BIG CARNIVAL OF 1907; CHEBEAGUE FIELD DAY.

FOUR DAYS OF ENTHUSIASM, SPORT AND MUSIC.

Hotel Guests and Cottagers Contribute to the Celebration and Enter Contests in Large Numbers.

Tuesday evening's magnificent ball at The Hamilton, Great Chebeague, closed the most successful and enthusiastic four days' carnival ever seen in Casco Bay. Visitors by hundreds pronounced the 1907 Field Day events the greatest producer of enjoyment and enthusiasm that has taken place in the history of this section as a summer resort. It permeated to the ends of the island and made Chebeague the very center of social interest and life in the Bay. Glorious were the costumes, flags and house decorations which ushered in the ceremonies Saturday morning, the showers not appearing to even dampen the interest in the events of the morning, the tennis doubles and mixed doubles at The Hamilton courts. These were nearly completed when the rain interfered at about 11 o'clock and they were postponed until afternoon, being finished at 3.00 p. m. after the trial heats of the men's 50 and 100 yard dashes had been contested on the road in front of H. S. Hamilton's cottage. The baseball match between Chebeague and the Irons of Portland was the scene of interest at 4.00 p. m. on the ball grounds in front of Hill Crest and the efficient umpiring of Rev. Mr. Ball of Somerville made this event a special feature. The teams played a snappy game, though the Irons were outclassed from the second inning. At the Saturday evening Masque ball at Hill Crest the summer guests outdid themselves in elaborate preparations for the event. More than one hundred costumed maskers entered the dance room accompanied by Chandler's orchestra. With the crowds of spectators in every available seat and all standing room in the house and verandas taken, Hill Crest was alive with the throng. The decorations were most tastefully festooned about the hall and added the finishing touch to the beautiful effect of the costumed hundred. The feature costumes created great applause and much hilarity. Teddy Bear, Clown, and Strong Men being favorite fun makers. Divine services were conducted at The Hamilton Sunday morning at 10.30. Rev. Mr. Murray of Boston, Mass., being in charge of the service. His text was taken from Solomon, 2d chapter and 21st verse, "Until the day breaks and shadows flee away." Mr. Murray is a most fluent speaker and all who were fortunate enough to be present were delighted with his instructive and elevating discourse. There was a fair attendance and several hymns were sung. Miss Mabelle Beatty of Boston presided at the piano in a most acceptable manner. Sunday's observance was confined to the morning sermon by Rev. Mr. Murray of Boston and the grand concert at The Hamilton by Chandler's orchestra from 2 to 4 at which the following excellent program was rendered in a manner that brought the personal compliments of several musical critics to Mr. C. M. Brooks, leader.

The day was further commemorated by social calls among the hotel guests campers and cottagers, many of whom kept open house all the afternoon and evening, entertaining friends and visitors with hospitality and the good will of the day. The decorations were more elaborately and magnificently designed this year than ever before. When first seen by the bright sunlight of the perfect Sabbath morning they seemed to illumine the eastern end of the island with brilliancy of color. Most of the houses were decorated Friday afternoon and evening, but the finished effect was not obtained until Sunday when the striking blue and white bunting at the Hamilton reflected the first shafts of light from the rising sun as he rose from a calm sea stretching miles to the south-eastward. On the extreme eastern point stood the Bellevue, and the Merriam-Horne Casino, a blaze of color, with white, blue and orange, the latter with a handsome "Welcome" arch, while at the crest of the eastern hill were the Hill Crest and Summit, the former wearing her cheery red and white draped in lavish profusion around a big center piece, and the latter most tastefully hung with soft blue set with countless S's in black. The Hamilton Villa, was also prettily decorated with dark blue and white. Several cottages wore bunting and the Casco Bay Breeze headquarters was a bower of flags, Mr. Harry L. Hamilton's residence was handsomely draped with big flags and streamers. Mr. B. W. Childs of Worcester, Mr. L. C. Hyde of Springfield, Mr. W. J. Curit, the Island View cottage, Bowen's Souvenir Shop and many others were bunting, flags and lanterns galore. The decorations for the Hamilton, Bellevue and Merriam Casino, were by Brown of Portland, and were a credit to that firm. The day was appropriately brought to a close by a service of song at The Hamilton attended by the guests and islanders in a body. Rev. Mr. Abbott, pastor of the M. E. Church gave appropriate remarks as did also Rev. John Hutchison of Arlington, N. J., who led in prayer. Mr. Harold Curtis sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" accompanied by Mr. Walter C. Rogers and with violin obligato. Miss Elsie Litchfield also rendered pleasing selections.

MASKERS AT HILL CREST.

BRILLIANT ASSEMBLY SATURDAY EVENING INAUGURATED FIELD DAY.

Over a Hundred Fancy and Feature Costumes Graced the Floor.

Dull skies all day which somewhat interfered with the field sports, Saturday, only increased the absorbing interest in the grand mask ball in the evening at Hill Crest, which was the really first heavy gun fired for the 1907 carnival. In number, variety and enthusiastic impersonation such costumes were never before seen in Casco Bay. Hill Crest was fairly throbbing with the suppressed excitement of anticipation long before 8 o'clock when the orchestra began the strains of the concert which preceded the grand march. Both the dining hall and large living and dance hall were used, the maskers assembling in the former and marching across the lobby to the dance hall in couples, strangely assorted couples too, many of them. Loud were the cries of the children as with unbounded delight they beheld the waddling gait and big paws of the Teddy bear, while the Jew with nose as big as a ham and an accent just as evidently Hebrew, hunched his way along. The clown raised a rumpus and the strong man wanted to fight. Fancy costumes were seen in magnificent array, those particularly fine being the Jack of Clubs, Spanish Prince, Wild Rose, Mexican Lady, Casco Bay Breeze Miss and Casco Bay Breeze "Barrel." The orchestra selections were a feature of the evening also. The costumes seen were noted in part in the following list:

Some of the fancy and comic costumes worn were as follows: G. F. Taft, Boston, Hunchback Boy; Clarence H. Lunt, Beverly, Mass., Teddy Bear; Harold W. Goodwin, Beverly, Mass., clown; Mrs. M. C. Perkins, Hudson, Mass., Gypsy; Walter C. Rogers, Dorchester, modern woman; Miss Viola Bissell, Newark, Gypsy; Miss Gladys Parker, Dorchester, Bowery Boy; Cyril Bissell, Newark, Casco Bay Breeze; this costume was a striking hit, the young man wore a suit made of "Breezes" and had a barrel through which his head and arms were extended on which was the inscription "There's a barrel in it." Master Roland Duncan, The Enigma; Mrs. John W. Hoben, Springfield, Mass., Miss America; Miss Bessie Brooks, Ottawa, Red Riding Hood; Miss Gay Fraley, Pa., Japanese girl; Elliott H. These four young ladies made a great hit, and their costumes were highly spoken of. John S. Crowley, Beverly, Mass., Jack of Clubs; Mrs. F. A. Merriam, Portland, Mexican lady, a beautiful costume; Mr. Albert Morton, Pa., clubman; Miss Lida T. Draper, Boston, Casco Bay Breeze. Her costume was most pleasing, being made of blue tissue paper with ruffles of the heading of the "Breeze." She also wore a dainty cap made from the "Breeze" headings. Miss Edith Eichbauer, Brooklyn, Mother Goose; Edward Smutny, N. Y., minstrel boy; Theodore Smutny, N. Y., lady tourist from Paris; Mrs. W. A. Up at 4 o'clock in the morning of Monday, the big day of the carnival. Secretary T. J. Bissell and his corps were ready to welcome the first flash of daylight which heralded the unclouded day which heralded the beautiful rosy sunset of Sunday night. All the details of the day's sport were arranged for almost before the island awakened. Finishing touches to decorations, added Japanese lanterns, another cottage decorated here and there, were the first things noticed by guests as they strolled to the eastern landing to meet the band. A cheerful, happy throng filled the wharf and approaches, ladies and girls in white predominating, and men in gay summer attire well besprinkled among them. Each house was represented by their own guests carrying flags of individual colors. The Hamilton, blue and white; Hill Crest, red and white; Summit House, blue and black; Hamilton Villa, white and blue; Bellevue, orange and blue; Orchard, blue and red. At 9.35 as the long line turned into the drive leading up from Merriam Point the lead taken by Hill Crest, as winners of last year's trophy, the positions of the other hotels were determined by drawing for place in line. The order of march was marshal, Chairman A. F. Bicknell, of Boston; Chandler's Band, C. M. Brooks, leader; Field Day Committee, Hill Crest guests, Bellevue guests, Orchard guests, Summit House guests and The Hamilton guests. Following were the handsomely decorated carriages of Mr. C. A. Robbins, Mr. Cal Curt, Mr. A. Curt and several others. Three comic costumes were seen in the parade and created sufficient interest to seem to warrant more elaboration of the feature another year. As the big parade passed Mr. Harry L. Hamilton's, the proprietor of The Hamilton, three cheers were heartily given for him, a counter-march in front of this hotel and the line took up again the forward march past the Hamilton Villa, Summit and Hill Crest, circling there to observe the flag raising. At 10.10 the colors were raised. Three hundred voices joined in the grand old hymn, America, and every man's hat was lifted as the sound floated over the island to the accompaniment of the band. The Star Spangled Banner, and Dixie, were sung and then Chairman Bicknell introduced Rev. John Hutchison of Newark who made a pronounced hit with his necessarily brief remarks. Mr. Hutchison has an excellent speaking voice and was distinctly heard to the limit of the assembly. In part his remarks were as follows:

"Mr. Bicknell, Ladies and Gentlemen: The committee on Field Day directed me to find a very modest man to make this speech; after careful search I found that all others were too modest to speak so that my own voice must afflict your ears."

"First of all let me assure you that I will speak briefly (loud cheers). A man, booked for a speech, asked his friend for advice as follows: 'I have to make a speech, what shall I talk about?' 'Well,' was the reply, 'If you want to make a hit, talk about a minute.' I ought to make at least the tenth part of a hit."

"We raise the Stars and Stripes today over the spot which was the center four years ago of our first Gymkhana or Field Day. The flag symbolizes for us three things, certified to us in an immortal document (before ever Old Glory was our national emblem) as our 'inalienable rights,' namely, 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' These we have come here to seek."

"Life we want, more life and fuller. Not the life strenuous but the simple life. We found it here on this island—fairer far than the Pearl of the Antilles—here on Mt. Chebeague, the Pearl of Casco Bay. This life the folk that were 'To this manor born' had learned, and we would learn from them their wisest way, a life both strenuous and simple, mixed in just proportions. Here are the Hamiltons, a sturdy race, with a few Hills amongst them and an occasional Soule. Doughty men are here and if you doubt that, they can Curt. I call for three cheers for our friends and hosts, just named, may their tribe increase. (Cheers). Many of us have come from far to find here liberty, a liberty that has no license. Liberty from the strain and stress of the office and the shop, the rostrum and the exchange; liberty from the monotonous grind of the household cares, the social whirl, and the city's roar. Liberty too from ills that oft afflict. For instance there never has been a saloon here and hence none of its dread effects, though there may be here and there a bottle of doubtful reputation. We have a bar here though, one of the biggest in all the bay, there it is at old Division Point, Great Chebeague Bar. The only liquor that flows over it is the great unsalted sea."

"At this point an auditor recently married who was interjecting witticisms, was silenced by the speaker who announced that Mr. F. would later sing the pathetic ballad 'I'm Married Now.'"

"We came here in the pursuit of happiness. From observations made at the foot of Sunset Road, on the bay front hereafter to be known as Parsons' Bluff, this happiness so closely pursued often wears skirts and has its hair marcelled. We judge this from the soulful looks in gleaming eyes and the appalling scarcity of unheld hands."

"We seek happiness these three days in all our sports and games. Let there be no fierce competition nor any irritation, let us join in worthy emulation and a generous rivalry."

"Let me note as I close that we have genuine Bicknell weather, the day wears a Bicknell smile, we all can feel the Crowley & Lunt breeze."

"At the central spot of our first field day we raise this new flag on a new pole. Here it was that our lads joined in the jolliest sort of contest, an eating race. We strung a pure Yankee product on a clothes line, namely doughnuts, the boys ate with tied hands and grubbed the last crumbs with noses in the grass."

"As our worthy friend Hoben hoists 'Old Glory' the symbol of our guest of life, liberty and happiness we will sing our national hymn, 'My Country 'Tis of Thee.' The audience then stood uncovered while they sang."

"The field sports for boys, girls and women were at once called by the judges and a roped enclosure on the Hill Crest lawn was used for this purpose. The results in these games and Saturday's events were as follows:

The afternoon sports lasted until the hotels were ringing tea bells and the exodus from the field of victories and defeats was lively, for guests and officials had felt the day's strenuousness. In the early evening the Str. Maquoit of the Harpswell line brought nearly one hundred to hear the band concert and witness the fireworks from Mere Point and Bustin's Island. The bowling teams met at the Merriam-Horne alleys, the use of which had been donated, at 7 o'clock in the evening for the roll off points between the houses entered. Teams of four consisting of two ladies and two gentlemen competed, being made up as follows: F. A. Wrisley, T. E. Whitbread, Miss Lillian Beatty, Mrs. Howard Drummond, The Hamilton. Theo. Smutny, W. Eichbauer, Mrs. G. R. Faucett, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Summit House. F. A. Merriam, H. W. Caldwell, Mrs. H. J. Perkins and Miss Alice Perkins, Bellevue. G. F. Farmer, Mr. Taft, Mrs. White, Mrs. A. P. Chandler's Band rendered three most thoroughly appreciated concerts in the morning, afternoon, and evening, many of the numbers being encored heartily until they were re-rehearsed. The fireworks display was from the Eastern Arms and Cycle Co., Portland, Me., and was in charge of Clarence H. Lunt, chairman of the fireworks committee and Warren H. Chase, representing the firm. Rockets of every description, together with colored lights, Roman candles, bombs and several set pieces were set off and the whole exhibition was the finest display ever given in this bay. The bombs and large rockets were the delight of all. It was long after 10 p. m. before the last set piece was set off and until the end the great crowd of spectators remained so pleased were they with the evening's exhibit.

TUESDAY'S EVENTS.

The smiling skies of Sunday and Monday were repeated Tuesday. As early as possible the water sports were started by the committee at the bathing beach in front of the Hamilton. There were seven events, of which the under water swim, a new one this year drew the greatest attention. This was won by Capt. John W. Hoben of Springfield, Mass., with a clever swim of 75 feet. The tide was falling and several contestants met obstacles such as seaweed and buoy or anchor ropes under water, but Capt. Hoben picked his way and cleaned up the field easily.

Prizes.

Individual prizes for men women, boys and girls with the highest number of points were awarded. A number of prizes were donated by the large business houses of Portland and were most beautiful. First prizes were won as follows: Men's silver loving cup, Henry Caldwell, Bellevue, with 32 points; ladies' esconce, Miss Nina Bissell, Hill Crest, with 11 points; boy's umbrella, Edgar Smutny, Summit House with 22 points; and girls' job, Miss Edith Wilson, Orchard cottage, with 16 points. Second prizes: Men's steamer chair, Alex. McGilvray, Bellevue, with 29 points; ladies' china chocolate set, was tied for by Mrs. A. P. Bicknell and Miss Hazel Cooley of the Hill Crest and Mrs. J. Smutny, Summit House with 8 points each. Mrs. Bicknell drew the deciding number and the other two will be awarded prizes of equal value later; girls' sofa pillow, Miss Viola Bissell, Hill Crest, with 9 points; and the boys, a stein, by Frederick Sweeney; cottager, with 12 points.

The prize for the highest number of points, which was a handsome silver cup presented by the Casco Bay Steamboat Company, and awarded by the committee to the house or hotel winning the most points, was won by the Bellevue. The hotel or house winning the cup has the privilege of holding it until they are defeated in any following year. When won for three seasons consecutive or not, the house doing so is to be the possessor of the cup. The cup was won last year by the Hill Crest with fifty points. The apparent discrepancy between the number of points of the last year's winner and this year was caused by the different system of counting points. Last year firsts counted two points and seconds one point, while this season firsts were given 5 points, seconds 3, thirds 1. Following are the number of points won by the competing houses: Bellevue, first, 123 points; Hill Crest, second, 105 points; The Hamilton, third, 62 points; Summit House, fourth, 56 points; and the Orchard cottage and the cottages tied for the best exterior decorations of any of the houses or hotels was also taken by Bellevue.

First, second and third of blue, white and red ribbons suitably inscribed in gilt were awarded to all the winners in each event. For the highest number of points made by any man, woman, boy or girl the following prizes were awarded. Men's first, silver loving cup, donated by McKenney Jewelry Co., Portland; Second, steamer chair, donated by Walter Corey Co., Portland; Ladies' first, esconce, Loring Short & Harmon; 2nd, China chocolate set, Merriam Horne Co. Boys' first, umbrella, Carter Bros. Co.; 2nd, stein, Burbank Douglass Co. Girls first, job; 2nd, sofa pillow, Oren Hoopers Sons. Bal Maquoit, men's fancy costume, razor and strop, King & Dexter Co., Portland. Ladies' fancy costume, gold belt buckle. Boys fancy costume, order for one pair Regal shoes, Frank M. Low Co. Girls' fancy costume, Longfellow picture, Lamson Studio. Man's comic costume, box of cigars and tray, H. H. Hays Sons. Woman's comic costume, stein, Burbank Douglass Co. Boys comic costume, League Base ball. Girls' comic costume, umbrella holder, Merriam Horne Co.

Hill Crest worked hard to hold the loving cup, but the Bellevues were too much for them.

AUCOCISCO HOUSE.

LARGE NUMBER OF TOURISTS BOOKED HERE FOR SEPTEMBER.

Season Has Been Very Successful. Local Happenings.

This hotel still maintains its popularity as it has for many seasons past under the able management of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Prescott, who are so ably adapted for the position.

The Aucocisco House has the distinction over that of any other hotels in the harbor inasmuch as it floats to the breeze two unusual flags from its flag staff.

The special event of the week was the all day picnic given by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Prescott, managers of this hotel on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Prescott, managers of this hotel on Thursday, the trip was made to Basket Island in two motor boats and two trailers, the party including about thirty-five guests.

During the war maneuvers of last week and while the attack upon the evening was being made by Fort McKinley, the vibration was so great from the terrible force of the cannon balls sent off at the first as to shatter with minute pieces, numerous pane of glass from a window of the hotel facing the bay in the direction of Fort McKinley.

Mr. Martin Tinsley of Elizabeth, N. J., left for that city during the week after a pleasant sojourn here.

Mr. Prescott is the owner of a fine, up-to-date motor boat which on pleasant days is called into acquisition for various trips around the bay.

Quite a party of the house guests attended the Gem Theatre Tuesday night, Peaks Island.

PEAKS ISLAND HOUSE.

DEMAND FOR ACCOMMODATIONS IS VERY HEAVY HERE.

This House to be Completely Filled Until After Labor Day.

The recent fire at Old Orchard has turned the tide of travel towards Peaks, and the demand for accommodation at the Peak's Island House is heavier than at any previous time this season.

Manager Rowe always proves himself equal to any emergency, and in the rush of the past week was indefatigable in his efforts to provide for the large number who literally almost took possession of the house.

Aside from his genial manner Mr. Rowe keeps his guests in good humor and ever ready to meet any demand, and possessing the happy faculty of arranging evening pleasures at a hotel, that give enjoyment to all.

diversions are arranged by the guests, so that life goes merrily on, and there seems to be no lagging or dull evenings here. The orchestra is a special feature of the house, each member being an artist in her line.

One of the week's diversions was the sailing party to Orr's Island, on Thursday, which included over forty guests of this hotel.

The musical and literary event of the week took place Thursday evening. Master Frank Gardner, leading soprano of the boy's choir, Grace church, New York, Miss Hazelle Loraine Weaver, of the Proctor Dramatic School, Boston, reader, and Miss MacGregor of Portland, a well known pianist, made up the talent.

Master Gardner possesses a voice of unusual sweetness and purity, and his vocal numbers were given with rare intelligence and expression.

A distinguished guest is registered at the Peak's Island house, and the name of Napier Lothian will recall with pleasure the distinguished leader of the orchestra at the Boston theatre, at a time when it was the leading place of amusement in Boston, and when Mr. Lothian proved himself to be a conductor of great ability.

This popular hotel is still the center of much gaiety. The demand for accommodations has been unusually large, and Manager Rowe has been obliged to turn away over a hundred people the past week.

An all day fishing party on Wednesday afforded pleasure to those fond of fishing. One of the Peak's Island house guests, a New York gentleman, caught the second biggest cod fish landed this season, weighing 42 lbs., and brought good luck to the gentleman as winner of the $5.00 prize.

NOTES OF THE DAYS.

Three cheers for Field Day. The work of the band called forth great applause on every occasion.

Thames of The Hamilton did fine stunts in the running broad jump and 100-yard dash. Jack's a "comer" and a most worthy athlete.

Uncle James and Capt. Ben were on hand for all events and no one were more interested than these two well known citizens. May their presence be with us for many Field Days to come.

Thames of The Hamilton did fine stunts in the running broad jump and 100-yard dash. Jack's a "comer" and a most worthy athlete.

"Tom" Bissell says it's "to the tall timbers for him" if anyone mentions Field Day next season. It's hard reward in the bright faces of the children who bless the efforts of those who try to make them happy.

The hotel and house decorations were beautiful, calling forth great admiration from all guests and visitors alike. The music room and lobby of The Hamilton was a sight that all will long remember.

The decorations were by Brown of Portland and were a credit as were also the costumes furnished by him for the masquerade.

Note the generosity of the contributors of money and prizes and remember them when you are on a purchasing trip. The dog of 1906 fame which nearly tripped up several dignified committeemen last year was either present or his double was on hand, but did no feature stunts to speak of, confining himself to a couple of runs across the racing track and spoiling a few dresses.

The largest cash contributors outside of the hotels and hotel proprietors were Harpswell Steamboat Co., $10; Eastman Bros. & Bancroft, $10; R. S. Davis Co., $5; Casco Bay Breeze, $5, and prizes, H. W. Bowen, $5; Hamilton & Grannell, $5. It is cash that counts and the committees wish to heartily thank the contributors of both large and small amounts.

The judges who awarded the points for best decorated houses were in a quandary as to whether they should consider interior as well as exterior decorations. Had this been done The Hamilton would have won first. The judges' decision was given to Bellevue, 5 points; The Hamilton, 3 points; Summit House, 1 point.

BELLEVUE COTTAGE.

HOUSE CROWDED AND MANY YOUNG PEOPLE ARE HERE FOR THE REMAINDER OF THE SEASON.

House Decorations Are the Wonder of Everybody That Came for Field Day.

Last Sunday evening a delightfully informal musicale was given at the Bellevue. Miss Elsie Littlefield and Mr. E. C. Curtis, both of Quincy, Mass., rendered numerous vocal selections and together they gave several duets.

Miss Alice Perkins gave a beautiful rendering of a Chopin number on the piano, and violin obligatos of Mr. Marston added wonderfully to the vocal solos and he also gave several solos.

Mr. W. C. Rogers accompanied in his usual finished manner. Mr. Alec McGillvray and two friends from Beloc are here for two weeks. They are swimming enthusiasts and base-ball players and will give a good account of themselves in the Field Day games.

Mr. Frank Tate of Boston is here for a few days. He is connected with the second National Bank of Boston.

Mr. Anson McLeod, Dartmouth '09, is visiting his friend, Walter Rogers, a class-mate at college, and is enjoying the pleasures of this delightful country. He is an expert with the mandolin pick and furnishes much enjoyment with his instrument.

The decorations of this house for Field Day have caused no little sensation and won first prize. A large arch with the word "Welcome" greets all comers and the house is completely covered with the gold and blue colors of Bellevue, and the national emblems.

TWO ROSES.

The sun shone from the East, announcing the dawn of a new day. Its rays spread over the earth carrying light and heat to all its creatures.

As the sun ascended in the sky, a passing sage heard the rose whispering to itself, and paused to listen. The petals blushed at his approach, and the sweet voice said: "How beautiful I am! This harmony of form, this delicacy of color, this aura of sweet fragrance pouring from my heart, by all these I acknowledge praise to the Giver of Beauty, for they all show forth the One Power which is formless and impersonal, but everywhere and omnipotent. I thank the Sun, my creator, that his power has entered my being, unfolded my faculties, and made me one of his expressions of beauty. That power dwells within me, and I am become one of its temples. It is in my sub-consciousness, and more and more, as my beauty ripens and my leaves unfold, do I become conscious that I am one with it, and fulfilling the destiny of service for which I was created, cannot be thankful enough that I am thus permitted to be a blessing to the world."

Then said the sage: "What is this power which you manifest?" Modestly the rose replied: "I am an expression of Light which is the spirit of the Sun, my maker." "You are blessed indeed. Wisely have you answered," said the sage, and went his way with a thankful heart, rejoicing in that beautiful truth and manifestation.

The sun had reached its zenith when the traveler came to another rose blooming red in the strong light. As he offered greeting, it proudly reared its rosy face and said: "Behold my beauty! It is all from within myself. I am the One Power, the universal power which is all. I am all, and all is me! I am! I have entered into consciousness of my sub-consciousness, and see—how I have developed myself to show forth my fragrance and beauty!"

Then said he: "Praise be to the glorious Sun for his generous bounty unto you!" Quick answered the rose: "There is no Sun, only the One Power which is within me. I am the Sun!" The wise one stood in silence; he looked at the rose, then to the sun glowing in the height, and said: "How can that be?" said he. "I clearly perceive the sun, but it is not you! I also perceive the rays pouring from its throne and manifesting its power; without the sun they would not be, but they are not the sun itself. You need the sun, but it needs not you. It is unique, single, undivided, unrivaled; it is independent of you, while you are dependent upon it. It descends not from its majesty in the heavens to obey your will. Your red and gold, your fragrance and form are but for a little time. Before you were called into existence, it shone unchangeable; when you shall fade and cease, it will still shine the same; no cloud of grief will veil its face for your departure. It is true that you were created by the sun, whose light was your father, and the warm earth your mother, while air and dew nourished you to rosy beauty, but were you to be separated from either father or mother, you would no longer be. How then can you be that sun whose radiance and beauty cease not, but endure from age to age?"

The rose was silent. The sun's rays blazed from the summer sky; a hot breeze blew—and passing by, tore off a petal, then another, and another fell—till on the ground lay scattered all the boasted beauty of the flower. Looking down upon the dismantled stalk, upon the curled and withering leaves, the wise one said: "How soon is vanity rewarded! Before the face of the sun—modesty is becoming, even in a rose." Thornton Chase.

The fishing schooner Eva and Mildred, Capt. Charles York, has just returned after the fourth sword fishing cruise of the season. They secured 70 fish which were disposed of at T. Wharf, Boston, the price secured being 08 lb. The crew netted $65.00 for their trip, and to date their summer work has realized $327 for each member of the crew.

Loring Short & Harmon, the leading bookstore of Portland, recently had a fine window display of many of the books of Clara Louise Burnham, the gifted authoress, whose summer home is here on the island. "The Opened Shutters" and "Dr. Latimer" are among her late books. To all of our many tourists who love the finest in literature with a plot that takes its character from the islands of the bay, we know of no writer that will compare with this talented authoress. Casco Bay is fortunate in having her story written by this gifted pen.

George Crafts of the "Eva & Mildred," is visiting his parents while the schooner is getting stocked for another cruise.

The Day family, who have been guests at the Robinhood Inn, left the island Thursday last for Rockland, Me. The trip was made to Boothbay Harbor in Hemsley B. Massey's yacht and was greatly enjoyed by all. Those who made up the party were, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Day and children, Frances and Kenneth of Philadelphia; and Miss E. Day of Kent, England. Matias C. Romero of Treat Yarmouth, Eng., and Lewis Foster of Jersey City, who are also at the inn, accompanied the party to Boothbay to return with Mr. Massey. On the way back they spent one night at Seguin.

Mrs. William H. Pennell and daughter, Miss Sarah Pennell, arrived Thursday last to sojourn at the home of Mrs. Eliza Johnson for a few days. Mr. William H. Pennell, who is sheriff of Cumberland county, did not accompany his family here this season.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Hardwick of Quincy, Mass., were recently entertained here on the island as the guests of Mrs. R. C. Drinker. They arrived here Friday and returned home Saturday. Mr. Hardwick conducts one of the largest granite businesses in Quincy.

well Center, and also has his motor launch anchored off the shore, which will be used to entertain them.

Those just returning to their homes are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neaveling of Portland, who left Monday. They have been at the cottage for two weeks.

On Tuesday of last week Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burroughs, who are at the York cottage at the East End, left Bailey's Island for a cruise to Boothbay Harbor. All the leading hotels and boarding houses here on the island are taxed to the limit, and are accommodating the largest number of tourists that ever summered here. Since the warm weather, which came about the middle of July, the applications for bookings received was the largest ever experienced, and for the past few weeks rooms at all the hotels have been filled to the overflowing. What Bailey Island needs is a large hotel of at least one hundred rooms with every modern convenience. The party who has foresight enough to erect such a hotel will make an income of at least $5,000 a season. How long will we have to wait for what the island is in need?

He is now at the Rockingham Hotel, Portsmouth, N. H., for a few days and will return and remain on the island until September first.

One of the simplest barometers is a spider's web. When there is prospect of a rain or wind, the spider shortens the filaments from which its web is suspended and leaves things in this state as long as the weather is variable. If the insect elongates its threads it is a sign of fine, calm weather, the duration of which may be judged of by the length to which the threads are let out. If the spider remains inactive, it is a sign of rain, but if on the contrary it keeps at work during the rain the latter will not last long and will be followed by fine weather. Other observations have taught that the spider makes changes in its web every twenty four hours, and that if such changes are made in the evening, just before sunset, the night will be clear and beautiful.

and Mrs. Holden at their cottage. Miss Mabel Sally has returned to her home in Woonsocket, but her sister, Miss Angie, will take a pleasure trip to Nova Scotia prior to returning home.

Miss H. Haughey of Westbrook made her first visit at this island, the past week, calling upon friends at the Griffin cottage.

The first race of the Portland Power Boat Association, proved so successful to the participants that arrangements are being made for the second club run, to be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 8 and 9. The run will be to Cliff Island and the Aucocisco house will be headquarters for the club. The details are nearly ready, and it is announced officially, that the start will be at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. It is intended to make this race the most enjoyable one of the season, and already a large number have entered their names, and it is the intention of the association to get the greatest number of boats together possible.

The Redding family of Westbrook have taken the Mathew cottage which was occupied earlier in the season by Mrs. George Pollister and family of Portland.

Mr. L. W. Southard's attractive new bungalow occupies a commanding site. It was built by Mr. Southard himself in the short space of three weeks. He contemplates the erection of another similar one this fall.

Mrs. F. S. Webster and daughters, the Misses Clara and Olive Webster of West Newton, Mass., are recent arrivals at Cliff cottage and will remain until September first.

A meeting of the executive board of Cliff Island Improvement Society was held on Thursday evening with Mrs. Flora E. Stone, and considerable business was brought up for discussion. Plans for the establishment of a permanent library were formed, Mrs. Charles Hunter being appointed chairman of a special committee chosen to solicit and collect books for that purpose.

Considerable work is being done for the improvement of the condition of the streets. It is hoped that six additional street lights will soon be installed, which together with those in present use installed the first of the season, will prove of the greatest possible convenience to island pedestrians.

The matter of erection of much needed bath houses is still being agitated by some of the summer visitors, one party going so far as to state that he will give several days' work and another has offered to contribute some hardware. Will not some enterprising person contribute towards the necessary lumber that a start on the bath houses may be made this present month?

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Woodbury are receiving congratulations of their friends, upon the birth of twin boys, Howard Elmer and Harry Joseph, weighing seven pounds each.

Some who have been at Cliff cottage since July are planning to return home this week, but are almost loth to leave. Mrs. Southard has the happy faculty of always planning some pleasure for her guests, either a trip around the bay in the "Skidoo," a pretty up-to-date motor boat, belonging to Mr. Southard, or a day's outing to some of the adjacent islands. The amply filled lunch basket containing all sorts of appetizing good things, so tempting and nice for a picnic dinner. The evening concerts, too, are much enjoyed by the guests, plenty of good music being furnished by the phonograph.

Mr. and Mrs. Southard are always so thoughtful in looking after the welfare and comfort of their guests that Cliff cottage has established this season a reputation second to none as a popular domain. At the present time every room, both at the cottage and bungalow is occupied, and people seeking accommodations here have been forced to try elsewhere. Mr. Southard contemplates building one or more bungalows before another season.

ied by their daughter, of Worcester, Mass., arrived the past week.

Both the Fifth Maine and the Eighth Maine buildings are sheltering many summer visitors.

ANIMALS COMMIT MURDER.

Many of Them Are Also Known to Be Thieves and Highwaymen.

All the great groups of the animal kingdom include numerous forms which are murderous by profession, though, as their object is to obtain food, a jury would probably consider them as guilty of "justifiable animalicide" only.

Such are birds and beasts of prey; crocodiles, which drown their prey under water; snakes which swallow their victims alive; lizards and frogs which slaughter insects, worms and other small creatures by the thousands, cuttlefishes, which use their sucker-studded tentacles to enfold other animals in a deadly embrace; scorpions and spiders, which poison insects and suck their juices, and myriads of forms still lower in the scale but equally remorseless.

Some of these creatures, however, when in a savage mood, not only kill for the sake of satisfying the cravings of hunger, but from mere blood-thirstiness, and this is murder, pure and simple. Weasels and their kind, also otters, furnish the best examples of this undesirable propensity.

Those unpleasant creatures known as parasites, which live on the outside, or, it may be, within other animals, take toll of the blood or juice of their victims, which may in the end die of sheer weakness, though usually their persecutors like them to remain alive as long as possible, so that they may continue to act as living larders.

Sometimes murder is deliberately planned with malice prepense in such cases, though the artful schemer is not the actual murderer, but leaves the foul deed to be perpetrated by her offspring.

This is the case with ichneumon flies, where the female lays her eggs in some other creature, often a fat, juicy caterpillar, so that the young when they hatch out are surrounded by nourishing food, commonly finishing up by reducing their unwilling host to a mere skin.

Piracy upon the high seas is the recognized profession of the Skuas, marine birds with hooked beaks, and talons to their webbed feet. These ingenious animals lie in wait for seagulls, which have been out fishing, and chase these unfortunate birds until they disgorge their booty, which is then snapped up before it can reach the water.

If an obstinate gull refuses to do this it is often shaken by the tail till the desired end is attained.

Some of the most confirmed robbers are found among insects. Various bees are examples of this, making raids upon the honey of their relatives. Even domesticated swarms sometime become lazy and thievish, and persistently rob their neighbors, much to the disgust of the bee master.

The stores of honey laid up by bees and wasps also proves too great a temptation for some other insects to resist. The most interesting of these forms are the so-called "cuckoo parasites," which guided by perverted parental love, lay eggs within the hive or nest. Here we find snugly quartered in consequence the grubs of oil-beetles, which devour the honey and the caterpillars of certain moths, which gnaw the combs.

Food is not the only object of thievish attention, for, as is well known, ravens, jackdaws, and magpies purloin and hide all sorts of glittering objects, and in this way have often led to groundless accusations being brought against innocent human beings.—Pearson's Weekly.

Disconnected.

"I have a good many amusing experiences with my ear trumpet," said the deaf man, "but a new one happened yesterday. A man came up to me in the street, and as I saw he wanted to speak, I took out my trumpet. He began to pour forth some tale of woe which sounded very 'fishy' to me, so I cut him short and walked on. The trumpet was tucked under my arm, with the mouthpiece behind me. Presently I felt something touching me lightly, and it seemed as if the trumpet was being moved. I turned quickly, and what do you suppose it was? My beggar had followed me, refusing to give up hope, and was trustfully continuing his hard-luck story into the mouth of the trumpet, regardless of the fact that the other end was nowhere near my ear. The thing struck me as being so funny that I was extravagant enough to throw him a quarter."—From the New York Times.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1907.

It is the business of big navies to make debts, not to collect them, suggests the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"There are two classes of men," said the close observer to the Chicago Journal. "One knows nothing about woman, having spent years in studying her. The other knows everything, never having studied her."

A Canadian lawyer has returned a $2000 fee to the Government, announcing that the honor he won in conducting the case for it was more than sufficient compensation. Canadian lawyers, observes the Washington Herald, seem to lack the polish and poise of modern civilization.

The Washington Star protests that: "Until both the State and the Federal laws impose heavy penalties, not only upon the employes who blunder, but upon the managers who hire incapable men and who ignore the risks to which they subject the traveling public, the disaster record will grow and the death toll will mount. The remedy lies ready at hand."

The twelve thousand deserted farms in this State, laments the Buffalo Commercial, certainly indicate a disturbing tendency in the rural population. The young people drift to the cities or "go West," and when the elders die the farms are often left uncultivated. The hope of betterment here lies in country life being made more attractive.

When Lord Beaconsfield paid $20,000,000 for a controlling share in the Suez Canal he was abused up hill and down dale for squandering the public moneys on stocks which, in the very nature of things, would never be able to pay a dividend. It was money thrown away for a jingo sentiment, the little Englanders said, relates the New York Press. The stock which Beaconsfield bought for $20,000,000 has now a market value of $150,000,000 and is a good, fat, dividend paying business proposition. In view of the financial success of the Suez Canal it is not at all amazing that the $20,000,000 of Panama Canal bonds can be floated at an average of 104. Purchasers of Panama bonds have every reason to believe they got them at a bargain at 104.

The proposition for the establishing of a corporation for the wide advertisement of the Southern rice crop in order to promote a more extensive consumption of this important food product is interesting, declares the New Orleans Picayune. Years ago it was known that while American Indian corn is generally used at home for human food, it was regarded in the various European countries as unfit for any such purpose and was imported to be fed to cattle and other live stock. Interested parties in connection with the Agricultural Department at Washington maintained abroad for several years agents whose business it was to demonstrate to the people, particularly at fairs and expositions, in a practical manner the immense value of corn for human food. It was cooked and served in many attractive and palatable forms, and its good qualities were made known to many. Rice in the Northern States is regarded rather as food for sick patients. While it is admirable for such purposes, it is such strong and nourishing food that 400,000,000 of Chinamen, 300,000,000 of East Indians, and the Japanese and many other Orientals almost exclusively subsist on it. Our own people will do well to learn from those races that know it best.

CAMP WYCHMERE.

On Monday, Aug. 12 the first of the series of yacht races for the cup offered by Camp Wychmere was held. There was a moderate breeze, and the Vim and Miladi fought out a very pretty race, especially for the first time round the course. Miladi won the race, the Vim was second and the Pelican was third. On Wednesday, the 14th, the second race was held in a strong breeze. The Mayflower won the race, Miladi was practically out of the race on account of a split jib. The Vim was not entered in this race. The Pelican won third place and the Phantom second. The last of the series was to have been held on Saturday, the 17th, but rain prevented. The Camp baseball team played a very interesting game with Chebeague on Thursday, the 15th. The score was 4 to 0 in favor of Camp Wychmere.

The boys of the Camp enjoyed a party on Saturday evening, the 17th. Games were indulged in, and refreshments were served.

At the invitation of Commodore R. E. Peary of Eagle Island, the boys and Councillors paid a visit one day last week to Mr. Peary and family.

Six boys have started on the Sebago canoe trip, to be gone four days. They will go up the Presumpscott river to Sebago Lake and home again.

The final sail dory races are being held now and the cups are being hotly contested for, as the time for closing camp comes on. Aug. 26 will see Camp closed and the boys gone.

RAMESSES II. A FRAUD?

Egyptologist Says He Carved His Name On Things A Thousand Years Old.

Certain Egyptologists say they have discovered that Ramesses II. was a much overrated man and that he is not entitled to the appellation of "great" which historians have given him. Recent researches have convinced explorers that the numerous temples and monuments bearing his name and therefore supposedly his work, pre-existed him by quite a 1000 years.

Further investigations persuaded them that the king had a vulgar vanity in seeing his own name, which he caused to be cut everywhere. Prof. Neville, one of the official explorers of antiquities in Egypt, says: "The more we discover about Ramesses the more convinced we are that he was a fraud. He was not great in any way, but he reigned for sixty years, which was far too long. His vanity was colossal, and not content with the adulation of his own people, he arranged that posterity should take him at his own valuation.

"To this end he conceived the notion of causing his name to be inscribed on every temple, statue and monument that he imagined would stand the test of time. The plan succeeded only too well for many years. In consequence of it explorers united in deciding that he must have been a great king. Now we are beginning to find him out.

"Some of the antiquities on which his name appears must have existed quite 1000 years before he was born. Occasionally he even went to the length of erasing the name formerly borne by a statue, substituting his own. He was never particular as to whose name was erased."

Prof. Neville gloats with satisfaction over the fact that Ramesses is now snugly lying mummified in the Bulak Museum, unable to perpetrate further deceptions.

"Ice Cream" May Become Obsolete.

The enforcement of the latest food law bids fair to make the "ice cream" obsolete here. Manufacturers and dealers have practically all decided to term their frozen delicacies "cream ices."

They say they cannot adhere to the letter of the law in manufacturing a product containing 20 per cent of butter fat and no coloring matter without increasing prices or losing money. People here appear to be very well satisfied with the quality of the alleged ice cream sold by local dealers and the dealers say that if they are willing to eat it under a new name they can have it at the same price. One dealer who refuses to join with the others will charge 10 cents a gallon extra and preserve the time-honored term for a time at least.—York (Penn.) correspondent to The Philadelphia Record.

Why City Life is Killing

By Dr. Thomas Darlington.

THE death rate from heart and Bright's disease in the cities of Boston, New York and Chicago has nearly doubled in the twenty-five year period, while the general death rate has decreased.

A study of the causative factors of this alarming increase naturally suggests the part played by the many so-called features of city life, and one of the most important factors in the relation of mental strain to the production of functional followed by organic lesions of the heart and sub-sequently the kidneys. The high wrought, overnervous activity of the modern city business man and the equally strenuous social whirl of the city woman, the mad rush of competition, the bustle, confusion, noise and unrest, so striking in comparison with the "dolce far niente" of the business and social life of a century ago, crowds and hurry, elevated stairs and "rapid fire" elevators, mental strain and physical bankruptcy, all seem so essential. They have come to be considered a striking characteristic of our national life, yet they are so deadly to our individual life that they furnish us with food for deep and earnest thought.

As a people, we are mad with the lust of success and money getting and individually suicidal in our craze for material advancement. The spirit which prompts 11 p. m. editions of the daily papers to be on sale at 11 a. m., is clearly indicative of sufficient cause for the appalling increase in deaths from heart disease.

The vice of hard drinking is less prevalent than it was in the days gone by. We cannot lay the blame for our chronic Bright's and hypertrophied heart cases wholly upon its overburdened shoulders. Drunkenness is less common, but stimulation is on the increase.

The quiet and calm of sylvan life is within the grasp of few of us, but rational right living, hygienic precepts and the law of physical and mental repose are doctrines which must be forcibly brought home in order to cope with this menace.

A Tribute to Broiled Bacon

By Dr. Henry van Dyke.

DO you remember what Charles Lamb said about roast pig? How he falls into an ecstasy of laudation, spelling the very name with small capitals and breaking away from the cheap encomiums of the native tongue to hail it in sonorous Latin as "princeps obsoniorum!"

There is some truth in his compliments, no doubt; but they are wasteful, excessive, imprudent. For if all this praise is to be lavished on plain, fresh, immature roast pig, what adjectives shall we find to do justice to that ripier, richer, more subtle and sustaining viand, "broiled bacon?"

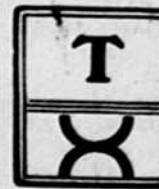

On roast pig a man cannot work; often he cannot sleep if he have partaken of it immoderately. But bacon "brings to its sweetness no satiety." It strengthens the arm while it satisfies the palate. Crisp, juicy, savory; delicately salt as the breeze that blows from the sea; faintly pungent as the blue smoke of incense, wafted from a clean wood-fire; aromatic, appetizing, nourishing, a stimulant to the hunger which it appeases; 'tis the matured bloom and consummation of the mild little pig, spared by foresight, for a nobler fate than juvenile roasting and brought by art and man's device to a perfection surpassing nature.

And when we say of one escaping great disaster, that he has "saved his bacon," we say that the physical basis and the quintessential comfort of his life are still untouched and secure.

What could have been better than our supper, cooked in the open air and eaten by firelight? True, we had no plates—they had been forgotten—but we never mourned for them. We made a shift to get along with the tops of tin cans and the cover of a kettle; and from these rude platters (quite as serviceable as the porcelain of Limoges or Sevres), we consumed our toast, and our broiled potatoes with butter; our trout—and, best of all, our bacon.

What The People Demand of the Corporations

By Senator John C. Spooner, of Wisconsin.

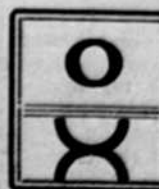

THE people, without doubt, demand a greater measure of publicity in the details of corporate management and a larger exercise of supervisory power to prevent illegal and dishonest administration and corporate injustices to the public. There is a determined and widespread demand for reform wherever reform is needed. All good citizens are united without regard to party affiliations in the demand for the extirpation of graft. No one is opposed to this but the grafters. The people demand that the obligations of trust-ship, public and corporate, shall be religiously observed, and if violated shall be adequately punished. They demand that railway rebates and other unjust discriminations shall absolutely and permanently cease. It is intolerable that corporations created by the state, primarily for the public benefit and service, clothed with the power of eminent domain, shall carry the same kind of freight between the same terminals for one person or corporation at a secret and lesser rate than it exacts at the same time from a competitor for such discrimination, and its inevitable effect is to build up one to the ruin of another, and especially to establish and nourish industrial or other business monopolies. But the sanity and reasonableness of the American people must not be underestimated. They want justice, not vengeance. They realize the large dependence of our prosperity upon the great transportation corporations, and the latter must realize that they are dependent upon the people for their existence, as well as their prosperity.

Tax American Heiresses in Europe

"Good-for-Nothing Noblemen Marry Yankee Girls Solely for Their Money."

By Paul Morton.

IN this matter of the immense exportation of money from America to Europe by means of heiresses, etc., I have often believed that some kind of tax should be put upon it.

Particularly have I for a long time thought that a tax of some kind should be placed on the income which American women carry to Europe after their marriages to foreign noblemen. Those good-for-nothing fellows marry American girls solely for their money, and some taxation scheme should be worked out to save at least a portion of this outgo.

It does not seem equitable that those girls' fortunes have been all made by good Americans, from good American industry and by good American brains.

Does it not seem utterly unfair that this garnering, this harvest, should be taken out of the country and be dumped into the pockets of some idle scion of nobility who never did a stroke of work?

The country loses not only the girl, who might have brought herself and her riches to some good American, but it also loses many millions made out of it.

Birch Island

A song service was held on the green, Sunday evening. About 60 people were present. Mr. Edward A. Thompson gave several solos, Mr. LeFroben and Mr. Thompson sang a duet, and the chorus singing was most enjoyable. The service concluded with some selections of sacred music very effectively rendered by the fine Victor phonograph of Mr. Thomas Ryan.
 On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taylor and Miss Winifred Taylor of Worcester came to visit their aunt, Mrs. G. A. Gillette of Brookline, at her cottage on Arlington avenue.

Mrs. Robert Bartley gave the use of her cottage on Thursday evening for a dance. The verandas were hung with colored lights and cushioned chairs made the corners cozy for callers. Punch was served during the evening. Several vocal selections entertained the company during the intermission.

Mr. Julius Meyer, who has been registered at the Johnson Farm for the week left on Sunday for his home at Lawrence.

Mrs. Bryant and Miss Bryant of Somerville have arrived at the Farm to remain until September.

Among those who went to Brunswick the last week to attend the wedding of Miss Charlotte Chandler were Mrs. E. A. Chandler, Miss Arline Chandler, Miss Oakes, Miss Booker and Miss Webb.

Mrs. D. A. Booker returned with her daughter and they have as guests, Mrs. Elliott and Miss Webb of Brunswick.

Mr. E. A. Sleeper left on Tuesday for his home in Waltham after a fortnight spent on the island.
 Friday afternoon Miss Allie Booker entertained a few friends informally at bridge whist. Tea and sandwiches were served.

Marland L. Pratt, who took a short trip to Boston during the week returned on Saturday. He brought with him the handsome loving cup given for the quill tournament. This was engraved as follows:
 Birch Island
 Handicap Quill Tournament
 August 9, 1907.
 First Prize
 Emily Shepard Felt.

It is of particularly graceful shape and much admired. It is now on exhibition at the postoffice.

Mrs. B. S. Marsh of California, who has been visiting at her old home in Tenants Harbor, came back to Birch Island on Monday. Mrs. Marsh and her sister, Mrs. Sleeper will remain at the Farm House until September.

A most delightful candy pull was given by the Wymans on Friday evening. Aprons were much in demand and the fudge a great success although the molasses candy was especially the "feet-ure" of the evening.

Cousin's Island

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Colson and little daughter Elisabeth spent the day with friends at Yarmouth Friday, going via Casco Castle and returning by motor boat from Drinkwater's Point.

Dr. Toohy and friends are at the Talbot cottage for the remainder of the season.
 Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Prince entertained quite a party of their friends over Sunday.

On the 16th a party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tuttle of Hartford, Conn., Mr. Jones and son William of Cambridge, Mass., Miss Granger of Richmond, Va., Miss Martin of Wallingford, Conn., the Rev. G. H. Dennison of Hackensack, N. J., Miss Jones of Rye, N. Y., Miss Bassford, Miss Stephenson and the Rev. and Mrs. F. S. Moore of New York, took the trip to Gurnet bridge and enjoyed a shore dinner at the Wigwam.

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Waygood and family, who have been at Daybreak cottage the past month, have returned to their home in Pennsylvania Thursday.

Mr. Riddpath has now joined his family at this cottage.
 A birthday dinner was given at Daybreak cottage on Tuesday, Aug. 12, in honor of Rev. W. H. Waygood and Miss Hannah E. Pearson. A toothsome course dinner was served. Those present were Mrs. W. H. Waygood, Miss Jamison, Miss Pearson, Mrs. Wm. Riddpath, William and Lewis Riddpath, James and Louise Waygood, and the "birthday twins." Presents were distributed from a beautifully trimmed tree. During the evening games and charades were enjoyed. Each one of the company acted in pantomime one of the following stunts: Rowing, Casco Bay bathing; carrying buckets of water; fishing; washing; making bread; sketching; dish-washing; having your picture taken; picking berries. The words acted in the charades were: Theologian, daybreak, mantel, misunderstanding. At the close of the evening the "Daybreak Quartette" sang the following song, which was composed for the occasion:

 Cousins Isle!

Tune: Maryland, My Maryland.
 The dancing wave is on thy shore,
 Cousins Isle, O Cousins Isle;
 We love thy bright scenes more and more.

Cousins Isle, O Cousins Isle;
 We come away from the city's strife,
 To breathe anew the peaceful life
 With which thy air is ever rife,
 Cousins Isle, O Cousins Isle.

We love thy woods and waters too,
 Cousins Isle, O Cousins Isle,
 Our pleasures here are not a few,
 Cousins Isle, O Cousins Isle.
 The daylight woods to wood and shore
 At night our hearth-fire's hovered o'er,
 When old and young play games galore,
 Cousins Isle, O Cousins Isle.

Now our good friend, now our good friend,
 Congratulations to you we extend;
 All hail to you, your natal day,
 And for your future welfare pray,
 May coming years with joys be rife,
 May blessings many crown your life,
 And when the summer days you'd while,
 Just come again to Cousins Isle.

The sun shone brightly on the group of boys and girls numbering twenty, whose ages ranged from four to fourteen, that gathered by invitation on Wednesday afternoon in the attractive cottage of Mrs. H. C. Thornton on the shore of beautiful Casco bay. Words would fail to express the enjoyment the young folks had in the games of "Hunting for peanuts," "Drop the handkerchief," "Blow out the candle while blindfolded," "Strip the willow to the music of the combs," ending in a grand march to seats for refreshments, which were of a varied and liberal supply. Full justice was done the raspberry jam sandwiches, ice cream, cake, confectionery, lemonade and the snapping bon-bon that put a cap on every head. The "wonder ball" as a final in its almost endless un wrappings gave a souvenir to every little guest. Three cheers and a tiger were their adieu as they passed through the gate which ended the event. Among the guests were the little fairy, Margaret Harris, Elizabeth Colson, Catharine Fredericksohn, Isabelle and Phillip Van Doren, Doris and Winifred Glover, Evelyn Prime, Louise and James Waygood, Leonard, Moore, Ruby and Marion Tuttle, Willie Jones, Lewis and William Riddpath, Howard and Leslie Hamilton, Robert and Bunnie Harris. Many of the relatives were spectators and expressed having had as good time as the children at this, the first affair of the kind on the island, pronounced a success. The ladies of "Fir Lodge" are to be congratulated in having contributed a ray of sunshine that will be perennial in the lives of these children as their first party.

Miss Mary B. Martin of Wallingford, Conn. after a very enjoyable visit at the Ridge house, left today for an extended tour of the Berkshires.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and friends of Cambridge, Mass., arrived at the Sea Breeze cottage today for the rest of the season.

FISH EATS MOSQUITO EGGS.
 Italy to Experiment with the Australian Blue-eye to Suppress Plague.
 By the mail steamer Kleist from Sydney, a curious consignment is expected—a quantity of fish to combat the mosquito plague.

Count Morner, the Swedish consul at Sydney, discovered that the pseudomolg signifier, or blue-eye, as the fish is called in Australia, is a voracious feeder on the larvae of mosquitoes and that the fish can live and flourish in comparatively shallow water.

The Italian government was informed through the Swedish minister at the Quirinal of Count Morner's investigations and asked the latter and the Italian consul at Sydney to procure and ship immediately some thousands of the blue-eye to Italy with the object of introducing them into the malaria stricken portions of the kingdom.

The blue-eye belongs to the family of the atherinidae and is from one and a half to two inches long.—Naples correspondent of the New York Sun.

It is estimated by the head of one of the large tobacco establishments of New York that at least $5000 worth of tobacco is daily thrown away in the city in unconsumed cigars and cigarettes.

We often talk a good deal about the salvation of souls in order to escape service for the salvation of society.

Don't Call Again.
 The finest as well as the latest and most luxurious barber shop on Broad way has flashing in front of it this electric sign: "No tips." Within the shop is posted this notice: "If you have tipped the barber, please do not call again." That may sound inhospitable, but it is sound business policy as well as good ethics. Men who have money of their own or money belonging to their employers to throw away are not concerned over the tipping evil; but the majority of Americans prefer to pay one price for an article or service, and to pay that openly and above board. The question of compensation for barbers, waiters and others who serve the public is between them and their employers. Customers are not concerned in it. Most persons would rather pay the cashier a double rate than pay half at the desk and half clandestinely in the form of a tip.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Miss Ruth L. Hamilton stenographer at Cressey and Allen's, Portland, is spending her vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Hamilton.

Mr. B. W. Childs left Tuesday morning for Worcester where he will attend to business affairs. He will be away for about one week.

The Mefebeca Club of Portland gave a shower Saturday afternoon last to Miss Edith Goodhue of Portland at "Armodale," the delightful summer home of Mrs. Oscar Charleston. Mrs. Arthur W. Bell was a gracious hostess and left nothing undone to make the party a brilliant success. Light refreshments of ice cream, cake, fruit and confectionery were served. Miss Goodhue was married yesterday to Herbert P. Lord of Boston, the ceremonies taking place at her parents' home in Portland. The following young ladies were present: Miss Charlotte F. Hilsley, Miss Alice M. Clayton, Miss Ethel Lefavour, Miss Bertha Bond, Miss Ethel Mitchell, Miss Florence Libby and Miss Ethel Levin.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wilson of Wakefield, Mass., were the recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Sweetser at the "Outlook," on Sunset Road last week. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sweetser, and live only a short distance from each other at Wakefield. Mr. Wilson is a professional musician, and is musical director of the public schools at Beverly, Mass., and at Wakefield, Mass. He is also the composer of several quartette anthems and choruses, several of which have received deserved recognition from competent critics. They are spending the summer with their children at Bustin's Island where they have a cottage.

Misses Edith Sheehy, Bertha Bond, and Charlotte F. Hilsley, all of Portland, and Mr. Albert D. Hall of Wallaston, Mass., arrived Monday of last week to be the guests of Mrs. Oscar Charleston for an extended sojourn.

Doughty, Mrs. Dan Smalle of Boston, Miss Edith Lefavour, Miss Ethel Levin, Miss Bertha Bond, Miss Charlotte Hilsley and Miss Dorothea Davis.

Among those expected at Amordale Wednesday are Mrs. Ernest Weston Titcomb and daughter Adelaide of Portland, Mrs. Ellen J. Seabury and Miss Gertrude Seabury of Yarmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Macy of Woodford's spent the week end at the Thompson cottage.

Little Helen Curit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Curit, who underwent an operation recently for dislocation of the hip, is doing well; and, although the treatment after reduction of the dislocation, which was of old standing, is long and tedious, there is a very hopeful prospect for the little one.

Mr. Herbert Evans, the well known Boston landscape painter, is occupying the Dorticose cottage this season. Mr. Evans who has not been in very robust health for some time is deriving much benefit from his sojourn in Maine, and is producing some masterly gems of landscape.

On Sunday afternoon, the Rev. H. O. Worthley, pastor of the Congregational church at Brunswick, Me., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hanson, conducted Divine Service in the woods at the West End. There was a large attendance. These occasional services held beneath the blue empyrean in aisles flanked by the fragrant pine, are very impressive, and much appreciated.

Sunday with Mr. Asher Hinds. Asher Hinds, Jr., is absent from the island for a week, paying a round of visits.

Mrs. Max Passano entertained the West End Colony at tea on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Edmond of Santa Monica, Cal., is visiting the West End, and is accompanied by Miss Betty Edmond, his daughter. Mr. Edmond is a landowner on the high and slightly sloped facing Chandler's Cove, and it is hoped that he may become a regular member of the West End Colony, where he and Miss Edmond have many friends.

Miss Inez Stevens of Auburn, who is spending her summer vacation at Gorham, Me., spent Tuesday here on the island the guest of her brother, Neal Stevens, Bates 1908, who is clerking at Arthur H. Hamilton's.

Miss K. M. Crabtree, the artist, conducted a sale of her water colors yesterday and to-day between the hours of 2 to 4 p. m. at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. George Sweetser on Sunset Road. The exhibit was very largely attended by the summer colony and the majority of her pictures were quickly sold.

Maude Johnson Warren, the well known reader is visiting at the "Cedercroft," the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Fleming. During the past season she traveled extensively in company with the Weber Quartet of Boston and in all the places where they appeared she received most flattering press notices for her fine work. At the concert given at the Hamilton last August for the benefit of the church fund, she contributed two selections and in many other ways she assisted in making the affair a success.

In ballmaster, Miss Theodora Demarest won ladies' prize and Mr. Paul Horin, gent's prize. Twenty-five were present and had a very pleasant time.

Mrs. William LeClair and daughter, Miss Madeline of Boston were guests at the "Commonwealth" last week.

The following are the crew of the Buster Brown, who had a most delightful run to New Meadows Inn where they did justice to all that was put before them. Two of the ladies wished for more ice cream. We will not mention their names, however, as they had their wish. The party were Capt. L. B. Lange, Miss Sadie Waters, Mr. F. Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Dyer of Columbus, Ohio, and daughter, Miss Jessie Waters, Misses Clara C. and May Waters of Boston, Mass. On their return trip they thought the City of Portland was burning up as the sky seemed a mass of flames, and when getting nearer to Portland forts they imagined some real war was surely on as the shooting could be heard for miles down the Bay. However, they managed to get to Long Island without being captured or sunk and will make their cruise the coming week with the new moon to Boothbay Harbor. The above party spent two delightful days at the Bath Ter-centennial which was well worth the time and trip.

Guests now at D. Shawmut cottage are: Mrs. Chas. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gilman and daughter, Leona of Portland, Mrs. W. P. Hill and daughter, Eleanor of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. ### Reminiscences #### of Childhood.

This is a real true story which Aunt M— has often told to her little nieces,—something which happened when she was a little girl, and it may interest other little folks outside of the great-aunt's family. Possibly there are some others who knew Aunt M—, and have heard of this remarkable trip to Orr's Island which happened so many years ago; and even the little folks asked in astonishment, "Where you ever a little girl?" And no wonder! for it is like a dream of far-off childhood days—but a happy one to remember—and Aunt M— always enjoys telling it.

Yes, Aunt M— was once a little girl; an active, restless one, too; and when the long summer vacation days came, what should be done with her was always a vexed question in the family. But on one particular season an invitation came most opportunely for her to visit some distant relatives living at Orr's Island. In those days this island seemed more remote than Madagascar, and not so near in imagination as the Philippines are now.

Aunt M— felt very important as the necessary preparations for the trip were being made. I wish you children could see one of the large carpet-bags used then,—a big, flowered affair, made out of carpeting, having handles and a clasp—not much like the attractive dress suit cases that are in use at the present time. A new gingham sun-bonnet, corded and made with a cape (perhaps more sensible than the hats children are now wearing), two new gingham dresses, a woolen plaid, and a chaille for "meeting best," completed the wardrobe.

The day came for starting on the visit, and the good-bye kisses were exchanged with many parting injunctions from her mother—what she must do, and more particularly, what she must not do. Her father took her on that lovely June day to Ingraham's Wharf, Portland, for she was to sail on Captain Orr's boat, the "Polly Ann." No steamers were running to the island in those days.

The captain, with his daughter Rachel, had come to the city for groceries for their little store which supplied the island people. The little craft appeared pretty full, and, as Aunt M— went down the steps of the wharf, her ardor was somewhat dampened by being so near the water and she would gladly have gone back home with her father. But the good captain assured her that he came to the city every week, and that Rachel could manage the "Polly Ann" as well as a man. As they sailed, Rachel became a heroine in her eyes, as she thought her something wonderful. After a short time some consultation arose between Rachel and her father. The sails were reefed, and the Captain and Rachel took the oars; but the boat made little headway for they were, as they said, becalmed. The little traveller did not fully understand the meaning of the term then, but realized that they were at a standstill. Many times since, in the bustle of this life, she has thought of the beautiful stillness of that June night as the moon came out of the water, the whole scene making a deep impression on her mind. Occasionally the distant paddle of some craft, stranded as they were, was the only sound to be heard. Supperless, she did not think of being hungry, for her thoughts were more of the wonderful story she would tell her playmates on her return home. She often wondered at the good captain's patience as he was asked again and again about the time. At twelve o'clock a landing could be made as it was low tide. It was decided that the little girl should be left at Captain Pennell's, the nearest house, while Rachel and her father went through the woods to their home. Good Mrs. Pennell, on being roused, very kindly said that the little girl could come in for the night and sleep as late as she wished in the morning. But little sleep came to her, for the previous evening's adventure, and the water dashing on the rocks, were too much for her; so, very early the next morning, she surprised Mrs. P. by going out on the bluff. Everything was so fascinating, down here by the sea—the fishermen coming in with their boats of hake and haddock, the catch of the night previous, and their talk while pulling in the boats, were so novel that she was loath to leave to go in to her breakfast.

And now for a part of the story which interests her even as an elderly lady, as she has since learned that she stayed that night in the house now known as "The Pearl House." You may have read to you Mrs. Stowe's charming story, "The Pearl of Orr's Island." Well, in this very house there was a little girl who may have been the very one about whom Mrs. Stowe wrote. She was an orphan whose father and mother sailed away and never came back. The sad face of the little girl Aunt M— still remembers as she stood on the bluff watching the ships pass and hoping her father and mother might come back. She took great pride in showing her treasures,—a lacquered box with gilt figures in which were her mother's chain and locket; also her father's rings, and some other keepsakes. A case of bright, stuffed birds, and some feather flowers under a glass globe, adorned the mantel. These her father had sent her from Brazil.

But to go on with the story: After dinner Aunt M— went to her relatives. The house where they lived was on a high cliff, and the vessels passed very near as they rounded the point to make the harbor in Portland. In those days this harbor was often a forest of masts, with so many vessels going and coming to and from foreign parts. Of the many who sailed and never reached port, no tale is told.

It was Aunt M—'s delight to gather the pretty mosses and shells on the beach, and to go in wading to her heart's content. It would not have been like her if something unusual had not happened, so one day she left her shoes and stockings on a rock, unmindful of the in-coming tide, and on going back to the spot she found her belongings had gone out to sea. An old pair of shoes were borrowed from a neighbor's little girl, as she remembered she was not to wear her white kid ones on the shore, but to keep them for meeting.

In this home was a dear old grandmother, a real grandmother of by-gone days, with her white cap and kerchief. On rainy days and evenings it was her delight to gather the children of the family about her, telling them stories of her childhood, and what her grandmother told her, just as this story is being told to you. Not far from this house is the site of an old block house, a kind of fort, where, in the early days, when the Indians were on the coast of Maine, people had to stay for safety. As the children were told how often the Indians came, and the dreadful frights they occasioned, they would go off to bed, trembling with fear lest the dusky savages were yet in hiding about the shore. Oh, no! grandmother would assure them,—that was in the days of the Indian War. Then the Indians came here from Canada; and in Yarmouth, Freeport, and all down the coast, people lived in terror of them.

On one particular occasion her father and mother came to Falmouth (now Portland) for a day's visit, expecting to return that same evening. But they were detained, and, as they neared the island on a home-coming, they saw traces that the Indians had been there during their absence. Terror-stricken, they found the humble little home in ashes, and the children and neighbors gathered in the block house—all their family but one, the eldest daughter, a girl of fifteen. In the days of war the Indians, always cunning and shrewd, would manage to take women as prisoners, holding them as hostages. This meant that if the whites had the red men as prisoners, they would exchange, and sometimes they would make our people pay a large sum of money to get the prisoners back. The missing sister was carried captive to Canada by the Indians, and remained with them three years. They did not abuse her, for fear they might lose their ransom money. The grandmother would tell the children how Lottie had a weary march through the woods, and how, in living with the Indians, she had learned to make moccasins and to weave baskets. Then these baskets and moccasins were taken from the closet and shown to the children.

When the war was over, the United States government made arrangements to exchange prisoners, and a vessel was sent to Quebec to bring them home. From time to time reports would come of Lottie, but for a while she could not be found. The good captain would not come away without her, and adopted many plans to learn of her whereabouts. One day, in a trader's shop, he heard the young men joking about a pretty English girl who was in a Frenchman's family. He passed the door of the house, and saw, sweeping the steps, a young girl whom he thought from description might be the object of his search. He dropped a note and asked her to give him a signal if she were the captive whom he thought. For several days notes were exchanged between them. The captain learned that the so-called "Frenchman" was an Indian trader, and that he had purchased Lottie of the Indians who had taken her captive, and had guarded her closely for fear that she might escape.

The captain arranged with her to let herself down from the chamber window by a rope, and he himself was there to carry her away to the ship which held the other exchanged prisoners and was all ready to sail. A little romance comes in here, for the captain fell in love with Lottie and later married her, and her descendants are now living in Portland.

Sometimes the friendly Indians would come into her home, and bring venison and skins for sale, and give presents of baskets. But of these although treachery was always feared by their elders, the unfriendly Indians came to Harpswell, and were seen approaching. A large tin horn always sounded the alarm that the Indians were near. Then the women and children would run for the block house. Grandmother would point with pride to a large candlestick which she said she had held while running to the block house and did not drop in her fright. You would not think, as you now sail in the fine steamers of the Harpswell line, and see the island at the present day, dotted with cottages and hotels, all life and gaiety with summer guests, that the Indians had ever been there, and that a few log houses at one time comprised the entire settlement.

So many of grandma's stories and the incidents of her childhood have been written, that Aunt M— wonders who beside herself remembers the stories of this dear old lady.

Aunt M—'s next experience was a quilting-party; quite an event to her, I assure you, as she went one lovely afternoon with friends to a neighboring home. The quilt was a patchwork one, in fancy design of red, blue and green; the pattern a chariot-wheel. Once all little girls learned to sew patchwork at home. No sewing schools in these days,—only mother to teach them. The squares had all been sewed together, and on some of them the names of the maker had been written. The quilt was tacked into a frame which was upon four standards and looked a good deal like a large table. Around this the women sat, as many on a side as could use their needles without interfering; and, with much chatting and laughing, the work went merrily on until the quilt was finished. Then the frames were taken down and supper was served,—baked beans, hot biscuit, doughnuts, gingerbread and milk, and even mince pie and other kinds of pie. The children were allowed to join in the fun and frolic which followed the supper. The quilt was to be given as a wedding present, and the couple were to sail on the brig "Janette" for Singapore. As Aunt M— heard it pronounced "sing a poor," she thought it must be a very desolate place, and she had much pity for the bride. She also wondered if the people meant that the bride was very poor. When Aunt M— later studied her geography she found that Singapore was a port of great importance. Years afterward she learned that her sympathy was not needed as the couple had become wealthy, and the husband and captain had been long retired.

One other and perhaps the most important event in the visit, was going to "meeting;" and it certainly was going in a novel way. The pastor of the church had a large row-boat built at his expense to take the people to Harpswell Centre for religious services, there being no church then on Orr's Island. The people, old and young, would literally "gather at the river," often two trips being necessary to take the people over. The church was a primitive affair, the seats destitute of cushions, and the high pulpit, which was approached by long, winding stairs, had a large sounding-board covering the top, which appeared almost like a small roof. There were no seats for a choir, and all the hymns were sung by the congregation while standing. After the morning service the noon-day lunch followed, and all did ample justice to the doughnuts, pie, and cheese spread before them. The little sheltered cove, hemmed in by green pines, where luncheon was served, was a fairy grotto in her eyes, and she expected some water-nymph or something unusual to appear. But no, the good people evidently did not think so, as quietly they went to the afternoon meeting.

The pastor at that time was a young man, the Rev. Elijah Kellogg, who is the author of so many story books, the scenes of which are located on this and adjacent islands. He was ready to extend a cordial greeting to old and young; even the little folks lingered by "ready to catch the good man's smile." For many years after, that Sunday was associated in Aunt M—'s mind as having some connection with the fishermen by the sea of Galilee. The minister's boat was known to all the children as he was fitting here and there making calls upon his people, and his visits to grandmother were always looked forward to with pleasure by the family. According to the usual custom, the children were called in from play to listen to the good man's prayer. Should you read the life of this noted man, you will find how much he loved these people and the church of his early pastorate, always returning to them after a brief absence. His last years were spent here where he died at the advanced age of eighty-eight. A fitting monument marks his resting-place, near the old church he loved men think of each other, and our own Longfellow said of him, "Among the many lives that I have known, None I remember more serene and sweet. More rounded in itself, and more complete."

When you sail down the Bay and stop at Orr's Island, I am sure you will think of Aunt M—'s story, and, although you may enjoy the sail, the music, and all the present accompaniments of an excursion of today, nothing can give you greater pleasure than she has in recalling this memorable trip taken so many years ago.
