On the Stand: 25 Years Ago

by Esther J. Perne

wenty-five years ago gas cost around a dollar, a Bush and a Clinton were campaigning for President and in the Belgrades a new publication appeared. It was billed as the weekly guide to the best of the Belgrade Lakes Region and its mission was to represent the wonderful positives and proactivity of this unique lake-rich area: the history, the livelihood, the outdoor lifestyle, the enrichment and the mystique of such a vast and diverse region.

"Other people dream of a Belgrade Lakes-style summer," the paper pointed out to readers. "You are living it. In a world where change is the norm, changes in the Belgrades never seem to alter the basic beauty, peacefulness and rusticity."

Twenty-five years ago, the region pulsed on small-time, small-town, small-news events just as it does today.

The Calendar of Events was filled with a schedule of summer theater productions, car shows, square dances, children's reading programs, fishing tournaments, canoe races, nature appreciation workshops, chicken barbeques, parades, public suppers, free concerts indoors and out, and, of course, mailboat rides on Great Pond.

- The gala of the summer at the Village Inn was the 15th birthday of the Belgrade Regional Health Center, located at that time in the former Belgrade Elementary School, for residents old and new to meet each other besides in the waiting room.
- A door-to-door petition spearheaded by two customers convinced Skowhegan Savings Bank to stay in town.

- •The McGrath Pond/Salmon Lake Association was four years old and already holding winter and summer annual meetings, publishing a newsletter, distributing lake preservation literature, giving out trees and plants to replenish the shoreline.
- •It was year three for the Snow Pond/Messalonskee Lake Association. Members were picking up their free spruce trees, taking home dye pills to put through their septic systems and thinking about the threat of phosphorus to their lake.
- •A new dam was built at the end of Messalonskee Lake by Central Maine Power, involving the construction of a cofferdam to hold water back while the spillway was being repaired.
- •Loon experts estimated there were 4,000 loons in Maine,182 in Vermont, 20 in Massachusetts and 495 in New Hampshire. Masschusetts lost its loons to acid rain, Vermont to development as did New Hampshire with a low of 77 loons in 1978 until the state staged a campaign for man-made nesting islands.
- •Children's Book Cellar, Railroad Square and Hamlin's Marine in Waterville, Mid-Maine Marine and Alden Camps in Oakland, and Day's Real Estate, Great Pond Marina in Belgrade Lakes and Hammond Lumber in Belgrade were advertisers and still are.
- Exciting activities among the lakes included berry-picking, antiquing, fishing, attending public suppers, water sports, shopping and a few hikes.

- The Belgrades were faced with an almost lack of public lands. Blueberry Hill, the boat launches, and two parcels of land in Rome (including French's Mountain) held by the Belgrade Region Conservation Alliance comprised almost the entire public or preserved lands.
 - A GMC 1992 Extended Cab 4x4 cost $16,752.
- •The 100-year-old, five-story Cascade Woolen Mill in Oakland offered over 250 styles and colors of wool and wool blends in its outlet store.
- •The 18th Annual Buttermilk Hill Music Festival was held on the Gawler Farm in Belgrade Lakes for an old-time good old time.
- •Mount Vernon celebrated its Bicentennial with a year's worth of fabulous activities, looked back on more thriving times and myriad changes and concluded the community remained essentially what it set out to be 200 years ago: a community distinct and unto itself.
- •In real estate an unfinished cabin at Woodland Camps could be purchased for $45,000, a 3-bedroom log home with 5+ acres for $119,000 and a year-round, 2-bedroom house on Great Pond for $139,000.
- Smithfield, age 152, had a population of 865, one store, one church, one garage, one fire station, one grange hall, one antique shop, one post office, one beach and one roller skating rink. There were 12 births, 5 deaths and 6 marriages during the previous year.

The Belgrade-Nebraska Total Eclipse Connection

n Sunday, July 2, 7-8:30 pm, there will be a reading at the Belgrade Center for All Seasons of the screenplay "In the Moon's Shadow" to benefit the Friends of the Belgrade Library.

The story, which will be filmed in Belgrade and in Nebraska, involves the lives of three people - a family who has lost touch with each other, their journey to Nebraska, the climactic total eclipse of the sun on August 21 and the hope that it will make them a family once again.

The one constant throughout the ages has been the celestial bodies moving in their predictable orbits and the moon circling the earth every 26.5 days, a predictability that is in contrast to the lives of humans which are unpredictable, chaotic and neglectful of relationships..

"In the Moon's Shadow" is a picture of family, ambition, love and the rare celestial event that changes their lives. It also will capture the spectators who will have journeyed great distances to see the eclipse and to interact with the actors.

—The Luckiest Boy

YES, those were the words that we liked to hear. It didn't really matter if it was baseball or basketball, either way it meant fun and the excitement of either going to another school or having them visit us in Belgrade. Young people all over the world have a few things in common, and perhaps one of them is the elation felt when you and your team are about to partake in a competitive game. Certainly the rules vary and the goal may look different from here to elsewhere, but the nervous elation is the same. Every youngster that participates in a sport during his growing-up years can remember and recite some of the particular actions and scores that happened during their heyday! I thought it would be fun to tell you what The Luckiest Boy remembers about the baseball and basketball teams from Belgrade High School circa 1960s.

During the 60's decade, Belgrade High School had in the range of 60 to 100 students total (all 4 high school grades) in any given year. I graduated in 1965 in a class of 21 students and our class was the largest to that date due to what was known as the wave of "war babies", mostly the offspring of World War II veterans. With small numbers of students to pick from who had the desire and grades to play, fielding either a baseball or basketball team wasn't always an easy task for the coaches. Often the team might only have a few spare players other than those on the field or court. Both boys and girls teams were able to be put together, but up until 1960 or so the school had no gymnasium. Practices were spotty at borrowed gyms during odd hours, including Mr. Harold Alfond's personal gym at his camp on Point Road. The ceiling was low and shooting was pretty much limited to lay ups. I remember going there to the unheated building a few times and seeing our breath due to low temps. Once our new gym was completed we became part of a league and had a regular schedule each year.

In that era the advent of school districts had not come into vogue. Most towns had their own schools and took in students who lived in smaller towns or rural areas. Schools in Maine were broken into 4 sizes: S for small, M for medium, L and LL for large and larger schools. We were a class S school and played other towns such as Liberty, Clinton, Kingfield, Albion,

Play Ball

by Rod Johnson

New Sharon, Phillips, Canton, Kingfield and several others. Each class had it's own league complete with playoffs, state championships, etc. Often, Beals Island/Jonesport won the State of Maine Class S basketball championship with as few as 6 or 7 players in total on their squad. Wow, they sure could play ball. For away basketball games, boys and girls traveled together on a bus, often for long runs like Western Maine or the Maine coastal towns. Many of the girl players were also cheerleaders and did double duty. The long rides home were interesting to say the least. Our bus driver was Jamie Minot who was one of our best fans both at home and away games.

When spring came it was time for baseball and softball, sports that had a longer history at Belgrade High. Our fathers and even grandfathers could recite wins and scores from 20 to 40 years prior. Away games in the spring were especially fun, and unlike the bus trips with basketball, we were allowed to go in our own cars. Usually we took one or two of our own cars and the coach took his with a few players as well. My fondest memory of an away game was on a warm spring afternoon and 5 of us were riding to Albion in a 1958 Ford convertible with owner Barry Morrell at the wheel. With the top down, this was freedom personified as we screamed and yelled when the wind blew our hats off and tears of joy streamed down our faces. Home games were fun too, with parents and grandparents coming to watch. It was customary for them to sit in their cars up on the hill overlooking the ball diamond. When on occasion one of us hit a good one, the yells would come and the car horns blasted. How good does it get? Weren't we The Luckiest Boys?

Here's to the ladies: Mary Damren, Dale Sprague, Sally Strickland, Brenda Hatt, Linda Blaisdell, Alice Beaulieu, Elaine Edgecomb, Rebecca Salsbury, Sally Cook, Linda Sawyer, Penny Wing, Arlette Douglas and Jane Wyman. Coach not listed but think Vernal Finemore, BHS Principal

It's hard to believe that was 52 years ago. It sure would be nice to have another ride in the '58 Ford convert.

woman), Dave Webster, offered passengers "the best sightseeing opportunity in the Belgrades." He also delivered messages to remote lakedwellers, once saved a drowning child at one of his stops, successfully headed off a runaway speedboat and hosted a wedding (also successful) ceremony on the boat.

- •The 84-year-old Sidney Fair, the only agricultural fair in the Belgrade area offered horse, oxen and pony pulling, dozens of concessions and an antique midway.
- People were just starting to ask, wouldn't it be nice if the next generation and the one after that and indeed the ones beyond could enjoy the lakes and the land the way they were?
- Because they did ask and because they joined forces, preserved land, monitored water quality, and advocated remediation the Belgrades continue to offer the basic beauty, peacefulness and rusticity that other people only dream and those who work, play, visit and vacation here contine to live.

Take It Outside -

Ithough according to the calendar summer \(\)has barely begun, it is already flying by with lots going on. Most of our snowbird summer residents are back already and increasing numbers of out of town visitors are appearing. Every day it is harder to find a parking spot in the village. As schools are getting out, more and more young faces are appearing throughout the watershed. This week began with a weekend visit from an old friend followed by a multi-day trip to western Maine with a couple of short hikes and fishing trips in between.

My friend, Steve Jurmu, whom I have known since he was born six months after I was, came for a visit. Steve's mother was my mother's best friend and growing up, we spent our summers together on the shores Lake Michigan in Escanaba, Michigan, a small Upper Peninsula town that has much in common with Belgrade Lakes. As kids, we spent nearly every day fishing, swimming, sailing, water skiing, and going on hikes. During his visit we became kids again, and tried to cram as many of those activities as possible into a couple of days. We relived many old memories and created new ones. I look forward to our next chance to get together.

The weather has continued to be inconsistent, sometimes warm, sometimes cool and windy, sometimes wet, sometimes dry. The Continued on page 13..

The Dams Keeper Report

s of this writing, all of our Ponds are holding their own and fall within our 3" or so above full pond objectives. The forecasters are still predicting a dryer and slightly warmer summer just like last summer! (http://longrangeweather.com/weather%2Dforecasts/US-City.aspx) In other words, another beautiful summer in the Belgrades!

Great Pond is currently 2.16" above full pond with Gate 1 opened just 9". Long Pond at the Wings Mill dam, as well as upper Long Pond nine miles to the North, is currently at 3.48" above full with both Wings Mill gates completely closed. Due to our forecast, we are once again trying to hold the water level reserves as long as we can. So far, so good!

Enjoy this beautiful summer, weather and your vacation!

Kennebec River Day: Highlight of Whatever

New this year as part of the Whatever Family Festival, the Kennebec Valley Chamber of Commerce is introducing Kennebec River Day, Saturday, June 24, 11 am-3 pm, in Mill Park in Augusta.

River Day will still host kids' events but will now have activities targeted for all ages in Mill Park and throughout the area including downtown on Water Street and at Old Fort Western. It will also have 3 stages: one will combine the dance and kids stage and the other two are for bands and Bee a Country Star.

Some of the great activities of the day will include: a petanque tournament, bounce house, chainsaw wood carving demos, face painting, fire truck display, wagon rides, clothing vendors and many food vendors.

The rain location will be the Augusta Civic

All attendees are encouraged to bring blankets, lawn chairs, sunscreen, and good walking shoes. For more information visit www.AugustaMaine.com or call 623-4559.

Tadpole Patrol-Summer Fun in the Watershed!

Tadpole Patrol is the Friends of the Cobbossee Watershed's innovative and immersive learning experience aboard the OTTER II, our 22' pontoon boat. For 13 years, children have boarded our "floating classroom" to learn about lake ecology and how to test and protect water quality. Today, we offer five different versions of Tadpole Patrol for children of all ages to explore, play and learn outdoors in the Cobbossee Watershed!

The Tadpole Patrol program offers five different levels of lake exploration. Level 1 is the original Tadpole Patrol program geared for children entering grades 2-4. At this level, children will experience the ecology of the lake through exploration, observing wildlife both in and out of the water and learn the basics of water testing with professional equipment! The second level is TP II- Lake Science Investigators (LSI) and is for children entering grades 4-6. Level II investigators become "science investigators" as they practice their observation and data collection skills with their own keepsake journal. Participants are able to view aquatic life using an underwater camera and begin to learn about identifying native and non-native plant species as well as the threat of invasive aquatic plants to the area. TP3- Jr. Lake Monitors is the third level offered for youth entering grades 6 and up. Level 3 participants continue their scientific investigations as they are educated to conduct proper water quality date measurements themselves and will compare their collected data with data recorded by the scientists at Cobbossee Watershed District. Our fourth version, Spotter's Amphibious Adventures is for children ages 8 and older where both land and water are explored! Participants cruise with the Friends to a private island to explore, learn all about the importance of riparian areas and the basics of "Leave No Trace" principles. Lastly, we've heard from years that parents would like to join the Friends on our "floating classroom"! What better way to enjoy a beautiful summer day than out on the lakes with the whole family! Families enjoy an 1-hour excursion where "kids of all ages" can observe wildlife above and below the water, share historical lake facts and experience water monitoring with professional equipment.

All Tadpole Patrol programs take place aboard the Friend's 22' pontoon boat, the Otter II. This "floating classroom" enables all participants to have a unique, interactive, and most importantly FUN experience that teaches them about the importance of watershed protection and water quality. The Friend's 2017 Tadpole Patrol programs are generously supported by Clark Marine, Augusta Fuel Company and Kennebec Savings Bank. Please contact Cami Wilbert, Education & Programs Director at: cami@watershedfriends.com or 621-4100 for the 2017 Tadpole Patrol schedule and registration forms.

Conservation Too -

Wild blueberries have become part of the culture of Maine. It seems like they have been around forever, and every year people are more and more encouraged to consume this fruit fresh for its health benefits (antioxidant, anticarcinogenic, etc.). Maine is the top producer of wild blueberries in the country, consisting of around 44,000 acres of production. And what is most incredible about this crop is that most of the fields occurred naturally and were discovered hundreds of years ago. As the years have gone past, and production of these has become widely important, the cultural practices have changed. Now production has been established as a two year cycle, one for growth and one for harvest.

Once the harvest is done, plants are pruned so they start their vegetative growth cycle again. Traditionally, farmers have used burning as their pruning technique. More recently, as a way to reduce emissions and protect air quality, farmers have been encouraged to mow these fields. But before pruning, farmers have to remove the rocks and boulders from the fields. Since wild blueberries were some of the first plants to appear after the glaciers receded, these rocks were left standing in these fields and are one of the reasons that farmers burn, as a way to work around them. These rocks can cause major problems for mowing equipment, and it is better to take them out ahead of time. It cannot be denied that burning has its advantages, as the incidence of pest (insects, diseases) is lower. But mowing presents some incredible advantages of its own. Most people who burn their fields use flammable oil, and the price of oil these days is not a pretty sight to look at. Plus every acre of blueberry crops burned consumes around 80 gallons of flammable oil, pretty high price for a farmer to incur every 2 years. Mowing presents a great opportunity for farmers to reduce their cost of pruning.

Let's Get Blueberries: Conservation Practices in Blueberries

Guest Article by Luis Aponte via Kennebec County Soil & Water Conservation District.

The practices identified by Luis are equally valid for landowners considering ways to manage their property and the stormwater erosion that may occur there. Plus you learn more about Wild Blueberries.

Additionally, by mowing farmers can take advantage of the removed vegetation to increase the organic matter of the soil, thus promoting a healthier environment for the new stems to grow in. Truth be told, pest management has to be more intensive when the stems are mowed. The farmers have to be much more perceptive to issues like mummyberry, blight and insects including the blueberry maggot and flea beetle. However, with a good scouting systems and enough monitoring this should not be a problem. As long as these pests are detected early on, they can be managed/sprayed as needed. Even with its greater management level, mowing makes for a healthier and more environmentally friendly system.

Blueberry plants spread throughout the field as rhizomes that branch out of the mother plant, which is also known as a clone. Each of these clones will be different, and an average clone can cover up to 250 square feet of land. As these rhizomes spread, the field will be covered more evenly. The spread of rhizomes throughout the field will increase the production and can sometimes even double the average production values.

There has been extensive research on how to promote these rhizomes to spread more rapidly, and as some of the techniques involve maintaining soil health and nutrient management, there is a conservation practice that stands out. Mulching has proved to be an important practice in the production of blueberries. By mulching, farmers are creating an environment that greatly improves conditions for these plants to spread evenly and healthy. Mulching not only increases soil organic matter, but also moderates soil temperature, increases soil moisture, protects plants from frost heaving and reduces soil erosion. There are various types of mulch that farmers can use, from sawdust to bark. But the vast majority of farmers use wood chips, as they are cost effective and easy to find. It has become a very important practice inside the blueberry community, and its increased use has helped farmers achieve greater yields.

There are some other conservation practices that could help blueberry farmers maintain a healthy environment and keep the plants productive and healthy. Pollination is very important in blueberries, and the establishment of a native pollinator habitat can help increase yields. Soil erosion in blueberry fields is a big concern, especially in farms with little cover and steep slopes. To address erosion issues lined waterways can be established to slow down the flow of water and reduce soil loss. Establishing an integrated pest management plan can reduce the use of chemicals and develop a more efficient system to deal with pests. There are many more, but the general idea is to work in the most environmentally friendly way to make the land more productive and the operations more efficient.

For information about any of our conservation projects please contact Dale Finseth at 622-7847, x 3 or check our website at www.kcswcd.org local hiking trails are in pretty good shape, very lush, and I expect much better mushroom foraging than last year. There is a group of dog owners who, almost every day, get together early in the morning to hike BRCA's Mountain Trail off Mountain Drive. Hiking with a dog is a great way to really learn a property and see how it changes over the season. Dogs keep you in shape because they won't let you skip too many days. Their senses, especially smell, are keener than yours and they will usually spot most wildlife before you do. The BRCA allows dogs on our hiking trails but the dogs must be under the control of the owner, either on lead or under verbal control. If your dog, "does its business" on the trail, please take a stick and move it well off the trail into the woods. If you see hikers approaching, please put your pet "on lead" until they pass, in case they are not "dog people."

Among the many hats I wear, I serve as the president of the board of The Maine Lakes Society, a state-wide nonprofit dedicated to protecting the health of Maine's lakes for future generations through science-education, action, policy and (http://mainelakessociety.org/). In addition to overseeing the LakeSmart Program for lake associations across Maine, we have a program called LakesAlive, designed to help train tomorrow's lake stewards. We have a 30-ft floating classroom (the Melinda Ann) that we use to take school students and other youth groups out on Maine lakes to give them some hands-on, experiential lake science, such as doing plankton tows and Secchi depth readings. Last week, sponsored by the Kezar Lake Watershed Association, Phil Mulville and I towed the Melinda Ann to Kezar Lake where we took nearly 50 students from Molly Ockett Middle School and New Suncook Elementary School out over two days, teaching them a bit about watersheds and lake science. The kids had a ball and learned a lot. On the 5th of July, thanks to the Onion Foundation and the Maine Outdoor Heritage Fund (MOHF), we will be conducting a similar program at Belgrade's Center for All Seasons (CFAS) for their Camp Loon and Camp Golden Pond campers.

This area offers some great outdoor recreation, whether you like to hike, bike, birdwatch, fish, sail, or paddle a canoe or kayak. Pick up a map of the local trails at Day's Store or from the BRCA at the Maine Lakes Resource Center (MLRC). (Check out the Belgrade Lakes Association's (BLA) LakeSmart Program while you are there). Get out and explore! Sign your kids up to learn to sail through the Great Pond Yacht Club (https://greatpondyachtclub.com/junior-sailing-program/). And make sure you take a kid along on your next outdoor adventure.

"Climate Change and Habitat Fragmentation of Maine Bees" Matt Scott, Former Aquatic Biologist for the State of Maine

Matt Scott is a retired aquatic biologist who worked for the State of Maine for 38 years. He holds both bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Maine. Matt was cofounder of the Maine State Beekeepers Association (MSBA) and was president in 1976. He was awarded Beekeeper of the Year in 1986. He continually provides advice and bee lectures to many of Maine's chapter associations of the MSBA, University of Maine extension offices, and environmental groups. He owns a 135-acre farm in Belgrade where he maintains several colonies of honeybees. He clearly understands the connection and value of these important insects to Maine agriculture, associated wildlife, and the environment.

North Pond Association President's Letter

ear residents of Mercer, Rome and Smithfield,

I am writing to introduce myself as the new president of North Pond Association and to inform you of NPA's continuing investments of passion, energy, time and money to protect North Pond and Little Pond. As a greenhorn following Rick Watson's ten years of excellent leadership, I know I have a lot to learn. But I also know that through NPA I have met dozens of smart, experienced people who care about our watershed. I am learning from them, and I vow to do my best to serve everyone who cares about our beautiful environment.

Besides a new president, NPA also has a new vice president, Kelly Marshall, and we have a new treasurer, Don Bushnell. Linda Rice remains our secretary and our ever vigilant Courtesy Boat Inspector and LakeSmart coordinator. No list of NPA VIPs would be complete without mentioning Jodie Mosher-Towle, our major grant writer, editor of this newsletter, creator of our unique Are Your Buff Enough program, defender of loons and rescuer of those in the water. I am lucky to be working with and learning from these fine folks.

As many of you know, the biggest news of 2016 was the survey. We are still working on the final report, but the bottom line is that we have discovered many more ways to improve our water quality.

Of course we will continue with the programs that exemplify our commitment to preserving the highest quality of life in our three towns. I'll be out on the lake with other Board members and volunteers conducting "Eyes on the Water" invasive plant patrols. We'll be repeating the Boating Safety Course at the Grange on June 3, 2017. We'll maintain the dam which kept water levels up during last summer's drought. The Plants of North Pond book will be ready for the annual meeting. We'll invest heavily again in manning the boat ramp with Courtesy Boat Inspectors, and we'll have the porta-potty installed next to the kiosk. We'll participate in the loon count and protect loons, their nests and their young. Going back to the boat ramp for a moment, vandalism was a problem again in 2016. Please keep an eye on activity there, and don't hesitate to call the police when you see suspicious activity. Thank you Linda Rice and George Fowler for "replanting" the kiosk on two occasions.

When I joined NPA six years ago, I had no idea how much time and energy was involved in protecting North and Little Ponds. Now, as president, I find it a bit overwhelming at times, just like life. But NPA members and the Board are a force to be reckoned with: Watch out milfoil! Watch out algae! Watch out run-off and erosion! The NPA is gearing up for another great year of protecting, preserving, and educating to benefit North Pond, Little Pond and all users thereof.

Thank you everyone for your support. I look forward to working with you.

Sincerely, Doug "Woody" Woodsum

The Best Part of Staying in the Belgrades

When it comes to the Belgrade Lakes there is plenty to do and see. Besides staying on the water while you are here and participating in water activities, the best part is coming to Belgrade Lakes Village.

Whether it's grabbing a donut in the morning at Day's Store, coming by boat for dinner at the Village Inn and Tavern, or stopping in at the Maine Made Store there is always something happening around town. Visiting with old friends and new the sense of community in the Village is like no where else. If you are looking to visit, rent, or buy in the Belgrade Lakes, make sure to check with your local real estate office to find out what's happening around town!
