Mrs. John P. Moulton.

SACO, ME., Aug. 20, 1886.
My wife suffered terribly from rheumatism and neuralgia for 15 years; was prostrated most of the time; each acute attack being severe.—
At last, 15 months ago, she took to her bed remaining there for over a year, suffering tortures indescribable. For months I did not sleep much but stood over her trying to relieve her terrible pains. At first large doses of morphine seemed to relieve her some, but at last even that in enormous doses had no effect whatever. Finally she commenced to take Dr. Cobb's Rheumatic Cure, and in twenty-four hours her pain left her never to return, and she was able to walk about the room. Next day she walked to the gate, next day she walked 100 rods, and in ten days she walked a mile without inconvenience and in a fortnight was entirely well and able to do her housework, and has remained in perfect health since; praise God for this wonderful remedy.

From all over the country come thousands of statements of the wonderful cures made by this medicine. This medicine is not a liniment. You cannot cure these blood diseases by applications to the skin. This remedy destroys the impurities from the blood and is a "cure" cure for rheumatism and neuralgia. It is also one of the best tonics in the world, and strengthens the stomach, nerves and kidneys. Send for circulars containing the statements of persons cured in your own town. Prepared only by

CARNIVAL

ON MONDAY NIGHT.

The grand annual carnival, under the auspices of the Kennebunk River Club, on next Monday evening promises to be the grandest affair of the kind ever witnessed here, or for that matter, anywhere else.

More boats will be on the river than at any previous event, and some of the decorations will be very elegant and elaborate. The procession will form in front of the residence of Rev E L Clark, and go over the usual course through the bridge and back to the new boat house, where something in the way of a surprise will be given to the spectators. Just what this will be is kept a profound secret, but every one should be sure and watch the finish. To an unknown giver is due the thanks of those who will witness the grand finale of the evening's sport.

Special trains will be run as usual. In another column will be found what The Wave proposes to do in giving an elaborate account of the event.

The Wentworth House and Sea View base ball teams crossed bats on the Wentworth grounds Wednesday, with the following result: Wentworths, 19; Sea Views, 6.

"JACK" WRITES SOME PERTINENT THINGS.

I took a walk up town last evening just to watch the crowd in the post office come and go. It is a busy place at mail time, and it seems as if people of every kind and class congregated there. There are natives and boarders, duds and sailors, belles and table girls, all crowded together and all waiting to see what the mail brings. Letters from fathers, mothers, sisters, lovers and friends, all pass together through the narrow slot into the eager hands waiting for them. I wonder how many messages of love and anger, how many promises of friendship and how many business details have passed from behind that glass wall. If that rugged, pleasant looking, black whiskered gentleman who, thanks to President Harrison, is allowed to write P. M. after his name, could only know the contents of those letters that he daily handles he would have the key to many a romance and tragedy.

I am sick and tired of looking at the snobbishness of some of the so-called aristocratic guests. When you see a boarder who will bully the bell boys, find fault with the waiter and kick at every trivial discomfort to the hotel clerk, and betray a reckless disregard to the comfort of other guests with whom he comes in contact, you can safely conclude that this person when at home is of very trivial consequence, and that wherever he is, he is a coward and a cur. A true gentleman never does those things. It is the cheap fry every time that puts on the most insolence and so-called style.

I notice that the girls at some hotels possess rather more beauty, and certainly more manners, than the lady guests, and that some bell boys could give the gentlemen points in etiquette. If I was a bell boy I would give some of them a black eye, even if I lost my place for it.

This cod fish aristocracy is enough to make one sick. I don't think we get much of it here at Kennebunkport. The place is too select. But for all that some black sheep drift in. They put on style without any substantial reason for doing so. Of course any one can be a gentleman, even if poor, but a person who ten months in the year works like a dog, and who is treated little better, has no right to come to the seashore and try and put on an elaborate amount of style and pomposity.

Mr. J. F. Webb of Norwich, Conn., is at the Ocean Bluff Hotel with a large party of his friends.

AT THE POPULAR

PARKER HOUSE.

"On with the dance, let joy be unrestrained." The guests at the Parker House never do things by halves. When it was decided to have a dress hop on Thursday evening every guest of the house seemed to enter into the spirit of the affair and do all in their power to make the event a brilliant success. And such it proved to be. The dance hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the walls being almost completely covered with oak boughs and golden rods; two tennis nets hung on the sides were a mass of flowers and leaves. At the lower end were two long strips of bunting, one on each side of a white banner on which was painted an enormous red lobster; tennis rackets trimmed with flowers hung on the other end. The floor was in perfect condition, and the music of that character for which the Parker House orchestra is so justly famous. Every seat was occupied by spectators, and the piazzas outside were crowded with lookers-on. The interior of the hall, when the hop was in its height, was a scene long to be remembered by those who witnessed it. Under the gaslight floated strong, manly men and ladies in beautiful costumes "fair as fair could be." Overhead Chinese lanterns and flags swung and fluttered in the draught. The walls were a solid mass of green and gold, fragrant with odors of fir balsam and the perfume of flowers. And all the while the entrancing music floated out on the still night air. Nearly all the guests of the Parker participated, and among them were many from the cottages and other houses. Among the latter were the following: Mrs. Sizer, the Misses Sizer, Miss Isabelle Paine, Miss Nicolonus, Miss Wentworth, Miss Sibley, Miss Adams, Mrs. Lizzie Tripp, Miss Cooke, Miss Meisel, Miss Smith, Miss Marion Lewis, Miss May Holmes, the Misses Todd, Miss Clare, the Misses Blunt, Mrs. Palmer, Miss Palmer, Miss Parot, Miss Titcomb, Mr. John B. Grover, Mr. Frank Palmer, Mr. Frank R. Arnold, Mr. Perkins Titcomb, Mr. Field, Mr. Hendrick, Mr. Doubleday, Mr. Ellis Brooks, Mr. Adams.

The following was the order of dances: March—Infantry. Galop. Waltz. Polka. Schottische. Waltz. Polka. Portland Fancy. Waltz. York. Lancers. Schottische. Galop. Dancing in the Barn. Waltz.

Mr. DeB K. Ludwig of Philadelphia has arrived at the Ocean Bluff Hotel, accompanied by his friend, Rev. F. D. Ayer, D. D., of Concord, N. H.

Mr. Annesley Garrett, a prominent Philadelphian, is on his first visit to the Bluff and has already expressed himself much pleased with the place.

Mr. Geo. E. Abbott, in the city architect office, Boston, is at the Grove Hill with his family. They are accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Mamie Pratt.

A very enjoyable German was held at the Ocean Bluff Hotel Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, led by Mr. Field of New York and Miss Lucas of Philadelphia.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

IT IS PROPOSED TO MAKE NEXT WEDNESDAY'S WAVE A GRAND SOUVENIR CARNIVAL ISSUE. IT WILL CONTAIN NUMEROUS ILLUSTRATIONS AND A COMPLETE DESCRIPTION OF EVERY BOAT IN LINE, AND OF ALL DECORATIONS, ALONG THE RIVER, TOGETHER WITH THE NAMES OF ALL PERSONS PARTICIPATING IN THE EVENT. THE ILLUSTRATIONS WILL BE MADE BY THE BEST ENGRAVERS, AND THE PAPER WILL PROVE A VALUABLE SOUVENIR OF THE CARNIVAL TO PRESERVE AND TO SEND TO ABSENT FRIENDS. ON ACCOUNT OF THE HEAVY EXPENSES OF ILLUSTRATING THIS EDITION THE PRICE WILL BE TEN CENTS A COPY. PARTIES DESIRING TEN OR MORE COPIES SHOULD SEND THEIR ORDERS TO THE WAVE OFFICE NOT LATER THAN TUESDAY NIGHT. THE WAVE WILL BE THE ONLY PAPER PUBLISHING A FULL ACCOUNT OF THE CARNIVAL.

The Bass Rock House is crowded to its fullest extent with a very merry crowd, who make lots of fun with the corky parties, hops and other amusements.

When a young gentleman and lady out on a stroll are mistaken for a team then it is very evident that the other parties must have been taking something.

Mr. A. W. Esleek of Holyoke returns to the Grove Hill House to-night to attend the carnival. He will bring his little girl with him, and they will find a royal welcome.

The piles of lumber on Water street furnish very fair seats for the weary pedestrians, but sometimes those who sit there cause a feeling of weariness to come over those who pass by.

Francis C. Hersey and family, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., are at the Grove Hill Hotel for the season. Mr. Hersey is of the Hersey Manufacturing Company, located in South Boston.

Genial, clever and handsome "Billie" Dewson of Quincy, Mass., is at the Parker House. This is Mr. Dewson's sixth year here. He likes the place, the place likes him, and so do the people.

The Brown University Quartette, including Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club, of Providence, R. I., will give a concert at Arundel Hall Wednesday, August 13. A good concert may be expected.

Pile of boards beside the road; young couple folded in close embrace; footsteps heard approaching; couple less affectionate; footsteps die away in the distance; second scene similar to the first.

Rev. J. J. Miller of Worcester, Mass., will preach at the Baptist church Sabbath morning at 10:30. The evening service will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Cummings of the Boston Home for Little Wanderers.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Philler are back again at the Ocean Bluff. Mr. Philler is president of First National Bank in Philadelphia, and is the gentleman who presented the nice doors to St. Ann's-by-the-Sea.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Fargasson of New York city are daily expected to visit Kennebunkport with their victorious yacht the "Tigress," which won the Commodore's cup in the recent race off Newport.

An experience of twenty years, under the teaching of some of the best workmen in the land, is an assurance that Frost will do all repairing in his line to the entire satisfaction of his patrons, Kennebunk.

Mrs. M. E. Adams, who so narrowly escaped drowning between the piers on Saturday afternoon, is rapidly recovering under the able directions of her attending physician, Dr. G. Fred'k Brooks, of the Bickford House.

The Wave is having a larger sale this year than ever before. Not a copy of the last two issues is left. The last issue was selling at a premium of 20 cents a copy the night after publication, so great was the demand for them.

Rev. S. S. Cummings, from the New England Home for Little Wanderers, will speak in the Methodist church Sunday at 2 p. m., and in the Baptist church at 7:30 p. m. He will be accompanied by a choir of the children from the Home.

There was a mistake in the last number of The Wave, in which it was stated that Dr. Hinds was agent for the work entitled "The Poets of America." Dr. Hinds was a contributor to the work, and had a few copies sent him for distribution amongst his friends.

American cooking. The United States Hotel at Boston has made a great reputation for its excellent table, which is nothing more than plain, healthy, New England cooking. It is said that the proprietor keeps a shotgun loaded to shoot the first cook that puts on a French dish.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Kennebunkport railroad was held at the Parker House on Tuesday, August 5th, and the following board of directors chosen: Edward Burnham, Hartley Lord, M. C. Maling, Charles C. Perkins, A. J. Libby, Joseph A. Titcomb, James G. Cousens.

Mr. C. C. Woodman, wife and mother are at the Grove Hill. Mr. Woodman has charge of one of the Worcester's (Mass.) schools, having seven hundred students under his supervision. He and his wife are excellent singers and so add greatly to the musical talent at this popular hotel.

Among the recent arrivals at the Bickford House are the Rev. Dr. Alexander Prondit of Baltimore and family. Miss Prondit, his daughter, is a young lady of rare musical attainments. Mr. Alexander Prondit, jr., Princeton '93, is a member of the "Whig" Literary Society connected with the college.

Miss Alice Wilcox of Washington, who is at the Ocean Bluff Hotel, gave a very pleasant progressive euchre party in the parlor of the Glen House Tuesday evening. The prizes were awarded as follows: First lady's prize to Miss Hastings; first gentleman's prize, Mr. Ware; Progressive prize, lady's, Miss Walker; gentleman's, Mr. Ware; booby prize, lady's, Miss Lockwood; gentleman's, Mr. Lord.

THE BAZAAR

AT ARUNDEL HALL.

A GRAND SUCCESS.

Arundel hall, Wednesday afternoon and evening, was a busy place, on the occasion of the grand bazaar held there for the benefit of the hall and library association. The hall was very tastefully and beautifully decorated with oak, evergreens, flags and banners. The stage being one complete mass of green resembling a trackless forest. Directly over the door was that emblem so dear to many of the visitors here, the lobster banner of the Kennebunk river club. On the right, as one entered the hall, was to be seen the candy table, on which could be found the very nicest of confectionery in neat and handsome packages. This table itself was also very prettily decorated with banners and foliage. It was presided over by Mrs. Grelaud and her two daughters. The next thing to attract the eye was the tea room. The ladies cloak room at the right of the entrance has been transformed into a perfect parlor and tea room, where one could obtain a cup of tea, and enjoy it in comfort. The decorations here were very beautiful and appropriate, consisting mostly of articles of Japanese bric-a-brac. Beyond the candy table the eye was next attracted by the "Village Table" under the charge of Mrs. Brownell. This table contained articles contributed by the village people: Mrs. C. P. Clark, Mrs. Crombie, Mrs. Titecomb, Mrs. Agnew, Mrs. Robertson and many others. The "Cottage Table" next attracted the attention. This was presided over by Mrs. Robbins and Miss Reed, and contained articles contributed by the cottagers at the Cape: Mrs. Platt, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. McMaster, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Hastings, Mr. Lockwood, and many others. The "Hall Table" contained articles contributed by those at the different hotels. This was in charge of Mrs. Bell and Miss Stevens. There were so many beautiful and useful articles for sale that it is impossible even to begin to enumerate them. Nearly everybody sent in something. A few, very few, of the numerous articles were some very fine etchings by Mr. Senat, a beautiful afghan by Mrs. Dexter, doilies by Miss Alice Sprague and sofa cushions by Mrs. Jones. These are only a few of the many.

Passing on from the fancy goods, the Refreshment Tables claim their share of attention, and under the charge of Dr. Brooks and his boy of waiters—Miss Ware, Miss B. Owen, Miss M. Owen, Mr. H. Mackey, Mr. E. Mackey, Mr. Wentz, Mr. B. Stevens, Mr. F. Stevens, Mr. F. G. Macintosh, Mr. M. Cummings, Mr. M. H. Cummings, Mr. M. Stevens, Mr. Sheffield. This corner of the hall was a very busy one. The extra fine quality of the refreshments is due to the inmates of the Bancroft cottage, assisted by Mrs. Agnew, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Senat, and Miss Fields.

After satisfying the pangs of hunger by a discussion of the very excellent menu, the lover of the beautiful is irresistibly drawn to the flower booth artistically decorated with green and beautifully scented by the fragrant flowers. Four young ladies in cool attire: Miss Hastings, Miss Sheffield, Miss Jenks and Miss Lockwood are ready to supply flowers to all. One of the principal features of this booth is the Lily pond in which the handsome white lilies seem to be growing in profusion. One of the most picturesque scenes in the hall was the lemonade well in the woods, which was certainly very unique. This affair was not entirely without its lotteries. Miss Mazie Walker of St. Louis was the recipient of a large kite presented by vote.—Mrs. Halteman of Columbia, Pa., drew in the same manner a handsome sofa pillow, and Mrs. Taylor of Haverhill an afghan. The main hall contained only a small part of the many attractions.

In the reading room an opportunity was offered to "know thyself" by consulting the gypsy fortune teller, Miss Parot, who had a very elegantly fitted up apartment in an alcove of this room. In the other alcove Edison's talking dolls, and the cigarette smoker loaned by Mrs. Parsons drew a crowd of children who were very much pleased with this part of the entertainment.

The lover of the antique found in the smoking room a perfect curiosity shop. Some of the principal articles exhibited here were a piano over 100 years old, loaned by Mrs. E. P. Clark, a chopping bowl made in 1773, foot warmers, one made in 1766, loaned by Mrs. Clark, the other, 1650, loaned by Mrs. Parsons, a brass lamp formerly owned by Gov. Winthrop of Massachusetts and loaned by its present owner, Mrs. G. B. Dexter, Washington memorial pitcher, 1800, loaned by Capt. J. A. Titcomb, an Indian grass belt 325 years old, loaned by Mr. I. Emery, a very old African water jar, an old contribution box formerly used in the Unitarian church at Kennebunk. One of the most prominent articles in this room was a very old wrap of extra fine material, African cloth woven on a two-and-one-half inch loom. This was formerly considered to be a fair price for a slave, and is therefore exceedingly valuable. The old spinning wheels attracted much attention, the wool wheel being loaned by Mrs. Credford, and the flax wheel by Mrs. C. P. Clark. Mrs. Taylor, in whose honor Mrs. Crombie's reception of last week was held, a lady 82 years old, entertained many of the people by her skillful work with these wheels. Another article of great historic value was a very beautiful and costly quilt, the mate of one which was made by Mrs. Borne of Kennebunk and sent to the wife of President Madison in return for which Mrs. Madison sent a very nice gold ring and a very fine linked chain. These were also on exhibition and were loaned by their present owner, Mrs. Lucy Little.

There were many more such articles each and every one deserving special mention but which under the circumstances is utterly impossible. One of the attractions of this room, although not an antique, was surely as much noticed as any. This was the Siamese cat which has been in this country only about two weeks.

In the evening a goodly company assembled and enjoyed an evening of dancing, with music furnished by the Kennebunk orchestra. Also during the evening Dr. Brooks distinguished himself by auctioneering off the goods which were left from the afternoon sale. The receipts of this bazaar amounted to over $753.

Much credit is due those who had the affair in charge for making such a grand success of it.

RESULTS OF

THE SPORTS

ON THE BEACH.

By 10:30 yesterday morning a large crowd had gathered at the Beach to witness the athletic sports under the auspices of the Kennebunk River Club. The weather was perfect and the gaily dressed crowd made a very pretty picture as they sported themselves about on the sands and spread their gay colored parasols to ward off the scorching rays of the burning sun. The judges of the contest were Messrs. P. H. Deering, R. D. Ware, and T. A. Gardner. The sports resulted as follows:—

One hundred yards dash for boys under 15 years the following entered—Hastings, L. E. Ware, Sterling Bell, D. S. Taft, Walker, D. Forrest, Cutler, H. Taft and Adams. This was run in two heats and was won by D. S. Taft with Walker second.

The next event was the 100 yards dash for boys under 18 years of age.—There were only two entries for this, Cummings and Walker. Cummings had a complete walkover as Walker dropped out immediately after starting.

Following this was the running board jump for boys under 15 years. The following were the contestants:—Hastings, Ware, Taft, Bell, Cutler. The event was won by Taft, who jumped 13 feet and 3 inches.

Next on the program was the 440 yards run for boys under 18 years.—The entries for this event were Hughes, J. Forrest, Noble, Manning, Walker. Manning crossed the line ahead with Walker second.

Following this was the 440 yards run for the smaller boys, which was entered by Hastings, Bell, Walker, H. Taft, Forest, Cutler and Adams. This was won by Walker, with Hastings a close second.

The next event is the running high jump for small boys, contested by Hastings, Ware, Taft and Bell. Taft was the winner in this event, with Hastings second. Height, 3 feet, 10 inches.

The 220 yards hurdle race for the older boys next drew the attention of the crowd. The contestants in this were Noble, Heives, Cummings, Manning and Cross. Noble won, with Cummings second.

The small boys' 120 yards hurdle race was the next event and was entered by Hastings, D. S. Taft, Walker, D. Forrest, Bell, Cutler, and H. Taft. Taft was won by D. S. Taft, with Walker second.

Next was the 220 yards dash for small boys, which was entered by Hastings, D. S. Taft, Bell, and Walker. D. S. Taft reached the line first, followed by Walker second.

The potato race was the last event of the amusement and was entered by Bell, Walker, Forrest and Hastings. Walker was the winner, with Hastings second.

The sports are over and a tired crowd leave the beach and seek rest on the hotel verandas.

—At Bahrain, which is about the hottest part of the earth, as though it were Nature's intention to make it as unbearable as possible, no water can be obtained from digging wells, to a depth of 500 feet in many cases; but thanks to copious springs which break forth in the waters of the Persian Gulf, over a mile from shore, fresh water is obtained by divers who fill goatskin bags with the cooling liquid and sell it to the inhabitants.

—Razze!—Did you notice how many new clothes Robinson has? Dazzle!—Yes. That's the only way he can save off his tailor.—Clothes.

THE TERRORS OF WAR.

How a Dixie Maid Became Convinced of Their Reality at Kennesaw.

A writer in the Pittsburgh Commercial, telling how little love for bloodshed and slaughter there was in the breast of the average soldier during our late war, though emphasizing the fact that the bloodiest-minded fighters came from the backwoods and the border States, comes to the narration of the following:

Singularly enough, fair woman, generous, tender-hearted woman, is the last to forget and forgive. She was more bloody-minded than her brother, rejoiced more over disaster to the enemy, and wept more bitterly when defeat came to her friends. Possibly, if she had been on the field, gun in hand, she would not have been so unrelenting, nor so anxious for the fray.

During the series of artillery duels that took place between the Confederates posted on Kennesaw Mountain and the Yankees in the woods below, a delegation of ladies came up from Atlanta to visit the army. Among the rest was a dashing daughter of the South from Macon who was very anxious to see the Yankees run. When the party reached the battery on Little Kennesaw the guns on both sides were quiet. At the foot of the mountain lay the Yankee army, more resembling a camp of militia than an army with banners.

"Captain, we came up here to see you all make the Yankees run," said the belle from Macon.

"But these are not the running kind," replied the Captain, who knew whereof he spoke.

"Why don't you shoot down there and scare them, for I am sure they are such cowards that they will run at the first shot?" she asked.

"We don't care to stir them up," he replied pleasantly.

Then the Macon belle stamped her little foot and railed so hotly at the Captain and his men that they consented to drop a shot or two for her satisfaction.

Captain Gardner, of the Fifth Wisconsin Artillery, whose guns were trained on the battery above, saw the muzzles of the guns coming through the port-holes, followed an instant later by three puffs of white smoke, and the men in camp could see the waving of white handkerchiefs, as if bidding good speed to the deadly missiles howling through the air.

No sooner had the white puff appeared than six shots rang out in rapid succession from Gardner's guns, and the clouds of dust and fleeing people showed that they had gone where they could do the most good. There was no more waving of handkerchiefs, nor fluttering skirts, nor flashing field-glasses, but all was quiet on Little Kennesaw.

That night two prisoners were captured by our pickets and they told the sequel.

The Macon belle lost a leg, the Captain was killed, two ladies seriously wounded, one gun disabled and several soldiers injured by the first volley from Gardner's guns. As the party fled toward Marietta they were followed by shot and shell almost to the edge of the town.

Such was woman's idea of war.

THE HONEST WAITER.

A Story Which Will Not Find a Place in Sunday-School Books.

There was an occurrence not long ago in the city of Minneapolis, says the St. Paul Globe, which well illustrated the making a virtue of necessity and profiting thereby. A lady, than whose name there is none better known in the theatrical world, was playing an engagement at the Grand. One day she was engaged in looking over her wardrobe, or a portion of it, in her room, and, being busy, had her luncheon sent to her room. When it came her stage diamonds, made of the purest paste, were scattered about on the table, among them being a large cross heavily set with sparkling diamonds. It caught the eye of the waiter who brought up the tray, and, by a little juggling with his napkin, he secured it. He rushed down-town as soon as possible to, in vulgar parlance, "hook" it, but found that he could raise but fifty cents on it. He was a "smooth guy," so he hastened back to the hotel, only to find that the lady had departed for the matinee performance. To the theater he went, and, securing admission at the stage entrance on "pressing business from Miss —, Hotel," he found the lady and restored to her the diamond cross, which, he plausibly set forth, had become entangled in a napkin. She had never even missed the ornament, but she was so delighted with the fellow's honesty that she bestowed on him a five-dollar bill. This is a true story, and one which will not be incorporated among those in the Sunday-school books under the title "The Reward of Honesty."

Nearly Dressed to Death.

The other day a woman rushed frantically into a Burlington (Vt.) drug store bearing in her arms an apparently lifeless baby. The mother wept and moaned and carried on at a terrible rate while chafing the little hands, and begged the druggist to save the little one. A bystander took the child, when it was found that the sole cause of the trouble was the number of wrappings with which the fond mother had incased the infant, literally choking him into insensibility. In a few minutes the child recovered and the mother went home happy.

Large-Sized Families.

A few days ago three families of Tindlers settled on farms in the northern part of Beadle County, S. D. In one of the families there are nineteen children, in another seventeen, and in the third nine, the parents of the last family having been married but ten years. These families will soon be joined by four others, all relatives, numbering forty-six persons, making a total of ninety-seven in nine families.

FIRESIDE FRAGMENTS.

—Smoked ham should boil fifteen minutes for each pound.

—Canned String Beans: String fresh butter-beans, break in two, and cook in slightly salted water till tender, pack boiling hot and cover well with the salted water, and seal. For use, drain them from the water, heat, and season to taste.—Farm and Home.

—Orange Syrup: Use ripe, fine fruit, squeeze out the juice, and to every pint add a pound of sugar, boil slowly ten minutes, skim, and when cold, bottle. Two or three spoonfuls of this are sufficient for a glass of water. This is also an excellent flavor for sauces.—The Household.

—Some housekeepers keep a bottle of alcohol with which to rub their looking-glasses. This, applied with a soft cloth, and the mirrors afterward polished with a chamois skin, does make them look beautiful, but the wetted paper does about as well and is much less expensive.—Christian at Work.

—Cherry Nectar: Select nice cherries, pound well with the stones in them, press through a sieve, add a little water, and boil up, filter through a jelly bag, one made of flannel is best. Mix a little sugar, water, and lemon juice, then add cherry juice to suit the taste, but do not make too sweet.—The House-keeper.

—An attractive way to serve cold mashed potatoes is to heat them over the fire with a little milk and stir until smooth, then add two well-beaten eggs. Butter an agate or earthen pie-plate; arrange the potatoes in a mound; rub over with the white of an egg, and bake in a hot oven to a delicate brown.

—Cold beef cut thin can be warmed in various ways so as to have an entirely different flavor: Melt a heaping tablespoonful of butter and add to it two tablespoonfuls of any sour fruit jelly, and a teaspoonful of mixed French mustard, and salt and pepper. When all are thoroughly warmed together, dip the slices of meat in one by one, and when all are warmed place on a warmed platter and turn the remainder of the sauce over them.—Rural New Yorker.

—Minced Mutton with Poached Eggs: Chop cold boiled or roast mutton quite fine. Put two cupfuls of this into the frying pan with half an onion minced, and a half-cupful of good gravy. If you have none, use instead a little hot water and a lump of butter the size of an egg. Just before taking the mince from the fire, stir into it a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce or two tablespoonfuls of tomato catsup. Heap the mince on small squares of buttered toast laid on a hot platter, and place a poached egg on top of each mound. Serve very hot.—Harper's Bazar.

THE SWISS PEASANTRY.

Stolid People Who Have the Passions That Beget Tragedy.

I will tell some stories which prove that the Swiss peasants, though they look so stolid, have in them the stuff of tragedy. There was a lad in a valley called Schanfigg, not long ago, who loved and was betrothed to a girl in the Hinter Rheintal below Splügen. She jilted him, having transferred her affections to another, and he went to take a formal farewell of his sweetheart in her home. Every thing passed decorously, so much so that the girl's brother put his horse into the cart and drove the rejected lover with his own sister down to Thuis.

The three had reached that passage of the Via Mala, where the Rhine loses itself in a very deep, narrow gorge. It is called the Merlosene Loch, and is spanned by a slender bridge thrown at right angles over the river. Here, as they were spinning merrily down-hill, the lad stood up in the cart, sprang to the parapet of the bridge, and dashed himself at one bound into the grim death of jagged rock and churning waters below them. It was a stroke of imaginative fancy to commit suicide for love just at this spot.

And now a second tale of passion: A rich man in the Prättigau had two children, a daughter and a son. The daughter wheedled him into allowing her to marry some peasant who was poor and an unequal match in social station. Then his son set his affections upon a girl equally ineligible. The father stormed, but the youth was true to his plighted troth. During a temporary absence of the son his father contrived to send the girl off to America with a round sum of money.

On his return, after hearing what had happened, the lad said nothing, but went down to the Landquart water in the evening and drowned himself there. And now a third tale. Last spring, in a village not three hours distant from Davos, lived a young man who was an orphan. He had inherited a considerable estate, and expected more from two uncles. Life, could he have managed it prudently, would probably have made him the wealthiest farmer in the neighborhood, and he was to boot, a stalwart fellow on whom nature had lavished all her gifts of health and comeliness. Unluckily, he loved a girl of whom his uncles disapproved as a match for such a youth of consequence.

One Saturday evening, as is the custom here, he went to pay his addresses by stealth to this maiden of his choice, and returning early next morning he was upbraided by his interfering uncles. When his uncles left he unhooked his gun from the wooden paneling of the boose room, went out alone into the copse hard by and put a bullet in his brain.—Fortnightly Review.

—A natural curiosity in the shape of a hip bone of a mastodon, weighing perhaps fifty pounds, was found at Alachua, Fla., a few days ago.

—During clear days people of Carthage, Ill., have distinctly heard the ringing of a ponderous church bell at Golden, twenty-eight miles away. The bell hangs in the German Lutheran Church tower at Golden, and it requires two men to ring it.

School House and Lot FOR SALE AT AUCTION!

At a meeting of the legal voters of School District No. 4, in Kennebunkport Village, held May 28, 1890, it was "Voted to sell the OLD SCHOOL HOUSE and the LOT on which it stands, at PUBLIC AUCTION to the highest bidder, before the first day of September next," and Wm. F. Moody, Joseph A. Tittcomb and Chas. E. Miller were chosen a committee to make the sale; the said committee were "authorized to give a deed in behalf of the District, to the purchaser, and to receive for the district the purchase money."

And now by virtue of our said authority we shall sell at

on the premises, corner of Maine and Union streets in this village, our said

SCHOOL HOUSE WITH THE LAND

under and belonging therewith, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, the 2nd day of August next.

The terms are Cash on delivery of the deed, within 3 days of the sale. Said building is two stories high, and measures 23 by 52 feet with wood shed annexed. The Lot will be so staked out that intending purchasers can see the corner bounds. We shall also sell at a later day, all the FURNITURE in the Primary and Grammar School Rooms.

W. F. MOODY,
JOSEPH A. TITTCOMB,
CHAS. E. MILLER, } Committee.
