ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

SUPERVISOR OF SCHOOLS.

District No. 1.

Miss Cora G. Preble, Teacher, Summer term. Miss Preble labored with diligence; good order was maintained and thorough instruction given; satisfactory progress was made except by a very few of the large scholars who evinced a lack of interest and energy.

Fall and winter terms; Miss Emma E. Stanley, Teacher. Miss Stanley is in love with her profession and pupils; good order was maintained without apparent effort; good improvement was made. The class in United States History deserves special mention. Miss Stanley has had instruction in one of our State Normal Schools.

District No. 2.

Miss Minnie A. Day taught the summer term with a moderate degree of success.

Fall term was taught by Miss Lena H. Smith. The teacher and scholars labored to make this a successful term; good work was done.

Mr. J. C. Long, a teacher of much ability and experience, taught the winter term with his usual good success.

District No. 3.

Summer term, Miss Marion A. Reed, teacher. A strong prejudice existed against this teacher at the commencement of the term, which the teacher failed to overcome. Some of the scholars made advancement, but some of the larger ones labored to make the school a failure.

Fall term, Miss Maud M. Hart, teacher. Thorough and careful instruction was given, and fair progress made; the discipline was lax.

Winter term, Mr. Walter W. Poore, teacher. Mr. Poore is a teacher of experience with advanced schools. His methods of instruction were well adapted to the scholars and although he labored with ardor to create an interest, some of the larger scholars refused to be enthused.

District No. 4.

The summer, fall and winter terms in this district, were taught by Miss Blanche K. Bolton, who sustained her previous high repute as a teacher. This school is fast advancing to a front rank among the schools of the town.

District No. 5.

Miss Julia C. Smith taught both the summer and winter terms of this district. Although this is a small school of young scholars, Miss Smith was not disposed to let the time run to waste or hang idly on her hands. Every spare moment was employed in imparting useful instructions either orally or by means of the blackboard; the little ones thus obtained many facts and ideas suited to their age and capacity not usually found in text books.

District No. 6.

Miss Lizzie M. Nickerson taught the summer and winter terms in this district. Teacher, parents, and scholars cooperated to make these schools pleasant and profitable; good work was done. The bad arrangement of seats and desks in this school-room is the source of much confusion and noise.

District No. 7.

Summer term, Miss Maud E. Hart, teacher. Miss Hart is a ready scholar with aptness and tact for teaching, but lacks the firmness and resolution necessary for a successful teacher.

Fall and winter terms, Miss Minnie D. Goodwin, by her firm and decided manner soon established and maintained good order without resorting to punishment of any kind. The instruction was critical and thorough. A class of thirteen in United States History showed a thorough knowledge of the leading men and events of our country and nation. Miss Goodwin is a graduate of Castine Normal School.

District No. 8.

Summer term. Miss Mabel W. Perkins, although very young, had the courage to try the doubtful experiment of teaching her first school in her own district and by her ability and tact succeeded, handling her school with the ease and judgment of a veteran. Careful and thorough instruction was given. Miss Perkins is a young teacher of promise.

Winter term, Miss Lois P. Hatch took up the work for the winter term where Miss Perkins laid it down and carried it on for a term of fifteen weeks with unabated interest.

District No. 9.

Summer term, Miss Lois P. Hatch teacher. Miss Hatch required of her pupils a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of all lessons assigned. Thorough work was done. The order was fairly good.

Winter term, Miss Louise A. Snow. Miss Snow is a teacher of much experience. The school showed at the commencement that it was guided by no "prentice" hand. This school was not visited at its close. Report from members of the district speaks nothing but praise of teacher and school.

District No. 10.

Summer and winter terms, Miss Cora Thayer. The agent was aided and sustained by the parents and pupils, in his endeavor to make the most of the small amount of money falling to this district. Good advancement was made by the little ones under Miss Thayer's charge.

Corner District.

Summer term, Miss Josephine B. Gage, teacher. At the commencement of the term the school appeared well. But later outside matters began to engage the attention of the teacher, and she lost her interest in her work. The government became lax—and at the close of the term confusion reigned supreme; and yet the classes appeared well, answering the questions promptly and intelligently. A fair degree of improvement was made.

Fall and winter terms, Miss Lizzie M. Leavitt, teacher. By firmness and will power, order was soon established and maintained to the end of the term. The instruction was systematic and thorough. Much attention was given to reading with good results. Sickness prevented an examination at the close of the winter term. Miss M. Leavitt has had instruction in one of our State Normal Schools.

During the past year, our schools have been fairly successful; the School Agents have performed their thankless tasks with good judgment and fidelity, most of the teachers have been industrious and devoted to their work. The failures or partial failures have been not from lack of ability as teachers, but want of adaptation to the school.

In four districts the teachers have been continued through the year; in three others, the same teacher taught both fall and winter terms, while in six schools the teacher had taught in the district in previous years.

The school books have been carefully looked after by the teachers, a few of the “first readers” and “spellers” are badly worn, as might be expected, being used by small children. A number of the Arithmetics show considerable wear. The arrangement of answers in the back part of the book, causes extra wear, as well as extra labor for the scholar. The books are poorly bound and of poor material.
