Cancer Crusade Ward Chairmen and Captains in Rockland and Thomaston are making final preparations for the one-night state-wide house-to-house campaign on April 24 from 5:30 to 8:30 p. m. when workers here will join those all over the state to try to reach the $140,000 goal of the Maine Cancer Society's 1956 Cancer Crusade.

These leaders are responsible for the organization of specific areas and have assembled teams of volunteers each of whom, has in turn, been assigned a specific number of homes near their own to call on the evening of April 24.

"In this great organizational effort toward winning the fight against cancer through support of research, education and service, we cannot sufficiently praise the work of these volunteer workers," Maj. Gen. Frank E. Lowe, USAR, Ret., state campaign chairman, said. "A concentrated effort such as this demands the utmost in planning, organizing and timing, and without our willing area captains throughout the state, it is a job that could not have been done."

Captains are: Mrs. James Thomas, Mrs. Helen Clark, Mrs. Virginia Green, Mrs. Everett Spear, Mrs. George Johnston, Mrs. Mildred Sikorski, Miss Eva Rogers, Mrs. Louis Cook, Mrs. Charles Bicknell, Mrs. Roland Ware, Mrs. Samuel Small, Miss Margaret Carey, Mrs. Rex Garrett, Mrs. Helen Lawrence.

New Incorporation Announced For Baptist Church

Officers of the First Baptist Church in Rockland announced this week that the dual organization of the church and parish which has existed for a number of years has been ended and that both are now officially incorporated as The First Baptist Church of Rockland.

The Parish as an organization was the 75th anniversary of its incorporation on June 2. During that time the church has not been incorporated. The dual organization has meant that the group has held two annual meetings each year, one for the church and one for the parish.

The vote to incorporate as one body was made at an April 10 meeting. The first annual meeting under the new constitution and by-laws will take place on May 9.

KIWANIS PAPER DRIVE SLATED FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 29

Chief Metalsmith Don Hammer, U. S. Navy, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of Rockland Kiwanis Monday. With the aid of a four foot model of the USS Forrestal he informed his hearers of the many technical and military advances incorporated into this, the latest addition to our fleet. Some of the figures he presented as to size of the ship, the number of officers and men needed to operate it, the amount of fuel and food required were of truly astronomical nature.

In the absence of President Casper Claravino, Charlie Foote presided and welcomed Alvah Welch, manager of the local retail store of Sears-Robuck, Co., who joined the club having been obligated by Ed Donovan.

Foote especially requested all members to pass the word to the members of their respective families and to all their friends to support the paper drive which will get under way on the afternoon of Sunday, April 29. The proceeds from this drive will be used exclusively for the scholarship fund

TOWER OF FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH TO BE REMOVED IN INTEREST OF SAFETY

The tower of the First Baptist Church, a Rockland landmark for many years, which is to be razed in the near future as a safety measure in accordance with a vote of the church trustees.

The clock tower of the First Baptist Church in Rockland, standing as a landmark on Main street since 1882, will be dismantled by a vote of the church's trustees, it was announced Thursday in the church's newsletter.

Reason for the destruction of the tower was laid to fire safety. The decision to raze the structure was made by the trustees following an inspection of the building by city fire inspectors. When the tower will be taken down was not reported by the church.

The tower was constructed in 1882 when the church was remodeled and the old tower, situated in the center of the church front, was taken down. Pastor at the time of the remodeling was Rev. W. J. Day. The clock, donated by

One benefit from the heavy winds is told by the church's present pastor, Rev. Edward T. Barram. It seems that the tower clock, grown somewhat irregular in recent years, seems to pick up a regularity during a heavy wind. This became quite apparent during this winter when the bell was striking only once in a while. A heavy wind and storm returned the bell to its regularity.

Other changes in the church adopted by the membership involves the installation of emergency lights, removal of the hot air register, the transfer of classes for small Sunday School children from the second to the first floor, lighting of the fire escape, installation of exit signs, enclosing the boiler room and placing a fire extinguisher in the organ blower room.

pect to be away from the city on the afternoon of the drive are requested to notify the club now, by calling Rockland 706. Arrangements will be made to pick up the bundles on such call.

SCHOOL BOARD RECOMMENDS PLACING EIGHTH GRADERS AT PURCHASE STREET

The Rockland School committee at its meeting on Thursday evening recommended that Purchase Street School be used to house all eighth grade pupils in the city when it reopens next fall. According to the school committee recommendation the school would be operated on a departmentalized plan. The school committee also voted to be in session at the school offices on Grace street on Monday evening to meet with any interested parents of eighth grade pupils to hear further recommendations and suggestions that the group might have. The recent vote to repair the six room wooden structure has caused considerable speculation in the community as to what groups of pupils would attend the building.

The resignation of Miss Ida Hughes, teacher in the Rockland school system for the past 30 years, was accepted by the committee. Miss Hughes is currently principal of the McLain School. She was for many years a teacher of upper grade classes in McLain School and later was appointed as principal of the Junior High grades housed in the high school building.

Appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Hughes was Donald Parker a seventh grade teacher in the building. The newly named principal is a graduate of Farmington State Teachers' College, receiving his degree from that institution in 1932. Following his graduation from college Parker served two years in the Army and began teaching in Rockland in September.

Scout Court Of Honor At Thomaston

A group of five Boy Scouts of Thomaston Troop 215 were awarded their Life Scout badges in a Court of Honor awards ceremony held Thursday evening at the Federated Church along with one Scout receiving his Eagle Scout pin. Awarded Eagle honors was Mike DeWolfe, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon DeWolfe of Thomaston. Mike's father is Scoutmaster of the troop. Presenting the badges and pins during the evening was William Lockwood of Wiscasset, district Scout executive. Shown in the picture, left to right, are Kurt Hoffses, Robert Williams, Daniel Clark, Edwin Smith, George Newbert, Jr., Mike DeWolfe and Lockwood. Lockwood is seen presenting the Life Badge award to young Newbert. Another Life Scout, absent when the picture was taken, was Roy Moss.

Michael DeWolfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon DeWolfe, was awarded his Eagle Scout award at Court of Honor ceremonies at the Federated Church Thursday evening. Fred Crockett of Camden, former Field Executive in Connecticut and New Hampshire, pinned the award on the left pocket flap of Mike's uniform and Mike in turn pinned a miniature eagle on the lapel of his mother's coat.

William Lockwood of Wiscasset, Field Representative of the Coast District, presented the life awards and read an appropriate poem of citizenship and commended the boys on their fine work. Life awards went to: Robert Williams, Edwin Smith, Daniel Clark, Roy Moss, Kurt Hoffses and George Newbert, Jr.

After the meeting refreshments were served. Other awards made at the court of Honor were: First Class, David Melvin, presented by Assistant Scoutmaster Russell Hoffses; Second Class, James Watts, James Fitts and John Ludwig, presented by George Newbert, Sr.

Merit badges awarded the following by Scoutmaster Gordon DeWolfe were: Kurt Hoffses, Forestry, Woodcarving, Fishing; Daniel Clark, Radio, Citizenship in Home, Community and Nation; Robert Williams, Public Speaking, Photography, Radio, Citizenship in Community and Nation; David Glidden, Home Repairs; George Elliot, Rowing, Cooking, Wildlife Management and Home Repairs; Penn Cooper, Painting, Reading, Animal Husbandry and Art; Lionel Cooper, Art, Painting, Animal Husbandry and Reading; Richard Taylor, Wildlife Management, Animal, Citizenship in Community and Nation; Ronald Cousins, Farm Layout and Building Arrangement, Animal Husbandry, Citizenship in the Home, Painting, Woodcarving and Machinery; Wayne Hall, Scholarship and Painting; Roy Moss, Wildlife Management, Public Speaking, Citizenship in the Home and Community; John Ludwig, Marksmanship and Scholarship; Kenneth Brazier, Home Repairs, Marksmanship and Scholarship; John Miller, Citizenship in the Community; Edwin Smith, First Aid, Wildlife Management and Pioneering; George Newbert, Jr., Forestry, Woodcarving and Stamp Collecting; Stephen Melgard, Wildlife Management; Michael DeWolfe, Wildlife Management.

FRIENDSHIP VOTERS REJECT AREA SCHOOL PLAN AT SPECIAL MEETING

At a special town meeting Wednesday evening voters of the town of Friendship rejected the proposed area high school for Thomaston, Warren, Cushing and Friendship by a vote of 165 to 52. The articles dealing with the proposed area school had been tabled at the regular meeting in March. Since the Friendship meeting in March the other three towns have all given their approval to the project.

The rejection of the school plan by the Friendship voters means that the town involved have two choices of action to take. It will be possible for the three towns to again vote on the plan of consolidation and include only Thomaston, Warren and Cushing. This would mean a rise in the cost of the plan with the 14% share of Friendship's expense in the plan pro-rated among the three. A second possibility which appears to be feasible will be the inclusion of one or more additional towns in the plan.

At the present time there appears to be considerable sentiment in favor of joining the plan in both Owls Head and South Thomaston. Both communities now send their pupils to Rockland High School on a tuition basis.

Members of the committee which has worked out the plans for the area school stated Friday that it was their hope that either selectmen, school committee or parent teacher groups in one or both of these towns would appoint members to meet with the area school group to consider the possibilities. Committee members pointed out that it was not their intent to solicit the interest of these towns but that they would be glad to meet with them and provide the information which they need if interested in the project. The committee is a citizen group which has worked for many months examining the needs of the St. George Valley area and working out a school plan to meet those needs.

Tentative figures show that if Owls Head were included in the consolidation the percentages for the other three towns would remain nearly the same. If both Owls Head and South Thomaston

Bates College To Have New Women's Dorm

The immediate construction of a new dormitory for women on the Bates College campus was announced today by Dr. Charles F. Phillips, President of the College.

The new dormitory, which will house 100 students, will be located on College Street between Andrews Road and Russell Street. Alonzo J. Harriman and Associates of Auburn, Maine, are the architects of the new building and the construction contract has been awarded to Paul E. McLellan Company of Portland, Maine. The total cost of the building, including furniture, will approximate $525,000.

"The many friends of Bates College who have contributed to our 100th Anniversary Development Program," said Dr. Phillips in making the announcement today, "will be glad to know that their gifts have made it possible for us to begin immediate construction of a women's dormitory."

"We plan to break ground as soon as weather permits so that the dormitory will be available for use when classes begin in September of 1957. On behalf of the college, may I extend my sincere appreciation to all those who have made it possible for us to begin this building at this time."

This new dormitory represents the eighth new or expanded building which has been constructed on the Bates campus during the past 10 years. Among the other buildings are a men's commons; an addition to the library; a new infirmary; an addition to the chemistry building; kitchens and serving rooms for the women's dining room; a class room building for music, speech and literature; and a building with facilities for work in the field of radio and an art exhibition gallery.

"All of these facilities," concluded Dr. Phillips, "are designed to give the best possible college education to Bates students."

Dragon Cement Earnings Rise

Net earnings of the Dragon Cement Company during the past 12 months are up approximately 15 per cent over the previous year according to a statement released by the company today. Total sales for the 12 month period ending March 31 were given as $16,779,950 which is roughly two and one-half million over the figures for the previous 12 month period.

Profits before Federal taxes were listed as more than three and one quarter million dollars with nearly one and one half million of this being paid in Federal income tax.

Net earnings, when converted into the earnings per share showed a jump of 50 cents per share to a figure of $3.73. The report lists a total of 510,000 shares of stock outstanding at the time of the report.

Chamber Chat

Maine statistics indicate two basic hurdles to its progress. (1.) Too many youngsters discount the value of the "ability-to-earn" by refusing to search out a way to acquire a competitive education. (2.) Too many adults discount the value of the "ability-to-earn" by refusing to search out a way to invest in competitive conditions which support the value of their Maine interests.

It would seem impractical to try to encourage youngsters to sense the value of ability-to-earn while their parents bow only to ability-to-pay.

Those who are able only to grasp the social necessity of paying bills, naturally, can never keep up with those who realize it is worth sacrifices to keep earning capacity competitive.

I sometimes wonder if this state's boast of superior credit isn't tainted with the thinking of the foolish men whom the press reports have starved themselves in a city garret while they still had hundreds of dollars in their possession. Maine's high credit and low economic position doesn't fit the character of Maine's old captains and woodsmen who died "with their boots on."

Sane financing certainly must have something to do with living standards and earning capacity, as well as sound credit.

I believe Rockland knows this and that neglect of earlier investment in a sewer disposal system and a shore road to increase our

WHAT ABOUT THE BUTLER CLOCK?

Great public interest attaches to the more or less immediate removal of the tower of the First Baptist Church.

For some years now successive city Building Inspectors have viewed the structure with alarm, and on more than one occasion fire department officials have roped off the streets in the immediate vicinity during high winds.

The tower was partially rebuilt in an effort to strengthen it some time ago, but now the trustees of the church feel it in the public interest to dismantle the tall structure.

The clock in the tower was presented by the late Captain Edward A. Butler and was originally planned for the tower of the Knox County Court House, but when this was found impossible, it was mounted in its present location in the late 1920's. The timepiece, a Howard, considered the best available, has suffered in its operation from the swaying of the tower.

The fate of the Butler Memorial Clock is a moot question in many minds, now that its present location is to be dismantled.

NEITHER FISH NOR FOWL

There can be no question about Thursday, Patriots Day, in Rockland. It was completely wrong. Some places of business were open and others were closed. The banks, most offices, and City Hall were dark.

The Chamber of Commerce was called by this newspaper with relation to the matter of the opening or closing of places of business and we were informed that no policy in the matter had been set up and the decision left with the individual stores.

The result was the wholly unsatisfactory situation that existed in this City on Thursday, a condition which should not be permitted to occur again.

The Chamber of Commerce is a body which represents a great majority of the merchants and other business enterprises of this City. They look to it to set up a policy of either "open" or "close" on holidays and other special occasions, and the great majority of members will follow that policy insofar as possible. Contradictory rumors of decisions made or not made on the matter were rife.

One fact remains. The Chamber has a clean cut duty to set up a policy and submit it to its members, thus allowing proper public information to be given as to whether the city would be "open" or "closed" on such days.

Let us put a definite end to such confusion as took place Thursday.

WOLF! WOLF!!

Last Saturday the Civil Defense sirens wailed at noon and to the great majority of hearers it was just another noise. Vehicular and pedestrian traffic continued unheeding. To all intents and purposes the only useful result achieved was to make certain that the whistles would function mechanically.

This "Wolf! Wolf!!" business too often repeated can have a disastrous effect on the public mind. If the sounding of the warning signals by Civil Defense authorities is to accomplish any beneficial results some solid effort must be made to have the drills effective and the people who are most concerned, those whose very lives may depend upon obedience to the dictates of Civil Defense warnings, must be impressed with the seriousness of the operation.

The public is not sold on the sober need for tests. They are not alive to the fact that this can be a matter of life and death. A real selling job must be done on the citizens else great disaster may result. It may be necessary to force observance of the rules in the behalf of the people themselves.

"None so blind . . ."

WHOLESOME EXPERIENCE

Reports tell us that the cherry blossoms in Washington were not up to par this year due to the unseasonably cold weather, but that had no serious effect on the enjoyment of the visit made to the nation's capital by a substantial number of seniors of Knox County high schools.

This will be the only time in their lives that some of these young people will have opportunity to see the wonders of Washington and certain it is they will never see those wondrous sights through more rose colored glasses. The "Washington trip" is an accepted institution in this part of the country and it is to the general advantage of the "trippers."

The raising of the funds is excellent experience so long as it is not allowed to interfere too much with classes and the trip itself, first time really away from home for some, is an adventure in mental and moral responsibility, and a first step over the threshold into the realities of life.

We feel these Washington trips are wholesome experiences.

The leadership being shown by this Chamber makes me confident that both of these problems will be faced realistically and with the knowledge that delays will prove even more costly than prompt action.

As unrelated as it may seem, I predict Rockland action on these needs will increase the percentage of Rockland youth who graduate from High School or go to college.

Council Studies Zoning Problem

A group of four city councilmen visited the Robert Burns property at Old County road Thursday evening for an on-the-spot view of the area, the center of a weeks long re-zoning problem that has perplexed city planning officials. Burns, a manufacturer of concrete burial vaults and septic tanks, stores the merchandise on the piece of property shown above that sets off Old County road and borders his own plant. Neighborhood complaints of the unsightliness of the stores were brought to the council recently forcing Burns to petition that body for a re-zoning of the lot shown above from its residential status to commercial to keep his supplies on the lot. Should the Council refuse, the manufacturer would be forced to transfer them back to the front of his own lawn facing Old County road. Although his own property is not commercially zoned he would be allowed to store there as the property was used commercially before the 1948 city zoning ordinances became effective. Both Burns and his neighbors are working toward a solution of the problem. Councilmen have delayed a decision on the petition for zone amendment to May 14. Above, the vaults run across the foreground of the picture while councilmen and principals in the dispute may be seen to the left and center.

NEW ENGLAND LORE OF SEA AND SHORE

By Edward Rowe Snow

EARLY STEAMBOATS

It is hard for those of us who have passed the half-century mark to realize that an entirely new generation has sprung up since we were young, a generation which has seldom heard the inspiring whistle of a steamboat. Let us go back through the years.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts was visited in the year 1816 by the steamer "Massachusetts," the first ever to sail into Boston Harbor. Details are missing, but we know that the steamer was about one hundred feet long and of 120 tons gross measurement. As far as we can tell, there was a crude form of the walking beam type of engine, a picture of which appeared in this newspaper on Nov. 26, 1955.

Steam was generated in a boiler made of copper, but the smoke stack of the Massachusetts was a strange one, resembling an ordinary curved stove pipe.

Luckily, the reader may know just how the people of Massachusetts felt about the new steamer, for I now quote from the diary of the Rev. William Bentley of Salem:

"Aug. 20, 1816. We learn that a Massachusetts Steamboat Company now exists. The members are from all parts of the state.

"June 5, 1817. This evening the long expected steamboat arrived. It excites great curiosity, but has less confidence from the repeated disasters which have attended it. So the best inventions lose favor by falling into unskillful and adventurous hands.

"June 12, 1817. Saw the Steam Boat Massachusetts. Speculation is endless.

"June 27, 1817. Was on the Neck to see the Steam Boat. The number of persons to view was great considering the uncertain notice from some doubts about the first trials.

"July 3, 1817. The Steam Boat returned. It is said the Fulton boats have not been injured. Ours has been under frequent repairs.

"July 15, 1817. Agreed with A. Dunlop to take passage with him in the Steam Boat to Hingham. We had a pleasant company and moved from Center Wharf. The motion was easy and regular throughout the passage.

We passed round the 74 Independence and was saluted with the music of the ship lying between the town and Middle Island. We took our course between fort Independence and Dorchester point over the flats at full tide passing between Thompson and Spectacle Island, then between Moon Island and

Long Island, and between Hangman's and Sunk Island and between Nut Island and Puttock's Island, north of Sheep Island, south of Pumpkin Island, and near the World's end and into the little basin where are the wharves of Hingham.

"On our return we passed between the Grass and Sheep Islands and kept our course so as to pass between Spectacle Island and Cattle Island and up Ship Channel to the town. Both passages were performed in two hours without any particular trial to the force of the steam engines."

In spite of Rev. Bentley's glowing account of his trip around Boston Bay, the steam boat didn't have the confidence of the public and proved a financial loss. By August, 1817, the owners were desperate, and decided to run her along the coast and up to Portsmouth, N. H., where possibly they could sell her. But they failed to sell the steamer then.

On Oct. 27 the shareholders met and decided to accept the offer of $5200 for the steamer, and on Nov. 30, 1817 Captain Charles Vanderford sold the Massachusetts to Franklin H. Story.

On Dec. 5, 1817 Charles Vanderford acting as captain of the Massachusetts, sailed with her from Salem for North Carolina. About a week later the steamboat was wrecked at Little Egg Harbor, New Jersey.

Her engine and most of her rigging and parts of her hull were

RECREATION BOARD FORMULATES PLANS FOR SUMMER PROGRAM

A meeting of the Rockland Recreational Advisory Board was held Tuesday evening at the home of member Mrs. Arthur Jordan of Camden street at which time city recreation policy and summer plans were among the subjects discussed.

It was tentatively scheduled to hold the annual elections of the nine member board but because of the lack of a quorum it was cancelled.

The recreation department's summer plans call for extended work on the proposed Chickawaukie Lake swimming area that will see the installation of the bath house, six picnic tables to be constructed by the Rockland Junior Chamber of Commerce members, the transplanting of shade trees for the area around the beach, the installation of two volley ball courts, construction of a buoyed-in swimming area that will include a crib for small tots, a boat launching ramp and other details.

Much of the work at Chickawaukie will depend on both next year's budget and the co-operation of Rockland citizens, Edward Ericson, city recreation director, said. Ericson said that work on the beach at Chickawaukie Lake would begin as soon as the weather conditions permit.

The area, long a swimming spot for Rockland residents, was partially extended last year after surrounding land was rented by the city on a five year lease basis.

The area was the subject of a heated controversy that existed in Rockland for several months highlighted by City Council hearings on the problem.

Opposed last year to the extension were officials of the Camden and Rockland Water Company, suppliers of water in the Rockland, Camden, Rockport and Thomaston area who utilize the lake as a secondary water source.

Other recreational plans call for work on a softball diamond on the South School field at the intersection of Thomaston street and Broadway.

The field will be made available to softball teams of both children and adults. Work on this field may begin in three weeks, Ericson reported.

Attending Tuesday night's meeting were: Ericson, Gertrude Jordan, Virginia Knight, Joyce Champlin and Dr. Wesley M. Waggatt.

Other early steamers to sail in Massachusetts waters include the following:

1818, Eagle; 1825, Patent; 1826, Ousatonie; 1831, Rush Light; 1832, Fanny; 1833, Connecticut; 1835, Hancock; 1837, Mt. Pleasant; 1838, John Jay; 1839, Thorn.

Then came the great period of steamer travel in Massachusetts, between 1840 and 1900, during which time such beautiful craft as the Nahantau, King Philip, Nelly Baker, Ulysses and Frederick de Bary graced the waters of America's most beautiful harbor, that of Boston.

The MAINE CANCER SOCIETY

CANCER CRUSADE NIGHT SET AS HIGHLIGHT OF ANNUAL DRIVE

Enlistment for the great Cancer Crusade Night next Tuesday, April 24, when an army of volunteers will call on friends and neighbors in behalf of the $140,000 campaign goal of the Maine Cancer Society, was announced as virtually completed this week by Major General Frank E. Lowe, USAR, Ret., State Crusade Chairman.

"Cancer Crusade Night next Tuesday constitutes a one-night concerted raid on cancer by every force in Maine", General Lowe said. "It means that with the exception of special donors such as clubs and organizations, industry, business and other general givers, the entire Cancer Crusade will be compressed into this all-out, one-night attack."

The chairman particularly urged all community chairmen and treasurers throughout the state to try to send in their returns on Cancer Crusade Night. "We realize that in some rural communities, it will be difficult to adhere exactly to the two-hour schedule on Tuesday," he said. "However, for maximum effect, it is essential we get as close to complete returns by Wednesday as is possible."

The one-night attack on cancer has been effectively utilized in other Divisions of the American Cancer Society in past years, but this year marks its first trial in Maine. Campaign leaders are confident that results following Tuesday will prove the step most potent as a weapon to raise the funds necessary to carry on the cancer fight through research, education and service.

Two Old Salts Swap Yarns Of The "Eastern" And The Good Old Days

Captain Carver to Captain Scott
171 Congress Street
Portland 3, Maine
April 8, 1956

Capt. Walter E. Scott
Deer Isle, Maine
My Dear Captain:—
I have read your articles in the Steamboat Column of The Courier-Gazette with great interest and pleasure, and I am very proud that I played a small part in that wonderful era.

I was 10 years with the Eastern S. S. Lines, Inc., and served on such steamers as J. T. Morse, Mineola, Monhegan, Boothbay, Catherine, Westport, Southport, Camden, Belfast, Ransom B. Fuller, City of Bangor, City of Rockland and City of Augusta.

And I served under the able "Skippers" of the Easterns, Captains Sawyer, Rawley, Lakeman, Stanley, Thompson, Philbrook, Shute, Walls, Carlton, Drinkwater, Colby, Strout, Haskell and Spinney.

The Mates I have served under were, (and all good ones) Bill Freeman, Bill Woods, John Sullivan, Lew Ellis, Dick and Tom Birmingham, Dick Spofford, John Hosmer, Jack Nystrom, George Corbin, Syl. O'Brien, John McDonald, Ed Hatch and Les Larabee.

The Eastern had first class steam engineers out of Rockland, such men as John Marshall, John Sullivan, Charles Lewis, Kem Eaton, Lester Harvey, Roland Sukeforth, Charles Lindsey, Frank Radley, Allen Lindsey, Bill Aylward, Arthur Lindsey, Mason Johnson and "Skin" Merchant.

My last two years with the Eastern I served as Mate of the Steamer Westport under Capt. Thompson and Philbrook, and that able pilot, Capt. Leon Spinney.

After leaving the Eastern I was 14 years with Snow Marine Co., of Rockland 1925-39.

The past three years I have been Master of the Gulf tanker "Portland Gulf", serving 21 islands in Casco Bay, I think I am good for a few more years as I am only 61 years young.

My good friend Capt. Ross Kent is Master of the Casco Bay Line's passenger boat M. V. Aucoisco II and is going strong.

Would like to hear from you, Captain, and I hope you are enjoying good health.

Very truly yours,
Cecil W. Carver,
Master, T. V. Portland Gulf.

Captain Scott to Captain Carver
Deer Isle, Maine
April 11, 1956

Capt. Cecil W. Carver
Portland, Maine
Dear Capt. Carver:—

I will impose on the goodness of our Steamboat Editor and ask him to answer your interesting letter through his columns, the friends and relatives of all those you mentioned I am sure will be interested in your nice letter to me.

In those days my job was not only a responsible one but it was trying and sometimes discouraging. I had to be in so many places at the same time that there should have been several of me. I could have never carried on with the success that I did at that time if it had not been for you boys who were so dependable and loyal, and I assure you that I have never forgotten it.

Every one of you on those small boats out of Rockland worked your way up by your boot straps. You were not too proud to stick to the freight truck until something better showed up, and then you were willing to go back to the truck again if necessary to keep those boats on schedule although short handed. I am endowed with some elephant breed, I don't forget, and those busy days of daily trips out of Rockland were not only a bed-lum of activity in that leading steamboat port of Maine, but we had the headaches in our offices on the Boston end, and it was you boys who saw us through. Your services on those boats was one that you can justly be proud of.

You served the Eastern well. You served me well—that is what I don't forget.

I trucked freight with Capt. Leon Spinney and Louis Ellis. I served in the wheel house with Billy Lakeman. I served with the late John Hosmer and many of the other boys you mentioned. My staunch personal friend, Captain Benny Dunton, is always before me. He served in later years on deep water ships with a distinguished record that any master should be proud of. He was a Rockland boy who started his apprenticeship on the boats out of Rockland and staid with them to command every one of those boats.

I received a nice letter today from John Poland of Camden. John is a Governor Dingley boy. His letters are refreshing. I also had a letter from one of the real old timers, Tom Norris, of Bucksport. Tom is now at Staten Island, New York. Also a letter from Capt. Frederick M. Cole of Staten Island. This letter to you through the columns of The Courier-Gazette is very important to me. It gives me an opportunity to thank all you boys who are fast filling my files with your nice letters. This would never have been possible if our Steamboat Editor did not so generously accept my humble and homespun material for his columns. I offer him my thanks along with that to you boys.

Keep your letters coming to me and to our Steamboat Editor. That is our only way in keeping contact with you. You men are what remains of the most colorful era, that century now gone. Keep it alive.

Sincerely,
Capt. Walter E. Scott.

S.Sgt. Howard Crozier Has Unusual Experiences

According to a recent letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Crozier, Hill street, their son, S/Sgt. Howard Crozier is making the most of his career in the U. S. Airforce. In making a trip from London to Tripoli, he decided to take advantage of the beauty of Europe and observe everything of interest while he had the opportunity. Upon leaving London he drove through Dover and took a ferry to Calais. Arriving in Paris he saw the Arc of Triumph, Napoleon's Palace and went to the top of the Eiffel Tower. He speaks of Versailles as being a beautiful city. He journeyed along the Riviera, through Cannes and into the famous Monte Carlo.

Leaving there, he flew to Italy and visited the leaning tower of Piza. While in Rome he chanced to meet an American architect and through his generous hospitality spent the night in his home, the home being situated next door to the famous Italian actress Gina Lollabridgia. Another fascinating experience was seeing the Pope and listening to his Easter service. Journeying along through Rome, S/Sgt. Crozier saw St. Peter's, Vatican City, Appian Road, Castle of St. Angelo, Colosseum, Roman Forum, St. Paul's and the Trevi Fountain, the setting for the movie, "Three Coins in a Fountain."

To end this marvelous experience, he was on the Edward R. Murrow television show, expected to be shown in the states on, or about the 17th of April. His new address is: S/Sgt. Geo. H. Crozier, Det. 4, 6931st., CSS, APO 231, New York N. Y.

It's next to impossible for a man to retrace his steps when he doesn't know which direction he is headed.

Heating Farm Buildings With Solar Heat

The theory of solar heating as applied to farm buildings is the subject of a new technical manual published by the farm department of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company. It is titled "Low Cost Farm Thermopane for Solar Farm Building."

The 12-page booklet gives a detailed story of sun heat—now it enters through Farm Thermopane windows on the southern exposures of buildings, is trapped inside by the insulating air space and put to work for the farmer. Improved stock health and productivity, and decreased labor and building maintenance costs are pointed out, as benefits.

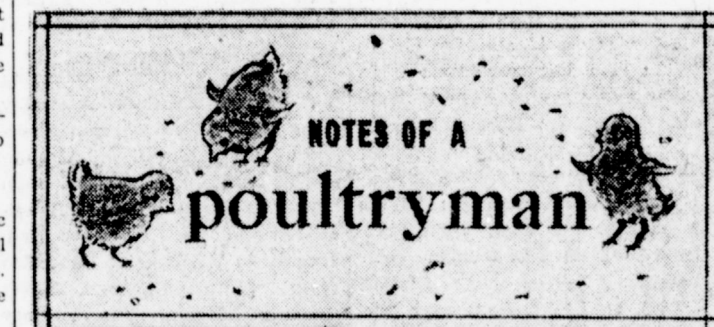

Included in the new booklet are sections showing how buildings should be oriented to permit the entrance of maximum amounts of winter sun, and proper angling of shading roof overhangs to reduce the entrance of solar radiation in summer. The latter section contains a specially prepared "shade table" as a guide to planning the length and angle of shading overhangs. An accompanying latitude map of the United States shows sections where the table applies.

Step-by-step drawings and instructions point out recommended installation procedures for Farm Thermopane. In addition to a chart relating standard sizes of Farm Thermopane and types of sash, the new booklet contains four drawings of typical farm installation details.

Copies of the manual, Form TP-48, may be obtained by writing to the Farm Department, Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., 608 Madison Avenue, Toledo.

By Henry Teague

The explosive outbreak of Newcastle disease throughout poultry sections of Maine is an epidemic that might well have been avoided by universal vaccination in the opinion of many person connected with the industry. Several tested programs of vaccination for Newcastle have been available for several years and for a while after the epidemic some five years ago, vaccination was pretty universal.

The present epidemic is a "hot" one. In other words the virus is so strong that it is even overriding vaccination in some instances, in laying flocks that are six months or more away from wing webbing or dusting.

The epidemic early in this decade established a definite vaccination program among the laying flocks. At that time the program consisted of day-old intra-nasal with a weak strain, followed a few weeks before laying time with the wing webbing process with a stronger strain of virus. Neither of these modified virus strains have caused much of any trouble, although there have been a few strong reactions with wing web, especially in flocks not in too good health.

Firms putting broilers out on contract generally abandoned the intra-nasal practice in broilers to save on cost and we have gone along for quite a while without very much trouble.

But there have been many predictions from those who have given the matter thought, that with millions of unvaccinated broilers, the potential for an epidemic was always there.

This has been just the kind of a winter for such an outbreak to build up. While we have not had extreme temperatures, there has been a lot of cool weather and as we all know "too much" snow during March. This has meant a continuous ventilation problem and respiratory trouble galore.

A couple of years or so ago a commercial dusting program was introduced in the state for both Newcastle and bronchitis. Although many poultrymen continued to use the intra-nasal and wing web plan, quite a number tried the dust and liked the results. The use of the dust has been spreading and with the present epidemic, it

Three Meat Retail Schools To Be Held

The Maine Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the National Livestock and Meat Board is conducting a series of three free Meat Retail Merchandising Schools.

The purpose of these schools is to assist in improving the merchandising practices of retailers of meats and meat products as a means of increasing sales, reducing costs, and maintaining quality of these products. As an end result, producers, retailers, restaurant operators, and consumers will benefit.

All reports indicate that there is a great need for these meat cutting schools. Co-sponsors are the State of Maine Grocers' Association and all meat firms doing business in Maine.

Instructors for all sessions will be: Mrs. Augie Ring, director, meat merchandising, National Livestock and Meat Board; Moreland T. Martin, meat merchandiser, National Livestock and Meat Board.

Schools will be at: Bangor, April 23, 7.30 p. m., Bangor Daily News Building Auditorium, 441 Main St.; Portland, April 25, 7.30 p. m., Portland High School Cafeteria, Cumberland Avenue; Lewiston, April 26, 7.30 p. m., City Hall, Court Room.

Home Service

By Eleanor Carter

The secrets of a good salad are based upon flavor, color, and texture. When planning a salad think of flavors that go well together and the role the salad will play in the menu; whether it will serve as the first course, main dish, or as a dessert salad. Use at least one food that's chewy and crisp when others are soft. Don't forget that attractiveness in color is as important to the salad as is the flavor. All fruits and vegetables should be fresh* and in prime condition. Drain them thoroughly before using. To make salads greens crisp and perky, wash, drain, and chill before using. Salads that are most attractive are served in a simple casual manner so as not to look "fixed". Garnishes should be appropriate for the salad. For example, radish roses, sliced stuffed olives add much to a vegetable or main dish salad. Maraschino cherries, orange sections, and mint leaves are colorful for fruit salads.

Ginger Ale Salad
A change in the liquid adds a flavor pick-up, an extra sparkle to this salad.

Use 1 package lime Jell-O dissolved in 1 cup hot water. Add 1 cup ginger ale. Chill until slightly thickened. Then fold in 1/4 cup chopped celery, 1/4 cup chopped nuts, and 1 cup sweetened peaches, drained and diced. (Use fresh, quick-frozen, or canned peaches.) Mold and chill. Unmold on crisp salad greens. Serve with mayonnaise. For another delicious dressing, whip 1/2 cup sour cream until thick and fold in 1/2 cup mayonnaise.

Spiced Waldorf Salad

Here is an all-time favorite, lightly spiced and molded in delicate apple Jell-O.

Mix 1 package Apple Jell-O with 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup hot water and stir until Jell-O is thoroughly dissolved. Add 1 cup cold water and chill until slightly thickened. Then fold in one cup diced peeled red apples, 1/3 cup finely sliced celery, and 1/3 cup chopped nuts. Mold and chill. Unmold. Garnish with crisp greens and mayonnaise.

Vegetable Salad Mold

These vegetables are seasoned before "folding in" to the thickened Jell-O base.

Use 1 package Lemon Jell-O dissolved in 1 cup hot water. Add 1 cup cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Combine 1 cup diced fresh tomato, 1/2 cup cooked Lima beans, 1/2 cup diced celery, 1/2 teaspoon grated onion, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; let stand 1/2 hour to season well. Then fold into thickened Jell-O. Pour into 1-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with salad greens and tomato wedges and serve with French dressing or mayonnaise.

Unmolding and Serving

1. When the salad is firm, dip a small pointed knife in warm water; use it to loosen the salad around the top rim of the mold. Then quickly dip the mold just to the top in lukewarm water. (If water is too hot, it will melt the salad.) Shake mold slightly to loosen the salad. Then cover with a plate and turn mold and plate over together. Life off mold.

2. Small molds of salad may be unmolded onto the salad greens. For a large mold, it is easier to unmold the salad onto the serving plate first. Then arrange crisp greens around the salad close to the base of the mold.

3. There's a trick to centering a large mold of salad upon the plate. Slightly moisten the top of the salad in the mold and moisten the plate, too. Then unmold as directed and slip the salad into the center.

so very much to us all.

SANCTUARY

The sun makes golden patterns across the tiled floor, and there seems something ageless and of wondrous beauty in the vaulted arches of solid stone. Here there is sanctuary, freedom, at least temporarily, from the worries of the outer world.

In every great life, there have been times of reflection and meditation. There have been moments of solitude to renew a flagging spirit with the infinite power of God, to find an inner peace which comes from another world.

In every life, there are times when sanctuary is needed. There are moments when the quiet witness of the Holy House is more eloquent than all the words in the world.

Often a step into the shadowed quiet of a church brings a resurgence of faith and courage that sets life on a new and greater course. This is the miracle of sanctuary—a miracle that can happen TO YOU!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Wool Payment Applications Due

Wool growers must get their applications for payment on last year's wool sales into their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices before May 1, according to a statement made today by Fred P. Hagan, chairman of the state ASC committee. Payment to be made shortly after July 1, cannot be approved unless all required information is submitted.

Incentive payments under the wool program for the year ending March 31 should average around 40 per cent of the average price growers have received for their wool, a current U. S. Department of Agriculture report indicates. According to the report, prices during the first 10 months of the year averaged 44 cents per pound grease basis. Since most of the wool eligible for 1955 payment had been sold during this period, the average price for the year is not expected to be materially different when all reports are in. On this basis the payment for lambs slaughtered with wool on will be about 70 cents per hundred pounds of live weight. The estimates are based on the announced average incentive price of 62 cents per pound for wool, grease basis.

The Department report indicates that the wool sold during the earlier months of the year moved at a considerably price than the wool sold later. By mid-February the price was down to an average of 40.2 cents per pound, and even that was 1.1 cents above a month earlier.

Chairman Hagan pointed out that even though the payment may vary slightly from the estimate based on the 10-month period, the payment will be substantial. Based on current estimates it will be about 40 per cent of the average price received for the wool.

He reminds growers, however,

4-H Leaders Receive Training

The Nation's 50,000 local volunteer leaders of 4-H Clothing Clubs are receiving training in the care and operation of sewing machines through a program started in 1955.

The program, "Getting The Most Out of Your Sewing Machine," is designed to equip leaders with knowledge and skills in the care and use of sewing machines so they can more effectively assist 4-H clothing members.

Support for the venture is being provided by the Singer Sewing Machine Company. It is the first time a donor has supported a 4-H leader training program in home economics on a national basis. Teaching personnel of Singer are co-operating with Extension workers in giving instructions.

Special teaching materials include information on sewing machine use, adjustment and care. Club leaders who complete the training course are eligible to receive Certificates of Merit.

"When you consider that 700,000 4-H Club members make over 3,000,000 garments and other articles each year, the potential influence of this program could make it one of the most valuable in 4-H Club work," said G. L. Noble, Director of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

The National Committee co-operates with the donor organization and the Co-operative Extension Service in carrying out the training program.

Complete information on the program can be obtained from county Extension offices.
