Words of Wisdom.

UNTO THINE OWN SELF BE TRUE

By Grace M. Brown.

How long does it take some of us to realize that we only have to be true to ourselves in order to be true to everyone else?

We seem to have an idea that certain individuals belong to us, and in order to be true to those privileged mortals we must constantly remind them of their blessings in being so owned and so protected—when, if we would only leave out some of our superfluous attention and protection it would be very much more comfortable all around.

When we deprive other human beings of their experiences by shielding them from their discipline in life, we are assuming a good deal of responsibility, besides being false to ourselves and false to them.

Did you ever hear people talk about overcoming personality when at the same time they were wearing out their bodies by sacrificing themselves for one or two persons whom they think they own and consequently love. It is rather comfortable to be unselfish in that way even if it is delusive.

We do not owe ourselves any more nor any less than we owe other people, but our first duty is to ourselves, just as a mother's first duty is to her baby. Through our true attitude of love to ourselves we express love to all the world. Through a mother's attitude of love and service to her child she expresses love to all children—and comes into consciousness of all the wee ones through her own great love.

We come into consciousness through our experiences. We must be true in those experiences. We must live in the highest ideals we know—express ourselves according to the demands of our own being.

It is a fearful bondage when one is afraid of the opinions of people. Sometimes when a man is living a really glorified life he does not suit those who do not comprehend his methods.

If you are poised, if you are loyal to your ideals, you will do what you know to be true, no matter if you stand absolutely alone in your opinion. The truth-seeker who is in earnest frequently finds himself in solitude.

One thing we must realize is that we do not own any one. My children are not mine. It is my privilege to serve them for a time, but when they need me no longer I must surrender them to the world, that they may serve others according to their understanding. If I have inspired them to be true to themselves they will be well qualified to serve. They will realize their individuality and give me a purer, stronger love than had I held them in bondage and declared them mine.

The only way to be free is to leave everyone else in freedom. The only way to be true to others is to be true to yourself.

A Rocky Frolic At Bailey.

JOLLY PARTY HELD AN OUTING THURSDAY.

Exclusive Account Given Below.

"The Pinnacle" of picnic pleasure was attained on Thursday evening last by an enthusiastic mixture of cottagers, and boarders from "The Seaside." The various committees arranged all details with the skill of old campaigners, and the only noticeable clashes were those of the thirty pair of jaws as they worked on the seemingly endless list of goodies provided. Fires, four in number, lit up Nature's rock bound dining-room and the male contingent had their time fully taken up in baking clams, boiling water and making coffee. Two quite youthful Bailey natives, for a consideration of Uncle Sam's minor coins, scratched gravel for the clams Mr. Stanley brewed the coffee and thereby earned canonization; a gilded wreath of coffee berries will encircle the brow of his bust which a grateful multitude proposed to place in Bailey Casino. The Engineer-in-chief of this festive occasion was Mr. C. J. Oliphant, may his shadow ever grow wider but no longer. To mention all the assistant engineers would call for more space than the most generous "Breeze" could be expected to blow us to; suffice it to say that the lobster-salad team, the mayonnaise twins the sandwich trio, the cakeites, the oliveites, etc., etc. were all past mistresses and masters of their various departments, photos and references furnished on application. Our Roll Call was as follows: Mesdames, Abbe, Burnham, Starr, d'Espard, Misses Arnold, Glover, Hawley, Howell, Miel, Pratt, Quinn, Starr, Stokes, Waugh, Ida Waugh, Whiting, Yawger, d'Espard.

Messrs. Brower, Burnham, Bruns, Cumston, Hubbell, Oliphant, Peck, Snyder, Starr, B. Starr, Stokes, d'Espard.

MERRICONEAG HOUSE.

PLEASANT DRIVES AND SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENTS THE ORDER NOW.

Large List of Guests.

Sunday morning Mrs. J. A. Tucker of the Merriconeag House chaperoned a party of young ladies on a very pleasant drive to Basin and Ash Point, and they all gave a vote of thanks for the ride. She is thinking of chaperoning the same party at another time on a visit to Merry-meeting Park, Bath and to take dinner at the Casco Castle.

Robert B. Bibber entertained the guests of the Merriconeag House with a musical entertainment on Monday night.

Mr. Richard Harlow of the 1492 Company, and a party of gentlemen took dinner at the Merriconeag House and when they went away they said it was the prettiest place they had visited in Casco Bay.

Mrs. Spaulding and daughter Helen have returned to the Merriconeag House after a very pleasant visit to Hampton Beach.

Pleasing Recital.

Stockholders and Friends Entertain Entire Populace at Cottage Hill.

Of such superior excellence are all the recitals given under the auspices of the Stockholders of Cottage Hill, Bailey's Island, that the announcement that an informal program would be rendered on Wednesday evening, August 3rd attracted nearly every islander to this beautiful little structure.

The evening's entertainment opened with a group of violin numbers, rendered beautifully by Miss Josephine Rice Thorpe. These consisted of two gavottes by Bach and Cradle songs of the French, Russian and Norwegian nations.

Three selections from the gifted pen of Sara King Wiley, which have appeared in such magazines as Harper's, were read and won much applause both because of the intrinsic beauty of the author's thought and style and for the readers delightful rendition of the same. The selections were—"The Fawn, The Poppy Garden and 'The Secret of the Spring Winds.'"

Another contribution from the repertory of Miss Thorpe consisted of Will-o'-the-Wisp by Jensen and a Romance by Weinlawski.

The event of the evening was a reading by Clara Louise Burnham. Her's is a name already far famed in the realm of letters and those who heard her on Wednesday evening were especially favored in the rare privilege of listening to a scene, "The Flower Quest," from the new book which she has just finished and will publish this fall. The conception was most poetic and elevating and interpreted as she could alone interpret her own ideas. The closing number was an instrumental trio, Miss Thorpe playing the violin, Mr. Woodman the organ, and Miss Bertha Schoff the piano, at which instrument she had presided most commendably during the entire evening.

MINSTRELSY.

MERE POINT AND NEIGHBORING RESORTS ENJOYED AN UNUSUALLY SPARKLING ENTERTAINMENT LAST SATURDAY.

Many Prominent and Popular Personages in the Cast.

The event in which the maximum of interest for sojourners at Mere Point centers in the Minstrel show, which is annually held in the Casino. This season the programme, an unusually sparkling one, was rendered on last Saturday evening, and as all the participants were prominent and popular personages, several of whom hold reputations for histrionic ability, a record breaking concourse of spectators was in attendance. Subsequent to the literary and musical feast dancing was participated in by about fifty couples. For interlucator the management was fortunate in securing such a capable performer as Geo. Flood of New York, leading man in the Julia Marlowe Stock Company. The End Men were: Dr. Harris H. Wilder of Smith College, Northampton, Mass.; Dr. Woodbury Pulsifer of Washington, D. C.; John W. Riley of Brunswick and Philip Young of Portland, the genial purser of the Steamer Maquoit.

The Circle consisted of—Messrs. Henry Johnson, Sinclair, A. Thompson, Frederick Cram, John P. Winchell and E. G. A. Stetson, M. D. all of Brunswick; John Lagron of Bath, G. Allen Howe and John Kincaid of Lewiston; Woodbury K. Howe

Cor. Exchange and Federal Sts., Portland, Me.

of Groton, Mass. and George Griffin of Washington, D. C.

End man Young started the mirth and hand clapping by his excellent rendition of "Home Ain't Nothin' Like This." John P. Winchell followed with "The Face in the Fire" and the entire company gave voice to "It was Not Like This in the Olden Days." The second part of the entertainment was varied and clever. Willie Small of Portland, Jacob Ham of Lewiston, Eddie Southard of Brunswick and Samuel and Nelson Chase of Lowell, Mass., contributed a Pickaninny dance. A vocal solo by Miss Maude Pennell of Lewiston was well received and Henry Johnson of Brunswick and Philip Young of Portland did great execution in a clog dance. Mrs. Geo. Floyd of New York sang beautifully, and the Misses Mae Despreaux and Maude Pennell of Lewiston rendered a specialty act duet. Soule's Submarine Band played out a grand finale to a most mirth producing program.

at the piano.

Rev. D. R. Fraser of Newark, N. J. a guest of Mr. Currier, enjoyed a most delightful sail among the islands of the inner bay.

The guests both of the Merriconeag and Ocean View hotel attended in numbers the "Euchre" that took place at this hotel August 9th a most enjoyable time was had.

IN AUGUST NATIONAL.

The National Magazine for August contains a beautiful half tone portrait, of the late musical composer, Dr. George F. Root, who was so dearly loved by many of the older summer residents and residents of Bailey Island, where his widow, son Charles T. Root and family; and daughter Clara Louise Burnham, the gifted authoress, now spend their summers.

Mr. Wm. H. Heburd, Mrs. E. W. Bolles, Mr. A. G. Bolles, Miss Helen Bolles and Miss Frances I. Burnett made up a party from Springfield.

Mr. D. B. Thomas of the firm of Thomas Bros., wholesale fish dealers Philadelphia, with his friend Mr. Hust, arrived Monday. This is their third visit to the Ocean View. They will be here for about two weeks.

Hon. R. E. Walker, Justice of the Supreme court of New Hampshire, is spending his vacation at this house. Judge Walker has been on the Supreme bench for three years. His daughter is here spending the vacation with him.

At a whist party held Saturday evening the play was very close and exciting. Three were tied for the first prize, a sweet grass handkerchief box, which was won on the cut by Mr. Leonard Pierce. The first prize for ladies was won by Mrs. H. S. Woodis. It was a glove box made of sweet grass. Tally was kept by adding shells to a ribbon which was attached to a mussel shell on which was painted a picture of half-way rock. This was the work of Miss K. E. Gilmour and made a very pretty souvenir.

Capt. Pinkham, in the Florence E., took out a jolly party Friday afternoon. Mrs. A. M. Parkhurst, Miss Edna Parkhurst, Miss Ida H. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Woodis, Mrs. Seely, Miss E. L. Blair and Miss K. E. Gilmour. The party went out past Mark Island and Eagle Island and up through the Merriconeag sound.

Mr. Leonard Pierce has attained the eminence of first runner fisher at the house. His reputation as such is constantly increasing.

Mr. J. C. Cleveland and wife with their children, Gladys M. and Guy M. who have been sojourning at the house, have returned to their home in Worcester. They have been here ten days.

Misses Bessie M. and Alma R. Hurlburt and Miss Bessie M. Carr, of Beverly, Mass., arrived Sunday for a stay of one week.

A party of eight from the launch, Minnie, took dinner at the house, Sunday. The launch delayed its schedule for half an hour while the party was at dinner.

Many new tourists are coming in daily and one and all are greatly delighted with the beauties of this ideal island.

WOODBINE AND COTTAGE.

EXCEEDINGLY BUSY WEEK AT THIS WELL LOCATED HOUSE.

All Kinds of Pleasant Enjoyment.

A sailing party composed of Messrs. John H. Small III, Allan W. Miller, George E. Lyman, Dr. George F. Lewis and the Misses Helen M. and Madison R. Small, was taken last Friday on a tour of inspection of Mark and Jacques Islands.

Dr. George F. Lewis and wife and Miss Mary F. Lewis of Collinsville, who arrived at Woodbine cottage last week, have been renewing acquaintanceship with the many local summer visitors with whom they were popular last season.

Miss Gertrude Holleran of Portland, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Sabina Holleran, at Woodbine cottage, returned home Sunday.

The Woodbine cottage contingent was augmented this week by the arrival of C. H. Denner and wife of Hackensack, N. J. They will be joined in a few days by their son.

Among the late arrivals at Woodbine cottage, Bailey Island are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Behrens of Washington, D. C. Mr. Behrens holds the important office of Illustrious Potentate of Almas Temple, A. A. O. N. O. M. S. and is very prominent in the business and social life of the capital. Mrs. Behrens, a charming woman, is one of the most gracious hostesses of the district. They are visiting Casco Bay but for a brief period and are being entertained by their friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Small, Jr., also of Washington.

The first in a series of whist parties held in the parlors of Woodbine cottage was played last Monday evening. The winners were Miss Mary Lewis of Cummingsville, Conn., and Miss Madison Small of Washington, D. C.

Miss L. Louise Taylor of New York City, accompanied by her nephew, Robert G. Taylor, who have been summering at Harpswell, joined the tourist colony on Baileys this week.

SEASIDE AND COTTAGE.

THIS PROMISES TO BE THE MOST SUCCESSFUL MONTH EVER EXPERIENCED AT THIS POPULAR HOUSE.

Applications are Being Refused Daily.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hay, were at Old Orchard Thursday. They went down early and came back on the evening boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mellor and their grandson, Loyd Mellor Smith, went to Brunswick, Thursday. They took a carriage at Orr's Island and drove over and back.

Mr. Claude J. Oilphant of New York, finished his two weeks vacation. He thoroughly enjoyed his visit on the island. He has been here for quite a number of years.

Mrs. Wm. Whiting of East Orange, N. J., left Monday after a vacation spent here, of about ten days' duration. Her daughter, Miss Lulu R. will remain during the month of August.

Miss Jean Kuk Howell and friend, Miss Isabel S. Arnold, who have been here since late in June, returned home August 16.

ROBINHOOD INN.

THIS IDEAL SPOT AT ITS VERY BEST.

Many Applications could not Be Filled

Miss L. E. Tallis of Philadelphia has returned home after a most delightful two weeks spent at the Inn. The guests had a silhouette party Wednesday evening which was very interesting. All are having a pleasant time this season.

There were several sailing parties held last week and many points of interest in this vicinity were visited. Many who are here find much pleasure wandering through the meadows and over the hills for the various berries that abound.

Rowing and fishing continue to be popular methods of recreation. The cove by the willows is well protected and has many good landing places. It is as smooth as a lake, a good share of the time.

CASCO BAY HOUSE.

THIS HOUSE ENJOYING A MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON.

The Week a Round of Pleasure.

Thursday the Long Island baseball team played their second game with the Fort McKinley and won by the score of 7 to 6. This gives each team one game in the series. The final game will be played Saturday, probably at the Fort McKinley grounds. The battery for Long Island was Larabee and Smith.

Both the hotel and the two cottages are filled to overflowing and many are turned away every day. August promises to be the most successful month the house has ever had.

Saturday morning the employees of the Burroughs screen factory, 90 in number, came over to Long Island. They held a field day on Cushing's field, taking in every kind of sport, and later they had dinner in the casino. The occasion was a very enjoyable one.

The Iron Moulders union of Portland also held a field day Saturday. They came early and went on the 5.30 boat. Dinner was served in the casino at 1 o'clock. There were 30 in the party.

Mr. and Mrs. George G. Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Mason and Miss Marguerite Mason, all from Medfield, Mass., arrived at the house Friday for a sojourn of two weeks. The party was here last season also.

Mr. Henry E. Junod and wife, Mr. and Mrs. G. Luckhurst, Mr. D. S. Leach and Miss Leach make a considerable addition to the Montreal contingent that is here at the house. There are 18 Montreal people at the house.

The dance Saturday evening was another in the long line of successful ones conducted by the Casco Bay house. The music by the orchestra was particularly good and many remarks of commendation were heard.

The Casco Bay House has been greatly delighted over some of its recent arrivals. The Governor Dingley brought the most attractive of these viz. The Grand Duke of Arlington, Lord Byron, and Mr. James Laffey, who honored the island with their presence last year.

Miss Laura Barker and Mr. Laffey have charmed the guests with their music. Miss Evelyn Halleck has made all merry with her witty jokes. Miss Madge Tilton, "I'm a tellin' you" is most talented in her southern imitations. Miss Bert Sellack thinks this island is a "goodly" place and the scenery is "slightly." Mr. Clifford and Mr. Walter Burt have been a great addition to the general good times.

Miss Madge Sifton gives a "pit" party Tuesday evening when the best time of the island is expected.

Miss Lorton of New York City also stopping at the Casco Bay House has also contributed to the others enjoyment, by her fine soprano solos.

Dirigo House.

THE SEASON AT THIS POPULAR HOUSE AT ITS HEIGHT.

Many Have Re-engaged Rooms.

Mr. J. L. Rogers and Mr. W. H. Langtree of Cambridge were down over Sunday on a visit to Mr. B. F. Leighton.

A progressive euchre party was held Thursday night at which there were eight tables. The games were very close and it was necessary to cut for many of the prizes.

A blind musician from New York, who has been at several of the island resorts, was at this house Friday evening. He gave a wonderful exhibition of piano playing, after which he whistled several selections. He then talked very interestingly on Helen Keller and her methods.

Mrs. George Blacklock and the Misses Blacklock left Monday morning for their home in Montreal, after a very pleasant stay here of four weeks duration. They have been at the house many seasons before and have already engaged rooms for next year.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Emery and daughter, Miss Elinor P. of Boston, left the house after a vacation here of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Y. Peck of Wyoming, N. J., left Friday after a two weeks stay here. They enjoyed their vacation so much that they engaged rooms for next season.

HILL CREST.

THE PAST WEEK HAS BEEN MOST PLEASANT FOR THE GUESTS.

Deep sea fishing, tennis, and music are most popular.

A whist party was given on Tuesday evening, prizes being taken by Mr. John Hess, Mrs. W. D. Chase, Mrs. E. O. Marvin and Mr. Charles Treadway.

Mrs. B. F. Todd of Middletown has been here several weeks. She is quite a talented musician. Her daughter, Marie Todd, shows indications of like nature. Several duets have been enjoyed by the guests of the house.

Miss Josephine Burgraff, who has delighted Hill Crest guests for several seasons with her very pretty voice, has just arrived for a short stay.

Miss May Bissell and Miss Adelaide Hardman are expert tennis players, and are seen nearly every day on the court. Mr. Treadway and Mr. Rogers are not far behind in the craze for the game. Many exciting games are seen. A match game is expected very shortly with a Summit House team.

Capt. Seabury took a party from the house on a deep-sea fishing trip and brought home a large catch.

A ball game was played between Long Island and the Hill Crest team Saturday. The team would like other games, address W. C. Rogers, manager, L. G. Treadway, captain.

SUMMIT HOUSE.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON THIS HOUSE HAS EVER KNOWN.

Old Guests Return, and Many New Ones Come.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Howard and daughter, Marie, of Albany, N. Y., arrived Thursday for a stay of three or four weeks. Mr. Howard is U. S. Army Paymaster for the state of New York. This is his third season at this house.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. C. Emerson of Medford, Mass., with their three children Mark, Ralph and Irene, came to the house Wednesday. Mr. Emerson and family have enjoyed the beauties of this place, for the past two seasons.

Sailing parties are one of the ways our guests have of finding pleasure. These beautiful August days. On Wednesday a party went as far as Freeport.

Mrs. C. J. Marsh and daughter Jessie B. Marsh of Newark, N. J., left Thursday after a stay of several weeks. This is the third season they have enjoyed themselves at this house.

The bathing facilities on the great sandy beach, near the house, are unsurpassed. It is one of the most popular methods of pleasurable recreation, and is indulged in by many of the guests.

HAMILTON VILLA

MORE GUESTS ARE HERE THAN EVER BEFORE IN THE HISTORY OF THE VILLA.

Many Have Been Turned Away.

Mr. Oscar S. Greenleaf and wife of Springfield, Mass., arrived Friday night, for a stay of a few weeks.

The "Worcester Jollity" a party of Worcester people, take daily trips on the water. They are thoroughly enjoying themselves during this fine weather.

Mr. Milton G. Snyder of Worcester, is considered by those who have heard him, to be one of the best baritone singers in that city. His many admirers hope to hear him often before he leaves.

The Misses Fraser and Miss Pope of Quebec, who are spending a pleasant vacation here, have been at the Villa during three previous seasons.

Miss Ruth and Miss Louise Bell of Brooklyn, N. Y., are here for their third season. Miss Eleanor Townsley has also been here two seasons before.

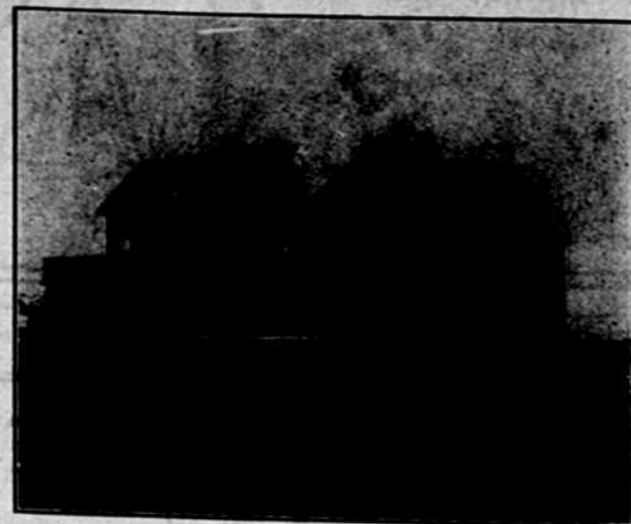

A Boy's Composition on Breathing.

Breath is made of air. We breathe with our lungs, our liver, our liver and our kidneys. If it wasn't for our breath we would die when we sleep. Our breath keeps the life going through the nose when we are asleep. Boys that stay in a room all day should not breathe, they should wait until they get out doors. Boys in a room make bad, unwholesome air, they make carbonic acid gas. A heap of soldiers was in a black hole in India and a carbonic acid got in that, their hole, and nearly killed every one a fore morning. Girl's kill the breath with corsets, that squeeze the diaphragm. Girls can't hoister or run like boys because their diaphragm is squeezed too much. If I was a girl I had rather be a boy, so I can run and hoister and have a great big diaphragm.

Used Peruna For Dyspepsia With Great Benefit.

HON. M. C. BUTLER,
Ex-United States Senator from South Carolina.

Ex-U. S. Senator M. C. Butler, from South Carolina, was Senator from that State for two terms. In a recent letter from Washington, D. C., he says:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."—M. C. Butler.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Peruna is a cathartic remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh of the stomach.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Curiosity.

Jimmy—Come on down an' see the freak. Do lawyer on de next floor has a new boy.

Micky—How do you know he's a freak?

Jimmy—Why, the lawyer advertised for a boy dat wasn't fond of baseball.—Chicago News.

Strapped.

She—What would you give for my hand?

He (fondly)—My heart.

She—Oh, don't be sentimental. Marriage is a business affair.

He—In that case, I'm afraid ours would be a failure.—Detroit Free Press.

Effect of the Reaction.

Uncle Eph—Boss, wot's dis watah-milhon wuth?

Uncle Eph—Um—got any turnips, boss.—Chicago Tribune.

There are 50,000 hotel transients in New York every day, and 10,000 persons embark every week at this port on foreign-bound steamships.

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"YOUNG WOMEN:—I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods. I am most grateful."—NETTIE BLACKMORE, 28 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.—$5000 for it if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

If there is anything about your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She will hold your letter in strict confidence. She can surely help you, for no person in America can speak from a wider experience in treating female ills. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass.; her advice is free.

Bailey Island

Mr. Paul D. Cram, Harvard 1902, has been appointed principal of one of the high schools in Porto Rico. There are only four such schools on the island. Mr. Cram returns to Porto Rico about the middle of September.

Mr. John Leonard of Lewiston and family have arrived at the Ida York cottage for a stay of some time.

There were quite a few visitors Sunday to the Giant Steps, Pebble and the Thunder Hole. Many took photographs of the places visited.

The repairs of the Harpswell Steamboat company are making alterations at the Mackerel Cove wharf. They are putting in a slip which has been greatly needed for some time. It will be greatly appreciated by the heavy shippers.

The sloop Arthur Franklin has been condemned, and it is expected that it will be drawn up on the beach soon and be dismantled.

Miss Claudine Mann, who has been visiting in New Hampshire, arrived Monday at her brother's, Mr. Riborg Mann. She will be here about two weeks.

Mrs. James S. De Hart is expected to arrive at the Seward cottage, Aug. 19. She will stay until October.

The many friends of Mrs. James Doughty will be pleased to learn that she is improving steadily. She sat up Saturday for the first time.

Mr. Wm. Z. Ripley, professor of economics at Harvard university, arrived Friday at his cottage on the island. Prof. Ripley has just returned from a European trip. Mrs. Ripley and the children have been here for some time. It will be remembered that Prof. Ripley and family were here two seasons ago.

Dr. J. L. Seward of Orange, N. J., arrived last week at his cottage on the island. His own boat, the knockabout Clarissa, came into the cove later in the day. It is expected that many pleasant trips will be taken during Dr. Seward's stay here.

Fish has been a scarce article during the last few weeks, but by much perseverance most of the regular houses here have succeeded in furnishing it.

Sunday was one of the best days of the entire summer at Bailey's. There was hardly a cloud in the sky and just breeze enough to be comfortable. Many took advantage of the fine weather and walked over the island and along the shore.

That Bailey's is becoming more and more popular as a place to spend a short visit was proved by the number of visitors last Sunday. There were several large parties who came on the first boat, took dinner and went away on the second boat. The time between was spent on the rocks, or in taking photographs of the almost innumerable beauty spots that abound on the island.

A very pleasant dance was held Thursday evening at Cottage hall. There was quite a good attendance and the affair was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Tennis continues to be one of the most popular games played on the island. There are several courts laid out now, and they are used almost continually.

Capt. Pinkham has been exceedingly busy during the past week. He has taken a great many parties out, and all around the praises of the Florence E. and her crew. A party went out Sunday afternoon and had a delightful time, for the conditions for a good sail were almost ideal.

Bathing is very popular here. Last week saw some one in the water at Mackerel Cove, every day, and on the pleasant days a great many took advantage of the opportunities offered. Bathing at Bailey's is always a rejuvenation.

Many of our summer visitors spend a good part of their time on the water. They are fast learning the intricacies of seamanship, and are getting good healthy tans at the same time.

Mr. Humphrey Smetton returned home the latter part of last week from a sea trip. He has been out sword-fishing.

SCIENCE NOTES.

Clothes washing by electricity, without soap, is the idea of a Hungarian. The stream of electrified water is claimed to remove all spots and dirt, and the three hundred garments held by the machine are washed in less than 15 minutes.

The city of Paris has this year opened a scientific information bureau at the Sorbonne, and the inquiries already reach as many as twenty in single days. While special consideration is given to scientific matters in Paris and France, foreign subjects of French interest receive attention.

A remarkable instance of apparent mimicry in Ceylon has been brought to notice by Dr. A. Willey. A fish, commonly known as the sea bat, strikingly resembles a decayed leaf, and a recent observer reports pursuing one of these fishes with a small net, when the creature suddenly disappeared, and the pursuer saw only a yellow leaf leaf gently and inertly sinking to the bottom. As he turned away, the supposed leaf righted itself and darted off.

The appearance of solidity in photographs—the stereoscopic effect—is usually given by two pictures taken from a slightly different viewpoint. Dr. Gradenwitz describes a new single lens that shows a far-distant image of a photograph, free from distortion, and under the same conditions of apparent size, distinctness, perspective, light and shade as those under which the objects themselves would be seen with a short photographic objective. This conveys to the eye a very natural effect, suggesting unconsciously a correct perception of relief and distances.

The steam-heating and electric-lighting combination now being tested by Dresden promises to open a new era in municipal economy. A huge central station of the Saxon government contains ten generators, producing over 55,000 pounds of steam per hour, and is distributed through street mains to the Royal Opera House, the Picture Gallery, the Zwinger Museum, the Royal Palace, and other buildings. After the morning heating, little steam is needed to keep up the temperature, so that most of the supply can be used for generating electricity, for lighting and other purposes during the latter part of the day.

Power of Radium's Heat.

Lord Kelvin has been approached to see whether he is prepared to admit that radium, as a widely-diffused element of the earth's composition, could suffice to account for the long eons during which geologists assert that this planet has existed. His lordship hesitates. He doubts whether it is yet proved that radium gives out for any length of time the marvelous amount of heat which has been recorded during the short period the element has been under observation. If radium does emit this heat—which is by far its most astounding property so far—then the veteran physicist thinks, like Mme. Curie, that it must receive, and be constantly receiving, energy from some cosmic store, transmitted somehow by ethereal waves. Sir Oliver Lodge thinks this hypothesis has been shown "to be in many respects feasible, though, taken all round, unlikely and rather artificial." The subject is altogether one on which it is better to suspend judgment than to theorize at present.—London Telegraph.

Bacteria in Game.

The gamey flavor of meat is gained by the bacteria feeding upon it. These develop within an hour after food is exposed on pantry shelves, and long before the flavor is appreciable to the senses the bacteria that produce them are abundant.

A Mexican War History.

Prof. Justin H. Smith of Dartmouth college is at present traveling in Mexico superintending the collection of material for a history of the war between Mexico and the United States.

Ironware and Wooden.

The observant and thrifty house-keeper notices that woodenware of nearly every kind has increased in price of late, and that galvanized iron and granite ware is taking its place. She can buy a galvanized iron tub, for example, a little cheaper than she can a wooden one, and it will wear longer. There are two reasons for this. The supply of woods suitable for making tubs, pails, chopping bowls and other household utensils is growing less every year; and, second, improved methods in the manufacture of iron and granite wares have made it possible for them to be sold at lower prices than were asked a few years ago.—Philadelphia Record.

The Wrong Notion.

"I would like to get a ribbon for my typewriter," said the man to the woman with the yellow, home destroying hair behind the notion counter of a department store.

"Woman or machine?" asked the clerk.

"Machine."

"Stationery counter to your left."—Cleveland Leader.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 11, 1904.

The houses are crowded.

The innerbay trip is enjoyed by many.

The lobster embargo continues at South Harpswell and short ones are not to be had or even seen.

Our Register of Tourists is assuming larger proportions than ever. It is selling lots of papers also.

A hotel man in Jackson, N. H., has rebuilt his house twice during the last two years after being burned out twice
and is going to open for the season Saturday.

The afternoon performances at the Gen are being taken in by many of the bay people, also Riverton park's famous open air theatre.

Judging from the Register the Casco Bay house and Dirigo house at Long Island are having a very noticeable rush of business.

Fish stories are often told but here
in Casco Bay you can tell a good one
and yet not deviate from the truth.
Forty pound cod are now reckoned
among the possibilities.

Just think of sword fish being sold
for 2 1/2 cents a pound by the wholesale in Boston. Do you wonder the fishermen are not making any money
this summer.

The sheriff question is about all
one hears of in politics hereabouts.
You would hardly think a president
was to be elected or a governor chosen.

PULL TOGETHER.

"United we stand, divided we fall,"
let that be the motto of Casco Bay,
and more especially of our hotels and boarding houses. We have a number of excellent houses on each of the larger islands, catering to the summer
trade—the best of them are advertisers in the Breeze. By a concerted effort these houses can give the bay
a prominence and reputation which will react to the personal profit of the proprietors.

A general good feeling exists among nearly all of these houses but the human frailty towards jealousy and selfish greed has crept in and is a menace
to the larger, unlimited success
and progress of Casco Bay. Jealousy is always reprehensible, it mingles the one who gives away to its malign influence so that he cannot possibly put forward his best efforts and it causes him to do and say much which inures a competitor and leads to remorse and self-detestation. Selfishness, too, is unpardonable. Enough tourists already visit these waters to guarantee a fair living to all the houses now doing business, and the United States holds enough others who can easily be persuaded to make this the scene of their summer's outing if you but employ the right and legitimate course. It is not bickering and "inter-se" quarrelling, a running down of a rival's accommodations or such petty, senseless actions that will make you or your house popular—it is the superiority of your service and your own genial endeavors to make your guests' visit one of unalloyed
pleasure.

We are glad that it is only the minority and the inferior houses which are thus short-sighted, spoiling the bay's chances, they are the unprogressive ones who lazily and penuriously
neglect to make business for themselves and build up a clientele, depending as they do for the filling of their rooms upon the overflow from other houses which advertise and thus make themselves known to prospective tourists. They think but of themselves and of the brief present.
The wise landlord is he who prefers
to make a smaller profit but holds his trade and increases it as each year

comes and goes.

The clear visioned and sagacious
hotel keepers of the Bay are co-operating to make this the Mecca whither will flock an ever-increasing concourse of vacationists. They trust for patronage to their own merit and to their clients' appreciation of their whole-souled, best endeavors. They know well that sharp practice and cunning deception or misrepresentation
though it may profit them for a brief time will eventually discover its preference to continue in business and establish a reputation for honesty, cor-tesy and generosity. Their idea is to popularize the Bay and then win for themselves what share they fairly
may of the profits.

We trust we will not be misunder-
stood on the question of competition
—it is the life of trade—and by all means let there be plenty of it—the more the merrier, only let it be such competition as no man needs to blush
for. Let the competition be in display
of ability, energy, open-heartedness,
and progressiveness. Leave carping criticism and back-biting to rivals to those who know no better, to those whose souls are so warped and minds
so depraved that they must resort to this base procedure. We all know now we soon learn to despise one who is ever in search of some unflattering
remark or libel to make at another's
expense—as it thus is with an individual in private life so also as regards
a class or a public personage. Our hotel proprietors of the Bay are very much in evidence and are constantly
being judged and classified by tourists. Deport yourselves as you would be known and do not forget that it takes more than an individual or even the Breeze to promote the welfare of the entire Bay—we must have a united effort—we must all "pull together."
Are you with us?

BEAUTIFUL GREAT CHEBEAGUE.

A visitor, and he not of the impressionists, fresh (O,
what a paradoxical use of the word!) from sun-favored Boston
was landed this week at Great Chebe-ague. Like every other comer to this land of paradise he is loud in praise
of its attractions and advantages and as his estimation of this, our largest and most popular island, is that of a sentient and unprejudiced observer,
we are glad to print in these columns,
feeling fully confident that each of our readers will find its every word a re-echo of his or her own mental vibrations. Making his advent on the most ideal day of this summer what more fitting than that of the 365 islands
(one for every day in the year)
Chebeague should win his favor?

Being a humanitarian, a Philadelphian in the name's first meaning, he first focused his thoughts upon the inhabitants, both permanent and transient. He found them genial, hospitable, thinking fairly and acting up to their best thoughts as consistently as frail, peaceably humanity can. He sorted them into different classes, divided and subdivided them into groups and individuals; he traced pet follies and foibles, errors, shortcomings, mistaken ideas, misdirected energies, and such other weaknesses as flesh is heir to,
but—above and beyond and before all
he found the individual, the group, the class, the transient and the permanent resident—all striving to live as man
should, safeguarding his own rights
and privileges but respecting those
of others, eager to advance himself but at the same time equally desirous of lending a helping hand and cheerful encouragement to such others
as need the same. His visit to Chebeague, the greater, made him still firmer in the conviction that Christians need no "Koran teaching the law of love," it is deep grown in their hearts.

Being a student of geography and geology, he traveled and made circuit
of the island, learned that it is beautifully situated near the center of the inside bay, a delightful one-hour
sail from Portland, that it has two steamboat landings for the Harpswell line and that seven round trips are made there daily. Rough and rugged through its general outline is, several unusually fine bathing beaches have been given to it by the generous mother nature. The rock formation is of peculiar interest to students of this department of science and the soil
though inclined to be weak can by proper fertilization and a wholesome
renunciation of idleness be rendered productive of very satisfactory crops.
Such material things as wood, berries
and like commodities, are plentiful.
The island affords some very beautiful drives and rambles and has every advantage possible in the line of formation.

The visitor was a student of history
and from records and the oral utterances of such men as have lived
and made history on the island concluded that in all disregard of the authority of Messrs. Webster and Worcester "progress" might well be spelled, C-h-e-b-e-a-g-u-e. Her past history is a satisfactory chronicling of consistent, patient effort at upbuilding
ambitious conceptions and brave efforts toward their working out. The present day history shows a lively interest in current affairs that promise to operate towards the island's advantage as is instanced by such accomplishments as their successfully conducted high school and their agitation of the advisability and desirability of self-separation from the township of Cumberland. We read,

yes, and can observe, that Chebeague's
summer colony is fast growing and for this some credit reverts to the island's commendable activity along proper lines. The future should be written large in the development and perfection of present aims and labors
and such others as time brings forward and there is every indication that history's future pages will be as largely gratifying to read from a Chebe-ague standpoint as are those already written.

Being himself a broad-minded and public spirited man, this observer took note of the island's spirit of thrift
and progressiveness and traced there-
from a logical and positive sequence, to ever-increasing power. Each man's business so overlaps, grows into or out of his neighbor's that the individual's betterment and advance sets
the pace for the public progress and
the individual, having in a measure
grasped this fact, is commendably en-terprised in promoting his own weal
by improving his neighbor's opportunities. It was gladly surprising to feel
this spirit of thrift, this larger living,
the sturdy manhood which seeks for unhindered exercise of private and public rights and is greatly concerned about the oblation of such now
existing errors in their social system
as incline to render the younger generation "tax of anathema" in this regard.
Chebeague will not suffer imposition
or undue deterioration; the island's motto is "Excelsior" and invites admiration for this very attitude. Look at her from what point you will, and as critically as you will and she will elicit your almost involuntary exclamation, "Beautiful Great Chebe-ague!"

MEN GROWING TALLER.

Our Ancestors of Mediaeval Times
Puny Compared With Athletes
of Today.

A walk through the Tower of London will convince any person that the armor-clad knights of mediaeval days
were puny men compared with the athletes of today.

The experiment of getting into suits
of old armor in country houses has often proved that the "legs" are far too short for the average man of the present generation.

A well known anthropologist at the British museum says that undoubtedly the British race is taller than it was several hundred years ago.

"I think, however, that the mediaeval man was deeper chested and broader in the shoulders," he said.
"The old armor, if a man of good average height could squeeze into it today, would be found loose fitting in
the shoulders and at the chest."

"The tallest men in the world come from Galloway and Perthshire and Yorkshire, average is a fine one. Even that of southwest England and South Wales
—5 feet 6 inches—is far higher than that of many of the continental nations."

"The tallest men after the men of Galloway, who have an average of nearly six feet, are the Fulahs of the French Sudan, and the Patagonians
are believed to hold a very good average."

In London the average is as low as
in South Wales, and the little man frequently asks why he should have to pay the same price for a suit of clothes as a country bred giant.

This question was answered by a West End tailor "What we make by the little man we lose on the big man,"
he said; "for we pay our men extra
when they are working on a giant's
suit."

"We have been compelled on one or two occasions, however, to charge
more when a man is exceptionally tall or stout. One of our customers, who is over six feet high and 44 inches
around the chest and 47 inches
round the waist, takes five and a half double widths for a lounge suit. We ask another guinea, and he pays it readily."—London Express.

Oliver Pickle Sandwiches.
Olives and little sour pickles wiped
dry and cut in slices make good sandwiches. The bread is spread with butter mixed with anchovy paste.

White Caps.
Whites of four eggs; one cup sugar,
three-quarters of a cup of butter; one
cup of sweet milk; three cups of sifted flour; one teaspoonful of baking powder; flavoring to suit the taste.

Fried Bread.
Cut slices of bread one-third inch thick; dip each slice into milk, then
dip in beaten egg and fry in the frying
pan in half butter and half dripping,
turning as each slice browns; sprinkle
with powdered sugar and serve hot.

White Cookies.
Two-thirds cupful of melted butter,
one and one-half cupfuls of sour
cream, two cupfuls of sugar, soda
and enough flour to roll out evenly. Have the materials cold and mix quickly,
handling as little as possible. Flavor
as desired.

Rabbit Pie.
Skin and wash the rabbit and cut it joint; place in a deep dish; take four slices mixed pork and one small onion, pepper and salt and one cup of water and sprinkle with flour; make a crust and cover the dish over and bake
in a moderate oven until done.

Pickled Peas.
Ten pounds peas, three pounds light
brown sugar, one quart vinegar, one ounce cinnamon, one ounce ground cloves, one-quarter pound citron. Put all in together and boil until the peas
are tender; strain the peas out and let the syrup boil half an hour longer.

Apple Cream.
Peel and core tart apples, slice and weigh them, and to three pounds add one cupful of sugar; put these in a granite kettle with the grated rind
and juice of one lemon, two cloves and
an inch piece of stick cinnamon; simmer slowly until the apples are tender; then run them through a
strainer; add one pint of fresh cream,
mix with it the apple pulp and serve
cold.

Date Gums.
Separate two eggs; add to the beaten folks one cupful of milk; pour this over one and one-half cupfuls of entire wheat flour and one tablespoonful
of melted butter; beat well; then add
one cupful of elopped dates, two tea-spoonfuls of baking powder; stir in half a cupful of boiled rice and the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth; bake in greased gem pans half an hour.

Beef Loaf.
Have three pounds of round of beef
shopped fine, add half a cupful of cracker crumbs, two eggs beaten, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful pepper, a little sage and nutmeg if liked; mix well, pour into a loaf like
bread, sprinkle it with cracker crumbs,
put bits of butter over it, and put it in a double baking pan and bake one
and one-quarter hours in a quick oven.

Apricot Compote.
Take a dozen fine apricots, halve
them, remove the stones, crack them
and blanch the kernels by pouring boiling water over them. Put three-quarters of a pound of sugar into a saucepan with a pint and a half of water, and when it boils skim, lay in the apricots and simmer gently for a few moments until the apricots are clear. Take the fruit out with a skimmer and arrange on a dish. When the syrup is cold pour over the fruit and put half a kernel upon each piece of apricot. Where the dried apricots are used an almond blanched may be substituted for the apricot pit and a teaspoonful of extract of almond added to the syrup.

To remove grease spots from white
wash goods dampen with house ammonia (full strength), cover with clean white blotting paper and iron lightly.

For cleaning windows, mirrors and
all glass articles nothing equals paste
made of ammonia and whiting. Polish
with crumpled clean tissue paper.

Cheesecloth strips a yard wide sewed
over the edge of the blanket and changed with the bed linen insure cleanliness to the user and the blanket.

In hemming new table linen if the edge is slightly dampened with soapy
water after the hem is turned, the cloth
when dry will be like soft linen to work on.

The delicate housewife will find a bamboo handled broom very comfortable to use since it is so light in weight.
They cost no more than the heavy handled brooms.

Tea, coffee or fruit stains can be easily removed from cotton or linen fabrics
if butter is thoroughly rubbed through the stain before the cloth is put into hot soapsuds.

WIT and HUMOR of THE DAY

A Nocturnal Shot.

He threw his small clock at a cat—
He missed her, you can bet;
The clock it stopped at half-past three,
The cat is going yet.

—Yonkers Statesman.

Mouthful Only.

Barber—"What do you think of this soap?"
Victim—"Never tasted better."

A Natural Mistake.

"How do you like that college song Miss Screecher is singing?"
"Is that a college song? I thought it was a college yell."—Puck.

Singular—and Pictorial.

"Funny! there was a time when the barbers used to speak of my hair."
"You mean before you began to get bald?"
"Yes. Now they speak of my hairs."
—Philadelphia Press.

An Urchin Cheated.

"What is Jimmy waiting about now?"
"Oh, he is mad because you cut the grass in the back yard; he wanted it to get tall, so he could make a jungle."
—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

How It Happened.

"I heard you giggling in the parlor last night," said the stern parent. "I think you must have been beside yourself."
"Oh, no," said the pretty girl, blushing deeply. "I was beside Charlie."
—Chicago News.

The Limit.

Cornered Conrad—"Isn't it disgusting the way these foreigners are crowding in everywhere?"

Next-house Noonan—"Fiercer: de last time I wuz in jail dey put me in a cell wid a Pole an' a Dago. Wot yer 'link o' dat?"—Puck.

She Couldn't Forget It.

He—"I've forgotten what was the longest day in the year."

She—"I am not sure of the date either, but I remember it was that day in June when you called both in the morning and afternoon."
—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

To Meet Competition.

Passer-by—"I thought you were blind?"
Mendicant—"Well, boss, times is so hard and competition is so great that even a blind man has to keep his eyes open nowadays if he wants to do any business at all."
—Chicago Journal.

The Professor.

"Open your mouth a little wider, please," said the dentist.
"My friend," replied the professor, with some impatience, "I can't open my mouth any wider. But I can extend it vertically a little more, if you insist upon it."
—Chicago Tribune.

Three of a Kind.

Rebecca—"You see, I met Martha, and she is so hard to get away from."
Rachel—"How funny! I've heard her say the same thing about you."
Rebecca—"Well, that beats everything. I've heard her say it about you, too."
—Cleveland Commercial-Tribune.

Lots of 'Em.

"I see by the papers," said the man who likes to read statistics, "that the Canadians smoked 200,000,000 cigarettes last year."
"My!" exclaimed the plain man; "who'd ever think that they had so many college men over there?"
—Cleveland Leader.

Out on the First.

"It was at a charity dinner that a careless waiter split a plate over one of the clergyman present."
"What?" he exclaimed. Then, remembering himself, he turned to his neighbor and asked: "Will some layman kindly say a few words appropriate to the occasion?"

Induced.

"No," said the dealer in rare coins, "there's no premium on this silver dollar of 1826."
"No? I thought it might be worth a good deal," said Markley.
"Oh, they're not rare at all. However, I'll give you fifty cents for it."
"All right,"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Sun-Scorched.

Hicks—"I understand you met my brother down at the shore."

Wicks—"Yes; the red-headed one."

Hicks—"Oh, you're mistaken. The only brother I have is quite bald now, but—"

Wicks—"Exactly, and he's been bathing every day without any hat."
—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Time to Die.

City Editor—"See here! In your account of Congressman Crookitt's funeral, you continually refer to his 'premature demise.'"

Reporter—"Well, he was a young man, and—"

City Editor—"But that scamp's demise couldn't possibly be too premature."
—Philadelphia Ledger.

Almost Weird.

"I can't see through the Shakespeare problem."
"What do you mean?"
"Why, he's conceded by nearly everybody to have been one of the world's greatest poets, yet there doesn't seem to be hardly any of his stuff that couldn't be understood right off by anybody with ordinary intelligence."

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON (Special Correspondent.)

The Only Way to Tour.—A. A. Adeo, assistant secretary of state, returned a few weeks ago in the steamer Deutschland from a pleasure trip in Europe. He took an American safety bicycle with him when he went away, and said on his return that he rode altogether 150 miles through Europe awheel. "It is the only way to tour," the secretary added. "At times I traveled faster than some of the continental railroads—that is, in getting from one point to another. The roads of Europe are generally first-class for bicycle riding. I not only gained weight as a result of my bicycle tour, but I also gained a great deal of knowledge of the various countries that would not have been available had I traveled on the railroads."

Senator Hoar Surrendered.—Senator Hoar surrendered during the last session on his pronunciation of "Panama." When he made his rather startling speech, requesting the president to furnish all the information about the canal treaty, he spoke the name as though it rhymed with "pajama." No sooner had he dipped into debate a few days after than he pronounced the word with the accent on the first syllable. The senator then digressed briefly to explain why he did so. As a boy in school he had learned the first pronunciation. Mr. Hoar declared that pronunciation was then correct. But in modern times it had changed, and the fact having been brought to his attention, he wished to speak the name as modern people are accustomed to it.

Not Part of U. S.—Controller of the Treasury Tracewell, in an opinion defining the authority of the Panama canal commission regarding disbursements and the relation of the canal zone to the United States, holds that while the "general spirit and purpose of the constitution is applicable to the zone, that domain is not a part of the United States within the full meaning of the constitution and laws of the country." He holds that until congress by express legislation shall have prescribed the form of government of the zone, the will and sound discretion of the president and his commission will control, subject only to the general spirit and purpose of the constitution and the local revenues of the zone shall be handled in accordance with such rules as they may authorize. He holds it unnecessary to decide whether those revenues are in general sense monies of the United States, because they are not such monies of the United States as are required to be accounted for to the treasury department. The controller also holds that the commission would have no authority to adopt a system of allotting pay, by employees on the isthmus, similar to that in use in the navy.

Cranks Again.—Since the president's return from Oyster Bay the White House cranks have begun again to put in their appearance. Mrs. Borgendine, about 50 years old, of Mariposa, Ill., called at the White House the other day to warn the president against impending death. She said she was the mother of 14 children. She carried a picture of her family with her to prove her statement. Mrs. Borgendine announced she had been advised in a vision that Mr. Roosevelt was to be blown up. To a White House official she said: "I have had a vision in which an angel appeared to me and directed me to warn the president. I did not find out from the angel just what is going to be done to the president, but I know he is not going to be shot. The angel intimated that he is to be blown up." She was handed over the police to undergo an examination as to her sanity.

A Loud and Long Cry.—The cry against the tearing down of old buildings in this city is loud and long. Were congress to listen to all of these there would be no improvements made in the lower sections of the city. Scarcely is there a building of any importance between the Capitol and Washington Circle, and within a block of historic Pennsylvania avenue, from the former to the latter, but what has had some connection with the affairs of the country in one way or another. In the general improvement fever which has caught the authorities the destruction of the old prison in Washington barracks down on the river front has revived the memories of the horrible end of poor Mrs. Surratt, who paid the penalty of "the appearance of evil." The old prison in the barracks, in the yard of which she expiated the crime with which she was charged, along with the three unquestionably guilty men, has been wiped out of existence. The march of progress is breaking out in all sorts of places. The same week the old prison was demolished, the old and famous home of Judge Joseph Holt, formerly of Kentucky, under whom the trial and execution of Mrs. Surratt took place, was torn down. No sooner was all this accomplished, than the news that the Nahant, the monitor upon which Mrs. Surratt was kept in close confinement previous to the trial, was to be abandoned and demolished.

ST. LOUIS "HAS THE GOODS."

NEW YORK WRITER FINDS WORLD'S FAIR BEYOND EXPECTATIONS

Addison Steele, After a Week at the Exposition, Expresses Amazement at Many Features—St. Louis Cool and Prices Reasonable.

NO ADDISON STEELE, a well-known newspaper and magazine writer, of New York, recently spent a week at the World's Fair. Returning home, he wrote the following appreciative account of his impressions for Brooklyn Life, which should convince any reader that it is worth his while to see this greatest of exhibitions.

In the expressive language of the day, St. Louis "has the goods." I had expected much of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, for I had kept in touch with the making of it from its very inception, five years ago, but after nearly a week of journeying through this new wonderland I must confess that in every essential particular it is far beyond my expectations.

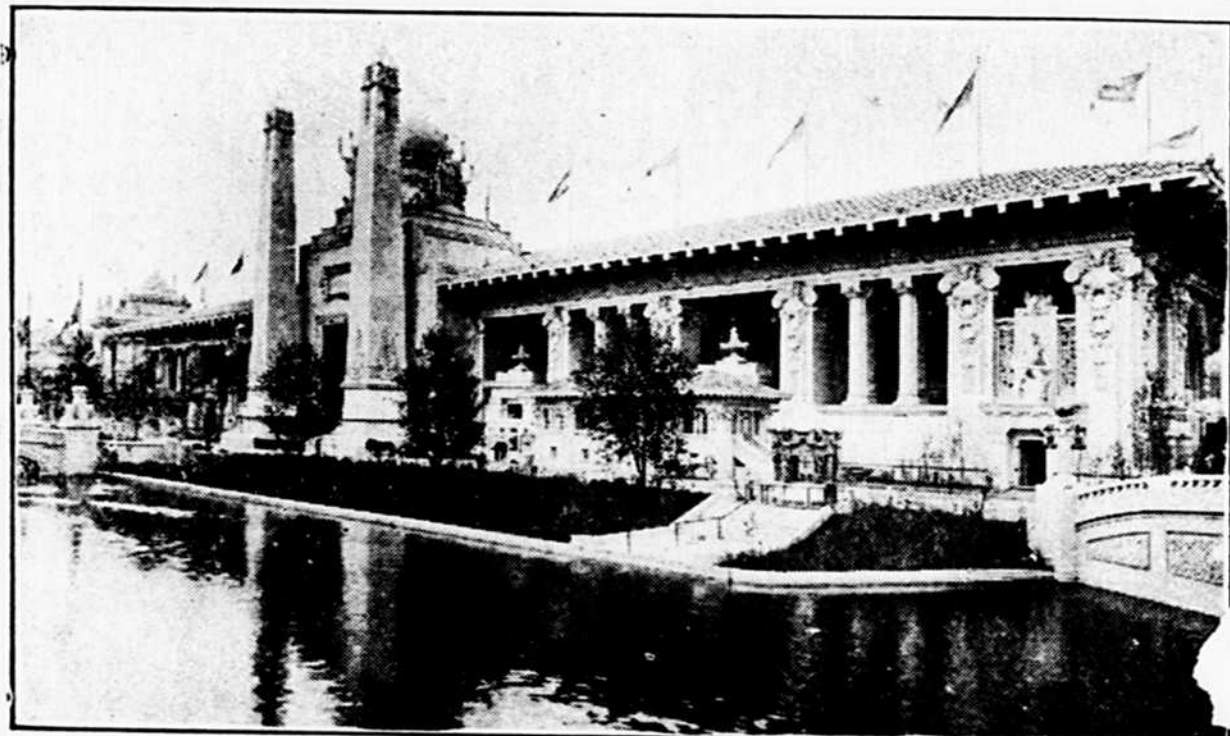

The biggest and best it was meant to be and the biggest and best it is. The exposition, rumors notwithstanding, is quite finished.

Those who imagine that the Columbian Exposition remains the last word in the way of a world's fair should remember crowning feature is the great Louisiana Purchase Monument—and across the Grand Basin to the Cascade Gardens. On the right are the Varied Industries and Electricity buildings and on the left the Manufactures and Education, these—with Transportation and Machinery still further to the right and Liberal Arts and Mines beyond at the left—making up the body of the fair. For its handle the fair has the Cascade Gardens—rising in a grand terrace to a height of sixty-five feet above the floor of the buildings mentioned and crowned by the great Festival Hall, the Terrace of States and the East and West Pavilions—and the Fine Arts building directly behind.

In the architecture of the group there is no uniformity of style. The very liberal use of great columns gives the four buildings fronting on the Plaza and Basin a certain architectural kinship, but the Mines building, with its two huge obelisks and somewhat Egyptian aspect; the much-towered and belated Machinery building; the highly ornate Transportation building, with its gigantic arches and pylons, and sign nations would alone form an exposition worth the journey from New York to St. Louis. Germany's building, Das Deutsche Haus, is a reproduction of Charlottenburg Schloss, 420 feet long and finely located on an eminence overlooking Cascade Gardens. The interior as well as the exterior is a faithful reproduction of the palace; Gobelins tapestries, the old Charlottenburg furniture and the Kaiser's wedding silver having been brought over for the superb apartments. Nearly a mile to the westward France has reproduced, at a cost of half a million dollars, the Grand Trianon, the building and great garden covering fifteen acres. Great Britain has a copy of the banquet hall of Kensington Palace; Japan, the Shishinden Palace, one of several buildings in a characteristic Japanese style; and the country seat of Prince Pu Lun, Italy has a superb Graeco-Roman temple, Austria an architectural glorification of Moderne Kunst, and Belgium a sign. Lesser reproductions of note are the tomb of Etnad-Dowah, by East India, and the new Bangkok temple, by Siam.

PALACE OF MINES AND METALLURGY.

that eleven years have rolled by since Chicago invited all the nations of the earth to come within her gates. These having been years of remarkable progress the mere fact that it is up to date would place the Louisiana Purchase Exposition ahead of the Columbian Exposition of 1893, but the Paris Universal Exposition of 1900—the only other world's fair of the period mentioned. The great development of horseless vehicles, certain wonderful advances in the field of electricity, the wireless telegraph, the submarine boat and the practicable flying machine—all of which are special features at St. Louis—are, for instance, matters of the period since the Chicago event. To my mind, however, the one distinctive feature which places it ahead of all other world's fairs is the comprehensive Philippine exhibit. Ahead also of any previous showing are the individual buildings of eight of the foreign nations, and, taking everything into consideration, the architectural and landscape gardening achievements are greater—as they ought to be with the world older.

One of the greatest, and certainly one of the most agreeable, of my many surprises was the supreme beauty of the main group of buildings. For the simple reason that the camera does not exist which could take in the vast picture as the eye sees it, the early views of the group—a bit here and a bit there—gave a scant idea of the scheme as a whole. Nor did the early views of the ten individual buildings which make up its component parts do justice to their nobility of architecture and general grandeur. Then again in the ground plans and surface sketches—the only possible manner of showing it—the fan-shaped arrangement of this group looked stiff and unsatisfying. Far from it that it is quite as remarkable in its way as the famous Court of Honor of the Columbian Exposition. In one respect it is even more notable, for instead of two grand vistas it offers a dozen. The main vista is, of course, the one looking up the Plaza of St. Louis—whose

the Romanesque Liberal Arts building have pronounced individuality. Yet in the general picture all these buildings blend into the French Gothic style of the buildings of Cascade Gardens. Twelve handsome bridges across the waterways, which form a figure eight by running from the Grand Basin around the Electricity and Education buildings, further contribute to the architectural splendor of the scene.

Rows of fine, large maples set off the buildings in the main vista, adding immeasurably to the beauty of the picture and furnishing one of the many demonstrations of the superiority of this exposition in the matter of landscape gardening. There are also many trees to set off the other buildings of the group, shrubbery and small trees have been used in profusion around the entrances and the bridges and there are handsome sunken gardens in two places. The landscape treatment of Cascade Hill is similarly fine.

The Philippine section covers no less than forty-seven acres, has 100 buildings and some 75,000 catalogued exhibits, and represents an outlay of over a million dollars. A week could easily be spent there to advantage. Entrance to the section is free, but twenty-five cents is charged to go into each of the four native villages, which are intensely interesting. The villages run along Arrowhead Lake, and the inhabitants all have some way of entertaining their visitors. The Igorotes, who wear a little clothing as the law of even savage lands allow; Bontoces, Tinganues and Suyaves are in one village; the lake-dwelling Moros and Bogobos in another; the black Negritos in the third and the civilized Visayanos, who have a Catholic Church and a theatre, in the fourth. As a matter of education this great encampment of the "little brown men" is one thing that no American can afford to miss.

The Pike has in the Tyrolean Alps the finest concession that I have ever seen. There is a great square with many quaint buildings, a little village street, and above the snow-clad mountains—which look very real as the evening falls. The best scenic railroad yet devised affords several fine glimpses of the Alps, and there is a very graphic exposition of the Oberammergau passion play in the little church. Cliff dwellers' concession also looks very realistic at nightfall. It is elaborate in arrangement, and the courting, snake and other dances by the Southwestern Indians make it another of the Pike shows which should be taken in by all. In Seattle there is an amusing marionette theatre and some genuine Spanish dancing. For the rest the Pike offers infinite variety, and as the full moon's worth is given, the enormous Jerusalem and Boer War concessions are not on the Pike.

It is a case of dine at the German Pavilion and die at the Exposition. In a beautiful Moderne Kunst building adjoining Das Deutsche Haus the best food and the highest prices on the grounds are to be found, the table d'hôte lunch and dinner costing $2 and $3, respectively. There is also a la carte service. Everything considered the prices are not excessive, and at least one meal should be taken there for the experience. Another should be taken at the Tyrolean Alps, either outdoors or in the gorgeous dining room in the mountain-side. The best French restaurant is at Paris, on the Pike. Lower in prices and in every way admirable are the two restaurants conducted by Mrs. Korer in the pavilions of Cascade Gardens. The east one has waitresses and no beer and the west one waiters and beer. For a bit of lunch Germany, France and England all offer delicious pastry in the Agricultural building. These are not free ads., but time-saving tips for the traveler. There are no end of restaurants to fit all purposes on the grounds.

THE SILENCE OF BUTTERFLIES.

This Insect Represents a Truly Silent World.

After all, the chief charm of this race of winged flowers does not lie in their varied and brilliant beauty, not yet in their wonderful series of transformations, in their long and solid caterpillar life, their long slumber in the chrysalis, or the very brief period which comprises their beauty, their love making, their parentage and their death. Nor does it lie in the fact that we do not yet certainly know whether they have in the caterpillar shape the faculty of sight or not, and do not even know the precise use of their most conspicuous organ in maturity, the antennae. Nor does it consist in this—that they of all created things have furnished man with the symbol of his own immortality. It rather lies in the fact that, with all their varied life and activity, they represent an absolutely silent world. * * * All the vast array of modern knowledge has found no butterfly which murmurs with an audible voice and only a few species which can even audibly click or rustle with their wings. T. W. Higginson, in Atlantic.

The Playwright's Complaint.

A popular author, who has lately turned to play writing, has not succeeded in impressing managers with the availability of his productions. Not long ago, thinking to get some useful pointers from the current drama, he made an observation tour of the theatres.

"Well," he remarked to a friend at the end of the evening, "I seem to be the only man alive who can't get a poor play put on."—Harper's Weekly.

SMALLEST CITY IN AMERICA.

Unique Place in Missouri Has Just One Hundred and Sixty Inhabitants.

"Most cities nowadays are regarded as being small if they do not contain more than 10,000 inhabitants," observed a man from Missouri, "but I came from a city that cannot boast of more than 100 souls. The name of this unique little city is Fenton, and it is situated on the picturesque Meramec River just fifteen miles to the south and west of St. Louis.

"Fenton is not a lively or busy town, but in the absence of real metropolitan activity the residents are proud of the fact that they live in the smallest incorporated city in the United States, if not in the world. The municipal government consists of a mayor and a full quota of civil officials, none of whom are paid salaries. Instead of fixed incomes they receive certain fees for the performance of their specific duties. The board of control is in charge of one man, who keeps the books of the corporation, and the public funds raised by taxation are expended by the mayor in person, by and with the consent of the board.

"The city marshal constitutes the entire police force of the city. No arrests are made in Fenton, and it has been so long since the squire held court that when the last magistrate died—last summer—it was not considered necessary to elect his successor. There are no politics in Fenton, at least not in so far as municipal elections go. And, for that matter, there have been no elections for a decade."

The Marrying Evil.

A big dry goods firm in Seattle is much distressed because the marrying habit seems to have gained a permanent footing among its female employees.

The manager reports with sorrow that, just as soon as a salesgirl gains enough experience to be really valuable, she almost invariably gets married and leaves her place to be filled by a green hand. He tried to obviate the difficulty by requiring of all applicants for positions a promise to remain unmarried for at least a year. The girls agreed to that stipulation readily, but forgot all about it when the right man came along and the firm had no redress.

The only possible protection against what the manager dolefully calls the marrying evil, lies in the selection of salesladies who are aged, infirm and generally unattractive. Such a policy would act as a detriment upon business and, as soon as the plan became public property, no woman on earth would apply for a position. The remedy would be far more disastrous than the disease.

In short, the manager is butting his head against a wall of unusually solid masonry. When a woman makes up her mind to get married, her employer's arguments don't count for much, as compared with those of the other man in the case. And it's very unlucky to postpone the wedding. We think this as it should be, but it is one of the reasons why the business woman doesn't command such a large salary as her brother.—Ohio State Journal.

Secrets of Old Roman Bath.

Women used to lose their hairpins a thousand years ago much in the same way as they do to-day. That, at least, is the impression one gets from the antiquities found during last year at the Silchester excavations.

The most interesting discovery was the building which formed apparently the principal baths of the Roman town. The exploration of the baths yielded a number of architectural fragments, including a small altar, portions of capitals and basins, part of a large basin of Purbeck marble, and some singular pieces of metal.

In a filled-up hypocaust were found at least 100 bone pins, which had evidently been used to adjust the oiled hair of Roman women who used the baths. Probably they had been dropped in the way women throughout the ages has shed pins, and were collected by the keeper of the baths. Some of them are quite three inches long, and would make passable hairpins for the present fashion.

A pair of gold earrings with uncut green gems are so bright that they look as if they might have just come out of a jeweller's shop in Bond street.—London Chronicle.

He Built a New Island.

Dr. Justus Olage became a few years ago a health officer of St. Paul. He noticed a bit of shoal in the Mississippi, visible only when the tide was low, but accessible within ten minutes' ride from the City Hall. Securing possession, by gift, of as much as he could, he had the city's clean waste dumped upon this little island, thus rapidly bringing it above high-water mark. Of the four and one-half acres thus ingeniously wrested from the "father of waters," the city St. Paul now maintains within easy reach of a majority of its population a children's playground, a small "zoo," a vegetable garden (to support the forty uniformed attendants), public baths, with modern sterilizing plants for the bathing suits, a day nursery, a boys' gymnasium—and all united by a stroll but satisfactory park.

Russian Lands.

Statistics compiled by the Zemtvos of forty-nine provinces of European Russia showed that 801,000 peasant families, representing a population of perhaps 7,000,000, had only nine acres of land to the family, and that 2,219,444 peasant households, representing a population of about 18,000,000, had only twenty-one acres each, although hundreds of thousands of such households consisted of from eight to twenty-five members.

WOMEN IN AUSTRALIA.

Emancipation of the Sex Denounced as Dangerous to the Country.

Australia has furnished the world some lessons in man's tendency to fly off the tangents and run into extremes that ought to be valuable. Among these have been the fact of the loss of a million in population within the time since the labor unions have had virtual or actual control of the country—loss, that is to say, through emigration of workers unwilling to surrender their individuality to the unions.

Along with this development of unionism in labor there has been noteworthy expansion in what it has been the fashion to call "the emancipation of woman." With this is said to have come increased disinclination in the sex toward marriage and a serious falling off in the birth rate among those who marry.

Against such a condition reaction was inevitable, and the reaction was sure to be unreasonable in something like the same degree as were the causes for it. There is nothing surprising, therefore, though there is much that is discouraging, to find in one of the journals published in Sydney the following expression of extreme views in an antagonistic direction: "An intellectual woman," says this editor, "is an abnormality; she has the brain of a man in the body of a woman. Intellect in woman has so dazzled us by its brilliance that we have failed to recognize it as a disease, like genius in man and the pearl in an oyster. But nevertheless it is a disease, and must inevitably be the death of a race in which it is fostered."

This is, of course, an extreme of reaction. It is, as such, symptomatic of the diseased condition which has spread in modern times and has borne fruit in action in England's remote colonies especially, but is also noticeable among us. It is not intellectually in woman or man that is, in itself, abnormal. It is its development along with neglect to develop the sense of moral responsibility.

The cure is not in reducing the patient's intellectual activity, but in restoring her balance of character. Men need something of the same curative process.—Chicago Chronicle.

His Only Worry.

Grafter—I've got my hooks out for a swell political office; big salary and all that.

Jenkins—Do you think you can fill it?

Grafter—Never thought of that. What's worrying me is whether I'll be able to get it.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Power of Expression Gone.

"Was your French chauffeur seriously hurt in the automobile accident?"

"Yes; he was knocked practically speechless."

"Speechless? How?"

"Shoulder dislocated. Can't shrug."—Chicago Tribune.

The Art of War.

"And if one is unable to keep the enemy from crossing the river?" asked the pupil.

"In that case," replied the master of strategy, "the press censor should allow rumors to circulate that you are trying to lure him across."

Care of the Hair.

It is now generally agreed that many of the shampoos in use are injurious to the hair. The best treatment is frequent brushing and absolute cleanliness. Wash the hair in a lather of Ivory Soap and rinse thoroughly. Let the last water be cool, as it closes the pores of the skin and prevents colds.—ELEANOR E. PARKER.

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cared of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble, of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropped swellings of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

Are the Japanese Asiatics?

Various French newspapers have started the suggestion that the Japanese, though in Asia, are not of Asia, being descended from one of the lost tribes of Israel, and the idea is hailed as possibly correct. It is pointed out that in the ancient Shinto ritual of Japan there are some observances very closely resembling those of the Jews. Shinto temples, like the Jewish tabernacle, have a holy place and a holy of holies, a representation of an ark, and a cistern; the priests, called Kanushi, wear white linen drawers, offer up unleavened bread and sweet wine, and wave the first fruit offering. Several of the Shinto festivals occur on the same dates as the Jewish, and are celebrated with identical ceremonies.

Without undertaking to prove that the Japanese are part of the lost tribes, various English and Russian papers declare that they are certainly not Asiatic, but are Aryans, who moved eastward instead of westward, and that the Mongolian and Malay blood in their veins came subsequent to their migration. The ancient feudal constitution of Japan, it is said, is distinctly of Aryan origin, and the much discussed capacity of the Japanese for assimilating various features of modern civilization is cited as another evidence of their non-Asiatic beginnings. The Japanese alone of Oriental peoples, have this power of assimilation, and therefore, it is argued, are not Asiatics.
