Salvation Army Cadets To Visit Rockland

Salvation Army Cadets and Captain Stanley Dittmer.

For the first time in the history of The Salvation Army in the City of Rockland, a brigade of cadets from The Salvation Army Training College for officers will visit the city. This is only one stop on their tour through the state of Maine which will include visits to eight other Salvation Army Corps. The brigade is a group of seven cadets and will be under the direction of Captain Stanley Dittmer who is on the staff of the training college. They will be visiting Rockland for only one day, April 20. During the day they will present the entertainment at the Lions Club at noon. At 3.30 in the afternoon they will conduct a young people's meeting and at 7.30 p. m. they will conduct a public service at The Salvation Army which will be led by Cadet William Valentine and Cadet Charles Coles will be the speaker. These seven young men are studying at The Salvation Army Training College in New York City and in June of this year will be commissioned as officers and will be sent to corps all over the eastern part of the United States. One young man is a fourth generation salvationist with his parents being Salvation Army officers. One other cadet is the son of officer parents. The others have been attracted to the Army by some of the different activities that the Army carries on for all ages. The leader of the group, Captain Dittmer, is an excellent musician and much of his music has been published by The Salvation Army and is used by Army bands. The cadets will be presenting special vocal and instrumental items at the meetings.

The public is invited to attend these special meetings and listen to seven young men that have consecrated their lives to the service of God and mankind.

CHIEF GAME WARDEN OPPOSES JAIL TERMS FOR NIGHT HUNTERS

Chief Warden Elmer H. Ingraham of the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Game recently explained his opposition to a legislative bill which proposes a mandatory 30-day jail term for night hunting.

"On the surface," the Chief Warden stated, "it would appear that I should be in favor of such a bill, but actually I believe in the long run it would do more harm than good. As a matter of fact, our present law already contains a provision for a jail sentence, but leaves it to the discretion of the court as to whether such a sentence should be imposed or not. This gives the judge the opportunity to temper justice with mercy in cases having mitigating circumstances, certainly a principle of American justice, and one that I am sure we would all uphold. A mandatory sentence, however, would force the jail term in all cases. The large majority of people involved in night hunting cases are casuals, people who are talked into going just once, or who have not intended to night hunt but yield to temptation when a deer crosses the road in front of their car. The imposition of the staff fine is a sobering experience in these cases and, generally speaking, the offender is permanently cured. To put the stigma of a jail term on these people would not in my opinion be in the public interest."

Mr. Ingraham further stated that many young fellows are caught in night hunting violations, and human psychology is such that having once served a jail term and lost their good reputation, the idea of a second term is no longer a deterrent to these men. As a matter of fact, resentment could easily make permanent violators out of them.

One further point that the Chief Warden brought out was the danger of the loss of co-operation from our citizens in reporting night hunting violations. The major part of the information on night hunting activity comes to the warden force from landowners, sportsmen, and others who are sincerely interested in cutting down this type of depredation on our deer herd. The knowledge that such reporting on their part might mean a 30-day jail sentence for some

USCG And Mary A. Team Up In Island Emergency

A Cribhaven woman, Mrs. Marion Simpson, was brought to Rockland for treatment of injuries she received in a fall from the porch of her home Thursday. Mrs. Simpson, who was alone at home at the time of accident called the Coast Guard for assistance.

The Rockland Coast Guard base managed to make radio contact with the Matineus mailboat "Mary A" which returned to Cribhaven to pick up the injured woman. She was brought to the mainland where she received treatment for face and leg injuries.

Runaway Tots From Mars Hill Found In Camden

Camden police chief John Rainfrette reported Thursday that two children, a brother and a sister, missing from their Mars Hill home since Tuesday night had been picked up by the Camden police and were being held for their parents.

The children were first noticed near a Camden filling station by patrolman Charles Sturdee and former police officer Clifford Stinson. The children went into the woods off the main road for a short distance and were picked up by Sturdee and Stinson in the police cruiser when they returned to the highway near the Camden-Rockport town line.

A state police bulletin had been issued earlier in the day listing friend, acquaintance or neighbor would most certainly prevent many people from working as freely with the wardens as they now do under our present law.

SALK VACCINE TO BE ADMINISTERED TO ROCKLAND FIRST AND SECOND GRADERS APRIL 26-27

At the Thursday night meeting of the Rockland School Committee final approval was given for the administration of the Salk polio vaccine to first and second grade pupils in the city. Tentative approval had been granted earlier and permission slips distributed to parents of the 345 pupils. Parents of 10 children withheld permission.

Superintendent Kinney reported to the committee that permission had been granted by parents of 335 of the children in these two grades.

According to plans announced to the committee the first clinic for the administration of the vaccine will be held on April 26 and

27. The first day the clinic will be held at the North School and the second day at the South School. Pupils from McLain and Tyler schools will attend the clinic session at the North School.

The exact dates for the second set of shots will be announced later. The second administration of the vaccine will be given about four weeks after the first.

Other business conducted at the meeting of the committee included a report from Richard Sukeforth, Tyler School PTA president, on a proposed addition to the playground equipment at the school. The PTA group has planned the purchase of a second merry go round for the use of the smaller children of the school.

LOBSTERMEN'S LEADER CLAIMS LEGISLATORS FAVOR CANNERS IN CANADIAN LOBSTER MEAT BILL

Action taken Wednesday by the Sea and Shore Fisheries committee of the legislature was branded as discriminatory by the head of the Maine Lobstermen's Association, Leslie Dyer of Vinalhaven. The charge was made as a result of an eight to one vote of the committee refusing to grant approval to a measure intended to control the importation of lobster meat from Canada.

The present law allows meat to be imported for canning if it conforms to the laws of the country from which it comes even though it does not conform to Maine regulation and would be illegal if it were not being used for canning. At the same time the law does not allow meat for freezing to be imported unless it does meet Maine standards. Allowing this condition to continue was branded as a discrimination against Maine citizens in favor of foreign competition by Dyer in a statement issued Thursday.

The action of the committee was definitely in opposition to the stand taken by both lobster fishermen and dealers as well as by Sea and Shore Fisheries Commissioner Stanley Tupper, Sherman Baird, North Haven, representative, upheld the lobstermen.

Representatives of the fishermen had requested the committee to approve an amendment which would require imported lobster meat to conform to Maine legal standards as to size. A secondary request of the group had been that if importation of illegal meat was to continue it be allowed to enter for freezing as well as canning. Failure to make this change led to the charge that the committee was discriminating in favor of the lobster canning companies. At the present time the canning of lobster meat is largely the work of one Maine corporation. Officers of the Maine Lobster-men's Association indicated that they would continue their fight to have the present law changed even though the committee report was unfavorable. The report of Wednesday was the first report by the Sea and Shore Fisheries Committee not to have the backing of the entire committee.

Rumors were heard on Friday to the effect that there was a possibility that the committee might reverse its vote on the measure in the light of the strong protest from the entire lobster industry.

Warren Setting Up Plan For Salk Vaccine Day

Dr. Alta Ashley of the State Department of Health and Welfare outlined the history of polio from its first attack in 1916 to the present time, at the PTA meeting in the Warren school cafeteria Tuesday night. She urged parents to sign the consent slips for use of the Dr. Salk vaccine to be offered pupils of grade one and two in the Warren schools, the last of this month. Present also at the meeting were Miss Ruth Rogers of Rockland, Knox County polio vaccine chairman and George B. Parsons also of Rockland, Knox Polio campaign chairman.

Mrs. Pauline Pellicani local polio vaccine chairman announced today that 111 consent slips had been signed and returned to the school. Dr. Fred G. Campbell will administer the serum. The date is to be announced, she said, and will probably be during school hours on April 25.

CONY PASTIMERS IN TOWN THIS AFTERNOON FOR DIAMOND SEASON OPENER WITH TIGERS OF R. H. S.

The Rockland Tigers diamond nine will be out to start their season off on the right foot this afternoon at Scofield-White Park when they entertain Phil Clark's Cony Rams of Augusta, competitors in the Kennebec Valley League.

Little is known of the relative strength of the Rams, other than the fact that year after year Cony is one of the leaders in the Kennebec Valley race. This means that Rockland's work is all cut out for this afternoon.

Coach Bob Morrill plans to use as many of the boys who looked promising in the two weeks that the club has been working out of doors.

Slated to receive the nod on the mound is Gerald "Buzzy" Brackett, three year veteran on the Tiger squad. Brackett is to be the first of three hurlers whom Morrill will have to the rubber.

The second of the three pitchers may be Charlie Mahoney, a freshman who has impressed Coach Morrill with his early season showing. Tiger ace Ted Hanley will twirl the last three innings.

Ted came along last year and had a good summer when he was pitching for the Vinalhaven Chiefs, where he won seven and lost one.

Jim Nevels and Walt Wotten will split up the catching duties, and if needed, Nevels will be given a chance on the mound.

The starting infield is lined up with four veterans with Dave Deshon on first, Dick Gardner on second, Ed Hanson on third, and Dick Smith at short. Backing this quartet up will be Don Demmons, Sammy Glover, Dave Dean, and Jim Smith, reading around the horn.

Three more vets will answer the call in the outfield at the opening pitch. Ronnie Pease, Earl Freeman, and Wayne Gray will line up from left to right in the outer gardens. As reserve outfielders, Morrill has Joe Phillips, Hanley, Brackett and Mahoney.

This game with Cony marks the first of a 12 game schedule for the Tigers as they go all out to improve on a three won three lost record, a green Tiger squad chalked up last spring.

JUMBO SALMON CAUGHT IN ALFORDS LAKE WEDNESDAY

Dan Bowley of South Hope displays the 5½ pound salmon he took out of Alford Lake, right in front of Beaver Lodge, about 6 p. m., Wednesday. He and his fishing companion, Don Pushaw of South Hope, took the beauty into Perley Merrifield's Trading Post in West Rockport for weighing, and it actually ran a shade over the weight announced. The lake cleared of ice Tuesday and the men, as far as is known, took the first fish of the season, which Bowley took on a Grey Ghost fly.

CITY LITTLE LEAGUE SET UP FOR MAY 16 START WITH 84 BOYS OUT FOR THE FOUR TEAMS

At a meeting of the Little League held at the Community Building in Rockland Thursday evening, boys were tentatively assigned to rosters for the forthcoming season, and a list of managers and the schedule for this summer's league were released.

Fourteen managers were split up amongst the four teams, the Kiwanis and Rotary having four managers and the Odd Fellows and Lions three each. This will serve to relieve the load carried by one or two managers in the years past.

Managers of the respective teams are as follows: Kiwanis, Fred LaCrosse, Jim Skinner, Joe Seavey, Carol Cole; Rotary, Sheldon Gray, Dave Young, Walt Spaulding, Ed Harrington; Odd Fellows, Ray Foley, Sheldon Eaton, Al Kimball; Lions, Dewey Tripp, George Ellis, Fred Madore.

The schedule provides for 26 games with each team taking part in 18 games. The first game is slated for Monday, May 16 with games slated for every Monday through Thursday, excepting holidays. The league winds up on the week of July 18 in ample time to prepare an all-star team for the state playoffs.

A list of 84 boys was divided up into the four teams as a tentative arrangement in order to start practice sessions immediately. After more of a line is gathered on the boys, a reshuffling will take place to balance the four clubs, making for a better league.

A complete list of the boys slated for Little League play is as follows:

License Fees For Sportsmen Up Next Year

An increase of approximately 25 per cent in hunting and fishing license fees became a certainty for sportsmen of Maine next year with the signing of the necessary legislation by Governor Muskie. The bill will take effect as of January 1, 1956.

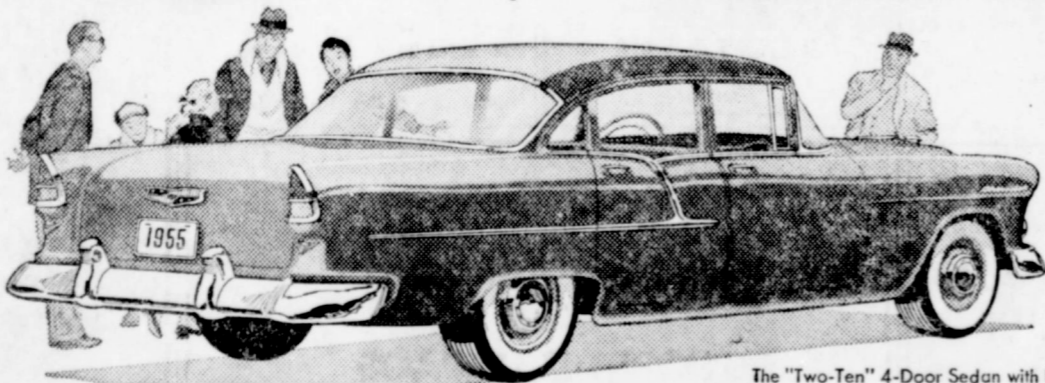

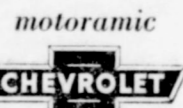

The cost of resident hunting and fishing licenses will increase from $2.25 to $2.75 each, with the combination license increasing from $4.25 to $5.25. Under the new law a resident guide's license will be upped to $8.75 from the present $7.75.

Non-resident hunters are going to have to pay $25.25 next year for a big game license instead of the present $20.25 fee, but the $10.25 non-resident small game license will remain the same.

In the fishing picture, the non-resident fees will go from the present $7.75 up to $8.75 for a season license. The present 15-day license will increase from $4.75 to $5.75, and the three-day license will go from $3.25 to $3.75. The junior non-resident license, issued to children between the ages of 10 and

EDITORIAL

WE BELIEVE IN IT

This is the season when the lovely Japanese cherry trees are in bloom in Washington, D. C., and the High School graduates-to-be embark on their Washington hegira. There are many factors in favor of these so called "Washington trips." The raising of the funds gives the young people a sound demonstration of co-operative effort. The trip itself by rail or bus is a great adventure and gives to many their first and maybe their only first hand view of New York City and of the nation's capital and finally the experience of being on their own, of knowing the reputation of the school depends upon their personal conduct, gives them a preview of the responsibilities of the life they must face following graduation in June.

The Washington trip plan is a wholesome institution and it has our blessing.

THEY THRIVE ON ADVERSITY

One of the proud old names from Rockland's earliest beginnings has been that of Glover. From the early days the Glovers were in the building trades and during the great boom days of the summer estate building era it was the Glovers who built many of the magnificent cottages which still dot the Penobscot Bay Islands.

Dealing with huge quantities of highly inflammable materials it is small wonder that from time to time great fires should attack their extensive holdings. Their answer has always been the same. When the big, rambling Glover saw mill on Tillson avenue burned, a new and wholly modern mill arose from the ashes. Last December their fine modern brick home building was wrecked by fire. Thursday the Glover boys of the younger generation gave the reply that was to be expected from this sturdy pioneer stock. A much finer home store than the original was thrown open to the public, as modern as tomorrow's sunrise.

May we wish these next door neighbors of ours the best possible success in the years to come.

WE SHALL MISS IT

For well over 50 years the huge street clock of Daniels Jewellers has been a dominant figure on Main Street. We, as citizens, have become so accustomed to it that it was accepted as are March winds and August heat. It just "was."

Now the big clock is no more, destroyed in an accident and undoubtedly we will notice the big timepiece more in its absence than we did when it was present, just as the stopping of the ticking of a clock will wake a person from sound slumber.

STEAMBOAT YARNS of Ships and Men

John M. Richardson

Elwin M. Eldredge Talks Of Ships And Men

The Eastern's great North Land which operated between Portland and New York.

Shortly after joining the Metropolitan Steamship Company I was advanced to Notice Clerk which job I held for quite a spell; then I was placed in the Tracing Department for O. S. & D's (over, short-ages and damages in freight) and prior to the First World War involved as I had been made an Investigator for the New York Claim Department. As such I worked under George L. Farr, at New York; W. K. Irving Freight Claim Agent at India Wharf, Boston. This work also brought me in contact with C. R. Lewis and W. H. Blasdale at Boston; H. A. Clay at Portland and many others including F. S. Sherman, Superintendent at Rockland and A. H. Leavitt at Eastport.

Prior to George L. Farr taking over the department it had been headed by one Joseph D. Kenney, who had a most remarkable high-pitched Irish voice that could be heard without much effort and he being slightly hard of hearing did not help any, especially when he was dictating; he would joyfully yell 'JDK next number' and dictate and thus repeat the same with the next number and so on. Well, the surrounding office force (there were about 25 or more in that large room) one by one in disguised voices would take to mocking him until the subdued laughter would finally make him realize what had been going on and with a rather angry reddened face would leave his desk and take to the piers below to cool off. He finally had to resort to dictating during lunch hour when most of us were out.

Between Piers 18 and 79 there is a Mezzanine upon which was located at that time the Time Keepers Office and General Cashier. The head of that department was a small man in stature named John Hollowell and of middle age or more who also possessed a rather unusual voice and his pronunciation of names was astounding and amusing to say the least. I can still hear him call out, 'there goes the 'City of Worcester' meaning of course the 'City of Worcester' or There's the 'Shinnycok' referring to the 'Shinnecock' of the Montauk Steamboat Co. and many others.

In those days I traveled on our ships as much as was practical and got to know many of the ship's personnel. On connecting lines such as the Old Dominion, Savannah and Merchant & Miners, courtesy passes were issued. It was not unusual to dine at the Captain's table or to find a dish of fresh fruit in your stateroom. The railroads issued half rates and in links like the Boston & Maine, Maine Central or Grand Trunk full passes and courtesies were granted.

Now to the chronological part of this resume:— In 1910/1911 the four freight boats, namely the 'H. F. Dimock', 'Herman Winter', 'H. M. Whitney' and 'James S. Whitney' hailed from Bath and run much without incident other than the 'Herman Winter' during a thick fog crashed into the lumber-laden two masted schooner 'Nevis' off Pollock Rip Lightship. The schooner did not sink and was towed and beached in Boston by the steamer. In April 1911 Mr. H. F. Dimock passed away, beloved by all who knew him.

The house flag of the Metropolitan Steamship Company was swallow-tailed, white field, blue border top and bottom and a red M. S. Co., in the white field. The tall Black stack carried a disk, white circle, red center with a white letter 'M' in the center.

Nineteen hundred and twelve, saw the home port changed to Boston. During that year a few of the mishaps were; the collision between the 'Bunker Hill' and 'Massachusetts' off Point Judith during a dense fog (on that same night the Fall River steamer 'Commonwealth' collided with the U. S. Battleship 'New Hampshire' off Newport Harbor); a collision occurred between the 'City of Rockland' and the collier 'William Chisholm' (I recall seeing the 'William Chisholm' wrecked in the Cape Cod Canal in 1916); the 'H. F. Dimock' was found to be on fire at Pier 14 North River and nearly scuttled; the 'James S. Whitney' and 'North Land' both running on the Maine Steamship Line collided during a fog off Cross Rip Light. During the summer the whistles on the 'Bunker Hill' and 'Massachusetts' were changed as being too powerful. For instance were you using the telephone and they were blowing for 'sailing time' you would automatically be cut off from your conversation; the replacements were more pleasing being of a rather deep tone.

The original Eastern Steamship Corporation house-flag was oblong, blue field with a bright red letter 'E.' In the painting of the 'Massachusetts' that I own the flag is shown as swallow-tail with a red letter 'E' with a white circle on a blue field. I do not recall seeing such a flag. During that season the house-flag was changed to an oblong pennant, blue field with E. S. S. Corp in white and that flag continued until the re-organization in 1917 when it was changed to a swallow-tail flag, blue field and a white letter 'E' and which has been carried on through the years. During the 1920's this insignia was also carried for a stack-marking. I believe that the 'Boston' and 'New York' that came out in 1924 were the first to use it. Strange as it may seem the four Metropolitan freight steamers carried their original stack disk markings until sold out of service. A strange combination with the Eastern Steamship Corporation painted on each side of the bow under the vessels' name. When the 'H. F. Dimock' and 'Herman Winter' were re-purchased in 1922 they had plain black stacks that were carried for sometime before the adopted 'E' stack marking was used on them.

Two Weeks Left For Spring Car Inspections

"Only two more weeks to get that important inspection sticker" our State Police remind us today.

Pointing out that waiting until the last of the month to get that inspection is a practice which often causes delay and embarrassment, they advised motorists to make plans to visit an official inspection station at once.

"Don't forget," they cautioned, "it is our legal responsibility to have our cars inspected sometime during April."

"The wise motorist will be forehanded, taking care of this obligation well in advance of last-minute rush."

FARM AND GRANGE NEWS OF INTEREST IN KNOX AND LINCOLN COUNTIES

Lovejoy Speaker At Gathering of 4-H Leaders

Kenneth C. Lovejoy, state 4-H Club leader from the Agricultural Extension Service in Orono, brought "What's new in 4-H Club Work" to the 4-H Leaders of Knox-Lincoln counties, Monday evening at the Farnsworth Building in Rockland.

Boys and girls can enroll for work when they are nine years old before Jan. 1, says Mr. Lovejoy.

State 4-H camp will be held this year on the University of Maine campus August 22 to 26.

August 26 is Maine 4-H Day when all 4-H folks and friends in Maine are invited to visit the University of Maine.

The state 4-H Dairy Show at Windsor Fair grounds is being held this year the last Saturday in July.

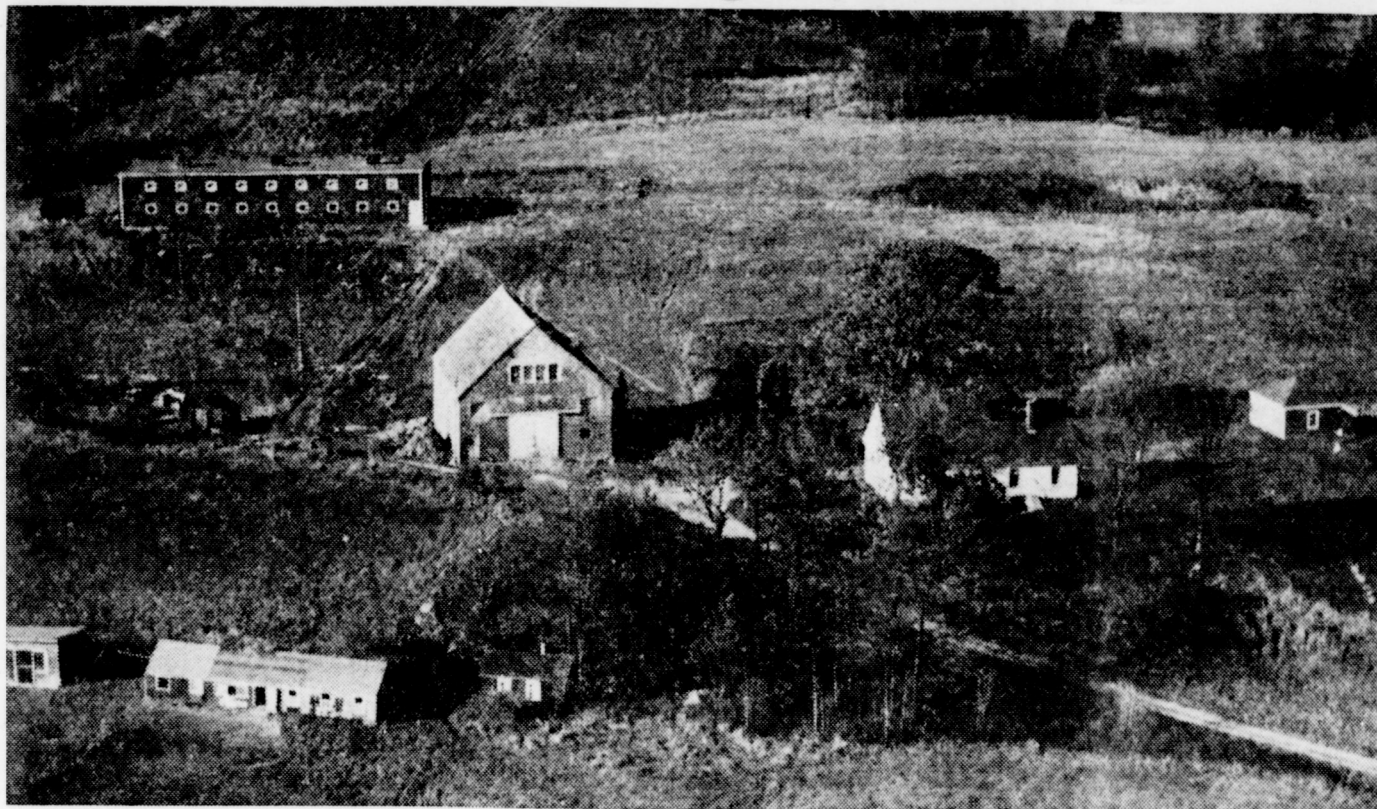

Mr. Lovejoy also explained the new scoring system which will be started in Maine this year. Activities other than just project work will be considered in making awards to 4-H boys and girls.

Mrs. Virginia Massie, agent-in-training reported on judging contests held to date. 45 clubs have completed the requirements in judging contests for a gold seal of achievement. Many of the clubs have held three or more judging contests.

A committee to assist with the County Style Show was selected by the president of the Leaders Association, Mrs. Lura Norwood, as follows: Mrs. Hazel Gammon, North Warren; Mrs. Freda Stimpson, North Warren; Mrs. Maude Spear, North Nobleboro; Mrs. Thelma Brown, North Nobleboro; Mrs. Elizabeth Simonton, Simonton's Corner; and Mrs. Eunice Flagg, Jefferson.

Attending the meeting were: Mrs. Elizabeth Simonton, leader of the Junior Sunshine Girls, Simonton's Corner; Mrs. Hazel Gammon, White Oak 4-H Club, North Warren; and her assistant, Mrs. Freda Stimpson; Mrs. Joyce Pearce, Hopeful Homemakers of Hope; Mrs. Hazel Kavanaugh,

Is This Your Farm Or Your Neighbor's Place?

In last week's issue an aerial view of the Albion Wotton Farm in Friendship was printed. The farm is located at the corner of the Forest Lake Road and the Waldoboro Road and has been in the Wotton family for more than 50 years.

In recent years, Mr. Wotton, who is 88 years of age, has left the operation of the farm to his son, Luther Wotton.

In addition to keeping a laying flock of several hundred hens the operation of a green house is carried on at the farm. Is your farm the one which is pictured today? If it happens to be your place you have an 11x14 print of the above picture waiting for you at the office of The Courier-Gazette.

Film On Maine Apples Chosen For U. S. Showing

A State of Maine motion picture has been selected for an award at the Third Annual Film Festival at Columbus, Ohio.

The Maine Department of Agriculture was advised that its film "Climate and the Apple," which was released for non-theatrical showings in the northeast recently has been "selected for an award in the Educational class."

The Festival showing will be held on Saturday, May 14, in the Columbus Public Library, under sponsorship of the Film Council of Greater Columbus.

Climate and the Apple is a 20 minute sound-color film on the orchard industry of Maine, including educational material on modern handling and packaging. Scenes for the production were taken on farms from York to Penobscot counties by H. G. Hawes, department publicity representative. Andrew E. Watson, assistant chief of the department's division of inspection, was technical advisor.

Seventy-four prints are being circulated to civic and church groups, schools and television stations. Showings exclusive of television are expected to reach an annual audience of approximately 100,000 people.

By Henry Teague

The shift to White Leghorns by so many poultrymen was doubtless caused mainly by the low price of fowl last fall and early winter. Sexlinks, the main line table egg birds for a number of years were money losers in 1954 while reports were around that Leghorn flocks stood the fall much better. However, there were so few Leghorns that they did not bother the market and on the whole Leghorn eggs were sold without much of any cutting in price.

As the interest in Leghorns mounted, reports became so exaggerated that it was hard to get a clear picture. But many did not want to take a chance on sexlinks for 1955 and shifted to the white birds. The deluge of white eggs is yet to come. Most of the chickens are by the brooder stage, but there are comparatively few pullets in production yet. Quite possibly most of us who have thought of the Leghorns as dream birds are beginning to realize that they probably are just another good breed of hens that are subject to disease, smothering, molt and other problems.

Leghorns eat less feed to grow to maturity and less feed to produce a dozen eggs. But they bring much less when sold for meat. If the price of meat should be very low when these birds are ready to be sold, there will be an advantage for the Leghorn. If you sell when meat prices are good you may wish you had raised sexlinks.

It does not look now as though Leghorns were going to be the final answer to the table egg problems. This year eggs are going to be scarce, so perhaps Leghorn eggs will bring a price equal to brown eggs on the Boston market most of the time. If 1956 should be a poorer year we may have our troubles with egg prices.

It is evident that some of the Boston egg buyers are not going to give in to white eggs without a struggle. Only one firm has generally accepted Leghorn eggs thus far and the year is over one quarter gone. Presumably those buyers who are holding out will let down the bars if they are short of brown eggs, but it is quite possible that the bars will go up again when brown eggs become plentiful.

Boston is a brown egg market still and it is also considered the best egg market in the country insofar as prices are concerned. We do not have to sell our eggs through brokers, but direct which means we save a commission. If we spoil our Boston market by changing to white eggs that will be unfortunate. Some think that this is a distinct possibility as it will throw the Boston market wide open to surpluses in the other big white egg markets.

The Leghorn movement is powerful but we producers do not operate as a unit. We are not in a position to fight back if our egg checks are cut. In fact, as individuals, where would we turn if our eggs were refused. Nothing as dire as that will probably happen, but it is true we have rushed into Leghorn hens with little regard as to the consequences.

We may get away with it this year, but before we put in the second flocks of the white birds, we should certainly know where we are going.

There is always something new in poultry and now it is tube feeders. Most poultrymen have used trough type feeders for both layers and broilers until recently when the change over in broilers began. The movement was sparked by CMT a dressing plant in central Maine. Reports of tests with the tube feeders were so good that many broiler flocks are now equipped with tubes. This feeder is simply a round metal tube with a pan attached to the bottom. The gimmick that makes the feeders successful is said to be a ring of metal around the bottom of the tube which prevents feed waste.

Tubes have not yet arrived in Knox County in any great quantity, but in Kennebec County, CMT is distributing them to their growers in carload lots at a wholesale price of less than two dollars each.

A possible reason for the feed saving and excellent conversion with the tubes may be the fact that the tube forms a reservoir and thus the birds are less apt to get out of feed. The birds can use the tubes from 10 days until selling time. They are raised by a simple cord arrangement and the feed can be kept much cleaner than is the case with troughs.
