The rainy days of the past week have brought growing things like grass, corn, and garden "stuff" along wonderfully. All the farmers predict a prosperous season.

Our druggist, Mr. L. L. Mitchell, has an elegant new soda water fountain from which he is drawing some delicious drinks these warm days. The fountain has three faucets, for soda, mineral water and root beer. All the syrups are kept in glass bottles on ice and everything about the whole system indicated a purity and cleanliness very pleasing.

Archie and Harry Haley are in Farmington where they will spend some time.

A hot game of ball was played on the park Saturday between the Kingfield and Madison baseball clubs with a score of 32 to 12, favor of the Kingfield boys. The game was largely attended and showed that the Kingfield boys are ball players from the start to the finish. Leland Gordon acted as umpire.

Misses Gladys Gillman and Bessie Hackett picked a mess of nice ripe field strawberries June 10, the first of the season.

Messrs. Chamberlain and Martin of Boston, sportsmen of much renown, have been spending a few days at Bear camp, Tufts pond. Both gentlemen are expert fly fishermen.

Earle Larrabee is in Hancock, Mass., visiting his father.

Mr. Chas. Chamberlin of Wilton spent Sunday in town, the guest of friends.

Messrs. J. Willis Jordan and Dr. H. S. Viles have spent ten days at Tim pond and Spring lake fishing.

Dr. C. W. Bell of Strong was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Butts, Harry Hilton, Ralph Butts, Edith Talcott and Grace Dockham spent Sunday at Tufts pond.

Mr. Frank Stanley took a party to Spring lake one day last week in his auto. Those who went were Messrs. C. E. Judkins, H. S. Wing and J. S. Wyman.

Messrs. E. E. Jenkins and H. G. Winter returned recently from a trip to Portland and Lewiston.

Ocell French of the U. of M. is home on a vacation.

Mrs. Grace Stevens is quite ill.

Mr. Edgar Woodard of the Young Crocker Co., Portland, spent last week with his brother, A. C. Woodard.

Mr. L. Hinds is building a new residence on Maple street opposite his father's home. The foundation is already laid and the lumber is on the spot for the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Sewall Potter of Lowell, Mass., are here for the summer, and will soon move to their cottage on Potters Island. Mr. Potter has lately purchased the small store on Main street near Daniel Cushman's, and will remodel it into the all portion of a dwelling house, by moving it back a distance towards the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Jordan will soon move into their cottage on Potter's Island, where they will spend the summer.

Mr. W. S. Jacobs has moved out of the S. J. Wyman rent he has been occupying, and will hereafter live in his own house.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. York, who have been living in Mr. Jacobs's house will board with Mrs. Haley.

A slight blaze started from some waste on one of the floors of Mr. Amos Winter's elegant new house one day last week, but as the fire was quickly discovered it was extinguished before it had done much damage. The cause was spontaneous combustion, so it was said.

An aged citizen of this town, Mrs. Martha Dyer Dolbier passed peacefully to rest last Thursday, aged 87 years. The funeral occurred Saturday from the late residence of the deceased.

This village was saddened last week by the announcement of the death of Mrs. Hannah French Vose, a lady aged 91 years. Mrs. Vose was buried Tuesday from her late home. A more extended account of Mrs. Vose's life will undoubtedly be given in this column at a later date.

Superintendent L. A. Norton pleasantly entertained the teachers of our public schools at his home on Riverside street one evening recently.

Rev. Mr. White of the Baptist church preached an elegant baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Kingfield High school last Sunday.

There were thirty guests at the Kingfield House Tuesday to dinner.

Kingfield High School.

The average attendance of the High school last week was 99 per cent; of the Grammar school was 83 1/2 per cent; of the Second Intermediate, 95 per cent; First Intermediate, 99 per cent.

Having kept school Memorial day, the High school with their teacher and a few special friends made up two parties and Thursday night after school started for their usual outing at Tufts pond. One party consisting of Messrs. Agnes Stanley, Minola Hutchins, Gertrude Hunt, Saymie Barden, Pearl Durrell and Eva Vose; Messrs. Dane Vose, Edson Hunt, Willie Stanley, Ralph Simmons, Ray Hutchins and Leland Gordon, chaperoned by Mrs. B. T. Stanley, stopped at Camp Contentment. The other party consisting of Misses Fannie Barker, Matilda Pullen, Minnie Sulpin, Mabel Hutchins; Messrs. Fred Hunt, Charlie Scribner, Alvin Morse, Carlton Hutchins, Parker Norton, James Howe, Earle Wing, Roy Barker and Prof. L. E. Corson, chaperoned by Mrs. Frank Hutchins, stopped at Birchwood Cottage.

The first evening at Camp Contentment was spent in talking and telling stories and at Birchwood Cottage in playing games. No one at Birchwood Cottage slept more than 20 minutes that night while at Camp Contentment only about one hour of sleep was obtained. The next day a ball game was played by the two parties, resulting 27 to 10 in favor of Camp Contentment.

The next evening at Camp Contentment was spent in much the same way as the first, except that they had a midnight supper. At Birchwood Cottage different games were played until a late hour, when all retired to rest. The next day was spent in much the same way as the first until about 5 o'clock, when the party at Camp Contentment started for Kingfield, some in teams and some on foot. The party at Birchwood did not start until about half past six and all walked to the village.

A very pleasant time was reported by all and if nothing prevents the experiment will be repeated next year.

The work for commencement is progressing finely and a good time is anticipated. It was decided to extend an invitation to Rev. Mr. White to preach the Baccalaureate sermon Sunday, June 11, at the Baptist church.

The K. H. S. and D. club held its meeting at the High school building Monday evening. A mock trial was held. The charge was against Minola Hutchins for stealing bananas at James Howe's May 24. Earle Wing was prosecuting attorney and Fred Hunt was attorney for the defense. The side for the defense won.

Northfield Outlines Its Summer Work.

The plans for the Northfield Summer conferences, as just announced by Mr. W. R. Moody, son of the evangelist, D. L. Moody, promise one of the liveliest seasons in the history of the work. Six main assemblies are under way, including the well known college conference, which has met at Northfield since 1886, a similar conference for young women, a summer school for S. S. workers under the direction of the Massachusetts State S. S. association; a summer school for missionaries, managed by the Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of the United States and Canada; a general conference for Christian workers, the oldest assembly of the kind in America and a series of post conference meetings lasting until Sept. 15. Most of the gatherings will be of an international nature and the missionary school is expected to bring together one of the largest delegations of foreign workers ever assembled in this country. Many methods of religious work will be brought up and discussed during the summer, the first four assemblies dealing specifically with different branches of Christianity.

Which will it be, Parker and Davis or Roosevelt and Fairbanks? Nobody knows yet but The Thrice-a-Week World will tell you promptly, fully and truthfully every movement of a hot and thrilling campaign. The real newspaper now prints facts rather than hopes, and it has always been the effort of The Thrice-a-Week World to tell the thing that has happened exactly as it happened. Thus you can judge for yourself and form your opinion.

There is also a great war going on in the East, where The World has a brilliant staff of correspondents in the field, and their reports are found regularly in the columns of The Thrice-a-Week World.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and MAINE WOODS and MAINE WOODSMAN together one year for $2.25.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.

The Maine Woodsmen.

Because fabulous sums are spent in advertising, some merchants think that it costs a fortune to keep any business before the public. They do not stop to think that advertising space can be bought like cloth or lard or soap—in any desired quantity, as one's business may demand. The man who is selling cigars from a small stand on the corner doesn't need as much space as a department store. But the proper space is just as essential to the best results in his business as is the big store's big ad. It doesn't cost much to buy a small space in the MAINE WOODSMAN—a space that is suitable for an unpretentious business. And, after all, it's not the size of the space, but what you put in it that counts. Start off with a little space and use it well and you'll need a big one by and by.

THE CHILDREN'S VILLAGE.

Outcome of Splendid Work for Neglected Children in New York City.

On April 16 an event of peculiar and significant interest occurred in New York—the farewell service of the New York juvenile asylum.

The asylum, states Youth's Companion, was founded in 1851, and in the half-century and more of its existence 39,000 neglected children have been cared for within its walls. It is a noble record. What it has meant to the city of New York and to the whole country no human calculation can ever measure. In a message sent to it four years ago, President Roosevelt wrote: "I want to tell you that some of the highest and best men I know, in professional, commercial and public life, have come from your institution and others like it."

Yet magnificent though their work has been, the age of the great asylums is passing, and their disappearance reveals the deepened insight of modern philanthropy. Half a century ago an institution that fed and clothed neglected children, that cared for them when they were ill and equipped them in some fashion to earn their own living, was regarded as giving them all that the largest demand could require. Those great rights of childhood, freedom, opportunity for individual development, above all the need of "mothering," few had considered, and none supposed attainable for these forlorn waifs of life.

Yet these are precisely the things which the larger charity of the day is making beautifully possible. The removal from the Juvenile Asylum of New York to the Children's Village of Dobb's Ferry is one step in the process. Instead of huge, unhomelike buildings, there are cottages, each with its own gardens, its own family circle; above all—name of blessed promise—its own housemother. So at last the little lonely ones of earth are entering their kingdom.

Savings Banks and Public.

around these accumulations of the people. And yet the very people whose funds are thus protected exhibit but a passing interest in these institutions, and an utter ignorance of their beneficent work.

What ought we to do? It seems clearly evident that something must be done, and that it should be begun at once, if the savings banks of the state are to maintain the high position reached by years of patient and dignified service. I may be pessimistic, may be unduly alarmed for the future of these institutions, may be looking at the situation only from a local standpoint, and affecting only the smaller banks. From the Bank Examiner's last report, however, we may notice that the total amount deposited in the savings banks of the state last year was $15,180,000, while the amount of the withdrawals during the year was $6,036,000. Now last year was one of active business. Crops were good and farmers prosperous; labor was the highest commodity in the market, and fully employed. Conditions were in every way favorable to a natural and steady increase of deposits in the savings banks, yet it appears that the amount of withdrawals exceeded the amount of deposits by $856,000, and exceeded the withdrawals of 1903 by $1,225,000. With the addition of dividends earned, the deposits in the savings banks increased only about two per cent during the year. The people had money to deposit. This may be seen from the vast increase of deposits in the national banks and trust companies of the state. During the same period, when our savings banks were increasing their deposits but two per cent, these latter institutions rolled up an increase of thirty per cent in deposits.

Are our savings banks entering into a condition of senile dementia? Have they outlived their period of usefulness and must they now step aside and leave the field to more aggressive and more progressive institutions? Surely not. These banks of the people—banks that have done so much for the progress and prosperity of our state—must not be driven from their well earned sphere of usefulness.

Probably at the very mention of the word advertise, those of you who have begun to grow old in the savings bank business will hold up your hands in horror and deprecation. But a rose by any other name is none the less sweet. Call it by whatever name you will, so long as you thereby reach the people and get them to know and understand what the savings bank is doing in the community and just how it is doing it. Advertise? It may be a serious question with some whether trustees are justified in using depositors' funds for this purpose. Let the same men, however, engage in some large business enterprise of their own, depending upon public patronage, would they hesitate to engage in judicious advertising? Not for a moment.

It may be urged that by advertising the expense of management would be materially increased. But we should not lose sight of the fact that an increase in the amount of deposits means a corresponding pro rata decrease in the expenses of the bank. For example, a comparison of the deposits with the annual expenses in the individual banks for the year 1904 shows that the percentage of the cost of management in the larger banks was only about two mills on each dollar handled, while in the smaller banks this percentage was, in some instances, four or five or even six mills per dollar, notwithstanding the fact that, as a rule, the smaller banks are in localities where rents and salaries are the lowest. If, therefore, by reasonable and judicious advertising the number of depositors and the amount of deposits might be doubled in any of these institutions, the expenses could not possibly increase in the same proportion. Granting even a liberal system of advertising, there would still be a decrease in the pro rata expenses of the bank.

Again, some may object to advertising on the ground that any material increase in deposits would reduce the percentage of the reserve fund and so weaken the condition of the bank. This might be the temporary result of any sudden and unexpected increase. But it would be only temporary. With an increase in deposits and a resulting proportionate decrease in expenses, the reserve could soon again be brought into a normal condition.

So, again, some may object to even an increase in deposits, on the ground that they have already as many funds as they can well invest at present interest rates. But, as has already been suggested, the savings banks are primarily the banks of those in the humble walks of life. It would be narrow and selfish for such to refuse the funds of the very class for whom these institutions were created. As well might the hospitals and asylums refuse to admit such as may apply of the suffering and unfortunate, or the public schools refuse to admit more pupils, for the reason that by so doing they might impair the standard of their work or increase their expenses.

And how shall we advertise? What must be said to the people to get them more into our confidence, to get them better acquainted with us and our method? Of course the present dignity of these institutions must not be lowered by indulging in the smart advertisement. On the other hand, in simple, clear, concise language, shorn of idioms and technicalities and verbosity, place before the people the whole savings bank story. Give them rudiments. Give them first principles. Give them somehow as comprehensive a grasp of the savings bank system as they now have of the public school system. Tell them of your rate of dividends paid, and how it is as large as is consistent with safety and sound management. Tell them of the amount of dividends paid by your bank since it was instituted. Tell them of your reserve fund and how it is being increased each year to protect depositors in case of hard times and panics. Tell them that the law prohibits you from investing their deposits in any except the safest and most conservative securities. Tell them the names of your officials, with suitable comments upon the strength of such management. Tell them that their savings, however small, left in your care will increase day by day, and even while they sleep the increase will still go on. Tell them that the safe return of the principal, with a fair rate of interest, is most to be desired than a larger rate of interest at the risk of losing the principal. Tell them that the $1 deposit of the laborer, the widow or the orphan is even more welcome than the $1000 deposit of the person in better circumstances in life. Tell them that of the $82,000,000 of savings bank resources nearly one half is employed within the state, to encourage industries, to build mills and factories, to construct rail roads, to start the young man in business and to assist in buying farms and owning homes. Tell them especially of the strength of your local investment and how they have contributed to local business and the development of local industries. Tell them of a thousand ways in which savings bank funds are an important factor and a most potent influence in the development of business enterprise, contributing no small item in the sum total of our progress and prosperity.

I can hear you remark that it is all very well to inform the public in relation to these matters, but how is it to be done? This is a question for which every board of trustees will have a different answer. It may require various answers, depending largely upon local conditions. The same method that might succeed in a farming or a lumbering community might be a failure in the manufacturing town or in the city. This is a matter for the most careful thought and study on the part of the various boards of trustees.

There is nothing that will so quickly arouse the enthusiasm and enlist the cooperation and support of those who ought to be interested in your bank as by making them to understand that you know them and recognize them and want them as patrons. In no way can this understanding be so readily engendered and a business intercourse established as by forwarding them through the mails some token of your friendship and recognition.

In the first place, this branch of the work should be entrusted to that member of each board of officials who is the best equipped by nature, by education and by business experience, in a word, the man best adapted, for such a man will succeed where others of equal energy, but lacking such adaptation, would probably fail. His first duty, if in a country town of farmers or lumbermen or fishermen or wage earners, should be carefully to prepare a list of names of those within a reasonable radius who might be induced to become depositors. In the cities and larger towns, especially in manufacturing communities where numerous laborers are employed, the same general plan might be carried out and in addition the bank officials should secure the cooperation of men or companies employing such labor. This could be readily done for every employe would be found anxious that his employe practice the habit of saving a portion of their wages, saving for their rainy days so sure to come into every man's life.

Then should begin the dissemination of literature. In deciding upon the form and substance of it is will come the severest test of the business acumen and sound judgment of the fiscal charge. The substance of such reading matter has to some extent already been suggested, but numerous ideas and arguments could be brought out besides those already mentioned, varying in accordance with locality and conditions. The points, however, should be clearly made and the text simple and easily comprehended. In form it should be courteous and complaisant, carefully avoiding buffoonery and the methods employed by quacks and certain modern promoters. Be equally careful to avoid the opposite extreme, the stilted style of the pedant. Strike the happy medium, that your methods may not be misunderstood and that the respect and dignity of your institution may not be jeopardized. I was forcibly impressed by the sound common sense of a western banker, who in touching upon this point used these words: "Many of us make the mistake of either scolding or preaching in our advertising. Compiling figures on how much the individual would profit by smoking no cigars or by staying away from the theater seems too personal and is not expected of us. I also feel that the time-honored dollar that accumulated so much interest in 25 years has been spent somewhere along the road; at any rate, it now seems to have lost much force as an argument and, indeed, 25 years was a long time to wait for so little."

Gentlemen, the plan suggested may seem to you impracticable. Perhaps you have already tried it and concluded it a failure. One or two or three of these silent messengers sent out by your bank may have failed to bring a response, while the next one may succeed. It is to be expected that many of them will be nonproductive, but some of them will accomplish the desired purpose some of them will bring you depositors who otherwise might never have learned to appreciate the office of a savings bank; at least, by this means you are getting better acquainted with the people at large, some of whom may be already your depositors. By this means the people are getting to know you, your methods and your value in the community. Don't forget that when you have once secured a new depositor you have started that man into a new career. He may have been careless, indifferent and neglectful of his family; a bank deposit will help him to be thoughtful and kindly. He may have been lawless, regardless of property rights, disloyal to his government; a bank deposit will transform him at once into a respecter of law, a believer in the rights of property, a loyal citizen. Thus as we increase our efforts to know and be known of men shall we ourselves become stronger and the true mission of the savings bank better understood and appreciated.

Drowning on Rangeley Lake.

An unknown French Canadian was drowned and two companions barely escaped a like fate last Sunday afternoon near South Rangeley. The three men in a boat were passing Camp Navabor, occupied by S. D. Packard and family, when the boat accidentally capsized and the occupants were thrown into the lake. Packard and his 15 year-old son, Chaslin, hasted to the scene and succeeded in getting two of the men ashore but the third was lost.

Squirrels Take Care of Themselves.

"Squirrels need no protection from dogs," said Attorney Harry Sloan, Madisonville. "In fact, in the park at Madisonville I have seen them tease dogs for the sport of it. They will scamper onto the street, take a tantalizing position and let a dog get nearly to them. Then they make for the nearest tree. They ascend the tree just far enough to be beyond the dog. They seem to know by instinct just how far the dog can jump and they stay just beyond his reach. They used to build fences around the park to protect the squirrels from the dogs, but it was soon discovered that they needed no protection and that they enjoy being chased by their canine enemies."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The boys of the Farmington Fire department went to Camp Crazy in Salem Saturday for a few days' outing and returned Monday. It is said by one who knows that the trip was highly enjoyed by all concerned. As far as the correspondent knows there were no alarms of fire rung in while the department was in camp, but had there been the response would have been instantaneous, as the boys were constantly on the qui vive for a duty call. One of the features of this trip was the pothellion, brewed by John Gilkey, a prominent member of the department and a jolly good fellow as well. Mr. Gilkey also entertained the company with several stories, both humorous and pathetic, moving his audience to tears or laughter at will.

Mr. W. B. Small of Kingfield was in town Monday.

At a corporation meeting held Thursday evening the motion to have the water taken from Varnum pond was defeated by a vote of 87 to 91.

The trip from Newton, Mass., to this place was made in about 12 hours and the run from Portland to Farmington in 4 1/2 hours. On the way down the gentlemen had a race with two young men, accompanied by young ladies, who were in a large touring car. They had no trouble in beating the big car, even before its engine dropped off four miles from Portsmouth, N. H.

ABOUT RHODE ISLAND.

Not an Island, But Takes Its Name from an Island Named by Indians.

Rhode Island is the most interesting state in the union. Her people are generally known as "Gun-flints." She is about the size of a postage stamp, yet has two capitals, says the New York Press. Her rival in that respect, Connecticut, had two until New Haven yielded to Hartford in 1873. Rhode Island is not an island, being surrounded on three sides by dry land. There used to be an island of the name—the Indians called it "Aquidneck"—but its identity was lost when the "peaceful isle" annexed the Providence plantations. Wasn't that the original American "merger?" The name "Rhode Island" is of very obscure origin. The early settlers of "Little Rhody" had grim experiences, as we may infer from the names bestowed upon the physical features of the state. These represent the whole gamut of human suffering, human ambition, human weakness. Take the islands Prudence, Patience, Hope, Despair, all under the hand of Providence. And don't overlook Hog island. The coat-of-arms is a golden anchor, fouled on a blue shield, and the motto is "Hope." Rhode Island in 1776 ordered that the name of the "Colony of Rhode Island" be the oath of allegiance instead of "to the King of Great Britain." Oh, she was a very proud, haughty, independent little body, and set herself up against the United States, refusing to ratify the constitution until congress threatened to treat her as a foreign power.

MANUFACTURE EXPRESSION

Photographers Can Produce Any Cast of Features Desired by Sitter.

"A remarkable fact in my profession," said a photographer, according to the Chicago Chronicle, "is that we portrait artists can give to a sitter any expression that is desired. A bland look, a noble look, a serene look—it is no trouble to us to put any one of these expressions on the most wooden face. "The matter is achieved by the repetition of certain words. If you, for instance, came to me and said you wished to look distinguished I would pose you in a distinguished attitude and then I would get you to say 'brush' just before I snapped the shutter. For some inexplicable reason the pronunciation of the simple word 'brush' gives to the mouth an air of the most striking nobility and distinction. "If you want to have in a photograph a look of serenity you must say 'bosom.' "If you want to make your mouth look small say 'flip.' If you want to make it look larger say 'cabbage.' "To have an expression of melancholy it is necessary to say 'kerchunk.' "To have an expression of pride or hauteur it is necessary to say 'phoenix.'"

Weld.

Go where you will it is indeed difficult to find a location more beautiful or more suited to the needs of one in search of rest than the beautiful village of Weld, located near the popular shore of water, Lake Webb.

On all sides are towering mountains from "Old Blue," the highest mountain in this section of the state to the peculiar formation of the "Tumbledown" range. Anywhere and everywhere you eye chances to glance, then will it instantly rest on a mountain peak.

Another matter that we cannot forbear mentioning is one of the greatest importance to one contemplating becoming a resident, even of a temporary nature of this romantic village. We refer to the people who are typical New Englanders, bluff, hearty and very hospitable. These people make the best of neighbors, willing to do a kindness and accepting one in the same spirit. The fishing in Lake Webb is unusually good this spring, large catches of trout and salmon being of daily occurrence.

Another thing that the town boasts of is its well trained and organized baseball nine, one of the best if not the best in the county. Of its nine Weld is justly proud, the citizens all uniting to help the good cause along by contributions of money, as well as moral support. This redoubtable nine captured the Franklin County pennant, offered by the WOODSMAN two years ago and is now getting in practice a team that will—they hope—do the business in short order for the opposing nine.

Mrs. Jesse Whitney is confined to the house with a sprained knee caused by a slight fall recently.

F. S. Buker is counting the days to the time when he will finish his eight years run on the Wilton stage line. There will be but eleven trips more after this week. He makes his last trip June 30. Chester Durrell begins to run the line July 1.

There was quite a little snow storm here June 7.

The ball boys have been practicing a little recently.

Frank Hodsdon and Nate Ramey are at work peeling pulp for J. H. Buker.

Chas. Austin of Perkins Plantation, spent last week visiting friends in Peru.

Miss Mary E. Hurrier, formerly of Scarborough, is visiting at Frank Jones's.

The ladies of the Union church will furnish cake and coffee at L. M. Newman's where a lawn party is to be given Friday, June 16. All are cordially invited to attend. The lunch will be served at 10 cents. Proceeds to defray incidental expenses of the church.

F. B. Houghton has put his large launch overboard. She is a fine boat and pleasure parties enjoy her very much.

Rev. J. D. Davis, who has been a missionary for 30 years at Kyoto, Japan has taken the Seaman cottage at Shady Nock for the summer. In conversation with your correspondent he spoke in the highest terms of Japanese loyalty. They are a people who love their government and have an intelligent understanding of her needs.

Franklin Abram of New Jersey is having a fine cottage built. Ross Seaman has charge and the work is being pushed forward as fast as possible.

Mrs. A. J. Houghton of Wilton was in town calling on friends last week.

Mrs. Geo. E. Graffam of Turner has been in town visiting her sister, Mrs. Morris Ju. Kils.

Bial Jones and wife were at church Sunday. They were visiting Mrs. Jones's father, Mr. Frank Chandler.

Russian Vegetarian Diet.

It has been said so often lately that the Japanese owe their strength largely to a vegetable diet that it is interesting to read in a traveler's account of a visit to Moscow in 1698 that the same thing was said then of their present enemies, the Russians. He attributes their being "of a very strong constitution, very tall and bulky," to the fact that "above one-half of the year being taken up with their fasts, the common people feed upon nothing else but cabbage and cucumber." Lest the total abstainer as well as the vegetarian should rejoice at this, though, we must add that our traveler also says: "It must be allowed that they promote the digestion by the brandy and leeks which, unquestionless, correct the viscous humors arising by such indigestible nourishments." So there is nothing new, even in the modern war of diets.—London Chronicle.

Huge Task.

It was a huge task to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease as that of C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful back ache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, I've crstfmach. Guaranteed by W. A. D. Cragin, druggist; price 50c."

ADVERTISING.

In these days live merchants are looking for profit. They are placing their advertisements where, in their best judgement, they will do them the most good. Time was, we are told, when the store keeper used to give the newspaper man an advertisement, "just to help out the paper."

That would be considered a senseless performance now. We want advertisements from people who want to get their money's worth out of their advertising.

We want advertisements from people who intend to give their advertisements some care and attention.

We want advertisements from business people who realize that they have something to say to the more than ten thousand readers of MAINE WOODSMAN, if they would make their business all that it should be.

To such people, the MAINE WOODSMAN advertising columns present indeed a rare bargain. The MAINE WOODSMAN has the readers—more than ten thousand of them—without which all advertising would be a failure—money thrown away.

But IT PAYS to advertise in MAINE WOODSMAN. If in doubt try it.

Classified advertisements only one cent a word.

Couldn't Lift Ten Pounds.

Doan's Kidney Pills Brought Strength and Health to the Sufferer, Making Him Feel Twenty-Five Years Younger.

Sick kidneys cause a weak, lame or aching back, and a weak back makes a weak man. Can't be well and strong until the kidneys are cured. Treat them with Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's the testimony of one man cured.

J. B. CORTON.

I could have raised ten pounds of weight from the ground, the pain was so severe. This was my condition when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly relieved me and now I am never troubled as I was. My back is strong and I can walk or ride a long distance and feel just as strong as I did twenty-five years ago. I think so much of Doan's Kidney Pills that I have given a supply of the remedy to some of my neighbors and they have also found good results. If you can sift anything from this rambling note that will be of any service to you, or to any one suffering from kidney trouble, you are at liberty to do so.

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Corton will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

J. B. Corton, farmer and lumberman, of Deppe, N. C., says "I suffered for years with my back. It was so bad that I could not walk any distance nor even ride in easy buggy. I do not believe
