Review of the Maine State Cultural Affairs Council and the Cultural Agencies and Organizations Reporting under the Government Evaluation Act

The Government Evaluation Act

The Government Evaluation Act provides for a system of periodic review of the efficacy and performance of state government agencies (3 MRSA §951 et seq). The keystone of the Act is the agency's program evaluation report that consists of a number of components required by the statute. Essentially, the report is an agency self-assessment, which the committee of jurisdiction uses as a starting point for its evaluation of the agency's effectiveness, efficiency and performance.

Review Process

In May of 2007, the Joint Standing Committee on Education and Cultural Affairs notified the Maine State Cultural Affairs Council of its intent to review the council pursuant to the schedule established in 3 MRSA §959. The council submitted a program evaluation report as requested. On January 31, 2008, Erik Jorgenson, Executive Director of the Maine Humanities Council, gave an oral presentation of the report on behalf of John Rohman, the Chair of the Maine State Cultural Affairs Council. Reports from the various agencies with membership on the council were also received on that day as follows:

- Maine Arts Commission, Donna McNeil
- Maine Historic Preservation Commission - Kirk Mohnney
- Maine State Library - Gary Nichols
- Maine Library Commission – Steven Nichols
- Maine State Museum - J.R. Phillips
- Maine State Museum Commission - Margaret Kelley
- Maine Historical Society – Steven Bromage for Richard D'Abate
- Office of the State Historian – Earle Shettleworth

On the same day the committee received a briefing from Rebecca Wyke, Commissioner of Administrative and Financial Services and Edward Karass, the State Controller on an audit of the relationship among the cultural agencies, the Maine Cultural Affairs Council, the Maine Community Cultural Alliance, and Verrill Dana, LLC.

During the Second Session of the 124th Legislature, L.D. 1993 Resolve, Establishing the Commission To Review the Accountability of State Cultural Agencies, was referred to

Introduction:

Since the last report to the Joint Standing Committee on Education and Cultural Services, the Maine State Library has undertaken some major initiatives and some smaller ventures into new services, while continuing to provide exemplary services to individuals and libraries all over Maine. The reader will find in this report goals and initiatives that are representative of the work of the library, but which can never carry the full measure of all the threads that it takes to weave together the varied aspects of the Maine State Library's work.

There are five achievements that highlight the depth and reach of the Maine State Library's work: the electronic infrastructure, the Maine State Library web site, the astonishing success of the outreach services Books-by-Mail program, the efficiencies and cost savings provided by the van delivery system, and the work being done to expand services to individuals certified as blind, visually impaired, or physically handicapped. Highlighting these briefly will provide a foundation for understanding the balance of this report.

Electronic Infrastructure:

It is a fundamental goal of the Maine State Library to provide access to information resources to all residents of Maine, regardless of geographic location or economic circumstances. The Maine State Library has dedicated considerable attention to achieving that goal and has made remarkable progress through the adoption of the Marvel! databases. This electronic resource provides reliable sources, e.g. on-line magazines, newspapers, and reference books in either full text or abstract to people with access to the Internet from schools, offices, their homes, or at their local libraries around the state. Marvel! is part of the Maine InfoNet system which combines electronic and physical sources to create a virtual library linking resources from libraries around the state into one system. Most of the electronic connectivity among Maine libraries (and schools) is via the Maine School and Library Network (MSLN) established in 1996. MSLN resulted from a May 1995 Public Utilities Commission (PUC) rate case settlement and was designed collaboratively among the PUC, the Maine State Library, and the Maine Department of Education.

MSL Web Site – this exemplary, completely accessible web site crosses all program boundaries. Maine residents can sign up for an MSL library card, place books on reserve, renew books, access MARVEL, Maine's virtual library, and search MSL's catalog from their homes. Other features of this web site allow patrons to:

- Subscribe to an e-newsletter readers' advisory service
- Find the latest new books or audio books
- Enroll in Outreach programs such as disability services like Large Print & Talking Books or other programs such as Books by Mail for those no local library or limited services
- Access and utilize statewide catalogs
- Check hours, map directions, find wireless access, and learn about their programming at local libraries
- Use the "ask a librarian" feature
- Calculate what their library is worth to them
- Sign up for classes
- Coming: Search for information on Famous Mainers
- Link to state government forms (e.g. renew a driver's license, obtain a hunting & fishing license, purchase or renew a dog license)

- Librarians (and their staff) can update their library profile online, search for a library job through the state, access interlibrary van delivery services and discounted library vendors, gather library statistics, access helpful web sites including WebJunction, a national portal for librarians, as well as locate information on library organizations, library policies and a myriad of other professional materials.

Books By Mail:

The success of this structural change showed up clearly in the remarkable jump in the number of items ordered through the Books-by-Mail program. The Books-by-Mail department indicates that there is a clear connection to the increase in ordering and the placing of the database for this program on-line. Users now had the full range of options at their fingertips and showed their enthusiasm by ordering additional materials. The volume of orders grew to such proportions that the budget of the MSL for postage could not keep up with the requests and on July 1, 2007, for the first time in the history of the program, users were required to pay for the return postage. Paying for return postage has unfortunately slowed down the volume of requests.

Van Delivery System: In 2003 MSL contracted with a private courier service to deliver library materials between public, academic, school and special libraries in Maine. This system has grown to include 116 libraries that spend $170,000 per year for delivery. This charge is far less than the costs associated with shipping materials through the postal service and in addition saves a significant amount of staff time as postal packaging is not required.

Services to Individuals with Special Needs:

While the library experienced an increase in the Books-by-Mail program, a similar increase in the Large Print and Talking Books program was not noted. The library is always searching for ways to increase library accessibility for users of differing abilities. In an on-going effort to meet the needs of Mainers who are certified as blind, visually impaired or physically handicapped, a staff member was assigned to test the feasibility of using a local recording booth to develop the first local special-format title for the library. A core group of active volunteers of narrators and monitors had been formed to staff this initiative under the direction of the MSL project director. Reaching all eligible residents of Maine takes innovative efforts that require the staff to expand their skills into new areas, and that also bring opportunities to collaborate with volunteers or other agencies. Technology is enabling the library to address goals in new ways.

Making the most of the available resources, seeking ways to innovate and grow, and addressing the mandates under which the library operates are fundamental to the work of the library. It is the sincere desire of the Maine State Library staff that this report will give an overview of the work that the library does in support of the people of Maine.

Summary of M.R.S.A. - Title 27, Chapters 1, 3, 4, 4-A, and 5

Chapter 1 – Sets up the position and duties of the State Librarian. It defines the hours the Library shall be open, the contents of the library, and the scope of services. It covers lending services, responsibilities, and replacements. It outlines the library's responsibilities to other libraries, to the State, and to citizens (including handicapped individuals). It identifies certain areas of cooperative endeavor, such as with the Department of Education to maintain a school library media position and to libraries within the state for a statewide library information system. It gives the MSL charge of Conservation and Preservation grants to libraries around the state to conserve and preserve unique library research materials.

Chapter 3 – Deals with the establishment and development of public libraries in Maine.

Chapter 4 – Covers the regional library system in Maine and creates the Maine Library Commission (as established by Title 5, section 12004-G, subsection 7-E of Title 27) and its duties. The Maine Library Commission sets the policies and operations of the MSL and the library program, among their other duties. The Commission also serves as the State Advisory Council on Libraries for any federal monies that the State Library receives (e.g. Library Services and Technology Funds (LSTA) from the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS). Chapter 4 also covers the creation of area reference and resource centers, research centers, district consultants, and library districts.

Chapter 4-A – Is a statement on the confidentiality of library records.

Chapter 5 – Allows for the development of interstate library compacts. It sets parameters under which such agreements may be undertaken and defines the necessary steps for establishing and maintaining, and for the supervision of such compacts.

Summary of 20 U.S.C. 72, Museum and Library Services

Subchapter 1 creates the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS), the Board of Directors, the position of Director (allowing for other staff), and outlines the duties of the above. It also sets up a framework for overseeing, directing and supporting museums and libraries around the nation.

This subchapter allows IMLS to make annual awards, directs the IMLS to study the impact of their efforts in coordination with State partners, directs them to study the needs for, and trends of museum and library services; directs them to report on the impact of programs funded by IMLS; and to identify and disseminate “best practices.” Money received from IMLS may not be used for construction.

Subchapter 2 deals with library services and technology. The purpose is to consolidate federal library programs, to promote improvement in library services, to facilitate access to resources in all types of libraries (public libraries, public elementary school or secondary school libraries, academic libraries which are not part of an institution of higher education, and certain private or special libraries) and to encourage resource sharing. This section defines how states may use federal monies for libraries, how and where those monies will be allocated. It defines the responsibilities of states receiving such grant monies, which include such items as: having an approved state 5-year plan that outlines how the money will be used to address the specific areas of focus, as well as assurances, reports, and specified protective measures. States must have a State Advisory Council (Maine State Library Commission serves this function) and may use money directly or as sub-grants. National Leadership Grants, contracts or cooperative agreements are also included in this subchapter.

Areas of grant focus (abbreviated):

- Expand services for learning and access to information and education resources
- Develop electronic networks
- Develop linkages among libraries: electronic or other
- Target library services to:
 - Diverse geographic, cultural, socioeconomic backgrounds
 - Individuals with disabilities
 - Individuals with limited functional literacy or information skills
- Target library and information services to:
 - Persons having difficulty using a library
 - Underserved urban/rural communities, including children (birth-17 years) from families with incomes below poverty line

Subchapter 3 deals with museum services.

Summary of Title VI of the Civil Right Act of 1964

Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, prohibits employment discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, and the Civil Rights Act of 1991, which among other things, provides monetary damages in cases of intentional employment discrimination.

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 provides that no person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be subject to discrimination under any educational program or activity receiving federal financial assistance.

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (ADEA) provides that no person in the United States shall, on the basis of age, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any program receiving federal assistance.

Management and Use of Funds

Section 5(j) of the U.S. Public Law 89-209 requires compliance in regard to the employment of professional personnel, mechanics, and laborers, employed for any construction project, and to the health, safety and sanitary laws of the state.

18 U.S.C. Sec. 1913 regulates lobbying with appropriated money, and the Hatch Act (5 U.S.C. Sec. 1501-1508 and 7324-7328) limits the political activities of employees whose principal employment activities are funded in whole or in part with Federal funds.

An adequate financial management system must be maintained to provide efficient and effective accountability and control of all property, funds and assets, in compliance with OMB Circulars A-102, A-128 (for local governments) and A-110 (for non-profit organizations and universities.)

The Equal Pay Act of 1963 stipulates that employers may not reduce wages for either sex to equalize pay between men and women.

An appeal shall be made only on the basis of the procedure taken by the advisory committee, jury or director in reviewing the application, and not on management, or other evaluations based on the grant review criteria.

ALA Library Bill of Rights outlines basic policies that all libraries should conform to.

2. Description of Each Program Including Priorities, Goals and Objective Performance Criteria; Timetables or Other Benchmarks of Success in Meeting Goals; Reasons for Failure, Corrective Measures Taken.

Maine State Library Mission Statement

The purpose of the Maine State Library is to be the statewide leader in efforts to provide, broaden, and improve access to information and library services regardless of location. To accomplish this effort the Maine State Library is divided into two divisions: Reader and Information Services and Library Development.

Programs

The mission statement of the Maine State Library reflects the broad goals of the Library. The two divisions specified in the mission statement, Reader and Information Services and Library Development, are designed to support those broad goals and they comprise two of the four programs of the Maine State Library. Maine InfoNet, administered jointly by MSL and the University of Maine System, coordinates the statewide virtual library of online catalogs and electronic databases. The final program of the Maine State Library is Administration, which provides the structure, support, and guidance necessary to carry out many of the library services that the citizens of Maine require.

Together, the four program areas of the Maine State Library serve to support the information needs of the people of Maine. Swift and reliable access to accurate information directly impacts the quality of life in Maine, the economy of the State, as well as Maine's connection to, and place within, the nation and the world.

Program Descriptions with attendant measures:

I. Reader and Information Services provides for the delivery of quality reference, information and loan services to all libraries, state agency personnel, Legislators, and the general public. This includes supporting and complementing the collections of all types of libraries throughout the state through resource sharing. Statewide resource sharing would be much less efficient without the van delivery system, which transported 300,000 items among all types of libraries in 2006.

Ideas and input for the development of the public services portions of the MSL web page originate within this program. Reader and Information Services also develop marketing ideas and plans public relations efforts to support its programs and resources. . In 2006 the Maine State Library deployed LibQual, TM a national patron satisfaction survey from the Association of Research Libraries, to gauge citizen satisfaction with MSL's hours, services, staff, accessibility, materials, etc.. The survey showed that although patrons (and potential patrons) recommended a few changes, there was no significant area of concern or dissatisfaction. MSL has already increased evening hours in response to the survey results.

Specific programs include; (1) Collection Services and (2) Reference and Research Services.

1. Collections Services acquires, catalogs and maintains the library's collection and, through interlibrary loan, provides access to the Library's resources for other libraries. Staff determines which materials need preservation and chooses the best methods for doing so using outside vendors.

Activities:

Collection Services selects, purchases, processes, catalogs, maintains, and preserves the library's collections. Advice and assistance is available for librarians statewide with questions related to technical processing, acquisitions, cataloging and preservation.

Interlibrary Loan processes title requests received by the library for books, microforms, periodicals, and electronic information. Requests come from patrons and other libraries in Maine, the region and nation. Items not available in-house are located at other libraries in the state, region or nation and requested through a computer network. In 2005-2006 the Maine State Library loaned 35,550 items to other libraries and borrowed 28,303 items.

2. Reference and Research Services provides direct reference and information services to patrons. The clientele served includes libraries in the Central Maine Library District and URSUS (University Resources Serving Users State-Wide) libraries (these include Portland and Bangor Public libraries and the Maine State Library, the State Law and Legislative Reference Library, as well as the University of Maine campus libraries,) and walk-in, e-mail, and telephone patrons

Activities:

Reference Librarians respond to in-person, telephone, email, online and mail requests. Patrons come from local communities, the region, state, country and other nations. One of the reference staff's many specialties is providing assistance with Maine-related materials from the 1700s to the present and helping patrons access and use an outstanding collection of genealogy materials. They instruct patrons in the use of the library's resources including on-line public access catalogs and Internet resources. In 2005-2006 the reference staff responded to 22,495 requests for information.

Reference librarians are instrumental in developing the collections of the Library. They prepare bibliographies of materials that are of current or long-term interest. Reference librarians also maintain a very large newspaper and magazine clippings and pamphlets collection documenting Maine history, business, natural resources, culture and the arts.

Circulation staff lends material from the collection, monitors reserves and overdues, registers patrons, re-shelves books and periodicals, staffs the circulation desk and assists patrons with photocopiers and microform machines. In 2005-2006, 203,406 items were circulated by the MSL.

Documents staff collects, catalogs and maintains all state-produced publications; staff also maintains a selective group of federal documents.

II. Library Development Services provides leadership and support for library development in all types of libraries throughout the state. Specific programs include (1) the Maine Regional Library System which includes Regional Consultant Services, and (2) Outreach Services, including Books-By-Mail, large print books, descriptive videos and Books on Tape. The Library development staff also manages the federal e-rate application for the 900+ school and library sites on MSLN, (the Maine School and Library Network). This network connects eligible schools and libraries to the Internet. (Two-hundred forty-one public libraries were included in the e-rate application for 2007).

Applying for federal e-rate discounts for schools and libraries on MSLN includes gathering paperwork from the 900+ sites on MSLN, developing the application on behalf of these sites, and gathering and approving technology plans from member libraries. MSLN connectivity saves users' time and increases the resources available to them greatly reducing costs at many libraries in the state. It is also enabling out-of-state travelers to stay in touch with their homes or businesses while in Maine. Anecdotal information indicates this is allowing tourists to spend more time in Maine.

The Library Development Director manages the New Century Community Grant program when funds are available, and, as LSTA Coordinator, also manages the LSTA federal funds from IMLS.

Regional Services provides support, through three Districts and three Area Reference and Research Centers, to all types of libraries throughout the state, administers state and federal aid to local libraries, and provides consultants for leadership and guidance.

Interlibrary Loan makes it possible for the three Area Reference and Resource Centers located at the Portland and Bangor Public Libraries and the Maine State Library to supplement the collections of all types of libraries within their districts by lending them books and other informational material not owned locally.

Direct Free Walk-In Service allows any resident free use of his/her Area Reference and Resource Center, including circulation privileges.

District Consultants provide professional development leadership for academic, school and public librarians and support staff. This is achieved through individual consultation, workshops, seminars and professional meetings. Leadership is also provided through the District Councils and the District Executive Boards, both administered by the district consultants.

Federal and State Aid for Library Services is administered by the Maine State Library with the advice of the Maine Library Commission. The Federal Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) is used for statewide library services. The New Century Community Grants program provides state funds for library construction and statewide library development.

The following quote is from the 2001-2006 independently conducted LSTA evaluation report: In 2006, Himmel & Wilson, National Library Consultants, were hired to do an independent evaluation of the Maine State Library's implementation of the Library Services & Technology Act five-year plan (2003-2007). In that report they make the following statement:

"The financial resources that are available to support library services in Maine are quite limited. Local funding is meager, LSTA funding is in the bottom tier when compared to other states and support from the State of Maine is modest. In spite of this, Maine has accomplished a great deal in a state that presents major challenges in terms of size and population density. In the opinion of the evaluators, the Maine State Library has done a masterful job of maximizing the impact of all the funding sources, including LSTA that are available to it (p. 52)."

The Library Development Director is responsible for preparing required 5-Year Plans to IMLS as well as submitting annual state program reports and a 5-year evaluation of each 5-year plan. Library Development service includes the following programs:

Activities:

1. Consulting Services – provides a professional library/media consultant for school library development and assessment of library programs. This consultant offers workshops, approves school library construction plans, assists with certification, and provides information on request. The school consultant is also responsible for approving school technology plans, which are mandated by the federal e-rate program and by NCLB (No Child Left Behind).

District Regional Consulting Services – There are three districts in Maine, each with its own Area Reference and Resource Center; district consultant; district council, and executive board. The councils and executive boards are advisory groups that work with the district consultant to assure that the needs of each area are being met and that each area has appropriate development/educational opportunities. Keeping libraries in communication with each other, and the sharing of resources within districts are primary to the development and continued growth of each district.

The three regional district consultants of the Maine State Library organize workshops, cluster group meetings, spring and fall council meetings, awards, book reviews, professional development material, and special programs for libraries in their regions. They also provide consultant services regarding any issue for libraries in their districts.

Instructional Video Library – provides videotaped educational programs to elementary and secondary schools for classroom use.

Continuing Education courses are offered every year for the professional development of library staff members throughout the state. The Maine State Library became a member of Web Junction in June 2007. This portal for libraries, funded in part by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, provides hundreds of online courses for librarians as well as a way for member state libraries to share information and have online meetings with libraries in their states. This professional development tool has already been used by a majority of public libraries in the state.

University Graduate Level Library Courses are provided in-state through an agreement with the University of South Carolina. Courses are taught via distance education (ITV) and the program leads to a Masters in Library Science.

Video Production facilities satellite downlinks, assists with video production, and serves as a link to the Interactive Television System.

ATM Services are in the Maine State Library's 3rd floor studio and are linked to the states' broadband, two-way video network. Bangor Public Library is also part of this network along with approximately 80 high schools around the state. For the sake of time, economy and efficiency, state-wide library meetings are often held over this system.

Computer Technology develops and maintains networks, Internet services and other computer access points, including in-house Novell networks serving 30+ public access computer stations.

2. Special Services/Outreach Services Staff provides books-by-mail to residents in towns without libraries; provides video programs to libraries, nursing homes, community groups, and institutions; provides talking books and large print material to residents who are visually or physically impaired and runs a state-wide summer reading program.

Activities:

Books-by-Mail serves adults and young readers by mailing books to rural Maine citizens not served by local library collections, disabled patrons around the state, and state government agencies.

Video Services provides videotapes to community groups, nursing homes, and other institutions through public libraries. Reference and consultant services are also provided for the use of video programming.

Talking Books provide recorded books, periodicals, and tape players to readers whose sight or physical condition makes it impossible to read print sources. The Maine State Library is one of 56 regional libraries of the Library of Congress National Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

Large Print Books provides large print books for visually impaired readers throughout the state. It serves individual patrons, public libraries, nursing homes, and institutions.

Summer Reading Program involves children in the Books-by-Mail program along with children in participating libraries around the state in the national Collaborative Summer Library Program. With a common reading theme and activities to accompany the reading material, children are motivated to continue reading throughout the summer thereby helping to minimize the loss of reading skills when school is not in session. The total number of Maine communities participating in the summer reading program has increased over the past three years as the overall number of children participating in the program around the state.

Goal: Improve services, increase access, and improve efficiency for Outreach Service users.

Specific Activities Associated with Goal:

- Mount or link OPACS (On-line Public-Access Catalogs) and automate all cataloging, circulation, interlibrary loan, and reporting functions to improve access and efficiency/timeliness of operations. Goal was met in 2004-05 for talking books, large print books, and descriptive videos. The Books-by-Mail collection was added to MINERVA. The now enhanced access to the Books-by-Mail collection so greatly increased the volume of requests by patrons that the Library's funds could not handle the increased postage costs. Since July 1, 2007, as a result of this spike in requests for Books-by-Mail service, patrons have had to pay for the return postage on borrowed materials. (This has slowed down the number of requested items.) The Books-by-Mail service links patrons to a statewide community and 90.4% have stated in survey results "Using Books-by-Mail improves the quality of my life."

- Develop the Outreach Services web site into one that is universally designed, with parallel pages for graphics-oriented and visually impaired patrons who are differently-abled, including helpful links and resources. Goal was met in 2004-05 when the Maine State Library's website was completely redesigned and customized for the Library's needs. The State Library's website is 100% compliant with Maine Government standards for accessibility for persons with disabilities as measured with AccMonitor, the software used by the State to measure compliance. The MSL Webmaster was recognized by the State with a Maine Excellence Recognition in Information Technology (MERIT) award for 'her work in improving accessibility for disabled citizens and employees.'
- Develop online request features, either through existing features of integrated library software or through interactive forms. Goal was met. Once users register through MINERVA, they may request books, cassettes, large print books, and descriptive videos (available through the Maine Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.) The revisions were so user friendly that patrons in another state were using the Maine site to order talking books, a situation that caused the librarian in that state to contact Maine State Library for permission to make use of the MSL's ideas.
- Create virtual book and other online group discussions and programs with chat, bulletin board, or similar software. MSL tried using state-supported bulletin boards without success. MSL then joined Online Programming for All Libraries to make use of their online room for book discussions and other informational sessions. It did not catch on with users, possibly a design issue. Since the goal of this activity was to help isolated individuals feel that they were part of a virtual online community and was aimed at enriching user's lives, other ways were sought to meet this goal. The library is now building upon the success of blogs in the Internet community as a communication mode and has started to develop blogs to address this goal.
- Provide e-mail links for users to contact appropriate staff for information, routing, reference referral, and readers' advisory. Links have been established on the Maine State Library website to connect patrons to appropriate staff members. Letters of appreciation from patrons to staff members can be seen as indicators of success. They express appreciation for the service, and for knowing that a person, whose name they know, cares about their needs.
- Mount or link Online Public Access Catalogs (OPACS) for all programs. MSL participates in URSUS, the online catalog linking their collection with those of the University of Maine System, Bangor Public Library, Maine State Law and Legislative Reference Library. This system provides automated circulation and interlibrary loan capabilities. Patrons received bar-coded library cards, which allowed them to reserve, renew, and review items checked out from their home computers. As noted above, the Books-by-Mail collection has also been added to MINERVA. Surveys of patrons indicate that this has enhanced their access to desired materials in an easy-to-interface format through the Outreach Services web pages.
- User surveys are implemented as needed. Services are advertised through outreach exhibits, pamphlets, and cooperative advertising venues

Goal: Encourage all Maine children to read and provide equal support to blind, visually or physically impaired, and rural youth.

Specific Activities Associated with Goal:

- Establish a statewide summer reading program that will integrate blind, visually and physically impaired, geographically isolated, rural, and all other Maine children into one summer reading community. While the Books-by-Mails participant numbers were slightly down this past summer over the two previous summers, the number of Maine communities participating in the summer reading program has risen to more than 50%. The overall number of children participating in summer reading programs rose from 4,796 in 2003-04 to approximately 120,000 in 2005-06. The Books-by-Mail program registered 215 children, connecting them with children all around the state engaging in this activity.
- Network with library associations, educators, and children's librarians throughout Maine to develop shared incentives, kickoff events, and ideas for local initiatives.
Note: According to user feedback via letters to staff, the Books-by-Mail program is of particular support to families who are home-schooling their children and who live in rural areas. It is also a link to the larger world for home-bound or isolated people lacking transportation.

Goal: Launch and sustain a comprehensive public information campaign and develop resources that will spread awareness and increase use of Outreach Services and assistive technologies in libraries throughout the state.

Specific Activities Associated with Goal:

- Identify and implement relevant training opportunities in assistive technology and library services for diverse populations for Outreach Services Staff and librarians throughout the state. The Coordinator and Outreach staff have been attending various training sessions in assistive technology and library services for diverse populations. In turn, the trained staff has begun to offer day-long training sessions on the ADA and assistive technology in the districts. MSL Outreach has presented programs on assistive technology workstations and library services to people with disabilities at the annual Maine Libraries Conference. Outreach staff has participated in public awareness events. To extend outreach, state-wide public service announcements, brochures, and bookmarks were developed.
- Develop a clearinghouse of resources, provide site licenses for screen reading software, and create a lending library of assistive devices in Outreach Services. The Outreach Staff is working toward full implementation of this goal within the next two years.
- Identify components for a model library assistive workstation, identify recipient libraries, install the workstation, and organize public information events around the technology. Public libraries with service populations of 6,000 or more received and installed screen reader technology. The Outreach/Special Services Coordinator networks with colleagues online via listservs and at American Library Association meetings, and also provides information on assistive technology via Maine Library-related listservs. Conversations and research into this area have not yet resulted in specific action or dedication of funds. Nevertheless, this will remain an active goal.

- Develop and promote a pilot program prototype to organize volunteer efforts to bring large print books to assisted living centers throughout the state. A survey and study of existing homebound programs in Maine showed that there were a number of already existing models. A training module about strategies to implement them was presented at the Maine Libraries Conference in 2004; out of that training an online tutorial was developed and became available to libraries at: <http://www.maine.gov/msl/outreach/homebound/index.htm>. One result of this effort has been the recognition that an effective way to assist homebound people was to open up Books-by-Mail services to them.
- Organize volunteers to provide staffing for programs such as recording state and regional publications for Talking Book distribution.
- Form relationships with local service clubs and create a "Friends of Outreach Service" support group to provide supplemental support for the programs (e.g., fund raisers for the purchase of descriptive videos) and to improve public relations.
In spite of good efforts, forming a Friends group for all Outreach programs has not proven feasible. Separate advisory groups for Talking Books Plus and Books-by-Mail are in the process of being developed.

Goal: Expand easily accessible electronic information sources to all Maine residents.

Specific Activities Associated with Goal:

- Generate statewide publicity to educate the library community and citizens and enable them to utilize these electronic information resources. New library staff and new citizens require information and training about MARVEL, and the most efficient methods to search for information from these databases.

III. Maine InfoNet is jointly administered by MSL and the University of Maine system. InfoNet coordinates the statewide virtual library of online catalogs and electronic databases.

Goal: Ensure that all Maine residents have convenient and timely access to all Maine libraries and information services through Maine InfoNet, which provides live integrated library software, interlibrary cooperation, and resource sharing arrangements.

Specific Activities Associated with Goal:

- Provide support for an increased number of Maine libraries to participate in MINERVA, providing patrons with up-to-date Internet access to holdings and patron information and ensuring efficient interlibrary loan transactions. InfoNet staff is adding four libraries to MINERVA in the winter of 2007-2008.
- Prepare to expand MINERVA with software and a second server. Further enlarge this automated circulation catalog and interlibrary loan system. Implementation of this activity is ongoing. Maine InfoNet is the State Library's collective name for its shared catalog and database activities, called MaineCat, which combines and links library collections across Maine. As of mid-2006, 114 libraries, among them all the largest academic and public libraries, were participating. Adding smaller libraries is ongoing, with a goal of reaching 300 libraries of all types. Programs that make up MaineCat include MINERVA, SOLAR, and URSUS. These linkages connect patrons to libraries around the state. Maine InfoNet also includes the MARVEL online databases and the Van Delivery Service. Loans among MINERVA libraries went from 30,000 in 2004 to 200,000+ in 2006. The number of libraries participating in MINERVA has increased, as have the Maine Cat participating libraries.

- Publicize library automation and interlibrary loan services statewide to make residents aware of their options to search the OPAC (Online Public Access Catalog), place Interlibrary Loan (ILL) requests, and renew materials online. A number of libraries publicize these services. InfoNet brochures have been mailed to all libraries; MARVEL! and WiFi availability are also promoted in these brochures.
- Provide staff and resources for more training, communication, promotion, and data processing for the holdings database and MINERVA. The Minerva Executive Board has completed its bylaws, elected officers, and set up a committee structure. Goals for the first year have been established. The Maine Regional Library System (MRLS) has been an effective training resource for libraries around the state. Libraries have appreciated help with technology planning; however, they feel that the consultant staff needs to be increased in numbers. They have requested a state-wide continuing education plan for librarians with suggestions for specific topics to be covered.
Expand and deliver access to electronic resources. This goal is being met through the MARVEL! databases. The value of the resources in these databases would be in excess of $500,000 per library. State-wide licensing creates significant savings, and increases access to reliable information sources around the state. Maine's rural, relatively undeveloped environment makes it a desirable place to live and now the natural environment is coupled with the resources needed to telecommute, making Maine not only a desirable place to live but a possible place to do business in new ways. MARVEL! is a collaboration between the Maine State Library, the University of Maine, the State Legislature, and the Maine Telecommunications Educational Access Fund (MTEAF). These entities fund the state-wide licensing of these resources for every library, school and resident of Maine. The MSL contributes staff for planning and implementation. In online surveys conducted for LSTA's 5-year evaluation with librarians in Maine, MARVEL! was most frequently cited as the "service most important to my library" and was chosen as the top priority for the next five-year plan. From Sept 06 through August 07, 770,338 logins and 3,094,931 searches were done via the MARVEL databases.
- Pay costs for libraries to acquire or share computer systems and telecommunications technologies, encouraging libraries in different areas to establish consortia and share resources. MSL is an administrative partner with the Maine Department of Education for the Maine School and Library Network (MSLN) that connects all schools and libraries with high-speed lines. The circuit rider (technical support person) is very helpful for those libraries and small schools that do not have technical support.
- Provide "new innovations and annual update" session as part of the annual Maine Libraries Conference, which involves in excess of 500 Maine library professionals. Programs are offered at the Maine Libraries Conference and are often included in the twice a year Council meetings in each district. Workshop evaluation forms provide anecdotal evidence of increased knowledge and changed behavior.
- Develop and begin implementation of a plan for the smallest libraries in the Books-by-Mail service areas to become a part of the automated full management system. A smaller version of SOLAR, called SOLAR Express is aimed at smaller libraries; it allows requesting from the three Area Reference and Resource Centers and does not require that a library loan their holdings or make them available for lending. This will expand access for the smallest libraries that have limited staff and limited staff training. It will provide a chance for the staff and patrons to use a small, easily accessible system.

- Continue to develop statewide access to databases with the goal of providing a seamless interface for searching all OPACs and databases simultaneously. InfoNet is achieving this goal with the addition of SOLAR Express for smaller library access.
- Develop criteria, examine collections for unique materials, and establish a digitization project that will provide online access to materials. This step provides for digital preservation of unique, historically significant state and local documents, images, and media for statewide access. Funding for this has been sought in the form of grants as well as from the state.

IV. Administration provides leadership for development of library services in Maine; coordinates the work of all staff; prepares and supports necessary legislative action concerning libraries; and provides all necessary fiscal information. Maine State Library Administration includes the following programs:

Maine State Librarian manages and supervises the operations and programs of the Maine State Library and makes rules and regulations as are necessary for the proper management of the State Library and the safety of its contents.

Maine Library Commission is a 17-member board broadly representative of the state's library community.

4. Compliance with Federal and State Safety and Health Laws, Including the ADA and OSHA

The Maine State Library is a state agency that receives tax money appropriated by the Maine State Legislature. Therefore, the Maine State Library and grant recipients are contractually committed to abide by state and federal regulations that bar discrimination based on race, color, national origin, disability, age, or sex, or sexual orientation, and that require accessibility for persons with disabilities. In addition, grantees must ensure appropriate management of funds and personnel as required by the federal government. The Maine State Library also requires grantees to observe the Commission's conflict of interest policy, which is based on Maine statute, as well as to follow an established appeals process when disputing a grant decision. The Commission is also mindful of the health and safety of employees and is mindful of workplace safety as is required under OSHA standards.

People with Disabilities

Disability is defined as anyone who has a physical or mental impairment, which substantially limits one or more of such person's major life activities, has a record of such impairment, or is regarded as having such impairment.

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 provides that no otherwise qualified person with a disability in the United States, as defined in Section 7(6), shall, solely by reason of his or her disability, be excluded from participation in, be denied benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any program or activity receiving federal assistance.

The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1991 extends protections of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 by prohibiting discrimination in employment based in disabilities, requiring places of public accommodation be accessible to people with disabilities, mandating gradual replacement of buses and railroad cars with equipment that can accommodate people with disabilities, and making telephone services available to people with hearing and speech impairments, nationwide.

Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970

Section 5 says that each employer will furnish each employee employment that is free from recognized hazards that are causing or are likely to cause death or serious physical harm to the employees; and each employer will comply with the occupational safety and health standards of this act. This section covers environmental hazards, ergonomics, as well as workplace violence.

Maine State Library Policy Concerning Workplace Response to Domestic Violence, Sexual Assault and Stalking is adopted from the Maine State Executive Order 25FY04/05. It defines how the Library will deal with issues of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking, including confidentiality and employee's resources and rights.

Maine VDT Law

Title 26, Chapter 5, Subchapter 2-A establishes that employers shall educate and train all operators of video display terminals annually.

Drug Free Workplace

The Drug Free Workplace Act of 1988 requires that employees of the grantee not engage in the unlawful manufacture, dispensation, possession, or use of controlled substances in the grantee's workplace or work site.

6. Regulatory Agenda and Summary of Rules Adopted

The Maine State Library does not anticipate any new rule making during the upcoming legislative session.

The Maine State Library has not adopted any rules to date.

7. Areas Where Efforts Have Been Coordinated with Other Agencies or Whether They Should Be.

The Cultural Affairs Council is a primary, and successful, form of collaboration for the MSL. The Council provides the voice for the Cultural Agencies regarding their accomplishments and needs. The Council provides a structure for agency interaction on a regular basis to jointly plan and coordinate cultural programs. The New Century Program has proven to be an effective means for the agencies to coordinate efforts at supporting needs of cultural organizations around the state.

The New Century Program, of the Cultural Affairs Council, provides matching grants and technical assistance to various cultural organizations around the state. When there is money available, the Maine State Library assists libraries around the state to expand existing buildings, build new structures, or make needed renovations through the New Century Community Program.

Business Office - The Maine State Library business office is responsible in the following areas for four cultural agencies, which include the Maine State Library, the Maine Arts Commission, Maine Historic Preservation Commission, and the Maine State Museum:

- Fiscal Responsibilities/Budget
- Personnel/Payroll
- Workman's Compensation
- Americans with Disabilities Act of 1991
- Equal Employment Opportunities
- Procurement/Purchasing

The Business Office also manages the purchases and inventory for the Museum Gift Shop.

The Maine State Library has found that collaboration is an effective means to deliver services. An example of this is the collaboration (beyond the work done through CAC) with the Maine Humanities Council. The MHC held their summer history program at the MSL in order to have access to the library's videoconferencing system. The MHC also runs a program called, "Let's Talk About It" in libraries around the state. The MHC funds part of the program, takes the applications, and selects and orders the books; the MSL funds the balance of the program and distributes (and stores) the books for the program, due to the large infrastructure that the MSL already has in place for book distribution. According to the Director of the Maine Humanities Council, the MSL's role in distributing the books is critical to the success of this program. The Maine Humanities Council has funds to support 35 programs per year and works to ensure that they are distributed across the state in the most equitable manner possible.

Maine Historical Society in Portland - The Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) has awarded Maine Historical Society (MHS) a National Leadership Grant of $852,000 over the next three years. The grant will enable MHS, in partnership with the Maine State Library, to launch the Maine Community Heritage Project in 16 towns and cities throughout the state. This is the largest programmatic grant MHS has ever received, and is the largest competitive grant awarded by this agency in Maine. It is an extremely prestigious honor: of the 213 applications submitted for this award, 43 were granted.

The National Book Festival is held annually in Washington, D.C. in the fall. MSL gets approximately $2,000 from the Council of State Library Agencies (COSLA) to send a person to the conference to represent Maine in the state booth. Each year a children's book written by a Maine author is highlighted. The MSL uses the COSLA money for this and the Maine Humanities Council selects the book and staffs the booth on the mall in Washington. This is a wonderful way to promote Maine and Maine authors on a national level.

The Maine School and Library Network (MSLN) is managed in collaboration among the Maine State Library, the Maine Department of Education and the Maine Public Utilities Commission.

8. Constituencies served by the agency, changes or projected changes.

The Maine State Library serves all of the residents of the State of Maine. By the very nature of this library, that will not change. The library's services are broken down into two main service areas to accomplish this task: Reader and Information Services and Library Services.

Under Reader and Information Services the library serves:

- All state government agencies
- All state residents on a walk-in basis or by telephone or Internet, as well as all patron requests from within Maine or beyond the state nationally or internationally
- All Maine citizens not served by a local library, via Books-by-Mail
- Readers throughout the state with special needs such as sight impairment or physical disability

Under Library Development Services the Library serves as the Area Reference and Research Center for:

- Libraries of all types within the Central Maine State Library District, approximately 1/3 of the libraries within the state.
- Collaborates with the Department of Education for delivery of media services to schools.
- In collaboration with the Department of Education, and the Public Utilities Commission, MSL administers the Maine School Library Network.

9. Efforts at alternative delivery systems including privatization.

The interlibrary loan van service is privatized. A contract has been negotiated with a delivery service agency. The libraries receiving the service, pay for the stop (pick up or delivery) and get billed quarterly by the Maine State Library. This service represents a huge cost savings over costs of postal service delivery.

The Maine State Library also purchases statewide database subscriptions through private vendors specializing in library services. Purchasing statewide subscriptions rather than each library paying subscription costs individually provides huge cost saving. Statewide licensing also provides the smallest libraries and communities as well as Maine's largest cities with the same access to electronic information.

The Maine State Library provides the bookkeeping and personnel services for the four Cultural Agencies (MSL, Maine Historic Preservation, Maine State Museum, and the Maine Arts Commission), as well as for the Cultural Affairs Council, the Museum Store, and the Friends of the Maine State Museum. This has created cost savings and efficiencies within the programs.

The development of the Maine State Library's website has given patrons greater access to information. Having applications readily available in multiple forms online means that direct staff to patron contact is reduced in those areas, saving the staff time for issues that require their particular skills. It also directs patrons to the correct person to help them with their needs, saving a great deal of time for the library staff. The website allows for greater sharing of resources among libraries, which is another cost-saving measure. It has allowed the staff members who support librarians to keep in contact via the web, saving both time and postage. Having access to multiple databases from anywhere in the state with access to the Internet must save untold amounts of fuel and time as patrons can search from home for what they need.

10. Emerging Issues for the Agency

- The aging Cultural Building is energy inefficient (HVAC and electrical systems are all outdated) and no longer effectively meet the needs of the resident agencies.
- Our collections have maximized their available space. The ability to maintain economies of scale in library materials and to make them available to libraries in the state are threatened.
- The Maine Telecommunications Education Access Fund (MTEAF) commonly known as state e-rate can not support the increasing bandwidth needs of Maine schools and libraries. As more libraries provide wireless connectivity, and has high school students obtain laptops, additional broadband access will be required.
- The Maine State Library needs to meet the growing demand for access to electronic reference and research information. Access to online information is a key element in economic development for Maine. Lack of additional investments in this area will cripple our scientific institutions, colleges, universities and businesses in comparison to their peers in other states.
- Digitization of materials for electronic sharing is an issue facing all libraries, historical societies, schools and businesses. The Maine State Library should be a leader in this area by (a) digitizing its historical holding (b) offering training in digitizing for other libraries.
- MSL needs to be positioned to keep up with hardware, software and growing technology changes and needs to be able to financially support rising costs for deploying and sustaining technology use.
- MSL must take a leadership position in assisting Maine libraries as they transition from traditional and first wave digital roles to Library 2.0 applications for current and future generations of digital natives.

11. Comparison of Related Federal Laws and Regulations to the State Laws Governing the Agency or Program.

Maine regulations have established the State Library to:

- Keep histories of state/counties/towns
- Keep histories of all countries
- Keep family histories
- Collect works on arts and sciences, esp. agriculture, forestry, fishing, manufacturing, shipbuilding
- Keep maps, charts, plans, manuscripts, statistical and other publications relating to financial, social, religious and educational condition of the State,
- Keep full and complete sets of all documents printed by the State
- Keep full and complete sets of the reports of the towns, cities and counties of the State
- Lend books and documents.
- Serve as the Area Reference and Resource Center for the Central Maine Library District; make its collections available to all residents of the state.

The State Library shall also

- Maintain a school library media section in cooperation with the Department of Education.
- Develop a statewide library information system for cooperation among libraries
- Share collections statewide
- Develop tools for obtaining electronic information, enter into agreements to provide accessible electronic information services for eligible individuals who are blind, visually impaired, or disabled
- Distribute reports to departments and institutions of the state and beyond as needed
- Purchase town histories

The State Library May:

- Purchase documents, maps, journals, and other printed material of significance to the historical heritage of Maine
- Publish lists and circulars and cooperate with other libraries to do so
- Conduct courses, training, workshops and hold institutes in cooperation with others

Maine State Library supports and interacts with other public libraries around the state. And, in recognition of costs and the growing need for rapid worldwide dissemination of information, state regulation also allows for development of interstate library compacts.

The Maine Library Commission serves as the Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) advisory board.

Federal Museum and Library Services regulations are designed to support the needs of libraries in particular areas. Those areas directly support the State mandates and cover the following areas:

- Expand services for learning and access to information and education resources
- Develop electronic networks
- Develop linkages among libraries: electronic or other
- Target library services to:
 - Diverse geographic, cultural, socioeconomic backgrounds
 - Individuals with disabilities
 - Individuals with limited functional literacy or information skills
- Target Library and information services to:

- Persons having difficulty using a library
- Underserved urban/rural communities, including children from families with incomes below poverty line

While the funds that accompany the Museum and Library Services Act are not large (being based upon a formula derived from population), they provide important support to the Maine State Library in carrying out the mandates of the State of Maine in the specified targeted areas. Federal Funds are not designed to cover 100% of the above services.

The additional regulations that govern the conduct and practices of the Maine State Library (such as the Federal American's with Disabilities Act, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and its Amendments, etc.) are either adopted by the State of Maine or mirrored in compatible State Policies.

12. Agency Policies for Managing Personal Information, Implementation of Information Technologies and Evaluation of Agency Adherence to the Fair Information Practice Principles.

Agency Policies for Managing Personal Information:

- Title 27, Chapter 4-A of M.S.R.A. deals with confidentiality of records. MSL adheres to this policy.
- The Maine State Library Policy Concerning Workplace Response to Domestic Violence, Sexual Assault, and Stalking includes confidentiality of any person covered under this policy.
- All personnel records are considered confidential and are treated that way.

Implementation of Information Technologies:

- The MSL has successfully completed a revision of its website. This was a major undertaking of the library and has become one of the most important means by which the Maine State Library communicates with the public and libraries statewide. The State Library's website is 100% compliant with Maine government standards for accessibility for persons with disabilities as measured with AccMonitor, the software used by the State to measure compliance. The MSL webmaster received the state's Maine Excellence Recognition in Information Technology Award for her work. This site allows patrons to access information from multiple databases, request items online, complete application forms online, and will provide the information needed to connect a patron with the correct service provider for their needs.
- The Maine State Library has a published Internet Use Policy that defines responsibilities of the user and of the Library.
- The Library is exploring ways to make libraries around the state more aware of, and equipped with, assistive technologies. Outreach staff at the Maine State Library has been trained in assistive technology, and they in turn have been training librarians around the state. Public libraries with Service populations of 6,000 or more received and installed screen reader technology.
- The Maine School Library Network is a critical piece in keeping school libraries connected with quality information resources through high-speed Internet lines. As the administrative partner, the Maine State Library collects and processes the Federal E-Rate applications for all participating schools, thereby easing the process for the schools. This program includes technical support for libraries that do not have their own technician.
- MSL has a collection of databases, MARVEL, that connect users with reliable information in a very efficient manner. MARVEL provides every resident of Maine online access to a collection of full text and abstracts from magazines, newspapers and reference books that are credible, reputable sources), URSUS (links the catalogs of the University of Maine System, Maine State Library, Bangor Public Library, and Maine State Law and Legislative Reference Library) and SOLAR (allows smaller libraries to make their collections visible to other libraries and patrons) are linked so that users across the state have convenient access to more than three million unique titles and nearly 8 million items.

Evaluation of agency adherence to the fair information practice principles:

- All contracts go through the State of Maine purchasing system, and the MSL follows the guidelines set by the State of Maine and complies with general accounting principles in all areas.
- When the user of MARVEL! enters into the FAQ section, there is a Security and Privacy Notice. The Privacy Policy is also available to the user at the bottom of each web page.

13. Lists of Reports or Similar Paperwork required to be filed with the Agency by the Public.

- Any Other Information Specifically Requested by the Committee of Jurisdiction

The Maine State Library is not aware of any other information requested by the Joint Standing Committee on Education and Cultural Affairs.

Mr. J. Gary Nichols
Director
Maine State Library
64 State House Station
Augusta, ME 04333

Dear Mr. Nichols:

This note comes with compliments for the work that you are doing and to congratulate you on the submission of an excellent Five-Year Plan (FY 2008-FY 2012). As advances in technology and the demands of the public constantly alter the landscape upon which libraries operate, you should take pride in the proposal and in the standards it sets for your state and the service you provide to patrons.

I am pleased to say that your review has met not only the minimum technical requirements, it demonstrates a commitment to innovation, to education, and to documenting the need for and impact of LSTA funds in communities. It is an excellent roadmap for the future, and it gives me delight to say that it has been approved for the full five-year period.

I wish to thank you for your strong efforts and for working with IMLS throughout this process. It is my hope that this plan will lead to an excellent evaluation five years from now. Until then, I look forward to tracking your progress and to our continued work together.

Sincerely,

Anne-Imelda Radice
Director

The sharing of library holdings and of library-developed tools for obtaining electronic information from networked resources enriches the economic, educational and cultural life of each Maine community. Maine: Maine School & Library Network

Total E-Rate Funding: $14,421,491.15 • Program Year 2006 Discount Rate: 63%

As Janet McKenney, the E-Rate Coordinator for the Maine Schools & Libraries Network (MSLN), puts it: "In Maine, we have so many great things going on, but you've got to have everybody connected or it doesn't work." From Maine's groundbreaking one-to-one laptop initiative in all its schools to its wireless connected libraries, Ms. McKenney is certainly correct that Maine is a cutting-edge technology state and that its ambitious technology initiatives require a strong effort to connect everyone. Fortunately, MSLN has great E-Rate program support to help these and many other crucial educational and community-oriented technology initiatives succeed.

Maine's large geographic size, widely dispersed population, mountain ranges and remote islands conspire to make travel and communication challenging. Be that as it may, the Maine School & Libraries Network has taken up the cause of networking the state's 272 libraries, which serve 1.3 million Maine citizens, and its 804 public and private schools, which matriculate 198,000 students. Established by the state Public Utilities Commission in 1995 and initially funded through the proceeds of a telephone rate settlement case, MSLN turned to the E-Rate for support in 2001 when the rate settlement funds ran dry. Since then, MSLN has received more than $14 million in E-Rate support, which it is using to provide all schools and libraries with a minimum of T1 level connectivity. According to Linda Lord, Deputy State Librarian for the Maine State Library, "The E-Rate saved us. Every major initiative we have rides on us being connected and our connectivity rides on the E-Rate."

Beyond supporting the statewide laptop initiative, MSLN's E-Rate support delivers exceptional distance learning opportunities to Maine's students that would not be available by any other means. For instance, the state's public schools have very few teachers qualified to teach Japanese. With E-Rate supported high-speed Internet access and videoconferencing technologies, all of the state's high school students now have the option of taking fully interactive classes in Japanese I and II from a Farmingdale, Maine teacher. Additionally, the Maine Distance Learning project is using advanced video-conferencing technology (ATM) to target special education students and students with disabilities in their home schools. Currently, the project uses its ATM technology to offer access to courses from the Baxter School for the Deaf to students across the state.

Maine's libraries also play critical roles for their patrons, many of whom have no high speed internet access in their homes. According to Ms. Lord, one college student, lacking home Internet access on isolated Cranberry Island, actually was permitted to sleep in the local library while she completed a paper. Ms. McKenney points to the positive impact on tourism, an important part of Maine's economy, that high speed Internet access in libraries is having: "Tourists who needed to rely on the Internet for business purposes often had to leave early. Now, they can use our library connections and stay longer." In sum, according to Ms. McKenney, "Our libraries are becoming the gathering places for their communities. We are really filling a need here." And the E-Rate is helping them do it. ●
