Dear Mr. Smith:

It was with great interest and pleasure that we learned of your new book, JAMES MADISON, and with even greater pleasure that you can be claimed as a Maine author.

Some years ago the Maine Author Collection was started. Through the kind generosity of our authors, it has increased to include several hundred volumes at present, most of which are inscribed and presented for exhibit by Maine writers. Our biographical file is also indebted to them for the material which they kindly send us.

We have been unsuccessful in locating such information concerning you, and we would be very appreciative of any facts of this nature which you may care to send us.

We hope you will want to inscribe a copy of JAMES MADISON for the Maine Author Collection. We assure you it would be added with delight and pride to our shelves.

Very truly yours
