Sheep were in fair supply, and sold at 3½@4½c lb. for slaughter sheep.

A few in market, selling at $1@$4 a head.

Egyptian Mummy.

And there a Egyptian mummy,
Who his subject was,
And he seemed a very dummy
Of the human race.
He was dried with sunshine often,
Of course, and sparkling eye,
And that he lives to-day
Is the height of folly.

We have sought the transformation
Of the Electric Purgative Pellets restored this Mummy to a healthy condition. Nothing else in the world can do it. Nothing else in the world can do it. Nothing else in the world can do it

The International American Congress.

The Democratic press, almost without exception, has manifested a hostile spirit toward the International American Congress, in some instances going so far as to insult the visiting delegates, who are our guests. This hostility is no doubt due in part to the fact that the meeting was first proposed by Mr. Blaine several years ago, and that he is now, naturally, the central figure in the affair. But hatred of Mr. Blaine does not cover the whole ground of the Democratic opposition to a conference which bids fair to prove of so great a benefit to this country, politically and commercially. It is another illustration of the un-American attitude in which the Democratic party has placed itself. In the last Presidential campaign that party fully committed itself to free trade, and to a line of policy that if carried out would destroy American industries, and place our people at the mercy of foreign manufacturers. It derived its campaign material from the Golden Club, and no inconsiderable portion of its campaign funds from British manufacturers and their agents in this country. During the campaign the foreign newspapers and the Democratic newspapers were in full accord, advocating alike Cleveland and free trade. Now, before the International American Congress has fairly begun its deliberations, the European newspapers, especially English papers, began to attack it, much as the Democratic press has done and is doing. These attacks, delegates seem likely to contribute to the success of the Congress by bringing about a consolidation of American interests. What Great Britain fears, of course, is a loss of trade in Central and South America, and nowhere is that country so susceptible as in the pocket nerve. On this point, an interview with one of the delegates from Salvador throws much light. Senor Isaiah Castellanos said to the New York Herald representative:

"I desire to impress this fact upon your readers—that the English are now on the banks of the Orinoco, that they have a part of our building, and that they want to get control of the navigation of that river. We are at the mouth of the gate to those countries in South America, and we lead to the Amazon and other great rivers. Columbia, Ecuador, all are exposed. We open the gate to the European Powers. We believe that England is not at all scrupulous about taking possession of land. She pretends to have some such right in our country, and if she were allowed to carry out her projects in Nicaragua she would have a claim to the Mosquito coast. The same with other South American countries. The Congress will be a barrier to all such purposes. Between North and South America there is good will, and the mutual interests dealt with by the Congress will bind the United States as a matter that concerns itself to see that the integrity of our government is preserved. That is the reason England is attacking us."

Other delegates expressed themselves in similar terms, the general agreement being that this was simply a matter of commercial interests, that it was not intended to interfere with present engagements, or designed as the basis for future aggressions, but that within a kind of friendly meeting, and scarcely anything else, its political importance may be developed subsequently, and that phase be the result of amicable relations. Senor F. C. C. Zegarra, the delegate from Peru, said:

Our general present conditions cannot be changed by mere discussions in any conference. The real object of the American Conference is to afford us a proper estimate of what our necessities are and how we can supply them. With regard to Mr. Blaine, I think he would do honor to any country. I have had occasion to remark that this is the estimate formed of him both by his political friends and his political enemies in Peru. I think that the bitterness of friction of political antagonisms is a good thing for the people at large. It is a fact that the evening speech of Mr. Blaine has received favorable welcome everywhere, so far as we have heard. I regard it as the best exposition among the delegates that he is a thorough statesman."

One of the Democratic cries against Mr. Blaine when a candidate for the Presidency was that if elected he would at once proceed to get up wars with all the foreign countries. This is one of the penalties an American statesman must pay for being an American of Americans. Now we find Mr. Blaine, as Secretary of State carrying out a long cherished plan of bringing together representatives of all the South American nations in the interest of peace and an enlarged commercial intercourse. Of Mr. Blaine's plans for the meeting of the Congress of the Three Americas, the secretary, Philadelphia Ledger well says:

The proposed alliance is so comprehensive and is to make such use as it may of the Monroe doctrine as to be a more potent meeting to the Monroe Doctrine. It effected in accordance with Mr. Blaine's programme it would virtually make united states of the three Americas, as they would be united in everything, save political union, in peace and prosperity. No statesman of the country ever evolved a more magnificent scheme than this the very magnitude, grandeur and farreaching consequences of which attest the sincerity of its accomplishment, and as it is based on foundations of wisdom and expediency, infinitely broader, deeper and stronger than were either of the European compacts of recent times.

The Belfast Age published last week a bitter personal attack upon Dr. A. J. Billings of Freedom, a member of the board of pension examiners for Waldo county. Among other things it is said of Dr. Billings that "for his alleged cruelty as an army surgeon he was hissed, cat-called, and nearly mobbed by his own regiment on their return to Augusta at the close of the war." A member of the regiment, Hon. A. E. Nickerson, of Swanville, authorizes us to say that this is utterly false, and that Dr. Billings had the warm support of members of his old regiment for the position of examining surgeon, a position he was in every way qualified to fill with credit to himself and to the government. The attack upon Congressman Milliken in this connection is equally unmerited. Whatever may have been his personal preferences he was wholly guided in this matter by the wishes of his constituents, as expressed by petitions and letters, as well as verbally, and the appointments were delayed to allow of a full and free expression of opinion. This we know, and we also know that there was practical unanimity among the Republicans of this city that Dr. Billings should have a place on the board. This was conceded to him professionally, politically and personally. The idea that Dr. Billings, his associates on the examining board, or Congressman Milliken, are hostile to soldiers is too absurd for discussion.

The press report of Thursday's session of the state convention W. C. T. U. at Bar Harbor says: "The Aroostook ladies non-partisan movement received some hard slaps." How kind and charitable and christian-like! What a shining example to set before the public! If your neighbor sets about doing a good work in his own way, let not your way, why, slap him in the face, pull his hair, scratch his eyes out, and pelt him with peppery epithets. If those Aroostook ladies did not care to become an adjunct of the Democratic machine, and chose to organize that they might the better labor in the cause of temperance and morality, they of course had a perfect right to do so. That will hardly be gainsaid by any one. Nor do we see why they should be subjected to coarse abuse from others who have ceased to labor in the field and turned their attention to party politics—as they of course are at full liberty to do. But it is hardly the thing in politics to "slap" those who do not agree with you.

At the recent session of the Maine Good Templars in Presque Isle resolutions of thanks were voted to Congressman Boutelle for his stand in the matter of a better enforcement of the law in Bangor and to Governor Burleigh "for his letter to the county attorneys and sheriffs, and for his earnest efforts to have prohibition in the State of Maine made more effectual than ever." At the State convention of the W. C. T. U. at Bar Harbor last week we read that "the dominant party in Maine was severely arraigned for its alleged not-enforcement of the prohibitory law." This difference of opinion is no doubt explained by the fact that the Good Templars is a non-partisan temperance organization.

The assumed right of secession had an historic foundation; the assumed right of the Federal Government to administer justice and protect life and property in the States has not even that. [National Democrat.

This declaration is from a paper certified to from Grover Cleveland down, or up, as the National organ of the Democratic party. Secession was right, but the government has no right to protect the life, liberty and constitutional privileges of its citizens in the solid South, where Democratic majorities are created by stuffed ballot boxes and the use of the shot gun. Well, that sounds Democratic, sure enough.

The New York Herald suggests that the delegates to the All-American Congress were not taken through the South "because the South has no rights which a Republican is bound to respect." No, it might have been because the South is bound not to respect the laws which provide for a free ballot and a fair count as essentials in a Republican form of government; but it so happens that a Southern trip was long since arranged for.

It is reported that a Thomaston man has raised tobacco enough this year to construct 20,000 cigars, and pure Havana cigars made from tobacco grown in Thomaston are among the possibilities of the near future. But what if by mistake the tobacco should be made into sour krout and the cabbages into cigars? Stranger things have happened.

A third party writer says "In the Republican party are three-fourths of the temperance men in Maine." Yes, and in the Democratic party are three-fourths of the rum men in Maine. Yet the third party, which claims to be the temperance party, does nothing more than to give aid and comfort to the rum party.

The delegations of Maine people who have been investigating the resources of South Dakota, and especially of Sioux Falls, have returned home. A majority of them say that while the West is very beautiful and enterprising, Maine is good enough for them.

It is said that Grover Cleveland was offered, by Tammany, an opportunity to rattle around in the Congressional seat made vacant by the death of "Sunset" Cox; but he wisely declined.

Horse Trot at Belfast Park.

The Waldo Trotting Horse Breeders Association has decided to hold its autumn meeting at the Belfast Park on this (Thursday) afternoon. There will be two purses—a free for all of $150, and a 2.35 class with a purse of $100 divided as usual. Five to enter and four to start. The entry fee is five per cent. and five per cent. additional from winners. If the receipts are not sufficient to pay expenses, purses will be paid pro rata. If the day is pleasant the trot will be a big one. In the free for all race the noted trotters, Eimbrook, Romulus, St. Lawrence and Miss Lelo will start and the contest between them will be well worth the price of a large crowd. In the 2.35 class many good horses will start. This fall meeting will close the trotting for the season.

Nelson Badly Beaten at Lexington.

At the Lexington, Ky., races Tuesday the interest centered in the $5,000 stake for the 2.20 class. Nelson, the favorite, was badly beaten by the Chicago horse Jack, driven by Budd Doble, he winning the race in straight heats. Summary:

Meeting of the Waldo County Teachers Association.

It was a happy assemblage of teachers who had gathered at the High School room in Searsport last Friday for the opening exercises of the fall meeting of the Waldo County Teachers Association. These meetings have been made, through the efforts of all the teachers, and especially through the earnest efforts of the officers, most instructive and entertaining, and the teacher, young or old, who misses these conventions loses a great deal that might be of value in the management of school affairs, and the best methods of instructing the "young ideas how to shoot." Only about fifty teachers were present at the opening exercises, but they continued to come as the morning advanced and at the afternoon session the school room was completely filled with teachers and some of the pupils of the High school who manifested interest throughout the meetings. Owing to the absence of President Brown and Vice President Cook, the meeting was called to order by Superintendent Luce who presided during the day.

The exercises were opened with singing, and then the Secretary's report of the spring meeting was read and accepted. Continuing the work left undone at the last convention, the topic first taken up was the question Resolved, "That corporal punishment should not be inflicted under any circumstances," opened by an interesting essay upon the negative side of the question by Miss Collier of Belfast. She spoke of the work at school as being best when acting in co-operation with home influence; when the influence at home is bad the scholar mixing with those at school has an influence over the others either of good or evil; when all endeavors have been wasted, moral suasion, kindness, all efforts but corporal punishment resorted to, then this element must enter to the correction of the pupil, chide the pupil gently and kindly but it must be firmly. The question was given to the members for discussion, Mr. J. S. Ferguson of Searsport being the first to speak. He had in his teaching yet to resort to corporal punishment nor did he expect to, but as with Miss Mortland of Searsport who followed, he could but admit that it must sometimes be a factor brought into school discipline. Mr. Chase of Belfast believed that every other method should be tried, but plans as every law must have a penalty corporal punishment must often enter as a penalty. Mr. Towle of Searsport and Miss Carver of Searsport held somewhat opposite opinions upon the respect of the pupil gained through the means of corporal punishment given. Mr. Carleton of Troy related an incident where corporal punishment broke up a habit of leaving school. Others spoke upon the subject, Mr. Pendleton of Frankfort, relating an amusing incident where a rough scrimmage took place between him and some young sailors he had in his school. He came off conqueror and taught out a school from which a number of teachers had been driven. Mr. Marsh of the Searsport High school spoke briefly upon the subject, and then taking a vote of the members upon the question, only two voted that it should never be resorted to, while nearly all believed that it should be an occasional factor and a few thought that in some schools it should be frequently administered. As this had used up the morning session the meeting was adjourned until 2 o'clock.

The visiting teachers were well provided for. The hospitable people of Searsport were very ready to throw open their doors and welcome the visitors to their beautiful homes and kind entertainment. W. Grandell of the Searsport House had very generously offered to provide for ten of the visitors, and his finely managed and excellent hotel became the very agreeable head-quarters of a number of very appreciative guests.

The afternoon session was opened with music. Supt. Luce appointed as a committee on the choice of officers for the ensuing year: Mr. Chase, of Belfast, Mr. Ellis of Belfast and Miss Mortland of Searsport; as a committee on resolutions, Mr. Snell of Stockton Sprin,s, Miss Pierce of Belfast and Miss Cole of Stockton Springs.

A paper on, "How can temperance instruction be made more efficient," was then delivered by Mr. E. C. Dow of Monroe. Mr. Dow's article showed thought and study and was an earnest appeal for the continuation of the work of which "sure, all, sure will the harvest be." Many of the teachers followed with reports of what they had done in temperance instruction. Miss Robbins read for the purpose.....In the trial at Alfred of Rich for murder a verdict of murder in the second degree was rendered. The jury were out three and a half hours. Exceptions will be filed.....In the Millidge case of Lewiston, the jury brought in a verdict finding plaintiff's wife's abortion, the jury brought in a verdict for $1,495.83. The older inhabitants remember a case like it between the British Consul at Eastport and an American citizen, the latter being charged with queer verdict of guilty, but no damage. Judgment would not receive the verdict and sent them out again, when they returned a verdict of not guilty.....The Eastern Maine Christian Endeavor Union met with the Second Baptist in Ellsworth, Oct. 30th, instead of the 24th, as previously stated.....The Boston Journal reports that G. H. Grant, speculator, Bar Harbor, Me., has gone into insolvency.....The new steamer Portland Company's steamer Bangor is the largest and finest steamer east of Long Island Sound. She was built for the Boston and Portland route.....Congressman Reed's friends claim that he will have enough votes to insure his election as Speaker.....Capt. C. A. Adams, deputy collector at Vanceboro was drowned Monday.....Rev. Elias Bond, who graduated from Bowdoin in the class of 1837, and the Bangor Theological seminary in 1840, has just presented $50,000 to the Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg. He is now missionary at Kodiak, Sandwich Islands.

A recess of a few minutes was given in which social intercourse among the members was carried on.

After recess the secretary, at the request of the committee, read the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting upon the organization of a "Teachers' Improvement Society" in connection with the association. Action upon the report was not taken until later.

Mr. Higgins, of Thorndike, read an interesting and excellent essay upon the "Work of the District System" as he had seen them. He considered the evils arising at almost every point. He expressed a wish for a change and hoped the day was not far distant when a change should be made. Mr. Higgins also read an essay by Mr. Brown upon the same subject. Mr. Luce spoke at some length upon the matter, answering some questions asked and explaining the town system. It is a system that must be done away with before long. Its evils are too apparent to warrant further continuation of a bad system. Mr. Luce is strongly opposed to the system, and we hope that before long some effort of its through the State government may cause the downfall of this pernicious system. It has done well in the past, but it has served its purpose and should give way to more advanced ideas.

The query, How to control disorder at recess was opened by Mr. Chase and spoken upon by Mr. Snell and Miss Cole, of Stockton Springs; Mr. Cook, of Troy, Mr. Brock, of Searsport, Mr. Marsh and Miss Kelbert, of Searsport. Hon. A. E. Nickerson, of Swanville, spoke upon this question and upon the former one.

The meeting was then adjourned until the next morning at nine o'clock.

For the evening session an interesting programme had been prepared. By half-past seven Union Hall was well filled with teachers, pupils and many of Searsport's citizens besides.

The programme was opened with singing by a male quartette, consisting of three young gentlemen and one lady, which was highly appreciated and much enjoyed, for all have voices of special merit. Miss Eames, of Belfast, had kindly consented to assist in the entertainment and the second exercise upon the programme was her recitation of "The Death Bridge of the Tay." Miss Eames' ability in recitation is too well known in this vicinity to need further commendation and it is only necessary to say that this as well as her next selection was rendered in her usual fine manner. Rev. N. LaMarsh followed with a humorous song in which his fine voice was much appreciated. Miss Eames then gave the humorous selection "Aunt Sophronia at the Opera," and then Supt. Luce addressed the audience upon the subject, "Habit as an educational prothet." He handled the subject in a careful and thoughtful manner and it was a masterly production upon an important subject to educational factors. After another selection by the quartette the exercises were closed.

SATURDAY'S MEETING.

The second day's session was opened at 9 o'clock in Union Hall, Supt. Luce presiding until the arrival of President Brown. "America" was sung as an opening selection and then Mr. Chase delivered an essay upon "The Advantages of Free Text Books." He had considered the subject in a careful light. Since during the past summer seen some of the publishers of text books and obtained from them their ideas upon the subject. Some questions were asked and Supt. Luce gave some explanation of the system, as to its beginning and the results obtained in places where free text books were already established. The next topic taken up was, "Should delinquent and neglected readings be required in ungraded schools," by Mr. E. L. Cook of Troy, followed by Mr. Carleton of Troy with an essay upon the same subject. They both believed that they should. Remarks were made by Miss Mortland, Miss Cole, Mr. Marsh, Mr. Chase and Mr. Carleton. The question "How shall the idle pupil be treated" was discussed at some length by many of the members. Many plans and devices to have the pupil industrious were given by different ones.

The report of the committee on nomination of officers was then called for and Mr. Chase reported the following selections for the ensuing year: C. A. Snell of Stockton Springs; for Vice President, Miss Lilian P. Robbins of Belfast; for Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Nellie M. Cole of Searsport; for Executive Committee, Mr. Fred'k W. Brown of Belfast, Miss Emma F. Mortland of Searsport, Mr. Ross C. Biggins of Thorndike, and Mr. Snell and Miss Carver. The officers as chosen were elected.

The queries from the question box were then taken up and assigned to different members, Supt. Luce and Mr. Chase answering some of the queries before adjournment.

The afternoon session was called to order at one o'clock by President Snell. The queries were again resumed, discussions upon many of them being taken up. The program was concluded by the reading of an essay upon "Teaching exercises in Arithmetic" by Miss Weed of Burnham. She had a valuable paper upon this subject, containing many excellent thoughts and suggestions.

An exercise in teaching Arithmetic was given by Miss Savage of Belfast. This exercise created some interest, for the class that had been selected to be taught Arithmetic was composed of some of the foremost teachers of the association. She illustrated at some length her way of instructing, especially in fractions, and impressed the association with the creditable way in which she would handle a class in this branch. She taught the method imparted at the Bridgewater Normal School of Massachusetts, from which school she will graduate next June.

As the time for adjournment was fast approaching it was voted to postpone the remainder of the queries until the first of the next meeting. The matter of the formation of a Teachers' Improvement Society was again brought up, and a committee consisting of Miss Pierce and Miss Robbins of Belfast, Miss Dyer of Stockton Springs and Mr. Higgins of Thorndike and Mr. Carleton of Troy were appointed to organize said society.

After passing a vote of thanks to the entertaining committee, to those so kindly furnishing entertainment, to the members of the male quartet, to Miss Eames and Rev. Mr. LaMarsh, and to Mr. Brown and the other officers of the Association, the meeting was adjourned, the date and place of next meeting to be left in the hands of the executive committee.

Though somewhat a smaller meeting than that held at Swanville last June, the convention was considered well attended. About a hundred teachers were present from nearly all sections of the county. All the sessions proved highly instructive and entertaining and many a teacher returned to their task on Monday morning with cheerful heart and renewed courage of completing their term of school with careful, conscientious and earnest labors in the great work of educating the young.

Fair of the West Waldo Agricultural Society.

This Society held its first annual show and fair at the Georges River Trotting Park Oct. 8th and 9th. Owing to the heavy storm of the 7th, which continued up to the morning of the first day of the fair, the exhibition of the stock and farm products were very light, but what was to be seen was of the very best. The trotting both days was very good. The last day was pleasant and a large crowd was in attendance to witness the races, which were very fine. The horses were quite evenly matched and some of them were among the best in the State, with low records. We were not able to be present until the last afternoon and are not prepared to give a detailed account, but will say that all were worthy of a premium whether they got it or not. Oscar Stibbles, of Searsmont, exhibited a Jersey bull, three years old heifer, sheep, sow with pigs, 3-year-old colt, and carriage horse. Job Clements, of Montville, a Hereford bull, sheep, brood mare with colt. S. J. Gushee and Austin Wing, Hereford bulls. E. P. Walker, Elmwood Farm, stallion Morgan Knox, 3-year-old stallion, brood mare with colt, 3-year-old steers, 3 and 2 years-old heifers. George Stevens, of Liberty, herd of cows. John Berry, of Morrill, two fine stallions and draft oxen. Draft oxen were also exhibited by Daniel Merservey and S. G. Norton. Daniel Merservey, Daniel Weymouth and A. L. Norton, matched oxen. L. Cooper, John Ayer, and D. Merservey, 3-years-old steers. Twin cows and five heifers by S. A. Bagley. Very fine four-month old calf by C. M. Howes. Splendid boar by G. A. Palmer. Sow and pigs by Dr. J. W. Clough. Two years-old stallion by Briggs Turner. Brood mares with colts by E. A. Porter, Frank Knowles, J. W. Clough, Alden Robbins and A. L. Norton. Fruit by Thos. Carpenter, Geo. Randell and others. Vegetables by Jos. Beaulier, and last, but not least, a pumpkin that weighed 104 pounds, by Master Walter Clough. Following is a summary of the races:

Three-minute class.

Almo, bk. g., C. A. Edwards	4	1	1
Adahaide, ch. m., L. C. Morse	1	4	4
Niagara, b. s., Charles Bessey	5	2	2
Isabelle, T. H. Drake	2	3	3
Kahila, b. m., H. M. Bean	3

Time, 2.47½, 2.48, 2.48, 2.47½.

2.50 class.

Almo, bk. g., C. A. Edwards	1	2	1
Kahila, b. m., H. M. Bean	2	1	2
Hiram D., br. s., John Wiley	4	4	3
Isabelle, T. H. Drake	3	3	5
M. L. Jr., M. L. Johnson	5	5	4

Time, 2.46, 2.46, 2.45, 2.41.

This was a very exciting race for the reason that all the others combined against Almo, who was the favorite among the people.

2.40 class.

Almo, bk. g., C. A. Edwards	1	1	1
Mischief, b. g., Fred Ripley	3	2	2
Charles B., b. g., Charles Bunker	2	3	3
William Wallace	6	4	5
Wilkesmont, b. g., Abner Littlefield	4
Christo Patchen, Charles Dustin	5	5	4
Niagara, C. F. Bessey	7	6	6

Time, 2.40, 2.39, 2.43½.

Free for all.

Romulus, b. g., H. M. Bean	1	1	1
St. Lawrence, b. g., Charles Dustin	2	2	2
Miss Eames, b. m., I. P. Tasker	3	4	3
Castle Dare, bk. s., E. A. Hussey	4

Time, 2.32, 2.31, 2.34½.

This was a square, open fight between Romulus and St. Lawrence, who have each of them trotted less than 30, while the tussle between Von Helmont and Castle Dare for 4d and 4th was very exciting, so much so that we got two good races in one. Owing to the small amount of money taken at the gate on the first day, by reason of the unsettled state of the weather, the Association was compelled to make a discount, in paying the premiums, of 10 per cent., but all were satisfied and the most of them happy.

A vase of Knox exhibited a fine stepping two-years-old colt, and Tibbetts of Rockport gave an exhibition mile with his pacer who is said to have made a mile in 2.25.

There was also a 3-years-old race Wednesday which was won by A. J. P. Happy Jack second.

Capt. Geo. C. and Adrian E. Tuttle, Belfast parties. An action to recover damages for an alleged assault and battery. Pilt says that on Feb 1, 1888, the dog of one of the defts. annoyed him and he put him out of his office. Adrian Tuttle then came in and assaulted him, and later W. C. Tuttle came and renewed the assault. As a consequence he was injured and confined to his home two weeks, and damaged as he says $500. Defts. say that pilt. made the assault and what they did was in self-defence. Verdict to be rendered Thursday morning. Williamson for pilt. R. F. Houton for defs.

Only one soap tray will be given to each family, and that with the first purchase of 50 cents worth of Brussels soap (no trash), at A. A. Howes & Co's.

Abandoned Among Strangers.

The Bangor Daily News tells of the hard lot of Joseph Hill, aged 73 years, and a former resident of Waldo county. The News says:

Mr. Hill has lived at different times in Searsmont, where all his family were most of them born and raised, in Unity, Belfast, Portland, and in Lowell, Massachusetts. Thirteen years ago his wife having died, he left the children with whom he had lived, and has led a wandering life for some time. They knew nothing of his whereabouts for all these years until, within a month, Mr. Hill's daughter, Mrs. Davis, who lives at Lowell, Mass., was informed by relatives living in Aroostook that her father was in Ashland, poor and in distress, and needed her.

Mrs. Davis at once went to Aroostook and remained with her father three weeks, and then prevailed on him to take her to her home in Lowell, to which he cheerfully assented. They left Ashland last Thursday, but the unfamiliar noise and bustle of the train so affected Mr. Hill that Mrs. Davis found him difficult to manage, and stopping in Bangor applied for his committment to the Insane Hospital. As he did not have a residence in Bangor, the city authorities were not disposed to incur the expense, and meanwhile Mr. Hilt was placed in jail, to await a hearing in the matter. Saturday it was decided that the unfortunate man was afflicted with senile dementia, and incapable of taking care of himself. The daughter having got him off her hands returned to Massachusetts, and the News predicts: "That the overseers of the poor will have the old man cared for at the city farm, and will set on foot inquiries as to his residence, with a view to returning him to the town which is responsible for him." It is believed to be either Ashland, Presque Isle or Searsmont.

Belfast Should Have Better Mail Facilities.

There ought to be some way by which Belfast could obtain better mail and train facilities, but the efforts in this direction have thus far been in vain. As for mail facilities, those which all Belfast is now grumbling at, and which good reason, are inferior to the service of many country towns. That the morning mail which arrives at Burnham at 4 a. m. should not be delivered in Belfast, thirty miles off, before 1 p. m.—giving no time to answer business letters or fill orders before the departure of the afternoon train—is a state of affairs that should not be tolerated. One day last week the train was three hours and a half coming from Burnham. To say nothing of the delay of the mails, think how pleasant it must be to one who has travelled from Boston, or beyond, to have to endure a three hours and a half ride over a distance that should be covered in one hour. The passenger traffic is, however, a matter that chiefly concerns the railroad company; the mail facilities concern the whole community, and some means should be devised to improve them.

The Efficiency of the Revenue Cutter Dexter.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL: Having recently, while lying in Vineyard Haven, received assistance from Revenue Stmr. "Samuel Dexter," M. L. Phillips commanding, I wish to testify to the efficiency and promptness with which she came to our relief. Just before daylight I found our vessel had dragged in so near the shore that I could not give her scope enough for safety and that the wind increase much, as it then looked likely to do. Soon as it became light enough I discovered the cutter lying in the harbor, and at once set signal for assistance. She immediately came and towed us to a safe anchorage. But she had hardly cast off the line before it was blowing a gale, and had she not come promptly, as she did, we must have gone ashore.

Belfast, Oct. 14, 1889.

BELMONT. Mr. Franklin Smith, of Hall's Corner, died Wednesday morning, Oct. 16th, aged 73 years. He had not been sick long, and passed peacefully away. Three daughters and one son survive him and have the sympathy of this neighborhood in their loss. Mr. Smith was a fine citizen, a good neighbor, and a friendly man.

Swift & Paul will give a patent soap tray (with the first purchase only) of 50 cents worth of Brussels soap.

News of Belfast and Vicinity.

We are obliged to omit our Marine register this week.

One day last week a boy drove four cows into the barn of Mr. B. T. Black on the east side, and left them loose. One of the cows gored a valuable horse making an ugly wound in the animal's hip.

We have frequently mentioned the finding of valuable pearls in the clams found in the river near the Head of the Tide, Belfast. Thayer & Adams, in this city, have one recently found that experts have valued at $42. It is of handsome color, large and perfect.

Mr. F. W. Shepherd, of this city, lost his pocket book Saturday somewhere between the office of Keating & Field and his home. The finder will be rewarded by leaving the same at the Journal of fice. See advertisement on third page.

The lessees of the Oak Hill granite works in this city, are W. O. Sargent, of New York, F. T. Sargent and Harry Luce, of Quincy, Mass. They are men of means and experience, and with one of the finest granite quarries in

A FAMILY MEDICINE.

Some Advice to Mothers—What to Give the Little Ones.

Strong, vigorous, and healthy children are what we all want, and how to keep our little ones in good health is the question of the greatest interest to us all. Children are peculiarly liable to nervous disorders; they become nervous, restless, fretful, cross, and irritable; their nights sleep is not calm and restful, but they toss restlessly from side to side, murmur or talk in their sleep, and wake tired and unrefreshed in the morning. They have an irregular appetite, grow thin and pale, look slight and puny, and their growth and development become stunted.

If your children are sick, do not use stupefying medicines, but give that greatest of all children's remedies, Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great nerve invigorant and health restorer. This wonderful remedy is, above all, a family medicine, and its name is a household word in thousands of homes all over the land. It is made from pure and harmless vegetable remedies, is calming, soothing and healing to the nerves, and at the same time strengthens and invigorates the entire system, restoring a healthful color to the cheeks, refreshing sleep, strong nerves, stout limbs, and that bounding health and vitality which all children should have. It is perfectly safe to give to children of any age, and its curative and restorative effects are wonderful.

Do not neglect the health of your children, parents. Remember that sound health and good vitality in childhood will make strong, lusty and vigorous men and women, and that nervousness and ill health in youth will beget weakness and debility in after life, to be sources of misery, sorrow, ruined hopes and unfulfilled ambitions.

Use Dr. Greene's Nervura in all nervous diseases of infants and children, and see them improve in health and strength every day and every hour.

Be sure and get the right remedy. Druggists often try to sell those who call for Dr. Greene's Nervura their own preparation or something on which they make a greater profit. Do not be deceived by them, but insist upon having the great restorer of health and strength which you know will cure.

Dr. Greene, the famous specialist in the cure of nervous and chronic diseases, of 35 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing, facilitates expectoration, induces refreshing rest, and hastens recovery.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject. Capt. D. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best compounded and most reliable cough medicines, the enduring quality of its popularity, if long more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Brake, 31 Ch. Bellefontaine, Ohio.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, recommended all remedies to give for any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lapper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Sunset.

BY REV. J. H. BEALE.

Thickly the curtains are gathering 'round thee,
King of the day, and thy brightness enfold!
Closer in their web they already have bound thee,
Woven in purple and scarlet and gold.
Densely the clouds with their shadows are bending
Low o'er thy couch in their tender surprise,
Fond as a mother her darling defending
Safe in her mantle from torturing eyes.

Thus to thy rest thou art calmly descending,
Soon to be lost in the darkness of night.
Clouds in their texture thy smile inter-blending
Clothe the horizon in garments of light.
Softly, then softly the sunlight retreating
Noiselessly turneth the key of the day,
While to our hearts the kind whisper repeating,
"Beauty in heaven ne'er faileth away."

Gently the shadows are quietly stealing
Over the landscape that stretches afar,
Robe of the night her fair beauty concealing,
Twinkling at its girdle by evening's bright star."
Soon all the jewels in heaven are shining
Bright from the depths of the azure above,
Silvery fingers of light interlining
'Mid her dark tresses the brightness we love.

Night with her beauty thus ever revealing
Wealth of the universe seen not by day;
Glories that sunlight but ahd in concealing
Strolled in our wisdom to worship and pray.
Then to our ears the heavens are bringing
Voices that only we hear in the night,
Songs that "the sons of the morning" are singing
Sweeping through space in their glorious flight.

Swiftly the day on its mission hath speeded
Morning and noontide and shadowy eve.
But as its duties and burdens receded
Happiest memories only they leave.
Hope with a chain that forever is weaving
Fanciful webs as they flit through the heart.
Deftly her fingers our vision deceiving,
Swift as the flight of her shuttle they dart.

Weaving in kindness the woof of its story
Softly amid the fine warp of the past,
Blending the colors of beauty and glory
Never to the traces of sorrow a trust.
Hope, the fair maiden, her shuttle is plying
Hither and thither in happiest dream;
While the glad heart on her promise relying
Eagerly waits for the morrow's first gleam.

Hope cheers the heart that is quietly dreaming
Head in the grasp of her gentle control;
Thoughts of the day are but real in seeming—
Dreams are the truest perceptions of soul.
Through all the heart their bright texture entwining,
Dreams of the future and scenes that are old
Bring us a web with its glory still shining
Woven in scarlet and purple and gold.

Mortal, at death like this sun in its setting
Round thee is tolled a mantle of love—
Life of my soul, then no shadow begetting
Soar thou away to thy mansions above.
Brightly reflected in visions of glory
Beameth the heavenly light on thy face,
Leaving to earth His most wonderful story,
"He is the soul with its marvelous grace."

Death at his worst He the shadows that darken
Brings to the Christian the welcoming rest;
Songs of the spheres to the ears that will harken,
Visions unfold to the eyes of the blest.
Quickly the hopes that arose in the vision
Pale in the splendors of heavenly glow,
Dreams of the soul that had painted Elysian
Changed to the real then clearly shall know.

Literary News and Notes.

"Improvement of Highways" is the title of a little book published for free distribution by the League of American Wheelmen. Fifteen thousand of these books will be sent to Highway Committees, Road Surveyors, Legislatures and Newspapers interested in the improvement of the roads of this country. It goes out as a missionary to plead the cause of better roadways and to point the way to reform. The book may be had by enclosing a two cent stamp to Abbot Bassett & Co's L. A. W. Box 5267, Boston, Mass.

Mr. Frank R. Stockton's new story, "The Merry Chanter," which will begin in the November Century, is something like that author's "Casting Away of Mrs. Lecks and Mrs. Aleshine" in its nautical plot. Ex-Minister Lothrop is authority for the statement that the last-named story was read with absorbing interest not only by the Czar of Russia and the entire royal family but by all the court, and the remarkable adventures of those ladies were the theme of much conversation at dinner-parties and other gatherings in Russia.

The Art Amateur for October gives two large colored plates of even more than usual excellence—the full-length figure of a beautiful lioness, after a study from life by the famous painter, Chelminski, and a highly decorative panel of nasturtiums. China painting receives most liberal attention this month, the designs, especially, being numerous and useful. The text abounds in practical hints, both as to work and drawings for Art Needlework, Wood Carving, Illumination, and Painting in Oil and Water Colors. No one thinking of taking an art journal should fail to acquaint himself with the very liberal offer to new subscribers made by the publisher, Montague Marks (23 Union Square, New York.)

"A Step Aside," by Charlotte Dunning, is the ninth number of the Riverside Paper Series (Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, 50 cents). The London Spectator said of it: "This little story proves in a way that is not less acceptable because it is unobtrusive, the moral of the insidious influence of luxury and the craving for wealth. Hugh Langmaid loves Pauline, the daughter of a French teacher of painting and drawing in New York. He is a good honest fellow, but his ambition is to be rich; and she is petted and spoilt by a rich woman. Miss Dunning describes with much skill how the bad influence in the two lives works together till the "step aside" is taken. Altogether this is an excellent little book."

The Hairbreadth Escapes of Major Monahan, by F. Blake Crofton, is a new book for boys, published by Hubbard Bros., 723 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. The Major's surname is suggestive, and in truth, or otherwise, he is a happy combination of Baron Munchausen and Col. Thomas P. Ochiltree. To an audience of appreciative but sharp-witted small boys the Major relates his perilous encounters, startling adventures and narrow escapes with Indians, cannibals, wild beasts, serpents, bullocks, geysers, etc., all over the world, in the bowels of the earth and above the clouds. His stories are well told and while too improbable to deceive the least credulous reader are yet very entertaining. The book is fully illustrated by Bennett, handsomely bound, and sells for $2.

"Our Town," Margaret Sidney's latest work, is a book in which the author sets herself to work to solve one of the most important problems of our every-day life—how to make things in a community better, socially, morally and religiously, without obstructive effort. As a story, simply, "Our Town" is full of brightness and action. The various characters are drawn with a deftness and skill which only comes from close observation and experience with the pen. The characters which deal with the strike are unusually strong, and the suggestions which the author makes as to the adjustment of the differences between capital and labor are evidently born of a conscientious study of the question. The volume is dedicated "to all members of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor." Boston, D. Lothrop Co. Price $1.25.

The West India Hurricanes, and the March "Blizzard," 1888, by Everett Hayden, comes to us from the Lovell and Stream Publishing Co., 318 Broadway, New York. Price 50 cts. It is an abstract of a lecture delivered before the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, New York, Feb. 9, 1889, by the author, who is the marine meteorologist of the United States Hydrographic Office, Washington, D. C. The work is illustrated by twenty-three plates, which add greatly to its interest and value. These include a relief map of North America, and a chart illustrating the diversion of ocean commerce into the Bay of North America that will result from the completion of the Nicaragua Canal. The ship master, the ship owner and the student of meteorology will find this publication valuable. It closes with The Sailor's "Rule of Three."

In a storm at sea there's a rule of three.
Which every sailor knows,
And all but fools observe these rules
No matter how it blows:
1. Always lie-to on the coming-up tack,
For if you don't you'll get taken aback,
And forever thereafter regret it.
2. Many a man his vessel saves
By using oil to calm the waves
And don't you ever forget it.
3. Look out for the first rise after low,
When the wind will shift and stronger blow—
Well, follow these rules, and let it.

A big machine which will turn out 80 finished steel railway ties per hour, has been tested in Pittsburg.

The health of Lord Tennyson is now completely restored. The aged poet may almost daily be seen frequenting the beautiful drives in the neighborhood of Haslemere, while it is not unusual to see him walking.

It is reported that the Emperor of China is considering the propriety of sending out of that country all Americans employed by Chinese and placing greater restrictions upon the presence of Americans in treaty ports.

Foundations for the new and great library of congress are now building. General Casey, the engineer in charge has about $6,500,000 allowed him for the structure. The library will be large enough to serve for 90 years, and with small additions for 120.

Mrs. J. C. Anderson (colored), aged 45 years, the mother of 16 children, has eloped with a 25 year old dude of Xenia, Ohio, named Evans. Mrs. Anderson's husband is a shoe maker. Evans leaves a young wife. The elopers are supposed to be in St. Louis.

The London Chamber of Commerce has discussed a scheme submitted by William Smith, a harbor engineer of Aberdeen, for the construction of railways to convey ships from ports to inland repairing centres. The project was regarded with favor.

Woman suffrage has received a severe blow in Washington Territory, where it was fast becoming an institution. The defeat of this phase of suffrage two or three to one indicates that after trial it was found to be a source of trouble and annoyance, conferring no substantial benefits upon anybody.

The late Dr. Barnard, of Columbia college, has willed all his estate, excepting the income which goes to Mrs. Barnard, to Columbia college. The value of the gift is estimated at about $80,000, and includes a valuable collection of rare books and manuscripts got together by the dead scholar.

Ocean steamers can now go to the Matadi, at the head of navigation on the lower Congo, the point from which the railroad is to start for Stanley Pool. There is a channel sixty feet deep. Goods can now be shipped from any of the ports of the world to the foot of Livingstone Falls without breaking bulk.

The Engineer

Of the Wakefield, Mass., Rattan Works, C. N. Young, says: In all cases of biliousness accompanied with those terrible sick headaches, I have found no other medicine that seems to take hold and do the good that your Sulphur Bitters does. It is the best family medicine made. 2w42

Proud father—"Heaven! What a passion for the sea my son Siegfried has. Last evening he went to a naval ball, afterwards he was seasick, and now—he is eating raw clams."

An Eminent Democrat on Subsidies.

Arthur Sewall, Esq., of Bath, one of the principal shipbuilders of the country, presents in the Independent his views as to what Congress should do to encourage American shipping. He says:

"Of the nations of the world but few are naturally maritime nations as are we. In point of resources for shipbuilding we are unequaled. Cheap labor only we lack, and labor is by far the largest component in the cost of a ship's construction. But our resources are fast developing, the cost of production is steadily diminishing, the efficiency of our workmen is superior to that of other nations. All this is rapidly offsetting England's advantage. The aid that American shipping needs is, therefore, but temporary; but such aid must be generous and immediate. It must come from the Government, and, if it is to be given, should be given openly and directly—call it protection, subsidy, bounty, as you will. I favor the payment by the national Government to the builders of American ships exceeding 2,000 tons register and used in the foreign trade, $10 per ton for wooden sail, $20 per ton for steel or iron sail and slow steam, $25 per ton for steel or iron steam with speed not less than fourteen knots, for a period of ten years. To the owners of these vessels I favor a further payment of 20 cents per registered ton for every 1,000 miles sailed in the course of foreign trade—this payment to be for the same period. And at the end of this time we shall have built up a merchant marine that will compare favorably with that of any other country in the world. We shall have established permanent plants and facilities which will enable us to maintain, renew and increase it. We shall have obtained a fair share of the carrying trade of the world, of which, once obtained, we can never again be deprived."

It will be noticed that this plan of Mr. Sewall corresponds in its general feature with the recommendations of the American Shipping and Industrial League, of which Mr. Sewall is one of the chief officers. It gains additional significance from the fact that Mr. Sewall is the Maine member of the Democratic National Committee. When the proposition looking to Government assistance to American-built ships comes up in Congress, it is reasonable to expect that a considerable proportion of the better element of the Democratic Representatives will be found voting with the Republicans. The membership of the American Shipping and Industrial League, the organization of shipbuilders, shipowners, merchants and others interested, which is working for protection for our foreign commerce, is divided between the two parties. The President of the league is Gen. Wheeler, one of the Southern Democratic Congressmen. [Boston Journal.

The Failure of the Fisheries.

The Western Bank fleet has failed to earn money enough to pay provision bills this year, and owners are several thousands of dollars out of pocket. The cod and haddock fleet has done well. The mackerel catch, as is well known, has been a failure, not 2,000 barrels having been packed this year. The catch prospects are certainly no brighter than they have been for several weeks previous, and there is now no hope of getting more than 15,000 barrels, not half as many as last year. When we compare this with the catch of 1885, which was nearly 500,000 barrels, or with 1885, which was 350,000 barrels, some idea can be formed of the great loss which New England has sustained in the failure of the mackerel fishery.

There are now 339 cotton mills in the Southern States. In 1880 there were 142.

There are sixty paper towns in Southern California, comprising 79,350 town lots, and the whole 60 have only 235 inhabitants.

It is stated on excellent authority that Mr. Kennan's papers on Siberia in The Century have been read by the Czar—with what result remains to be seen.

The Government dry dock, just opened at the navy yard in Norfolk, Va., is 530 feet over all, and will hold 8,000,000 gallons of water. It has cost over $500,000.

The British steamer Ernmoor went to the bottom in a West India hurricane and nineteen men were drowned. Seven of the crew were rescued after three weeks' struggle in an open boat.

Californians propose to restore and keep in good condition Sutter's Fort, where California gold was first discovered. A hall containing relics of the pioneer era will probably be erected on the lines of the old fort.

Skins on Fire

Agonizing, itching, burning, and bleeding Eczema in its worst stages. A raw sore from head to feet. Hair gone. Doctors and hospitals fail. Tried everything. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies for $6.

Cured by Cuticura.

I am cured of a loathsome disease, eczema, in its worst stage. I tried different doctors and boon through the hospital, but all to no purpose. The disease covered my whole body from the top of my head to the soles of my feet. My hair all came out, leaving me a complete raw sore. After trying everything I heard of your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, with CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, I find myself entirely cured, at a cost of about $6. I would be without the CUTICURA REMEDIES in my house, as I find them useful in many cases, and I think they are the only skin and blood medicines.

ISAAC H. GERMAN, Wurtsboro, N. Y.

Burning and Itching

I was sick in the fall of 1886 with a burning and itching so bad that in three weeks I was covered with a rash, and could not sleep nights, or work days. Some doctors thought it might be salt rheum or eczema, and said they had never seen anything like it before. I received no benefit from any of them, or from any medicine that I could get hold of until I tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES. After three weeks' use I was able to work, and kept getting better, until I am now entirely cured. I recommend them to all suffering with skin diseases.

C. L. FOSMER, Taitsville, Vt.

Most Intense Itching

I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES successfully for my baby, who was afflicted with eczema, and had such intense itching that he got no rest day or night. The itching is gone, and my baby is cured, and is now a healthy, rosy-cheeked boy.

Sore Throat, Hoarseness,

and Loss of Voice should be promptly checked. The most radical cases of Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, and consumption result from the neglect of a common Cold and Sore Throat. All this may be cured by a few doses of Ingalls' Throat and Lung Specific.

L. E. BROWN, Lowell, Mass., says:—

"DEAR SIRS.—Several years ago I was very sick with a severe bronchial difficulty. Through the persuasion of a friend, and with the consent of my physician, I commenced to take Ingall's Throat and Lung Specific. In a short time my throat became less inflamed, and my cough lessened. I continued the use of your medicine, and after using six bottles I was pronounced cured, and have remained so. I earnestly recommend it to any one afflicted with any throat trouble."

H. S. SAMPSON, Duxbury, Mass., says:—

"I have used and sold Ingalls' Specific, and found it just the medicine to have in a family of children, for coughs, colds, and any trouble of the throat. It never failed to relieve the trouble. Every family should have a bottle handy to use when the throat is sore and inflamed."
