"His head dropped back, the helmet fell, One gasping sigh, a last farewell.—
O God! what woe those accents tell!"

A Tale of Chivalry.

BY PROF. L. C. BATEMAN.

On Albion's coast the setting sun
Sheds his last beams both cold and dun,
Through murky clouds that streaked with red
Foretelt the tempest's deadly tread;
While twilight slowly fades away,
Hushed is the warring battle-fray;
But ha! the distant thunder's roar,
Comes nearer to this rock bound shore;
And whirling, dashing, foaming, hoarse,
The storm god hurls the lightning's flash—
O wild the night, and wilder yet
The terrors which this storm begat!
'Tis dark like the bed has fled,
The sea fowl's wing on flight is spread,
And shrieking speeds from scene so foul.
Hark! hark! the distant thunder's roar,
Comes nearer to this rock bound shore,
While rolling, dashing, foaming, hoarse,
The storm god hurls the lightning's flash—
O wild the night, and wilder yet
The terrors which this storm begat!
'Tis dark like the bed has fled,
The sea fowl's wing on flight is spread,
And shrieking speeds from scene so foul.
Then rolls in the east the lurid morn,
Till from the distant hills that strain,
Re echoed back its wild refrain;
Once more awake nature and man,
Who wins the fair no fear must know.
On speeds the steed with panting breath,
His rider for him alone nerves death,
The lowering clouds that hung on high,
Seemed not to daunt the rider's eye,
Whose graceful form and steadfast mood,
Full plainly marked him for renowned.
The shield he held, the blade he wore,
Were not unused to human gore,
For many a battle had he seen,
He showed it not, for thus he spoke
"On, on we go my matchless steed,
Bright is the day for me indeed;
Well could I by the trusty aid,
Of foes his own dark deeds have made,
My rival select and fixed his doom,
Within my castle's deepest tomb;
But never will I this steps mislead,
Or by deception's aid succeed,
Their sight may fade, their lustre die,
Before these eyes shall play the spy,"
Will on they swept over hill and glade,
Regarding not, and will unheeded,
One error made, however slight,
Would hurl to death both horse and knight;
But care it food each well knew,
The noble beast still seemed to fly,
Till many weary leagues are passed,
And night the dash beheld at last;
One effort more, one onward bound,
The goal is reached, the foe is found!

When autumn leaves are tinged with red,
And on the sward their beauties spread,
Too well, alas, too well we know,
Those brighter hues to death they owe;
The wanderer on the desert sands,
With rapture hails Eolian bands,
But when comes on the wild simoom,
Full oft he finds a living tomb.
Thus love, that gentlest, tenderest flame,
The breast of youth or maid can claim,
Is sweetest when its joys impart,
The power that tames the human heart.
But when on passion's fiery strand,
Its cast by fate its magic wand,
It turns, while yet it fiercely glows,
The warmest friends to deadly foes;
Nor leaves behind one single mark,
Save hatred's gleam both deep and dark.
"The hour has passed," Sir Hildred broke
The silence by these words he spoke;
"The hour has passed, why come you late,
To meet and face a knight's fell hate?
Perchance, my lord, thy restless eye,
Would rather view a cloudless sky;
A squire or page might claim this rough,
But thine shouldn't be of sterner stuff,
The lightning's glare and rolling wave,

No terrors shed upon the brave;
If then wouldst still attempt my steel,
Then hasten not to show its heel."
In sneering tone these accents fell,
Omens that marked the fiendish well.
"Too well I know your mission here;
But if thou deem the hour I'm late,
In sooth no fear of thy dark hate.
Thy fulchion draw, thine arm prepare,
To test the courage of Lord Clair."
No then no blood the blade would of taste,
But a lay, my lord, 'tis now born feast.
The storm god hurls the lightning's flash—
O wild the night, and wilder yet
The terrors which this storm begat!
Appealed in sorrow's knight!
His armored frame in glittering sheen,
Was graced with many a battle scene,
The helmet like a sable cowl,
Scarce hid the dark and savage scowl,
That lurked around his features grim,
Revealing there the rivall's vow!
Dark was his eye its furtive roll
Bespoke the demon's revel soul!
And there beholder well at times
Could read confession of his crimes.
Perchance the chieftain of some band
Whose wishes were deeds regarded as law,
As stern as his to safely guard—
Their nobler strokes through battle's tide.
The hour has come to meet my foe.
My courser's swift and stalwart form,
Will bear me through the hottest storm.
To this dark spot where I may wreak
The vengeance that no tongue can speak
This is the hour, this is the night,
My faith is kept—thy comes he not!"

The winds are high on Albion's shore,
And wildly breaks the ocean's roar,
Along the rocky cliffs that bear,
The castle stronghold of Sir Clair,
Against the sky those cold walls loom,
Dark, stern and solemn as the tomb,
No sound is heard save that alone,
No minstrel's songs had echoed there,
Or brave men wooed the young and fair,
But yet 'tis said that many a night,
Of gathered knighthood's fairest flower,
To win some lady's kindly grace,
Who was the tournament of chase,
Proud of the deeds, yet marked by fate,
Himself to fall soon to relate,
Those brighter hues to death they owe;
The wanderer on the desert sands,
Sat musing mouth his nodding plume,
At such a time, when from the tower,
Nor listened to the minstrel's lays,
Until upon the voice and calm the eye,
Lingered with fond delight and gaze,
Who was the valiant knight and page,
Who was the tournament of chase,
Proud of the deeds, yet marked by fate,
Himself to fall soon to relate,
Those brighter hues to death they owe;
But now the chieftain strapped in gleam,
Sat musing mouth his nodding plume,
At such a time, when from the tower,
Nor listened to the minstrel's lays,
Until upon the voice and calm the eye,
Lingered with fond delight and gaze,
Who was the valiant knight and page,
Who was the tournament of chase,
Proud of the deeds, yet marked by fate,
Himself to fall soon to relate,
Those brighter hues to death they owe;
The wanderer on the desert sands,
With rapture hails Eolian bands,

Sonora.

THE RESOURCES OF A RICH SECTION. WHAT MAY BE FOUND JUST OVER THE U. S. SOUTHERN BORDER. AMERICAN CAPITAL.

[Correspondence of the Journal.]

GUAYMAS, MEXICO, 1889. Sonora's mineral resources are excelled by those of no State in the Mexican Republic, there being within its limits no fewer than five thousand registered mines of silver alone. Gold and copper are also abundant; coal is known to exist, and lead, tin, iron and plumbago are found in various places. Several copper mines of considerable value are lying idle for want of cheap transportation, they being situated from 200 to 250 miles distant from the coast, and far from any line of railroad. One of the most important of the several coal deposits in the State lies on the Yaqui river, 250 miles above its mouth, and more than a hundred miles distant from Guaymas. It is anthracite, of fair quality, the only anthracite known anywhere on the Pacific coast, and therefore very valuable. The valley containing it is about 2,000 feet above sea level and perfectly easy of access; but it costs upwards of $30 per ton to transport it to Guaymas (the nearest port) by the present roads; while to attempt it by the river, with its succession of shallows and rapids, and low water more than half the year would be uncertain at best, and even more unprofitable.

There are two banks in the State established and owned by English residents, under a privilege from the Government—one at Hermosillo, the State capital, and the other at Alamos, 240 miles southeast of Guaymas.

One cannot acquire absolute title to mining property here as in the United States; but may nominally own the mine as long as he works it a given number of months in every year. Abandoned mines are public keys, lying around among so lazy a people. If the theoretical owner fails to comply with these conditions, no matter how much he may have paid for the property, or how many improvements he has previously made upon it, this can be "denounced," as the term is; and poverty in that case to the government or to the denouncer. For those who are in the secret, however, and in favor with the Powers that be, there is a way of getting around all this by means of which actual labor in the mines can be dispensed with and the owner still retain possession by obtaining what is called a "pedogree," paying a specified sum to the government—so $5 per month for each claim during the time comprehended in the pedogree.

When the great gold excitement broke out at Mulege, just across the gulf from Guaymas, in the winter of 1885, most of the Mexican people of Lower California, it was felt here more than on the peninsula where the bonanza was said to exist. A Mexican brought over about forty ounces of coarse gold which he said was taken out by three Indians in the Mulege mines in two days' time. Following that the Indians with pans and shovels, the main expedition and the very first to sail consisting of 25 miners of Tombstone, Arizona, headed by a wonderful old Argonaut in the lot. Then came two more expeditions, one of them from the mining advacent to the Casa Grande and Santa Maria rivers. Prehistoric ruins abound, many of them traceable to the ancient Aztecs and the rest to the cliff dwellers of Arizona. Of him who sought thy bridal vow. Of him who sought thy bridal vow. Methinks no prying eyes terrene Should look upon the solemn scene— The maid arose, she raised her hand, The knight was gone by her command. Then fled the lady's gentle form Perchance to catch his last adieu; She pressed her lips against his own, To her the parting kiss returned, She raised her voice, aloud she cried, Her serving men and maids replied, Back to her large Sir Oswald's chair, That fidgety crowd they quickly bore, And by the light from starry sky, They saw the death film on his eye, While over his head appeared flames spread, The pallid hue that marks the dead. Above his form the maiden leaned, From earth his spirit rapidly weaned; One straining glance, one wild refrain, "He breathes, he lives, he speaks again!" Alas, 'tis but the flickering gleam Expiring life but brightens there; His head dropped back, the helmet fell, One gasping sigh, one last farewell— O God! what woe those accents tell! To her they told that fleeting soul At last had reached its final goal, While she herself, like battle dove, Could never know a second love.

Beneath the Abby's ruined dome, That graces still her island home, They made a grave both wide and deep, Where side by side those lovers sleep. For if the legends we believe, That night expired fair Geneviève. And now full oft the peasants say, When winds are high and lightnings play, Two shadowy forms the storm outbrave, And flit through arch and vaulted nave; Then kneeling at the sacred shrine, They taste the bridal cake and wine. But when the hushed bells toll and wave, Again they seek that lonely grave. This much, I know this much is true, These tales revive their truth anew, And thus the deeds of those dark days, Shall live again in minstrels lays.

The story that the United States is negotiating the purchase of Cuba is pronounced absurd.

Gen. Miles, commanding the Department of the Pacific, states that $40,000,000 could be profitably expended on the defences of the Pacific coast.

The Boston Journal says: A good cranberry crop is assured. No frosts have damaged the fruit this year—a condition of affairs quite unusual.

President Eliot of Harvard College has deserted the Mugwumps and become a full fledged Democrat. On the whole the change is for the better.

Both the candidates for governor of Massachusetts this year are Harvard alumni, Mr. Brackett in the class of 1865, Mr. Russell in that of 1877.

Secretary Windom's decision in regard to the importation of lead ores sustains the present classification.

Vice-President Morton will receive a rental of $60,000 a year for his new apartment house in Washington.

John Ericsson's house in New York where the Monitor was planned, has been sold at auction for $18,900.

The marriage of Miss Maggie Mitchell, the actress, and Mr. Charles Abbott, her leading man, is announced.

The cruiser Baltimore has been docked at Philadelphia and is being cleaned and painted preparatory to another trial trip.

The report about Chief Justice Fuller's return to Chicago, because there was nothing "domestic" in Washington life, is reported to be pure rubbish.

A Year in Indiana.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL: Twelve months have passed in review since we took up our residence in the State of Indiana. With your permission, Mr. Editor, we will chronicle a few items of our observations and experiences. The year has been full of work, hard work, trying work, yet not altogether fruitless work. Not all that was hoped for has been accomplished, yet the results are an occasion for gratitude and joy. Most of the time, too, has been spent within the limits of Grant County. With the exception of a few visits to the Capital, sixty-six miles south, and to some neighboring towns, we have not traveled much. Only once have we been outside of the State's limits since coming into it. The year, however, in the county and State has been so full of stirring events, political, religious and civil, that much could be seen and heard within the limits of half a mile from the Court House.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

We hold to our own political views with some tenacity. We are obliged thus to hold them or lose them. No man can afford to be politically lukewarm in this State without exposing himself to attack from each of the political parties. Whatever sins may be charged to the Hoosiers, depend upon it they will be able to defend themselves from the charge of political cowardice. Every man is either for or against. For the most part you will find them allied with either the Republican or Democratic parties. I do not remember meeting with but two or three mugwumps. There are some third party men, but less by far than we met with in the State of Michigan. Perhaps the fall of '88 was an exception to other presidential seasons, owing to the fact that the Republican nominee was an honored resident of the State, but Indiana is always awake politically. She never sleeps by night or by day. Wake up a Hoosier at any hour of the night, and he will tell you on which side of the fence he stands. You will seldom find him astride the fence, or standing very near the border line. It is said that in Indiana there are more politicians to the square mile than in any other State in the Union.

In the canvass of last fall meetings were of frequent occurrence up to the eve of election. Fown-ship meetings, county meetings, district meetings and State meetings, meetings such as we never saw in Maine, each party contending for the mastery as if the whole interests of the nation depended on the vote of a single county. I was present at only one State meeting, the largest and most enthusiastic meeting of the kind we ever saw in Maine, each party contending for the mastery as if the whole interests of the nation depended on the vote of a single county. CHARLES A. FILSBURY.....EDITOR.
RUSSELL G. DYER.....LOCAL EDITOR.

On the person of a woman recently arrested in Manitoba was found "a bottle of ether, a bottle of vitriol, two razors and two self-cocking revolvers." She was going for a man she claims as her husband, and her name is Mrs. Tough. Who says there is nothing in a name?

A writer in Lippincott's Magazine says: "Perhaps the best paid editorial writer on any daily journal in the country is Mayo W. Hazeltine, of the New York Sun, who is said to receive $175 a week." Mr. Hazeltine is a Belfast boy, a nephew of C. B. Hazeltine of this city.

The 150th anniversary of the settlement of Peterborough, N. H., was celebrated Thursday. Schools were closed, business suspended and the town hall, post office, and many other buildings handsomely decorated with flags and bunting. Some of the early settlers of Belfast came from Peterborough.

A regular run on the Bangor news, the new "metropolitan" Bangor daily. In a freak of mandlin idiocy it exclaims: "These are elder days." And what is more than that, the mussel liquor is fresh from the presses and sparkling with life-like champagne." But, really, there can't be much "life" left in the worms and nuggets after passing through a cider mill! But the "spark" is there all the same, and the Bangor editor is happy.—Brighton News.

We notice that Bro. Shorey confirms the statement of the Bangor paper as to the sparkle, while another contemporary has boldly asserted that there is no sparkle to new cider. Here is a subject for the debating clubs: "Does new cider sparkle?"

The Republican party has degraded the glorious flag of the United States by making a party question of it. It is time that every man who imagined it was honoring the stars and stripes when it has blown its disgusting nose upon what brave men have died for.—The National Democrat.

This is from the national organ of the Democracy published at Washington, D. C.—the paper which has declared that secession was founded on right, but that the Government has no right to protect the black man from his Ku Klux outrages.

The poetical, the practical and the patriotic are exemplified in this issue of the Journal by three widely known Waldo county men. Prof. Bretzius relates in verse a tale of the past age of chivalry; Hon. L. C. Libby gives some practical advice to the farmers and presents in sharp contrast the features of agriculture in the west and in New England; while Congressman Milliken's address to Thomas H. Marshall Post, G. A. R. is patriotic in tone and admirably adapted to the occasion. It is a coincidence, and a happy coincidence, we think, that brought these three productions into a single number of the Journal, and we bespeak for each and all of them an attentive reading.

In the death of Hon. J. C. Nichols Searsport has sustained a heavy loss. He was an important factor in the religious, social, political and commercial interests of the town, a liberal, public-spirited, open-handed citizen. Such a man is not only a loss to the community in which he had his home, but to the county as so ably represented at Augusta, and to the State. He belonged to a class of men that is fast passing away, the old-time Maine shipmasters who are not only the navigators but excellent business men, and qualified to fill any position at home or abroad with credit to themselves and honor to their country. Belfast joins with Searsport in regretting the early death of Capt. Nichols and in extending sympathy to the sorrowing relatives.

Bar gossip has been enjoying a little political sensation all to itself. In brief, it was announced that it is on the cards for Chief Justice Peters to run for Governor at the next election, that he is booed for the United States senate after that, perhaps "minus" going back to his early love, the House of Representatives." If the originators of this gossip expected it to attract wide attention they have been disappointed. The Maine papers outside of Bangor do not appear to have considered it worthy of notice or discussion. In view of the fact that Chief Justice Peters voluntarily went out of politics and sought a place on the bench, for which he has shown himself eminently qualified, it hardly seems probable that he would relinquish his position as Chief Justice for a term in the Gubernatorial chair, which he declined in the year 1880, at the end of the term. Our re-distributed system of contemporaries had better try again, and see if they cannot concoct a more plausible story.

The New York Press was so far in the field to suggest that the National flag should be hoisted over all public buildings. This is already done on certain public days. Now it is proposed that the Fourth of our Country should be displayed upon every school house. This suggestion has met with enthusiastic favor among the loyal people of the Union, and the Stars and Stripes will shortly be recognized as an essential part of the outfit of every building where Young America is taught how to become worthy of a heritage of freedom. We notice that at a recent meeting of Post Beale, No. 12, G. A. R., of Bangor, it was voted to raise at once by subscription among the comrades a sum for the purchase of a United States Flag to be presented to the Bangor High School with a request that it be kept hoisted whenever the schools are in session. The Bangor Whig and Courier, in commending the action of the veterans of Post Beale, says:

Their example should be followed, and the City Government would be heartily endorsed by the patriotic people of Bangor in appropriating the small amount required to furnish every school-house in the city with the Flag that represents the grandeur and glory of our "Government of the people, by the people and for the people."

MAINE GOSSIP. The Governor and Council last week turned the petition for the pardon of Charles H. Keaman, a convict in the State Prison under a sentence for murder, committed nearly twenty-three years ago.....Mr. Blaine has ceased his house at Augusta for three years.....Worthy Master Robie and Mrs. Robie depart for California, to attend the annual session of the National Grange to-morrow, Friday. He says the report from Maine will be the best ever submitted from the State.....The Dirigo Mutual Life and Accident Association of Lewiston has decided to discontinue business and insure the certificate-holders in the United States Mutual Accident Association.....The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Dexter and Piscataquis Railroad was held in Dover, Thursday. The old board of directors was re-elected except that Bacon, of Boston, is succeeded by John F. Arnold, of Foxcroft. The road will probably be completed in a month or six weeks.....Bath will make a considerable exhibit at the International Maritime Exhibition which opens in Boston November 4th.....A meeting of resident sons and daughters of Maine was held at Woburn, Mass., Thursday night, for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization. Officers were elected, Frank S. Burgess being president. A banquet and entertainment will be given Nov. 12. The society has over 150 members already..... J. E. Hamilton's corn packing factory at Garland caught fire Thursday evening in the packing room about 7 o'clock. It was a total loss. About half the season's pack was burned.....A shipbuilding syndicate, to be managed by the old firm of Rideout & Lord, is about to begin operations in Calais.....The Bowdoin and Tufts college eleven played a game of Rugby foot ball on the Portland ball ground Saturday afternoon. About seven hundred people were present. The game was quite exciting and was won by Tufts by a score of 8 to 4. J. H. Pattee, of Tufts, '86, was referee, and M. F. Brooks, of Harvard, '82, umpire.....Fred L. Odlin, one of the special constables appointed by Governor Burleigh to enforce the liquor law in Androscoggin county, has resigned..... The Governor has appointed Hon. William Freeman, Cherryfield; Hon. Joseph C. Learned, Burnham; Hon. O. F. Haskell, Pittsfield, delegates to attend the farmers' convention at Montgomery, Ala. Difficulty has been met with in finding men to accept these positions, as they must bear their own expenses.....Walter B. Johnson, formerly proprietor of the Pemaquid Exchange, Bangor, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a warrant issued by Judge Brett, charging him with felonious assault on Annie J. Cook. Johnson was held in $5,000 bail and the case was continued until Nov. 4. The arrest was made as it was understood Mr. Johnson was about to leave the State. It is expected that Miss Cook will be able to appear and give her testimony at the time for which the hearing was fixed as she has improved very materially since she has been at the Asylum. This case has attracted much attention..... Daniel Hammond Talbot, a well-known leading business man at East Machias, died Saturday morning, aged 70 years.....The Kennebec Journal prints an interesting letter from Minister Stevens, descriptive of life in Honolulu. .....Among the lads of the new cruisers spending at the Navy Dept. Saturday was the following: Bath iron works, Bath, Me., one cruiser, $675,000, two cruisers, $1,350,000, three cruisers, $2,025,000. There were four other bids. The contract for two of the cruisers has been awarded to the Columbian Iron Work and Dry Dock Company, of Baltimore, for $1,225,000. The contract for the third will be awarded to either Harrison Loring, of Boston, or N. F. Palmer & Co., of New York. Each bid $674,000.....The wool factory of S. A. Maxfield on Parker street Bangor, was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning. Loss about $50,000; insurance $30,000. Origin of the fire unknown..... William H. Bishop of the firm of Wood, Bishop & Co. died Tuesday morning at his residence in Bangor.

POLITICAL POINTS. Senator Ingalls stamps as "utterly without foundation" the story that he had written a letter demanding a re-election to the United States Senate on the ground that he had made the best presiding officer that body ever had.....The Speakership campaign will not open in earnest until after the November election if it is understood..... The news from Ohio is encouraging to the Republicans.....Congressman Boutelle left for Ohio Saturday night to take part in the campaign.....SIX States, Massachusetts, Ohio, Iowa, New Jersey, Mississippi and Virginia, elect Governors and other State officers on Tuesday, November 5, and in four others, New York, Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Maryland, minor State offices are to be filled.....The Virginia Bourbons now admit that Mahone has a chance of success. Navigation Commissioner Morton has tendered his resignation by request, to take place on the appointment of his successor..... Mr. Harold Sewall of Maine, removed by Secretary Bayard from being consul general to Samoa, has been restored by Secretary Blaine to his old office, although the official announcement is withheld for the present..... Col. Alfred E. Buck of Georgia, has been appointed marshal for the northern district of Georgia. It is the chairman of the republican State committee and President Harrison's official adviser for Georgia. Col. Buck is a native of Maine who settled in Atlanta after the war, engaged in business and held offices. He has been called home by the United States district court. Col. Buck's wife is a daughter of Judge H. K. Baker of Belfast.

IN BRIEF. It is announced in Boston that the president of the National Trotting association will investigate the rumors regarding the crookedness of the Beldi $10,000 national stallion race won by Nelson at Beacon Park last month. The rumor is gaining force that Alcyone did not try in this race. His driver has since been fined for pulling Roy Wilkes..... Ex-State Treasurer Burke of Louisiana has been elected for forgery while utilizing forged bonds of the State..... Commissioner Raum has made special the case of a lady 96 years old, entitled to a pension as widow of a soldier of the War of 1812.....A sensation was caused in the Grand trial Saturday by Judge McCordell's ruling striking Surgeon Moore's testimony from the record. After indignant protests by the government counsel, the ruling was reversed. The white livery stable horse played a prominent part in the case. Counsel asserted that there is no sparkle to new cider. The steel cruiser San Francisco was successfully launched Saturday at San Francisco.

Kent's Hill Breezes.

The Colby base ball team played a matched game of ball with the Pine Trees at this place Oct. 12. The day was all that could be wished, and a goodly number watched the most hotly contested game. Both teams had their strongest men in the field. Wagg and Foster were the battery for the visitors, Stevens and Cobb for the Pine Trees. The game was well and hard, with the Pine Trees steadily taking the lead until in the 7th inning Stevens collided with the base runner and dislocated his thumb. He then lost control of the ball and filled the bases with visitors. The Colbys then took a lead and finished with a score in their favor of 6 to 4. The Colbys had 7 errors to their credit; the Pine Trees 5. The pitching on both sides was very fine Stevens carrying off the honors. 14 of the Colby sing gers pounded the air three times in succession, trying to fathom his speedy delivery. Wagg struck out 12 in the features of the game were the pitching of Wagg and Stevens, the batting of Foster and base running of Parsons, while for the Pine Trees the work of Underwood at 1 b was perfect, the batting of Stevens, and the batting and base running of Dearing, deserve special mention. Dearing comes from Jackson and is getting no fit. The institution is small round ball player. He got 7 of the 11 scores for the Pine Trees in this game.

The Prudential Committee were in session last week. Among the improvements they voted to buy a type writer for the com'l College.

Miss M. A. Laughton of Lewiston, assisted by home musical talent, gave a very entertaining recital at Dearing chapel Oct. 16

Prof. Lyford has bought out a boot and shoe business in Dexter.

Colby Correspondence.

A tennis tournament is soon to be started here.

Many of the boys intend to stay out this winter and teach.

Roberts, '86, has returned and joined his class. He has been teaching in Athens Academy.

The term we make trial of the college jury system of maintaining order about the campus.

H. R. Hatch has gone as delegate to the national convention of the Delta Upsilon Society, held in New York.

The admirers of the national game think our chances for winning the pennant in the season of '89 are very good.

SIX members of the Delta Kappa Epsilon society from this college attended the convention held in Boston last week.

The Junior part-assignments are as follows: Greek, Rogers; Latin, Barrett, French, Miss Fletcher; English, Carshaw.

The work on the Salmon Observatory is being rapidly carried on; when it is completed it will add much to the beauty of our campus.

The lectures greatly enjoyed by Y. M. C. A. contributors ceased in this city. That part of the program is to be taken up, perhaps "minus" going back to his early love, the House of Representatives." If the originators of this gossip expected it to attract wide attention they have been disappointed. The Maine papers outside of Bangor do not appear to have considered it worthy of notice or discussion. In view of the fact that Chief Justice Peters voluntarily went out of politics and sought a place on the bench, for which he has shown himself eminently qualified, it hardly seems probable that he would relinquish his position as Chief Justice for a term in the Gubernatorial chair, which he declined in the year 1880, at the end of the term. Our re-distributed system of contemporaries had better try again, and see if they cannot concoct a more plausible story.

Memorial Exercises.

Thomas H. Marshall Post, G. A. R., of Belfast, held memorial exercises Sunday afternoon for the five comrades who have died during the year. The Post was well represented and there was a fair number of ladies present. The room was trimmed in mourning, and in front of the altar were placed five empty chairs draped with crape. The deceased members—Charles A. Woods, aged 46, formerly of the 4th Maine regiment; F. W. Gilbert, aged 58, of the same regiment; C. W. Haney, aged 48, years, of the 20th regiment; W. J. Shaw, aged 67 years, of the 1st Maine cavalry, and Albert L. Hall, aged 43 years, of the 6th Maine battery. After the regular Post exercises, which were very impressive, Hon. Seth L. Milliken was introduced and spoke as follows:

I cannot speak personally of all the comrades whom you assemble to-day to commemorate, because I did not know them all. Charles W. Haney I did well. He was my old friend. He exhibited his patriotism among its highest not only by enlisting in the Union army when the country needed his services, but in many ways after the war had ended. His patriotism was shown in times of trouble and determination of the people in the face of every disaster, and their sublime faith in their country's great and glorious destiny, the life of patriotism rising higher as storm after storm swept over it. Comrade Haney was multiplied, who to-day can recall all this without feeling prouder of his country and more devoted to its welfare.

We cannot too often revive these memories which in the struggle and strife of busy life we are too apt to forget. Indeed we do not like to bring away from the two heroic epochs of our country, the war of the revolution and that for the suppression of the rebellion, the one for its purpose and to give birth to the nation, the other to preserve it alive.

Those who go out from his home upon the eternal journey leave a place familiar and dear to him grow dim and become indistinct in the increasing distance, so down through the lengthening time, the great events and characters of the past recede before our sight, and let their images be blotted out from our hearts and we lose the effect of their examples upon our lives. So it is that the memories and lessons of loyalty, work was especially of interest to boys.

UNITY. The Grange entertainment here last Friday evening was a great success, netting about $27, which will be used to replenish the library. The Unity Band furnished fine music, and the programme included recitations and essays, all of which deserve complimentary mention. The following words of welcome were read by Sister Downs:

Worthy Master, Brothers, Sisters and Friends: In behalf of Harvest Moon Grange I extend to you all a most cordial welcome. We meet here this evening for a few hours of social reunion, for the social ties of the Grange are one of its most attractive features. There seems something pleasing, something nearer and dearer the hearts thus banded together, than is formed by the social relations of the outside world. We have stood at the same altar, taken the same obligations, and we feel that we are indeed Brothers and Sisters bound together by the strong ties of fraternal love. Friendships are formed here that will last through time, and stretch away and beyond into eternity. We, as members of the Grange, acknowledge the broad principle that difference of opinion is no crime, and hold that, "Progress toward truth is made by difference of opinion, while the fault lies in bitterness of controversy." We desire a proper equality, equity and fairness, protection for the weak, restraint upon the strong; in short, justly distributed burdens, and justly distributed power. These are American ideas, the very essence of American independence, and to advocate the contrary is unworthy the sons and daughters of an American Republic. We cherish the belief that sectionalism is, and of right should be dead and buried with the past. Our work is for the present and for the future. In our Agricultural Brotherhood we shall recognize no North, no South, no East and no West. Friends, we thank you for coming in this evening to help us in what we feel to be a worthy cause, for the Library, for which the funds received this evening are to be expended, needs replenishing. Books are needed among us, for although we are only farmers, we need that cultivation of mind that can be gained from the perusal of good books. It is true that the order of Patrons of Husbandry has not yet fulfilled the grand purposes of its founders. Progress has been made, the order has more solidity, more real influence, more power than in the past. A better day is coming doubtless, when the order of Patrons of Husbandry will be regarded as a beneficent influence, against which no sensible farmer will direct opposition.

Then hail to the day that is dawning,
Its herald star gleams on its now,
When beside the proud flag of our country,
Floats our banner, the sheaves and the plow.

And when, my friends, that day
Shall come, monopoly must cease,
Oppression must be rooted out
And in its place reign peace.

In the time of weary waiting,
Let no power our hearts estrange.
May God bless our Farmers
And! Yes! God bless our Grange.

Again, friends, I would thank you for your presence and attention and to the members of the Band, who have so generously contributed their time and talent for our pleasure and benefit, I would heartily thank you in behalf of Harvest Moon Grange.

SWANVILLE. The Union Sunday school at this place will close for the season next Sunday evening with a concert....Mrs. Rose Royal went to Unity Saturday to stop the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Riley Spinney.....J. H. Lane and F. E. Whitcomb of Searsport have been making improvements on their cottages at the Lake.....Miss Louise Cunningham has lately caused to be erected a fine monument on the family lot in the Swanville Cemetery near the church .... James A. Robertson, David and Bert Moody arrived home from Somes Sound Saturday.....About one year ago Lieut. Bowe delivered a lecture here on temperance. At that time Swan Lake Lodge I. O. G. T. was reorganized. Several of our citizens who had hitherto remained silent upon the temperance question placed their shoulders to the wheel and have given us material aid in advancing the noble cause in our town and vicinity. Search us where in the land of drink, ing and who bid fair to fill a drunkard's grave have had the protecting care and influence of the Lodge thrown around them, joined the order and firmly kept their pledge. During the present quarter two of the members chose sides and a lively interest has been manifested between the competitive sides, so much so that more than fifty members have "united their efforts with ours to drive intemperance from the land." Our only hope is that every member will stand firmly by the principle of our order and rigidly adhere to their pledge. In so doing we shall avoid all expulsion from the order for violation of the pledge. The army that was beaten merit a word of praise for the bountiful treat served last Saturday evening and the young ladies for their untiring efforts in decorating the hall for the occasion. The interior of the hall was neatly decorated. Over each window was an arch and in the window a wreath composed of evergreens. The C. T. and Y. T. stands were tastily decorated. Misses Maud Chase, Emma Bowen and Gertie Hutchinson procured the evergreens and completed the decorations without assistance....Farmers are complaining of the low price of hay....Chas. D. Cuttis arrived home Saturday from the Island where he has been at work.

Supreme Judicial Court.

JUDGE WALTON PRESIDING.

Clara E. Fuller vs. James Craig, M. D. Unity parties. On trial when the Journal went to press last week. The pltf's side, in substance was that she was suffering from a misplaced uterus, and that Dr. Craig, from a lack of ordinary skill and from neglect, treated her for inflammation of the bowels, liver trouble and other maladies. And through his ignorance of her true condition she had been made an invalid for life. The defence claimed that he was a physician of ordinary skill, being a graduate of the Maine Medical College. He was called to the pltf. May 1, 1888, when she complained of a pain in her neck and side. He found that the pltf. that she was suffering from uterine trouble, and in fact she did not then have any. Her symptoms were more of nervous prostration. Deft. treated pltf. successfully so that in July he left the case. Pltf. was then able to walk out and only needed toning up. Deft. was not again called to see pltf. until November. The pltf. then had the same general symptoms but more marked. He then adopted the same course of treatment that had proved successful in the first sickness. Dr. Billings was called during the pltf.'s illness and approved of the deft.'s course of treatment. Dr. Thomas also prescribed the same medicine. Subsequently Dr. S. W. Johnson of Belfast, made an examination and found the cause of pltf.'s illness. Much expert medical testimony was given in favor of the deft. The case was well tried and created much interest. The jury disagreed, standing nine for the pltf. and three for the deft. We learn that the case will come up again in January for trial. Thompson & Dunton for pltf. Fogler for deft.

Inhabitants of Brooks vs. Inhabitants of Knox. An action to recover $13.51, for pauper supplies furnished Augustus Penney, wife and child. It was admitted that the paupers, who were then living in Brooks, had a settlement in Knox. The family of Penney fell in distress in March and the overseers of the pltf. town furnished supplies from the store of A. E. Lane. The evidence was that the Penney family was provided for by the deft. town. The overseers said they had previous to said time had several interviews with Penney relative to supply the family with $1 per week, Mr. Penney saying that that amount would do, and that the overseers of Brooks had been forbidden to furnish supplies. Verdict for pltf. for $13.51. Thompson & Dunton for pltf. McLellan for deft.

Charles A. Gilchrist, Montville, vs. Charles W. Hussey, Jr., Action of trover for the recovery of the value, and a second count for damages sustained in withholding a colt. Deft. held pltfs. note for $75, and as security held a chattel mortgage on a mare and colt. Pltf. had made some payments, had sold a cow to deft. and on Sept. 30, 1888, left said the balance due was $25.50. In June last deft. went to pltfs. place and took away the colt, valued at $150. Pltf. says he then made a tender of $26. Subsequently the barn of Mr. Hussey burned down and the colt burned with it, together with many other horses perished. The defence was that Hussey had a right to take the colt and that the tender made did not cover the amount due. Verdict for pltf. in the sum of $121.80. Thompson & Dunton for pltf. S. S. Brown for deft.

The criminal docket was taken up Saturday. The first case was

State vs. Otis Heal of Lincolnville. Deft. was summoned as a juror before the County Commissioners' Jury. The summons was served on him at Camden, but he refused to obey it. At the present session of Court Heal was indicted. He pleaded not guilty and went to trial. His defence was that he was informed by a deputy sheriff, of Camden, that he had no right to obey it. The jury was out two hours and brought in a verdict of guilty. Judge Walton fined him $20 which he paid. County Attorney Sweetser for State. Thompson for deft.

State vs. John Carroll, of Lincolnville. Three indictments found last April—for common nuisance, common seller and for single sale. Carroll ran the Beach House at Lincolnville, and had had three indictments against him at the April term and five at the present term. He was arraigned only on the April indictments. For common nuisance he was fined $100 and in default of payment six months in jail. For a common seller $50 and costs and in addition thirty days in the county jail, and for single sale $100 fine and thirty days additional in jail. For single sale $100 fine and thirty days in jail.

State vs. Frank Nash of Belfast, on indictments found two years ago. Nash was formerly convicted and came before this court for sentence, his counsel surrendering him. For single sale, second offence under old law, he was fined $250 and in addition sixty days in the county jail. For common nuisance $100 and costs and in default of payment sixty days in jail.

State vs. Andrew J. Stevens, Belfast. An assault and the use of threatening language. Appealed from the Police Court. Mr. Walter B. Hackett was the complainant. The affair grew out of trouble caused by cattle of complainant getting on land of deft. Complainant alleged that during the 28th day of July last, while in the pasture deft. struck him with a stake and drawing a revolver threatened to shoot. Deft. claimed that complainant threw an axe on him and what he did was in self defence, and that the alleged revolver was a small drinking cup. Verdict for deft. County Attorney for State. Dunton for pltf.

State vs. John A. Patterson, larceny. Recognized in the sum of $500.

State vs. Frank N. Patten, assault and battery; continued.

DIVORCES.

Nathan Woodbury, Waldo, from Angella Woodbury, Belfast.

Ella M. Robinson, Belfast, from John F. Robinson, Belfast.

Rhoda M. Staples, Belfast, from Leander Staples, Belfast.

Court adjourned Monday afternoon.

Nearly every family in Belfast must be using Brussels soap (no rosin) judging from the large quantity A. A. Howes & Co. are selling.

Echoes from the Court House.

On Friday last an interesting trio was inside the bar at the Belfast Court House—ex-Attorney Generals W. H. McLellan, of Belfast, and Orville D. Baker, of Augusta, and the present Attorney General, Charles E. Littlefield, of Rockland. The first represented the brains of the Garcelon administration, made famous by the great count out; the second is one of the most brilliant lawyers in Maine, and as Attorney General added to his previous high reputation, while the last bids fair to rival his illustrious predecessors.

W. P. Thompson, Esq., of this city, will carry the dog case, West vs. Smith, to the law court on the construction the Judge placed on the statute. Judge Walton told the jury that if a dog was found worrying or killing sheep a person had the right to kill the dog while in the act, but he had no right to kill the dog after the act was committed. The owner of the sheep should then proceed against the owner of the dog for damages.

Mr. Charles Gilchrist, of Montville, the plaintiff in the suit, Gilchrist vs. Hussey, while in the witness stand Friday, was taken with a violent pain in his side and fell unconscious to the floor. He was carried to the jury room where he soon recovered.

After Otis Heal, of Lincolnville, had been convicted Saturday for disobeying a summons, Judge Walton addressed a few remarks to him, which were calculated to do much good in the community. The Judge said he wanted all to understand that a summons from the court could not be disregarded with impunity, and that ignorance was no excuse.

Quite an amusing conversation passed between the Judge and the prisoner. The Judge told Heal that he was a lawless man, but he would make the sentence light. "Had you rather pay a fine or go to jail?" asked the Judge. "It would be cheaper to go to jail," said Heal, "but make the fine as light as you can Judge, and I'll pay." "Twenty dollars," said the court. Heal walked up to the Clerk's desk and settled. Doubtless he will obey the next summons that is served upon him.

When Carroll came up for sentence his counsel remarked that he had not sold one-millionth part of the amount sold by Belfast rumsellers, but yet the latter were not indicted. "It is no excuse," said the Judge, "liquor sellers are actuated by unmitigated selfishness, for the profits gained only."

A year ago Brussels soap (no rosin) cost 10 cents a bar. To-day Swift & Paul are selling it for 8 cents, or 7 bars for 50 cents, and a patent soap tray free.

Waldo County Folks at a Montana House Warming

BILLINGS, MONT., Oct. 2, 1889. What a stir there was when Bert Shorey married Helen Simmons, who had come to Billings all the way from old Waldo to meet him! And such congratulations and cordial wishes for their success and happiness as followed them to "Hide Away Ranch," their new home in Lake Basin! Bert has recently built a first-rate house on his ranch, and to celebrate its completion a jolly crowd of neighbors and friends assembled at the ranch on Mrs. Shorey's 22d birthday, the 16th inst. There were there the bluff and hearty old Edward Barney, his refined and amiable wife and their son Snead; Johnny Simmons, the "card sharp," and Mrs. Simmons (keep it dark, but between looks at the handsome Helen the boys stole admiring glances at Mrs. Simmons and voted her a most graceful dancer); Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Becker and their little girl. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Patterson and little Erne t, Mr. and Mrs. Perley R. Lowell, bringing their little baby daughter, whose winning ways captivated all; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whitney and Delbert; Mr. and Mrs. Adam; Mrs. Cora Smart and her son Forrest; Mrs. Colburn, Miss Niles, Mr. James MacDonald, Mr. West, of Cannon Creek; Mr. Taylor, Mr. Macrdian; Mr. Shorey's brothers, J. Waldo and Raymond, and Mr. Charles P. Wells and Mr. Fred E. Cobb, of Boston.

First came a regular old-fashioned bill-up, appetizing and substantial; and didn't the mountain of good things melt down under the attacks of appetites sharpened by good health and long rides in the pure Montana air! Besides, the young folks wanted to lay in a stock to rely on to keep them up for dancing, later.

The inevitable waist game was soon under way. Mr. Becker, Miss Niles, Mr. Simmons and Mr. Wells' shirt waist just as naturally as ducks to water, and they kept up the heading with varying fortunes, till after midnight. A guessing game wherein Mrs. Simm ns conquered, some music attracted from a kind of earthen sweet potato by Mr. Cobb, corset solos, singing, &c., and then the young people got to dancing, and a high old time they had. Reels, quadrilles, waltzes, and all the many whirls a going kept them spinning till early morning. About midnight some of the older codgers went off up in the attic to try and get a little rest, but the youngsters wouldn't let 'em. When dancing and laughter seemed ineffectual the persuasive powers of an old cow chain were tried on the roof, supplemented with unearthly howls from a wheezy old brass horn. It is darkly hinted that Raymond Shorey was responsible for the latter outrage, and some of the codgers meditated plans for a lynching bee. It is also rumored that the chain gang, the tin can mob, and other Antiques and Horribles found able leaders in Mrs. Barney and Mrs. Whitney, who for the time relaxed the austerity of mature age and gave the youngsters the benefit of their extended experience.

They kept up the racket till sun-up, and then the coyotes might have seen team-loads of drowsy revellers slinking over the hills to their homes, each and all feeling that Mrs. Shorey's house-warming was a rousing success. The following sentiments were enthusiastically received:

Hurrah for Bert Shorey! He's always a trump!
And three cheers for Helen, fair, jolly and plump!

To Bert and to Helen all joy and success,
And may health, peace and comfort their daily life bless!

Obituary.

Died in Frankfort on the evening of Oct. 20th, at Hillside Farm, Mr. Otis Moore, aged 70 years and 5 months. Mr. Moore was in every way a man worthy of mention. He was born and lived with his father on the old homestead at the head of Swan Lake until 20 years of age, when he bought and settled on land adjoining, and by industry cleared and fenced with stone will a good farm and set out two orchards. The youngest orchard is now the best bearing orchard in town. He lived on the place until the year 1858, when he became involved by sickness in his family. He was a man who had his share of hard luck and misfortunes as the world will show. He sent all his bills embarked for California in the gold fever excitement. He crossed the Isthmus on mules, with a guide, and one man in the company who fell behind was killed by the natives. He arrived safely, however, and went into the mines, working with his brother Lorenzo D., who had been there some time. The climate soon began to tell on him and chronic diarrhoea reduced him from 160 to 90 pounds. The doctor told him there was only one chance for him, and that was taking calomel. He took it and saved his life and got about and began work in the mines again with his brother. The calm began to pay better as water was coming on, but the times were the hardest known in the mines. Flour was $80 per barrel, butter $1 per pound, and everything else in proportion. After awhile a new and still better paying claim was bought and he began to send home money to pay for his farm and other debts. He was in California two years and a half when he got ready and embarked for home in the ill-fated steamer Yankee Blade. When a short distance out from San Francisco with 500 passengers the steamer struck on a rock and was a total loss, and in the excitement of hauling on a small island with boats quite a number, including women and children, were left. Mr. Moore was one of the last that left the steamer, and lost everything except the clothing he had on. The passengers were taken from the island and carried back to San Francisco. Mr. Moore returned to the mines and remained another year with fair luck in mining and then embarked on an other steamer at San Francisco for home. This steamer struck a rock on the way out of the harbor and the passengers were transferred to another steamer on which the passage was safely made to the isthmus, and home was at last reached with a heart thank God for being preserved on land and sea. Mr. Moore was the oldest of a family of nine children, five of whom are now living. He was the father of a family of nine children, six of whom survive him. The oldest is the wife of Mr. Freeman Partridge, of Evergreen Farm, Prospect. His son Howard is on the old homestead. He is a brother of John and Lorenzo D. Moore, and of James Downs, all of Monroe, and his sister Emeline was the first wife of Joel W. Low, of Winterport, a brother of Fred Low, formerly Governor of California and Minister Plenipotentiary to China.

Mr. Moore began to fail in health last April, but still continued to work at intervals during the summer and fall until October, when a physician was called to attend him. He appeared to improve for a short time, but began to fail again Sunday, the day before he died, at night, and told his friends that he should not stand it long if he did not get help. At night he seemed to be as well as during the day, and took his usual cup of tea and went to bed, leaving his daughter until one of the neighbors came to set up with him. When the daughter came into the room he was resting easily. She went out again but soon heard a strange noise, and hastened into his room, calling her brother, who came quickly and raised him up, when he immediately passed away. Mr. Moore professed religion at 18 years of age and united with the Methodist Church at North Searsport with his wife, and was one of the pioneers of that church, remaining a faithful member until about 1856 when he became an Adventist which faith he held firmly to until his death, saying to his friends before that he died: "I think this is my last sickness, but I am not afraid to die. I have trusted in God in life and I know he will not fail me in death."

Mr. Moore was a great reader of the Bible and of modern and ancient history and could remember dates. His great theme was prophecy in the Bible. He did not fear to give a reason for his faith when asked by either sceptic or infidel. He was strictly honest in his dealings, a kind husband and father, and will be much missed in the community where he resided. Of him it may be truly said he was cut down like a shock of corn fully ripe for the harvest. The church of which he was a member has lost one of its brightest lights true to the last. He a soldier and died at his post. The funeral was held at his old home Wednesday, Oct. 23d, by Rev. L. E. Pendleton, of West Winterport, officiating.

Skins on Fire

Agonizing, Itching, Burning, and bleeding Eczema in its worst stages. A raw sore from head to feet. Hair gone. Doctors and hospitals fail. Tried everything. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies for $6.

Cured by Cuticura.

I am cured of a loathsome disease, eczema, in its worst stage. I tried different doctors and been through the hospital, but all to no purpose. The disease covered my whole body from the top of my head to the soles of my feet. My hair all came out, leaving me a complete mass of sores. After trying everything I heard of your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, with CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, I found myself cured at the cost of about $6. I would not be without the CUTICURA REMEDIES in my house, as I find them useful in many cases, and I think they are the only skin and blood medicines

ISAAC H. GERMAN, Wurtsboro, N. Y.

Burning and Itching

I was sick in the fall of 1878 with a burning and itching so bad that in three weeks I was completely with a rash, and could not sleep nights or work days. Some doctors thought it might be salt rheum or eczema, and said they had never seen anything like it before. I received no help from any of them, or from any medicine that I could get of any of until I tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES. After three weeks' use I was able to work, and kept getting better until I was entirely cured. I recommend them to all suffering with skin diseases.

C. E. OSMER, Tallmadge, O.

Most Intense Itching

I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES so much for my baby, who was afflicted with the most intense itching that he got no sleep day or night. The burning, and my baby's skin is entirely healed.

MARY KELLERMANN, Delphi, Ind.

MANY A LIFE

HAS been saved from a premature grave by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills, which relieve and cure Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels. While, if neglected, many of these troubles would result in fatal illness, the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills will assure perfect health and prevent sickness. Mrs. Mary Hall, Lowell, Mass., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills in my family for years, and consider them an excellent medicine for the purposes for which they are recommended. I have also found them a reliable remedy for colds and fevers." W. L. Woodson, Fort Worth, Texas, says: "I have used Ayer's Pills in my practice for years, and find them reliable and efficient. They are the best cathartic I have ever used, and I can recommend them to my friends and the public." Mueller, Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., write: "We have been selling Ayer's Pills for years, and they have always given satisfaction. They are the best pill we have ever handled, and we can recommend them to be all they are represented." Miles Hazel, Excelsior Springs, Mo., says: "I have used Ayer's Pills in my practice for years, and find them reliable and efficient. They are the best cathartic I have ever used, and I can recommend them to my friends and the public." Literary News and Notes.

Frederick Douglass's daughter is going to write a novel in which a colored man will be the hero.

Rev. Herbert D. Ward, husband of Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, has written a story of school life at Andover.

An Englishman who recently conversed with Tennyson writes that the American literary friend that the Poet Laureate is aging rapidly.

The Forest and Stream Publishing Co., of New York, announces for immediate publication "Pan-Ke-Hee Stories and Folk-Tales," by George Bird Grinnell. The book is said to present a faithful delineation of the Indian's character and his daily life.

Biographical sketches of three Maine poets—Mrs. Caroline Dana Howe, the late David Barker and Miss Kate Vannah—appear in the Magazine of Poetry for October. The poetical selections include Mrs. Howe's famous epic, "Leaf by Leaf the Roses Fall," which has been very widely read and sung.

"The decadence of farming," as shown by the decline of farms for sale and the prevalence of farm mortgages, will be explained by Mr. Joel Benton in the November "Popular Science Monthly." The writer maintains that the unwise taxation bear more heavily on the owners than on the occupants of soil.

Edward Atkinson has contributed an article on "The Art of Cookery," which will open the November "Popular Science Monthly." In it he points out what enormous quantities of food and fuel are wasted in ordinary cooking, and describes the "fireless cooker" recently invented by him, which need but a wonderfully small quantity of oil or gas, and can not "spoil the food."

Shooting, fishing, trapping, coasting, camping, dogs, boating and yachting, health hints and remedies, flies and fly-making, and many other topics are discussed in Forest and Stream, edited by Charles Hallock. Any one interested in all or any of them, or from any medicine that I could get of any of until I tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES. After three weeks' use I was able to work, and kept getting better until I was entirely cured. I recommend them to all suffering with skin diseases.

C. E. OSMER, Tallmadge, O.

I have used the CUTICURA REMEDIES so much for my baby, who was afflicted with the most intense itching that he got no sleep day or night. The burning, and my baby's skin is entirely healed.

LURE.

Failure — Power and Heart Action the Trouble with Thousands.

Palpitation, Neuralgia of Heart, Nervousness and Exhaustion.

Failure or weakness of heart action is becoming a very prevalent disease. It is a most serious and dangerous condition to be in, and gradually runs into palpitation, spasms or neuralgia of the heart, total exhaustion or nerve power or death. At the first sign of these dread diseases every one should immediately seek a cure and not wait until the fatal symptoms point unmistakably to death.

The first symptoms may be very slight and apparently trivial. But do not fail to heed them if you value your life. They often begin with a nervousness and weakness, a trembling or strange fatal feeling, with tendency to giddiness. As the disease increases these symptoms grow in intensity and will be accompanied by dizziness, swimming of the head, fluttering or palpitation in the left side of the chest, shortness of breath, a sinking sensation, with coldness of the feet and legs. There is often also a feeling of oppression or anxiety as of impending danger, and a tendency to drowsiness during the day and sleeplessness at night.

A little over-exertion, excitement or caution may bring on the attacks at any time. Suddenly rising from a stooping or reclining position will cause dizziness, and rapidly climbing stairs will make the heart palpitate, produce weariness and shortness of breath. In some cases there are pains in the region of the heart, but in most cases there is no pain whatever.

If you are effected by these symptoms lose no time in seeking a cure, for a cure is not only possible but sure if you use Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great and wonderful discovery for heart, blood and nerves. It is purely vegetable and harmless, and its use offers the only sure hope of curing these terrible diseases and averting the fatal result. It is, we unhesitatingly affirm, a remedy of so great merit and marvelous virtues that no sufferer should neglect to use it, if a safe and sure cure is desired.

No Other Remedy in the World Ever Had Such a Testimonial as This.

For the benefit of those who may be suffering and fail to find relief I desire to state my case. For seven years I suffered from a HEART DISEASE, a constant pain with severe attacks of palpitation, until I extirpated a tumor about that time I became weak and debilitated, a victim to nervousness, sleeplessness, &c. Hearing Dr. Greene's lecture, he so faithfully described my condition, that I determined to try Dr. Greene's Nervura. My improvement has been continuous and rapid. I have taken five bottles, and the pain and palpitation are gone. I sleep well, have an excellent appetite, and I feel well. Let me state that previous to taking Dr. Greene's Nervura I had paid out during this year over two hundred dollars in doctors' bills, and constantly grew worse.

A Letter to Mothers

about CROUP,

By Rev. ALBERT GOULD,

The well known Pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, East Cambridge, Mass.

"I first used this article in my family in 1881 as a remedy for Croup, with which our children had been greatly afflicted that time.

From the day when the first bottle came into my family, as a donation, for trial, we never had any trouble with Croup, though the children were frequently attacked by it all through their childhood.

As soon as it announced itself in the well-known frightful sound, we promptly administered one teaspoonful, and in no instance did it fail of curing the Croup in our family. When I had occasion to visit families recommended it, and in every instance, on my pastoral visitation, and, if I found no in the drug stores, I used to call on Mrs. Howe, of ——, for a bottle, as she was always ready for such calls of mercy, when wanted, and did for many years, in the good old Christian way of doing good. In this way, I have advised this medicine for over 20 years, and I hereby declare that I have never known a single instance of its failure to cure.

A frightened mother came telling me two months ago that one of her little children were frequently with Croup, and required the services of the physician often in the night. On my advice he procured a bottle of Ingalls' Specific, and he left me that it does the work every time, just as I said it had done in our experience.

I cannot say what it will do for other ailments, as I have not had occasion to use it in other cases, but can recommend the above statement to those concerning the Croup, and I hope, for the benefit of suffering children, you will publish this testimony everywhere.

Sincerely and faithfully yours,
ALBERT GOULD.

Searsport Locals.

Capt. W. V. Nichols is visiting relatives here.

Capt. E. K. Park has bought the celebrated Bassick mare.

George Sargent, who has been at work at Salem, arrived home last week.

Capt. S. N. McGilvery arrived home Monday evening from New York.

Sch. W. S. Doughton, Capt. Alfred Closson, sailed for New York Monday.

The evening services at both churches hereafter will be opened at 6 30 standard time.

Thomas R. Merrithew has been admitted a member of the sailors snug Harbor New York.

On several very dark nights this week some of the street lamps have not been lighted—Why?

The lecture in the Methodist Church last Thursday evening by Rev. C. S. Cummings, of Rockland, was much enjoyed.

Capt. G. A. Carver, John V. Barnes, A. D. Carver, M. T. Plummer and Benjamin Kingsbury were in town this week.

Frank Drake left by train Wednesday morning for Auburn, where he has secured a position in one of the large shoe factories there.

Lucy J., wife of James B. Sweetser died Sunday aged 49 years. The funeral took place Wednesday from her late residence in the east village.

Capt. John A. Partridge will leave for Fort Payne, Ala., next week where he has a situation with a large mill company in that place.

The morning mail is not closed until five o'clock A. M. Letters dropped into the inside box any time in the night will go out in the morning mail.

N. Ruolstone has a little dollar and a half clock that he used in the post office, that never stopped during the four years that he ran the office.

There will be preaching service next Sunday evening at the Methodist Church, to which all are cordially invited. The morning service will be omitted on account of memorial service at the Cong. Church.

A memorial service will be conducted by Rev. R. G. Harbutt, assisted by Rev. N. LaMarsh, at the Cong. Church next Sunday morning in honor of Capt. C. Nickels. There will be no service in the M. E. Church in the morning.

Miss Phebe Clifford, who has been ill for a long time, has so far recovered as to be able to take private scholars. We are very glad of this, and it will afford an excellent opportunity for parents to send their little ones for private tuition.

Capt. Melville Nichols will take steamer City of Kingston, recently bought by the Oregon Steam Navigation Co., to Puget Sound, where she will ply in the Sound. The Kingston is one of the fastest of the Hudson River boats, is side wheel and about twelve hundred tons.

Capt. Ingraham of steamer Pendoscot on his arrival at this port here Thursday on learning of the death of Capt. Nickels at once ordered the colors hoisted half mast, and on the day of the funeral flags on sch. W. S. Doughton and on several staffs in town were displayed at half mast.

George E. Merrill is at work upon the moulds of a six hundred ton schooner to be built next season in Nickerson's yard for Capt. Wm. R. Gilkey. The model of the hull of the last mentioned craft will be the largest schooner ever built here. Probably this is only the forerunner of others soon to follow.

The concert to raise funds to pay the expenses of Searsport's representative at the A. R. hall Friday evening, Nov. 1. A sociable will be given after the concert. The entertainment no doubt will be a very interesting one as a very energetic committee of young ladies and gentlemen from the high school have the matter in hand. It is hoped a large number will be in attendance as the object is a noble one. Admission 20 cents; children under 12 years 10 cents.

OBITUARY. Died in Searsport Oct. 24th, 1889, Hon. Jonathan C. Nickels, aged 62 years, 3 mos. and 24 days. Capt. Nickels was the third of twelve children of his father, David Nickels, and his mother Catherine H. Clifford, seven of whom are still living. He was born in Searsport June 29th, 1827. Early in life he chose the sea for a business, rapidly rising in his profession. He soon became master, sailing to many foreign lands. He commanded nine different vessels as follows: Brigs Catherine Nickels and George Amos, bark Sarah C. Nickels, ships Emperor, Will Rogers, Rockaway, Moonlight, E. Sherman and Henrietta. He retired from the seabout 1866, but made one voyage afterward in ship Henrietta. He was engaged in ship building for a time and also acted as agent for many vessels in which he was interested. He married 8Sarah A. Friend 8Sarah A. Friend, who died 1878, he married Henrietta K. Thompson who with his adopted daughters, Blanche and Inez, survive him. He served two years in the house of representatives, 1886 and 1887, and was elected to the Senate for the terms 1887-88, 1889-90. He was chairman of the committee on commerce in both sessions and also served on committees on engrossed bills, Federal Relations, Mercantile affairs, State College, Insurance and Public Buildings. Although Capt. Nickels had only the advantages of a common school education his habits of general reading, a retentive memory, and his large and varied associations with men of business and intelligence in all parts of the world, gave him opportunities of acquiring knowledge of which he was not slow to take advantage, and he was very correct in writing or speaking. He never sought to make himself conspicuous or to give publicity to his attainments or labors. Not a great talker, he was a good listener, and thereby acquired valuable opinions upon most subjects whether of public or private interest, which he had the tendency of expressing and standing by when he felt called upon and deemed it proper. The result of his sagacity and correct business qualities was a judiciously invested estate probably exceeding that of any other in town. He was a valued member of Mariners Lodge F. & A. M. and lived close to the tenets of the order, as many worthy suffering brethren can testify. If at home and able to be about he never failed to be present at the funeral of a brother lodge man. He attended the Congregational church, and unless prevented by absence or some other unavoidable circumstance was always in his pew an interested and attentive hearer of the word. He will be missed by the society, as he gave with a liberal hand to any object so near to his heart as the religion of his fathers. The funeral services took place Sunday afternoon from his late residence and were conducted by Rev. R. G. Harbutt, assisted by Rev. N. La Marsh. A very large concourse of people was in attendance. Mariners Lodge, assisted by brethren from Phoenix and Timothy Chase Lodges of Belfast and Pownal Lodge of Stockton to the number of eighty-five, escorted the remains to the cemetery, where Col. W. H. Fogler impressively performed the beautiful Masonic service.

DISASTERS. Brig H. B. Hussey at Charleston Oct. 23 from Boston, encountered a hurricane from the northwest, 80 miles N. of Hatteras, which lasted 12 hours. The Hussey stove stern, boat and rail, broke wheel and skylight and flooded cabin, wetting stores, &c.... The lumber steamship City of Brooklyn has been lost at sea, and most of the crew perished.... The sch. Martha N. Hall, of Boston, is given up for lost. She was last seen off Fire Island Sept. 9, in rough water.... The sch. Lizzie S. Haynes, cast ashore on Bodies Island, is chiefly owned in Augusta, although hailing from Bath, Manchester Haynes, George E. Weeks and Orville D. Baker, being among the owners. Their interests are partially insured.... A small schooner belonging to Stephen Morey, of West Deer Island, broke from her moorings Sunday evening and drifted out to sea. Nothing has been heard from her since. She was loaded with canned fish from the factory. There was no insurance on vessel or cargo ... Sch. Frank Maria, Capt. Chas. R. Smith, went ashore Sunday night on Odlornes Point, at the mouth of Portsmouth lower harbor. The captain and crew of four men were rescued by the life saving men in a completely exhausted condition. The schooner was loaded with coal, consigned to H. M. Curtis, Newcastle. She was built at Orland, Me., in 1861, and hails from Ellsworth. She will probably prove a total wreck ...Sch C H Sprague, Nickerson, from Hoboken for Boston, while making a harbor at City Island, the 25th, fouled with sch. Amie R. Lewis, of Bucksport, and carried away flying jibboom and headgear. The top works of the Lewis were damaged only to a slight extent. ...The sch Isaac Oberton, Capt. Trim, from Bangor for Philadelphia, with a cargo of lumber, went ashore Tuesday morning on the north bar at Townsends Inlet.

FREIGHTS. The Freight Circular of Snow & Burgess, New York, reports for the week ending Oct. 26: The prominent feature of the market this week has again been a scarcity of long voyage sailing vessels and of transient steamers for prompt and early loading, for both of which classes of tonnage a good enquiry has prevailed, and generally at strong figures. Quite a number of sailing vessels and two or three steamers to arrive have been fixed with case oil for China, Japan and East Indies at about the best rates recently current. Indeed, for one or two spot ships a slight advance has been paid, namely 3s cents hence to Japan, and 35@36 to Java & River Plate and Brazil trades are quiet, there being comparatively few orders for lumber in the market. Vessels suitable for the West Indies and Gulf trades are still in moderate supply, and rates both outward and homeward have a steady support. Business, however, has not been very brisk. Coastwise Lumber Freights are fairly well sustained from the lower Atlantic ports, whilst from the Gulf they are inclined to yield a little, under increased offers of tonnage at and bound to West India ports, which is partly a consequence of decreased enquiry for the River Plate. Other Coastwise Freights are firm, especially for Coal, with a good demand, current collier rates hence to Boston and vicinity ranging from $1.15 to $1.30. Charters—Sch. Addie G. Bryant from Sabine Pass to Minatitlan (two trips) lumber, $12. Sch. Wyer G. Sargent, same voyage, (two trips) $12. Sch. Sarah D. J. Rawson, same voyage, (one trip), $12. Sch. Willie L. Newton, New York to Point a Petre, general cargo, private terms. Sch. Matilda Brooks, from Mobile to north side Jamaica, lumber, private terms. Sch. Lizzie Lane from Jacksonville to St. Thomas, lumber, $10. Sch. Norombega, New York to Brunswick, rails, $1 45, thence to St. Michaels, lumber $14 50. Brig John H. Crandon, from Montevideo to a port north of Hatteras, private terms. Br Bk Lima, from Boston to Buenos Aryes lumber, $11. Bk Henry Norwell, from Boston to Wilmington, N. C., cement, 19 cts. Sch. Willie L. Newton, from Mobile to New York, lumber, $8 37½ —free wharfage. Sch. H. J. Cottrell, New York to Galveston, general cargo, private terms.

LAUNCHED. The four-masted schooner Millie G. Bowne, launched Oct. 26 from the yard of H. M. Bean, Camden, is the largest four-masted vessel in salt water ever launched. She is twelve feet shorter than the five masted Governor Ames and the same depth of hold. The dimensions are: keel, 220 feet; breadth, 47 feet; depth, 21½ feet; length over all, 249 feet. The lower masts are 107 feet; topmasts, 56 feet; jibboom, 74 feet; spanker boom, 75; gaffs, 44 feet. The sails spread eight thousand yards and were made by George W. Rogers, of Boston. The frame is of Virginia white oak, heavily planked with hard pine; ceiling and yellow pine. She is thoroughly built. The boss was J. C. Dutch; the boss joiner was H. C. Small; boss fastener, Creamer; boss blacksmith, Sides; upholstered by J. B. Dunton, of Camden; rigged by Albert D. Low, of Boston; blocks, windlass, gangways, winches and wheel were made by Kneeland Bros., of Camden. The anchors were bought of the U. S. Navy, and weigh sixty seven hundred pounds. The chains are two and a quarter inch, made in Columbus, Ohio. She has a hoisting engine, three steam wrecking pumps and is heated by steam. The cabins are elegantly furnished, including hot and cold baths, fine medicine closet put up by Rose Bros., of Camden, and windows of plate glass. All the appointments of the vessel are of the best, and she reflects much credit on the master builder, H. M. Bean, and all concerned. Her net tonnage is 1,256.47, and cost about $70,000. She is owned in part by Capt. A. R. Wixon, who will command her; W. B. Bowne, E. E. Croswell, of West Bounds, Mass.; John M. Ward and George W. Rogers, of Boston; Frederick Bowne, of Flushing, L. I., and others. The Megunticook Band, eighteen pieces, played at the launching and accompanied the vessel to Boston on Monday, Oct. 28, on the owners' excursion party, in tow of the tug N. P. Boane, of Boston.... The three-masted schooner Montana was launched Saturday at the New England yard, Bath. She was built for H. P. Dyer & Co., of New York, for the Central American trade. She is the 2231 vessel launched from the yard. Net tonnage, 358. At the Crosby yard, the Alice B. Crosby, owned in Bath; net tonnage, 1,064.52, a four-master for general coast trade, was launched. This is the third double launch this year...Launched from the yard of W. Welt & Co., Waldoboro, a fine four-masted schooner of 1,180 tons net. The frame is of Virginia white oak, planked and ceiled with yellow pine. She is owned by parties in Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Maine. She is a very thoroughly built vessel and is to be commanded by Capt. Joseph D. Sproul, of Bristol. She is to be called the Augustus Welt, in honor of one of the old firm of Reed, Welt & Co., for many years extensively engaged in shipbuilding... Launched from Russell's yard at East Deering, a schooner of 500 tons, owned by J. S. Winslow & Co., and Capt. M. M. Gould, who will command her.

VINALHAVEN. The ladies of the Odd Fellows gave a circle levee at Star of Hope Lodge hall last Thursday evening which netted $90. The hall was well filled and everything passed off pleasantly. Eugene Sprague guessed the weight of the pig and Johnnie West got the rooster. George Glun held the number that drew the silver cake basket. The entertainment was very fine. Following is the full programme: 1. Polka Odora, (Trio) Violin, Cornet and Piano, Pierce, Lyons and Mr. Thomaston, by Pettee. 2. Song, Sweet Eyes of Irish Blue, John E. Tolman, by Canning. 3. Banjo solo, The Darkey's Dream, Miss Edith Ames, by Shadrick. 4. Song, Laddie, Mrs. H. E. Williams, by Pairpoint. 5. Recitation, Jamie Douglass, Carrie Crockett. 6. Male Chorus, 7. Organ Solo, Indian Mail Galop, Miss Linda Jones, Lunothe. 8. Song, Margarete, Mr. Neil Kessell, C. A. White. 9. Recitation, Monas Water, Miss Edith Ames. 10. Song, A Bird in Hand, Mrs. Axel Leaf, Rockel. 11. Song, They all Love Jack, Will J. Cornes. 12. Trio, Warrior's Dream, Theme and Var, for Cornet, Ripley. ....John Lowe, Superintendent of the Bodwell Granite Company Works, is in New York on business....Rev. Mr. Kimball, of Rockland, preached a very able sermon here on Sunday....The Union Church Sewing Circle holds its regular meeting this Thursday evening, Oct. 31....Geo. Mills had eleven sheep killed by dogs last Friday. ....A dispatch from Rockland dated Oct. 29, says: "Frank Roberts, of Vinalhaven, attempted to commit suicide last evening by taking carbolic acid. He has been a fast young man and has been drinking considerable of late. It is thought that this was the trouble. He was improving at last reports."

Boston Produce Market.

BOSTON, Oct. 23, 1889. Receipts of strictly fair fresh creamery butter were cleaned up pretty well yesterday at 23 to 24 cents, with 25 cents for a few fancies, but all other kinds of butter ruled dull and in buyers' favor.

Cheese ruled quiet, with sales only in lots as wanted for immediate use. Best fall factory 10½ to 11 cent per pound. In the country bids were lower than last week.

Eggs were steady on all fresh gathered stock, which sold at 23 to 24 cents per dozen, including Western and Michigan. Strictly fresh Eastern were worth 25 to 26 cents, but held and ice-house stock were dull at 22 cents and under.

Beans and potatoes easy. Apples in fair demand at previous prices.

FOR DRY GOODS

THE STORE IN MASONIC TEMPLE.

The Next Two Weeks

will be a time of unusual interest to shoppers at our store.

Don't think of buying until you have seen the goods we have to offer. We are glad to have you look at them whether you care to buy them or not, although they ARE FOR SALE if you want to buy.

We cannot describe goods, at least in popular fashion---in an advertisement---but they are worth your careful attention.

This is no idle talk of vain advertising (we have learned the nonsense of that) but sober truth based on what we KNOW.

While we desire to call your attention to every thing in our store from DRESS GOODS to the smallest articles in stock, we wish to enlarge upon TWO things, especially

OUR SHAWLS

—AND—

OUR BLANKETS!

A. P. MANSFIELD,

Masonic Temple.

Don't use rosin soaps when you can buy 7 bars of Brussels soap (which contains no rosin) for 50 cents, at A. A. Howes & Co's.
