

Fisher Engineering Of Camden Buys Drew Kelp Plant; Plan To Employ 30 In Metal Fabricating

The Fisher Engineering Corp. of Camden began the transfer of equipment, supplies and machinery to Rockland this week after their purchase of the E. F. Drew Inc. kelp plant on Water street July 1, it was learned Thursday.

The Drew plant has been closed for the past six years after the company, operating in Rockland on a seasonal basis, withdrew its local operations. The plant has been up for sale for some time.

The sale includes a large 200 by 49 foot metal kelp processing building, a similar adjoining 80 by 80 foot structure and several smaller sheds.

Equipment of the Drew firm for the harvesting and processing of kelp will be moved.

The Fisher Machinery Corp. has been located in a leased building on Mechanic street in Camden for the past six years. Its proprietor, Dean Fisher, has been in search of a factory building furnishing more space because of the expansion of the plant. The firm manufactures snowplows, bulldozer graders, scoops, trailer hitches and many metal fabricated items.

Its expansion in recent years has led to negotiations with the Camden-Rockport Chamber of Commerce and similar Rockland bodies seeking their help in securing adequate space.

The metal manufacturing company was operated under a single proprietorship until September of last year when it incorporated. At that time, Fisher affiliated with out of state business interests for financial backing.

Alfred Willmann of Belmont, Mass., in charge of the plant purchase, said Thursday that the company here would operate the year around and employ at capacity operation, between 30 and 35 men. The Camden company conducted seasonal operation employing about 10 persons until last year when the plant worked the full year.

Plans for the old Drew plant call for renovation of the main buildings, removal of parts of one structure, installation of a heating and sprinkler systems for year around operation, and new flooring. A roadway will be constructed, running north from the plant.

Willmann said the Drew equipment utilized in the sodium alginate process would be moved within a week or 10 days. The main office of the Drew plant is in Boonton, N. J. The closed plant has been in charge of a local superintendent, Harold Smith, who has been employed by the Drew company for 21 years.

Purchase price of the plant located just south of the Rockland Public Landing was not disclosed.

Also connected with the Fisher firm is Wilmer Barrett of Reading, Mass., in a general management capacity.

Fisher conducted his business on Park street in Rockland at the site of the woodcraft shop which burned a few weeks ago, prior to moving to Camden several years ago.

Citizens Challenge Validity Of Brown's Election To 'Keag Office; Court Hearing Set For Monday

The political pot which has been simmering in South Thomaston since a special town meeting and special election April 8 has come to a sharp boil. Retired Active Justice Edward P. Murray of the Maine Supreme Judicial Court is scheduled to take the cover off the pot and peer into its contents at 10 a. m. Monday in Superior Court in Rockland at the request of several citizens.

Legal papers served on First Selectman Willard Brown of South Thomaston on orders of Attorney General Frank Harding Wednesday by Sheriff Willard Pease call for him to appear and show why he is serving as a selectman of the town after having been defeated in the regular town meeting election held March 5.

At the March 5 meeting, Brown, who was seeking re-election after having served several years as selectman, was defeated by 10 votes by William H. Robinson.

Later, Brown and others, advocated a special election, pointing out that Robinson had not been elected for a full three year term as had been the practice in the community. His term had been specified as one year.

On this situation they based their contention that Robinson's

Poor Demand For Sardines Slows Packing On Coast, Closes Holmes Plant As Fish Are In Abundance

A glutted sardine market that has brought a halt to work in sardine packing firms in several spots along the coast and resulted in the closing this week of one of Rockland's major packing companies may extend into the end of the month, it is believed.

Holmes Packing Company of Rockland with 190 female and 60 male workers shut down operations Monday and remained closed as of Friday. Two Portland factories were forced to shut down Wednesday and Thursday with several others are reported closed because of their inability to dispose of their bountiful stocks.

Kermitt St. Peter, general plant manager at Holmes, reported that his plant would remain closed on a day to day basis until the market improves. He reported plentiful fish along the coast and said fishermen were witnessing one of their best seasons in the past five or six weeks.

Edwin W. Thum, president of the Green Island Packing Company which employs 120 persons, said Friday that operations were continuing normally but the weakness of the market was a serious thing that could eventually effect his plant.

He and St. Peter both reported that the price of herring purchased from the fishermen had remained at $1.14 per bushel. St. Peter stated this week that market price for sardines is $6.27 a case while packing costs were running to $7.50 per case.

Frank Lawrence of the North Lubec plant in Rockland reported his factory working as normal. The plant would not be effected immediately as others might, as selling was done through the plant in North Lubec, he reported. The Rockland plant employs about 200.

St. Peter listed the importation of sardines from foreign canners as a serious problem with over one million cases coming in each year. He also noted that because of the large carry-over of stock from last year and the fact that his plant had started operations a week to 10 days earlier than other plants in the area, he was at peak stock.

With this stock on hand, "the big buyer markets in the New York and Philadelphia areas along with other markets have slowed to a snail's pace," he said.

Holmes Packing Corporation operates plants in Eastport and Portland in addition to Rockland, which is their largest plant. The North Lubec firm also operates a plant in North Lubec where the home office is located. Green Island Packing Company operates the Homeport Fish Company in Rockport as well. Only other plant in the immediate area is that of the Port Clyde Packing Company at Port Clyde which is still operating.

COUNTY FIRE DEPARTMENTS TO COMPETE IN SEVEN EVENT FIELD AT PUBLIC LANDING SUNDAY

The Camden Fire Department's heads up fire fighting team will be looking for their third win in a row at the all-afternoon Knox County Firemen's Association Field Day Sunday at the Rockland Public Landing.

Five departments have indicated they will attend. Other departments are possible entrants in the annual battle of fire fighting techniques.

The five-man teams will vie in seven different contests while three additional childrens events are scheduled.

Camden has taken top points in the 1955 and 1956 events and have gained ownership of two legs on the three-legged winners trophy which will be retired tomorrow, should Camden win.

Departments scheduled for competition include Rockland, Warren, Union, Thomaston and Rockport.

Rockland will be looking for an all out win this year after dropping the entire contest to Camden last year by but a narrow margin.

Fire fighting contests include: draughting, oil fire extinguishing, dressing and answering night alarm, wet hose coupling, hose rolling, ladder contest and a final mystery contest.

Children's special events will be the three legged race, a potato race and a free-for-all pie eating contest, blueberry no less.

All departments having centrifugal pumps will be required to use them as usual. The Rockland department will run through a staging of the event prior to each competition.

CIVIL DEFENSE ALERT EFFECTIVE

Robert W. Gifford, right, of 98 Rankin street explains how effective the Civil Defense alert was on Friday to L. M. Aldrich of Walpole, Mass., while waiting for the all clear signal. Aldrich was on the way home from a business trip when the alert caught him stranded on Main street. During the 10 minute alert that started at 12.15 p. m., all traffic was stopped and the public remained off the street.

Knox County received a preparatory air raid alarm from the Warning Center in Bangor, shortly after noon Friday. All communities within the county having Civil Defense organizations sounded warning devices, stopped traffic and required pedestrians to take cover.

In Rockland city policemen were assisted by 28 air raid wardens under the directions of Rockland's Civil Defense director, Christy Adams. Response to the alarm was considered to be satisfactory, a great improvement over former exercises.

A second alarm indicating an air raid, was received from Augusta. With this alarm county and local directors opened sealed instructions received by them previously from State C-D Control, indicating theoretical condition to be existing within their area of responsibility and directing them to simulate appropriate action.

Since Knox County is not considered to be a target area the local task was to repair minor damage and to assist in rendering aid to Kennebec County which was construed to have been hit by a major atomic blast.

County Director Elmer Barde and his staff were on duty at the County Control Center. They were assisted by HAM radio operators from the county as communicators, with Kenneth Orcutt and Wallace Spaulding in charge.

Ladies from the League of Women Voters, the Business and Professional Women's Club and the Zontas furnished clerical help.

Major Barde expressed himself as satisfied with public response to the requirements of the test.

ROCKPORT TAX RATE AT NEW LOW AS PROPERTY VALUES CLIMB TO FIVE TIMES PREVIOUS TOTAL

Rockport's tax rate has slid downhill to an unheard of $20.80 per thousand dollars of valuation.

On the other hand, the assessed value of the community has climbed to a figure of $8,346,320 against a value last year of $1,609,884.

All this is the result of a tax revaluation program carried out in the town in recent months by Cole-Layer-Trumble Company of Dayton, Ohio. All property was revalued at present day values. The intent was to equalize property tax values in the community, a task which had never been done in the entire town at one time.

Values of much of the town's property had not been changed to meet current conditions for years. The result was a continually rising tax rate and possible inequalities in assessments.

The luxurious summer estates on Beauchamp Point have long borne a heavy part of the town's expenses. The equalization survey has brought their values down and raised those on much of the other property in the community.

An association of business people have protested new valuations and have been meeting with town officers on the matter. They contend the new assessed values, especially on machinery and equipment, would tend to keep new business firms away from the town.

Full records of the valuations of all property in the town are now available at the office of the town manager, Archie Stevens.

Also completed in the past months is a set of aerial maps of the entire town which were done by the James W. Sewall Company of Old Town.

Local Red Cross Makes Plea For Aid

The Red Cross needs your help—acute conditions in the wake of hurricane Audrey are taxing all resources.

The question is often asked: "Why should we donate to the Red Cross? Our taxes through the federal government take care of these disasters." Because the government steps in only to restore public facilities — roads, bridges, public facilities and utilities. The Red Cross meets each person's problem as an individual and as a family.

After the waters had begun to recede some parents refused to acknowledge that their children were dead. "They've just floated away," one father said. "Maybe they'll turn up on the ridge." Governor Long of Louisiana has designated the American Red Cross as the official agency to conduct a program of rehabilitation for the citizens and appealed to the people of this country to give to the Red Cross in order that an effective job may be done. Restoring families to a normal life is a long-term operation that may run for months. The Red Cross will remain on the job with funds, counseling and technical services until the last family has been restored to normal living. Remember—the funds are the gift of the American people.

Church Leaders In Debate Tomorrow

Two prominent church leaders are taking to the air to answer the question: What effect will the recent union of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church have on world Christianity?

Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton of Cambridge, Mass., dean of the Harvard Divinity School, and Rev. Everett Parker of New York City, director of the Congregational Christian Office of Communication, will discuss the significance of the union Sunday, July 14, at 12.30 p. m. on "Faith in Action", a network program of the National Broadcasting Company, originating on station WNAC, Boston.

HOSPITAL CONSTRUCTION BIDS OPENING POSTPONED TO 18TH AS BUILDERS SEEK MORE DETAILS

The opening of bids on the new Knox County General Hospital wing extension, scheduled for Thursday, was postponed to July 18, it was announced by Robert Hudson, president of the board of trustees.

Total costs of the wing which will extend the hospital's capacity to 82 beds is estimated at $735,000, most of which was raised in a year long campaign.

Hudson reported Thursday that still incomplete details between the hospital and potential bidders had forced the board of trustees to postpone opening of the bids.

He reported that the bids would be opened July 18 during the morning in a session that will be attended by himself, the trustees, the finance committee, architect and other interested parties.

The original goal of the fund raising drive was set at $675,000, but rising costs have added an additional $60,000 to the goal. Included in the increased costs is the necessity of driving $40,000 in steel and concrete pilings to serve as foundations for the new hospital section. Besides additional bed space, the new wing will furnish added surgical and technical facilities.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO HEAR ARGUMENTS FOR ROUTE 90 BEING MADE A STATE HIGHWAY

The State Highway Commission is to hold a hearing in their offices at Augusta Wednesday at 11 a. m. at which time Route 90 will be discussed.

Their task will be to determine from evidence presented whether or not there is public need for a portion of Route 90 in the towns of Warren, Rockport and Rockland being declared a state highway.

Merrill Payson, chairman of selectmen at Warren, calls attention of Warren citizens to the hearing and urges attendance in support of the state taking the road on a full maintenance basis.

At this time, the three communities are required to expend considerable sums to maintain the road, especially from the angle of winter maintenance.

The route, now a state aid road with part of the costs falling on the towns, has been used as a major trunk route for some years. Road maps show, and in some cases point it out, as a bypass route from Route 1 in Warren to Route 1 in Rockport to take the driver by Thomaston, Rockland and Glen Cove.

Fredette New M. L. A. Treasurer

Alfred F. Fredette, Ash Point lobsterman, has been appointed treasurer of the 2,300 member Maine Lobstermen's Association. Now employed in Rockland, he has found it difficult to continue with duties of treasurer.

Must Have Been Crayfish Williams Had In Mind

President Leslie Dyer of the Maine Lobstermen's Association isn't the least bit happy, in some ways, over an article on lobsters due to be published in the issue of Saturday Evening Post next week. Authored by Samuel Williams of Rockport, Mass., it deals with the care and eating of lobsters and is well written and beautifully illustrated in color.

Les likes the story in general and believes it will do Maine lobster sales a lot of good. However, the author was a little careless, in Les' eyes, and probably in the eyes of a few thousand other lobstermen from Nova Scotia through to New York, when he likened the body outline of a lobster to that of a cockroach. Cockroaches being disgusting creatures in everyone's mind, lobstermen are apt to react strongly to the mention of them in the same article with such a tasty food item as lobster.

"Guess he must have been thinking of crayfish when he made the comparison," Les observed when he had cooled off a little Friday morning. The truth of the matter is that Les, or any other lobsterman, likes crayfish even less than cockroaches, if that is possible.

Municipal Court

Richard Whitman, 19, of 5 Union Street was found not guilty Thursday morning in Municipal Court on the charge of speeding 65 miles an hour in a 25 mile speed zone on North Main Street. He was stopped at 12.55 a. m. Wednesday by Rockland Police.

The case was dismissed after the court learned that the respondent received the summons to appear in court on Thursday morning and not Wednesday morning, the day the offense was allegedly committed.

The charge of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 25 mile speed zone against George W. Nye of 22 Oak Street was continued to Monday morning by Judge Alfred M. Strout.

Nye testified that he was speeding east on Park Street to pass Robert G. Doak, 31, of 292 Limerock Street who was on his right, and get into the right lane.

Doak pleaded guilty to speeding but gave no reason why he did not let Nye get into the right lane. They were clocked Wednesday morning going bumper to bumper by Rockland Police. Each was released on $25 personal recognizance bond.

William H. Webster of 107 South Main Street was released Friday on a $100 personal recognizance bond after being found guilty of driving without a license, second offense.

GRANGE NEWS OF KNOX-LINCOLN COUNTIES

TWO MAJOR PROJECTS TO BE PRESENTED TO FALL MEETING OF KNOX-LINCOLN EXTENSION ASSN.

The coming year's Agricultural Extension program will be greatly strengthened if two proposed projects are accepted by the Knox-Lincoln County Extension Association according to County Agent, Gil Jaeger.

Both of these projects will be a series of meetings for which farmers will be requested to register for the courses prior to the beginning of the programs.

First, is a Poultry School with college poultry and pathology departments and Extension staff members as the faculty. This will be a series of seven meetings, running on Wednesday nights next April and May. The school will deal with the fundamentals of bird physiology (how the bird is put together, how she makes eggs, how she breathes, and digests her feed, and how all of these things are controlled and regulated), and how this affects poultry management. The school, which will have a limited enrollment, will primarily be of interest to the larger market or hatching egg producers.

It is proposed to hold a series of five discussion group meetings with the purpose of building a better knowledge of the facts of the farm situation, of the economic theories and philosophies of the political economy involved.

An effort will be made to relate the discussions to applications of the board issues studies to local situations and problems, especially to those of the poultry situation.

In general, the subjects proposed for the meetings are: Why is farm policy an issue and what are the problems that farm policies are designed to remedy?

What has been learned from the farm programs of the last 30 years that should be useful in formulating better ones?

The role of government, current theories, government activities with other economic groups, foreign farm programs.

The leading proposals for farm "remedies" — potentials, limitations, problems.

Conflicting or developing theories of price and their application to farming.

These and 24 other major projects will be presented to the county executive committee for their consideration at the regular summer meeting, July 23. The program approved by the committee will be presented to the Knox-Lincoln County Extension Association for approval at the annual meeting this fall.

By Henry Teague

There was a time when there were few poultry medicines and fortunately not so many were needed due to the fact that poultry farms were small and quite widely separated. Perhaps one of the biggest problems of that time was coccidiosis. Mortality from coccidiosis among growing chickens could be very heavy and the poultryman who got by with less than a 10 per cent loss was considered lucky. So, by and large, it was simply a matter of getting feed and water to the birds and in due time collecting the eggs. No one expected birds to lay much during the cold months and often times early spring flocks actually peaked the following spring instead of fall.

But the poultryman of that day actually made a better living than many poultrymen of the present day. He paid mostly cash for his feed and supplies and received his egg checks from Boston weekly. A 500 bird flock was about on a par with the present day flock of at least 3000 and a 1000 bird flock was certainly about as good as a 5000 flock of today considering all angles of profit versus costs of the enterprise and for the poultryman's living. He generally had an automobile too and possibly a truck. I recall buying a new deluxe Chevy in 1931 for about $600 and other prices were in line.

It all goes to show that the price of eggs and fowl have not come up with other prices during the past four years at least. In fact these two products have actually shown a decreasing price trend over the past 10 years and no one seems quite sure as to whether or not this down trend has stopped.

But, to come back to poultry medicine. We have it today and most of it absolutely vital to the success of a poultry farm at one time or another.

The vast increase in bird population has made the disease problem extremely acute. No poultryman's birds are safe today from any one of a dozen diseases that were practically unknown 20 years ago. So, we have protective vaccines, medicated mash, drinking water, spray and dust treatments and even pills and capsules.

But we cannot use these medicines at random. There was a time when one could spot coccidiosis in the birds' intestines. Now it needs a laboratory check for it might be capillaria or something else. So, the poultryman who goes to the store and buys his medicine on his own diagnosis may be right and he may be wrong. If he is right, that's fine. If he is wrong, at the least he has delayed proper treatment. But he could give a medicine that would increase his trouble. So it pays to get a check from a competent service man who may be able to give a correct diagnosis on the spot and if in doubt will take or send some birds to the pathological laboratory at Orono.

With low egg prices much of the time, the margin of error is extremely small, so it is vital that a poultryman have a good eye for poultry. He has got to be able to spot trouble promptly and follow it with immediate action. Most of the time his promptness will pay off and the birds will be back in full production very quickly. A few are not that fortunate, but even then they will save many birds that might otherwise die or at least become culls. The point is that we have these medicinal tools to keep our flocks healthy and most of the methods are for simpler than ever before. It certainly is essential that all poultrymen make use of these tools if they are going to stay in business.

Government Aid To Wool Growers 40c On Dollar

Incentive payment rates for shorn wool under the 1956 program will amount to 40 per cent of the dollar returns each producer received for his wool.

C. Joseph Shepherd, of C. Rinn, chairman, State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announces that this means that for every $100 received by the producer from the sale of shorn wool, a payment of $40 will be made. The method of payment calculation results in the grower who receives the higher price for his wool being eligible for a larger incentive payment than the grower who gets a lower price for the same quality and quantity of wool.

Shepherd also explains that the payment rate on sales of unshorn lambs—to compensate for the wool on them—will be 71 cents per hundredweight of live animals sold. No payments will be made on mohair sold during the 1956 marketing year because the mohair price received by producers averaged 84.4 cents per pound, which is well above the 70 per cent incentive payment set by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

DAIRYMEN REALIZED ABOUT 10 CENTS PER QUART FOR MILK PRODUCED DURING JUNE

The June report of the Knox-Lincoln County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, completed by Supervisor Lewis Smith, shows Willis Moody's herd in Warren leading the association with 1,192 pounds of milk and 50 pounds of butterfat produced per cow during the month.

The State Prison Farm herd was second with 1375 pounds of milk and 47 pounds of butterfat per cow during this period.

Herd of Frank Calderwood in Union and Round Top Farms in Damariscotta also produced over 45 pounds of butterfat per cow during this period.

Highest milking cow was Bertha, owned by Willis Moody. She gave 2,610 pounds of milk during the month. Highest butterfat production came from Edward Ludwig's Phoebe who gave 191 pounds of butterfat.

Highest cow on the honor roll now is Frank Calderwood's Bonnie who has produced 12,290 pounds of milk and 459 pounds of butterfat in four months.

New herds in the association are: Henry Benner, Nobleboro; Daniel Libby, Waldoboro; and Leon Johnston, Jefferson.

The association produced 315 tons of milk during June. The average cow produced almost half a ton of milk which paid the farmer $45, or about 10 cents a quart.

PEANUT BUTTER PARTY

ROUNDS

Peanut Butter Bread

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
1/2 cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)

Cream Cheese Spread

6 ounces cream cheese, softened

1/3 cup orange marmalade

Softened yeast in water, Scald milk. Add sugar and salt and cool to lukewarm. Add 1 cup flour and peanut butter and beat until smooth. Add softened yeast and egg and mix well. Add enough more flour to make a thick batter. Beat thoroughly. Cover and let rise in warm place until bubbly (about 1 hour). When light, stir down. Spoon batter into 4 well-greased One-pound tin cans. Let rise until doubled (about 45 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (350°) about 30 minutes. Remove from cans and cool completely. While bread is cooling, mix cream cheese and marmalade. Cut loaves into halves lengthwise and spread with cream cheese mixture. Place halves together and secure with wooden picks. Then cut crosswise into slices about 1/4 inch thick. Spread half the slices with cream cheese mixture. Top with remaining slices. Put sandwiches together like original loaves. Wrap and place in refrigerator for several hours or overnight. Before serving, make lengthwise cut through loaf of sandwiches at right angles to first lengthwise cut. Makes about 15 sandwiches.

CAN YOU LAUGH
AT DUCKLINGS?

Betty can laugh at ducklings. She remembers that classic of the Ugly One who grew up to be a stately swan.

Betty laughs because she understands the story. She knows that some people, like ducklings, often scorn someone who is different.

But she knows, too, from her religious training, that there are times when a person must face the scorn of others and be different. In fact, the scorn she has found that a primary aim of Christianity is to change life for the better... to help the individual be different so the world can be different.

Not everyone can laugh at ducklings. Some folks take quite seriously the dread of being different. For instance, there are men and women who don't attend Church, but who would like to. They simply feel awkward about breaking away from an indifference which they think is expected of them.

You can make it easy for the hungry-but-hesitant to attend Church. Always invite someone to worship with you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

election was illegal and moved for a special election and set the date for April 8. The selectmen concurred and ordered the special town meeting during which the election was to be held.

The Maine Municipal Association is reported to have rendered a decision, or advice, on the validity of Robinson's election at the request of town officials and others. A letter exists, it is understood, on which the selectmen based their move to hold a second election and in which the M.M.A. advised that Robinson's election was not in keeping with the practices of the town as outlined in the inquiry.

Within the legal papers served on Brown, the petitioners, through Mr. Harding, contend that the town never officially passed an actual town meeting article in which three year terms were established for selectmen. The papers refer to the meeting of March 19, 1950 at which time the document points out authority was given for terms of one, two and three years.

Signing the special meeting order in their capacities as selectmen were Robinson, as first selectman, Robert T. Waterman and Herbert C. Elwell, Sr. The notices were posted by the town constable, James M. Williams.

There were but three articles in the warrant. The first was to choose a moderator. The second called for the election of the necessary selectmen, assessors, overseers of the poor and town agents to serve until the annual meeting of March, 1950.

The third related to the possible purchase of a 500 gallon pumper for the town fire department.

In the election, held with a packed house, Willard Brown defeated William Robinson by a vote of 89 to 77.

Brown was declared elected and was again named the town's first selectman.

Almost immediately there were charges of a "packed" election and marked evidence of dissatisfaction among many voters who contended that Brown's election was illegal.

Mr. Robinson withdrew gracefully, commenting that he would not contest the special election.

Others took up the battle, however, and in a few days were in Augusta in conference with state officials relative to the legality of the situation.

Conn., are visiting here for the week.

Mrs. Mame Powell is visiting her daughters, Bernice and Deedee, in North Grafton, Mass.

Larry Cooley has returned home where he visited with friends in New York for a week.

Mrs. Arlene Wellman visited with Mrs. Lillian Cooley and Mrs. Edna Brann Wednesday.

Some contended that all town business during the time Brown served would be illegal. They pointed out that tax bills to be issued this year would be valueless.

Openly opposing Brown's election were: Alfred Erickson, a former selectman; Richard F. Hodsdon, Agnes G. Hodsdon, Worth M. Kaufman, Elizabeth M. Kaufman, Scott F. Kittredge, Henriette G. Kittredge, Henry S. Mills, Mildred H. Mills, Phil T. Ware, Ava R. Ware, Alfred Harjula and Charles E. Stackpole.

All the above have affixed their signatures to the complaint which is a part of the legal papers leading to the scheduled hearing Monday before Justice Murray.

The complaint was entered June 27 by Attorney General Frank Harding on behalf of the above named citizens of the town.

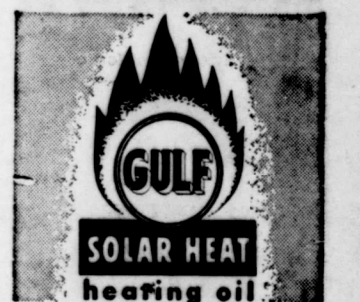

Brown's major opponents at the special town meeting were Mrs. Worth Kaufman who questioned the voting results immediately on the basis that several who had voted were not registered before 7 p. m. and former selectman Alfred Erickson who charged ballot box stuffing when 166 votes had been counted and 143 persons registered.

The "stuffing" charge was refuted by Robinson, himself. Selectman Bob Waterman and Herbert Elwell, Sr. Elwell explained that several voters had been merely "recognized" as they passed through the line and not checked on the voting list.

The meeting was held up a half hour as selectmen hunted up lawbooks for some ruling on the incident but none was found immediately. The three hour heated meeting, spotted by individual arguments and accusation, finally ended when voters authorized the moderator, Rev. James Wilson of Spruce Head, to declare the state of the ballot. He immediately declared it valid.

A motion by Erickson earlier to impound the ballot box had been made, withdrawn and then reentered. It was finally voted down.

Refreshments will be served to ticket holders and there will be chairs for those who wish to pause for a rest and watch the activity in the harbor. Members of the civic committee include: Mrs. Ora Brown, Mrs. Parker Heath, Jr., Mrs. Capen Abbott, Mrs. Cary Bok, Mrs. G. Carlton Underwood, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer and Miss Dorothy Kent.

Another attraction will be the annual "Green Thumb Luncheon" served by the Garden Club at Megunticook Golf Club from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. and featuring lobster salad. Mrs. H. Langdon Haltermann is luncheon chairman, and members assisting her are: Mrs. Frank Tirrell, Jr., Mrs. G. Carlton Underwood, Mrs. Leo Strong, Mrs. Christopher Longworth and Mrs. Robert Rippey.

All Camden churches, the library and the amphitheater will be open to visitors and at each of these places, the golf club and at each of the open houses there will be special flower arrangements by Garden Club members.

Included in the tour are the houses and gardens of Orchard Farm, Beauchamp Point, Rockport, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Ames, Jr.
