

To Governor Washburn

The undersigned Citizens of Farmington & of Franklin County are well acquainted with Major Jennings, he is in our judgment a man of great energy good physical health and strength, genuine patriotism, and who has been in connection with the former military organization of this State, ^{in various offices} he has taken great interest in enlisting men for the Army and he would seem to us, to possess qualities which would be readily developed to qualify him for the appointment and duties of command in the Cavalry regiment raised in this State for the Army. Not being military men, we can only recommend Major Jennings as possessing in our judgment qualities of body, mind & heart to make a good officer.
