

MAINE WOODSMAN

VOL. XXVII. NO. 16.

PHILLIPS, MAINE, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1904.

PRICE 3 CTS.

Twenty-Five Years Ago This Week.

The Ladies Aid sociable will meet with Mrs. A. Bradbury Saturday evening. If those who have no teams will meet at the post office conveyance will be provided. All are invited.

The Elmwood House, noticed constantly in our columns, has a carriage at the depot on the arrival of every train and will carry passengers to any part of the town or take them to the Elmwood, where all the conveniences and good fare expected may be found.

A party of railroad men are expected at Farmington next Monday night from Florida and Boston. They will come to inspect our railroad having the construction of such a route in view, somewhere in Florida.

Phillips Connected With the Outside World.

The Phillips Phonograph—O. M. Moore, editor and publisher—came to us last week in a condition of almost ecstatic delight and no wonder! The enterprising town of Phillips was no longer disconnected from the great world without—a train of cars from Farmington distant 20 miles had for the first time entered the town filled with a freight of humanity that made the village ring with its shouts of joy. The Phonograph eloquently exclaims, in capitals of great display, as it records the wonderful facts: "This is the day which marks the culmination of the hopes and fears of all the enterprising, generous and go-ahead men, women and children of North Franklin. Their names shall be engraved on the tablets of enduring memory. Let us forget our opponents, for Phillips is bound to the outside world by bonds of iron!" Well done, Bro. Moore! Not a word too much or too little! Notwithstanding the narrowness of the gauge—which will be found to be fully wide enough for all practical purposes—the occasion was one of great magnitude. We rejoice with our brethren and friends in Franklin—especially in Strong and Phillips—and must take early opportunity to see the practical workings of "that Narrow Gauge," and our friends in that region.—Gospel Banner.

Mr. Jeremy B. Towle of Dover, well known in Phillips, has lost three children with diphtheria—Mary A., aged 11 and Abbie, aged 5, died Nov. 10—not ten minutes difference in their deaths. Alice S., died Nov. 15. Mr. Towle also has a son sick with the same disease, who did not swallow anything for nine days, but he seems to be gaining slowly now. Mr. Towle lost his wife a year ago last March. We are sorry for him. He is a man that is deeply attached to his family.

We have but recently learned that Mrs. Raymond Toothaker of this village had the misfortune early in the fall to break one of the bones of her ankle. Glad to notice, however, that she is now able to ride out.

A meeting of the members of the Universalist parish of Phillips is called at the Elmwood next Thursday evening at 6.30 o'clock. A good attendance is especially desired.

The next meeting of the Baptist circle will occur next Thursday evening with Mrs. Nathaniel Beal. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

"The Sandy River railroad is now completed to Phillips. Now somebody please hold that Phonograph man."—Belfast Journal.

Hands off! now we are calm. P. A. Sawyer, Esq., counted himself out for Thanksgiving day and tackled the turkey at home.

Mr. G. D. Austin has been appointed depot master at Phillips—an appointment that gives general satisfaction.

A very pleasant meeting of the Methodist circle occurred at the home of Mrs. Dr. Kimball last Tuesday evening.

The Methodist Quarterly meeting occurred at the Phillips house the past week. Rev. Stephen Allen occupied the pulpit Sunday.

Mr. Marble of the Stoddard House, Farmington, showed himself well able to entertain a crowded house Wednesday evening.

Seward Dill has six swarms of bees for sale. He also publishes a notice of importance to those indebted to him by note or account.

Mr. Gilman B. Stone of Avon, aged about 45 years, died last Sunday and was buried from the Union church Tuesday. He was upon our streets but a few weeks since.

We have not yet presented the Sandy River railroad with any great amount of cash, but have endeavored to give 'em a "lift." Small favors thankfully received; larger ones in proportion.

A gentleman standing near the locomotive, Echo, Wednesday evening, was suddenly enveloped in a fierce outburst of steam. He didn't know it was loaded. Look out, the thing is liable to "go off" at any moment.

Show us the man who has yet examined the cars and equipments of the Sandy River railroad, who does not at once fall in love with all combined and we'll show you a man with soul so dead, that all love from his "bussum" sure has fled.

Mr. S. L. Balkam of Strong is about to dispose of his stock in trade to a man from Minot, who will continue the business with some additions. Mr. Balkam thinks some of building near the depot grounds, where he will probably carry on a wholesale business in grain, flour, etc.

We are glad to believe that arrangements are soon to be made by which the express business of Phillips is liable to prove more of a convenience to Phillips folks than heretofore. Mr. Ed Clark of Farmington, now acting as express and mail agent, is just the man to take this matter in hand and with C. E. Beedy to deliver parcels to and from the cars, we can depend on gentlemanly usage, to say the least, and there will be a chance for other improvements which will undoubtedly follow.

Grange Notes.

North Franklin Pomona Grange held an interesting meeting with North Franklin grange at Phillips, Nov. 17. The attendance was very good, 75 being present, most of the granges in this part of the county being represented. Several were also present from out of the county.

It was after 10 o'clock when the Master C. E. Berry called the meeting to order. After a short business session a class of six was instructed in the fifth degree. A recess of one hour was declared for dinner, after which order being again restored the meeting was turned over to the lecturer and the program was much enjoyed. Sister Kate B. Ellis, a special deputy of Fairfield, was with us and exemplified the unwritten work in a very impressive manner. Address of welcome, C. E. Berry; response, L. Daggett of Aurora grange; song, F. J. Toothaker, who responded to an encore. Brother Freese being present gave us a short talk that was much enjoyed. Reading, M. C. Cushman; reading, Evelyn Howland; reading, Sarah Graffan; remarks for the good and upbuilding of the order by Sister Ellis.

At a late hour all dispersed to their several homes with happy thoughts of a future meeting to be held with Aurora grange at Strong, Thursday, Dec. 15.

ELOPED FROM STRATTON.

Nellie Stevens and Thos. Brackett Very Much Wanted.

Mr. Stevens of Eustis, father of Nellie Stevens, aged 14 years, passed through Phillips Wednesday of this week in search of his daughter, Nellie, who left town Tuesday morning, accompanied by Tom Brackett aged 19, who has of late been employed on the Eustis railroad. Young Brackett has been somewhat attentive to Nellie and it is believed that it is a clear case of elopement.

They were traced as far as Farmington and it is understood that they were there Tuesday night.

Their friends in Eustis and Stratton think they are bound for New Hampshire expecting that they can get married there without the formality of being published, not knowing that the law there has been changed, so that it is necessary to be published there the same as in Maine.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Dr. F. A. Noble preached at the Union church taking for his text the single word "Grow," found in I Peter, ii, 2.

Everyone who is familiar with the New Testament Scriptures knows that the thought of growth is continually emphasized and urged both by Jesus and by the apostles. In this passage from Peter's epistle from which I have taken my text the apostle counsels those to whom he writes to desire the sincere, or, as in the margin, the reasonable milk of the word that they may grow thereby. I have read to you this morning the desire of Paul for the Ephesians that they might come to the stature of full grown men growing up into Christ in all things.

The analogy of nature would lead us to expect and hope for growth. Every tree as it puts forth its leaves in the springtime, every blossom carrying with it the promise of fruitage speaks of growth. We do not read the law so plainly perhaps in the winter when branch and twig are bare, and we see no sign of bursting bud or opening leaf; but the rootlets are reaching down into the ground gathering up the nourishment which shall later appear as leaf and flower and fruit. To him who looks with intelligent knowledge upon the things of nature she is ever saying that growth is a law of God.

Everyone knows that in order to secure the best growth conditions adapted to the plant or the animal must be provided. No plant reaches its highest development if the elements that its nature requires are withheld. No farmer expects his flocks and herds to maintain a vigorous and healthy growth unless they can obtain that which their natures demand. A dwarfed and crippled growth there may be, but not the sturdy beautiful life that we should see.

Is a person of artistic mind and talent? He seeks those things that shall further develop the artistic sense. Is he inclined toward science? Then he studies the achievements of science, learns its laws, acquaints himself with facts already discovered that he may be fitted to add to the store of scientific knowledge. The apostle sets before us to be desired above all else the knowledge of Jesus Christ. We are to grow into a fellowship with him. But we shall not drift into it. It comes only as we seek for it.

Again you notice that if perfection of growth is to ensue some obstacles must be removed. Your fields do not yield their most generous returns if the weeds grow unchecked. Your flocks do not bring you profit and pleasure if disease be unconquered. The apostle tells us that some things must be removed before we can come to the knowledge of God and attain the likeness to Christ that he wishes for us. This is what he says, "Laying aside all malice and all guile, and hypocrisies and envies, and all evil speaking," then to take the sincere milk of the word and grow thereby. These are the things that hinder and from which we must be set free.

Then it is necessary not only to have suitable surroundings and sustenance, not only to put away hindrance but we must allow our experiences to teach us the lessons that they bear with them. We must draw from the circumstances of our lives the material for growth and advancement that they bring us.

I remember that after the death of Joseph Cook, Dr. Barrows and myself were speaking of him. He had been a visitor at each of our houses. I said that no one who came to our home brought with him such a spirit of uplift in his conversation as did Joseph Cook, Dr. and Mrs. Barrows said their experience had been the same. Is it not possible to make the tone and atmosphere of the home uplifting? To refrain from talking of the little, narrow, snarly, disagreeable things and speak rather of the things that are cheery and helpful? When the children come in from school do not speak of the gossip that may be current. Ask them about their studies. Show them how they may be used in their every day life. How their study of language may beautify their own manner of speech. How the facts of science which they are learning illustrate the truth that there is a law in the universe. How history from epoch to epoch teaches that God is in the world. Talk to them of the noble things in the biographies of men and women whose lives they touch in their study and their reading. Make the atmosphere of the home favorable for the growth of all that is pure and noble, manly and womanly.

People of Phillips will you let me talk plainly with you? Let us suppose an illustration, a father and mother in whose household are boys and girls, are thinking of coming to Maine to make for them a home. They go to the old historic towns of Fryeburg, of Gorham and of Farmington. They come to Phillips. They go up Tory hill and look back upon the valley. From the Mile Square, from the hill at the foot of Mt. Blue they see the nesting village. They are charmed by its beauty. But they are looking for this atmosphere of uplift and helpfulness to be about their children. Think you their home will be in Phillips. Will it? Will it?

O men, you welcome to your midst those who bring business and industry, you rejoice over mills and factories and it is good to have these. But let me tell you that infinitely above trade or manufacturing, infinitely above an industry that may be established are the things that make for fellowship with God. You need to have three pulpits filled with men who will fail not to declare the whole counsel of God, strong, whole-souled men who will go up and down these streets and into these homes and teach the eternal truth of God. That this may be, you may well give the choicest products of your factories, the best of your flocks, the first fruits of your harvests.

Men of Phillips shall this appeal go unheeded? I plead with you to dare to make your town beautiful in those things that lift the soul toward God, to make it a place where the boys and girls, the young men and maidens may grow in those things of eternal worth. It is not dollars that we need, it is not more pleasure and entertainment and dancing. It is to feed upon the word that we may grow thereby in fellowship with God and in knowledge of Jesus Christ.

TALL STORIES OF THE KAW

One of the Most Altitudinous About Kansas River Is Denied by Man from the West.

James A. Cameron is a cattle breeder of near Topeka, Kan. His place is on the Kaw river. The Kaw ambles serenely—sometimes—through Kansas City, Kan. and Mo. They tell a few stories about the Kaw. "And most of them are true," said Mr. Cameron, "especially the one about the steamboat that got caught in the Kaw one dry season and had to be pushed out by an excavator. I have never known the Kaw to be real, downright muddy, but sometimes I wonder why people want to travel to Vesuvius to look at a sluggish lava bed when they can get about the same effect on the banks of the Kaw. Now and then a log or something will get stuck in the water and stop the current. Then they have to plow it loose and turn it over to get the liquid side on top. I had a horse that tried to cross the river once, but every time he took a foot out of the water the shoe was pulled off. He finally accomplished it comfortably by lying down on his back and rolling over. But there is one slander about the Kaw that ought to be nailed."

"What's that?"
"Why, the one about all the cattle grazing on the banks of the Kaw having their mouths fitted up with filtration plants."
"It isn't true?"
"It most positively is not," said Mr. Cameron, solemnly.

AMERICAN APPLES POPULAR

Fresh Product, First Sent to Germany During Season 1896-97, Creates Good Foreign Demand.

The traffic in fresh apples and the various dried fruits produced so abundantly in the United States is an important branch of the American export trade to Germany. The first important assignment of fresh apples from the United States to Germany occurred during the season of 1896-97, when, stimulated by an enormous crop in the United States and a practical failure of that fruit in northern Europe, exporters sent over whole cargoes, which filled the city markets in German cities and gave the public an opportunity to appreciate the superior quality of the American apple. Unfortunately, the apples had been gathered and packed for the home trade, and had not been selected for export. As a result, large quantities were lost through decay. The following year brought a short apple crop in America, and few were exported. Then the trade was taken up more intelligently. Apples of preferred varieties were carefully gathered, selected and packed for the continental trade, with the result that in 1900 the total export of fresh apples to Germany reached 1,760 tons. This increased the next year so that it trebled itself, and the American apple made its way into more general use than ever before, and laid the foundation of a large and permanent future demand.

LASSOING BEAR LITTLE FUN

Colorado Cowboy Finds That Bruin Is a Formidable Foe—Will Con- fine Efforts to Cattle.

Tug Wilson is a Colorado cowboy. The Meeker Review tells the following story of a lively experience which he had on a ranch near that town the other day: "While the round-up was on the head of James creek W. E. Templeton started up a large cinnamon bear, but drew off, stroked his beard and said: 'Let him go, boys; we have no time to fool with him.' Tug Wilson soon spied the bear and at once took down his rope and began to make a loop, intending to have bear steak for supper. When Rusty got to the top of the ridge Tug let the string fly and got him by the neck and one front leg, which temporarily disarranged the bear's retreat. Seeing that he was caught, bruin began to walk up on the rope. Tug sent in a wireless summons for assistance, but the boys failed to understand the message. The bear got nearer and finally landed on the pony, inflicting an ugly wound in the thigh and also tearing Tug's overalls. Tug has sent in for a bottle of liniment and a new pair of overalls and will now confine himself to roping cattle and horses during the rest of the round-up."

Doesn't Respect Old Age.

It's shameful when youth fails to show proper respect for old age, but just the contrary in the case of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They cut off maladies no matter how severe and irrespective of old age. Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Fevers, Constipation all yield to this perfect Pill. 25c, at W. A. D. Cragin's, Druggist.

UP IN KINGFIELD.

Special correspondence to Maine Woodsmen.

KINGFIELD, Nov. 21, 1904.

The entertainment of the week in town, par excellence, was the exhibition given in French's hall, Friday evening, by the pupils of the Intermediate grade of our public schools. It was called a Seven party and it is needless to say the name was very appropriate. The admission to the hall was the modest sum of 7 cents, every seventh person being admitted free. Then at the tables, four in number, where articles were for sale, the price of each item was exactly 7 cents. Miss Ethel Cook had charge of the table for the sale of fancy goods; Miss Bertha Myers, useful articles; Allie Witham, bundle table and Miss Ada Vose presided at the confectionery table. All were very successful at their several tables so that a handsome sum was netted from this source alone for the object in view—pictures for the schoolroom of this grade.

The entertainment proper consisted of three parts. The first part opened with a song by the school called a song of gratitude. This part of the entertainment was called "gifts of the year." Different pupils of the school impersonated characters representing "Plenty" and other scenes of the autumn. Miss Flora Norton took the part of "Plenty" and did it to perfection. She was dressed in a costume giving a correct idea of the part she took. During this part of the program there were various songs and recitations by the school and individual members, closing with a tableaux of a sower sowing grain. There were five songs in this part.

The second part was a charade in five scenes designed to show the word "Investigation." It was clearly shown in several scenes, the word being first taken in syllables and then as a whole.

The third part of the entertainment was a fitting climax to so pleasant an evening. It consisted of a fan drill, the following young ladies taking part: Bertha Myers and Bessie Hackett, red costumes; Gladys Carville and Ada Vose, light green costume; Mabel West and Mabel Hinkley, yellow costumes; Hilda Hunt and Bernice Hunt, pink. The bright costumes of the young ladies of the drill, coupled with their excellent alignment and unity of motion while giving the drill, made the scene one of pleasure to all. The drill was immediately followed by a song of "Gladness" by the entire school. This finished the entertainment—long to be remembered in Kingfield.

Miss Talcott, the teacher of the Intermediate grade, is surely entitled to the amount of praise she receives for so successfully drilling her school for this exhibition. Financially the affair was also a big success, several dollars—we don't know just how many, but think considerably over a score—having rolled into the school treasury, thus assuring the school that the much desired pictures to adorn the walls of their room are a certainty.

We are sorry to note that Chas. Dolber is quite ill.

Maurice Carsley, now of Newton, Mass., formerly of this place, is in town for a short outing.

R. A. Huse and family are moving into the Dr. Moore house on Maple street owned by Sewall Potter.

C. F. Maines of Maine & Bonnalie, Lewiston, was in town the first of last week to inspect the business at his store here. Mr. Maines returned to Lewiston well pleased with the result of his visit.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. York have gone to New Sharon for a two weeks' visit. Mr. York is the mail clerk on the F. & M. and Sandy River railroads and this is his annual two weeks' vacation. His place on the mail service is being taken by J. W. Hastings of Franklin, a substitute clerk.

The people of the Universalist church held a social Wednesday evening in the vestry of their church. About 50 were present and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Merle Butts had charge of the social.

Miss Myra Butts was given a surprise party Saturday night by about 25 of her friends. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant time enjoyed.

The new lot of telephone poles being put up are going skyward rapidly. It is now planned to have continuous service night and day. It is also stated that the central office of the telephone will be removed from the post office to a private residence.

Miss Rachel Hennigar and Mr. Carroll Lander were married at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Embert Hennigar, this Wednesday evening. Next week we hope to have a more extended notice of this happy event.

Rev. Mr. Horn of the Universalist church was the officiating pastor at the funeral, Thursday morning, of Master Harlow Rackliffe, who was accidentally shot by a young companion last week. The floral tributes were many and exceedingly beautiful. We are unable to give the names of the pall bearers but it is sufficient to state that they were young friends of Harlow. The remains were taken on the noon train to Strong, where they were placed in the tomb.

A friend from New Portland gives us the following news items from his town:

Ralph Jones shot a fine buck deer recently. It had five prongs to its horns and dressed 200 pounds.

Lois Jackson has finished work for L. Davis. She has worked there most of the time for six years.

Meil Hutchins came home from Lewiston to vote. He returned Tuesday afternoon.

Sauuel and Simon Quint are trapping this fall. They report game scarce.

S. J. Quit is building an addition to his house.

W. Gordon has extended his shed to the barn.

Willis Quint and several friends from Waterville passed through here Friday on their way to the hunting grounds. Theodore Steward carried them up.

The Somerset Telephone Co. have extended their line to meet the New Portland Hill and New Vineyard lines.

Aesthetic Italian Laborers.

With the exception of the silent Sicilians, the Italian immigrants are generally fluent talkers and extremely intelligent. I have known a Neapolitan, who could neither read nor write, quote from Dante, Petrarch and Tasso, says a contributor to the World's Work. It surprises you to hear a group, made up of an asphalt-mixer, a sailor turned waiter, and a barber and baker, who had stuck to their trades, discuss the sculpture on a new court building; or when upon another night the same men wrangle over the merits of Verdi and Mascagni, and end by humming and singing in chorus, "Parigi O Cara."

Largest Meteorite "in Captivity."

What is doubtless the largest meteorite "in captivity" is now on exhibition in the Museum of Natural History in New York. It weighs about 50 tons. Commander Peary found it in the arctic regions and brought it south a few years ago. Until recently it was stored in the Brooklyn navy-yard. Since alighting on the earth after its wild career through the heavens it has become completely domesticated, and no guard is required nor is an iron cage needed to keep it from breaking loose.

Bar Mustach "in Business Hours."

A general admiration of Americans is gradually driving the beard from the faces of Englishmen, because of the prevailing idea that men in the United States are universally clean-shaven. There is some confirmation of this in the remarkable order of the Bank of England authorities forbidding the clerks "to wear mustaches during business hours."

The Glenwood Oak Stove for either Coal or Wood

The Glenwood Oak Stove with triangular revolving grate is acknowledged the most perfect working coal stove ever made. This grate keeps the fire absolutely free from clinkers so that the fire need not be let out the entire winter.

The Mica Covered Openings in the lower feed door show the fire and give a most cheerful and pleasing effect.

The Swing Top may be turned to one side, allowing the large flat top beneath to be used for heating water, or other purposes when desired.

The Wood Grate may be used alone, or resting on the coal grate, which is a great convenience for people using both fuels.

It burns with economy either coal or wood.

Children's Spring Tonic.

After a long winter the children's blood flows sluggishly, the bowels are irregular and the channels of the body clogged. This is the chance for which disease has been lying in wait. No time should be lost in cleansing the blood and regulating the stomach with a good spring medicine. For children's ailments nothing equals Dr. True's Worm Elixir. A few doses will expel worms, if any, and tone up the whole system. A better spring medicine cannot be found. Twenty thousand bottles were sold in March alone. Price 35 cts., at all druggists.

It is said that the demand for Maine's young spruce trees for the Christmas trade will not be so great this year.

JOHN Hay will remain in the cabinet up to the fourth of March, 1909, so states President Roosevelt.

A MOVEMENT is on foot to have a legislation investigation of Shiloh. Petitions will be started very shortly. It is claimed that enough was hinted at during the recent trials of Rev. Mr. Sandford to call for a rigid investigation.

THOUSANDS of telegraph and telephone poles were blown down in Maine during the storm. The Western Union had 600 poles down between Waterville and Bangor and 800 between Bangor and Vanceboro. "We can't begin to estimate the damage," said an official of the New England Telephone company.

OCCUPANTS of the White House were thrown into a state of excitement last week on learning that they had been exposed to a malignant case of smallpox. THERE will be 146 new faces in the next Maine legislature, 126 in the House and 20 in the Senate. There are seven counties in the Senate from which not a single one of the old members return, York, Oxford, Franklin, Sagadahoc, Kennebec, Piscataquis and Lincoln. There are only three counties where all the Senators are returned, Penobscot, Knox and Waldo. In five of the counties, Franklin, Hancock, Lincoln, Oxford and Piscataquis not a single old member will be returned. Penobscot county is particularly fortunate in the large return of its previous members, all the Senators and six of the members of the House, making almost one-half of the Penobscot delegation, a larger percentage shown than in most of the larger counties. Cumberland sends back only one in the Senate and four in the House, making only one-fifth of the delegation to be returned. This large percentage of new members in the legislature, as a whole is not rare, but with the incoming legislature is more than for several years.

RANGELEY NEWS NOTES.

Special correspondence to Maine Woodsman. RANGELEY, Nov. 22, 1904.

Miss Blanche Ellis has been spending a week in Bangor.

Mrs. Lucinda Tibbetts is stopping with her grandson, Melvin Tibbetts.

The schools closed Thursday of last week and the teachers started for their several homes Friday.

Miss Lena Pillsbury is at home from the Farmington Normal school for a short vacation.

Mrs. Gard Hinkley, who has been at Redington through the summer and fall is at home again.

Rev. E. H. Prescott preached a very interesting Thanksgiving sermon Sunday from Psalms c, 3, 4.

Some important changes in real estate have been made this fall. Mr. Geo. Pillsbury has sold his farm to Harley Patterson and has bought the J. R. Toothaker farm. These are among the best farms in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Toothaker who moved here several weeks ago, are living in the Marble rent vacated by A. H. Sprague.

The many friends of Mrs. G. M. Esty and her daughter, Miss Georgia Esty, will be pleased to know that they reached their destination in Florida safely last week. They had a very pleasant journey with the exception of the storm, which they encountered on Sunday the 14th, which was very severe.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Kempton started for Seattle Friday, where they intend to spend the winter.

Not all the beauties of nature are reserved for those who visit this region in the summer. Could those who admire the beautiful landscapes then have been here last Saturday morning and witnessed the transformation made by Jack Frost through the night, they must have been delighted with the scene. Every tree, bush and blade of grass was covered with the most beautiful white frost and when the sun came out very bright everything looked like fairyland. The sky was as blue as in summer and the whole day was one of the finest ever seen in the good old state of Maine.

The winter term of school throughout the town will begin Dec. 12, except at the Quimby school, which will begin Dec. 5.

FISH THAT SHOOTS ITS PREY

Funny Creature of West Indian Waters Emits Hard Pellet, Seldom Missing Its Game.

"I told you," said the sailor, "about the fish that carries a fishin' rod and fishes. Did I ever tell you about the fish that carries a gun and shoots its prey?"

"No," said the druggist. "Well, this fish lives in the warm West Indian waters," the sailor began. "It is about eight inches long, as slim as a cigar, and silver-colored. Its gun is its mouth—a kind of snout, with a round hole for the opening, the same as your mouth is when you pucker it up to whistle. This here fish lies in the shallows, near the shore, and it watches out for flies and other insects. When it sees one of these insects it swims up close. It sticks its snout quietly out of the water, and then—puff—it blows forth a little drop of water, a pellet as hard as a shot, that hits the insect fair and square, stuns it, brings it down. This fish has a blowpipe for a mouth, and its ammunition is the water it lives in. The little drops that it blows at its prey travel fast and true. They seldom miss their aim. I have been struck in the hand by pellets of water shot by the gumm'n' fish. The pellets hurt me a little. They felt like little pin-pricks."

Have Fine Alarm System.

Most of the towns in New Jersey, even including so large a place as Long Branch, have steel-wheel fire alarms, which arouse communities around them in a very wide radius. The wheels are merely the steel rims of big locomotive drive wheels. They are given to all towns desiring them by the Central Railway of New Jersey from its disabled rolling stock. Sometimes the alarm is mounted in a wooden tower frame, and again is hung from the arm of a stout post.

Does He Deserve Sympathy?

One may ask whether an English manufacturer who devotes two or three afternoons a week to golf, every evening to bridge and frequent week ends to both and a "change of air," deserves much sympathy when he complains of American or German competition.

Castro Lives in Steel House.

Cipriano Castro, the president of Venezuela, lives in a house built entirely of steel. The outside is covered with a kind of soft stone and the inside with lath and plaster, so that the visitor sees nothing unusual.

JUMBO HAS LITTLE WISDOM

Prevalent Stories Concerning Elephant's Knowledge Are Declared to Be Baseless.

The process of elephant-catching in India as well as in Siam tends to rather undermine one's settled notions of elephant sagacity and to create instead the feeling that a lot of sentimental tommyrot and misleading, ignorantly conceived animal stories have been put forth about my lord, the elephant, says Caspar Whitney, in Outing. The literal truth is that the elephant, for all its reputed intelligence, is driven into places that no other wild animal could possibly be induced to enter, is in its native jungle held captive within a circle through which it could pass without an effort and bullied into uncomplaining obedience by a force the smallest fraction of its own numbers. Part of this is, no doubt, due to its exceedingly suspicious nature; the other part to its lack of originality, to which latter defect, however, its notable amenability to discipline is attributable. Apropos of amenability Sanderson records mounting and taking out of the keddah, unaccompanied by a tame elephant, a female on the sixth day after her capture, and I saw on the lower coast of Siam an elephant that had been captured in a pitfall by natives three weeks previously rowed out on two lashed sampans to a small coasting steamer and successfully made to kneel that it might get through the port door between decks.

OLDER THAN THE CHINESE

Cliff Dwellers a Race That May Even Antedate the Beginning of Far Cathay.

Older even than China, the oldest existing nation, are the cliff dwellings of southwestern United States, homes of a race whose very name has perished from the earth. Explorers, puzzling through the Mancos and Casa Verde canyons of Arizona and New Mexico, have found the houses of this strange people in the wildest and most inaccessible of the mountain sides. Did the cliff dwellers antedate the pyramids of Egypt? Were they of blood relation to the early inhabitants of the land where the Nile is god? Some students are prepared to answer both questions affirmatively and to give what is to them abundant proof. The pottery from their long wrecked homes suggests Egypt, and the few inscriptions found have similar suggestions. Mummies, bodies wrapped in cloth, feathers from the breast of the turkey have been dug from burial places among the cliffs, and in bone and hair much unlike the Indian of to-day, there is a hint of resemblance to a more oriental type. If the cliff dwellers left any descendants, however remote, they are doubtless the Moki and Zuni Indians, who, resembling them in habits and appearance, are their closest kinsmen.

YOUNG RUSSIA IN SCHOOLS

Youthful Moscovites Make Bee Line from Immigrant Dock to Seat of Knowledge.

"The eagerness with which opportunities for an education for their children are grasped by foreigners were never so well shown," says Principal Veith of public school No. 1, Catharine and Henry streets, "as when a little group of young Russian Jews came here the other day to ask for admission to this school."

"Where do you live?" was asked through an interpreter.

"Don't live anywhere," they said.

"But where is your home?" was our next question in our effort to locate them.

"We got no home," was the response.

"Since their address was a part of what he had to know about them before admitting them, the interpreter was urged to elicit that information from them, if possible, relates the New York Times. He juggled vowels and consonants for awhile, then, his face wreathed in smiles, informed us that these children had just landed from the steamer. Some enterprising immigrant agent had brought them to the school, while the parents were out looking up a home."

Big Smokestacks on Liners.

The size of the smokestacks of some of the steamships which leave New York is an interesting topic among folks long shore. A convincing proof of their size is seen in this comparison: The new East river tunnel, which the Pennsylvania railroad is about to build, is about the same diameter as the funnels of the Lucania and Campana, that is, 21 feet. It seems hard to realize that two trains of cars could run side by side through the stacks of either of these vessels if they were laid flat.

Bazaine's Mistake.

As a parallel in modern history, Bazaine, at Metz, faced about the same conditions as did Kuropatkin at Liaoyang, but failed to retreat beyond the city and was treated as the Japanese hoped to treat the Russians in the stronghold from which they wisely fled.

HAS HERBS FOR EVERY PAIN

Greenwich, N. Y., Shop Supplies Vegetable Curatives for Almost Any Known Malady.

In Betjune street, where Greenwich village, N. Y., seems to tie itself into a knot of tangled thoroughfares, there is an oldtime herb shop. Fifty years or so ago there were many of them in New York, but there are very few now, says the Times. The sign over the door reads: "A herb for every pain." On the shelves and counters are 300 kinds of herbs for the cure of human ills, and bottles with fluid extracts made from nearly half of that number, or combinations of them. Customers with old-fashioned ideas about health and sickness go there for bugle-weed for consumption, sumach for sore throat, wintergreen for rheumatism, and extract of oats to cure drunkenness. At this season of the year there is a constant call for catnip, saffrafs, chamomile, horehound, yellow dock, cherry bark and mandrake. Boneset tea is brewed as a cure for colds and served hot in little china cups. Lobelia is sold as an emetic when persons living in the neighborhood have taken poison, either by accident or otherwise. Some of the herbs are deadly poisons, and are sold under the same restrictions as other poisons. Strangers to the herb doctor are served with great caution.

WINS BEER CHAMPIONSHIP.

Germans Hold Drinking Match in Paris—Victor Absorbs 19 1-2 Pints of Beverage.

The Cafe de la Republique in Paris was besieged the other evening by a large number of Germans desirous of witnessing a beer-drinking competition between three of their compatriots. At seven o'clock each of the competitors started with an initial drink of one and three-quarters of a pint of Pilsener beer. At ten o'clock a man named Schnellman was three pints ahead of his rivals, having disposed of 11 pints of beer. An adjournment was then made for supper, which consisted of vlands flavored with salt and vinegar—calculated to stimulate thirst. At 11 o'clock the contest was resumed and continued without intermission until 2:30 a. m., when Herr Schnellman having considerably increased his lead, his rivals gave up in despair. The victor had imbibed 19 1/2 pints of beer in six and one-half hours. All three men presented an apoplectic appearance at the finish, and, although the winner looked less uncomfortable than the other two, he was nevertheless in a sad condition. Herr Schnellman received $100 as the result of his unenviable achievement.

THE PEASANTS HATE WAR.

Though Russian Press Claims That They Volunteer Willingly, Rustics Seem Averse.

"Count Tolstoi," said S. Osgood Pell recently, at Saratoga, N. Y., "is right in his statement that the Russian peasants are averse to war, and go to war unwillingly. If these peasants could have had their way, there would have been no trouble with Japan. The Russian press, of course, claims that the plain people are supporting the government heartily, and that on every hand enthusiastic volunteers pour in. But that is not true. A friend of mine in Moscow wrote me the other day of a joke that is being quietly circulated, and this joke shows pretty clearly the different views that the government and the common people take of the war. Two men, according to the story, were out walking, when they saw a crowd jostling and shoving, while from the crowd came loud sobs, cries of pain, oaths and blows. "What on earth is the matter?" said the first man. "Oh," said his companion, indifferently, "it is only a government officer forcing a peasant to turn volunteer."

FARMINGTON NEWS.

Special correspondence to Maine Woodsman. FARMINGTON, Nov. 22, 1904.

About 10.15 Friday evening, a fire was discovered in the rear of the fruit store of Joseph Marchetti on Broadway. It appeared to be a well developed blaze and all efforts to extinguish it with the chemical failed, but two good streams of water from nearby hydrants soon left nothing but smoke and water, which caused the chief damage to the stock. The loss on the stock is estimated at between $800 and $1000, on which we understand there is about $500 insurance.—Lewiston Journal.

LARGEST CUT-GLASS VASE.

Biggest Article of the Kind in Existence Is on Exhibition in St. Louis.

The largest piece of cut glass in the world, a vase as tall as a man, and as brilliant in every part as the finest small piece, has been completed in Philadelphia and shipped to the St. Louis exposition, where it has been placed in the industrial art display. The vase is five feet six and three-fourths inches in height, and every inch of it is perfectly worked in sunbursts, chrysanthemums and beaded and notched effects that shed prismatic rays of brilliance and luster. The sunbursts on the star are too large to be designated by that usual cut glass term, so they have been given a new name, the Louisiana Purchase star. In all there are 100,000 cuts or deep incisions on the vase, which required turning it 200,000 times. The vase weighs 200 pounds. It was produced by nine men, who spent 2,000 working hours on it. The man who made the blank is six feet seven inches tall. A shorter man could not have handled the great piece of glass. Twenty blanks were turned out before a perfect one was produced. The remarkable brilliancy of the vase is caused by the fusing in the glass of ten per cent. more lead than is ordinarily used. The vase is several times larger than the previous greatest piece of cut glass, completely dwarfing it.

BASKETBALL GIRLS QUIT.

Outlook for Coming Season Is Very Gloomy According to Captain of Eastern Team.

"Our outlook for basketball isn't very bright this year," remarked the captain of the senior basketball team of a well-known woman's college to a Philadelphia Press reporter.

"Our worst loss is going to be our center, who doesn't return to college this year because she is going to be married. Of course, I can forgive her, but just listen to the excuses the others offer: One girl writes that she can't play this year because the game makes her hands large, and her father objects to that. Another says she can't play because she always loses her temper when the umpire calls a foul on her, and that her mother is afraid she'll become a regular 'cross-patch.' I did expect something better of our goal defender, but here is her resignation along with the others, saying that she met a girl this summer who had played in that position at Bryn Mawr for three years, and she was such an aggressive, assertive person that she's afraid if she plays goal defender any longer she will become like the Bryn Mawr woman."

BROKER'S LUNCH COSTLY.

Sells 5,000 Shares to Pay for Meal and Finds That Stock Soars Three Points.

There is a good story told of a well-known broker, which, though rather expensive to him, serves to illustrate some of the methods which are in vogue during the period when the public is out of the market. In such times, says the Brooklyn Eagle, brokers get practically no commission business and they are simply gambling as much among themselves as if they sat down to a table with a poker layout. The incident mentioned occurred on a day when trading would be called wholly professional. About noontime the broker referred to decided he would get some lunch and that he would go and put in a trade to pay expenses. Consequently he went on the floor of the exchange and sold 5,000 shares of Metropolitan. He then went to lunch, stayed some time, and, on returning, found that Metropolitan had soared three points. He looked the situation over and decided to buy back the stock, and found himself not only out his lunch money, but about $14,000 besides. Ofttimes, however, it goes the other way.

MAIL MAN BRINGS LOBSTER

Gloucester, Mass., Fish Dealer Uses Service for the Delivery of His Wares.

According to the Grocery World, the very latest development of the mail order business is the delivery of fish in this manner. A fish dealer and packer doing business in Gloucester, Mass., announces this as a very large end of his trade. He deals only with the consumer and packs fresh lobsters, crab and shrimp in the proper shape for transmission through the mails, and purports to have sea food delivered at the door in almost any part of the country before it has lost the delicate flavors which are to be found alone in the fish fresh from the water. Not only are the fresh fish shipped in this manner, but salted fish, such as salmon, mackerel and codfish. Quite an extensive trade has been worked up by this individual. He has on his books standing orders to send quantities of fish at regular intervals, some persons engaging a regular weekly supply for an entire season.

ORIGIN OF LONDON'S FOGS

Investigation Undertaken Some Years Ago Brings to Light Real Facts of Their Peculiarities.

At the request of the London county council the meteorological council of the Royal society undertook an inquiry into London fogs during the winter of 1901-2. The results were recently reported to the latter body by Capt. A. Carpenter, who had charge of the investigation. The observations were made chiefly by the officers of the metropolitan fire brigade. Capt. Carpenter finds three causes of fog:

First, a warm atmosphere cooled by contact with cold earth or water surface, which forms a cold surface fog; second, a cold atmosphere warmed by contact with a warm earth or water surface, which forms a steaming water fog, and, third, two strata of air of different temperatures in contact with one another, which conditions give rise to a cloud fog.

Each of these fogs may become permeated with smoke, when the fog particles become coated with oily hydrocarbons and are impervious to the evaporating power of the sun. These may drift long distances, slowly settling on the ground, on houses and clothes, and are inhaled by living animals and plants. The report represents that when the wind at Kew reached a velocity of 13 miles an hour the London fogs were usually dispersed. The exceptions noted were the very smoky fogs which accompanied the damp air of advancing cyclones, and it required a wind force of 17 miles an hour to disperse them.

COLLEGIAN TO DUST CHINA

Vanderbilt Family Employ University Graduate at Big Salary to Keep Specks Off Bric-a-brac.

There is no doubt that there are good positions for those who want them. One of the women of the Vanderbilt family employs a young woman to dust her bric-a-brac. The young woman receives a big salary for her work, and her hours are short, and her time is practically her own. In the Vanderbilt mansion she occupies her own suite of rooms, and when she goes out to drive she has her own hansom. A saddle horse is at her disposal. The object of employing a high-salaried young woman is this. In the drawing-room there are rare pieces of bric-a-brac that cost hundreds of dollars. In a tiny cabinet in the dining-room there rests a tiny cup and saucer that cost $1,000. It is a rare bit imported from England. It once belonged to Queen Elizabeth. "If I were to employ a green girl to dust my bric-a-brac," reasons Mrs. Vanderbilt, "it would soon be all broken. She would break more in a minute than I pay her in a year. I must get a refined, cultivated young woman who will realize its importance, and its beauty, and its value." And so she pays $5,000 a year to a college graduate to keep the numerous pieces of bric-a-brac dusted. The young woman rises early to complete her task, and, again, in the afternoon she dusts. Indeed, she is busy all over the house all during the day.

Dealer Says That Accounts for Fact That the Right Shoe Lasts Longest.

"Did you ever notice that people are right-footed?" asked the proprietor of a shoe store of a Shoe Retailer man. "Watch my clerks and you will see that invariably my customers will put out their right foot when going to be fitted. Now watch that woman going to sit down over there." The woman took a seat, lifted her curtain of black veiling and as the clerk approached her she poked her right foot from beneath an expanse of skirt. "It's always the case and I don't believe I ever knew it to fail. The shoe manufacturers evidently are wise to this fact, as in the cartons the right shoe is always packed on top. Once I had a lot of shoes come to me with the left shoe on top and it caused me so much annoyance that I wrote to the manufacturers, calling his attention to the matter, so that it would not happen again. The majority of people are right-handed, yet a left-handed person has the right-foot habit. The right hand is larger than the left, as it is used more, and consequently develops the muscles to a greater extent. On the other hand, the left foot is larger than the right in most persons. The difference is so slight that we seldom have trouble in fitting shoes, however. It is the left shoe that wears out before the right, and probably for this reason."

Japan's Fire Bird.

A manufacturer of fireworks in Nagasaki, Japan, makes a remarkable rocket from which, when it explodes in the air, there flies a large bird, resembling a homing bird in its movements. For more than 400 years the secret of this wonderful production is said to have been in the possession of the eldest child of the family to which the manufacturer belongs.

Betrothed on Mountain Trip.

Herr Wagner and Fraulein Jerzabek, both enthusiastic Alpine climbers, assisted by a company of friends, celebrated their solemn betrothal on the snow-covered summit of the Grossglockner, 12,660 feet high.

Curious Turkish Foods.

Three singular preparations of grape juice are known in Turkey, and our consul at Harput thinks they might all be made and liked in this country. Basduk consists of sheets resembling leather, made by evaporating grape juice to the consistency of molasses, then mixing flour with it and drying it on cotton cloth in the sunshine. Kessme is in cakes half an inch thick. It is made by using coarse wheat grits instead of flour to mix with the grape molasses and is dried on metal plates. Sujuk, a still more savory preparation, is made by stringing walnut meats on twine, and then immersing the strings thus formed in the mixture of flour and grape juice. When coated about a quarter of an inch thick the strings are hung up to dry.

"Gypsy" a Nickname.

The word gypsy, of curious and interesting origin, is illustrative of the tenacity of a corruption and suggestive that the propensity of children for acquiring bad language is a racial trait. The gypsies on their first appearance in England about the beginning of the sixteenth century were mistaken for Egyptians and so called by men of education, but the common people, finding some difficulty in mastering the name, rendered it "gypsies," and so the wandering people have ever since been called.

UP-TO-DATE ADVERTISING.

In these days live merchants are looking for profit. They are placing their advertisements where, in their best judgement, they will do them the most good. Time was, we are told, when the store keeper used to give the newspaper man an advertisement, "just to help out the paper." That would be considered a senseless performance now. We want advertisements from people who want to get their money's worth out of their advertising. We want advertisements from people who intend to give their advertisements some care and attention. We want advertisements from business people who realize that they have something to say to the more than ten thousand readers of MAINE WOODSMAN, if they would make their business all that it should be. To such people, the MAINE WOODSMAN advertising columns present indeed a rare bargain. The MAINE WOODSMAN has the readers—more than ten thousand of them—without which all advertising would be a failure—money thrown away. But IT PAYS to advertise in MAINE WOODSMAN. If in doubt try it. Classified advertisements only one cent a word.

The City Man.

The city man said he was stuck
Upon the rural life,
No longer wished to run amuck
In noise and dust and strife.

Said he: "I'd like to husk the eggs
And dig the new mown hay,
And monkey with the husking pigs
And milk the cows for whey.

"I'd like to pick the cream and cheese
And dig the apple crop,
And drive a team of pure white geese
And feed the chickens slop.

"It would be fun to groom the pigs
And curry off the cows,
And hitch the roosters into rigs
And work the thrashing plows.

"'Twould be a treat to shell the oats
And pick the buckwheat flour,
And gather whiskers from the goats
And sort them by the hour.

"I'd like to cultivate the bees
And pump the pale blue milk,
And pick the pumpkins from the trees
And do things of that ilk.

"I'd like to pick the little lambs
And shear the gentle hens,
And gather in the fresh smoked hams
And put the wasps in pens.

"In fact, I think the country life
Would be the thing for me,
I do not care for work and strife,
I need the rest, you see.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartland Ranger, Albert
Howes and lady attended the evening

A town meeting was called for Nov.
18 to see about building a road from E.
I. Kennison's past the Robert Welch place to accommodate the rural free delivery. We hope it will be a success.

A very jolly and wide-awake company of about 100 people gathered at Rev. Wm. Keniston's last Saturday evening, a week, it being his birthday. The gathering was a great surprise to him.
His son and daughter presented him with a nice desk chair while Mrs. E. I.
Kennison in a few well chosen words presented him with a purse containing $12.75 in behalf of his people, to which he responded in his able and pleasant manner. Mr. Keniston has filled the pastorate for four years, winning the love and respect of his people, both young and old, while all feel he is doing a grand and noble work. The evening was passed in sociability, vocal and instrumental music and a select reading by Mrs. Blanche Harrington-Sampson was especially enjoyed. Refreshments of cake, coffee and candy were passed

A very pleasant evening was spent with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mitchell last instrumental music were enjoyed.

The ladies of Temple have organized a Sewing circle for the benefit of the

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Is Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the flavors used in its preparation give it a favor similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L.
Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effects. For sale by, Cragin, Phillips;

The water system is now in perfect working order, the hydrants and house connections reopning promptly when opened. Mr. C. N. Taylor and his crew of men left Saturday for their homes in Massachusetts.

Mr. Taylor said in an interview that Strong's water system was about as near perfect as anything in this line in the state of Maine. Since being here the last time Mr. Taylor has completed a system of sewerage complete in all its appointments. As stated last week the mill and hotel besides several residences are connected by this system.

The average pressure maintained on the village mains is about 80 pounds. At a recent trial of the hydrant service a stream of water was thrown 138 feet in a horizontal direction and over 70 feet vertically.

About 500 feet of hose, rubber lined, have been purchased for hydrant use. The money for this hose was raised by popular subscription in this village. It is now proposed to use the house occupied by the chemical engine as a place to store the hose when received.

Among the more recent plans is the proposed organization of a fire company. Nothing definite has been done in regard to this matter as yet, however.

Mrs. Lavina Welch of Temple is visiting her son, Wallace Welch and family. Mrs. Arthur Eustis and sons, Ralph and Galen, are at Salem for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wills.

A. G. Eustis is in the Dead River region on a business and hunting trip.

Wallace Welch is improving the interior of his house by having several rooms finished.

The body of Harlow Rackliffe was brought here from Bigelow Thursday noon and was conducted to the cemetery where it was placed in the tomb by friends of Harlow—Messrs. Ernest Taylor, Allie Jackman, Howard Staples and Russell Lynn.

One seventh of the pipe (4 inch) from Day mountain pond supplies the village with water and then it is said that the reservoir is constantly running over.

Henry Oliver killed a pig recently that weighed 375 pounds. Pretty good for a spring pig.

Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Spear of New Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conant of Portland will take Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Conant of South Strong, Thursday.

OLD WATCHES' QUEER SHAPE

Odd Timepieces of Old Days Represented All Sorts of Animals and Things—Origin of Fob.

There is uncertainty as to when the portable watch, as we understand it today, came into use. It was probably at the close of the sixteenth century. Queen Elizabeth owned a large number of watches. Mary Queen of Scots, was the possessor of a skull-shaped watch. In fact, the "death head" pattern was at that time much in vogue. Endless were the styles, for there were watches shaped like books, pears, butterflies and tulips. The Nuremberg egg was a special shape and was made in 1600. Those queer shapes of watches prevented their finding a place in the pocket. When was the fob first used in the dress of man? The German fob is "foppe," and it is believed that it came from Europe through the Puritan. "Whose dislike for display may have induced them to conceal their timekeepers from the public gaze." This conjecture is strengthened by the fact that a short "fob" chain attached to a watch of Oliver Cromwell's in the British museum is, in point of date, the first appendage of the kind known. The watch is a small oval one in a silver case, and was made about 1625 by John Midnall, of Fleet street.

PUBLISHED POETRY AS ADS

Herbert Spencer Once Located American Town Where Price Was Charged for Printing It.

An English tourist was lamenting the late Herbert Spencer's aversion to poetry. "Mr. Spencer," he said, "called poetry 'sensual caterwauling.' Some of it, to be sure, he excepted from this class. There were parts of Shakespeare that he liked, and he liked Longfellow. But the average poem was caterwauling to him, and the average poet was a caterwauler. One day I called on Mr. Spencer, and during my call I read to him a poem by W. B. Yeats. The beauty and the dim splendor of this poem impressed even the scientist. "That, I'll admit, is not caterwauling," he said. Then, with a dry smile, he took a newspaper clipping from his pocket. 'I have been saying this,' he said, 'to show you. It is from an American newspaper published in the town of Manunkachunk. I think I shall remove to Manunkachunk. The people set a right valuation on poetry there.' I read the clipping. It said: 'Original poetry is published on the same terms as advertisements.'"

Icebergs as Indicators.

In the investigation of the currents round the coast of Newfoundland it has been observed that there is at times a wide difference in the direction of the drift of icebergs, and that of the flat or pan ice, which, having no great depth, is governed in its motions by the surface currents and the winds, whereas the icebergs, the larger part of which is submerged to a great depth, following only the movement of the ocean water as a whole, and are uninfluenced by the winds. In consequence, a huge berg may often be seen majestically maintaining its slow advance in opposition to the wind and across the general motion of the fields of flat ice surrounding it. The sealers often take advantage of this fact by mooring their vessels to an iceberg in order to prevent a drift to leeward.

CROWN PRINCE FELS TREE

Coming King of Germany Assists Woodmen and Plays in Baden Hotel Orchestra.

Whatever the crown prince of Germany may be, he is certainly not "stuck up." Lately he and his fiancée were visiting the grand duke of Baden. In Baden he stayed at the Hotel Stephanie, and while there he and Duchess Cecile were in the habit of listening in the evening to the Hungarian orchestra belonging to the hotel. The crown prince, pleased with the performance on one occasion, sent to his rooms for his violin and, rising from his seat, played himself in the alcove with the musicians through several pieces, including the favorite melody of the young duchess. He then presented the leader of the orchestra with a handsome scarf pin. On another occasion, strolling through the woods, he happened to come on some foresters felling trees. He spoke with them while they were resting, presented them with cigarettes all around and, after begging permission, he took an ax and hewed away at a big tree until the perspiration rolled from him. Not making satisfactory progress, he removed his coat and waistcoat and at last brought down his tree, greatly to the duchess' satisfaction and amid the applause of the woodmen.

NERVES BOTHER ANIMALS.

Care Should Be Taken in Handling Those with Delicate Systems—Disorders Found in Birds.

"If you have a good, intelligent, delicate-minded, sensitive dog," said a veterinary surgeon, "be as careful how you shout at it or beat it as you would be in the case of a sensitive and delicate-minded child. I have known a great many cases where overpowering emotion—fear or shock—has ruined a dog for life. Only last week a widow brought here to me a fat dog 11 years old that takes a convulsion whenever it is severely reprimanded. She wanted to know what she could do to rid the dog of the convulsions. I told her she could do nothing but stop scolding it. A Troy man has a French poodle called Lady. He went abroad for the summer. Lady was left at home. Well, on his return when Lady saw him she had such a fit of nervous joy that an attack of epilepsy seized her. She died. Sometimes even in birds you find a delicate nervous organization. That bird up there in the cage—that common canary—was leaped at by a cat last year. The cat leaped right on the cage and the canary toppled over in as dead a faint as you ever saw. It didn't revive, by Jove, for five minutes."

American Mineral Riches.

The latest report to the British home office on the mineral production of the world shows that the United States stands second to the British empire in the production of gold, but far ahead in the production of silver, copper and lead. In copper our superiority is the greatest, more than one-half of the world's entire supply coming from mines in the United States. This country also stands first in the amount of coal produced, and Great Britain is second in the list. The British coal, however, is sold for a considerably larger aggregate price. In the production of zinc Germany stands first and the United States second.

Position With Publishing House.

Edgar N. Carver, for the past 18 years prominently identified with the news paper business in Oxford county, has retired from the field, and has accepted a position with a well known publishing house of Chicago. Mr. Carver will be located somewhere in this section of the country and will be an eastern representative for his house. Mr. Carver established the Canton Telephone at Canton eighteen years ago, but on the booming of Rumford Falls he moved the paper here and changed the name to the Rumford Falls Times and here he was editor and manager, owning a controlling interest in the paper until the advent of Israel A. Herrick as editor, upon the issuing of added preferred stock. After Mr. Herrick retired, Mr. Carver again assumed the management of the paper temporarily, leaving again upon the election of D. Murray Tarvis as editor. Mr. Carver has been prominent in the town affairs since his residence here. He has served the Board of Trade as its secretary most efficiently and has been deeply interested in matters of school and religious trend and has been a deacon of the Baptist church for years, and has been a prominent member of important committees on matters vitally connected with the upbuilding of the Baptist society. It is Mr. Carver's plan to leave Rumford Falls at once, and later his family will follow him, when he has been definitely located. Both Mrs. Carver and Miss A. Ice have been very popular members of the social life of the town and they will be missed as few others would. -Rumford Falls Times.

JAPS SERVE COUNTRY WELL

No Danger Appalls the True Subject of the Mikado, Hence Their Success in War.

The Japanese soldier knows that he shall be honored in his service his country well. "Man lives but his lifetime; his name it is that lives to posterity," says Nobunige Amenomori, in Atlantic. This has been told him from his childhood. He venerates the ancient heroes of his race and watching him and guiding him. The banner of his regiment has characters written by his emperor, and was given to his regiment by the emperor himself, the chief by birth of his race. Such being the banner, and, consequently, the inborn memories of the race twining round it, the soldier sees with the eye of his faith his ancestors marching before the standard of the rising sun. He knows he has the deep fellow feeling of his living countrymen, and that if he dies he shall be honored, for endless generations, with offerings and festivals by his countrymen yet to come. Nothing is so real to him as what he feels; and he feels that with him are united the past, the present and the future generations of his countrymen. Thus fully conscious of the intense sympathy of his compatriots, both dead and living, and swelled with lofty anticipation of his glorious destiny, no danger can appall, and no toil can tire the real Japanese soldier.
