GOVERNOR'S SIGNATURE ON EMERGENCY BILL WEDNESDAY ESTABLISHED NEW CITY BUDGET YEAR; ADDED TO PORT DISTRICT AUTHORITY

Governor Edmund S. Muskie signed into law at 1 p. m. Wednesday Legislative Document 1319, An Act to Amend and Supplement the Charter of the Rockland Port District and the Charter of the City of Rockland.

Passed in legislature, as an emergency measure, its provisions became effective upon signing.

One phase of the bill permits the transfer of city owned property at Schofield-White Park to the Rockland Port District for use as an island boat wharf and terminal.

Another gives the Rockland Port District the right to construct and maintain commercial wharves and terminal buildings and to conduct such a business within the city. Also, it restricts the City from such activities, except for landings for recreational purposes, town landings and bathing beaches.

Also, the District is given the right to take property necessary to its operation by eminent domain. Property owners are protected with established requirements for notice of intended action through a newspaper, or by personal service, no less than 14 days prior to the date of a hearing on the matter. Rights of appeal are fully established to protect property owners.

No property of the City or a public service corporation, required for use in the public service, may be taken under the terms of the bill.

Property held by the Port District will be free from municipal taxes.

Still another section gives the City Council the right to call a special election to fill a vacancy on the Council, even though the vacancy occurs less than six months prior to the next municipal election. Legislation previously in effect permitted a special election only if the vacancy occurred prior to six months before the next election.

A change in the fiscal year of the City of Rockland was approved and now establishes with the calendar year rather than from July 1 as has been the case since the new charter went into effect in 1946. In the future, the municipal budget year will start on Jan. 1 and end on Dec. 31.

City Manager Lloyd Allen explains that the annual budget of the City will be approved in June of this year as usual. On Dec. 31, that budget will be terminated and unexpended funds directed to surplus. The funds will remain in surplus only as an accounting measure, for they will be promptly applied to the new budget for the newly approved fiscal year starting Jan. 1.

A second budget will be drawn this year and be prepared for approval by the Friday preceding the third Monday of December. Funds which will become surplus on Dec. 31 will be considered in drawing up the new budget and will become available to meet demands of the new budget on the first day of the year.

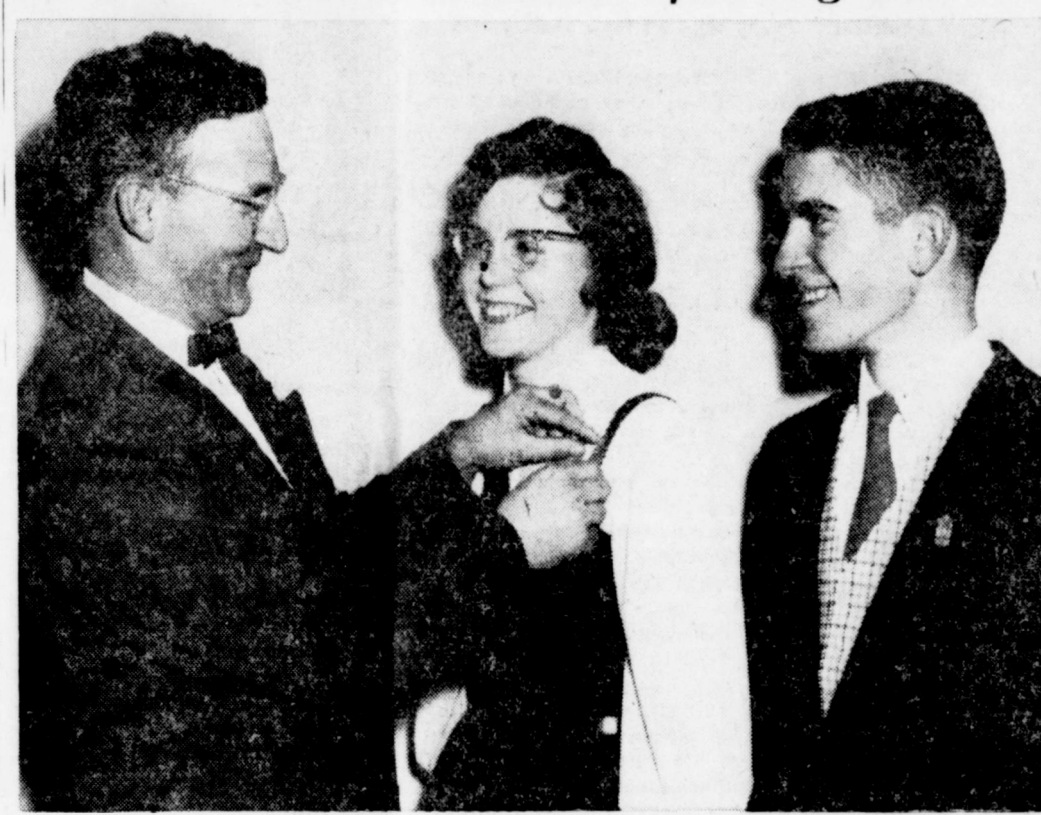

City Manager Allen points out that the new fiscal year is designed to put the city finances on a basis whereby funds being collected in taxes will be paying for services then being received through the budget then in force. In the past, taxpayers were paying for municipal services received the year before. Approaching the situation differently, budgets approved in any one year were not assessed until the following year.

The final item in the bill provides that receipts from parking meters will be directed to the general fund of the city. Previously, they were directed to the Police Department fund.

on the department leaving in April of 1956. He has been employed in Dover, N. H.

One other post on the department is still vacant and applications for the position are available at the office of City Manager Lloyd K. Allen.

Second place winners and their speeches were: Dean Shea of Wiscasset, "As Others See Us", and Judith Spear of Waldoboro High, "In Rebecca's Room".

Third place winners were: Craig Sprout of Boothbay Harbor, "Joe Salvin", and Joyce MacDonald of Lincoln Academy, "Death of Stonewall Jackson".

Other contestants included: Paul Barnes of Thomaston, Peggy Lamson of Wiscasset, Carol Lane of Boothbay Harbor and Jeffrey Huntsman of Waldoboro.

Arranging for the event were Leonard Osier of Thomaston, Charles Begley of Waldoboro and Mrs. Cecil Witham of Wiscasset. Medals were presented to the winners.

Camden High School, the sixth team in the league, was unable to participate in the contest.

FLAG TO FLY DAILY OVER WARREN MONUMENT LOT WITH SCOUTS OF TOWN PLEDGED TO THE DUTY

Milton Wooster, Scoutmaster, and Norman Peabody, Assistant Scoutmaster, are arranging a flag raising ceremony at the Veterans' Monument in Warren Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. Each following day, the flag will be flown, with two Scouts taking on this duty each week.

The flag now being used, was the gift to the town of Jesse A. Mills and Joseph Stickney, in memory of their wives, who were active members of the E. A. Starr Sons of Union Veterans' Auxiliary. Mrs. Jesse Mills had been custodian of the flag and raised it each national holiday for 10 years. Since her death, the flag has been raised by her husband, on the national holidays. With the Boy Scouts taking over this privilege, the flag will be flying each day at the monument lot.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stickney of Framingham, Mass., son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stickney, have stated their wishes to replace the present flag, when needed.

An invitation is extended to the public to attend the exercises Sunday morning. Following the flag raising, the Scouts will attend the 10 a. m. service at the Baptist Church in a body.

MAINE PORT AUTHORITY IS READY AND WILLING TO ACCEPT TASK OF OPERATING PROPOSED FERRIES

President Donald Laughlin of the Maine Port Authority said Friday that his organization would be ready and willing to accept the responsibilities of establishing and operating the Penobscot Bay ferries if and when the project is approved.

Edward Langlois, executive secretary of the Authority which manages the Maine State Pier at Portland, said that A. Everett Libby of Vinalhaven was in conference with the board members Monday.

Mr. Libby presented a revised legislative document which would make the Maine Port Authority the operating organization for the ferry service, rather than the State Highway Commission as was originally written.

The change, which is heralded as a practical one, was touched off at the Highway Committee hearing at Augusta recently on the $2,500,000 bond issue when Max Wilder, bridge engineer for the Highway Commission observed that the Highway Commission might not be the proper organization to operate the maritime project.

Andrew Sides of Rockville, a member of the Maine Port Authority and a shipbuilder and marine authority of many years standing, also spoke. He offered the full facilities of the Authority to the project. Many hearing him felt that at that time he indicated the willingness of the Authority to take on the task if requested to do so.

Prior to the Augusta meeting, members of the Authority had met in Rockland with proponents of the ferries to serve Vinalhaven, North Haven, Islesboro and Swans Island.

Mr. Laughlin pointed out that his organization agreed to permit the revised bill to be presented to legislature, naming the Authority as the operating agency.

The bill calls for the state to lend its credit to a $2,500,000 bond issue with which to build two 135 foot ferries to run from Rockland to the islands; a newer and larger replacement for the Governor Brann which runs from Lincolnville to Islesboro; and a fourth to serve Swans Island with a Mt. Desert connection.

It has yet to go to vote in legislature which is waiting the report of the Highway Committee. Should the legislature approve, the bill would then go before the voters of the state in a referendum election next September.

At the legislative hearing, proponents of the ferry services to the four islands presented figures supporting their contention that income from freight, mail and passengers would be sufficient to meet all bond payments and operate the ferries.

MID-COAST ASSN. GETS DOWN TO PROBLEM OF SIGNS FOR COASTAL AREA AT SESSION NEXT WEDNESDAY

President Frederic H. Bird of the Maine Mid-Coast Route 1 Association has called a dinner-meeting of all interested persons and association members at the Thorndike Hotel at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Albert Hodson of Portland, a representative of the Employers Liability Assurance Corporation, will speak. His subject will be "Highway Safety From An Insurance Man's Viewpoint".

Also scheduled to speak is Ralph W. Bartlett, executive secretary of the Knox County Industrial and Development Association, founder of the Mid-Coast Association.

Mr. Bartlett will use a detailed map of the state's highway system with proposed repair or construction projects spotted for comparison. The map, he states, has been prepared from data contained in the Highway Commission's sufficiency report presented to legislature.

He said Friday that the coastal section of the state was being shortchanged in road projects the next two years and commented that he has shown the same map to Governor Muskie in pointing out road needs the length of U. S. 1 in the state.

Notices calling attention to the meeting indicate that it is a vital session at which the group's campaign for directional signs on highways leading into the Coastal Area will be thoroughly discussed. The need for directional signs informing tourists of the coast and routes available to them has long been recognized. Since the opening of the Maine Turnpike to Augusta, the need has increased greatly. Persons engaged in serving the tourists, and businessmen in general, have repeatedly pointed to the sharp drop in business experienced the first year the Turnpike extension was opened as tourists were funneled into the center of the state.

The lure of a super-highway stretching ahead and the absence of signs informing drivers of other roads and recreational areas had great bearing on the coast's loss of trade last year, many believe.

Work has been done to correct this situation, both in legislature and with the officials of the Maine Turnpike. Full reports of this progress will be made at the meeting, according to Mr. Bird.

The meeting will also serve to honor the Governor's Highway Safety Committee which is carrying out a powerful program to reduce accidents and resulting deaths and injuries on the state's highways.

Under the proposal outlined by Bird at a meeting last winter, directional signs for the Coastal Area would be required not only on the Turnpike, but at major trunk highway junctions leading from the Canadian border, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Needed also would be route markers which would easily take drivers through cities and towns and direct them to the feeder roads to the coast.

Firemen Hosts To 150 At Baked Bean Supper

A group of about 150 Rockland businessmen were fed beans and frankfurters and furnished two hours of relaxation at the Rockland Fire Department's annual banquet held at the firehouse Thursday night.

A crew of about 30 regular and volunteer firemen kept plates full and coffee cups steaming during the dinner as guests heard a talk by Gen. William Heslett, Maine Survival Project Manager for National Civil Defense Headquarters.

Heslett detailed for his listeners the six critical target areas in Maine and explained that a warning period of about three hours could be expected in event of attack. In this period, residents of the A and B Zone of the four zones of a target area could be evacuated in two hours and 20 minutes such as Portland. Outer zones would not be evacuated, he explained.

Six target areas in Maine, Heslett pointed out included the Limestone Air Force Base which is the site of the country's northern interceptor command; Dow Air Force Base in Bangor, Augusta (to disrupt the state government); the Naval Air Station at Brunswick which is the North Atlantic submarine net station, the highly populated Portland area, and Kittery where the new Strategic Air Command base is located.

Heslett pointed out that because of the modern developments of weapons and their means of attack, no military man would claim that every attacking aircraft could be shot down. However, any attack by Russia, he explained, would have to be wholesale in the initial wave to be successful.

In the hydrogen bomb, he said, we actually have an atom bomb trigger with a five mile blast area. This would be the A zone as compared to the one-half mile blast area with the atom bomb. Beyond the A zone, the blast effect would diminish to 10 pounds pressure per square inch while the average home is built for a 40 pound per square inch pressure.

Heslett emphasized the need to utilize government workers, such as state employees in agencies that could be suspended temporarily, for emergency work in event of attack. He pointed out that the state has 115 fish and game wardens, with two way radios, who might be of valuable assistance. These employees are part of the proposed government plan in case of emergency.

Also speaking was City Council Chairman Henry Marsh. Master of ceremonies was City Manager Lloyd K. Allen.

Fire Chief Wesley Knight congratulated his department on the success of the evening and called Connelly, manager of the Van Baalen Heilbron & Company; Harold P. Fowle of the Green Island Packing Company; Edwin E. Witham, president of the Green Island Packing Company; Dr. Rupert L. Stratton, dentist; and Edward R. Ladd, treasurer of the W. C. Ladd and Sons insurance firm.

Area fire chiefs attending the dinner included: Edwin Anderson of Thomaston, Robert Perry of Rockport, Harry Burns of Union, Bertrand Eugley of Lincolnville, Earl Montgomery of Owls Head, Allen Payson of Camden and his first assistant chief, Richard Moody, and Chief Benjamin Frates of Bath.

The dinner, as explained by Manager Allen, is actually a continuation of the old public clam chowder dinners dating back to the Rockland Volunteer fire companies. The banquet has not been held in recent years but was revived this year by Chief Knight.

SET UP FOUR TEAM TWI CIRCUIT

Newly elected officers of the Knox-Lincoln Twilight baseball league confer on a proposed schedule for the four team circuit at Thursday night's Community Building meeting. They are, John Jenkins of Camden, secretary-treasurer and official scorekeeper, and Ray Foley, right, president of the league.

The second meeting of the Knox-Lincoln Twilight League was held Thursday night at the Community Building with a four team season schedule drawn up.

Represented in the league will be the Rockland Rockets, the Thomaston Clippers, the Waldoboro Townies and the St. George Torpedoes. Camden will not enter a team because of the lack of a baseball organization in that community, league officials said.

John Jenkins of Camden was elected secretary-treasurer of the group and was appointed official circuit scorer. Ray Foley of Rockland, retired state trooper, was elected president last month.

A schedule of 30 games for each squad was decided upon and will be launched May 30 and end toward the last of August. No September games will be played.

It was agreed to pay $8. for plate umpires and $5 for base umpires who will be under the management of an umpire-in-chief to be named by the participating umpires.

Each team will be required to pay a $25 expense fee to the league treasurer for season game costs and individual player prizes at the end of the season.

The group agreed to meet again on April 10 at the Community Building at 7 p. m.

Municipal Court

Harold McDonald of Vinalhaven was jailed Thursday morning when he was unable to pay a $300 fine after being found guilty of driving under the influence of liquor on a second offense warrant in Municipal Court.

Judge Alfred M. Strout fined the respondent $300 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail. The sentence would be suspended upon payment of the fine, but in lieu of payment an additional 60 days, 90 in all, would be served. McDonald was unable to pay immediately.

The charge was brought by Vinalhaven Constable Lester Pendleton who investigated an accident involving McDonald on High Street in Vinalhaven on Wednesday.

McDonald, who entered a guilty plea, was previously convicted of drunken driving on July 17, 1954. The car he was driving collided against a utility pole, causing heavy damage to the car and pole.

A charge of passing a school bus brought against Woodrow Wilson, 44, of Thomaston by state police in court Wednesday morning was dismissed by Judge Strout Thursday morning. The charge had been taken under advisement.

State police alleged that Wilson had passed the stopped school bus on Route 1 in Thomaston Tuesday. Wilson told the court he had mistaken the gesture of the bus driver's outstretched hand at the time of the incident.

Clayton J. Pease of Port Clyde pleaded guilty to a second offense charge of driving under the influence of liquor and was fined $300. in Rockland Municipal Court Friday morning.

A 30 day jail sentence was suspended upon payment of the fine by Pease. He was placed on probation for one year.

Pease was arrested by deputies of the Sheriff's Patrol March 26 on the Spruce Head to Wheeler's Bay road.

He was previously convicted of drunken driving on March 31, 1947 at Rockland.

Maynard C. Lammi, 37, of Camden was charged with passing through a stop sign by Rockland Police on a charge that was continued to today.

Police charged that he passed through the stop sign on Park Street Thursday.

RELAXING MIDEAST TENSIONS

While firm settlements are still far from being in sight, there is definitely an air of improved relations among the nations principally involved in the problems of the Middle East. These problems now center more about the Suez Canal and its reopening to world shipping than about the strife between Egypt and Israel.

Cairo has been at pains for some time to give an impression that remaining differences over the canal are minor and that virtual understanding with the Western countries has been reached. This doubtless is premature unless President Nasser and his advisers are prepared to make more concessions than appear explicitly in their latest note. Yet the room is there for permitting some effective consultation and for providing automatic arbitration of disputes.

Secretary of State Dulles has described the situation very accurately in saying:

The problem is one which confronts Egypt itself with a choice between whether it wishes to try to re-establish the confidence of the world in the dependability of the canal and its availability for use on the terms contemplated by the 1888 convention or not.

Egypt has affirmed its adherence to the principles of the 1888 convention. These perhaps need to be embodied in a new document which would bring up to date the pledge to keep the waterway open to the shipping of all nations. This should also make clear that while Egypt controls operation of the canal it does so under certain obligations to members of the international community, much as a public utility assumes obligations of reliable and impartial service at reasonable rates.

While these negotiations take place it is gratifying that the Egyptian Government has refrained from further disturbing the situations at the Gaza strip and the Gulf of Aqaba. Secretary-General Hammarskjöld of the United Nations appears satisfied that Egypt will permit the continuance of the UN Emergency Force in Gaza for an indefinite time and will co-operate in the ending of raids by Arab refugees from that territory into Israel. If the question of Israeli shipping through Suez still remains obscured, at least the Gulf of Aqaba will be open.

As Mr. Dulles implies, the subject of possible boycott of the canal if suitable terms are not forthcoming is a subject for nations whose trade and fuel supply are more vitally affected than America's—specifically, for Britain and France. It will be well if plans do go ahead for a pipeline through Turkey and for building supertankers. But indications are encouraging that the Nasser regime sees its true self-interest in making Suez an income-producing asset for Egypt.

SAFETY ON THE RED WAGONS

Firemen in Newark, New Jersey, have been trying out electronic controls by which drivers of their trucks and officers' cars can turn the traffic lights to green as they approach them in their race to a fire.

This or other similar electrical devices for the purpose could be a very important safety advance in the congested traffic of modern American cities. Probably no one except the driver of a heavy fire truck knows the tension of approaching a snarled intersection and wondering if motorists there are going to hear the siren in time to clear the way. And the motorist certainly has no desire to be caught in the path of a speeding pumper or hook-and-ladder truck.

In Newark the radio controls (on three officers' cars and six fire engines) will operate any of 15 key traffic signals, either turning the red lights to green or holding them on green and at the same time starting a blinker on top of the station. These should soon become standard equipment in America's more congested cities.

NORWAY KNOWS

At a time when the Western Alliance needs all the help it can get toward reemerging its unity along comes the Soviet Union with a bucket in one hand and a trowel in the other.

Premier Bulganin has just warned Norway against basing new North Atlantic Treaty weapons on Norwegian territory. This warning seeks to divide allies, but it will cause them to rally. Terrible things can happen to Norway, he says, if his warning goes unheeded. But the worst of them won't happen this side of a third world war, so the warning is largely bluff, and Washington and London as well as Oslo must treat it as such. President Eisenhower has called the Bulganin statement indefensible.

However, Premier Bulganin has other means for putting pressure on Norway, and he refers to them in the most polite way. Moscow could make a whole series of minor but not inconsequential troubles for Norway, concerning, for example, the Norwegian-Soviet sea frontier, long-term trade, and water power rights.

The Bulganin move aims at a more serious purpose than defending the Soviet Union's 200,000,000 people from Norway's 3,500,000. It follows immediately on the American decision at Bermuda to help equip Britain with missiles. This decision looks like a forerunner to the equipment of other members of the Western Alliance with weapons they have been seeking and to firming up of the alliance generally.

Norway is only the handiest target for Soviet threats designed to hinder the process. But Norwegians well remember what happened to other small countries on the Soviet border which did not provide themselves with adequate means of defense against Communist encroachment. That is why Norway is a member of NATO and can count on the support of 450,000,000 free people in warding off such threats as Moscow now aims at this valuable member of the alliance.—Christian Science Monitor.

will meet Thursday night to discuss a hike in the annual dues rate now paid by members.

Members will be asked to vote on an increase over the present $5. rate; $3.25 of which goes toward national and department dues.

Appointed at Thursday night's meeting of members was a three member nominating committee who will return a slate of officers for election at the last meeting of this month.

Serving on the committee are E. Carl Moran, William Cummings and Frederick Reichel. Reichel is chairman.

FILLING STATION BREAK IN CITY AND THEFT OF THREE CARS LEADS TO WIDESPREAD SEARCH, CHASE

Law enforcement officials all over the state are still looking for a youth responsible for a break into the Park Street Esso station in Rockland early Thursday morning, and the theft of three automobiles in two states.

Wanted in connection with the crime is a 20-year-old, Carl Pitcher, of parts unknown.

The Esso Street Station burglar, who is believed the driver of three stolen cars that have eluded Rockland police, deputies of the Knox County Sheriff's Patrol, State Police and Belfast Police officers, is still being hunted after last being seen in the South China area.

Early Thursday morning, about 1:50 o'clock, Rockland Patrolmen John Low and Frank Nash spotted a 1951 Mercury sedan pulling out from the service station. They followed the car which headed down Main Street at a high speed.

The 1956 Cadillac was spotted again about 8:35 p. m. Thursday on Route 17 in Union by deputies of the Sheriff's Patrol. Deputies gave chase hitting speeds up to 100 miles an hour and followed the car when it turned off on Route 22 in Cooper's Mills. They, however, lost the vehicle when it turned off onto a dirt road near South China.

The vehicle had left Route 32 just before coming across the State Police patrol car of Trooper Everett Trask who had spotted the speeding vehicles coming toward him and spun his car across the road to halt the front sedan.

Later in the night, Trooper Trask discovered the abandoned Cadillac on a dead end road in South China. Reported missing the next morning was a 1948 black Chevrolet sedan owned by Delbert Clifford of South China. This car was parked a short distance from the newly abandoned car.

State police reported the New York registered Mercury, abandoned near Belfast, is registered to Robert and Virginia Branagan of Oswego, N. Y., who have reported the vehicle stolen.

Belfast Police Chief Oscar Horne said Friday that a 13 year old unidentified girl was reported traveling with the driver of the stolen car. A packet of love letters were found in the abandoned New York car addressed to Carl Pitcher and signed by a "Kathy."

The F. B. I. have entered the case, according to the Belfast police, because of the stolen car

State Continues Open Season On Harbor Clam Flats

The Department of Sea & Shore Fisheries has extended the open season for the digging of clams on the Owls Head flats bordering Rockland Harbor until April 15, according to a notice published by Commissioner Ronald Green who is a Rockland resident.

The state opened the flats on Feb. 21 after a 10 year closed period. The result was an influx of commercial clam diggers from sections of the coast as far away as Harpswell. The open season was to have ended April 1.

Owls Head, with a clam law restricting digging to local residents or taxpayers, had to ask assistance of coastal wardens to enforce the town regulation.

Several arrests were made and complaints brought by Constable Wendell Leadbetter before the digging by out of towners was halted to a degree.

In town meeting in March, Owls Head residents voted to continue their restrictions as to clam digging and provided for town licenses for residents and taxpayers.

It was estimated that clams to the value of $5,000 were taken from the Owls Head flats in a few days after the state declared open season.

being transported across state lines.

The stolen Chevrolet has not been reported spotted by late Friday afternoon.

Ermina Williams Of Warren 90
Years Old Friday

A North Warren woman born in the same house in which she now lives, celebrated her 90th birthday Friday with a "coffee" for friends and neighbors.

Miss Ermina Williams, born April 5, 1867, in a small farm house five miles from Warren village, has resided in the same house for the past 90 years, except for two years she lived in Thomaston.

She was born the youngest of eight children of Jesse and Rosanna Leach Williams and is the only one living.

She has one living relative, a niece, Mrs. Howard Buzzell of Warren.

Miss Williams, who has never married, because she "had no time" is an honorary member of the White Oak Grange of North Warren.

"Laugh a lot and be sociable" is her formula for a long life.

The only sure way to beat the other fellow at his own game is not to play it.

"Something for nothing" is the strongest appeal you can make to some people.

BORN

Johnson—At Knox Hospital, April 5, to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Johnson of Rockland, a daughter.

Paladino—At West Palm Beach, Fla., March 31, to Mr. and Mrs. Liberale Paladino, Jr., of West Palm Beach, Fla., and Rockland, a son—Anthony Ford.

MARRIED

Garland-Hall—At Gloucester, Mass., March 16, Ralph L. Garland of Gloucester, Mass., and Miss Lucille R. Hall of Gloucester, Mass., and Camden, by Rev. Edward A. Jones.

DIED

ALL 40 FATHOM TRAWLERS TO BE AT SEA NEXT WEEK; PLANT WILL OPEN WITH ARRIVAL OF SQUALL

Three trawlers of the six ship fleet of 40 Fathom Fisheries, Inc., are now at sea with the fourth sailing this weekend. The remaining two are scheduled out of port during next week.

Captain Ronald Whiffin took out the Squall on March 29 with Capt. Douglas Schwartz following with the Surf on Monday of this week. Capt. Ernie O'Toole sailed with the Storm on Wednesday and a scheduled sailing of the Wave, Capt. Mike Mahar, master, was held up due to weather which delayed last minute checks of navigational equipment.

The Ocean and Tide are nearly ready for sea and will sail next week with Capt. Pete Mills and Capt. Lee Benner in command respectively.

Arthur Thurston, general manager of the 40 Fathom operations here, said that the Squall was expected by the last of next week or the following Monday to open the fish processing season. The arrival of the first trawler of the year depends, he said, a great deal on weather and fishing conditions on the Grand Banks.

Most of the old hands who worked in the fillet plant on Tillson avenue for Birds Eye have applied for jobs with the new firm, Thurston said, with a considerable number of applications being received from newcomers to the fish business.

BUILDING CODE CHANGES AND PARK PROPERTY TRANSFER TO COME BEFORE COUNCIL MONDAY

The City Council at their regular monthly meeting Monday night will consider an order to convey ownership and supervision of the Schofield-White Park area to the Rockland Port District.

Such a move is made possible under the Rockland Charter change bill that was passed into law by the State legislature this week.

The area will come under the jurisdiction of the Port District trustees as the selected site of the planned $200,000 ferry terminal and wharf.

Purpose of the move is to eliminate dual supervision of the docks and port facilities of the area. One provision of the charter amendments allows the Port District to take over this supervision of the commercial docks and facilities in Rockland except for non-commercial aspects which the city may still govern.

In other action scheduled for Monday night, the council will consider city ordinance amendments that would strengthen the city's building code.

Several amendments to the code have been drawn up for final reading and passage Monday night. It is expected that contractors of the city will sit in on the public meeting.

The provisions of the amendments give the city building inspector power to assess added permit charges when and if property constructed proved to be of greater value than stated on the original permit application.

Also, to halt work on building where it is not conforming with the city ordinances governing such work.

The Council will receive a letter from Earl and Olive Barter withdrawing their petition for zone changes on Maverick Street. The couple earlier requested a zone change on lower Maverick Street from residential B to neighborhood D for a proposed grocery store construction. They have requested that the petition be withdrawn.

When making out your will remember your church and your hospital.

MRS. GORDON DAVIS

Word has been received of the death of Virginia, wife of Gordon Davis of Hollywood, Calif., who died March 26, at the age of 42, after a short illness. Gordon Davis is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elden Davis, formerly of Owls Head and attended the Rockland schools in his youth.

Besides her husband the deceased is survived by one son, Gordon, Jr., and one daughter Diane.

Ignorance ceases to be bliss the minute some joker takes it upon himself to put people wise.

STEAMBOAT YARNS

Unusual Steamboat Yarn Is Presented By R.
Loren Graham, Photographer Extraordinary

Above appears the biggest of the island steamers, the North Haven, just leaving that port. North Haven was very strong though a terrible roller. She was built as Electronic for Bay of Fundy service, hence her high pilot house designed to beat the Fundy fogs. Presently she is on the around New York run as Manhattan.

The island steamer W. S. White, ex-Miramar of the Hudson River and Sound service. Twin screw, a handsome craft, the government took her for service in Port O' Spain as a dispatch boat.

March 13, 1957.

Dear Steamboat Editor:

The absence of one of your fine columns in two Saturday issues of the Rockland Courier-Gazette prompts this poor writer to feel that if he makes an effort at a contribution, others who could do vastly better may "come to the aid of the party."

My contact with Maine steamboating is far, far less than you might imagine. My first was a daylight trip on the grand Governor Dingley about 1915 or 1916, then leaving Boston about 10 a. m. and arriving at Portland about 4 p. m.

I was rather a little fellow at the time but have three clear recollections with regard to this trip. One is that I lost my lunch and the family agreed that it was "indigestion" and not sea sickness. Another was looking down the sky-line from the upper end of the upper steel gratings and surveying the cylinder heads. A third was returning to where my folks and our representative of the good old days, our housemaid, were seated on the hurricane deck, and being informed that they had sighted a whale while my big brother and I were strolling about on the lower decks. Another remembrance is that I felt a bit inferior to be a deck passenger, as I had noticed some people had staterooms, but my good father explained that the boat would continue from Portland to St. John and these people were surely going to stay aboard for that overnight trip.

Of course I have many summers noted the nice little vessels, then propelled by steam, which operated in Casco Bay. I had often heard of the grandeur of the Penobscot River and had wanted to make a trip. About November 1935 I planned to make a round trip leaving Boston on a Saturday afternoon and expecting to be back at my work on Monday morning. I went down to the south side of India Wharf and purchased a ticket to Bangor. It was then about three in the afternoon and there was plenty of time, and I happened into the pilot house where a couple of officers sat smoking their pipes. I chatted with them and mentioned that I was going to make a trip for its own sake only and expected to come back on Sunday as I must be back at work on Monday at Boston. One of the officers ventured that we would probably go down to Deer Island and anchor until daybreak, (the weather was grey and windy) and then continue on. I remarked that we would probably not be back on time for Monday morning, to which he agreed. I reluctantly went ashore and turned in my ticket and went home. Since then I have come to feel that the officer had in mind the loss of the Portland and was planning his

I worked in the manager's office of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company for the summers of 1935 and 1936. For the summers of 1927 and 1928 I was clerk on the steamer Mayflower, a new job designed to assist the overworked purser, and to cashier evenngs in the dining room which went along with the dance hall built on that steamer as an effort to make up for some of the patronage which had been lost to automobiles and Sunday baseball. As we were on a moonlight dance trip every night, we stayed in the dock between Rows and India wharves until morning. Usually the boat from Bangor arrived before we pulled out and I was always on deck to see the Camden or Bel-

Have you seen the new Sunbeam controlled heat saucepan? If not, you must make a point of visiting our Central Maine Power Company store so that you may become acquainted with it. It has all of the wonderful features of the Sunbeam frypan—accurate thermostatic-controlled heat, economical cooking, ease of cleaning, and attractive appearance.

Your Sunbeam saucepan boils, simmers, keeps foods warm, stews, steams, braises, browns, prepares casserole and one-dish meals, even doubles for a corn popper, bun warmer and double-boiler.

You'll be proud to take this appliance right to the table. It also makes the perfect companion for the frypan you already have. For tops in table-top cooking, use the Sunbeam saucepan.

Now for a recipe to make your mouth water.

Cocoa-Cream Dream Cake
Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 tsp. soda, 1/2 tsp. salt, 2/3 cup water, 1/4 cup cocoa, 3 drops red food coloring, 2/3 cup butter, 2 cups firmly packed brown sugar, 2 eggs, 2/3 cup dairy sour cream, 1 1/4 tsp vanilla, 1 cup finely chopped nuts, English walnut halves.

Grease and flour two 9-inch round layer cake pans. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Stir water into cocoa, add coloring, and set aside. Cream butter and brown sugar thoroughly; add one egg at a time and continue beating until mixture is light and fluffy. Add dry ingredients, cocoa mixture, sour cream, and vanilla all at once. Beat until just blended. Fold in nuts. Turn batter into prepared pans. Bake in moderate oven (350°) for 35 to 38 minutes. Cool slightly on rack and remove from pan. Cool. Split each layer in half. Frost layers, top, and sides with fluffy frosting. Trim cake with nut halves.

than the crop planted in 1956. Growers of late spring and early summer potatoes have reported intentions of planting three per cent, or 9000 more acres than was planted in 1956.

In marketing guides issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, growers were asked to reduce 1957 plantings to a level 5 1/2 per cent below that of the year earlier. If growers in each state follow the acreage guide and the yield in 1957 is the same as for the four years 1953-56, the resulting crop would be about 213 million hundredweights. This is a quantity which the USDA feels can be marketed to return growers reasonable prices, Hazlett says.

It looks like there'll be too many potatoes in the United States next season if growers follow their present intentions, says Arling C. Hazlett, Extension economist in marketing of the University of Maine.

If growers in the United States plant the acreage they expect to, the 1957 national potato acreage will be one per cent larger than that planted in 1956. The total acreage, based on March 1 intentions of late summer and fall crop potato farmers, as well as intentions and actual plantings reported previously for producers of the earlier potato crops, would be 1,420,800 acres.

The two per cent reduction in acreage indicated for the late summer and fall crop potatoes is more than offset by increases in all of the other seasonal potato crops, points out Hazlett. Plantings of the relatively small winter and early spring crops are one-quarter, or 16,000 acres, larger

SYMBOL

Legend has it that, long ago, the dogwood came into bloom on Calvary and that, afterwards, a cross was implanted into the flower itself, to remain for all time. You can see it if you look closely, rust brown against the white of each individual blossom.

Many of us carry crosses, faint like the dogwood's emblem but with us, nevertheless. Somehow, in this Lenten season, we become particularly conscious of them and of our need for help—a certain kind of help, that can be found only through the things we learn in Church.

The Church doesn't pretend to banish our cares and woes. But, its teachings realistically consider the experiences of life itself. No matter what our personal cross may be, we seem able to bear its burden with more strength.

Lent is a wonderful time in which to begin making church-going a regular part of your life—if you haven't already.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

ROCKLAND STUDENTS INDICATE WIDE RANGE OF JOB INTERESTS ON EVE OF CAREER CONFERENCE

Rockland High students have indicated a strong interest in the professions of teaching, secretarial work, nursing, air transportation and the armed forces but local business and professional leaders will have to do some convincing talking next week if they wish to see the students follow many of these vocations in the Rockland area.

An indication that the students not only want to be told of local opportunities and advantages, but that they would have to be convinced, was noted Thursday afternoon at an orientation luncheon in preparation for next week's Rockland High Career Conference. The luncheon was attended by several city and business leaders and a group of students who are arranging for the career day.

Remarks made by Rockland Chamber of Commerce President Clinton Gifford on the benefits of living in Maine were picked up by one young girl who asked why the job opportunities and high wage rates of larger municipalities should not be taken advantage of.

Robert Hudson, Central Maine Power Company division manager, allowed that it was probably a good thing for graduates to leave the community for higher education or employment. This would give them a basis for comparison between their own area and that of other areas, he said. It would then be the job of local people to entice them back with a well founded argument of our own advantages.

Gifford told the group that proof of the desirability of living here in this state lies in the fact that thousands of people travel to Maine every year for a few weeks whereby local residents have its living advantages year around.

Alfred St. Clair, student occupations chairman, reported the results of a school wide survey of occupation interests of students.

The figures showed a heavy interest by both boys and girls in teaching, air transportation, engineering, science, government and public service, accounting and bookkeeping and architecture and drafting in order of their preference. Boys selected the armed services as their greatest immediate interest with the Navy taking first place. Next came iron, steel and machinery business occupations and motor transportation.

The girls, indicated interest in secretarial work, nursing, home-making and beautician work in that order.

In the professions that covered both sexes, careers as doctors and lawyers came low on the survey sheet.

The views on both sides of the Atlantic where the cable was connected to the telephone facilities in each country were very colorful and the pictures on the ocean as the cable was laid out were exciting. Alexander Graham Bell who invented the telephone in 1876, probably never foresaw such an historic development of his invention 80 years later, of a cable stretched across the Atlantic connecting by telephone the land of his New England wife and his native Scotland and uniting the peoples of the world in such a practical way. Guests were Don Harriman, Boothbay Harbor, Ned Cutting, Bob Hudson, Rockland, Paul Hurlburt, Dale Fugel and Paul Quinn, Camden High School students.

fast back into the dock and to watch our deckhands lower the big timbers which kept her guard from crushing our paddle box, as she often drifted against the Mayflower. I recall also her master at the stern telegraph as these sleek flyers came into the dock.

In the wintertime on an occasional Saturday afternoon I used to hike around various parts of Boston Harbor where the Eastern Steamship vessels might be laid up for the winter, or to see the Cornish loading for Penobscot landings.

I recall the steamer Mooshead spent a winter at Foster's Wharf, no doubt having interior repairs, and another winter the steamer J. T. Morse lay in the dock at Rowe's Wharf undoubtedly being repaired. I paid particular attention to her for she seemed to me so much like our own Nantasket steamer Mary Chilton, the last vessel built expressly for that company. After the Nantasket Company's loss of five of their six boats by fire on Thanksgiving, 1929, I suggested that maybe the J. T. Morse would be a good replacement to buy, but was told that the company had considered her and passed it up for theirs was a summer service and the J. T. Morse had so long carried many horses on the Bar Harbor Line that it was inconceivable to employ her as a summertime excursion boat; however, I didn't feel that that was a valid reason, or that new deck planks would cost too much.

Many of the Nantasket Line's officers were State of Mainers. There was Roy Grindell of Sedgewick, for a long first mate of the Rose Standish, queen of all vessels which ever went to Nantasket. There was Bill Symonds of Blue Hill, engineer of the Mary Chilton, fastest of all the boats, and Mr. Dickerson who came after the fire to be chief of the Town of Hull and who furnished you with the fine photo of the Steamer Des'Monts. Incidentally the manager of the Nantasket Line arrived at Norfolk, Va., in the spring of 1930 to consider buying this boat, then called General Matthews, only to learn that she had burned the night before. This brings to mind the lovely little Norumbega with her two tiny engines almost like the works of a watch. She worked on the Nantasket Line for several summers during the early 1930's but was chartered to the company by her owner, Captain George Ellis, who then served as master of one of the larger steamers and owned also the little May Archer.

One more splendid steamer to mention, Chauncey M. Depew, formerly your lovely Rangley, often seen and sailed on in the New York and Boston areas. I've just been given a color slide of her at Bermuda and she appears much as in those Happier Days. But how much better were it possible for her to work again in the cool waters of beautiful Penobscot and Mount Desert.

The Rockland Teachers' Association observed the 100th anniversary of the founding of the National Education Association with ceremonies held during a meeting at North School Thursday evening.

Officers of the Rockland Teachers Association are: Mrs. Martha Viik, president; Joel Fisk, vice president; Mrs. Lucy Lowe, secretary; and Mrs. Helen Young, treasurer.

The National Educational Association represents the 1,100,000 public school teachers in the United States, about 72 per cent of whom are women.

According to figures compiled by the Association, both men and women give daily instruction in their classrooms to an average of 129 pupils.

The average salary for men across the nation is $4,374 per year and for women, $3,932.

Among the women, who teach mostly in elementary grades, more than one-half are married and are the mothers of one child. Eighty-three per cent of the male teachers are married and have either one or two children.

If the women teachers had it to do over again, they have been quoted as saying, more than 80 per cent would be teachers. Among the men, only 54 per cent are sure that they would follow teaching.

Union P.T.A. Digs Into Problems Of Town Schools

The Union PTA held an interesting and important discussion period for their April meeting on Wednesday evening.

Questions had been placed in a box by the parents. Mr. Trask, as moderator, read them and the teachers and parents joined in the discussion.

At the end of the meeting it was the general opinion that almost all of the problems presented could be solved if the parents of Union really wanted them solved enough to pay the extra expense.

It was also generally agreed that home discipline and training in safety and health habits is most important and that the teachers' job is to review these and re-emphasize.

The discussions were a reminder to those present that the PTA serves a real need in the community and that more communication between the parents and the teachers of their children can result in a better school and a better learning program.

The questions presented by parents covered the subjects of school bus safety, discipline, driver's pay and driver's respon-
