

HON. GEORGE E. MACOMBER, AUGUSTA.

NOW, man wants little here below
 A bank or two at best
 Electric roads or hospitals few
 To help fill in the rest
 A little something too on these
 As sort of an insurance
 If fortune glib should hold us up
 We'd not be held in durance
 Thru all these things to interweave
 Some mark distinctive we must find.
 It's here; the crowning trait of all
 The character, enriched by mind.
