HOTELS AND SCENERY

OF KENNEBUNKPORT AND KENNEBUNK BEACH,

With a Complete Hotel Directory.

For the benefit of those who come to our shores for the season, as well as for the sojourners for a few days, it has been deemed advisable to mention a few of the principal places of interest and amusement at these growing and attractive summer resorts. Leaving the R. R. station and crossing the bridge one enters at once into the heart of Kennebunkport village with its wide streets, broad, spreading trees and its large, old-fashioned houses built by sea captains and ship owners in the palmy days of the West India trade. The tourist can well afford to spend a day in looking over the many quaint articles of interest in this delightful, old-fashioned sort of a place.
They will notice the front yard fences of antique design, doubtless copied from foreign patterns that the builders may have seen in some trans-Atlantic town. The weathercocks of odd design, the old-fashioned knockers that have done duty since the days when great ships sailed out of this, then busy, seaport town. All these will come in for their share of his attention, and should he enter these quaint but comfortable abodes he would see queer old articles such as would set the an-tiquarian's heart beating with joy.

Right in the center of the village is located the Parker House. This elegant house, combining convenient and sumptuously furnished rooms with great architectural beauty make it a most desirable summer house for those needing rest and recreation from the busy mill of life. The grounds are finely laid out and ornamented with beautiful flowers and plants. Tall trees shed down their grateful shade, while between their branches steals the invigorating air heavy with saline odors from the ocean.

Leaving the Port village, where the Norton House, a favorite resort for transients as well as regular boarders, is located, and moving toward Cape Arundel we come first, after passing the Nonantum House, which is one of the most comfortable and best managed houses at the beach, to the Highland House. This place is very appropriately named, the house being situated on a cliff overlooking the river and ocean and commanding a fine view inland. The house is designed for the comfort of the guests, as well as their amusement, as a glance at its broad piazzas and green lawns will show.

Moving on past the boat houses and Indian tents we come to the Riverside House and the Arundel. The former is located close to the river bank and on a spot of much beauty. The grounds are well kept and shady, and all in all, the house is a most attractive one. The Arundel is a mansion of imposing appearance and beauty.
While sufficiently retired, it yet gives its guests a magnificent view of the sea, calm in repose or terrific in storm as the case may be.

Passing on we come to the Glen House. All that has been said of any other house may well be said of this, for an inviting summer house it is unrivalled. Just beyond and past the Bickford House, finely located so as to command a magnificent ocean view and one of the best patronized hotels at the beach, is the Cliff House and Glen Cottage which, under the efficient management of Mr. B. F. Eldridge, has acquired a justly famous reputation. To those who know anything of the house no words of praise are necessary. Slightly in rear of this, on rising ground, is the celebrated Ocean Bluff Hotel. This is the largest hotel in Kennebunkport, and for years has been noted as a famous rendezvous for Southern and Western people. The view from the house is indescribably grand. But a stone's throw away the waters leap and lash themselves against the "stern and rock bound coast," throwing up a vast cloud of misty spray. Every room commands an ocean view. One thing may be said of the Bluff—it is never hot there. So near the sea and so elevated is the location that no matter how torrid the day may be it is always cold here.
Crossing the river is a ferry, the only house that at first presents itself is the Seaside, kept by Mr. I. P. Gooch, one

Summer Reading.

A glance at the titles to some of the yellow covered books that are favorites at the sea side reveals them to be the very cheapest and most sensational kinds of fiction. Novels are most excellent reading but it is questionable, to say the least, how much any one's intellect will be improved by a too close perusal of the kind generally found at the beach. It seems to be the popular idea that at the sea shore every one should read nothing that is in any way weighty, but rather some of the sickening and unreal romances, that while they may be fascinating are yet composed of "such things as dreams are made of." No one can be expected to enjoy Shakespeare or Bacon with the thermometer at 90° in the shade and a mosquito to every square inch of air, still it seems as if something might be found more elevating than the trashy literature now so much read. It is seldom that a person (so it is said) is much better than the books they read. If so some of the summer guests must indeed be of very inferior calibre.

A Fancy.

(Written for THE WAVE.)

How oft thro' the dreary winter
I have looked from my window pane
At storms that were howling and whirling
The snows over woodland and plain.
How oft have I looked on the city
That stood like the ruins of Care,
Which oft I've seen in the pictures Portraying the castle Despair.

I sighed as I looked, and I listened,
For I thought when the roses used grow
On the hill, on the way and the woodland
That now were entombed with the snow.
And I thought, as I turned from the window,
Of the season when robins used sing,
And fled thro' the trees and the bushes
With the music of voice and of wing.

In sorrow our hopes are the brighter;
In winter our dreams are more fair;
So I hoped for the joys that were absent,
And I dreamed that I lingered still there
In the villa that looks over the ocean,
And glanced oft back to the grove,
And I wandered again in the village
That holds all my sunshine and love.

But joy, all the roses are blowing,
And woodland and meadow doth glow
With the sunbeams of summer, and vanished
Is winter, and wild winds, and snows.
And soon in that villa by the seaside
Again with sweet Lily I'll stray,
In the morning, perhaps, to the roses,
In the moonlight, perhaps, to the bay.

Oh, what were our lives if they only
Were fated to live in the town,
With its dust, and its pain, and its bustle,
Tho' they be in a mansion stone brown,
At best in a prison of pleasure
Would we live, if our lives to be Far away from the summer roses,
Far away from the sunshine and sea.

So joyous my bosom is beating
At the thought that the summer is here;
At the thought ere long I shall wander
Thro' groves that my bosom holds dear.
Ah, yes! I shall tell you sweet Lily
How in winter I marked thro' the pane
The falling of snows; how I thought, love,
Of the Roses and Lilies of Maine.

The Coming Carnival.

The Lobster boat and canoe club, T. B. Macmasters commodore, hold high carnival Saturday evening, August 18, at 7.30. All boats which may be illuminated will have places in the procession by reporting at "Mooring's" boat house, where the start will be made.

The club depends upon the courtesy of the houses upon the river to assist in the illumination, and also to see that the safety and success of the spectacle be secured by keeping in mind the following considerations:

1.—Sail boats are dangerous neighbors and should not in the evening add to the confusion.

2.—Floating lights and Roman candles ought not to be used upon the crowded river.

3.—Much of the effect of the lights and music will depend upon the quiet of the spectators.

4.—As the procession is open to all everyone has an equal interest in making the occasion worthy of Kennebunkport, and of those who have its interests so much at heart—the Lobster Boat and Canoe club.

Progressive euchre at the Grove Hill Hotel last night. First ladies' prize, Miss E. A. Gray of Brooklyn, N. Y.; booby prize, Mrs. C. H. Wells of Great Falls, N. H.; first gents' prize, W. F. Russell of Great Falls, N. H.

THE WAVE is under many obligations to Mr. G. C. Farnham, the station agent at Kennebunk, and Mr. Vernon Burgess, baggage master on the K. & K. branch, for favors rendered in the transmission of parcels. They are accommodating and apparently willing to assist THE WAVE in any way in their power.

On account of the rain the religious services at the Grove Hill Hotel were not held in the grove. The spacious office and parlor were used for the purpose. Rev. C. W. Heizer of Manchester, N. H., preached an able and interesting sermon on "the voice of religion." It was a logical and earnest address full of apt illustrations and telling points and was attentively listened to throughout by an appreciative audience.

The heaviest mail yet at the Kennebunkport post office Monday. Eleven hundred letters and other articles were deposited by the first mail at 9 o'clock. The total cancellation for the day was $32.23—the highest on record. The average all last week was a thousand letters a day dispatched—something never before realized. This is pretty good evidence that there are more people here than ever before.

Another of those pleasant hay ride parties left Elm Cottage, Cape Porpoise, on Saturday evening, for a ride around the Ocean Bluff Hotel. On starting they were given a general send off. In the company, there were four ladies from St. Louis, who gave the old time war whoop, instead of blowing horns, when passing the hotels and cottages. The merry party enjoyed it hugely returning at an early hour.

The pleasantly located and beautiful homestead of the late Capt. Bradford Olkes, together with four other houses in the Port village, are for sale to wind up the affairs of his estate. His late residence is on the corner of Main and Beach streets and only about 600 feet west from the R. R. station. The house and ell are two stories, containing twelve rooms; the front gable is supported by four high, massive pillars, has a piazza, the underpinning and steps are of hammered granite, the grounds are ample, dry and thickly set with well developed shade trees. The adjoining cottage and stable will be sold separate or with the homestead if desired. This is a rare chance to purchase a very fine seashore summer or permanent residence. Further particulars can be learned of Enoch Cousens, one of the executors.

THE BOAT RACES.
How They were Rowed and Who Won Them.
Tuesday was a delightful day although the wind blew rather hard. Early in the afternoon the boats began to wend their way up the river towards the scene of the afternoon struggle. At the appointed hour of 4, the wind had died out and the river became smoother. Boats lined the shores and the banks were black with interested spectators. Gaudy tennis coats flitted here and there and all was bustle and expectation. The first race was for boys under 16 years and the following crews drew positions in the order named:

First, H. Murray and J. Down.
Second, Mitchell Hastings and Ted Walker.
Third, Bert Walker, R. Thurston.
Fourth, Geo. Noble, James Hines.

All got a good start, but crew No. 1 showed their superiority and won, with No. 3 a close second. No. 4 was the lightest crew as far as size was concerned but they pulled a plucky race and finished third.
Two prizes will be awarded. Sets of silver medals.
After this came a canoe race that was something of a disappointment. The starters drew positions in the order named:
First, Nevin and Bolles.
Second, Howe and Pearson.
Third, Carnahan and Cutler.
Fourth, Agnew and Agnew.
Fifth, Cummock and Taylor.
Sixth, Palmer and Deland.
Shortly after the start several of the canoes collided and one contestant lost his paddle. Agnew and Agnew finished first but it was declared "no race" on account of the fouling. It will be rowed off over the lower course this afternoon at 4:30, after which the prizes will be awarded by Rev. Edw. Clark at his cottage.
The return after the race was a brilliant affair. The fine boat of Mr. C. L. Pearson was utilized as a "press boat" in which sat the lone representative of "THE WAVE." Miss M. M. Palmer, a pretty and accomplished young lady of muscle handled the oars. Commodore McMasters acted as referee and Messrs. Noble and Howe as starters.
Summer.
(Written for THE WAVE.)
Blue skies above with clouds like snow
That softly, calmly sail along;
A world of softest green below,
Where shade trees spread and flowers grow,
And birds pour forth ecstatic song.
Brooks babbling thro' the woods of shade
And rambling the meadows fair,
And lovers wooing in the glade
As tho' for them the world was made
To joy, and love, and hope fore'er.
A swell sea ebbing and to fro
On which the sails glide fairly on,
Reflecting all alive below
The clear blue skies and clouds of snow,
And dancing rays of golden sun.
A lad and maiden lost in love,
Beholding in their first sweet dreams
The joys below, the sweets above,
And who with beating hearts approve
The glories with which summer teems.
This then is summer, sweet and fair;
Oh! would that life were ever so;
Calm, peaceful, joyous, not a care
To mar a beauty anywhere,
In skies above or hearts alone.
—HOWSON.

"Maid of Athens and lover," Miss Wilson and Mr. Flood.

"Paul and Virginia," Mr. Bolles and Miss Brackett.

"Lucetta Mott," Miss Jones.

"The tickling man and wife," Mr. Dewson and Mr. Cutler.

"The singing and dancing girl," Miss Hattie Henry.

"Topsy," Miss Bessie Kiggins.

The rose that I gave her was pressed to her lips
And it mingled, in touching those fresh lips divine,
With the red of the rose and the lily's pure white,
And I sighed for the lips that I hoped would be mine.

Like the cheeks of Aurora awake from her sleep
By the sweet throated lark who sung at her pane,
So the cheeks of this miss as she placed on her breast
The rose that I gave—and now I complain;
For to-night on her breast is a garden of flowers,
And mine—yes, I saw it, was thrown in the mire.
I grieved, yes, a tear on my cheek trickled down;
I felt that her heart had an empty desire.

Love nestled not there; there but folly had place;
The girl of the earth she would give for a friend;
And for love, why a fool who had wealth owned her soul;
Alas! yet 'twas well that Love's folly should end.

And it ended. How glad in these blessed years I am,
As I look in the eyes of a maiden sweet fair;
Ah! joy fills my soul, and a true Love I kiss
With the lips of a saint as he utters his prayer.

All of which leads to hasty consumption, are positively cured by ## Dr. Nicholls.

Office and Consulting Rooms, Nos. 3 and 4 Brown's Block, No. 537 Congress St., Portland, Me. Connected by Telephone No. 441.

Over one-half of the persons troubled with Catarrh have an offensive breath, which is very disagreeable and sickening to those with whom they come into close contact. Dr. Nicholls removes the bad breath in three treatments.

Symptoms of Catarrh.

Constant disposition to clear the throat, hacking cough, dimness of sight, pain over the eyes, pain in one or both temples, roaring in the ears, pain in the back of the head, nose stopped up, sick stomach, dizziness, poor digestion, no appetite for breakfast, you feel a general depression, imagining you have dyspepsia, liver trouble, lung disease, and you are treated by your physician for various diseases, yet you get no better, and are advised to change climate, and in the matter of a very short time you are a confirmed invalid, and nine out of ten cases run into a confirmed case of consumption. Now, reader, why is this? We will tell you: Catarrh is an ulcer formed in the posterior nares just above the uvula, the passage between the nose and the throat; the ulcer continues to eat and discharge a poisonous flow of pus, running down the throat into the stomach and lungs. This, my friend, is what causes the constant clearing of the throat. Can you wonder why you do not have good health with all this poisonous matter constantly running into your stomach? The remedy is applied directly to the ulcer, cleanses and heals in a few applications. The treatment is very simple and harmless.

Consultation Free.

During August Dr. Nicholls will be absent from his office every Friday and Saturday.
