Thurlow Reed Dunning was born in Freeport, Maine on September 21, 1897, the second youngest of the seven children of Benjamin F. and Adriann (Reed) Dunning. Benjamin Franklin Dunning, "Frank" to family and friends alike, was a mason by trade. He was the head mason during the construction of Casco Castle. The castle burned in 1914 but is survived by the Castle tower which has become an area landmark.

Thurlow spent his early years in Freeport and moved with his family to Winchester, Massachusetts when he was 10 years old. The family was deeply rooted in Freeport and eventually he returned here as did many members of his family.

He married Gertrude Fransen who died shortly after the birth of their son, Robert. On September 16, 1922 he married Ethel Sumner Benson in Somerville, Massachusetts. They had five children, Jesse, Mary Jane, Carol, Thurlow Jr. and Alice.

He served with distinction in the United States Army in World War I (26th "Yankee" Division) and World War II (211th F. A. Battalion) and was awarded five battle stars for his service in World War I and the Bronze Star for meritorious service in World War II. Between World War I and World War II he served continuously with the Massachusetts National Guard.

After his service in World War II he accepted employment which brought him back to Maine and made it possible for him to settle again in Freeport.

His life long interest in the history of this country, of communities and of people seemed to lead naturally to an avid interest in Genealogy. Upon his return to Freeport he began gathering information on the early families of Freeport including that of the Dunning family. When he retired he devoted many hours to researching the genealogies of these families.

The Origins of the Dunning Family of Brunswick

The Dunning family has always been considered to be English in origin by many of the family, and this view has been supported by some authorities. However, where Andrew Dunning, the ancestor of the Dunning family in Brunswick, came from has not been definitely established.

According to some authorities, the name Dunning is that of an old Anglo-Saxon family which originated in Warwickshire, England. There were many of that name in Devonshire and a place called Dunningsley in Yorkshire. There were also Dunings in Scotland prior to 1200. A Robert Dunning was a member of the Scottish Parliament in 1472, 1475, and 1482. There is a town called Dunning near Inverness, Scotland.

During the reign of Elizabeth, the Irish rebellions occurred, and the Province of Ulster was greatly depopulated. King James I repopulated these counties with Protestants. These people who went to the northern Ireland were mainly Presbyterians from Scotland.

A London company was one of the first to promote these migrations and established, first, at Derry. This became the noted city of Londonderry.

An Andrew Dunning was buried at Lough Derry, Ireland, May 22, 1662. His daughter, Mary, was buried June 6, 1665, according to the register of Derry Cathedral, Parish Templemore, Londonderry, Ireland.

It is fairly well established that Andrew Dunning (as his name is spelled on his headstone) came to America in 1717. He came first, it is believed, and stayed in Bath (Georgetown) a short time, before he came to Brunswick.

It is possible that he came over first to find a good location, and had his family come over later.

According to some records, his family arrived in a ship called McCullus, which came from Derry Lough.

Andrew Dunning was a Presbyterian in belief, so the fact that they sailed from Londonderry and that they stated, in their military enrollment, that they came from Ireland, makes it very probable, that what Mr. Stackpole said is correct. Rev. Mr. Stackpole in his notes on the Dunning family, said that the Dunings were Scotch, who had lived for one or two generations in Ireland, and came over with the so called Scotch-Irish in 1717 - 1718.

Further evidence of their Scotch-Irish origin is their intimacy with the people who migrated from Londonderry, Ireland to Londonerry, N.H. David Duning married Mary Todd of Londonderry, N.H. and possibly lived there briefly, as he owned property there.

Although the Dunning family have long believed that Andrew Dunning came from Ashburton, Devonshire, England, it appears that this belief is in error. It appears that Andrew Dunning was several generations removed from England, and that therefore there could not have been any close kinship with Lord Ashburton, who was John Dunmæ.

The record of Rev. James Woodside's life in America is not very clear. It is stated that he remained in Falmouth, upon his arrival, prior to 1714.

He is said to have built the garrison house at Maquoit, and that he spent considerable money in making it defensible, by erecting palisades and by other arrangements.

There was a legal town meeting in Brunswick on Nov. 3, 1718, which voted to give Mr. Woodside, of Falmouth, 40 pounds, for his keep, and a house, if he would come to Brunswick and preach.

It was also voted at the same town meeting, "that Mr. Baxter's house be made habitable for Mr. Woodside and the charges for transportation of his family and goods from Falmouth be paid."

Mr. Baxter's house was supposed to have been on lot 50, which was what is now the southeast corner of Maine and Greene streets.

There is so much disagreement on Rev. James Woodside that it would seem there were two men of the same name, because in Mrs. A.P. Moody's investigation, she believed that Mr. Woodside came from Garvagh, Derry County, Ireland, and was a minister of the Presbyterian Church. This is given some credence from the record of his coming to this country in 1715, with the Scotch Irish migration.

It is more generally believed that he was a minister of the Church of England, or Episcopal, and that he came prior to 1714. According to Wheeler, Mr. Woodside's son William, came to Brunswick and took charge of the blockhouse at Maquoit in 1714. This is rather doubtful if his age is correct, because he would have been only 11 years old in 1714. Mr. McKeen wrote that William took command of the blockhouse in 1726.

If Mr. Woodside did come to this country earlier than 1714, he must have returned before 1717 because of his petition to the King.

The Indians attacked the colonists at Brunswick and many of them were forced to take refuge in Mr. Woodside's garrison. The Indians did a lot of damage to land and stock, and for this reason he sent his petition. He wrote in part: "he with 40 families of 160 persons did embark on a ship at Derfy Lough in Ireland, in order to erect a colony at Casco Bay in Your Majesty's Province of Maine in New England. That being arrived, they made a settlement at a place called, by the Indians, Pajipesot, but by them, Brunswick, within 4 miles of Fort George, Where he had a garrison house."

Rev. Mr. Woodside, having had a lot to do with the establishment of Brunswick, was not able to get along with the people. Whatever the reason, his preaching was not agreeable to the predominantly Presbyterian members of the community.

Therefore, although it has been said that he was good man, at a town meeting on Sept. 10, 1719, he was removed from his position. He returned to England with his son James and I have discovered no record of him thereafter, except for a portrait of him, by Gibson, which he sent to his son, and which hangs now in the First Parish Church in Brunswick.

His son William remained and retained possession of the property, and he, with his sons were staunch defenders of early Brunswick, and there are many of his descendents in the area.

The history of the First Church or First Parish in Brunswick is a story of conflict between the Scotch - Irish Presbyterians and Puritan Congregationalists.

Although the original inhabitants had been Massachusetts people, they had been driven out by the Indians, and at this time they were very much in the minority. The Scotch - Irish came almost wholly in the two years of 1717 and 1718. But after that the growth was almost all from Massachusetts. So there was a change taking place from then on.

The first few years of the First Parish, many of the ministers were ordained and sent to Brunswick by the Presbyters of Londonderry, N.H. There was continuous disagreement as to how the minister should preach.

The church, at this time, was on 12 Rod Road (Maine St.) about half way from the river to the shore at Maquoit. It stood in front of the old cemetery, there, which was established in 1739, and is the oldest now existing in Brunswick.

Mr. Dunlap came to preach as a probationer in 1746. He was a Presbyterian and came from northern Ireland. He was accepted in Dec., 1746. However he was soon dismissed by a council of ministers, who were all Congregational, in spite of the fact that he had been sent by the Presbyters of Londonderry.
Mr. John Miller was engaged to preach in 1762. In October of 1763, the people of Brunswick, headed by William Woodside Sr., quarreled with Mr. Miller. He was not paid and was ordered to leave, so that he would not become a public charge. Mr. Miller evidently brought the people around to his side, because William Woodside was asked to apologize. This he did in 1768.

The town voted to dismiss Mr. Miller in 1786. He was dismissed and in 1787, a vote was taken of the members of the church. There were 9 for dismissal, and 5 against. The Congregation was then asked to vote. The result was 12 for dismissal and 18 against. The town then voted to raise no money for his support. In 1788, Mr. Miller died.

The church was Presbyterian under Mr. Dunlap. It was mixed under Mr. Miller, who was ordained a Congregationalist, for 7 years. Mr. Miller finally openly declared himself to be the pastor of a Congregational plan, and the First Parish has been so ever since. The present Church is built on land sold to them by Robert Dunning.

James Curtis - Jane Dunlap - Thomas Pennell - Margaret Miller
John Given - Elizabeth Dunning - Wm. Owen - Alice Pennell
Andrew Dunning - Mary Owen
Rev. Jesse Appleton joined 6/16/1811 from Hampton
Martha Stanwood joined 3/1/1812

Andrew Dunning and his wife, Susan, as well as his five sons were sturdy people without a doubt. There is some question as to whether these five boys were his entire offspring. He was 27 years old when James was born. Nine years later William was born. Andrew and David were born 4 and 5 years later, respectively. Robert's birth date is not known, but if the usual pattern was followed, there may have been other children who were left overseas. Possibly they were girls who had married, or there may have been a son named John, as some suppose.

Mrs. A.F. Moody, who was very thorough in her search, believed that Robert was the oldest boy to come over. She has some very good reasons. They were:
He was old enough to be called present at the town meeting of 9/16/1719.
He bought lot number 10 as it was entered in his name, 12/19/1719.
Entry in Pejepscot Papers: Dec. 19, 1719, lot number 10, on the east side of the Maquoit road, 97 acres granted to Robert Dunning for 5 pounds, also on the same date, lot number 13, 3 acres of Marrincenag Marsh, for 5 pounds, later sold to Robert Spear.

Mrs. Moody believed that Robert was married and brought over a daughter, Jane, who was also one of her ancestors.

There can be no question but that he was a mature man, because of his great activity in the business and defense of the town.

It is said by many historians, that Brunswick was abandoned in 1722, due to Indian hostilities. However, those who are known to have remained were: John Minot, Andrew Dunning and his sons, William Woodside and his sons, Ebeneezer Stanwood and his sons, William Simpson and David Given and sons, of Brunswick; Lieut. Eaton, John Vincent, Thomas Thorn, James Ross, John Gilbert, James McFarland, William Stinson, Isaac, Isaac, and John Hunter of Topsham.

Most of these had garrison houses.

Robert Lithgow must have remained in Topsham, also, because he was in John Giles Company during 1722 to 1724.

Some families lived in the Stone Fort during hostilities.

William Dunning tried to persuade the family to move to some place away from Indian depredations, without success. He moved to York himself anyway.
Most of the men listed above were enrolled as soldiers in the Indian Wars. John Giles Company was the most aggressive of all the companies in the Pejepscot district, and most of these men were members at one time or another. Capt Giles was captured by the Indians, when young, and had lived with them for years, and so was well versed in their ways.

The service which these men rendered was not continuous, because they had to care for their families at the same time. Many of their expeditions were performed by a few men, and seldom did they muster the entire company.

It may have been some mission in this regard, that culminated in the deaths of Robert and Andrew Duning Jr., in 1724, at the hands of the Indians, just below the Falls, near Mason's Rock, while paddling up the river.

It is not known what caused the fire in which Andrew Duning's widow, Susan, was killed. This was the winter of 1738 - 39, and the Indians were still hostile in the area, but were not at war.

According to Sinnett, the lots that Andrew Duning bought were Nos. 31 and 32 in Maquoit. James apparently lived on and inherited this land, as he is listed as owning it in 1741. Afterward he added many more acres to the original 200.

According to Mrs. Moody, the lots taken by Andrew Duning in 1719, were Nos. 37 and 38 - also No. 5 on the west side of 12 Rod Road, 12/19/1719, granted to Andrew Duning, on condition he build a house on each lot within one year and living in them, and improving them in three years. (This is not according to the plan of 1741.)

The Pejepscot Proprietors secured title to all the territory in the grant for 140 pounds. This included all the land in Brunswick, Topsham, part of Durham, and Harpswell.

The nearest neighbors, originally, were the Woodside's. Rev. James Woodside had gone before the real hostilities of 1722 - 24, but his son William remained with his sons.

The Stanwoods were also neighbors and they were a rugged and independent family.

These families, with the Minots, Simpsons, Spears, and Givens, had a great influence on the destinies of the town in the early days, both before and after incorporation. The descendents of these families are also mostly related. That James Duning did not marry until he was 38 years of age is rather strange, as most men married quite early in those days. He had 9 children, nevertheless, the last being born after he had died. Of course some credence should be given the possibility that Jane Duning was his daughter as some say, and that she came over with him. In that case he would have been married before.

James spelled his name Duning, when he signed it. The names are spelled Duning on Andrew's, James's, and David's headstones. Deacon Andrew's, of Harpswell is spelled Duning, while his wife's is spelled Duning. James's sons spelled the name Duning, as did some of David's children. But as spelling was haphazard at the time, we find David's name spelled Dunting and Dunning on the same document. The names of the other members were also spelled at the whim of the writer.

Mrs. Moody says in her account that a colleague of hers insisted that Andrew's wife's maiden was Reed. There has been found no basis for this.

The following accounts from various sources, were all written in the 1800's, without citing the authority in most cases.
Andrew Duning the Maine Ancestor,

According to Charles Sinnett, who compiled a genealogy of the Duning family, Andrew Duning was born about 1644. This would not agree with his headstone, which says he died in 1736, age 72 years. This would make his birth about 1645.

(Mrs. Moody says that he probably came from Garvagh, County Derry, Ireland. This was the center of activities of the ironmongers guild, of which he was a member. Also, she says, that was where Rev. Woodside came from. She is the only authority for this information.)

It is said that he came to America in 1717. He came first to Boston and then to Georgetown, where he stayed for a while.

Andrew Duning's family came the following year, 1718, on the ship McCullum, Master, James Law, with Mr. McFadden, who went to live at a place called Somerset, on Merrymeeting Bay.

Mrs. Moody says that Mr. McFadden came from a place called Summerett, in Barn Watee, Ireland, and so named his new place Somerset because it was similar in appearance.

The ship McCullum arrived at Boston from Londonderry, Ireland, Sept. 1st, 1718, and sailed to Merrymeeting Bay on Sept. 8, 1718.

Rev. James Woodside, said in his petition to the King, that, "he with 40 families of 160 persons did embark on a ship at Derry Lough in Ireland, in order to erect a colony at Casco Bay in Your Majesty's Province of Maine in New England. That being arrived, they made a settlement at a place called by the Indians Pejepscot, but by them Brunswick, within 4 miles of Fort George, where he had a garrison house."

Nearby Andrew Duning bought lots and built his house on the land occupied in 1878 by Patrick McManus. Here he lived as a blacksmith and farmer, much respected for his integrity and uprightness of character.

The claim is made that Andrew left a son John who had a son John, who became a celebrated lawyer and was made Lord Ashburton. Others dispute this claim. It is probable that Lord Ashburton belonged to the same family and was a grandson of a brother of Andrew. (This is not probable in light of other information herein revealed.)

Andrew Duning settled in Maquoit, Brunswick, Maine, on land which he bought from the Pejepscot Proprietors. This land was close to the Church lot. It was no doubt the 200 acres which were occupied by his son James in 1741. These were lots numbered 31 and 32. Andrew Duning's house was only a little north of the Woodside's.

Andrew Duning was a Presbyterian in religious belief, and was one of the first settlers to urge the building of a church.

According to family tradition, Susan Bond, the widow of Andrew Duning, lost her life in the burning of the old Duning homestead in the winter of 1737-38. While endeavoring to save some money she had laid away, she fell through the floor into the cellar and could not be saved. A negro slave, who was asleep in an arch of the cellar, was, with great difficulty, saved by being drawn through the cellar window.

Andrew Duning was in Capt. John Giles Company in the Indian Wars of 1722 to 1724, for 37 weeks, along with his sons Andrew, Robert, and David.

Andrew Duning is buried in the old First Pariah Cemetery, established in 1735, on what is now called the Mere Point Road.

The inscription on his stone, which is believed to be the oldest burial stone in Brunswick, and which, it is believed, was made by his son James, reads as follows:

HERE LYETH THE BODY OF MR. ANDREW DUNING
WHO DEPARTED THIS LIFE JANUARY THE 14th ANNO DOM 1736
AGES 72 YRS.

His son, Lieut. James Duning, is buried on his right, and David and David's wife are buried on his left. A stone broken off at the ground, situated immediately on his left, may have been that of his wife, Susan.

It is a significant fact that Andrew Duning, his wife, and all his sons except William, stayed in Brunswick during the Indian wars of 1722-1724, with several other families.

His son William settled in York as a farmer and cartowner.

Andrew Duning kept slaves during his lifetime and his family continued to own slaves for some time thereafter.

Andrew signed the petition to the General Court for incorporation of Brunswick as a town in 1733.

Andrew Duning bought, in 1721, 5 acres from Reavel Norton, of Holden, baron. Reavel had served with David in Capt. Oliver's Co. This land is now part of the present business district of Brunswick. It is described as being on the Assawompine River.

On May 15, 1720, David Duning was laid in Lovelsherry, Ireland. This would indicate a short residence there. This was the case may be married Mary Ygles, while Duning built a house near his garrison, on Hills street, where he lived. His son John,lease a survey in the present house, which was called Washington Hall. It was burned in 1794.

When York was dismantled, David Duning and Reavel Norton bought the site for $33 pounds, 6 shillings, 6 pence. This was the smokehouse and store of the river and built the first house and sawmill.

Reavel had his commission as Capt. from Nov. 24th in 1721.

In 1724, Capt. David Duning left days transporting stores to Fort Western, Fort Hollis, and the troops arrived.

David bought 1/12th of the tithes of Medford (Kentucky) in 1722.

Others were a ten #1 which he gave to his daughter Elizabeth Thorsdale.

Flaxmiller's descendant was Margaret (Miller) Knott, last of the doughter of John Miller, and James Gates Miller, and grand daughter of R. J. Miller of Philadelphia (Olive Elizabeth).
The Dunning Family in Brunswick
According to Rev. E. S. Stackpole

A synopsis of the information contained in a paper by Rev. E. S. Stackpole, found in Vol. #74, New England Historical and Genealogy Register, reveals the following results of his research.

The name Dunning is an old Anglo-Saxon name of a family which originated in Warwickshire, England. There is a place called Dunington in Warwickshire and another called Dunningsley in Yorkshire.

Portions of the family migrated to Scotland. A Robert Dunning was a member of the Scottish Parliament in 1472, 1475, and 1482. James, son of John Dunning, was apprenticed to David Dunning, a saddler of Edinburg, in 1597. In Scotland is the town of Dunning, not far from Inverness.

Dunnings probably went to northern Ireland about 1600. An Andrew Dunning was buried in Lough Derry, Ireland, 5/22/1662. His daughter, Mary, was buried there 6/6/1655, according to the register of Derry Cathedral, parish of Templemore, Londonderry, Ireland.

The Brunswick Dunnings came over with the so-called Scotch-Irish of 1717-1718 from Londonderry. Their military enrollment says they came from Ireland. They were Scotch who had lived for a few generations in Ireland.

Other information from Mr. Stackpole conforms to that of Sinnett and Wheeler, with some additions, among which, are those following.

David Dunning bought, in 9/25/1730, 97 acres from Rowland Norton, of Salisbury, Mass. Norton had served with David in Capt. Giles Co. This land comprised the most of the present business district of Brunswick. It is described as bordering on the Amoscoogin River.

On 10/10/1735, David Dunning sold land in Londonderry, N. H. This could indicate a short residence there. This was the same year he married Mary Todd.

David Dunning built a house near his garrison, on Maine Street, where he died. His son, John, kept a tavern in the garrison house, which was called "Washington Hall." It was burned in 1856.

When Fort George was dismantled, David Dunning and Jeremiah Koulton bought the site for 133 pounds, 6 shillings, 6 pence. They owned the waterpower on both sides of the river and built the first dam and sawmill.

David received his commission as Captain from Gov. Shirley in 1740.

In 1755, Capt. David Dunning 21 days transporting stores to Fort Western and Fort Halifax over the ice from Arrowsic.

David bought 1/16th of the township of Royalborough (Durham) in 1762. Among others was a lot #91 which he gave to his daughter Elizabeth Stackpole in 1783.

Stackpole's statement on Margaret (Miller) Ransom, is that she was daughter of John (the tailor) Miller and Jane Craig Miller, and grand daughter of John and Jane Miller of Falmouth (Cape Elizabeth).

James McFarland, John Malcom, David Duning, and Ebenezer Smith.
(This comprised all the land between Kiln and Mason streets and the road to Bath.)

Along 12 Rod Road to Maquoit Bay.

On a map of 1752, only a few of these people were shown as having houses along 12 Rod Road. Robert Spear and Robert Phinny are shown opposite the Church. James Duning, Ebenezer Stanwood, and Woodside are shown at the end of the road at Maquoit.

There are many people shown as living along the shore in Brunswick, Harpswell, and Topsham.

Incorporation of the town of Brunswick

The signers of the Petition for Incorporation of the Town of Brunswick in May of 1735, were:

At the first town meeting, March 28, 1739:

Samuel Hinkley - Moderator & Town Clerk
Samuel Hinkley, Benjamin Larabee, John Getchell, James Duning, And David Duning - Selectmen.
James Duning, son of Andrew Duning the Ancestor

Lieut. James Duning, born 1691, died 6/8/1752, age 61, is buried in the old First Parish cemetery, on Mere Point Road, Brunswick, Maine, beside his father. He married Martha Lithgow in 1729, in Brunswick. Martha Lithgow is thought to be the oldest daughter of Robert Lithgow and Janet McCurdy. She must have been born prior to 1700 to be called Miss Lithgow on her arrival in this country. In 1758 she is called "the widow Duning of the West End". It is thought by many that she married again. Intentions dated March 17, 1759, "Waite Herrick of Nobleboro, Maine," as she is then styled, "Widow Martha Dunning". She died about 1770 - 1771.

James Duning was a soldier in Capt. Giles Company in 1723 - 1724. He petitioned to the General Court, for the incorporation of the Town of Brunswick, in 1735. He was a selectman in the first town government after incorporation, in 1739.

In 1743 a Wymond Bradbury was elected selectman. Through the efforts of James Duning and Eben Stanwood, the General Court declared the election illegal and a new election was ordered. Selectmen finally elected were Capt. John Minot, Eben Stanwood, and James Duning. David Duning, his brother was elected to the General Court in the same election.

James was commissioner to the General Court in 1741. He was one of the leading remonstrants against the dismantling of Fort George, in Brunswick, on 5/25/1737.

James was known far and wide as the famous Indian fighter and saved many lives by his valiant efforts. Beside Capt. Giles Company, he was a soldier in Capt. Woodsides Company in 1727, and was a lieutenant of the militia later.

In 1752, James Duning lived on 12 Rod Road, at the head of Maquoit Bay. He added many valuable acres to his father's original farm.

The farm where James lived had 300 acres upland, 200 on the west side, including a barn, and 100 acres on the east side, including a dwelling house. (The house was built about 1735), also 9 acres of marsh. In 1752 James Duning's house was one of 20 dwelling houses in Brunswick. There were at that time 4 mills and a meeting house.

In a deed dated June 25, 1731, Isaac Gardner of Brookline conveyed to James Duning, for 25 pounds, lot number 47, 97 acres at the head of a cove, on the west side of the road leading to Maquoit, and 16 acres of marsh on the west side, formerly occupied by Ebenezer Stanwood. Also 3 acres of marsh on Maquoit Meadows.

3/25/1745, deed, signed 10/9/1745, from Belcher Noyes for the Proprietors, to James Duning, for 10 pounds O.T. on the west side of Maquoit road (lots no. 31 and 32 on the large plan). 77 acres, boundary on said road on east side 40 rods; south on land of Wm. Woodside to run 30 rods; up to land belonging to old church: west on old church land 40 rods: north on land of Adam Winthrop Esq., dec'd, 328 rods. Also on east side of road 123 acres (lot no. 32 on plan), bounded west by road 40 rods: south by Wm. Woodside 50 rods: east by land of Proprietors, 40 rods: north on land of Ebenezer Stanwood 468 rods. Also 2 lots of salt marsh at Maquoit Marsh, 3 acres each, Nos. 3 and 9.

Oct. 25, 1756, Account of Martha Dunning, Administratrix of her late husband, James Dunning of Brunswick, Maine. Among other charges were those of a posthumous child.

Oct. 25, 1756, Martha Dunning, widow, was appointed guardian of the children, James and Margaret.

York Probate Records: May 31, 1757 - Warrant for the division of the estate of the late James Dunning given to Capt. William Woodside, Ebenezer Stanwood, Thomas Skolfield, Wm. Spear, and John Smart, all of Brunswick, Maine. -- The widow Martha Dunning, 24 acres of land and personal estate; To Robert, the eldest son, 82 acres of land, stock; To Mary, Susan, and Margaret Dunning, 25 pounds each; To five sons under age, 198 acres upland, 100 acres of salt marsh, and 10 pounds personal estate; Sept. 29, 1758.

An extract from a notebook of Ezekial Thompson (1757 - 1832), dated 6/8/1827. "I hear that Mr. William Dunning of Meaqueit Bay died last week very suddenly. (He died 6/1827) Very fine man. I suppose he was about 75 or 77 years old. He was son of old Mr. James Dunning who died about 65 or 70 years ago. Said James Dunning came from Ireland and brought one child who afterward was the wife of old Alexander Potter, and was the grandmother of David Alexander, now of Topsham."

All other evidence does not bear cut the idea that Jane Dunn was a daughter of James, as is pointed out elsewhere in this account. It is possible that Jane was a daughter of Robert and was brought up by James after Robert was killed.

Children of James Dunning and Martha Lithgow:

The following was obtained from the Roberts genealogy:

6 Joseph Roberts, b. Durham, 1781 m., 1802, in Brunswick, Susanna Dunning, 1780 — , dau. of Capt. William Dunning and Jean 5 Stanwood

In October, 1806, Arthur Given & wife Elizabeth of Wales, Lincoln County; David Stanwood & wife Sarah of Brunswick; Nathan Bucklin & wife Mary; of Warren, Lincoln County; with Joseph Roberts & wife Susanna, of Durham, sold to Joseph Dustin of Brunswick, for $1,973. Land on the "east side of a 12 rod road that leads from Brunswick Falls to Maquoit Shore" also marsh "at the end of pump Log point ...... a reduction out of the above land of one third for the widow's dower." In 1808 "Joseph Roberts of Durham, blacksmith, "for $675., paid by Samuel Patten of Brunswick, sold him land in Brunswick near Maquoit Landing on the county road. The deed was signed

"Joseph Roberts" (seal)

The Dunning genealogy by Rev. Charles Sinnet does not record a Susanna Dunning, b. 1780, dau. of William Dunning and Jean Stanwood.

There is a Susanna Dunning b. 1781, dau. of Robert Dunning and Sara Spear, who married David Stanwood. The above statement says that David Stanwood's wife was Sarah Arthur Given's wife was Elizabeth Dunning b. 1767, dau. of Robert Dunning and Sara Spear

Nathan Bucklin's wife was Mary Dunning b. 1777, dau. of Robert Dunning and Sarah Spear

The evidence here indicates that the land was a part of the original property of James Dunning, son of the Ancestor. Andrew Dunning, which had gone to the oldest son of James who was Robert Dunning who married Sarah Spear. This land was sold by the daughters of Robert Dunning & Sarah Spear with their husbands with the exception of Martha Dunning whose second husband, Joseph Dustin, was the purchaser.

This is a mystery to the writer and leaves us with only speculation as to where Joseph Roberts comes into the picture.

JAMES DUNNING

3 Susannah Dunning, born 4/18/1736, died 1761, married Matthew Patten, of Pattenboro, Lincoln County, 10/20/1754. He was born 1728, died 1791. Intentions, at Biddeford, of Matthew Patten, of Biddeford and Susan Denen, of Brunswick, 10/1754. They moved to Surry, Hancock County. This was called, in the census of 1790, "Patten Township, No. 6".

Land records: Matthew Patten and Susannah Patten paid Andrew Flood 26 pounds, 13 shillings for 200 acres - lot #6 east of the Penobscot, Surry, Maine.

The town of Surry was Township No. 6, one of several between the Penobscot and Machias Rivers.

Matthew Patten lived at No. Yarmouth at the time they were married, as in 1763, he held, at that time, a liquor retailers license there. Their daughters, Susannah and Jane and Sarah were baptized in No. Yarmouth, 2/7/1767.

3 James Dunning, born 7/31/1736, died 8/11/1781, according to Sinnett. It is also said that he died 3/80/1792 (Stackpole), also that he was buried in Bangor, 3/30/1792. He married, 12/25/1764, Jane Jean Woodside, dau. of Capt. William Woodside Anne Vincent. She was grand-daughter of Rev. James Woodside and of Capt. William Vincent, son of John Vincent. "A woman of Royal, religious, and patriotic heritage." (According to her headstone.) She died in Bangor, Maine, 3/26/1792. According to Sinnett, she died 3/28/1778. This cannot be true, because she had three children after this date. She was born in Brunswick, 5/14/1742. They first moved to Bath. Then they bought land in Bangor, described as being located on the southeast bank of the junction of the Kenduskeag and Penobscot rivers.

One writer says, "After living at Bath, Maine, he bought land where the city of Bangor now stands. He was making arrangements to move to Bangor when robbers came to his house and demanded money. He jumped on a table over which his sword was hanging on the wall and they cut him down on the table. The confusion had been heard by the family and the robbers ran away." "After the tragic death of her husband, this strong hearted woman moved to Bangor with her children just as her husband had planned to do."

Settlers names of Bangor on 12/16/1766 included Widow Dunning. 11/23/1795, a James Dunning signed a petition as one of the inhabitants of Bangor. This was probably a son of James and Jane.

Margaret Dunning, born 11/15/1740, died 9/18/1814. Sinnett says she married by Rev. Robert Dunlap, Thomas Campbell of Freeport, (North Yarmouth), 2/21/1759

From the records of Brunswick and No. Yarmouth:

Marriage intentions; David Reed of Topsham and (Mrs) Margaret Dunning of Brunswick, 12/23/1758. (Erased out)

Marriage intentions; David Reed of Topsham and Ann Rogers. (He married Ann Rogers) (Ann was Ann 3 - Wm. 2 - George 1)

At Brunswick; 8/25/1759, Mr. Thomas Campbell of No. Yarmouth and (Mrs) Margaret Dunning of Brunswick, by Rev. Robert Dunlap, 1/1/1760.

It looks at this distance like someone got jilted at the altar.

Sinnett says Thomas Campbell was born in No. Yarmouth, 7/10/1737, and died in Orrington, Maine, 10/18/1803. He was drowned in the Penobscot River. Other sources say he was born in Scotland in 1737, son of Daniel Campbell and Elizabeth Sturat (probably Stuart), and settled in the Flying Point district of No. Yarmouth, near the Brunswick. Sinnett is nearer right, because he was a brother of Margaret Campbell, who married George Rogers in 1751. They were probably children of Alexander Campbell and Frances Drummond. Thomas Campbell did own land in Flying Point, which he sold to his brother-in-law John Dunlap.

Andrew Dunning, born 4/18/1745, died 5/23/1804, married Mrs. Margaret (Miller) Ransom in 1768. She died 5/24/1837 at the age of 96y, 2 mo. She was reported to be 106 years at death in the American Farmer. This is quite doubtful because she would have been 14 years older than her husband. She was first married to Thomas Ransom, 12/23/1761, in King's Chapel, Boston. Thomas Ransom, son of this marriage, was a worthy citizen of Brunswick. He is buried in the old Brunswick burying ground, as is Andrew Dunning. Various versions regarding Margaret are found in each account of her life and parentage. This is complicated by the number of John and Jane Millers extant at that time.

John Miller and Jane Wilson married by Rev. John Morehead, 9/30/1731

John Miller and Jane Thompson married by " " " " 12/30/1737

John Miller and Jane Craig, marriage intentions in Falmouth, 8/21/1738. These are probably the parents of Margaret.

According to Simnett, Margaret was the daughter of John Miller, a tailor, who was in Brunswick in 1675. (This date is very improbable). According to Mrs Moody, "The frequent occurrence of deeds recording the transfer of land from the heirs of John Miller, clerk (Rev.), of Brunswick to Andrew Dunning, seems to point to some possible connection or kinship. This John Miller came from Milton, Mass., to Brunswick in 1761, where he was ordained over the First Parish, 11/3/1762, called then John Miller Jr. He was born in Milton in 1758, son of Samuel and Rebecca (Minot) Miller, had graduated from Harvard in 1752. He married in Brunswick, in 1764, Margaret Rogers, dau. of William 2 Rogers and continued:

Dinah (Rankin) Rogers. On account of a division in the church government, he resigned his pastorate about 1788 and died in Boston 1/25/1789, leaving widow Margaret." (These dates if correct show that they were not the parents of Andrew's wife.)

Also by Mrs. Moody, "Marriage intentions, 7/9/1768, Mrs. Margaret (Miller) Ransom, born about March, 1741, died 5/24/1837, age 96-2, dau. of John Miller, tailor, and wife Jane Craig, of Falmouth. Thomas Ransom Jr. born about 1765, died 5/18/1821, age 56, married Prudence Riseout."

Wheeler in his history of Brunswick, "Jan. 13, 1766, Rev. John Miller, his wife Jane, and daughter Margaret, were warned to leave town in accordance with the law. This was to prevent their coming on the town for assistance. This was the Rev. Mr. Miller who settled 3 or 4 years before over the First Parish."

He may have died in 1786, but whether he died then or in 1788, he managed to stay in Brunswick until 1800, and he also managed to change the First Parish from Presbyterian to the Congregational form.

It does seem, however, that it was not Rev. Miller who was ordered to leave, but possibly John Miller, the tailor.

By Mrs. Moody: There is an old book with the autograph of John Hancock of Lexington (1676)(or perhaps his son) grandfather of the Signer, which is inscribed, "Margaret Dunning, her book, given her by her friend Susannah Powers of Boston in the year 1797." (11/5/1797)

Andrew Dunning was on the Committee of Safety in 1776, and on the Committee of Correspondence and Inspection in 1777. He was on the Committee to answer the Boston Letter in 1774.

At one time he was accused by Col. Thompson of being a Tory, but the charge was never substantiated, and was probably just another of the rantings for which Col. Thompson was famous.

Deacon Andrew Dunning has been recorded in three different by Simett.

According to his Dunning genealogy:

Deacon Andrew Dunning, b. 11/3/1779, d. at sea, 9/16/1861, married 2/22/1804,

Susana Dunlap, b. Brunswick, 4/22/1783, d. 3/15/1833, dau. of Samuel

Dunlap and Susanna Stanwood. She married second William Woodside

According to his Dunlap genealogy:

Sussannah (Susan) Dunlap (Dau. of Samuel Dunlap and Susanna Stanwood)

born 1785, died 1835, age 50, married (1) Deacon Andrew Dunning, 2/31/1802, born 11/3/1779, died at sea, 9/16/1861, son of Andrew Dunning and Margaret (Miller) Ransom.

According to his Stanwood Genealogy:

Same as Dunlap.

According to his Woodside genealogy:

William Woodside 3d, b. 1773, d. 11/1/1844, age 71, married Mrs. Susan

Obviously if Susan Dunlap Dunning died in 1833 and Andrew Dunning died in 1861, it could not have been her who married William Woodside 3d.

According to his Dunning account, he married (2) Elizabeth Ransom, who died 10/16/1835, married (3) Sophia Ransom, 1844.

Susan Dunham, "Died Jan. 3, 1861, age 87, unmarried."

Stone in the old Brunswick is inscribed, "Susan F. Dunham, dau. of Andrew Dunham and Margaret."

A Susannah Dunning, supposedly born 7/15/1770, died 2/3/1861, unmarried was a dau. of Andrew and Elizabeth Dunham, grand dau. of David 2.

Stackpole says she died 1861, age 83. Moody says, "Susannah born about 9/1784, died 2/23/1869, age 84-5. Take your pick.

Lavy Dunning, born 1781, died 3/19/1813, age 32, married her 2nd cousin.

The Stanwood genealogy says there were no children recorded of the union of Ebenezer Stanwood and Martha Dunham.

Sinnett says Sarah was born in Brunswick 9/11/1793, if this were true she could not have been Ebenezer's dau., as he died 9/13/1792. However according to her stone, she would have been born in 1792.

According to Mrs. Moody:- Robert Dunning, b. 10/10/1757, a. 75, married in Brunswick, 3/4/1810, Sally 7 Stanwood, b. Brunswick, 9/11/1792, died in Wel, 3/1830, dau. of Ebenezer 6 Stanwood, b. 12/7/1768, who married Martha Dunham, who married (2) Joseph Dustin. Sally's father died about 1793 - 4. (When she was about a year old.) of blood poisoning, caused by a skunk bite.

Of course some of her statements are in conflict with known facts.

Robert Dunning's birth and death, as well as Sarah's, are recorded on their headstones.

The Ebenezer Stanwood who was bitten by a skunk and died was only 14 years old and was son of William and Hannah Stanwood.

Brunswick Records: Ebenezer Stanwood married Martha Dunham, 8/9/1792

Martha Dunham married Joseph Dustin, 7/1796

Joseph Dustin (Jesse 5 - Jonathan 4 - Thomas 3) b. Bethel, 1802, d. 10/5/1888
There are supposed to be 3 other children of Samuel P. Gummer.
Robert Dunning, born in Brunswick, 10/3/1782, died 10/18/1837.

Many writers on the Dunning History had stated that Robert Dunning was lost at sea, and that he lost his mind through his sad experiences. None of these things are true. These statements, no doubt, grew out of the story of his voyage.

On Oct. 27, 1808, the schooner Active, of Brunswick, Maine, and bound for Boston, Mass., had a fearful experience.

The crew consisted of Robert Ross, Robert Dunning, David Stanwood, and Seth Frazier. The passengers were Capt. Danforth, Joseph Maxwell, and Sumner Wilson, who gave such a description of the voyage.

They had stopped at Portland, Maine and when they left there, they expected to reach Boston in a few hours. But the wind changed and blew so hard from the northeast that they were obliged to leave their course for Boston and keep off to sea for fear of striking on the rocks.

Night came on and snow fell. On the 28th of Oct. the storm increased and the vessel was in great danger. About eleven o'clock, at night, the wind began to go down. The Mate discovered a light which he thought to be Cape Cod. The Captain came on deck and said that the Mate was right in his ideas, and that he now hoped that they would soon be out of danger.

But the schooner began filling with water and there was small hope that they could reach land before she sank.

After a while, the vessel capsized and the men were obliged to cling to the sides.

In about an hour, the men sighted the schooner Betsey bound for Marblehead. They spoke her, but the Captain would not give them any assistance, and passed right by them. The men had to stay on their vessel all night, wet and nearly frozen.

In the morning the sea had become quite calm. The Betsey, Capt. Ireson, was still in sight when the sun rose. But like a hardhearted wretch, that captain would not give them any aid.

The men on the wreck were in sight of land, however, and the wind was right to drive them on shore. So they hoped that soon someone might see them and come to their aid.

About 2 P.M., they saw a boat coming toward them. This fishing boat held Mr. Truro and 5 others. As it could not hold all on board the schooner Active, they took Capt. Givin, Capt. Danforth, Joseph Maxwell, and David Stanwood, all married men. (David Stanwood's wife was Sarah Dunning) Mr. Truro said that he would set them on shore and then come back for the rest as quickly as they could.

The men on the wreck waited in vain. In the night their vessel went to pieces and the four men huddled on the quarter deck, which held together and floated.

The next day was Sunday, and the men saw sails at various times but they were not able to attract the attention of any one of these craft. So four days and nights passed.

On Thursday, the fifth day, late in the afternoon, they saw a ship coming toward them, which proved to be an American vessel from Castine, Maine, commanded by Capt. Perkins. He at once got the four men on board his vessel and did all in his powers to relieve their wants.

The Columbian Sentinel, of Boston, Nov. 2, 1808, gave a full account of this memorable wreck and said that the fishing boat, which took four from the wreck, did not reach shore until night, so for a long time it was thought that all on board the schooner Active were lost.

It is well known that this story became the foundation for Whittier’s famous poem of "Old Floyd Ireson", giving the idea that the Betsey left, unheeded, men who belonged to her own fishing port.

After this adventure on the Active, Robert Dunning never went to sea again. He soon bought a farm at Wells, Maine, far from the ocean. He became a very thrifty farmer and highly respected by all who knew him.

Jeremiah R. Dunning, b. 12/13/1820, m. Caroline Chase 11/21/1843, by Rev. E. G. Parsons. (Sinnett gives his name as Jeremiah K. Dunning, b. 12/13/1820, and gives Jeremiah R. Dunning as being b. 5/4/1838, who was lost at sea. He gives no date on the death of Jeremiah R. Dunning. It is highly improbable that there were two Jeremiahs. It seems more probable that Jeremiah was lost at sea, as Caroline C. Dunning m. Capt. Isaac Lambert, 5/31/1849, by Rev. E. G. Parsons. William Dunning, b. 1700, was called Esquire in many of the old records. He removed from Brunswick at an early date and died in York, Maine, 1763. Mrs Moody said that he tried to induce the rest of the family to leave Brunswick rather than face the danger and discomfort of the Indian Wars. That was probably not the whole reason because he had gone to York, the County Seat, on business and had met Deborah Donnell and had fallen in love with her. He married Deborah Donnell, 11/26/1724, b. York, Maine, 5/5/1705, d. 6/25/1771, age 67, in York. She was dau. of Benjamin Donnell and grand dau. of Thomas Donnell. Her mother was Mary Harmon, dau. of John Harmon. William Dunning was ancestor of the Harpswell Dunnings. He was a farmer and Cordwainer.

He owned lots 26 and 27 in Brunswick in 1739. He bought 200 acres of land in Brunswick, 5/21/1742.

(No date) Upland and marsh in Brunswick, to William Dunning, in right of his father, Andrew Dunning - 2 lots, Nos. 26 and 27, and 2 lots of salt marsh, Marshvit, and 3 small lots of Kerriconeag, part on the Burnet side, part on the west side, to make 3 acres in all.

William Dunning of York, Maine, cordwainer, in consideration of the love I bear to my son Andrew Dunning of the same York, mariner and for and towards his settlement in the world, do grant unto him and his heirs and assigns, one moiety of half part of that 100 acres of land upon the easterly side of Kerriconeag Neck, which I purchased of Henry Gibb., 12/7/1742, Deed dated 11/26/1757

Registry of deeds, Portland, Maine, 6/6/1777, William Dunning, Husbandman, to Robert Dunning of Brunswick, Maine, Gentleman and to Anthony Woodside, husbandman, for 133 pounds, land in Brunswick, which I purchased of the Pejepscot Proprietors, lots 25 and 27.

Made deacon 6/17/1767. He was Commissioner of Inspection, Correspondence, and Safety, 1775 to 1777. In 1753 he was Selectman and Town Clerk. In 1773 he was on a committee to reply to a letter on Colonists rights, and again in 1774. In 1777 he received 12 shillings for recording the Declaration of Independence. In 1788 he was again on a Committee of Inspection. He was a soldier in 1747. In 1783 1762 he kept a store with Alexander Wilson.

There is no record of Robert Dunning's birth except that he was born overseas. He was killed by the Indians, along with his brother Andrew Jr., 3/22/1724.

Mrs. Moody, who was a Dunning descendant, and did a great deal of research on the Dunning family, says that Robert may have been the oldest son of Andrew. Her reasons for this were:

"He was present at Town Meeting, 9/16/1719, which meant that he was of age.
He owned land in Brunswick, lot No. 10. Entry in Pejepscot Papers: Dec. 19, 1719, lot no. 10, on the east side of Maquoit road, 97 acres, granted to Robert Dunning for 5 pounds. Also on the same date, lot number 13, 3 acres of Merriconeag marsh, for 5 pound, later sold to Robert Spear.
He probably had a daughter, Jane, born about 1717, died 8/15/1781, who married Alexander Potter, born about 1711, died in Topsham, 4/4/1800, age 89.
An extract from a notebook, dated 6/8/1827, "old Mr. James Dunning who died about 65 or 70 years ago. Said James Dunning came from Ireland and brought one child who afterward was the wife of old Mr. Alexander Potter, who was the grandmother of David Alexander of Topsham."

This must be discounted, because, if Jane had been a daughter of James, she would have been named in his will, which she was not.
It is very possible that if Jane Dunning was a daughter of Robert, James would have taken her to bring her up when Robert was killed.
There is no absolute proof that Jane was a Dunning, but Rogers Family tradition maintains that she was such, and diligent search has failed to find otherwise.
Robert Dunning was a member of Capt. Giles Company in 1723 - 1724. According to the records, he settled in the West End in 1722. He is recorded as a key witness in the first law suit to be heard in Brunswick.
He was detailed to duty with Capt. Giles Company by Col. Westbrook.
William Dunning administered his estate, 10/4/1720, indicating he had property, and was possibly married.
Nathaniel Dunning, in a paper written in 1831, had this to say: "In the year 1724, Andrew and Robert Dunning, as they were crossing the Androscoggin River, at Mason's Rock, were shot by the Indians. One of them fell into the river, and the other received a ball in the arm which disabled it entirely. But, with the other arm and one oar, he succeeded in reaching the Topsham shore, thereby escaped from the Indians. But he died the next day in consequence of his wounds. The brothers were buried together in the graveyard at Fort George, on the spot where Robert Merrill built his store. (1831) From a part of the gravestone, which was discovered two years since (1829) and is now in the possession of John Dunning, it is ascertained that Andrew Dunning was twenty years of age. The age of Robert is unknown."

Mrs. Moody names several other people who may have been children, but the only one which appears at all valid is Jane.

As we have said, if Jane was a daughter she would have been mentioned in James's will. He also stated that Mary was his oldest daughter.

Jane Dunning, born about 1717, died 8/15/1781, age 64, married Alexander Potter, born in Ipswich about 1711, died in Topsham, 4/4/1800, age 89, son of David Potter and Mary Merriam, of Lynn. (See Rogers)
Children:

Jane Potter, born in Topsham, 12/11/1743, died 6/13/1828, married 7/29/1771, John Rogers, 1746 - 1832. (See Rogers)

Mary Potter married Hartley Foster

Alexander Potter, died about 1803, married 1782, Abigail Randall

Robert Potter probably married Merritt Kerram

Martha Potter, married, 1/18/1777, John Foster
Andrew Duning, son of Andrew Duning the Ancestor

Andrew Duning Jr. was born in 1704, according to the old headstone, mentioned in the story of the death of Robert and Andrew at the hands of the Indians in 1724. He was buried in the graveyard at Fort George, between Bow and Mill streets, which was covered by buildings for years. It is now entirely obliterated by the underpass under Maine Street. Andrew Duning Jr. served for 69 weeks and one day in Capt. Giles Company, in 1722 – 1724, which was the longest service of any who were enrolled.

Capt. David Duning was one of the most prominent men in early Brunswick. He was born in 1705 or 1706, and died 8/16/1793, at the age of 88. He was a soldier in Capt. Giles Company, 1723-24, and in Capt. Duning Company in 1748. He was Capt. of Militia and Capt. of the Alarm List, during the Indian Wars. He received his commission as Captain from Gov. Shirley in 1748.

In 1735 he was one of the signers of the petition to the General Court for the incorporation of the town of Brunswick. He was a selectman in the first government after the incorporation, in 1739, and again in 1742. He was the first Representative to the General Court in 1742-43 and again in 1746.

In 1747 he was a Commissioner to the General Court with a petition for protection from the Indians, and again in 1753. He was a Commissioner to Col. Cushing for the assessment of taxes to soldiers, in 1757.

David Duning was 17 years old in 1722, and lived at Maquoit with his father and mother. This was his home during the 1722-24 Indian War. He did testify that at one time they had lived in the old stone fort. He was called Denin in the marriage intentions.

He was married by Rev. John Morehead of the Presbyterian Church of Boston, called "The Church of the Presbyterian Strangers", in Boston 12/5/1735, to Mary Todd of Londonderry, N.H. She was born about 1710, and died 8/16/1784, in Brunswick, Maine. She was the daughter of John Todd and Rachel Nelson, and was sister to Capt. Alexander Todd of Londonderry.

David Duning lived back from 12 Rod Road (Maine street) about where the fire house now is. He erected a strong timber garrison house or blockhouse. It was two stories high, forty feet long, and twenty-two feet wide. The second story projected out over the first, and the walls had loopholes to enable the inmates to fire upon the Indians when it was required. There was a tower on top from which the teams could be watched on the way to the Merriconeag Marshes. (Harpswell)

He was living there in 1772, and his son John ran a tavern there until 1807. It was at this tavern that the committee met and then walked to the area donated for Bowdoin College to survey the site. After his first wife, Mary Todd, died, in 1784, David Duning married again. On 1/29/1782, he married the widow of Adam Hunter, of Topsham. She was the former Mary Lithgow, and was a sister of Martha Lithgow, wife of James, his brother. Both were over 80 years old when they married.

David and his wife Mary Todd are buried in the old First Parish cemetery, on the Mere Point Road (12 Rod Road). They are buried to the left of his father, Andrew. His name is spelled Duning on his headstone. His second wife, Mary Lithgow, is probably buried near her first husband in Topsham, but there is no marker.

Deed to Capt. David Duning, Gentleman and to Jere Moulton Esq., each one half of old Fort on Maquoit Road adjoining Lot No. 1. Nov. 14, 1761. This was the famous Mill Privilege called The Fort Right. It was deeded to them by Belcher Noyes, the Proprietor's agent, for 133 pound, six shillings. The Fort Right included all the land north of Mill Street and Mason Street, between Town Landing and the upper dam.

Jeremiah Moulton is probably the same man who was a leader of the expedition which raided the Norrigwok Indian tribe with almost a complete massacre of the tribe.
In 1767, David Dunning bought 1/16th of Royalsborough (Durham) or 6 lots, numbers 9 - 74 - 91 - 113 - 143 - 153. Lot #6 was sold to Lemuel Jones. Lot #113 was inherited by his son Andrew. Lots number 143 and 153 were inherited by his heirs. Lot number 91 was deeded to his daughter Elizabeth (Dunning) Stackpole, thereby deciding the destiny of the Stackpole family.
Letter from B. Noyes, Boston, to B Freeman at Brunswick, Nov. 12, 1763

"As for Capt. Dunnings, you should not have trusted to his generosity: he is but an Irishman and we have had much trouble with him in times past." (Note by Mrs. Moody:— No one hated the Irish more than the Dunnings who were rabid Scotch Presbyterians.)

In another letter from B. Noyes to B. Freeman, June 24, 1771, "James Potter has sold his right to Davidson. Capt. D.D. has been all his days a trespasser and a secret enemy to our interests." He is speaking of loss by cutting down timber.

A deed registered Sept. 25, 1730, conveyed to David Dunning, (also spelled Deaning in the same deed) 97 acres on 12 Rod Road, boundaries, East - Amogen River, North - James Meacon, West p Proprietor's lands. 12 rods were reserved through the land for a county road. Also ½ of about 6 acres of meadow, being half of the 2 lowermost lots in Merriconeag, Andrew owning the other half. His name is spelled Duneing on the verification copy, dated Sept. 28, 1730.

June 21, 1790, David Duning, Brunswick, Gentleman to Andrew Duning, yeoman and John Duning, Gentleman, 230 acres in Brunswick, being lots 4 and 5 and 7 and 8 and 4 my right in old Stone Fort.

Capt. David liked to fish with a dip net for salmon. One day, while he was fishing at the falls, another man, using a net with corks to hold it up, was sitting on Middle Rock. The man seeing his floats bob under the water, drew in his net and with it he drew in David. It appears that David, in reaching over to dip up a salmon, had slipped and fallen into the river. He floated down until he was caught in the net. (It would be interesting to know when the last salmon were caught in the Androscoggin River.)

Middle Rock is the rock upon which one of the piers of the old Androscoggin Bridge was located.

Capt. David's son, Deacon Andrew Dunning, was the first postmaster in Brunswick. The postoffice was established in 1793 and was kept in his dwelling on Maine St., just north of Noble St., until shortly before his death. His estate remained in the Dunning family until the late 1800's. Mr. Dean Swift distinctly remembered being sent to Deacon Dunning's for letters when a boy. He said the Deacon kept them in a desk in a corner of the room. It was customary for the citizens to look over the letters themselves and select therefrom such as bore their address.

Robert D. Dunning, who succeeded his father in 1801, kept the postoffice on the northern corner of Dunlap and Maine Street.

Registry of Deeds, Portland, Maine, 6/21/1790, David Dunning, Gentleman, to Andrew Dunning, Yeoman, and John Dunning, Gentleman, brothers, 230 acres of land, lots 4 & 5 in Brunswick, Maine and one half of my right in the old stone fort.

The following is not accurate as to location as the location of the old fort was far from the Maine Central R.R.

"In 1907 some of the Dunning land, on which the old stone fort George and located, was sold after it's long ownership by the Dunnings, to the Diamond Match Co. This property is situated on the south side of the Maine Central Railroad, beginning at the west side of the land owned by C. T. Despeaux on Spring street and extending to the Growstown. The tract comprises 70 acres. George A. Dunning, great, great, great grandson of Capt David Dunning was the grantor.

He also had a $10 gold piece, dated 1817, given to him by his aunt Hannah O'Brien, of Brunswick. During his long life he never parted with his pocket piece and it is still in possession of the family. After a year in Boston, he went to Phil. Pa. where his cousin James O'Brien was in business in wholesale dry goods, in the firm of Dunbar and O'Brien. He made frequent trips on horseback to Indiana and Ohio, collecting for his firm and he later became a member of the firm, Dunbar, O'Brien, and Dunning. About 1852, he formed the firm of Robert D. Dunning & Co., doing a commission business in all sorts of products, cotton, wool, etc., with branches in Clarksville, Tenn., and Memphis. At the outbreak of the Civil War, this firm had many outstanding accounts and as these became impossible of collection by the Northern firm, it went to the wall. Marshes Of Winnegeance
Figured In Maine History

Editor of the Press Herald:

"As Maine Goes," the photo exhibit at Bowdoin, is an awakening to the people which calls for action to save our priceless heritage. We like to think of the beautiful photographs entitled Phippsburg as Sarah Lithgow's dowry. We believe it shows the Winnegeance marshes and lake in a golden sunset. These marshes were traversed by the French and Indians when they went to Fort Loyal, now Portland, and massacred the defenders of the fort.

Sarah Lithgow was the only daughter of Colonel Arthur Noble, hero of the siege of the great French Fortress at Louisburg in 1745. She married Colonel William Lithgow of the French and Indian Wars and together with their son Major General William Lithgow, who was present at the Battle of Saratoga, are all buried at Pleasant Cove, site of Fort Noble, in Winnegeance.

There is still endless beauty in our great state. We would recommend to everyone the Quiet Beauty of Maine, Washington County and neighboring Canadian islands with 116 captioned and photographed by Jay B. Hinck, Calais. As the author says, "The photographic study has attempted to capture the natural beauty of this region and its people and to preserve these for the reader's quiet contemplation."

This Scottish family is fairly well accounted for in the old records, of Scotland. That it is of Roman origin is fairly certain, because the earliest mention of the name is in a register by Flinn de Lithgow, who was a witness at the church at Carrick, in 1225. The name next mentioned is Petrus de Lithgow, who was Canon of the Priory of St. Andrew, Scotland, in 1245.

As it is not the purpose of this account to trace the history of the family in Europe, no attempt will be made to list all the succeeding generations except some of its more interesting characters. The others may be found in either Simnett's or Sprague's account.

John de Lithgow was steward of the household of King Robert of Bruce in 1329. Sir John Lithgow's name appears on the tomb of Vargery Bruce, in the Abbey of Paisley, Scotland. She was King Robert's daughter and the mother of the first of the Royal House of Stuart, so the relationship between that family and the Lithgows must have been very close.

Mary, Queen of Scots, was born at Linlithgow in 1542. The estate of Dry Grange, near Kelso Abbey, early became a part of the family possessions. The Dry Grange bordered on the Tweed, situated in Northumberland and Berwick Counties, was in the family for 400 years, until 1636, had 1,260 acres, was a mile from Edinburgh. In 1524, William Lithgow and his son John received ratification of all previous titles to the lands of Dry Grange.

This last William received a charter of lands of Kelso, in 1540, from King James V, July 25, 1550, the whole Charters of Kelso were placed in his keeping by the Prior and monks of Kelso. He died in 1571. His son John was also in the household of King James V, died 1591 - 2.

About 1500, three brothers, James, Robert, and David, sons of Thomas Lithgow, of Lanark, Scotland, cousins of the Dry Grange family, left Scotland, and became early "Planters" in the North of Ireland, in County Derry. They purchased the town lands of Carr, Fincarn, Lithgow, Abbey, and Limaguilion from the Bishop, the original owner of all lands in County Derry.

Robert Lithgow, above, was grandfather of Robert the immigrant. The name of ancestor Robert's father appears to be lacking.

Robert Lithgow the ancestor is said to have come from the Parish of Glenarmouth, County Derry, in the ship "Eve", sailing from Londonderry. His wife whose name was either Janet or Susannah McCurdy, came with him.

The McCurdis went to County Derry, Ireland and settled in townlands of Liscom early in the 17th century, or about the same time as the Lithgows. According to Sprague, they were true Irish. It is probable that they were of the Scotch - Irish, however.

It is not definitely known which children came with him, nor how old they were. According to Simnett, they were Hartha, Margaret, and Mary. The other children, Janet and William were born here.

According to Sprague, the three children who came over with Robert were William, Margaret, and Mary. He says that Janet was born here, but he makes no mention of Hartha. He is quite sure that Hartha was the oldest because of her approximate age and of her marriage to James Dunlop.

The Parish records of Glenarmouth were burned many years ago
According to Sinnett, Robert Lithgow settled in Topsham in 1717. He sailed with his wife and three children, from Londonderry, Ireland, on the ship "Ollyve", to Boston, where they remained a short time. He settled on Lot #20, in Topsham.

The Ollyve was probably one of Temple's ships, of which two came in 1718, and three in 1719, but no mention of their names or of the "Ollyve", of this period is found. (Bolton's Scotch - Irish)

Captain Robert Temple brought many shiploads of Passengers from Ireland to Boston in 1718 - 19 - 20. One was the LacCallum, from Londonderry, which arrived 9/6/1718, bringing "20 odd" families who went to the Kennebec. The Dunning family is supposed to have come over on this ship. The Ollyve may have been a ship which came in 1718 - 19 - or 20.

On the earliest list of settlers in Topsham, on kerrymeeting Bay, appears the first mention of Robert Lithgow. It is a List of "Lotts taken in Brunswick and Topsham". There are two duplicate lists, one dated 1731 and one in 1746.

The destruction of this section by the Indians would account for the absence of the original lists. The conditions were: That the Lot should be cleared, a house built and occupied for 3 years, else the transaction became void. Those who complied with the conditions were marked X, otherwise they were marked ___.

The Record shows - The list is "Those who took up lots in 1717 - 1720.
Lot #19, Robert Lithgow X. The purchase was doubtless made by 1720 or 21. The third French and Indian War, which began at kerrymeeting Bay, broke out in the summer of 1722, was principally in Maine and known as Lovewell's War, 1722 - 1727.

A letter from Capt. Penhallow to the Governor of Mass., dated "Georgetown, June 15, 1722 about 5 in the afternoon," says "People on the Bay and the river are all fleeing for shelter and no arguments can persuade them to remain, at least for the present."

The settlers who remained during the war gathered around the garrisons or fortified their homes. In the summer of 1722, the Indians captured 9 families in kerrymeeting Bay. In September, Brunswick and Georgetown were burned, also neighboring settlements.

The Dunning family remained at Naquoit all through the war, Andrew and A of his boys serving in the War. The other, William, went to York. Two of the four sons, Robert and Andrew Jr., were killed by the Indians.

When the terrified settlers reached Boston, the authorities there, in accordance with the custom of the time, issued "Warnings", lest they might become a burden to the Community. It was a technical order to the place from which they came, that they would not be supported in Boston. The Boston Commissioners' Report, vol 13, gives: "Lithgow, Robert, Susan, William, Jean, and Susan, 8/12/1722." "Rogers, Thomas, Elizabeth, Isabella, and James, 8/12/1722." "Miller, James (Probably lot 33, Topsham), 8/12/1722." "Miller, John, from Muscongus, 1/22/1721."
 Apparently Robert and Susannah Lithgow took only their 3 younger children, leaving the older ones in care of friends or relatives in or near the Garrison Houses, especially Fort George at Brunswick.

We know that the Dunning and the Hunters (both of which families married later with the Lithgows) had fortified their houses. During this war (Lovewell) are these extracts from the muster rolls:

Robert Lithgow, Capt John Gyles Co., 6/6 to 11/3/1723
Andrew Dunning Jr., Capt John Gyles Co., 169 weeks in 1723 - 4, killed 1724.

David Dunning, Sentinel, Capt John Gray's Co., 6/1 to 11/25/1723
Robert Dunning "killed by Indians" (Those were sons of Andrew (Robert's daughter Jane, born about 1717, died 1781, married Alexander Potter, born 1711, died 1810.) Note: This far from being certain.

In 1723 - 24 Robert Lithgow was a member of Capt Gyles Company, serving 65 weeks and 6 days, and was detailed for duty under Col. Westbrooke's orders. He was a member, in 1727, of William Woodside's Company, serving 52 weeks and 3 days, at 30 shillings a week. In 1730 he was a gunner in Benj. Larrabee's Company for 19 weeks and 2 days, receiving 12 pounds, 17 shillings, 2 pence.

In 1735 - 37, he served in Benj. Larrabee's Company for 33 weeks. He served 85 weeks and 1 day in Capt. Benj. Larrabee's Co., 1745 - 48.

Robert Lithgow must have returned to Brunswick at once, after he had seen his wife and three younger children safe in Boston in Aug., 1722.

Deposition of Col. William 2 Lithgow (Robert 1):

My father, Robert Lithgow, settled on or near the Kennebec River early in the century. I lived there when I was about 6 years old (about 1721 - 2) and with my parents, fled to the Fort at Brunswick when the Indians attacked the place. There were there about 15 or 16 families, this was about 45 years ago (about 1722). I remember 12 or 13 heads of families and can repeat them; but almost all their houses were burnt, the people driven off, the cattle killed. After this war, many resettled this region, have been driven off and then settled again. In 1746 (this was the 4th French and Indian War), I had command of the Fort at Richmond. There were no settlements above Perry meeting Bay, on the Kennebec, except 3 houses." Signed at Fort Halifax on the Kennebec River, June 6, 1767, Wm. Lithgow, age 52.

He was the only son, so far as we know, of Robert.

This deposition is owned by Mrs. Henry Rice (1878), of New Haven, Conn., niece Devens, great grand daughter, on maternal side, of Col. Arthur Noble, father of Wm. Lithgow's wife, who was killed at the battle of Mines, Nova Scotia, at the head of his troops, in 1747.

Petition of soldiers at Fort George, dated July, 1732, says they, "Have not received any pay since Sept. 28, 1730, Signed Benjamin Larrabee (the captain) and 12 others. Among them are Robert L Lithgow, gunner, Alexander Potter, and his brother Wm. Potter, and James McFarland. (Wm. Potter and McFarland were killed in 1747, in the 4th war.)

McKeen:

Early in the Spring, May 18, 1747, a party of 17 Indians, waylaid and had an engagement with Robert Lithgow, of Topsham, who had only 6 men, Two of his men were wounded and 2 Indians were killed. No further particulars of this fight.
According to Sprague, Robert Lithgow sold his land to William Malcom, of Topsham, in 1746, and he, with his wife, spent the rest of his life in Fort Halifax.

Topsham Deeds 28-20:
Robert Lithgow, of Brunswick, voeman, for £100, paid by William Malcom, of Topsham, all my title in a tract of land situate in Topsham, 100 acres more or less, No. 19, on which I formerly dwelt. Said lot is bounded 25 rods front on Merrymeeting Bay, adjoining land formerly owned by James Ross (Lot No. 18) and one WM. Malcom (Lots No. 20 & 21), and running back till 100 acres is completed.

In 1755, upon a plea to Gov. Shirley that Fort Halifax was desperately in need of supplies, Capt. David Dunlop and Capt. Adam Hunter were both ordered, with their independent companies, to haul supplies from Arrowsic, over the ice on the Kennebec River, which they did. David Dunlop and Adam Hunter were both William Lithgow's brothers-in-law.

He was buried in Phippsburg, Maine, on what was known as the Morse Estate. It has been written that his grave was plowed over and lost, but that is not the case. The small cemetery is now called Pleasant Cove Cemetery, fairly well taken care of. His stone reads:

Ancestors in Brunswick and Freeport
The purpose in writing this article is not to furnish a complete and minute genealogy of any of the families found herein. Originally, it was intended to investigate only the direct forebears of the writer. While doing this it was discovered that there were many aspects in the activities of these people that affected their lives and so the lives of their descendants.

This was particularly true during the early days of Brunswick and Freeport, because of a few families being closely associated in a wild land, far from other people. These people were naturally very close to one another and the families also became closer by intermarriage.

Thus many of the families brought into this picture, were not directly related, but their influence was to be felt in the succeeding generations.

It has not been too easy to determine the truth of many things which have been taken for granted in the past. This has been true because many of the local historians have reported many situations as fact on the unsupported testimony of people who have heard the stories from others.

In many cases dates have been obviously wrong, because of the conflict of other dates proven right. In accepting any dates, it must be presumed that lacking other evidence, the dates on grave markers must be correct. This is not always true, because it has been determined that some stones, even some erected in recent years, are not accurate. This has been due in some cases to the reluctance to change stones, once they were engraved.

The family origins are not easily determined. That seems logical today, was disregarded by some writers in the past, for reasons not too apparent at this time.

The various versions have been presented here, allowing the reader the opportunity to judge for himself.

A matter which confronts an investigator is the repetition of first names and also the spelling of all names. An example is one woman whose name appears in various places as Jeanot, Jean, Jane, and Jenny.

The repetition of first names is illustrated in the descendants of Andrew Duning between the years 1700 and 1800. There were 13 Andrews, 8 James, 10 Roberts, 8 Williams, 7 Johns, and 6 Davids, most of whom had no middle name.

Rev. Charles Sinnett has produced genealogies of several Brunswick families. These have been very informative, and in the main, have been quite accurate. Even here there is conflict in data between one family and another. It is here that the inconsistencies show up.

In all cases, where there is a conflict of dates or data, all versions which are known are given.

Any cases of error, omission, or addition will be gratefully appreciated, as it has been difficult to trace some of the descendants, especially in the recent generations.
The Origins of the Dunning Family in Brunswick

The Dunning family has always been considered to be English in origin, and a great deal of evidence had been brought forward to substantiate this idea. However, where Andrew Dunning, the ancestor of the Brunswick family of that name, came from has not been fully established.

According to some authorities, the name Dunning is that of an old Anglo-Saxon family which originated in Warwickshire, England. There were many of that name in Devonshire, and there is a place called Dunningley in Yorkshire. There were also Dunnings in Scotland prior to the year 1200. A Robert Dunning was a member of the Scottish Parliament in 1472, 1475, and 1482. There is a town called Dunning near Inverness, Scotland. During the reign of Elizabeth, the Irish rebellions occurred, and the Province of Ulster was greatly depopulated. King James I repopulated these counties with Protestants. These people who came to northern Ireland were mainly Presbyterians from Scotland.

A London company was one of the first to promote these migrations, and established first at Derry. This became the noted city of Londonderry. An Andrew Dunning was buried at Lough Derry, Ireland, May 22, 1662. His daughter, Mary, was buried June 5, 1665, according to the register of Derry Cathedral, Parish of Templemore, Londonderry, Ireland. Many of these people became disillusioned, with James’s promises and his policy, and in the years 1717 - 1718, participated in the great migration of the so-called, Scotch-Irish to this country.

It is fairly well established that Andrew Dunning (as his name is spelled on his headstone) came to America in 1717. If he came at this time, his family probably did not accompany him, as it is thought he stayed in Georgetown (Bath) a short time before coming to Brunswick.

It may be that he came over first in order to find a proper location, and then either had planned for them to come later, or had sent for them.

According to some records, his family arrived in a ship called McAllum, which came from Derry Lough, Ireland.

On Aug. 4, 1718, a ship arrived with 20 families, among whom were Rev. James McKeen, Andrew Dunning, David Giveen, James McFarland, and Rev. James Woodside.

Andrew Dunning was a Presbyterian in belief, so the fact that they had sailed from Londonderry, and that they had stated, in their military enrollment, that they came from Ireland, makes it probably more nearly correct that, as Mr. Stackpole said, they were Scotch who had lived a few generations in Ireland.

Further evidence of their Scotch-Irish origin is their intimacy with the people who had migrated from Londonderry, Ireland to Londonderry, N. H. David Dunning married Mary Todd, of Londonderry, N. H. and possibly lived there himself, a short time, as he owned property there.

Although the Dunning family have long believed that Andrew Dunning came from Ashburton, England, it appears that this belief is in error.

It appears that Andrew Dunning was many generations removed from England, and that therefore there could not have been any close relationship with Lord Ashburton, who was John Dunning.

The record is not too clear on Rev. James Woodside, who apparently sponsored at least one shipload of people from Ireland. He apparently came to America, originally, prior to 1714.

It is stated that he stayed in Falmouth, upon his arrival. He is said to have built the garrison house at Kenoit, and that he spent considerable money in making it defensible by erecting palisades and other arrangements.

There is a record of a legal townmeeting in Brunswick, on Nov. 3, 1716, which voted to give Mr. Woodside, of Falmouth, 40 pounds for his upkeep, and a house, if he came to Brunswick and preach.

It was also voted at the same townmeeting, "that Mr. Baxter's house be made habitable for Mr. Woodside, and charges for transportation of his family and goods from Falmouth be paid."

According to Wheeler, the Baxter house was on lot #6, on the now E. E. corner of Maine and Greene streets in Brunswick.

According to Wheeler, Mr. Woodside's son William came to Brunswick, and took charge of the blockhouse in 1714. This is very doubtful, as William was not born until 1703. It may have been his brother James.

It seems, by the wording of the petition he sent the King, that he had returned to Ireland prior to 1717.

This petition was for reimbursement for damage to his buildings and stock caused by the Indian's attacks in 1722. During these attacks many of the colonists took refuge in his garrison house. The petition said in part, "he with 40 families of 160 persons did embark on a ship at Derry Lough in Ireland, in order to erect a colony at Casco Bay, in Your Majesty's Province of Main in New England. That being arrived, they made settlement at a place called, by the Indians, Pajipsoot, but by them, Brunswick, within 4 miles of Fort George, where he had a garrison House."

Another source states, "Rev. James Woodside from N. Ireland, came to Brunswick Nov. 2, 1718." He came from Falmouth at this time.

Rev. Mr. Woodside was not able to get along with the people of the town. As he was a Clergyman of the Church of England, his preaching was not agreeable to the majority of the town, who were Presbyterian. Therefore, on Oct. 10, 1719, the town passed the famous resolution: Whereas, the conversation of the Rev. James Woodside is displeasing to most of us, which renders us unable to reverence him as a minister, therefore we will hear him no more as such.

He returned to England with his wife, a daughter, and his son James. His son James was still listed as owning land at Maquoit. There is no record of Rev. James Woodside after his departure from Brunswick, except that he sent a portrait of himself, by Gibson, to his son William. This was a portrait of a descendant in Scotland, prior to 1700.

His son William remained and retained possession of much of the original property, and increased his holdings. He became a very influential man in the town, and is called Esquire in some records.

The history of the First Parish in Brunswick is the story of the struggle between the settlers who came to Brunswick in the period of 1717 - 19, who were part of the great migration of the so-called Scotch - Irish, and were Presbyterians, and the settlers who came or returned later. These last were Puritan Congregationalists.

The first few years of the First Parish, many of the ministers were ordained and sent to Brunswick by the Presbyterians of Londonderry, N. H. This was not agreeable to the Puritan element, many of whom lived in the East End, or New Meadows.

The church at this time was on 12 Rod Road (Maine St.), about half way from the river to the shore at Maquoit. It stood in front of the old First Parish Cemetery, which was established in 1735.

All the inhabitants were taxed to support the Church, so it was agreed that the minister would preach part of the time in the East End.

Rev. Robert Dunlap was invited, in 1747, as pastor. The town voted to settle him. The minister's lot was transferred to him in Dec. 1754. He continued until Oct. 31, 1760. He was dismissed by the Ecclesiastical Council, who were all Congregational ministers.
Mr. John Miller was engaged to preach in 1762. In October of 1765, the people of Brunswick, headed by William Woodside, Sr., quarreled with Mr. Miller. He was not paid, and was ordered to leave town, so that he would not become a public charge.

The town was evidently brought around to the side of Mr. Miller, because William was asked to apologise. This he did in 1766. The town voted to dismiss Mr. Miller in 1780. He disented, and in 1787 a vote was taken of members of the church. There were 9 for dismissal and 5 against. The Congregation was then asked to vote, and the result was 12 for dismissal and 18 against. The town then voted to raise no more money for his support. In 1788 Mr. Miller died.

The church was Presbyterian under Mr. Dunlap his predecessor. It was mixed under Mr. Miller, who was ordained a Congregationalist, for about seven years. Finally, Mr. Miller openly declared himself to be the pastor of a Congregational plan, and the First Parish has been so ever since. The present Church is built on land sold to them by Robert D. Dunning.

Andrew Dunning and his wife, Susan, as well as his sons were sturdy people without a doubt. There is some question as to whether these five boys were William's entire offspring. He was 27 years old when James was born. Nine years later William was born. Andrew and David were born 4 and 5 years later, respectively. If Robert was born just after William, as many think, and the usual pattern of the times was followed, there may have been other children who were left overseas. Possibly they were girls who were married.

Andrew Dunning was 54 years of age when he arrived in Brunswick, and his wife was probably about the same age. His oldest son, James, was 27 and his youngest son, David, was 13. William was 18 when they arrived and Andrew Jr. was 14.

There is some question about the age of Robert. He must have been a mature man, as he was very active in the early defense of the settlement. Whether or not he was married has never been established. Some maintain that he must have been because no other way has been found to account for some of the Dunning's.

It is said by some historians that Brunswick was abandoned in 1722, due to Indian hostilities. However, those who are known to have remained were John Minot, Andrew Dunning, and his sons, William Woodside and Ebenezer Stanwood and their sons, William Simpson, and David Giveen and sons, of Brunswick, and Lieut. Eaton, John Vincent, Thomas Thorn, James Ross, John Malcolm, James McFarland, William Stinson, James, Isaac, and John Hunter of Topsham. Most of these had garrison houses. Robert Lithgow must have remained in Topsham, also, because he was in John Giles Company during 1722 and 1724. Without doubt some families lived in the Stone Fort during the hostilities.

Most of the men listed above were enrolled as soldiers in the Indian Wars. John Giles Company was the most aggressive of all the Indian fighters in the Pejepscot district, and most of these men were members at one time or another. The experience and training that Capt. Giles was able to give, aided them all through the troublesome times, during the years of 1722 to 1724. Capt. Giles had been captured by the Indians when young and had lived with them for years. He was therefore very experienced in their ways.

It must not be supposed that this company nor any others participating in these actions, were in the field together as armies usually are. Some had to take care of their families, during that time, and only when there was danger, or when some specific duty required, did they muster all members of the company. At times, only a few of them went out on missions.

It may have been some such mission which culminated in the deaths of Robert and Andrew Dunning Jr. in 1724, at the hands of the Indians, just below the falls, near Mason's Rock, while paddling across the river.
Capt. Giles, no doubt, held a commission from the Massachusetts Governor as did the officers of later companies. There were records kept on the members, although they are now far from complete, as to length of service, pay, and actions participated in by them. But the men who decided to stay, were natural fighters, and enlisted mainly to protect their families and property.

It is not known what caused the fire in which Andrew's widow, Susan, was killed. This was in the winter of 1738-9, and the Indians were hostile in the area, although not actually at war.

The lots that Andrew Duning bought were #31 and #32 in Maquoit. James apparently lived on and inherited this land, as he is listed as owning it in 1741. Afterward, he added many more acres to the original 200.

The nearest neighbors, originally, were the Woodsides. Rev. James Woods had gone before the hostilities of 1722-4. But his son William remained.

The Stanwoods also became close neighbors, and they were a rugged and independent family.

These families, with the Minots, Simpsons, Spears, and Giveens, had a great influence on the destinies of the town in the early days, before and after the incorporation. The descendants of these families are mostly related.

It is rather strange that James Duning did not marry until he was about 38 years of age. There is no record of a prior marriage. He had 9 children nevertheless, the last being born after James had died.

James spelled his name Duning, when he signed it. The names are spelled Duning on Andrew's, James's, and David's headstones. Deacon Andrew's, of Harpswell, is spelled Duning, while his wife's name is spelled Dunning. James's sons spelled the name Duning, as did some of David's children. But, as spelling was not considered too important among the early settlers, we find David's name spelled Duneing, and Dancing on the same document.

The following accounts from various sources, were all written in the 1800s without citing authority, in most cases.
Andrew during the Maine ancestor
According to Wheeler

Andrew Dunnig, ancestor of all the Dunnings in this vicinity and it is believed of all the family in the State of Maine, came to this country from Ashburton, in Devonshire, England, in 1717. He landed in Georgetown, Maine where he remained a short time and settled in Brunswick, at Maquoit the same year, on the lot recently occupied by Samuel Dunning, and now (1870) owned by Patrick McManus.

He brought with him his wife, whose name before marriage was Susan Bond, and five sons who were all born before he emigrated to this country.

Children were, William, who settled in York, Maine, Andrew and Robert, who were both killed by Indians, while crossing the Androscoggin River, David the youngest, who settled in Brunswick Village, and James, the oldest, who lived in the homestead in Maquoit.

The Harpswell Dunnings descended from William, of York, whose sons Andrew and Benjamin, moved to Harpswell a short time before incorporation. Harpswell was then known as Mericoneag Neck.

This statement of Wheeler's, that Andrew Dunnig came from Ashburton cannot be borne out by any existing evidence.

According to Rev. Charles Sinnett, who compiled a genealogy of the Dunning family, Andrew Dunning was born about 1664. This would not agree with Andrew's headstone, which says he died in 1736 at the age of 72 years. This would make his birth about 1664.

It is said that he came to America in 1717. He came to Boston and then to Georgetown, where he stayed a short time.

Andrew Dunning's family came the following year, 1718, on the ship Macullum, Master, James Law, with Mr. Andrew McFadden, who went to live at a place called Somerset, on Merrymeeting Bay.

The ship Macullum arrived at Boston, from Londonderry, Ireland, Sept. 1st, 1718, and sailed to Merrymeeting Bay on Sept. 8, 1718.

Rev. James Woodside said, in his petition to the King, that, "he with 40 families of 160 persons did embark on a ship at Derry Lough, in Ireland, in order to erect a colony at Casco Bay, in Your Majesty's Province of Maine, in New England. That being arrived, they made a settlement at a place called by the Indians, Pejepscot, but by them, Brunswick, within 4 miles of Fort George where he had a garrison house."

Nearby Andrew Dunning bought lots and built his house on the land occupied, in 1718, by Patrick McManus. Here he lived as a blacksmith and farmer, much respected for his integrity and uprightness of character.

The claim is made that Andrew left a son John, who had a son John, who became a celebrated lawyer and was made Lord Ashburton. Others claim it is probable that Lord Ashburton belonged to the same family and was a grandson of a brother of Andrew. (This idea is also very doubtful.)

Andrew Dunning settled at Maquait, Brunswick, Maine, on land which he bought from the Pejepscot Proprietors. This land was close to the Church lot. It was, no doubt, the 200 acres which were occupied by his son James in 1741, and was numbered lots 31 and 32. Andrew Dunning's house was only a little north of the Woodside's.

Andrew Dunning was a Presbyterian in religious belief, and was one of the first to urge the building of a church.

According to family tradition, Susan, the widow of Andrew Dunning, lost her life in the burning of the old Dunning homestead, in the winter of 1737 - 38. While endeavoring to save some money she had laid away, she fell through the floor into the cellar and could not be rescued. A negro slave, who was sleeping in an arch of the cellar, was, with great difficulty, saved by being drawn through the cellar window.

Andrew Dunning was in Capt. Giles's Company in the Indian War of 1722 to 1724, for 37 weeks, along with his sons Andrew, Robert, and David.

Andrew Dunning is buried in the Old First Parish Cemetery, established in 1735, on what is now the Meare Point road.

The inscription on his stone, which is believed to be the oldest burial stone now existing in Brunswick, and which, it is also believed, was made by his son James, reads as follows:

HERE LYETH THE BODY
OF MR. ANDREW DUNING
WHO DEPARTED THIS LIFE JANUARY THE 18TH ANO DOM 1736
AGED 72 YRS

It is a significant fact that Andrew Duning, his wife, and all his sons except William, stayed in Brunswick during the Indian hostilities of 1722-1724, with several other families.

Andrew Duning kept slaves during his lifetime, and his family continued to own them for some time thereafter.

Andrew signed the petition to the General Court for incorporation of Brunswick as a town in 1735.

The Dunning Family in Brunswick
According to Rev. E. S. Stackpole

A synopsis of the information contained in a paper by Rev. E. S. Stackpole, found in Vol. #74, New England Historical and Genealogical Register, reveals the following results of his research.

The name Dunning is an old Anglo-Saxon name of a family which originated in Warwickshire, England. There is a place called Dunnington in Warwickshire and another called Dunningley in Yorkshire.

Portions of the family migrated to Scotland. A Robert Dunning was a member of the Scottish Parliament in 1472, 1475, and 1482. James, son of John Dunne was apprenticed to David Dunning, a saddler of Edinburg, in 1597. In Scotland is the town of Dunning, not far from Inverness.

Dunnings probably went to northern Ireland about 1600. An Andrew Dunning was buried in Lough Derry, Ireland, 5/22/1662. His daughter, Mary was buried there 6/6/1655, according to the register of Derry Cathedral, parish of Templemore, Londonderry, Ireland.

The Brunswick Dunning came over with the so-called Scotch-Irish of 1717-1718 from Londonderry. Their military enrollment says they came from Ireland. They were Scotch who had lived for a few generations in Ireland.

Other information from Mr. Stackpole conforms to that of Sinnett and others, with some additions, among which are those following.

David Dunning bought, in 9/25/1730, 97 acres from Rowland Norton, of Salisbury, Mass. Norton had served with David in Capt. Giles Co. This land comprised the most of the present business district of Brunswick. It is described as bordering on the Amscciones River.

On 10/10/1735, David Dunning sold land in Londonderry, N. H. This could indicate a short residence there. This was the same year he married Mary Todd.

David Dunning built a house near his garrison, on Maine Street, where he died. His son, John, kept a tavern in the garrison house, which was called "Washington Hall". It was burned in 1856.

When Fort George was dismantled, David Dunning and Jerimiah Moulton bought the site for 133 pounds, 6 shillings, 8 pence. They owned the waterpower on both sides of the river and built the first dam and saw mill.

David received his commission as Captain from Gov. Shirley in 1746.

In 1755, Capt David Dunning served 21 days transporting stores to Fort Western and Fort Halifax over the ice from Arrowsic.

David bought 1/16th of the township of Royalsborough (Durham) in 1762. Among others was lot #91 which he gave to his daughter Elizabeth Stackpole in 1783.

Stackpole's statement on Margaret (Miller) Ransom, is that she was daughter of John (the tailor) Miller and Jane Craig, and granddaughter of John and Jane Miller of Falmouth (Cape Elizabeth).
Landholders in Brunswick in 1741.

This is according to an old map and does not include any property except Brunswick and along 12 Rod Road.

Brunswick Village
James McFarland, John Malcolm, David Dunning, and Ebenezer Smith. This comprised all the land between Mill and Mason streets, and the railroad tracks. (This is approximate in the south).

Along 12 Rod Road to Maquoit Bay

On a map of 1752, only a few of these people were shown as having houses along 12 Rod Road. Robert Spear and Robert Phinney are shown opposite the church, and James Dunning, Eben Stanwood, and Woodside are shown at the end of the road at Maquoit.

There are a number of people shown as living along the shore in Brunswick, Topsham, and Harpswell.

Petition for Incorporation

At the first Town Meeting, 3/26/1739:
Samuel Hinckley - Moderator and Town Clerk
Benjamin Larabee, Samuel Hinckley, John Getchell, James Duning, and David Duning - Selectmen.

Children of Andrew Duning who settled in Brunswick in 1717

According to Rev. Charles Chipman

2. Lieut. James Duning, born 1691, died 6/8/1752, age 61, is buried in the Old First Parish Cemetery beside his father. He was a soldier in Capt. Giles Company in 1723-24. He signed the petition to the General Court, for incorporation of the town of Brunswick, in 1735. He was a selectman in the first town government after incorporation, in 1739.

In 1743, a Nymond Bradbury was elected selectman. Through the efforts of James Duning and Eben Standwood, the General Court declared the election illegal, and a new election was ordered. Selectmen finally elected were Capt. John Linot, Eben Standwood, and James Duning. David Duning was elected a member of the General Court in the same election.

Lieut. Duning was commissioner to the General Court in 1747.

In 1752 James Duning lived on 12 Rod Road, at the head of Maquoit Bay. He added many valuable acres to his father's original farm.

James known far and wide as the famous Indian fighter, saved lives by his valiant efforts. He was a soldier in Capt. Giles's Company in 1723-24. In 1727 he was a soldier in Capt. Woodside's Company, and was a Lieut. in the militia later.

On 5/25/1737, he was one of the leading remonstrants against the dismantling of the stone fort (Fort George) at Brunswick.

Oct. 25, 1756, Account of Martha Dunning, Administrator of her late husband, James of Brunswick, Maine. Among other charges were those of a posthumous child.

Oct. 25, 1756, Martha Dunning, widow, was appointed guardian of the children, James and Margaret.

York Probate Records - May 31, 1757 - Warrant for division of the estate of the late James Dunning given to Capt. William Woodside, Ebenezer Stanwood, Thomas Skolfield, William Spear, and John Smart, all of Brunswick, Maine. The widow Martha Dunning, 24 acres of land and personal estate; To Robert, the eldest son, 82 acres of land, stock; To Mary, Susan, and Margaret Dunning 25 pounds each; To five sons under age, 198 acres of upland, 100 acres of salt marsh, and 10 pounds personal estate, Sept. 29, 1758.

In 1758 she is called "the widow Dunning of the west end". It is thought by many that she married again. Intentions, dated March 17, 1759, "White Herrick of Nobleboro, Maine", as she is then styled "Widow Martha Dunning".

In a deed dated June 25, 1731, Isaac Gardner of Brookline conveyed to James Duning, Lot # 47, 97 acres at the head of a cove, on the west side of the road leading to Maquoit, formerly occupied by Ebenezer Stanwood.

William Dunning, who was born in 1700, was called esquire in many of the old records. He removed from Brunswick at an early date and died in York, Maine in 1783. He was a farmer and cordwainer. He married Deborah Dennen on 11/26/1724, who was born in York, Maine, 5/5/1705, and died 6/25/1781, at York. She was daughter of Benjamin Dennen, and grand daughter of Thomas Dennen. Her mother was Mary Harmon, daughter of John Harmon. William Dunning was ancestor of the Harpswell Dunnings.

William Dunning bought 200 acres, in 5/21/1742, in Brunswick. These were possibly lots #26 and #27, although the map showing this was dated 1741. It may have been the land upon which his sons, Andrew and Benjamin, settled in Harpswell.

Children:

Benjamin, born 1725, died 1730.

Capt. Andrew Dunning, born 7/11/1727, died 3/27/1806, at the age of 78. He married Hannah Shepard, 5/16/1751. She was born in 1727 and died 12/28/1811. He moved to Harpswell prior to 1753, and was made a Deacon 6/17/1767. He was Commissioner of Inspection, Correspondence, and Safety in 1775 - 1777. In 1758 he was Selectman and Clerk. In 1773 he was on a committee to reply to a letter on Colonist's rights, and again in 1774. In 1777 he received 12 shillings for recording the Declaration of Independence. In 1783 he was again on a committee of inspection.

Mary Dunning, born 1/17/1729, died young.

Mercy, born 11/7/1734, died 1757, married John Mitchell.

Benjamin Dunning, Esq., born 1/17/1737, died 1/8/1806, age 71. He was on a Committee of Inspection, Correspondence, and Safety in 1776, 1778, and 1783.

Sunday, 5/7/1775, Capt Benjamin Dunning, of Harpswell, applied for powder. Selectmen of Haverhill, Mass. were ordered, by the Second Congress, to deliver to Capt. Nehemiah Curtis and Capt. Benjamin Dunning a barrel of gunpowder, to be paid for by the town and replaced as needed.

He was an Overseer of Bowdoin College. His wife was Elizabeth Ewing, who was born in 1738 and died 11/16/1815, aged 77.

Mary Dunning, born in York, Maine, 4/4/1739, died 9/10/1823. She married He, Dummer Sewall, 12/16/1760, who was born in York, Maine. He removed with his brother Henry Sewall to Bath, Maine in 1763.

Her son Dummer Sewall Jr., born in York, Maine, 1/7/1762, died 11/1/1846, married Jenny Dunning, born in Harpswell 3/9/1763. She was the daughter Deacon Andrew and Hannah Shepard Dunning of Harpswell. Jenny's father Andrew, was brother of Mary Dunning, mother of Dummer Sewall Jr., so they were cousins.

James, born 3/17/1741.

Jennie, born 6/8/1743, died 1781.

William, born 1/4/1745.

Capt. Andrew's daughter Hannah had an illegitimate child: Aaron Dunning, born 11/14/1779, died 7/17/1861.

Deborah, daughter of Benjamin Dunning, born 4/13/1780, died 11/7/1861, married John Russell.
Robert Duning may have been born before William, as there is no definite record of his birth, except that he was born overseas. He was killed by the Indians, along with his brother Andrew Jr., 3/22/1724.

Robert was a member of Capt. Giles's Company in 1723 - 24. According to the records, he settled in the West End in 1722. (According to Wheeler, he delivered a horse, with a saddle and bridle, worth 12 pounds, to John Goddard, for John Giles, at Falmouth. This resulted in the first law suit in Brunswick. The horse had been let to John Goddard, of Roxbury, Mass., near Boston, and never returned).

He was detailed for duty with Capt. Giles, by Col. Westbrook.

William Duning administered his estate, 10/4/1726, indicating he had property, and was possibly married.

Nathaniel Dunning, in a paper written in 1631, had this to say: "In the year 1724, Andrew and Robert Dunning, as they were crossing the Androscoggin River, at Mason's Rock, were shot by the Indians. One of them fell into the river, and the other received a ball in the arm, which disabled it entirely. But with the other arm and one ear, he managed to reach the Topsham shore, thereby escaped from the Indians. But he died the next day in consequence of his wounds. The brothers were buried in the graveyard at Fort George, on the spot where Robert Merrill built his store. From a part of the gravestone, which was discovered two years since (1829), and is now in the possession of John Dunning, it is ascertained that Andrew Dunning was twenty years of age. The age of Robert is unknown."

Sinnett quotes Mrs. Moody of Portland, Maine, "Robert Dunning was probably married, as the following children cannot be placed in any other family: John had a lot of land in 1757. Martha Dunning, who was married to Waite Herrick of Waldoboro, Maine. Robert Dunning was a corporal in 1741. David was a member of the church."

The above Martha was no doubt the widow of James, the son of Andrew, the ancestor. The others cannot be accounted for, unless it was Robert son of James, who was a corporal in 1746 instead of 1741.

Andrew Duning Jr. was born in 1704, according to the old headstone, mentioned in the story of the deaths of Robert and Andrew at the hands of the Indians in 1724. He was buried in the graveyard at Fort George, between Mill and Bow Streets, which was covered by buildings for years. It is now entirely obliterated by the underpass under Maine Street.
Capt. David Duning was one of the most prominent men in early Brunswick. He was born in 1705 or 1706, and died Aug. 16, 1793 at the age of 88.

He was a soldier in Capt. John Giles's Company, 1722 - 24, and in Wm. Burns's Company in 1746. He was Captain of Militia and Captain of the Alarm Company, during the Indian wars.

In 1735 he was one of the signers of a petition to the General Court for the incorporation of the town of Brunswick. He was a selectman in the first government after incorporation, in 1739, and again in 1742.

He was the first representative to the General Court in 1742, and again in 1746.

In 1748 he was a commissioner to the General Court with a petition for protection from the Indians, and again in 1753.

He received his commission as Captain from Gov. Shirley, in 1748.

In 1757, he was a commissioner to Col. Cushing for abatement of taxes to soldiers.

David was 17 years old in 1722, and lived in Maquoit, probably with his father Andrew and his mother Susan. This was his home during the 1722 - 24 Indian War.

David was married in the Presbyterian Church in Boston by Rev. John Morehead, on Dec. 5, 1735, to Mary Todd, who died Aug. 16, 1784, at the age of 74. She was the daughter of John Todd and Rachel Nelson, and sister of Capt. Alexander Todd of Londonderry, N. H.

David Duning lived back from 12 Rod Road (Maine st.) about where the Fire House now is. He erected a strong timber garrison house or blockhouse. It was two stories high, forty feet long, and twenty-two feet wide. The second story project out over the first, and the walls had loopholes to enable the inmates to fire upon the Indians when necessity required. There was a tower on top from which the teams could be watched on the way to and from Merriconeag (Harpwell) marshes.

He was living there in 1772, and his son, John, ran a tavern there until 1807. It was at this tavern that the committee met and walked to survey the area donated for Bowdoin College.

After his first wife, Mary Todd, died, in 1784, David Duning married again. On Jan. 29, 1788, he married the widow of Adam Hunter, of Topsham. She was the former Mary Lithgow, and was a sister of Maruna Lithgow, wife of James Duning. Both were over 80 years old when they were married.

David and his wife Mary Todd are buried in the old Parish Cemetery on the Mere Point road, (12 Rod Road). They are buried to the left of his father. His name is spelled Duning on his headstone. His second wife, Mary Lithgow Hunter, is probably buried with her first husband in Topsham, but this is speculation as there is no marker.

Capt. David liked to fish with a dip net for salmon. One day when he was fishing at the falls, another man, using a set net, with corks to hold it up was sitting on Middle Rock. The man seeing his floats bob under the water, drew in his net and with it he drew in David. It appears he had slipped and fallen into the river. He floated down until he was caught in the net. (It would be interesting to know when the last salmon were caught in the Androscoggin River). Middle Rock is the rock upon which one of the piers of the old Androscoggin Bridge was located.

On Nov. 14, 1761, Belcher Noyes, the proprietor's agent, deeded to David Duning and Jerimiah Moulton the mill privilege, for 133 pounds, 6 shillings, 8 pence, which has since been known as the Fort Right. The Fort Right included all the land north of Mill St. and Mason St. between Town Landing and the upper dam.
Jerimiah Moulton was probably the same man who was one of the leaders of the expedition which raided the Norrigwock Indian tribe near where the town of Norrigwock is now located. There was an almost complete massacre of the tribe, which ceased to exist as a threat to the settlers.

Capt. David Dunning's son, Deacon Andrew Dunning, was the first postmaster in Brunswick. The postoffice was established in 1793 and was kept in his dwelling on Maine Street, just north of Noble Street, until shortly before his death. His estate remained in the Dunning family until the late 1800s.

Mr. Dean Swift distinctly remembered being sent to Deacon Dunning's for letters, when a boy. He said the Deacon kept them in a desk in a corner of the room. It was customary for the citizens to look over the letters themselves and select therefrom such as bore their address.

Robert D. Dunning, who succeeded his father in 1801, kept the postoffice on the northern corner of Dunlap and Maine Street.

A deed, registered Sept. 29, 1730, conveyed to David Dunning, (also spelled Daneing in the same deed) 97 acres on 12 Rod Road, boundaries, East - Amo-gen River, North - James Beacon, West - Proprietor's lands. 12 rods were reserved through the land for a county road. Almost half of about 6 acres of meadow, being half of the 2 lowermost lots in Merriconeag, Andrew owning the other half. His name is also spelled Dunng in the verification copy, dated Sept. 29, 1730.

Children of David Dunning

- David Dunning, born 1705 or 6, died 8/16/1793, married (1st) Mary Todd, born 1710, died 8/16/1784, married (2d) Mary Lithgow Hunter.
- John Dunning, born 9/19/1738, died 2/10/1831, soldier, selectman, married Lois Hinkley, born Brunswick, 5/30/1743, died 10/21/1801, daughter of Judge Aaron Hinkley, married (2d) Hannah Owen, 10/10/1764.

Children of James Dunning and Martha Lithgow

3. Capt. Robert Dunning - Born 1/10/1731, died 10/7/1804, age 74. He is buried in the Maquoit Cemetery in Brunswick. He married Sarah Spear, daughter of Wm. Spear and Elizabeth, at Brunswick, 2/26/1737. In 1746 he was a corporal in Capt. Burns's Company, for 16 weeks and 5 days. He was a Capt. (This is no doubt wrong as to rank) in John Gatchell's Company in 1757. He was a Lieut. in 1776, and a Capt. in 1779. He was a selectman in 1777. He was on the Committee of Correspondence and Inspection and on the Committee to dispense soldiers' family allotments also in 1777. He was again on the Committee of Correspondence in 1778.

The first vessel constructed in the Brunswick area, at Middle Bay or Maquoit, was built prior to the Revolution by Robert. The exact time or place is unknown.

His daughter Martha married Ebenezer Stanwood. They were the parents of Sarah Stanwood, the wife of Robert Dunning, who moved to Carthage, Maine. She married (2d) Joseph Dustin in July, 1796.

Matthew and Susannah (Dunning) Patten paid Andrew Flood 26 pounds, 13 shillings for 200 acres - lot No. 6, east of the Penobscot River, Surry, Maine. (The town of Surry was Township No. 6, one of several between the Penobscot and Union Rivers.)

3. James Dunning, born 7/31/1738, died 8/11/1781. It is also said that he died 3/30/1792, but that he was buried in Bangor, March 30, 1792. He married Jane (Jean) Woodside, daughter of Wm. Woodside and Anne Vincent, on 12/25/1763. She was the granddaughter of Rev. James Woodside, and of Capt. Wm. Vincent, son of John Vincent, a woman of royal, religious, and patriotic heritage (according to her headstone). She died in Bangor, Maine, 3/26/1792. (According to Sirnett she died 3/28/1778. This cannot be true because she had three children after this date.) She was born in Brunswick, 5/14/1742. They first moved to Bath. Then they bought land in Bangor, which was on the south east bank of the junction of the Kenduskeag and Penobscot rivers.

One writer says, "After living at Bath, Maine, he bought land where the city of Bangor now stands. He was making arrangements to move to Bangor, when robbers came to his house and demanded money. He jumped on a table, over which his sword was hanging on a wall, and they cut him down on the table. The confusion had been heard by the family and the robbers ran away."

"After the tragic death of her husband, this stronghearted woman moved with her children to Bangor, just as her husband had planned to do."
Children of James Dunning and Martha Lithgow

According to Stackpole

One writer states that James Dunning moved to Bangor, Maine in 1772.

The Bangor, Maine, Historical Society Magazine states that James Dunning came to Bangor in 1737. This is of course wrong because he had not been born then.

2 Margaret Dunning, born 11/16/1740, died 9/18/1814, was married, by Rev. Robert Dunlap, to Thomas Campbell, of Freeport (New Yarmouth) on 4/21/1759. He was born in New Yarmouth, 7/10/1737, and died in Orrington, Maine, 10/12/1803.

(Their daughter, Mary was baptized 8/16/1761, and a son, Thomas was baptized 3/2/1763.)

3 Deacon William Dunning, born 3/9/1743, died 1829, married, 1/8/1774, Jeanette Stanwood, born 7/26/1757, daughter of Mr. Stanwood and Jeann Lithgow. (They were cousins). According to the Stanwood Genealogy, Jeann Lithgow married Samuel Stanwood, son of Ebenezer and Jane (Jeanet) Stanwood, so she was a daughter of Samuel Stanwood.

4 Andrew Dunning, born 4/18/1745, died 5/23/1804. Buried in the old First Parish Cemetery on Here Point road. He married Mrs. Margaret (Miller) Ransom, 7/1/1768, who died 5/24/1837, aged 96 years, 2 months.

Andrew Dunning was on the Committee of Safety in 1776, on the Committee of Correspondence and Inspection in 1777, on the committee to support the soldier’s families in 1778, and on the committee to answer the Boston Letter in 1784.

5 David Dunning, born 12/16/1749, died 4/10/1823, married Elizabeth Hunt on 12/17/1783, who died 6/23/1840 at 87 years. Both are buried in theinsert Cemetery.

6 John Dunning, born 2/6/1753 or 3/8/1753, died 7/11/1839, aged 86. He was born after his father died. He is buried in the Maquoit Cemetery. He lived in Freeport, about where the present town line is in Brunswick. He was a Revolutionary soldier. In 1/18/1783 he married Rebecca Stackpole, (it was actually Rebecca, not Rebecka, as given) who was born in 1763 and died 1/3/1809, aged 46 years, 9 months.

The headstone of the wife of John Dunning of Freeport says her name was Rebecca. Stackpole in his paper, said her name was Rebe shaft. Sinnett is obviously wrong on the date, and possibly wrong on the.

Andrew Dunning, born 4/18/1745, died 5/23/1804, married Mrs. Margaret (Miller) Ransom in 1768. She died 5/24/1837 at the age of 96 years, 2 months. She was first married to Thomas Ransom, 12/3/1766 in King’s Chapel, Boston. Thomas Ransom, son of her first marriage, was a worthy citizen of Brunswick. He is buried in the old First Parish Cemetery on Here Point road. Margaret Ransom was the daughter of John Miller, a tailor, who was in Brunswick in 1675. Sinnett is obviously wrong on the date, and possibly wrong on the.
It seems more probable that John Miller, the tailor, and his wife Jane and daughter Margaret were the subject of the order to move. This type of order was a common devise to save the town from possible responsibility in taking care of the indigent. In 1722 - 1724, during the Indian troubles in Maine, when many inhabitants fled to Boston, the town of Boston warned these people in the same manner, to leave Boston, according to the law, to let the town avoid helping these people, in spite of the fact that they had no other place to go.
Another item by Mrs. Moody:— There is an old book with the autograph of John 3 Hancock of Lexington (1671), grandfather of the Signer of the Declaration of Independence, which is inscribed, "Margaret Dunning, her book, given her by her friend Susannah Powers of Boston, in the year 1797." (11/5/1797)
Andrew Dunning was on the Committee of Safety in 1776, on the Committee of Correspondence and inspection in 1777, and on the Committee to answer the Boston letter, in 1784.
Col. Thompson accused Andrew Dunning of being a Tory at one time, in the same manner that he had ruined many other Brunswick men. The charge was easily refuted.
Jan. 22, 1771: Deed to Andrew Dunning, all our rights to our mother's thirds—Martha Dunning, widow of James Dunning, dec'd (consideration 53 pounds — 6 shillings — 8 pence) signed by:—
Mr. Reed of Topsham, yeoman
Capt. Matthew Patten of No. Yarmouth by his power by his brother, Mr. Robert Dunning of Brunswick
Mr. Thomas Camel (Campbell) of No. Yarmouth, mariner
Mr. William Dunning Jr.
James Dunning
David Dunning
John Dunning
It being 1/3 of real estate of James duning dec'd of Maquoit
(continuing...) Parentage also. Thomas Ransom, Margaret's son, according to his stone, died 8/8/1821, aged 57, which would make his birth about 1764. This would not agree with her marriage date of 1766, her mother was the former Jane Craigie.

Wheeler in his History of Brunswick said, "Jan. 13, 1766, Rev. John Miller, his wife, and daughter Margaret were warned to leave town in accordance with law. This was to prevent their coming on the town for assistance. This was the Rev. Mr. Miller who had settled 3 or 4 years before over the First Parish!"

It therefore seems possible that the Margaret Miller mentioned was the same girl who married Andrew Dunning. Her marriage occurred in December of the year Mr. Miller was asked to leave.

The wreck of the schooner Active, according to Rev. Charles Simnett.

Robert Dunning, born in Brunswick, 10/3/1783, died 10/13/1857. Many writers on the Dunning history have stated that Robert Dunning was lost at sea, and that he "lost his mind through his sad experiences". None of these things are true. These statements, no doubt, grew out of his voyage. On Oct. 27 1805 the schooner Active of Brunswick, Maine, and bound for Boston, Mass., had a fearful experience. The crew consisted of Robert Ross, Robert Dunning, David Stanwood, and Seth Frazier. The passengers were Capt. Danforth, Joseph Maxwell, and Sumner Wilson, who gave such a description of the voyage. They stopped at Portland, Maine and when they left there, they expected to reach Boston in a few hours. But the wind changed and blew so hard from the northwest that they were obliged to leave their course for Boston and keep off to sea for fear of striking on the rocks. Night came and snow fell. On the 28th of Oct. the storm increased and the vessel was in great danger. About eleven o'clock at night the wind began to go down. The Mate discovered a light which he thought to be Cape Cod. The Captain came on deck and said that the Mate was right in his ideas, and that he now hoped that they would soon be out of danger. But the schooner began to fill with water, and there was small hope that they could reach land before she sank. After a while the ship capsized and the men were obliged to cling to the sides. In about an hour the men sighted the schooner Betsy bound for Marblehead. They spoke to her, but the Captain would not give them any assistance, and passed right by them. The men had to stay on their vessel all night, wet and nearly frozen. In the morning the sea had become quite calm. The Betsy, Capt. Perkins, was still in sight when the sun rose. But like a hardhearted wretch, that captain would not give them any aid. The men were in sight of land, however, and the wind was right to drive them on shore. So they hoped that soon someone might see them and come to their aid. About 2 P.M. they saw a boat coming toward them. This fishing boat held Mr. Truro and five others. As it could not hold all on board the schooner Active, they took Capt. Given, Capt. Danforth, Joseph Maxwell, and David Stanwood, all married men. (David Stanwood's wife was Sarah Dunning.) Mr. Truro said he would set them on shore and come back for the rest as quickly as they could. But the men waited in vain. In the night their vessel went to pieces and the four men huddled on the quarter deck, which held together and floated. The next day was Sunday, and the men saw sails at various times but were not able to attract the attention of any of these craft. So four days and nights passed. On Thursday, the fifth day, late in the afternoon, they saw a ship coming toward them, which proved to be an American vessel from Castine, Maine, commanded by Capt. Perkins. He at once got the four men on board his vessel and did all in his powers to relieve their wants. The Columbian Sentinel of Boston, Nov. 2, 1805, gave a full account of this memorable wreck, and said that the fishing boat that took four from the wreck did not reach shore until night, so for a long time it was thought that all on board the schooner Active were lost. It is well known that this story became the foundation for Whittier's famous poem of "Old Floyd Ireson" giving the idea that the Betsy left unhelped, men who belonged to her own fishing port. After this adventure on the Active, Robert Dunning never went to sea again. He soon bought a farm at Weld, Maine, far from the ocean. He became a thrifty and highly respected farmer.

The Lithgow Family

This Scottish Family is well accounted for in the old records of Scotland, that it is of Norman origin is fairly certain, because the earliest mention of the name is Magister Symon de Linlithgo, who was a witness at the church of Cargill in 1225. The next mention is of Petrus de Linlithgo who was Canon of the Priory of St. Andrew, Scotland in 1245.

The name had a number of changes in spelling before it came to America, and I will not attempt to list all of the succeeding generations. I will show some of the more interesting characters, the others may be found in either Simnett's genealogy of the Lithgow family, or in Sprague's history.

John de Lithcu was a member of the household of King Robert of Bruce in 1329. Sir John Lithgow's name appears on the tomb of Margery Bruce in the Abbey of Paisley, Scotland. She was King Robert's daughter and the mother of the first of the Royal House of Stuart.

In 1609, three brothers, John, Robert, and David, sons of Thomas Lithgow of Lisnark, Scotland, left Scotland during the rebellion, and became early planters in the north of Ireland, in County Derry. They purchased the town lands of Carr, Pincarsa, Lithgow, Ambrocky, and Lissagelim from the Bishops, the original owners of all the lands in County Derry. Robert Lithgow, above, was the grandfather of the Brunswick Robert Lithgow.

Robert Lithgow was married to Janet McCurdy in Ireland and had three children before coming over. According to Simnett, these were Martha, Margaret, and Mary. The other known children, Jean and William were born here.

According to Sprague, the three children who came over with Robert, were William, Margaret, and Mary. He says that Jean was born here, but makes no mention of Martha. William made a deposition at one time, in which he said he came to Topsham with his father, Robert Lithgow, as a child of 3 or 4 years.

The McCurdys came to County Derry, Ireland and settled in the farmlands of Lisnark early in the 17th century. According to Sprague, they were true Irish.

Capt. Robert Lithgow settled in Topsham in 1727. He sailed with his wife and three children, from Londonderry, Ireland, on the ship Olive, to Boston. They remained in Boston a short while. He settled on lot #29 in Topsham.

In 1723 - 1724, Robert Lithgow was a member of Capt. Giles Company, serving 65 weeks and 6 days, and was detailed for duty under Col. Westbrook's orders. In 1727, he was a member of Mr. Woodside's Company, serving 52 weeks, 3 days, at 30 shillings a week. In 1730, he was a gunner in Benj. Larrabee's Company for 19 weeks, 2 days, receiving 12 pounds, 17 shillings, 2 pence. In 1735 - 37, he served in Benj. Larrabee's Company for 23 weeks.

According to Sprague, he sold his land to William Malcolm in 1746, and he with his wife, spent the rest of his life in Fort Halifax.

According to Simnett, they were living in Topsham in 1752, and they were probably buried in the first cemetery in Topsham, Maine. There are no records preserved, and no legible markings on gravestones.

Martha Lithgow married James Duning in 1729 or 1730.

Margaret Lithgow married Lt. Samuel Howard, who died 4/22/1785, age 84. She was born in Ireland in 1706, and died in Augusta, in 1799.

Mary Lithgow married Adam Hunter, 10/4/1731, who died 12/27/1786, age 75. After his death, she married David Duning, 1/29/1788, after both were over 80 years old.

Jean (Janet) Lithgow, born 1721, married (1st) Mr. McFarland, who died in 1742. Married (2nd) Deacon Samuel Stanwood. She died 2/22/1776, age 55.
The Lithgow Family

William Lithgow, born 1712, died 12/20/1798, aged 86. He married the only daughter of Col. Arthur Noble, Sarah, who died in 1807. As a Captain he drew the second plan and erected most of the buildings of Fort Halifax. He was its only commander after 1755. He was later commissioned a Col. In 1755, upon a plea to Gov. Shirley, that Fort Halifax was desperately in need of supplies, Capt. David Duning and Capt. Adam Hunter, with their independent companies, hauled in supplies from Arrowsic, over the ice on the Kennebec.

David Duning was William's sister's brother-in-law (James wife was Martha Lithgow). Adam Hunter was his brother-in-law, as he was married to Mary Lithgow. He was buried in Phippsburg, Maine on what was known as the Morse estate. His grave was plowed over and no trace of it now exists. A stone existed which read:

IN MEMORY OF
COL. WILLIAM LITHGOW ESQ.
WHO DIED DEC. 20, 1798.
AGE 86.

He was a Justice of the Peace, and Judge of the Court of Common Pleas.
His son William was Major General of the State Militia in the Revolution.
In his deposition he stated that he came to Topsham as a child of 3 or 4 years. This would have made him only 83 when he died.

Children of James Duning and Martha Lithgow:
- Robert, born 1/10/1731, died 10/7/1804
- Mary, born 4/18/1733, died 10/18/1800

John Miller recorded his name in church. That he was long in the church is evidenced by the fact that he was on a committee to obtain a minister, and went to Boston with Deacon Samuel Hinsley to receive Rev. Robert Dudley as minister.   Jean, born 7/25/1757, married Capt. William Dunning about 1/3/1774;
  Elzirn, born 7/20/1758, married William Rogers, 3/25/1776, of Georgetown. They lived in Freeport, he died 1/19/1791, a husband in the old Flying Point Cemetery. Stone says he died 1/3/1791;
  Robert, born 4/12/1760;
  John, born 11/20/1762.

The Stanwood Family

Ebeneezer, born 6/7/1749, died 2/15/1813, married Martha Given of Brunswick, on 10/3/1769. She was born in 1745, died 10/12/1802. He held licenses as innholder, in Portland City Hall in 1773 to 1774, 1777, 1783, 1792, and 1805. She is buried in the old First Parish Cemetery as he probably is.

Children:

Ebeneezer, born 12/17/1768, died 9/13/1792; buried in Old Parish Cemetery.

Sarah, born 8/8/1770, died 1/1738, age 18, married 1/2/1805, Ephraim Morse. (These dates and her marriage are not probable. Sarah Stanwood, daughter of Ebeneezer and Martha Stanwood, died in 1789, aged 18, is buried in the Old First Parish Cemetery. Ephraim must have married another Sarah Stanwood. He was the father of Elizabeth Dunning Morse, wife of John James Dunning. Elizabeth Dunning Morse was born 6/13/1815;)

David, born 6/23/1772, married Sarah Dunning in Freeport, 3/35/1795. He was on the schooner Active with Robert Dunning when it was wrecked in 1803.

John, born 1/28/1774;

Jean, born 3/14/1776, married James Swett;

Mary, born 1/4/1778, married William Swett;

Robert, born 4/15/1811;

Martha, born 7/7/1783, married David Dunning;

Elizabeth, born 8/2/1785, died 1605, married Deacon Aaron Dunning, born 9/3/1779, died 7/17/1861, aged 46 years, 10 months, 6 days. (Deacon Aaron Dunning is listed as adopted). Elizabeth is buried in Bowdoin College Cemetery.

Ebeneezer Stanwood, born 12/17/1768, died 9/13/1792?, married Martha, daughter of Robert and Sarah Spear Dunning, born 1/7/1772. Ethel Stanwood Belton in her genealogy states that they had no children, which of course is not true. Ebeneezer's widow married Joseph Dustin in July of 1796. She married James Hance in 1837. Sinnett in his genealogy of the Dunning family, states that Sarah Stanwood, who was born 9/11/1793, and was married Robert Dunning, son of Andrew and Margaret Miller Ransom Dunning, was the daughter of Ebeneezer and Martha Dunning Stanwood. She was of the 6th generation of Stanwoods in America. She married Robert 3/4/1819. Sinnett also says that he died about 1794. The record of Brunswick marriages has this item, "Aug.9, 1794, Ebeneezer Stanwood and Martha Dunning." If Ebeneezer had died 9/13/1792 it would have been impossible for him to have had a child born 9/11/1793. The inscription on Sarah's headstone says, "Sarah wife of Robert Dunning, died 5/10/1860, age 65". Thus she would have been born before 5/10/1793.

A history of the Reed Family, by Jacob Whitemore Reed, was printed in 1861, in which Mr. Reed ties the Reed name to many of the ancient names of both history and mythology.

In this genealogy, he also gives a history of the Reed family in England, Scotland, Wales, and Ireland, with brief sketches of Reeds in other European countries.

What he actually proved was, that the Reed family was very large, and was spread over the entire British Isles, with many different ways of spelling. He also showed that it is almost impossible to trace all the Reeds who came to America, and lived here in succeeding generations. He does not mention the Reeds of Topham in the early 1700's, who came to America from Ireland in 1717.

The name is spelled variously, in this country, as Reed, Read, Reid, and Reade. There are other spellings recorded, but the connection Mr. Reed gives is, to say the least, vague and doubtful.

In spite of the variety of spelling of the Reed name, it is believed that the majority of the very numerous people, of this name in America, stem from the same clan in the British Isles.

One of the first of the clan, who can be traced directly to many of the American Reeds, was one Brianus de Rede, who was living at Morpeth, on the river Wensbech, in the north of England, in the year 1139.

Without trying to enumerate account for all the various descendants, who would connect them, we come to Thomas Read, Esq., of Barton Court, in the County of Berks, who was living in 1575. He married Ann, the daughter of Thomas Hoo, of the Hoo, in the County of Hertford.

Thomas and Ann Read had a son Thomas who married Mary Stonehouse. Thomas was Clerk of the Green Cloth.

Thomas and Mary Stonehouse Read had a son Thomas who was knighted. He married Mary, daughter of Sir John Brocket, of Hertfordshire.

Sir Thomas, and Mary Brocket Read had three sons, Thomas, John, and James, who were all baroneted.

Sir Thomas, son of Sir Thomas and Mary Brocket Read, married Mary, the daughter of Thomas Cornwall, Lord Strotnshire. Their sons were Comton, Edward, and John. The last three all came to America. Comton and Edward remained in England.

William Read, born 1587, sailed from London on the ship Defence, in July 1635, Capt. Edward Fostick, master. He settled in Dorchester, Mass. first. He was the ancestor of the Worburn Reeds.

John Read of Boston was probably a brother of Col. Thomas Read and William.

Col. Thomas Read came to America in the great fleet in 1630, with Winthrop and others, and settled in Salem, Mass.

Col. Read had a town grant of 300 acres of land in 1637, lying contiguous to that of Gov. Endicott. This became the celebrated farms of Kendall Osborne, Esq. and the Hon. Richard Rogers, in So. Danvers. This tract was known as the Derby Farms for many years. He had other smaller lots. There were but four persons in Salem who had as large grants of land as Col. Read.

Col. Read's wife was named Alice. Their children Thomas, Jacob, and Abraham, and all were probably born in England.

He was a prominent man in the Colony, and held the rank of Col. as early as 1643, and was probably an officer of that rank before he came to America. He was a colonel in the British Army at the restoration of Charles II, in 1660. He died in England in 1663, and his son Abraham settled his estate.

Jacob, son of Col. Thomas Read, was a freeholder in Salem in 1661.

Little is known of his descendants. There is a tradition that he moved south.
Abraham, son of Col. Thomas Read, occupied the farm of his father in So.
Danvers, and purchased land in Salem in 1677. He had a son, Samuel, who returned to England and was a merchant in London.

1 Thomas, son of Col. Thomas Read, was born in England. He married Mary. He probably lived in Lynn at one time. He was appointed Ensign and in 1647 was made a captain. He had several lots of land granted him in Salem of the class called 10 acre lots. He is considered the ancestor of the Reeds who came to Freeport, Maine.

Children:

Susanna, 1649; John, 1651; Mary, 1653; Elizabeth, 1655; Remember,
1657; Jacob, born 12/22/1658, died 9/19/1662; Sarah, born in Salem
3/15/1660, died 3/4/1662; Jacob, 6/7/1663; John, 8/21/1662; Sarah, 10/14/1665.

Thomas probably died soon after the birth of Sarah, as his wife was known as Widow Mary Read soon after that time. The last known of him was in 1666, when he conveyed some land to Richard Richards.

2 Jacob, son of Capt. Thomas Read and Mary, born 6/7/1663, married Elizabeth Greene, daughter of John Greene and Mary Warren, in Salem, Dec.
16, 1693.

Sarah, 5/15/1703; Elizabeth, 3/13/1704.

His will is dated 1/5/1742, and his wife was then living.

William, son of Jonathan, born 1729, married Mary Tuttle and settled first in No. Yarmouth, about 1750. He moved to Segewick in 1760. He was a Captain in The Revolution.

3 Jacob, son of Jacob and Elizabeth Read, born in Salem, 2/4/1699, settled in Gorham, Maine, and was taken prisoner by the Indians.
He died in Sept. of the year he was taken.

3 John, son of Jacob and Elizabeth Read, born in Salem, 1/26/1695, moved Mary.

Children:

Isaac; Mary; John; Bartholomew; Sarah; and Aaron.

He died young and his widow, 10/3/1727, owned the covenant, and was baptized at the Second Parish, Salem, now Danvers.

Bartholomew, 1726 - 1816, son of John and Mary, of the Second Parish in Salem, now Danvers, lived for a time after his majority in Andover, Mass. He married Mary Harris, 2/2/1746, in No.
Yarmouth (Freeport). This was the start of the Reed family in Freeport. He was in the Revolutionary War with 3 sons.

He was on the payroll of Capt. Ebenezer Wester's Co. in the expedition to Rhode Island 8/1778, as a sergeant, served 25 days, was appointed a sergeant in Capt. William Tarlton's Co., 1/21/1773, for an expedition to Canada, also in the siege of Boston during the winter of 1775, and at the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Stephen Burbank, born in Boscawen, N.H., 2/3/1759, married Mary Garvin 11/27/1786. Is he the Stephen Burbank who appears in Canada in about 1800? "Stephen Burbank and his wife, Habitable Orday, and two young sons, Alphonso and Moses, came to the town of Hatley, P.Q. from New Hampshire, and settled on a 400 acre farm in a place now called Laswapedi, twenty miles north of the Vt. line, and about 16 miles from Sherbrooke, P.Q. Stephen Burbank was choked to death with a piece of chicken bone. His widow married a man named Hipwell, and still lived on the farm and tended a grist mill for a Mr. Harvey until both boys were married". Burbank also had a grist mill and built a hotel which is still standing.

There is no absolute evidence that this is the Stephen who settled in Canada, but there is evidence. He is the only Stephen available from New Hampshire. He had a son named Moses, which was his father's and Grandfather's name. There is another Stephen in N.H. who married in New London, 8/8/1799, Lydia Burbank. The name of his wife eliminates him.

If this is the Stephen Burbank who appears in Canada with his wife Habitable, what became of Mary Garvin, whom he married when he was 17 years old. There is no record of her death, nor of his marriage to Habitable. This is not strange as many records are not to be found.

Whether right or wrong, Stephen has been placed as the son of Moses of Boscawen, N.H. and the branch is correct from here on as it is worked out.

Children:

Alphonse Burbank, born 1809, married Caroline Tyler. Lived to Hatley with his parents. Lived in the vicinity the rest of his life. Farmer and blacksmith.

Jacob Anderson came from Duncannon in Ulster County, Ireland, about 1710. He bought portions of the Dummer Claim in No. Yarmouth, (now Freeport) on Flying Point and adjacent islands, Middle Brother, Upper Brother, and Sow and Figs. Married (1st) Agnes Phinney, 12/10/1745, of the Gorham family of Phinneys, who died in 1750 ?. His 2d and 3d wives are not recorded. These dates must be regarded with suspicion as they do not coincide. Children of his first marriage are supposed to be:

Joseph Anderson, born at Flying Point. It says on his headstone he died 2/20/1811, age 68. He married Jane Means, daughter of Thomas Means and Alice Phinney. Jane survived the Means massacre in which her father and baby brother were killed and her aunt taken prisoner by the Indians. Jane carried a bullet in her chest the rest of her life. Rev. James Woodside is supposed to have come to America prior to 1714, but this is not entirely clear. It is said that he remained in Falmouth for a few years prior to 1714. He is said to have built a garrison house at Maquoit. According to Wheeler, his son William came to Brunswick to take charge of this in 1714. This is doubtful, as William was born in 1703, according to the records, and would have been only 11 years old on that date. Rev. Woodside had a son James who was older and possibly had charge of the garrison.

It is said that Rev. Woodside was a minister of the Church of England, but Mrs. Moody disagreed with this. She said that he came from Garvagh, Derry County, Ireland, and was a minister of the Presbyterian Church. This is given some support due to his coming with the Scotch-Irish in 1718. If he came prior to 1714, as is said, he must have returned overseas as he apparently sponsored a shipload of migrants, as is indicated by his petition to the King. The significant part of this read, "he with 40 families of 160 persons did embark on a ship at Derry Lough in Ireland, in order to erect a colony at Casco Bay in Your Majesty's Province of Maine in New England. That being arrived, they made a settlement at a place called by the Indians Pajipscot, but by them Brunswick, within 4 miles of Fort George, where he had a garrison house."

There is a record of a town meeting in Brunswick on 11/3/1718, which voted to give Mr. Woodside of Falmouth, 40 pounds for his keep and a house, if he would come to Brunswick and preach. Also, "that Mr. Baxter's house be made habitable." According to Wheeler, Mr. Baxter's house was on lot No. 6, on the, now, S.E. corner of Maine and Greene streets. These conflicting accounts cannot be resolved by any of the evidence so far at hand. That the Woodsides owned a large tract of land along the shore at Maquoit is certain. It extended all the way over to Bunganuc and included several hundred acres which had belonged to the Church. Part of this land was registered in the name of James Woodside in 1711. Whether this was Rev. James or his son James is not indicated. It was eventually all included in Williams estate, and became distributed among his descendants.

Rev. James Woodside, whether he was Episcopalian or Presbyterian, did not preach to the satisfaction of the people of Brunswick. Therefore at a town meeting, Sept. 10, 1719, he was removed from his position. He and his son James and daughter, with his first wife, returned to England or Ireland is not certain. He sent a portrait of himself to his son, William, done by Gibson, which now hangs in the First Parish Church of Brunswick, Maine.

His son William was the only member of the family known to have remained in Brunswick, but as he had a large family, there are many descendants living in the area of Brunswick, Bath, Topsham, and Freeport.

Capt. William Woodside, born 1703, died 1/31/1778, age 75, buried in the old parish cemetery. Married Anne Vincent, who died 12/1/1745, age 40, daughter of Capt. Wm. Vincent. According to McKeen, William Woodside took command of his father's blockhouse in 1725, which is more reasonable than the date given by Wheeler. He was an imposing man and very forceful. There are many stories about his dealings with the Indians and the other Colonists in the Woodside genealogy. The Indians held him in great awe and he imposed his will over the people of Brunswick to a great extent.

If 1840 was the date of his birth, he would have been the son of Zos Welcher. This seems more probable, due to the age of Laura.

Married (2d) William Woodside, died 11/1/1844, aged 71, son of Vincent and Mary Lamont Woodside

Simnett has the following inconsistencies in Susan Dunlap Dunning Woodside's dates:

Under the Dunning genealogy, he says, "she was born 4/22/1783, died 1833, married Andrew Dunning, born 11/3/1779, died 9/17/1861.
Andrew married (2d) Elizabeth Ransom, died 1835, married (3d) Sophia Ransom in 1841.
Eleanor Dunning, daughter of Andrew and Susan Dunning was born in 5/17/1804. They were married 2/21/1804. Of course this is possible.

2 Jane Dunlap, born about 1747, died 11/21/1841, aged 94, buried in old Riverside Cemetery, Brunswick.
The Means Family (Mains - Maines - Maens)

Thomas Means (Maens, Maines, Mains) born about 1723, died 5/10/1756, was the son of Robert Means (Maines, Mains, Maens) who married a daughter of James Armstrong. Both Robert Means and James Armstrong were of the Irish immigration which landed and spent the winter of 1717 on Flying Point, Freeport, Maine. They went to Cape Elizabeth, but Thomas Means came up the Bay with them to New Point, No. 47, Yarmouth.

Thomas Means (Maens) married Alice Phinney (Finney), who died 2/28/1807

Children:

Alice Means, born 1753, died 4/17/1822, age 69 years. (She is called Mains in Harpswell records.) Married Clement Skolfield, born 1740, died 5/22/1796, age 56. Both are buried in Harpswell Cemetery.

One of their children:

Alice Skolfield, born 11/15/1782, died 5/30/1819, married James Dunning, born 1769, died 1837. (James 4, Andrew 3, James 2, Andrew 1.) Both are buried in Mquoit Cemetery.

George, born 7/11/1780.

Samuel, born 11/3/1787, died 10/21/1826.
Clement, born 5/22/1790, died 2/9/1791.
Mary, born 8/30/1793, died 5/21/1795.

Jane Means, born about 1751, died 10/4/1826, married Joseph Anderson, born 1743, died 2/20/1811, aged 64. Both are buried in Woodlawn Cemetery, Freeport, Maine, having been moved there when the old cemetery at the site of the old town hall, was removed.

(See Anderson.)

Robert Means (Maens), born 1755, died 5/10/1756. He was killed at the same time as his father, in the means massacre. He was buried with his father in the old First Parish Cemetery, Brunswick.

Thomas Means, born about 1757, after his father was killed.

Thomas Means widow married George Rogers, both for the second time.

Child of this marriage was:

Col. George Rogers, born 1/26/1765, died 9/6/1829, who married Rachel Pennell. (See Pennell) (See Rogers)

The following account of the Means massacre was derived chiefly from the papers of Deacon Jonas Mason, who noted them at the time of their occurrence. "Saturday, May 4th, 1756. (This date must be regarded with suspicion, as the date on Thomas Means's stone is May 10th.) A large party of Indians appeared at Topsham, where they separated, one party to go to New Meadows and the other to No. Yarmouth. The latter party at daybreak on Sabbath morning assaulted the house of Mr. Thomas Maines at Flying Point, which though well fortified they finally entered. John Martin was in the chamber of the house with a loaded gun, but not being able in the dark to find it, kept himself concealed. Mr. Maines, his wife and children, and a sister of Mrs. Maines were dragged from the house, finally entered. John Martin was in the chamber of the house with a loaded gun, but not being able in the dark to find it, kept himself concealed. Mr. Maines, his wife and children, and a sister of Mrs. Maines were dragged from the house, and being unable to find it, kept himself concealed. Mr. Maines, his wife and children, and a sister of Mrs. Maines were dragged from the house, and being unable to find it, kept himself concealed. Mr. Maines, his wife and children, and a sister of Mrs. Maines were dragged from the house, and being unable to find it, kept himself concealed. Mr. Mains was shot, meanwhile Mrs. Maines and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Mains and the children succumbed, near to which Mr. Mains was shot. their wounded man, they hastily departed. Mr. Maines and the infant Robert were buried near the old meeting house in Brunswick. The report of the guns was heard by Mr. Eaton at Harpswell, as also by Mr. Babble on Cousins Island who hastened to the assistance of the excited and afflicted survivors of the Maines family." Deacon also noted that Maines was the last inhabitant of the town to be killed by the natives.

Deacon Mason may have spelled the name Maines because he had never seen it in writing. The name on Thomas's stone does read Maens, however and the name is spelled Mains on the marriage intentions of Alice who married Clement Skolfield. The name was probably Mains originally, but spelling was casual at that time and many times was phonetic.

The date on Thomas Maens's stone was May 10th, 1756.

Adam Hunter settled in Topsham in 1718, according to Simnett. He bought 2 lots of 100 acres each for 5 pounds each lot. He was one of the owners of the Cathance Millwright, comprising 125 acres, and owned 1/8 of the double sawmill, in Topsham.

Adam Hunter had lots numbered 30, 31, 34, 35, Isaac Hunter had lot number 37. James Hunter had lots number 35 and 36.

Adam Hunter enlisted in the Revolution at 66 years of age. He served until 1776. (He died 2/27/1776, so he could not have served that long. This is according to his headstone in the old cemetery in Topsham.) He was clerk in Mr. Burne's Co. in 1746. In 1757 he was Capt. of a Company on the Alarm List. In 1755, with Capt. David Dunag, he hauled supplies from Arrowsic to Fort Halifax, over the ice, with their independent companies. He married Mary Litgow, daughter of Robert Litgow.

Gel. James Hunter, born 4/15/1735, died 2/1809.

(However in the genealogy of the Ketham family it states that Adam Hunter's son married Mary Ketham, died 11/7/1776. This could be an error as there is not too reliable.)

Philip Pinel was of the Isle of Jersey, and of French lineage. The family were said to have been Huguenot refugees from France. According to Sinnett his first wife was Ann L. Mortis, and they had two children, Clement and Thomas Pinell. His second wife was Marie L. Hardy and they had two children, Marie and Rachel Pinel. Marie was born 9/16/1705, and Rachel was born 12/12/1712. Clement Pinell was born in 1682. Thomas was born in 1684 and died at Gloucester, Mass., 3/31/1723, age 34 years. He must have been 39. He married Sarah Durin of Gloucester.

More reliable, probably, are the family records, of which, extracts are as follows.

1 Philip Pinel, of the Isle of Jersey, was a very prominent man and of a noble family. He married, first, Denize Le Geyt, who died in 1674. He married, second, 1675, Anne Le Mortais and had 6 children; Marie, Philip, Rachel, John, Clement, and Thomas. She died in 1690. Clement and Thomas came to Gloucester, Mass. on the same ship, where they bought land and settled. Thomas sent a number of letters home which were all written in French, confirming their French ancestry.

2 Thomas Pinell, born 1684, died in Gloucester, 3/31/1723, age 34. Obviously this is wrong. He married Sarah Durin of Gloucester.

3 One of Thomas Penell's children by Sarah Durin was:

4 Thomas Pinell, born 2/25/1720, died about 1770, in Brunswick, Maine. He married, at Falmouth (Portland) Maine, Rachel Riggs, born 3/10/1717. He purchased land in Brunswick and moved there. It is said he died in the house of his son John.

Children:

John, born 1736; Thomas, born 1739; William, born 1741; Lucy, born 1742; Rachel, born 1745; Matthew, born 1749; Stephen, born 1752; Sarah, born 1755; Hannah, born 1757; Affia, born 1763; and Jacob. There is some question about there being a Jacob.

5 John Penell, born 7/18/1736, died 1820, married Mrs. Harriet Graham, who died 1833.

Children:

Hannah Penell, born 2/16/1763, died 11/19/1849, aged 77, married William Spear Jr., born 8/27/1753, son of Dr. William Spear and grandson of Robert Spear, the ancestor in Brunswick.

Margaret Fierpont Penell, born 2/5/1782, died 3/1/1827, aged 42, married Henry Carey, from Hyde County, N.C.

6 Thomas Penell Jr., born 2/21/1739, died 11/25/1812, aged 73, married Alice Anderson of Freeport, Maine, born 1/27/1749, died in Brunswick, 12/25/1839, aged 90. She was the daughter of Jacob Anderson Jr. of Flying Point, Freeport, who married Agnes Phinney of Flying Point, died 1750. (See Anderson)

(Jacob Anderson married three times. Children of Agnes Phinney were: Job, James, Robert, Jacob, Anne, who married Major Thomas Skolfield and Alice, who married Thomas Pennell Jr.

Thomas Pennell Jr. established a large shipyard at Middle Bay. Harriet Beecher Stowe described a launching at the Pennell yard in "The Pearl of Orr's Island". Longfellow described the launching of the Union in "The Launching of The Ship".

Agnes Pennell, born 12/25/1768, died 12/25/1856?, aged 88. Other and older records show that she was born 12/25/1769, died 12/21/1856, aged 87. Her headstone in Harpswell Cemetery says she died 12/21/1856, aged 88. Married (1st) Joseph Dunning, 12/16/1792, born in Harpswell, 5/20/1770, died 11/25/1795, aged 25, son of Benjamin Dunning and grandson of William of York, Maine. Joseph is buried in Harpswell.

Thomas Pennell, born 1774.

Maria Pennell, born 1770.

Jacob Pennell, born 7/17/1778, died 10/10/1838, aged 70, married Deborah Dunning, born in Harpswell, 4/13/1780, died 1/17/1861, aged 81. She was the daughter of Benjamin Dunning and Elizabeth Elwing, granddaughter of William Dunning and Deborah Dornell, and great granddaughter of Andrew and Susan Bond Dunning.

David, John, and William Reed came to Topsham with others of the great migration of Scotch-Irish in 1717-1718. They along with the others had been treated badly by James II, mostly because of religion. They were Presbyterians, and belonged to the Church in Londonderry, Ireland.
