St. George To Open $123,000 Central School Monday

The St. George Central School was nearly ready Friday for the influx of pupils Monday. Workmen started after classes closed in the four district school classrooms Friday to move furniture, desks, textbooks and supplies to the rooms in the new school. The task will go on all weekend as the changeover in the system is made.

St. George will put its new Central School into operation Monday morning as pupils change over from classrooms in district schools to the modern building in Tenants Harbor village.

The school has been a long time aborning as sectional factions and opponents of higher taxes have opposed its construction.

Nearly three years have elapsed since original plans for the building were drawn. In the first proposals, the school had a gymnasium attached, but later studies of town finances and a lack of desire to accept too heavy taxation at this time caused it to be dropped.

However, the building is so constructed that when the day comes that people of the community feel they can swing the tax load of gymnasium it can be added with a minimum of alterations in the present structure.

People of the community suffered through almost endless studies of building plans, town meeting discussions and the problems of financing before construction was started.

Sectional groups opposed a central school, advocating the retention of the district schools and the spending of town funds to recondition them. Eventually, difficulties were resolved and the construction project given a favorable vote.

Strongest in opposition were the residents of the Port Clyde area who have a two room, wooden building about 10 years old.

The new school, on Monday will draw 200 or more students from the four school district schools of the town at Tenants Harbor, Wiley's Corner, Clark Island and Port Clyde.

Housed in the building will be the students from Grade One through Grade Six. Seventh and Eighth grade students will remain in the high school building at Tenants Harbor.

High School commercial classes will move to the ground floor to occupy rooms used through Friday by Grades one, two and three.

Superintendent Keith Crockett commented Friday that he believed the community "got a lot of school for the money" in the structure which cost $123,000.

The school, located on a hill back of Tenants Harbor village, is of cinder block construction with brick veneer. The lobby and cafeteria end of the building, in which is located the entrance, is faced outside with insulated cement board to permit addition of other rooms or a gym in future years.

The building, which is approximately 160 feet by 66 feet in size and of one story construction, contains six classrooms, a combination lobby and cafeteria room which adjoins a well equipped kitchen and storage room for the lunch program supplies. Three gas fired ranges are installed in the kitchen, together with full equipment to prepare meals for students in the new building and the high school building.

end in the foreground. Entrance to the school is on the opposite side. Almost ceiling height windows give a flood of light to the six classrooms.

A classroom is pictured in the second photo and is typical of the six the building contains. All are decorated in pastel colors, including green, lemon, peacan and buff. Floors are covered with asphalt tile and walls are of painted cinder block. Closet space for students' garments is provided and storage shelves for supplies and books. A new type of incandescent lighting is used in the classrooms in contrast to the fluorescent used in other new schools in the area.

At the right, tots in the Wiley's Corner School were holding their final morning classes when the picture was taken. Low temperatures Friday led some youngsters to wear their outer garments in the classroom. At the same time, Port Clyde and Clark Island pupils were holding their final classes as were those housed in the high school building at Tenants Harbor.

MARSH EXPLAINS POSITION IN WHICH PRESENT BUDGET PATTERN HAS PLACED CITY FINANCING

City Council Chairman Henry Marsh has issued the following statement relative to the cash-on-hand position of the city due to a quirk in the arrangement of the budget year.

The statement, while it might strike some at first as such, is not one which points out the city is broke. Rather, it is in a difficult position for good accounting and business practices.

Steps are being taken to correct this situation, as Marsh points out, and municipal department heads have been notified that budgets for the coming year which are above those approved last June will not be entertained.

"For the past 10 years, the cash position of the City of Rockland has been steadily growing less favorable. This is due to a combination of things which I will try to explain.

"When the present form of government drew up its charter, it had two alternatives, either to add six months of a budget year for the current year, or to drop six months and be a year behind on its tax commitment. The latter course was the chosen one but events of the past 10 years have proven it erroneous. In these past years of controlled currency, managed economy, and creeping inflation, it has been inevitable that operating costs have climbed each year.

"Although our accounting procedures have been sound, and our Surplus account shows a favorable balance, expenditures each year have not been paid until the following year, so each year's deficit in cash has been compounded on the preceding year's deficit, and has shown up as a sizeable increase in our tax anticipation notes with our local banking facilities.

"Theoretically, a city may borrow the first six months of a year on these notes; then during the last six months of tax revenue, pay off the current year's notes. At the present time, we are roughly $125,000 short of meeting these requirements plus the fact we need more operating revenue to meet expenses for the six months of the year to July 1.

"The Surplus account would appear to be a logical reserve to meet this obstacle but surplus and reserves do not have much meaning to most people unless cash or other assets are deposited in equal amounts to balance the accounting procedure. Some private corporations do set aside matching assets for capital requirements but the City's Surplus Account has no liquid assets available.

"It seems imperative that means must be found to place the current tax commitment year of the City in the same year as the Budget year, and, although this seems a simple procedure, it apparently can not be achieved within the framework of the present city ordinances.

"The whole procedure is under study by the Council and legal advisors and the solution must be found to correct the situation."

Corps Youngsters Off For Washington

A group of 40 jubilant youngsters and 10 chaperones got underway on a chartered bus Friday morning with their destination, Washington, D. C. The youngsters were members of the Port O' Rockland Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, the group chosen as the musical unit to represent Maine at the 1957 presidential inaugural parade in Washington, D. C. on Jan. 21. A $2,600 fund drive to finance the trip went over the top by more than $100 just before the Wednesday night deadline. In the picture, standing before the bus, are three mothers who came to see their children, members of the corps, off on the trip.

Thomaston School Board Asks Meeting With Rockland Committee To Make Study Of Area School To Include City Students

The Rockland School Board agreed at a Thursday night meeting in the offices of Superintendent of Schools Bruce Kinney to meet with the Thomaston School Committee to listen to their discussions of the possibility of a Rockland-Thomaston area high school plan.

The announcement was made after a letter proposing such a meeting was received from Orville J. Guptill, Jr., superintendent of schools in Thomaston.

Guptill told the Rockland board that the Thomaston selectmen and school committee had met last month to discuss the serious problem the town has in school housing. An area school plan including Thomaston, Cushing and Warren was defeated in a second round of town meetings on the proposal in December.

Guptill told the board that the question of organizing an area school to include Thomaston, Rockland and other nearby communities was discussed at the Thomaston meeting. He wrote that Thomaston has a real building problem and is in need of a minimum of five classrooms to maintain the present education program without giving any consideration of improving the program offered to the children.

"Before attacking the problem alone, the group would like to explore the possibility of a working agreement for the mutual advantage of the two communities," Guptill explained.

The school board agreed to meet with the Thomaston representatives in Rockland on Feb. 7 at 8 p. m., following their meeting the same night with representatives of the Rockland Teachers Association on another matter.

Thomaston, Cushing, Warren and Friendship were first proposed as members in the area school plan for a $400,000 building to be located in Thomaston. Friendship turned the proposal down at a special town meeting last spring and the plan was revised to include the remaining towns. The revised plan was defeated by Thomaston a few hours after Warren approved it. Cushing, meeting the next evening, postponed the matter indefinitely.

In that plan, Thomaston's construction costs share would run to $263,000, Warren's would be $104,240 and Cushing's was set at $32,760. The figures did not include the annual maintenance and operating cost.

In a school enrollment study in another part of the Thursday night Rockland School Board meeting, Superintendent Kinney told the members that the Rockland High School enrollment as of Jan. 14, 1957, was 491. The predicted enrollment for that time was 498.

The predicted enrollment of the high school in 1957-58 was set at 555, or an increase of 60 over the present year, Kinney told the group.

heavy damage was sustained to the car, but a quick jump on the part of the driver of the car, Dennis Conley, 17, of Waldoboro, probably saved his life.

Conley, driving toward Waldoboro on Route 1 about 7:30 p. m., failed to make it up a long icy hill near the Yankee Traveler Motel and was forced to roll his car back. The vehicle, a 1956 Chevrolet sedan, started sliding and became stuck near the center of the road halfway down the hill.

Conley alighted from the sedan to talk with another motorist who had parked on the side of the road a little further up the hill.

A 1955 International van type truck, heading toward Thomaston, suddenly rounded the curve and started down the hill. The truck's driver, Edwin A. Cross, 35, of Brooks, spotted the stalled car and the second parked vehicle and applied his brakes but went into a long skid that ended up against the stalled sedan.

Conley in the path of the sliding truck, made a dash and a leap into the ditch as the truck slid by. Chapman estimated $500 damage to the sedan's right front section and no damage to the truck which is owned by the Maplewood Poultry Company of Belfast.

McINTOSH CHAIRMAN OF CITY SCHOOL BOARD; GROUP GIVES APPROVAL TO ARMORY LOCATION

The five member Rockland School Board voted Thursday night to go along with the School District Trustees in any decision they make in the disposition of land at the South School Field, site of the proposed National Guard Armory, at the group's regular monthly meeting in the offices of Superintendent of Schools Bruce Kinney.

The board did not commit themselves, either way, on the proposal to allocate $125,000 of city funds toward the $400,000 building, but agreed to any school district decision.

The School District, which technically owns the land, will deed the land to the city which in turn will turn the deed over to the state should the proposal meet with approval by the City Council.

The building, to be rented by the city for municipal programs and functions, would be constructed at a cost of $150,000 from the federal government, $125,000 from state funds and a matching $125,000 from Rockland raised through 20 year municipal bonds. The plans for the structure which would house the Rockland National Guard unit, Battery D-703rd AAA, are being studied by city officials. A meeting between the city manager, the City Council and representatives of the Maine National Guard was held January 7 in Rockland to discuss the details of the plans.

The building would afford a suitable gym for school physical education programs and sports and provide a hall for city functions, shows and conventions.

In other school board business, Charles McIntosh was elected chairman of the board. McIntosh, a member of the school board for broken terms for the past 16 years was chairman in 1947-48 and 1950-54. He is presently serving his fourth term.

Arthur Jura, Rockland photographer, was awarded the contract for elementary school photographs for the current year on a vote by the board.

Winter Moon Over Lermond's Cove

By this time, most readers have experienced enough of winter and seen enough winter scenes first hand to last them some time. However, here is one more and it is a moonlight scene of Lermond's Cove from the rear of The Courier-Gazette office with the Victory Chimes shown in winter quarters and the Algin Corporation plant and Snow Marine Basin in the background.

Dyer Tells Lions Uniform Lobster Measure Essential

A team of seven members of the Rockland Lions Club were named to lend their help in the checking of coats and hats at the Community Building during Saturday night's Finnish-American Polio Dance.

The team is headed by Keith Goldsmith who appointed the group following the Wednesday noon weekly meeting of the club at the Thorndike Hotel.

The seven include: Goldsmith, Leavitt Coffin, Jasper Akers, John Harding, Dr. Bradford Burgess, Fred Hastings and David Holden. Guest speaker at the meeting was Leslie Dyer of Vinalhaven, president of the Maine Lobstermen's Association.

Dyer spoke on the problems facing the lobster industry today, telling the membership that a uniformity in legal lobster measurements is the greatest need at present.

Dyer urged a industry-wide advertising program on an industry-state co-operative basis, greater research and more extensive conservation studies and practices.

School Bus and Car Collide On Rockport Street

A school bus carrying a full load of children to school in Rockport Thursday morning sustained extensive damage to its left side when it was involved in a collision with another vehicle on an icy grade on Summer street in Rockport.

Driver of the 1949 Ford bus, William H. Roberts, 58, of Rockland, had just turned the sharp corner from Main Street onto Summer Street, traveling toward Rockport High School, when another vehicle, a 1955 Dodge two door sedan operated and owned by John H. Annis, Jr., 18, of West Rockport, approached from the opposite direction.

The road was too narrow for both vehicles and the left front section of the car came into collision with the left side of the bus in back of the cab. Both drivers and the school children escaped any injury.

Trooper Harvey Childs estimated $175 damage to the car and $100 damage to the bus which is owned by the Staples Bus Line.

Both vehicles continued on their ways after the collision report was made of the accident which occurred at 8:30 a.m.

Municipal Court

Allan Norton, about 42, of Admontem avenue, was arraigned in Rockland Municipal Court Thursday morning on a charge or driving under the influence of liquor. The charge was brought by state police who stopped Norton on Route 1 in Thomaston Saturday evening, Jan. 12.

The charge was continued to Friday morning pending the return of results of a blood test.

Richard N. Morse 27, of Thomaston was bound over to the February term of Superior Court in Knox County after probable cause was found against him on a charge of breaking, entry and larceny of money and liquor from the Bay View Hotel at a Rockland Municipal Court session Friday morning.

Morse who entered a plea of nolo and did not testify was held in $1,000 bond for his Superior Court appearance. He failed to put up the bond immediately and was jailed.

Morse was arrested by Rockland Police Captain Maurice Benner and Deputy Sheriff Edgar Libby at his Thomaston home on Beechwood Street Thursday afternoon after an investigation of the break by police. He was booked overnight on the complaint.

He is charged with breaking into a liquor storeroom at the hotel where he is employed as cook, sometime between 2 and 3 o'clock Thursday morning. Several bottles or liquor were taken and $21.10 in bills and silver were taken from glass jars, according to a report given police by hotel owner Paul L. Zafirou.

Police recovered $15 in cash and two bottles of liquor from Morse's home in Thomaston, according to Captain Benner.

Benner said Morse was at the hotel before closing time, and evidently lingered on the premises.

Allan Norton, 42, of Admontem avenue was found guilty of driving under the influence of liquor on the basis of a results of a blood test and paid a fine of $100 and $6 court costs.

State police brought the charge against the Rockland man after stopping him on Route 1 in Thomaston Saturday night. He had entered a plea of not guilty.

PREPARING FOR BUSY YEAR

It is good news that comes from the National Sea Products, Ltd., concerning their Rockland operations. The company takes actual control of the extensive Rockland assets of the Birds Eye Division at the expiration of next month and expects to have the local ships at sea very soon after that date.

During the interim the innumerable technicalities that come from such a large scale operation will be ironed out, that all may be as nearly as possible in readiness to March 1.

A CHALLENGE IS BEING MET

The annual reports of the several Rockland churches are made at this time and it is most encouraging that the reports in every instance show strong growth, financial strength and a wider christian work.

Over the nation this same story is true, particularly in the field of young married couples who are entering the field of religious life with growing enthusiasm.

It seems that citizens recognize the challenge to Dietry set-up by the communistic ideology and as a result we as a people are turning more and more to the things of the church.

READY FOR THE MOTHERS' MARCH

On the night of January 30 a small army of the mothers of Rockland will be abroad seeking funds to aid in the Polio Drive. The Mothers' March has come to be an honored and highly efficient institution and over the years when the mothers brave the bitter cold of a January night and seek funds for this most deserving cause.

The advent of the Salk vaccine has done much to allay this dread disease but it has not yet been conquered.

Thousands of crippled victims remain to be treated and many thousands await immunization through the use of the vaccine.

Support the Polio Drive with full vigor. The time may come soon when we can say "Polio is now a thing of the past", but the time is not yet.

CORPORATIONS TO THE RESCUE

The years 1955 and 1956 have been memorable ones in terms of private—especially corporate—support of American Colleges.

Just two years ago several business periodicals warned editorially that unless business and industry increased significantly their contributions to colleges and universities they soon would be providing greatly increased involuntary support through taxation. Such an eventuality would mean that the healthy balance between public and private institutions had been seriously impaired.

Individual "captains of industry"—among them Alfred P. Sloan, Irving S. Oids and Frank W. Abrams, for instance—had already been appealing to the enlightened self-interest of business community. And, apparently, that community has begun to take its responsibilities and opportunities to heart. For the Council on Financial Aid to Education, the organization created to stimulate such business support, has just announced that during 1956 corporate gifts to higher education totaled $100,000,000. And, says Dr. Wilson Compton, head of the council and a former university president, fears that business giving might slant American higher education toward business' narrower interests have not been borne out.

The figures support Dr. Compton's judgement: the greatest dollar volume was ticketed for "unrestricted or general purposes." Large gifts, it must be granted, could influence colleges in less obvious ways. The most likely and understandable one is support of technical studies by industries in need of technically educated personnel.

It seems reasonable, however, to accept Dr. Compton's assurance: "I have . . . seen no evidence that industry . . . is attempting to dictate educational policy." Business, for its own good, is beginning to appreciate the supreme value of independence in teaching and research.

DUCKS AND PALEFACES LEADING VINALHAVEN BOWLING LEAGUES

For the first time in two years the Blackfaced are ahead of another team in the league standing and they accomplished this remarkable feat when they polished off the Dogtowners in their Tuesday night match. The Dogtowners took the first string but faded badly after that the Black boys took four points to the accompaniment of huzzas, cheers and all kinds of noise.

The Dogtowners are not making the showing they did last year when they were poison to all teams. This year they are just fish for all concerned.

Helping (?) the Blackfaced was old timer Frank Thomas who used to roll a mean ball way back in the 40's, but who was a bit out of practice and showed it. The height of frustration was shown however by Van Guilford and "Barber" Winslow whose scores of 237 and 229 nearly made these strong men weep. Capt. Chilles of the Blackfaced claims his team, now that they have really found out they beat other teams, will make a contest all the way for the best of them.

Dogtowners: V. Guilford, 227; V. Ames, 251; F. Thompson, 267; D. Walker, 249; K. Young, 256. Total, 1250.

Blackfaced: J. Chilles, 275; F. Thomas for H. Chilles, 235; Rosen, 266; Winslow, 230; E. Conway, 262. Total, 1268.

The Palefaced again humbled the Fishhaws, which has been the Palefaced's habit for a long time, and took possession of first place in the league standing which they claim they will hang onto for the rest of the season.

No very big scores were in evidence, Norton's 105 being the best single and Herbie Conway's 282 going for the high total. The Fishhaws are hanging on for dear life and say they are not to be counted out for the pennant not at this early date at least.

Palefaced: J. Chilles, 255; Littlefield, 247; H. Conway, 282; Davis, 276; D. Oakes, 274. Total, 1334.

Fishhaws: Norton, 249; W. Warren, 229; S. Smith, 248; White, 264; V. Guilford, 241. Total, 1241.

In the race for the pennant at the Cascade Alleys this week saw the Ducks forge ahead again by taking a game from their nearest contender, the Worms, while the Pirates continued their upward climb by nosing out the Ganders in a close one.

Monday night saw the Ducks swing back into high gear when they took the Worms by 62 pins, with Sanborn subbing for Smith, taking the spotlight from Captain Poole.

"Old Timer" Sanborn swung right into action in his first string getting five spares in it for a total of 120 the best the Old Timer has done since they struck gold on Punkin Ridge. This capped the prize for high single but Capt. Poole crashed a 112 in his second string to boost his total to 302, which was tops in that department. Captain Wymie and Doc Rae carried the ball for the Worms but the ball was too heavy and they could not carry it far enough or fast enough to produce results.

Ducks: MacDonald, 236; Oakes, 268; Nelson, 255; Sanborn for Smith, 296; Poole, 303. Total, 1358.

Worms: Grimes, 247; Bickford, 245; Sutfill for Chilles, 235; Rae, 276; Wymie, 275. Total, 1296.

The Pirates climbed out of the cellar for the first time this season to tie the Worms for the third berth, by taking a close match from the Ganders in the Wednesday night fracas. The Ganders might have won this game but for the poor showing made by the three 300 hitters so called. Sutfill, Peacock and the Goose.

Herbie Peterson the leadoff man did a real job of leading with a nice 278 which earned second place for the evening score and Sonny Oakes, subbing for Drew who was out of town, turned in a very respectable 269 but the rest of the Gander lineup fell by the wayside and their vision of hitting 300 became the memory of a dream.

What helped to put the Pirates out in front was the surprising showing of Charlie Mitchell whose 101 was the best single for the evening and the best Charlie has done since Hector was a pup.

With Shields back in the old form and with an occasional assist from some of his teammates the Pirates will make it very interesting for the rest of the crowd for the remainder of the season.

Ganders: H. Peterson, 278; Oakes for Drew, 269; Sutfill, 247; Peacock, 234; Goose, 267. Total, 1295.

Pirates: Mitchell, 267; Olson, 230; Johnson, 265; Sanborn, 247; Shields, 283. Total, 1312.

MESC Offers Assistance To Employers

The Maine Employment Security Commission said today that any employer subject under the Maine Employment Security Law, who did not have four or more employees in 20 days, each day of which was in a different calendar week in 1956, may be relieved of coverage under the Law—if he makes application for termination to the Commission on or before Jan. 20.

The Commission also stated that Employers are required to file a payroll detail report for each calendar year—giving the names and Social Security numbers of all employees and the amount of taxable wages earned by each. This report for 1956 is due in the Commission's office on or before March 1, 1957, and the law provides a penalty against employers who are late in filing such report.

Contribution report forms for the quarter ending Dec. 31, have been mailed to all employers and are due in the Commission office on or before Jan. 31, and a penalty for the late payment of any quarterly contribution is provided in the Law.

With the filing of many reports required at this time, the Commission has announced that they will gladly assign their field representatives to assist any employer in preparing reports and in clarifying provisions of the law—if the employer will request such assistance from the Commission. An employer desiring assistance may contact the Commission's office at 331 Water street in Augusta, or any of its local offices.

THE WEATHER

Some three years ago New England residents were so encouraged about the antics of the weather that they were preparing for Florida temperatures in Maine with the end of fuel bills and cold, with snow shovels placed in museums to be viewed by posterity. The Gulf Stream has changed its course they crooned and the only people to worry were the fish processors who would have to send their boats clear to Labrador, for their catches as the fish chased the cold water northward. Well, if the Gulf changed, it has certainly changed back with a vengeance and everybody's thermometer stays around zero from habit. Gulf Stream, Bah!

The meeting of the Knox County Theatre Guild scheduled for Jan. 16, was postponed until Jan. 23, at 8 p. m. at the Farnsworth Museum. The Maine Council of Little Theatre will meet Sunday, Jan. 20, at 2 p. m. at Tugus. There will be a workshop on set construction. Members attending should bring a box lunch.

Mrs. Daniel A. Lakeman and daughter Carleen who have been the guests of Mrs. Lakeman's grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Glenning, Sr., and her sister, Mrs. Lincoln E. McRae, Jr., have returned to their home in Toledo, Ohio.

At the height of fire fighting activities at the Kaler home on Pleasant street the other night, the telephone, located close to the spot where firemen were working to contain the fire, rang smartly. A neighbor who was helping remove household goods from the fire area answered. The question posed by the caller, "where is the fire?" The neighbor just held the receiver nearer to the spot where firemen were breaking through to the seat of the fire so the caller could hear the activity. That was all that was needed and the neighbor went back to moving furniture.

A meeting of the Third District American Legion and Auxiliary is being held at the Legion Home in Bath this evening at 7.30. The district includes Knox, Lincoln and Sagadahoc Legion and Auxiliary groups.

Firemen, usually found battling flames, were called Thursday afternoon to do a job at the other extreme at the Rockland Post Office. The job was to remove long, hanging icicles from the gutters of the building which post office officials requested so that the danger of them on persons entering the office would be eliminated.

A sedan driven by Gerald F. Gardner, 38, of Waterford, pulling from the curb before the Harbor View Market on Main Street Thursday afternoon was pushed into James Street by another, left-turning vehicle but sustained minor damage according to Rockland Police. The second vehicle, driven by Erol Holstrom, 40, of St. George, was traveling north along Main Street and started a left turn onto James Street when the Gardner car passed in front, police said. Minor damage was reported to the left front fender and door of Gardner's car and negligible damage to the other vehicle. Neither driver was injured.

Rescue Tug Winds Up On End of Towline

The Rockland based Coast Guard rescue tug Snohomish departed Wednesday night for Boston being taken in tow, herself. The tug sprung a leak during ice breaking duties on the Penobscot River and will remain in Boston until repairs are completed.

The Rockland Coast Guard base reported that the craft had sprung a leak in the fuel tank and was towed to Boston by the Acushnet, a Coast Guard rescue tug out of Portland.

The cutter had been on ice breaking duties for several days. The cutter Yankton from Portland will take over the duties of the Snohomish until the repair job is completed.

Herbert Prescott Wins Reader's Digest Award

Herbert Prescott, 48, a Rockland High School graduate in 1924, now an associate professor of English and journalism at Grinnell College in Grinnell, Iowa, has won second prize in a contest conducted by Reader's Digest.

The contest was nationwide and required contestants to select from the Reader's Digest of October the six articles which would appeal the most to readers. Competition was open to college students and college professors. The professors proved themselves better amateur editors than their pupils as they won the two top prizes.

Professor Prescott's award was $1,000 for his personal use and $1,000 to his college's scholarship fund.

Professor Prescott was born in Northport, attended high school at Rockland, and has degrees from Bowdoin College and the University of Maine. In addition to academic posts, he has worked for the Daily Commercial and WABI at Bangor, and for the Providence Rhode Island Journal and Bulletin. He is the author of several books and a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Delta Chi.

Wherever the bus travels, people seeing it can't miss the signs and the advertising for the city, the Festival and the fishing industry.

STEAMBOAT YARNS of Ships and Men

John M. Richardson

Two Tellers Of Choice Steamboat Yarns And An Expert Steamboat Photographer Are Presented

There are many men of many different gifts in this steamboat historical business and it is the combination of the talents of all of them that combines to make an intensively interesting whole.

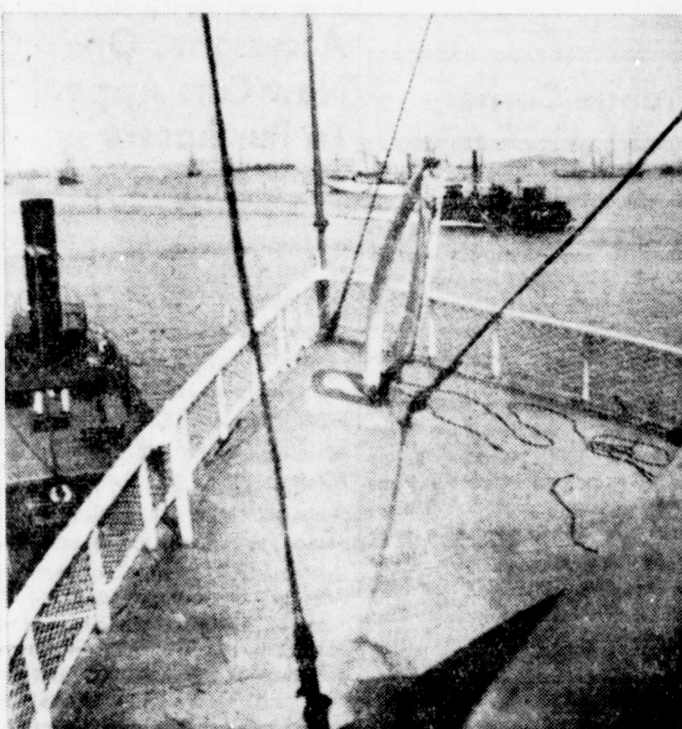

The mind of Captain Walter E. Scott of Deer Isle is a literal treasure house of the lore of the day when the steamboat was king. In his mind the faces of his companions on the old Steamer Penobscot or the spanking new City of Bangor are fresh and alive as when they shared his labors. He can sit on his lawn at his farm home at Deer Isle, close his eyes and see in reality the scene from the middle window of the mighty Governor Dingley and in the flick of an eye can see the swathed and half frozen bow lookout far below, half hidden in the driven snow and spume and can feel his hand close on the whistle cord handle and above him hear the Dingley's great voice bellowing its 60 seconds warning.

Bill Fifield sees the events of the eighties and the booming golden nineties through other eyes. It is not incidents of peril and danger that Bill remembers. He casts these aside as unimportant and brings back memories of the men who worked his watches years ago and hilarious incidents connected with them from President Calvin Austin and the ever efficient Andrew Sides, right down through Cap'n Shute and Cap'n Ike, Dave Weed, George Davis and all the men he rhymed with every day. He can off-hand produce lengthy poems on "On Board the Old Mineole," "The New Bangor," "A Lovely Sail On the J. T. Morse" and endless others, all peopled with men very real to him.

Lake any live historical figures young men too are interested in steamboat history and with their drive and vigor give this vital history writing effort of the United States a strength and energy it could not otherwise possess.

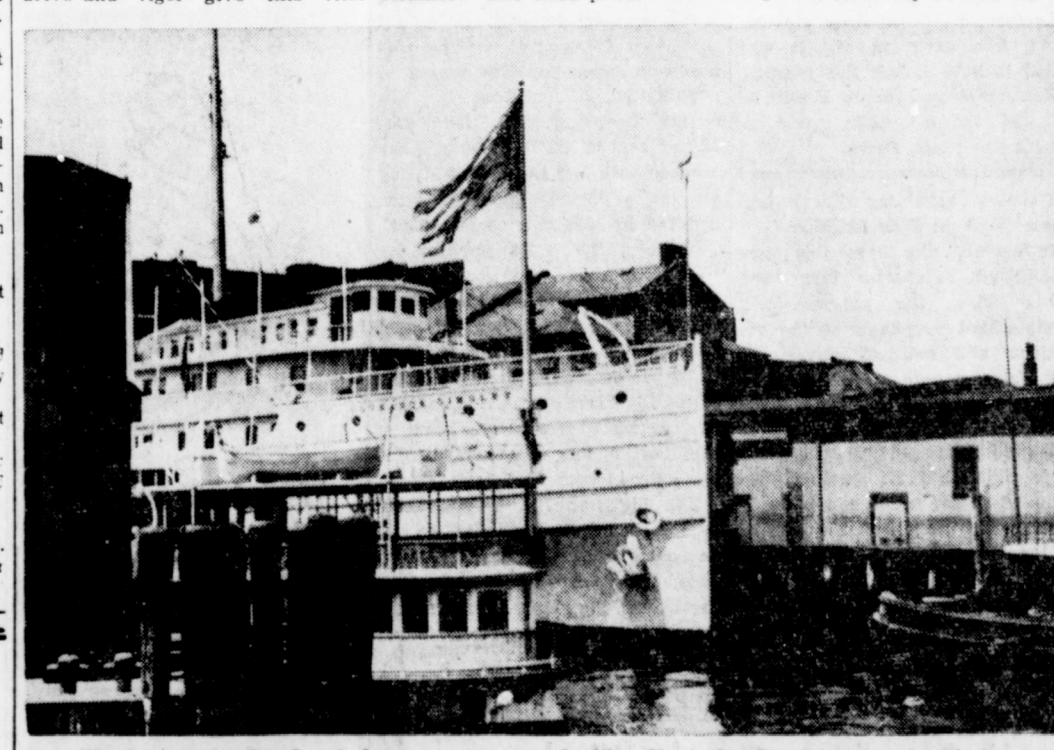

One of the outstanding young men in the group is no stranger to readers of this column or to Rockland because many fine pictures from his camera have been presented at various times and he has visited at the home of the Steamboat Editor.

His name is R. Loren Graham and he is one of the best of Boston's professional photographers. Today's three pictures are by Mr. Graham. One shows the great Gov. Dingley underway. Another shows her at her Boston pier and the huge height of her bow compared to one of the Nantasket steamers tied up in the foreground gives some idea of the size of the steamer. The third picture shows how things looked to Captain Scott standing at her lofty middle window (pilot house). The fore stay so often mentioned by Captain Scott in his delightful steamboat yarns in each Saturday's Courier-Gazette shows plainly. Mr. Graham has made a life study of the past 50 years of steam navigation on the Atlantic Coast and is also an authority on the coal trade sail, towed or steam. As a professional and a good one, Mr. Graham sells photographs of all types of vessel and is also an authority on descriptive matter and incidents in the great world of steam vessels, schooners and barges. He is in considerable demand supplying photographs, information and as a lecturer. He may be reached at this address: R. Loren Graham, 108 Faragut Rd., Swampscott Mass.

The bow of the Dingley is here seen compared with a Nantasket Beach steamer in the foreground. Note the extreme height of the Dingley's bow. All photos by Graham

MacPhail, Sr., Mrs. H. E. Mid-Coast Assn. Meets Wednesday At Augusta House

The Mid Coast Route 1 Association will take a meeting away from the coast for the first time Wednesday when a session will be held at Augusta. The dinner-meeting, which is scheduled for the Augusta House at 6.30 p. m., is for the convenience of legislators, Governor Muskie, DDIC Commissioner Fred A. Clough, Jr. and members of the Highway Commission.

Speaker of the evening will be Mr. Clough who was recently appointed to head the state's department charged with the promotion of industry, commerce and recreation.

Mid Coast President Frederic H. Bird of Rockland will announce his appointments to the Association's legislative committee.

The highway committee will report on Route 1 construction planning.

Mid Coast leaders plan an active campaign at Augusta during the term of legislature to obtain authority for construction of an adequate highway to serve the coast from west of Brunswick through to Ellsworth.

In previous meetings, proposals of a state bond issue have been made for the building of a 24 foot paved surface road with 10 foot shoulders and passing lanes on hills.

The Association has been recorded as preferring this type of road to a non-access, dual lane highway which would cut off existing business along the shore.

The man who stubs his toe and blames himself shows character.

FARM AND GRANGE NEWS OF INTEREST IN KNOX AND LINCOLN COUNTIES

By Henry Teague

Those profit figures given out in the "Kansas Caged Layer Plan" are certainly pretty fancy. In fact they now appear to some experienced poultrymen to be a little too fancy to be true.

G. T. "Chick" Klein, former Massachusetts poultry specialist in his current column in New England Homestead expresses himself as a doubting Thomas and offers the question: "Might not the net return be nearer a dollar a bird?"

Poultrymen in the Northeastern area are not exactly contented with a dollar a bird return per year of lay, but they know that that is a get-by figure with a little over if the flock is large enough, say 5,000 birds. Nowadays, $1.25 is a comfortable profit and $1.50 is nice to think about, and once in a while a year has come along when it has gone considerably higher.

Along comes this Kansas plan with what is claimed to be a profit producing program to the tune of $3.25 a bird with no pullets to raise and continuous operation year in and year out at practically the same profit.

It would be interesting to know how many poultrymen in this area have already sent in for cage catalogs and perhaps have surveyed their buildings in hopes that the same kind of lightning will strike in Maine.

Before you order any cages or agree to go in on any such plan look over those figures which have now been printed in several magazines. You buy the pullets at a cost of $2.31 each at 24 weeks old. It is estimated that the birds will be liquidated at the rate of seven per cent a month. Unless the Kansas price for fowl is far higher than the Maine price, the meat return will be around 30 cents a bird. A seven per cent replacement would mean an average of 118 birds at a cost of about $2.00 each or $236.00 a month.

There are some other pretty important costs that are not mentioned but they do have to come out of the profit, namely taxes, insurance, electricity, supplies, and depreciation of buildings and equipment.

No mention is made of certain poultry problems that we have to consider with layers, caged or not. The disease problem is always with us. Parasites are possible, even in cages. There are bound to be a certain number of small and imperfect eggs.

Mr. Klein tells us that that depreciation rate of cages is quite high. He reports that in Florida, cages have been known to rust out in three years. The cost of the cages is $2,100.00 in the Kansas plan. Cage replacement costs can be quite an item.

Another thing is that this is not a tested plan. The setup calls for a three year contract with a local egg buyer at a minimum rate of 37 cents a dozen for grade A large eggs. After three years what?

If the idea is actually sound on the basis of over $6,000 a year labor income from a flock of 1680 birds, it is certainly going to revolutionize the poultry industry. If a poultryman can make that much tending 1,680 birds where we are going to find men willing to raise pullets for $2.31 each, or for that matter, breeders to produce the hatching eggs?

In fact, who would want to raise breeders anyway unless the returns were far higher than they are now? One thing is certain, breeders will never be put in single bird cages.

If it could be true that this plan will produce a $3.25 a bird yearly profit, the plan would sweep the country as fast as it could be organized. The rush of new operators into caged egg producing would be so great that the whole structure would topple and certainly chaos would result.

I will admit that there probably be a modest profit for a well run operation, but as Mr. Klein says it looks like near a dollar a bird to him.

I suppose that most of us wish that such a setup could be true and that some day soon we would be invited to participate in a similar program. Such an invitation may come, but before you sign up, please check the figures carefully and see that all costs are included. You may well find that you are better off to stay with the "old fashioned" methods of producing eggs.

Corbett Suggests Dairymen Plan For Year Now

It's none too soon to begin planning for economical milk production during the coming year, says Ralph A. Corbett, Extension dairyman, University of Maine.

Feed accounts for about one-third of the total expense of producing milk in Maine, points out Corbett, so that's a good place to try to begin cutting costs. He suggests planning for a top notch forage program this year. With abundant, top-quality, home-grown hay, silage, and pasture available to your cows, you'll be able to feed less grain and produce more milk much more cheaply.

Corbett says that research proves that money spent for fertilizer and lime is the best investment in economical milk production most Maine dairymen can make. Fertilizer returns much more milk per dollar spent than does feed, studies have shown.

Grass silage is becoming an essential for economical milk production, adds Corbett. Everyone of the 18 top contestants in the 1956 New England Green Pastures Contest put up grass silage to help cut milk production costs. Grass silage makes milk.

So, says Corbett, plan to fertilize and lime fields for highest yields of hay, pasture, and silage in 1957. Making milk economically will help make 1957 a profitable year for Maine farmers.

Farm Operators Must Report On Workers' Pay

Farm operators who have paid any farmhand as much as $100 in cash wages during the year 1956 must file an employer's tax return for agricultural employees, according to an announcement by George M. Field, district manager of the Augusta office of the Social Security Administration.

This return should be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue, Augusta, by January 31, along with the Social Security taxes on wages reported. The return must show the name, Social Security number, and wages paid to each farm employee whose cash wages in 1956 amounted to $100 or more.

Beginning with 1957, a farm operator is required to report the wages of every farm employee to whom he pays $150 or more cash wages during 1957, or who works for him on 20 or more days during 1957 on a time basis, regardless of the total cash wages paid.

A free booklet entitled "How Does Social Security Affect Farm Families" may be obtained by writing to the Social Security Administration, Post Office Building, Augusta.

Reservations For Farm-Home Week Now Available

Housing plans for the 50th annual Farm and Home Week at the University of Maine are complete. Professor Herbert A. Leonard, program committee chairman, announced today that room reservations are open to everyone and that reservation cards have been sent to all guests who lived in dormitories during part or all of the 1956 Farm and Home session.

"The expected increase in registration for this 50th anniversary event makes it desirable to have room reservations made well in advance," said Professor Leonard. Rooms may be reserved for any night of the four-day program by writing William C. Wells, Manager of Dormitories, University of Maine, Orono.

The 1957 program will start on Monday, April 1, and continue through Thursday, April 4, commemorating the 50-year growth of

Extensioners On Increase In Nine Counties

Nine County Extension Associations in Maine reported on Jan. 1 that they had larger memberships than a year ago, according to Seavey A. Piper of Troy, president of the Maine Extension Association.

The nine counties with increased memberships are: Knox, Lincoln, York, Waldo, Southern Arrostook, Oxford, Somerset, Northern Arrostook, Franklin, and Washington. Even more significant, Oxford and York Counties also reported larger memberships already than they achieved throughout all of 1956, added Piper.

Total Extension Association membership in Maine reached 16,757 on Jan. 1. This was 263 ahead of a year earlier. During the month of December membership increased by 1110. Largest December increases were in Central Arrostook, Androscoggin, Sagadahoc, Washington, and Cumberland counties. All but three counties had more than 1000 members.

CHRISTMAS TREE MEN MEET

Knox-Lincoln County Christmas tree growers met at the Waldo-boro Municipal Building Thursday afternoon. Planting and growing of the trees was discussed as well as thinning and various types of pruning. Federal Land Bank programs and their effect on growers was one of the general topics brought up as well as the work being done by the newly formed Maine Christmas Tree Association.

Speakers were Extension forestry specialist Lewis Bissell and Robert Umberger, state farm forester. The meeting was led by County Agent Gil Jaeger. Present, also, were Robert Sprague, Bangor, vice president of the Maine Association, and Percy Moody, Waldo-boro, a director.

D-500 was introduced.

The optional item that has failed to keep pace is tinted glass. While 37.6 per cent ordered it in 1955, the current demand has slipped to 20 per cent.

Accessories On New Cars Appeal To Purchasers

Safety, comfort and convenience are fast becoming as important to today's automobile customer as are design and performance, according to Lee F. Desmond, Dodge vice president in charge of sales.

A three year study of Dodge reveals that demand for optional equipment auto accessories is rising steadily. For example, the study shows an overwhelming increase in orders for automatic transmissions. The new Torque-Flite is being ordered on 60.5 per cent of all 1957 models, while PowerFlite is requested on 35.1 per cent—making a total of 95.6 per cent orders for automatic transmission.

Standard transmission orders total only 4.4 per cent in contrast to 8.3 in 1956 and 13.2 in 1955. Full-time power steering is being ordered on one-third of all 1957 Dodge cars, a sharp increase over the 1955 figure of 22.9 per cent. Orders for power brakes have increased from 13.7 per cent in 1955 to 21.9 on the current models.

Over 60 per cent of today's new car customers order radios, compared to 48.2 in 1955. Dual rear antennas are ordered on 30 per cent of today's cars; only 19.2 per cent requested them last year.

Demand for outside left mirrors, an important safety feature, has risen to 90 per cent on 1957 as opposed to 35.4 per cent in 1955.

Orders for windshield washers, too, have steadily increased from 23.5 in 1955 to 38 per cent for 1957, while back-up lights are now ordered on 92 per cent in contrast to 68 per cent in 1955.

Modern automotive styling probably accounts for the increased popularity of whitewall tire orders, Desmond says. Thus far, 78 per cent of all 1957 Dodges are ordered with this important styling feature, while 59.9 per cent were ordered in 1955 and 60.2 in 1956.

Heaters, the most popular optional item, are now ordered on almost 98 per cent of 1957 models. Orders for glare-proof mirrors have shown an amazing increase to 90 per cent over the 1955 figure of 15.5. Plastic steering wheels are requested on 52 per cent of the 1957 models in contrast to 36 per cent in both 1955 and 1956.

The high-powered Dodge D-500 engine has been ordered on 7.1 per cent of the current models, compared to 2.9 per cent in 1956, the year the high performance maine farmers advised to use still more lime

It would pay handsomely for Maine farmers to use more lime, says Paul N. Mosher, Extension Service crops specialist, University of Maine.

Soil tests by the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station show that, although many tons of lime are used each year, the amount falls far short of needed levels. Mosher says that lime helps make available the plant food in the soil. Not only that but it's very cheap for the value received.

Mosher suggests that farmers take advantage of the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) time to the limit, but not stop there. This lime is a very good buy but so is that bought directly through commercial channels. The increased yield which result will pay for the lime many times over, he explains.

Farmers who haven't had their soil tested in recent years would be wise to get samples taken as early as possible this spring. Samples are submitted to the Soil Testing Laboratory, Plant Science Building, University of Maine, Orono. County agents at Extension Service offices throughout the state have detailed information on soil testing. They also have soil fertility record books for farmers.

Feb. 15 Deadline For ACP Program

The initial sign up period for Knox and Lincoln County farmers to enroll in the 1957 Agricultural Conservation Program is now in effect and will continue through Feb. 15, according to Mrs. Joan L. Powell, County ASC office manager.

Although farmers may enroll any time during the year, there may not be funds available for approval of practices requested after the initial sign up period.

A farm contact will be made during this period by ASC community committeemen to enroll farmers in the program. It is, however, still the farmer's responsibility to see that he is enrolled. If a committeeman does not call before Feb. 10, farmers should either call on him or apply to the county ASC office in the Rockland post office building, second floor.

The 1957 ACP is very similar to the 1956 program. Lime, super, seeding practices, soil conservation practices, 8-16-16 and 0-20-20 fertilizer and forestry improvement practices are included.

Committeemen have been trained and are now contacting all farmers enrolled in the 1956 program. Committeemen are: Ralph C. Wentworth, Hope; Albert Orr, Friendship, Alonzo Meservy, Appleton; Harold Watts, St. George; Frank Flagg, Jefferson; John Dancer, Whitefield; Charles Cross, Cedar Grove; Herbert Spear, Waldo-boro; William Bryant, Jr., Damariscotta Mills or J. Malcolm Barter, Bremen.

COUNTERPANE CATHEDRAL

There was a man who had stopped going to church because, he said, "Church doesn't make me feel any nearer to God."

One night he stepped into the children's room to kiss them good night. And suddenly he felt as though he were in church. There was a pillowed altar and a devout congregation in prayer. Yet he didn't feel any nearer to God.

And in that moment he learned the truth that every soul must learn; religion is not some outer force that brings God close to a man. Religion is man's inner yearning which reaches up and discovers how near God is.

And so, from the example of his children, he learned how to find the faith which had eluded him. And, finding it, he returned to church to share with other Christians the rich experience of worship . . . to receive the spiritual gifts of Word and Sacrament . . . to serve Christ in the vital, challenging work of the Church.

He knows that in church—or in a moonlit nursery—God is near those who want Him near!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

VINALHAVEN HEALTH COUNCIL OFFERS SALK VACCINE TO ADULTS

A meeting of the Vinalhaven Health Council was held on Monday evening at the Medical Building. The theme of the meeting was introduced by the chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Sutcliffe.

The group was reminded that in Maine this year only 21 cases of polio were reported as compared to 203 cases in 1955, thus reflecting the effect of the Salk vaccine.

There will be available in Vinalhaven to adults over 20 years of age beginning Wednesday, Jan. 23, group inoculations of Salk vaccine. The cost will be a minimum of three shots for $4 as compared to $10 in most places. This is being made possible by the Vinalhaven Health Council in conjunction with Dr. Ralph Earle and Nurse Marjorie Rascoe.

A movie on the manufacture of the Salk vaccine was shown at the meeting.

Gladys Dyer was elected chairman of a group to look into the dental preventive program for children. Mrs. Mary Sukeforth and Mrs. Bessie Geary are also serving on this committee.

Plans were started for the Fourth of July Tag Day and Cora Peterson was appointed chairman of fancy work table; Ellen Conway, doll clothes; and Isabel Osgood, used toys.

The blood trying program, originally scheduled for January, has been postponed until March. A report of the tuberculosis films was given, showing that 250 chest plates were done in the past year at a cost of $1 to the patient. An additional cost of $1.30 per patient was paid by the Health Council, including costs of mailing, retakes, and telephone expenses.
