
And strikes "below the belt."

No "sparring," "stopping," "countering,"
then;
My "shoulder hither" floors the man
With a single pass;
Yes, Heenan boy, when he "let drives,"
Before his bony bunch of lives,
You'll surely "go to grass."

Now, Heenan, boy,
With such a "lively mill" in view,
A course of goods at low through
Were surely only right—
Let me suggest that you leave strife,
And for the balance of your life
Just pray instead of fight;
—Eh, Heenan, Boy!

A DIFFICULT QUESTION ANSWERED. "Can any reader of this paper tell why, when Eve was manufactured from one of Adam's ribs, a hired girl wasn't made at the same time to wait on her?"

We can, say! Because Adam never came whining to Eve with a ragged stocking to be darned, a collar string to be sewed on, or a glove to be mended right away, quick now! Because he never read the newspaper until the sun got down behind the palm trees, and then stretched himself, yawning out, "Ain't supper most ready my dear?" Not he. He made the fire and hung over the tea-kettle himself, we'll venture, and pulled the radishes and peeled the bananas, and did everything else that he'd ought to! He milked the cows, and fed the chickens, and looked after the pigs himself. He never brought home half a dozen friends to dinner, when Eve hadn't any fresh pomegranates, and the mango season was over! He never staid out until eleven o'clock to a "ward meeting," harrahing for the out-and-out candidate, and then scolding because poor dear Eve was sitting up and crying inside the gate. To be sure he acted rather cowardly about the apple-gathering time, but then that don't depreciate his general helpfulness, about the garden! He never played billiards, nor drove fast horses, nor choked Eve with cigar smoke. He never loafed around corner groceries while solitary Eve was rocking little Cain's cradle at home. In short, he didn't think she was especially created for the purpose of waiting on him, and wasn't under the impression that it disgraced a man to lighten his wife's cares a little.

That's the reason that Eve did not need a hired girl, and we wish it was the reason that none of her fair descendants did!—[Life Illustrated.]

LITTLE ALICE A—, dressed and prepared for a walk, was skipping back and forth through the entry, waiting for her mother to get ready to go out. Her cousin said he was going out too.

"No!" said Alice, "you can't go—you are not dressed up!" Her Uncle laughingly remarked that the pride stuck out quite early.

"No," answered Alice, "it isn't my pride, it's my new morose skirt that sticks out so!"

A young man was frequently cautioned by his father to vote for "measures," not "men." He promised to do so, and soon after receiving a bonus to vote for Mr. Peck. His father, astonished at his voting for a man whom he deemed objectionable, inquired the reason for doing so. "Surely, father," said the son, "you told me to vote for measures, and if Peck is not a measure, I don't know what is."

"How much money have you?" said a rich old curmudgeon to a gay young fellow counting his pretty daughter. "Oh, I haven't much of anything, now, but I have a very rich prospect, indeed." The wedding occurred, and the old chap learned from his fine son-in-law that the rich prospect was the prospect of marrying his daughter.

A young gentleman, very conceited and vain of himself, but who by the way was rather despised, with a face much pitted by the small pox, was not long since addressed by a chap, who, after admiring him for some time said, "When carved work comes into fashion you'll be the handsomest man I ever put my eyes on."

An editor of our acquaintances says he has an antipathy to disembodied spirits. We know him, for he never comes across them without taking good care that they shall not remain long out of the body.

You may wish to get a wife without a failing, but what if the lady, after you find her, happens to be in want of a husband of the same character.

A lady of uppermost was some time back, early on reading that male and female strawberry plants are found "cupping the same bed."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

A compound remedy in which we have labored to produce the most effectual alternative that can be made. It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power, as to afford an effective antidote for the diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure.
It is believed that such a remedy is wanted
by those who suffer from Strumous complaints,
and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found of the following complaints:
*Syphilis, and Syphilis Complaints, Eruptions
and Eruptive diseases, Ulcers, Pimples, Blotches, Tumors, Salt Rheum, Scald
Head, Scapitis and Syphilitic Affections, Mercurial Disease, Dropsy, Nephritis or Tie Dolorous Deblity, Dyspepsia and Indigestion, Erysipelas, Rose of St. Anthony, Pore, and indeed the whole class of complaints arising from the impurity of the Blood.*
This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can by the use of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of such a class of diseases; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Eyne where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer for cleaning the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this purgation of life dis-ordered there can be no lasting health.—
Sooner or later something must go wrong,
and the great machinery of life is disordered
or overthrown.

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it,
contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla,
or anything else.

During the late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been found to be the sick for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence failure and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the loss of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication
from the system the remedy should be judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle. PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.,
LOWELL, MASS.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
has won for itself such a reputation for the cure of the various diseases of the Lungs and Throat, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to recount the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section,
we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do for their relief all that it has ever been found to do.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.
FOR THE CURE OF

Dysentery, Piles, Hemorrhoids, Eruptions and Skin
Diseases, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetters,
Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Detergent Pill, and for Purifying the Blood.*

They are sugar coated, so that the most sensitive can take them pleasantly, and they are of such a nature as to do the world for all the purposes of a family physic.
