FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

SALEM May 1.—Capt. Bruce has favored us with a series of a paper recently established at Bahia, entitled "Idade d'Ouro do Brazil." [The Golden Age of Brazil.] the latest date of which is Feb. 20 filled with accounts and animating language respecting a late revolution; and also with sundry revolutionary addresses, songs, hymns, poems, &c.

The paper of the 13th Feb. remarks, that its title, adopted at the commencement of the publication, was figurative of an era which would be perpetuated by the memorable events of the 10th—a day, greatly desired, in which this splendid city echoed back the regeneration of the Portuguese character, which has been resounded on the banks of the Duoro and the Tagus. All Brazil cried out at the same moment, with a holy envy of their European brethren, to cast off with equal glory the fetters of despotism. It boasts that Bahia has had the good fortune to guard the urn which contained the seeds of redemption for Brazil, as Oporto had before for Portugal—that she had heretofore evinced her fidelity in opposition to indiscreet revolutions, which were marked with vengeance, and had no rational object; and that Bahia had a second time evinced the like fidelity, in the events of the 10th current, to the safety and glory of the king, when the dark shadows which ignorance and flattery had cast around the throne were dispelled. After expressing a hope that a Brazilian cortes might be formed, with other sentiments of liberty, it gives the following account of the

REVOLUTION IN BRAZIL.

At 2 o'clock in the morning of the 10th inst. the regiment of artillery left their quarters at fort St Pedro, commanded by Lt. Col. Manuel Pedro de Fretas Guimaraes, and with their field pieces and the necessary ammunition, marched to the Palace Square, leaving two pieces of artillery to guard the depository of arms. The cavalry, commanded by Lt. Col. Francisco de Paulo Oliveira, was posted also in the Palace Square and the streets leading thereto. The governor, the conde de Palma, immediately left the palace, and repaired to the quarters of the 1st regiment, and marched with those troops to the Peidade Square, where was also found posted the battalion of European infantry, reg. No. 12. An attempt was made by a detachment of about 200 infantry, under the command of Marshal Filisberto Caldaira Brant Ponte, in person, to obtain possession of the field pieces stationed at the depository of arms, when a most gallant fire commenced from the artillery, with cannister shot, which after 5 or 6 discharges completely cleared the street, leaving from 15 to 20 killed or wounded, the marshal having a most narrow escape, his horse and servant both being wounded. Meanwhile the inhabitants flocked from all directions to the Peidade Square, shouting Viva El Roy, Viva Religion, Viva a Constitution—the battalion of European troops followed, as did all the other troops. The government immediately ordered all the troops to the Palace Square, manifesting a desire to prevent the further effusion of blood. The troops being re-united, the Conde Palma, with the officers, repaired to the hall of the court house, where was installed a supreme military council, who sent immediately for the civil authorities to form a provincial government in the form practised on similar occasions; which being done the oaths necessary were administered, and the government entered upon the duties of their offices while the multitude continued to shout Viva El Roy, Viva Religion, Viva a Constitution. The ships 10

the harbor displayed their flags, and fired salutes.

On the 12th the militia were under arms, and swore to support the new government. The 13th and 14th were devoted to rejoicing and for three nights the city was illuminated. On the 15th the tribunals were all re-opened, and the late governor embarked for Rio de Janeiro in his B. M. ship Icarus, under salutes from the vessel and the forts. The marshal also was a passenger.

There are no accounts from Rio de Janeiro later than the 3d. of January last, at which time it is understood the king had not signed the constitution, and had named the Conde Villa Flor, governor for Bahia.

The relation of the events of the 10th is followed with much enthusiastic language and exclamation.—“The eloquence of Demosthenes, the resolution of Pericles, and the virtue of Aristides, are about to be revived in Bahia.” &c. &c.

The papers of subsequent dates are filled with the proceedings of different bodies, civil, ecclesiastical & military, in accepting and proclaiming the constitution, with fidelity to our lord the king, Don John VI.

The provisional junta of Bahia, in an edict of the 17th Feb. considering the odiousness of coercing men into military service calls upon the young men to come forward as volunteers, and enrol themselves in different corps of the line for the defence of the country, promising that when his majesty shall have signed the constitution they shall be discharged.

EASTPORT:

SATURDAY, MAY 12, 1821.

Important Foreign Intelligence.

☞ We are indebted to a friend for a Portland paper of the 8th, containing the following Summary of late and interesting News from Europe, by an arrival into N. York, to the 24th March.

It appears that the tempest which has been rolling on from the North, has at length commenced its devastations on the plains of Italy. The cloud, which like the one seen by the prophet, was at first no bigger than “a man’s hand” has darkened all the horizon. The revolutionary spirit has spread to the kingdom of Sardinia, and other parts of Italy, and discovered itself in Poland, in Hanover and Prussia.

The King of Sardinia has acknowledged, in a proclamation, the disaffection of his troops, and it is reported that he has abdicated his Throne in favour of his brother, the Duke de Genevois, and that the Prince de Carignan has been appointed Regent in the absence of the latter.

The Austrian army had advanced nearly to the frontier of Naples, on the Mediterranean and one division had crossed the Tiber and occupied Tivoli: the centre occupied Rieti, and the reserve was at Foggia. The Neapolitan army on the approach of the Austrians had retreated from Terni, and the defies of Rieti, in order to concentrate their forces at Aquila.

An express arrived in London, from Paris, on the 17th of March, with a report that a very sanguinary battle had been fought between the Austrians and Neapolitans, on the 9th of March, in which the former were defeated with great loss in killed, wounded and prisoners. But it is feared that much reliance cannot be placed upon this account, as it was not confirmed in letters and public papers from Paris of later date, and is contradicted in some of the London papers, nor does it appear to come in an official or authentic form. It is very probable from the situation of the armies that some skirmishes may have taken place, and we may be in daily expectation of hearing of bloody and obstinate engagements. The report further adds, that Gen. Pepe, the leader in the revolution, was killed in the battle.

The insurrection in Sardinia and the Piedmontese, cannot fail to operate favourably to Naples, as it will leave an enemy in the rear of the Austrians, and occasion a diversion of their forces.—The insurrection has become general in all the garrisons of Piedmont, and the force of the insurgents has been increased by the addition of the troops, which were sent to reduce them. They amount to between 30 and 40,000 men, who were marching against the Austrians, and it was reported in Paris that they had seized a chest of funds, on its way to the Austrian army. A constitution similar to that of Naples had been declared every where in the kingdom, & the Prince Regent Carignan, had sworn to it.

From this situation of things it cannot be doubted but the war will become general; if Austria cannot muster sufficient power to enforce the despotic decrees of the Council of Laybach, Russia is undoubtedly pledged to support her. Prussia has as much as she can attend to at home; her domestic affairs are not in that composed state, which may enable her to assist in the crusade with her neighbours.

The disaffection, that exists among the Austrian troops, which is continually manifesting itself, is one of the most favourable circumstances to the Italians, who are supporting their own liberty and the right of free governments. Such example is contagious, for the moment men whose opinions have been always under the pressure of arbitrary power, or rather who in fact have had no opinions, the moment they perceive the effects of a freedom of thinking and acting, and of the weight they are entitled to in the moral and political scale, that moment their power and influence are irresistible; bayonets cannot confine them, the authority of no dictator can repress them, they will submit to the arbitrary dictation of no man—“nullius in verba magistri.”

All Italy it is perceived is infected with this spirit—Germany in every link of its confederation, feels its influence, and it is there, it will next burst forth, with overwhelming fury.

[Since the above was in type we obtained a Boston paper of the 9th, containing accounts one day later which confirm the report of the conflict between the Neapolitans and Austrians. No mention is made of the death of Gen. Pepe, in the Austrian Bulletin, which is subjoined, and which is the only extract we can give this day, not being able to get the paper from the news-mongers till late last evening. The Austrians, it is true, claim the victory, but we suspect, from the Bulletin, it was a victory similar to that gained by the British at Bunker-Hill, or as Pyrrhus gained over the ancient Romans, when he remarked “another such victory would ruin me.”]

LONDON, March 25.

AUSTRIAN BULLETIN.

We last night received the Paris papers of Thursday by express. The Moniteur gives the following as an extract from the First Bulletin of the Austrian army:—

“Gen. Pepe had several days since collected the greater part of his forces between Civita Ducale and Aquila. On the 7th he advanced with a body of 10,000 men upon Rieti.—Two columns of this corps manœuvred on the heights which form the valley of Rieti, and threatened to turn our advanced guard, which was posted there under the orders of General GEPPERT, whilst a third column moved straight forward on the road from Civita Ducale to Rieti.—These movements were judiciously conducted, and the points of an attack well chosen. Our light troops suffered themselves to be approached, not yet believing that they were enemies who were marching towards them. We had expressed to them only the words of peace. A very brisk fire soon convinced us that we had mistaken their character. The battle then commenced; it was near the hour of noon; the enemy’s attack became serious, and Lieut. Gen. WALMODEN ordered his reserve, which was at Casa Vicentini, in the rear of Rieti, to march to the support of Gen. GEPPERT. He directed an attack with a very inferior force, upon the two columns which formed the enemy’s wings, and they were driven back into the mountains, notwithstanding all the advantage of the ground being in their favor; the centre column fell back upon Civita Ducale.

“The enemy abandoned that city at ten o’clock at night, after having pillaged it. Our advanced guard immediately occupied it, and our soldiers were received as deliverers.

We lost in this action about 50 men killed or wounded. Captain Schinot, of the 7th battalion of chasseurs, was killed. Capt. Pfied, of the hussars of the King of England, and Lt. Braun, of the 1st battalion of chasseurs, were wounded.

“During the battle of Rieti, a body of 3000 men, (Neapolitans) that had assembled at Leonessa, advanced upon Pie-de-Lugo, and attacked Colonel Schneider, who was posted there. He repulsed them with the loss of several killed or wounded.—In the course of the day we took several prisoners, and among them a Captain of Gen. Pepe’s staff.”

In the sitting of the Neapolitan Parliament of the 14th Feb. the Deputy Morici, after expressing himself in indignant terms against the outrage offered his country, concluded as follows:—

I feel my frame animated by all the ardour of youth, and I beg you to grant me leave of absence, that I may fly to the army. I do not go there to assume any command, but merely to serve in the ranks of a volunteer. I will entreat the General who may command, to let me fire the first shot against the enemy. I here swear never to return to my home, but to drag my grey hairs in the dust of the field of battle, if the country is not saved.

The Deputy Councils—And I—I, also fly to the frontiers to fight the foes of the Constitution.

Council Pepe—I also shall fly thither; an impetuous crime impels me to seek the camps of my country. We shall again see each other in this place, my dear colleagues, if we are not killed!!

Antagonist League.—From the long string of arguments, founded upon experience and the policy of the ablest statesmen, the editor of the National Gazette anticipates a grand Antagonist League to the Holy Alliance, between France and England, upon principles of common feeling and expediency, to embrace Spain, Portugal, Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, and Piedmont; and in the progress of its efforts, to involve all the minor divisions of Italy, those of Germany, and even Prussia, set free by internal insurrection, against the principles of absolute monarchy.

NAPLES, FEB. 16.—The following is the copy of the Manifesto, which his Holiness the Pope has caused to be published in the town of Rieti:—

“The Austrian troops advance; they come as friends; and their march has no other end than to pass into the kingdom of Naples to re-establish there that peace which, reconquered after the effusion of so much blood, has again been disturbed in that kingdom by recent events. We exhort all the people of Italy, and the Neapolitans themselves to receive and to treat them with perfect hospitality.”

The timber question is approaching now to a crisis. By private letters received both in Saint Andrews and the U. States, it is affirmed that the Committee in the House of Commons had recommended the imposition of a duty of 10s. upon Colonial, and the reduction of 10s. from the Baltic Timber. This in effect will turn the balance in favour of the Baltic trade, by 20s.—a sum of great consideration in a ton of Timber. To those who consider the poverty of the Colonies and their entire dependence upon the resources derived from the Timber Trade, this procedure must appear wicked in the extreme. Will it not prove sufficient to change the boasted loyalty of the people into a disposition for reform and Revolution? In cases of this kind, however the Ministers that surround the throne are more to be depended upon than the other branches of the Parliament; and we would therefore still cherish a hope that the ultimatum of the business will be favourable. N.B. Courier.

The Executive Council met in Portland, 30th inst.

PURCHASE OF THE LAND.

The agreement made by the commissioners of this State, with those of Massachusetts for the purchase of the lands, has been rejected by the Legislature of that State. A resolve ratifying the agreement, passed the Senate, 18 to 9; but was by the House referred by a majority of 41 to 37 to the next Legislature. By the terms of the agreement, it is to become void, unless ratified by both Legislatures in three months from its date. The time expires on the 14th of May, and the Legislature of Massachusetts meets on the last Wednesday of May. Of course the time will elapse before their meeting. The agreement is therefore at an end.

File "Mr. Matthews at home."

Dear Cousin I write this in haste,
To beg you will get for mamma
A pot of best Jasmine Paste,
And a pair of shoe-buckles for Pa.
At Exeter Change—then just pop
Into Aldersgate-street for the prints—
And while you are there, you can stop
For a skein of White Worsted at Flint's.

Papa wants a new Razor Strop,
And mamma wants a Chincilli Muff,
Little Bobby's in want of a top,
And my aunt wants six pen'worth of Snuff.
Just in St. Martin's le Grand
For some Goggles for Mary (who squints.)
Get a pound of Broom-wax in the Strand,
And the skeins of white worsted at Flint's.

And while you are there you may stop
For some Souchong in Monument Yard;
And while you are there you can pop
Into Marybone-street for some lard;
And while you are there, you can call
For some silk of the latest new tints,
At the Mercer's not far from Whitehall—
And—remember the worsted at Flint's.

And while you are there, were as well
If you'd call in Whitechapel to see
For the Needle; and then in Pall-Mall,
For some Lavender-water for me:
And while you are there you can go
To Wapping to old Mr. Clint's
But all this you can easily do,
When you get the White Worsted at Flint's

I send in this parcel from Bet,
An old Spelling-book to be bound,
A Cornelian brooch to be set,
And some Razor's of Pa's to be ground—
O dear! what a memory have I—Notwithstanding all Deborah's hints,
I've forgotten to tell you to buy
A skein of White Worsted at Flint's.

Instead of the warm refreshing showers of April, which were wont to animate and enliven vegetation, we were yesterday visited by a heavy fall of rain and hail, accompanied with a bleak north-east wind. The gardens and fruit trees in the vicinity of the city, will no doubt, suffer much from this inclement visitation.

Three privateers, under revolutionary colors, are said to be in the Mediterranean sea, and to have committed many depredations on neutral merchantmen. One of them was lately captured by a Spanish guarda costa, and carried into Valencia. She was a schooner mounting four 12's, and an 18 pounder, and said to be commanded by an American, of one arm. She was carried by boarding, when all the crew jumped overboard, rather than be taken; 30 of them were, however, rescued from the water by the Spanish boats.

A letter from Montpelier, Alabama, says, "The Spanish commissioners for the delivery of West Florida, have arrived at Pensacola."

Mexico.—The reports of a revolution having broken out in Mexico, appears not to be confirmed. Some disturbances had taken place; but they were immediately quelled by the civil and military authorities.

years—when they call on them for their pay, it is taken as an insult.—
If a newspaper is irregularly printed, or not printed to suit the taste of EVERY reader, the editor is blamed & abused; the cry is raised that he is neglecting his business, and deserves no more the confidence of the people —when perhaps, poor soul, the only cause of his neglect, is the neglect of his subscribers to PAY him."

Gravity of Face (Affected).—Persons who assume reserve, gravity, and silence, often practise this trick to gain credit in the world for that sense and information which they are conscious they do not possess.—When I see a gray fool put on this pompous disguise, he reminds me of a poor vain man who places strong padlocks on his trunks, so that the visitor may suppose that they contain valuable articles, though he knows himself that they are quite empty.—How keenly does our great bard satirise such men—

"There are a sort of men whose visages
Do cream and mantle like a standing pool,
And do a wilful stillness entertain.
With purpose to be dress'd in an opinion
Of Wisdom, Gravity, profound Conceit;
As who should say, 'I am Sir Oracle,'
And when I ope my lips let no dog bark."
