"But how can you get my uniform?" "Are you not a guest of the governor? You have other uniforms. Go put one on, bring this with you and wear a great cloak that covers you. We will go to the prison, and in my own room I can put on your uniform. Then you shall be my staff officer, and we will go and inspect the prison."

"It would cost me my sword if it was discovered. But you cannot be serious—you, a refined Russian girl, to don the uniform of an officer and go masquerading in a prison!"

"But can't you see? It is the oddity, the capriciousness, the very wildness and wickedness, that appeal to me. Had you been caged a year you would fight a duel for the mere exhilaration."

"Well, if you must have your way, you must. I will go and tell Colonel Jurnieff that we are going to seek a quiet spot to talk and that you have almost given your consent to the announcement of our betrothal."

CHAPTER X. INSPECTING THE PRISON-A CHANGE OF

HILE the governor and Colonel Jurnieff were planning the great surprise to be given the guests two stealthy figures left the palace. Jurnieff's carriage was easily found, and they stepped into it. Prince Dellnikoff was dressed in a plain uniform he had worn as lieutenant of cavalry. He wore over that a long black cloak that concealed every inch of his apparel. In his arms he carried his brilliant uniform of inspector general of prisons.

Alma laughed, called him a good prince and patted his cheek. She let his arm rest about her waist as the carriage hurried to Jurnieff's home. Arriving, she led the prince by a private way to Jurnieff's apartments. A servant met them and was dismissed with the curt remark that Colonel Jurnieff had sent them for something and they needed no attendance.

She left Dellnikoff in the library and took the bundle from him. She hurried to her room. When she got there, she knelt and prayed. Marie found her on her knees and lifted her.

"Marie, hush for your life! Swear by all that you hold sacred you will not breathe a word of what you see tonight until tomorrow. Better yet, go;

see nothing.' "Can you not trust me, mademoiselle?"

"I cannot trust myself. Go! You know nothing. I came home from the ball feeling ill.'

The maid retired, and Alma dressed herself in the uniform of the inspector general of prisons. In a closet were a pair of boots she had purchased. The long cloak she had bought, as that worn by Dellnikoff, covered her completely. With a pair of shears she cut her beautiful tresses short. In her excitement she left them where they fell upon the floor. She went to the library and threw aside the cloak.

"Alma," cried the prince, rushing to her, "you are superb! The uniform becomes you better than it does me, though it is a trifle large. Where did you get the boots?"

"I never have an escort. I wish to "Alma! Alma Jurnieff!" he whisper-

He is your friend, and your enemies are after him!"

With a sweep of his hand Charka showed them the immense cargo of hay. It rested upon many long planks that met in the middle of the boat and extended some feet over each side. Under the planks was a vacant space.

"Under there," said Charka. "There you will be safe. Hurry! The dogs of Muscovites will soon be here."

"You shall not go back to imprison-ment or death," said Harvey. "Come with me! We will go to America, where you will be safe and happy. Come, my darling, come."

Alma hesitated. Again sounded the alarm gun. Perhaps the thought of solitary imprisonment, perhaps the knout, perhaps Siberia, came to her. "I will go," she said simply.

Origin of Dog Days.

According to the generally accepted doctrine, the dog days begin on July 3 and end on Aug. 11, but there have been disputes as to every possible point about them. It was universally agreed that they were connected with the dog star. But which one—the real dog star, Sirius, or Procyon, the little dog? Then there were disagreements as to the particular astronomical performance of the star that fixed the dog tournament under the management of Mr. Harry Mygott. Mrs. Jean in different estimates between thirty and fifty-four, and whether they were to be reckoned before, after or around the star's performances. The forty settled on precede the rising of Sirius with the sun. A belief grew up that in these days dogs went mad, but terrestrial dogs have really nothing to defeating Mr. Mygott of New York do with it. The original belief was that the star and sun together brought intense heat and all sorts of plagues .-London Chronicle.

"Mutiny" is a word of terrible sound, partly because of the many dreadful events that it recalls and partly, no doubt, because to the ear it suggests "mutilate," but it signifies, etymologically, nothing more than "movement," and "commotion" ought the Cape this season and several really, again according to etymology, to be the stronger word of the two.
