

Letter From Missouri.

The Elections. Prohibition is Marching on. Crops and Prices. The European War.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL. The time for the election of a president has passed. It came and went last Tuesday, the seventh inst., but as I write, five days later, the result is still somewhat in doubt; so much so that our good Democratic friends who had intended celebrating the event last Wednesday night have postponed the celebration until they are sure that the shouting will be in full accord with the facts. Personally I did not vote for Mr. Wilson, but the present trend of events seems to indicate that we are in for four more years of "watchful waiting." If a majority of the people "love to have it so" the minority must gracefully submit to what the majority declares to be its will. Locally we had every opportunity of forming an intelligent decision as to the merits of the case. Some able speakers were on the platform here, including Mr. Hughes himself, who spoke to a very large audience in Convention Hall, and made a very favorable impression upon those, or most of those, who heard him; myself among the number. One of my men who failed to hear him had the privilege of shaking his hand and receiving three buttons from the hand of Mrs. Hughes.

Mr. Fairbanks, candidate for Vice President, was a speaker the night the returns from Maine came in. One speaker brought down the house by a guarantee that Maine would give Hughes and Fairbanks a majority of thirteen thousand, and before the meeting was brought to a close it was reported that he was a pretty good guesser. Dr. John Wesley Hill, a Methodist minister from New York, spoke twice in the city. I was privileged to hear him once. His address was eloquent, entertaining and instructive. People sat silently listening to his speech for more than two hours and were sorry when he closed. I did not hear one speech from the opposite side, as only one speaker attracted my attention and I was not in a position to hear him.

Missouri is getting to be a close State, but not sufficiently close to awaken the intense interest and desperate effort which you will find in Indiana, where the contest is intense. Here there were no torch-light processions nor anything like the enthusiasm which the Bryan contest awakened. There was shouting then, but the votes were lacking in the count.

In Missouri the voters elected a Democratic governor, but the race was a close one, Gardner receiving only a few hundred more votes than Judge Lamm. The liquor interests of St. Louis turned the tide in favor of Gardner, who announced himself as desperately opposed to the principle of prohibition. Rapid strides in favor of a constitutional amendment in opposition to the liquor traffic had, however, been made since the last election on the subject in Kansas City, Springfield, and other of the large cities of the State. But for the large vote in favor of the liquor traffic in St. Louis the friends of temperance would have carried the State. The cause, however, is marching on and will ultimately prevail. Locally Greene county is dry outside of the city of Springfield.

So far as weather is concerned we have had an unusually dry season. For about three months we have had but little rain; not enough to soften the ground and make good plowing for the winter wheat crop. At the present time the streams are low and the ponds mainly dry. The water we have, however, is of first class quality, clear and palatable.

Business conditions are very trying. Prices of the necessities of life are very high and soaring higher with the passing of nearly every day. Many articles of daily need have advanced in price from fifty to one hundred per cent, during the last twelve months. Corn crops are now selling at $2.05 per hundred, bran at $1.65, oats at 65 cents per bushel, and meats and other things in about the same proportion. Automobiles keep high, but the number in demand is constantly on the increase. This city is thronged with them; more particularly at the present time with the jitneys. For several weeks the traction companies employees have been on a strike, and the jitneys are reaping a harvest, greatly to the inconvenience of the traveling public. Unionism is strong in the city and very few persons in the north part of the city ride in the cars. We are very close to the verge of a coal famine. In Oklahoma the miners are on a strike, in other States the shortage of cars has sadly diminished the supply. I had personally an order in for one car per week of one grade of coal from the State of Illinois, but my last shipment was made on the tenth of October. The result is greatly increased prices. As I look out upon the future, although I am not strongly inclined to be pessimistic in my views, I do so with deep solicitude. If the European war should soon come to an end thousands of men would be thrown out of employment and the consequences would be of a most appalling character. Amidst all, the theatres, the movies, and the saloons continue to do a thriving business.

A Head Full of Ache

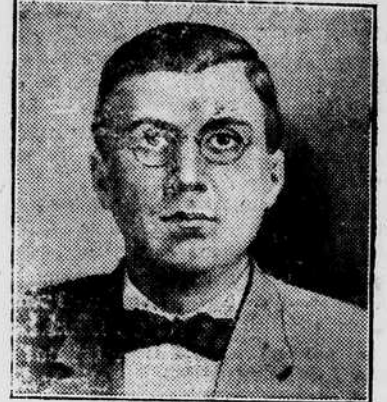

There are many forms of headache, but the sick headache is about the worst ever. When it once fastens on you, it lasts a good while, unless you know how to get rid of it. Sick headache usually comes from the stomach or liver, and you must help these organs before the head can be relieved. A few doses of "L. F." Atwood's Medicine will put your stomach to rights, regulate the bile, and act on the bowels. As soon as good order is secured, the dizzy feeling and nagging pain will leave your head, and soon you will be as well as ever. No medicine is better for sick headache or biliousness.

SAVED FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE

Mr. Henry Dater, of Troy, N.Y. Now Appreciates The Powers Of "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Mr. Dater is a firm friend of "Fruit-a-Tives". He believes in the healing and restoring powers of these wonderful tablets made from fruit juices. He knows—because he tried "Fruit-a-Tives" when he was ill and suffering, and is in a position to speak with authority.

form of government for several months and the results are of a very gratifying character. Taxes are not quite as high and the debts of the city have been decreased.

The tragic war in Europe is still making demands upon the western States for horses. Yesterday 400 horses were unloaded at the stock yards on the Frisco R. R. to be fed while on their way to the coast. This terrible war has flooded this land with money. It has made our farmers and many of our business men rich, but at what a fearful cost to the contending forces. The outlook is not very encouraging for the dawning of the day when they shall "beat their swords into plowshares" and their spears into pruning hoes." It is only to the eye of faith that such a day can be said to be in sight. What a dreadful calamity is a modern war. It make one heart sick to read the dreadful story at a distance of three thousand miles; but what must it be to be a participant in the terrible carnage, or a sojourner in the land in which the struggle is going on. What a terrible responsibility must rest upon the shoulders of those who are responsible for its existence. I am glad that I am not in it and am sorry for those who are. Whether the statement be a fact or fiction, the reiteration that the President "kept us out of war" did have, undoubtedly, much to do with the size of the Democratic vote in the recent election. That a better day may soon dawn, let us earnestly hope and fervently pray.

Mr. Hughes Congratulates President Wilson.

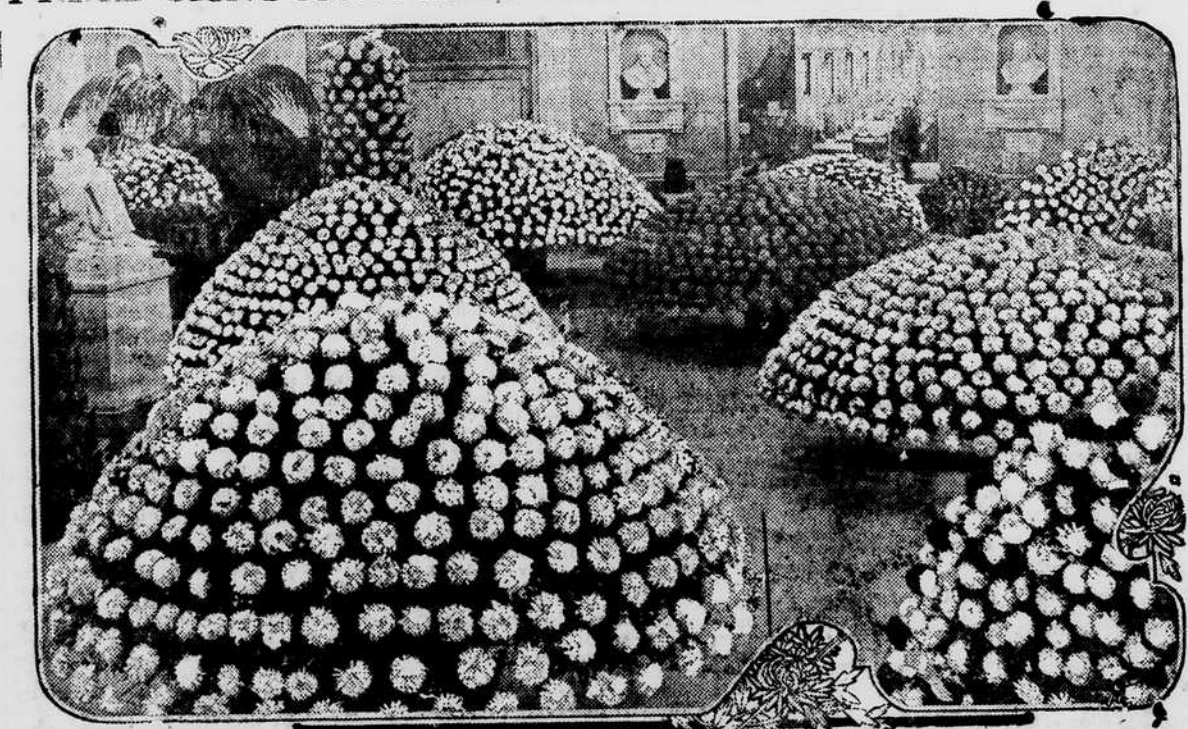

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Nov. 22. Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for President in the recent election, today sent to President Wilson a telegram congratulating him upon his re-election. In his telegram Mr. Hughes said: "Because of the closeness of the vote I have awaited the official count in California and now that it has been virtually completed permit me to extend congratulations upon your re-election. I desire also to express my best wishes for a successful administration."

Thursday President Wilson sent the following telegram to Mr. Hughes: "I am sincerely obliged to you for your message of congratulation. Allow me to assure you of my good wishes for the years to come."

Rid Your Child of Worms.

Thousands of children have worms that sap their vitality and make them listless and irritable. Kickapoo Worm Killer kills and removes the worms and has a tonic effect on the system. Does your child eat spasmodically? Cry out in sleep or grind its teeth? These are symptoms of worms and you should find relief for them at once. Kickapoo Worm Killer is a pleasant remedy. PRIZE CHRYSANTHEMUMS AS BIG AS YOUR HEAD

Flowers worth thousands of dollars were placed on public view in the American Museum of Natural History, New York, for a brief exhibition. They included chrysanthemums as big as a man's head, orchids of every known variety, roses of every hue but blue, carnations, begonias, dahlias and simple pinks. The chrysanthemum plants in the picture, each with hundreds of blooms, won prizes.

A Home Letter.

MY DEAR JOURNAL: In the midst of November we are in winter. The ground is covered with snow and it is very good sleighing. The air is full of the jingle of sleigh bells, and there is nothing in the landscape to indicate that it is November instead of January. The morning paper says that this is the earliest winter that Maine has known for forty years. Yes; it was just about forty years ago that two little red-mitted maids started out with brooms in their hands, some time before Thanksgiving, to sweep the snow from the surface of the frog pond, so that it might not interfere with their skating. It was a great undertaking, but they loved to skate, and the snow had come too early, just as it has done this year. They worked hard and long and accomplished their task. Late in the afternoon the shining surface of the frog pond lay ready for the ring of skates and the gathering of the merry young people, with whom in those days skating was as popular as it is with the young people of today. Strange to relate, however, nobody came. The two industrious little maids had the frog pond all to themselves. The frog pond had been outgrown. It had always been large enough before, but this year the march of progress had begun. The Red Bridge stream was dangerous. The little maids had never ventured upon its enticing surface in all their lives. This year it was different. Everybody—which meant all the big boys and girls as well as the little ones—had gone to the Red Bridge stream, and there was nothing to do but to follow the crowd. Oh, but it was glorious skating! So different from the old frog pond that the two could not be mentioned in the same breath. Once there, the lost labor was forgotten—and even the old frog pond itself. It is only after all these years that it comes into its own again, a dream frog pond, alive with red-mitted lads and lassies, and merry shouts and ringing laughter. No, do not be afraid, little maid of the red mittens. I am not calling any names. After all it may not have been forty years ago that you and I swept the snow away from the ice. Newspapers are not always reliable they say.

I have been at home nearly three weeks, dear Journal, and the time has passed so rapidly that it seems more like three days. Some of the Stoughton people who read my last letter to you, written from that place, said that it was "too bad," but not one of them could deny that it was true; and when a few days later "Ike," proprietor of a restaurant next door to the office, died suddenly of what his shocked neighbors said was delirium tremens; and when soon after that a man came to my window, and having mistaken the door, asked me in a confidential tone for "an order of whiskey," my case against Stoughton was materially strengthened. Especially as I was not allowed to forget this latter event. The men in the real estate office, which was in the same room, overheard the conversation and considered it one on me. "Murder will out," they said. "You come here preaching temperance to us, but nobody has ever come to us trying to buy whiskey," etc. Another man came to my window one day and asked if I could tell him what Walter's wife's sister's husband's name was; but as I was a stranger in Stoughton and did not even know what Walter's name was, the rest was out of the question. Miss Ferguson, manager of the office, returned Saturday morning from her vacation in New Brunswick, and without regret I turned the office over to her and stepped out into the October sunshine, free from the thrall of dots and dashes. Over at Norwood and Canton and Sharon on Saturday and Sunday I enjoyed being a visitor, entertained by young Gideon and his mother, and also had the feeling that I was on the way home. Sunday evening I took the train into Boston, on the chance of getting the 10 p. m. train for Portland, but found it had been taken off; stayed over night at the Quincy house, and took the 8 a. m. train Monday morning, arriving home Monday night.

It seems to me that home never looked any more homelike than it does coming to it from Stoughton. At this season of the year, when Dame Nature is cleaning house, sweeping out the cobwebs and getting ready for old King Winter to move in, the air of an old home seems to be more than ever full of memories. Old forgotten stories and anecdotes come drifting through one's head, stay awhile, then sink back into oblivion. It may be some witching influence left over from Hallowe'en that is accountable for this, but whatever it is the old stories have a place in every life, and have their place like old friends at every fireside. Stories like this for instance: My mother was the youngest of ten children. Susan Worth had married an elder son of the family, and when my mother was born, had named her for herself, and had become very fond of the blue-eyed, curly-headed little lady. When my mother was about five years old, her big sister-in-law begged the privilege of taking her home for a few days visit. In spite of all efforts to amuse and entertain her in that prim and childless home, the atmosphere soon pallied upon the younger Susan. Quietly, and without announcing her intention, she took her departure late in the November afternoon, and started to walk the mile and a half of lonely country road that lay between her and her home. It grew dark and chilly and altogether dismal. One by one the lights began to shine forth from the windows of the few houses she passed. Looking in at them with longing eyes and tear wet cheeks—for she was terribly afraid of the dark—she would wring her little hands and say to herself "I've ten minds to go in where I've one to stay out," yet she trudged along, until weary but triumphant she entered the door of her home and stood before her astonished family. "I've ten minds to go in where I've one to stay out." The words have risen to our lips so many times in our journey along life's pathway; we have smiled with a tender thought for the little Susan of the long ago, and trudged along the road with renewed courage.

Since my return home, election day has come and gone. It is no use for even a good Republican to feel downcast over the result. "If the Lord send rain, then rain's my choice," and if it is his will that the Democrats should have their way for the next four years, it is doubtless for some wise end. Personally I feel like this about it. We have become accustomed to President Wilson's nose and ears. He cannot help them. He is obliged to wear them, and such as they are he wears them with dignity. Mr. Hughes, on the other hand, is not obliged to wear his whiskers. Whiskers in general are bad, but some whiskers in particular are worse. This is purely a woman's view of the political situation, and I hope there is nothing about it that will prove an injury to the great cause of woman's suffrage.

There have been many rumors afloat of late, of wildcats seen in this vicinity. Over the "Long Hill" a man has heard something strange and mysterious snuffing around his house in the night.

Members of a family farther up on the same road, have seen and heard a strange prowling animal. A traveling man in an automobile, on the same road, the other night just at dusk, saw a black animal with pointed ears running along ahead of him. He turned on his lights and went ahead full speed, when the animal leaped over a fence, and disappeared with a thrilling screech. Tonight Hugh Mosher, who is almost five years old, says that his friend Hazen knows a man who has seen this strange animal right close to, and he says it's a Lucy tick.

Took The Hurt Out Of Her Back.

Mrs. Anna Byrd, Tusculum, Ala., writes: "I was down with my back so I could not stand up more than half the time. Foley Kidney Pills took all of the hurt out." Rheumatic pains, swollen ankles, backache, stiff joints and sleep disturbing bladder ailments indicate disordered kidneys and bladder trouble. Sold Everywhere.

Maine Booth in the Allied Bazaar.

Maine is to have a booth at the big National Allied Bazaar in Mechanics Building, Boston, December 9th to 20th. A number of the most prominent women socially in the entire State are on the committee to work for the Maine booth. Mrs. Herbert Payson of Portland is chairman of the booth. Emma Eames, the opera singer, will be one of the workers at the booth and a member of the committee. Among others who are named on the committee are Mrs. John F. Hill, wife of ex-Governor Hill of Augusta; Mrs. John Thompson, wife of the noted surgeon of Portland; Mrs. Weston Lewis of Gardiner; Mrs. William T. Cobb, wife of ex-Governor Cobb of Rockland; Mrs. Andrew Wiswell of Ellsworth; Mrs. Frederick H. Strickland of Bangor; Mrs. Ernest Wheeler of Augusta and Mrs. Robert Hallowell of Gardiner.

HIS FRIEND HURT; HE HELPED HIM

Injured Man Laughed When Simple Treatment Was Suggested. But He Thank-ed His Comrade Later.

Once upon a time word came to Henry A. Voehl of Plainfield, N. J., that a close friend had been injured, and full of anxiety he visited the afflicted man, who was suffering from a sprained ankle.

"It was so bad that the leg had turned black," said Mr. Voehl in relating the story, "I told him I would have him out in a week and he laughed at me. But I took him a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, that night he put some on and noticed the ankle felt better. I told him to use it every day, and in three days his ankle was practically well. In four days he was working. He gladly admits that Sloan's Liniment 'put him on his feet.' Sloan's Liniment can be obtained at all drug stores, 25c, 50c, and $1.00.

MANY A BELFAST READER WILL BE INTERESTED.

When people read about the cures made by a medicine endorsed from far away, it is surprising that they wonder if the statements are true? But when they read of cases right here at home, positive proof is within their reach for close investigation is an easy matter. Read Belfast endorsement of Sloan's Liniment.

Guy A. Gray, proprietor of barber shop, 50 Union St., Belfast, says: "I suffered from kidney trouble for about four years and tried most everything I heard of for relief. Nothing did me a particle of good until I used Sloan's Liniment, procured from the Old Corner Drug Store. There was a deep-seated pain in my back across my kidneys. I was laid up with this trouble for months at a time. My kidneys were in bad shape and the kidney secretions were too frequent in passage, off color and contained sediment. Sloan's Liniment gave me relief in two weeks' time and I was eventually cured of all symptoms of kidney trouble. I am now sound and well."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney ren-ed—get Sloan's Liniment—the same that cured Mr. Gray. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Overland Automobiles

Which Do You Prefer?

Pullman or Freight?

No one would think of riding in a freight car if he could enjoy the comfort of a big, comfortable easy riding Pullman parlor car.

So with automobiles. Most of the popular priced cars ride like freight cars. This is due to the old fashioned type of spring.

Many manufacturers still continue to use them.

The Overland does not. The 75 B Overland has the latest type of cantilever shock absorbing springs. As a result it is one of the easiest riding cars in the world. One demonstration will prove this. $635 f. o. b. Toledo.

Percy H. Grant and wife have the sympathy of all in their sorrow over the loss of their baby daughter, who had been in poor health for some months.

The Democrats gave a free dance at Union Hall on Thursday evening, November 16th, in honor of their recent victory. It was a fine evening and nice sleighing and the dance was well patronized.

Happy Valley Chapter, O. E. S., held a special meeting Monday night, Nov. 20th, having as a guest of honor Miss Combs of Islesboro, District Deputy Grand Matron, who inspected the Chapter.

Mrs. Daniel Plummer, who transports some of the students, kept them at her home Wednesday night to tea, after which she took them to Crockett's Theater, driving them home after the picture.

Hoods Creamery Company are beginning work on the foundation of a new creamery to be built on the site of the corn factory. Brooks surely needs a new creamery, as the present one is hardly large enough to do the work in.

The Ladies' Aid will hold a sale of aprons, fancy work, etc., at Crockett's hall the afternoon of Dec. 5th, to be followed by a supper and an entertainment in the evening. The little playlet, "The Packing of the Home Missionary Barrel," will be presented, together with music and readings. Admission to supper 15 cents; to entertainment, 10 cents.

A farm dairy extension school is to be held at Brooks under the direction of the extension division of the Agricultural College, University of Maine. This is a three days school and application has been made for it to be held during the week of December 10th. This is the first extension school to be held in Waldo County and farmers from several towns have already enrolled, and among them are F. H. Quimby, L. R. Leonard, A. J. Low, F. H. Bradford, O. W. Lane, W. C. Deering, F. H. Smith, Lewis Cook, A. Reynolds, John Loon, F. H. Lane, E. A. Ames, Everett Cilley, C. W. Ellis, Merton Fogg, all of Brooks; B. H. Hogan, Thorndike; C. M. Thayer, F. Monday evening, Nov. 30th, Parent and Teachers night was held at Harvest Home Grange, the students of Brooks High school furnishing a musical program, as follows: School orchestra, Eunice Chase, piano; Laura Jones, cornet; Hollis Jones, violin; piano solo, Miss Streeter; selection, Faustina Roberts, piano; Raymond Hogan, violin; reading, Elbert Moulton; piano solo, Olive Hatch; piano duet, Beulah Cook and Adm. Emmons; orchestra by orchestra. The topic, "Advantages of a district superintendent of schools," was opened by Principal L. H. Shibles of Brooks High school, followed by Rev. Mr. Streeter, Dr. N. R. Cook, B. F. Stantial, E. R. Ellis, Albert Jenkins, F. H. Brown and W. S. Jones. The topic was fully presented by Mr. Shibles, and the discussion certainly brought out all of the points on this subject. The topic, "Advantages of a parent and teachers association," was opened by Principal Shibles, and the discussion developed that such an organization would be of great value to the community. The question book brought out many suggestions in regard to our schools, and these were answered by Seth W. Norwood, Esq., former principal of the High school. The meeting closed with a selection by the orchestra. While all of the topics were of interest, the one in regard to the advantages of the town forming a union for the employment of a professional superintendent of schools received the most attention. The majority of the speakers were in favor of the movement, but those who spoke in opposition for the purpose of argument were well prepared. The students of Brooks High school presented an excellent musical program. Every citizen of Brooks is proud of the High school.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSE FOR POULTRY KEEPERS.

The Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Maine, Orono, Maine, is offering a new correspondence course in poultry husbandry. It is based upon a text which is now generally conceded by poultry men to be the best available as a reading book and reference on poultry production. The course taken from this text is also supplemented by references to the best available literature of the Experiment Station and College of Agriculture.

There is an increasing demand from poultry keepers of the State, especially those who do not come to Orono for one of the short winter courses, for a systematic course of instruction which will enable them to make their poultry flocks more profitable. It is for these people that this new course, which replaces the old one given for several years past, has been prepared.

The course is free; the only expense to the student being the cost of the text book required for study and postage on his own correspondence.

A certificate of recognition signed by the Dean of the College of Agriculture is given to those who satisfactorily complete the work.

Over in Dexter the Democrats had raised a fund for a celebration, but at the last moment changed their plans, abandoned the jollification and gave the funds to the Sunshine Club to use in its charitable work.

November Weather.

Early cold snaps, storms and sleet, snow and slush, cause coughs and colds. Foley's Honey and Tar acts quickly, cuts the phlegm, opens air passages, allays irritation, heals inflammation and enables the sufferer to breathe easily and naturally so that sleep is not disturbed by hacking cough. Sold Everywhere.

Men Feel Tired, Too.

While much is said about tired women it must be remembered that men also pay the penalty of over-work. When the kidneys are weak, the liver sluggish, when one feels tired out and miserable, has the "blues," lacks energy and ambition, Foley Kidney Pills are tonic and strengthening. They act quickly. Sold Everywhere.

A New Pulp Mill.

The industrial extension department of the Bangor & Arroostook railroad has announced the closing of contracts for a pulp mill at Van Buren. It will be built by the Arroostook Pulp Company, the principal owners of which are E. P. Lindsey of Boston, George Lewis of Holyoke and E. M. Blandin of Bath, Me. The new plant calls for an investment of about $500,000. The product will be a strong fibre pulp, used mostly for heavy wrapping paper.

William T. Cochran, for many years caretaker of Seals Island, died at the home of his son-in-law, E. H. Ingraham, in Vassalboro, Nov. 10th. He had been in ill health for several years from paralysis and was on a visit when his death occurred. He had been a resident of Seaport since 1871, and since retiring from the island had lived on Union street in the village. He leaves his wife and one daughter, Mrs. E. H. Ingraham of Vassalboro.

Capt. B. F. Colcord went to Bangor Thursday morning and took the 1.40 p. m. train for Norfolk, Va., called there by the serious illness of his son, Rupert P. Colcord, quartermaster of the steamer Vigilance, recently arrived at Norfolk from Bordeaux, France. He was taken ill with typhoid fever several days before the ship arrived in port, and was taken to the Marine hospital. A wire from Capt. Colcord Monday reports his son as improving, which will be welcome news to his many friends in town.

The fire department was called out Saturday evening at 8:20 for a blaze in the house of Capt. John W. Sweetser, corner Leach and Park streets. The fire caught from an overheated stove in the room occupied by his son-in-law, Reed Lowell, while the family were in church, and was discovered by Mr. Lowell's young son, 12 years of age, who was asleep, and smelling smoke brought his two young sisters out of the house and across the street to neighbors and gave the alarm, showing rare judgment for a child so young. The house was badly damaged by smoke and water and the roof was burned on the inside so that rafters and shingles will have to be replaced. The house was insured for $1,000.

NO FURTHER WORD FROM MANGA REVA. No further tidings have been received from the American bark Manga Reva, which disappeared off the coast of France Tuesday, following a wireless call for help. The message sent from the vessel, and which was picked up by the steamer Rockingham, and transmitted to the steamer Rockingham, which searched and failed to find her, stated that the vessel was drifting before the wind and was without boats. Capt. Jeremiah G. Park, the commander of the Manga Reva, resides at 68 Bowdoin av., Dorchester, with a summer home at West Harwich, and has a wife, three daughters and a son, who are greatly concerned regarding the fate of the vessel and those on board. Capt. Park, who is a native of Seaport, Me., is very well known in shipping circles here. His last command was the Standard Oil Company's ship Acme, and he had previously commanded the ships Luzon and Alert. He had made up his mind to retire from seafaring life, and the voyage on the Manga Reva was to have been his last. He is a member of the Boston Marine Society. The Manga Reva carried a cargo of tobacco from Baltimore to Rotterdam and was on the way back to Newport News. She was one of the few sailing vessels equipped with wireless.

Capt. Park was the youngest son of the late Capt. Samuel and Mary (Patterson) Park and was born in Seaport in 1850. He followed the sea from boyhood and is the last of the family.

STOCKTON SPRINGS.

Mrs. Albert C. Colcord, East Main street, left Monday for Rockland for a fortnight's visit with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Shute.

Fred Barnard, assistant principal of the Stockton Springs High school, left Wednesday afternoon for Boston, on route to Worcester, Mass., where he will spend Thanksgiving with his parents.

Clement Smith, Elmer Arnold, Jr., and Minard Ellis spent last week at Camp Welcome, Rand Cove. They arrived home Monday, each bringing a deer.

Charles M. Stewart of Bangor was in town last week, at Cape Jellison piers, on business in connection with shipping a cargo of shooks by the four-masted schooner Lyman M. Law to Palermo, Sicily.

Mrs. James McKeen, School street, returned Monday morning from the Eastern Maine General Hospital, Bangor, where she had been a patient for several weeks, having undergone a slight surgical operation.

In the absence of Rev. A. A. Blair on a Western tour, Rev. Mr. Hainer of Bangor has occupied the Universalist church for the past two weeks. It was announced Sunday that Mr. Blair will be in the pulpit next week.

Edgar M. Colcord, Mill street, on Monday closed his fishing season for the Lawrence cannery factory and will soon house his motor boat. His two children, sufferers from the whooping cough, are now considerably improved.

On account of Thursday being Thanksgiving, with the customary preparatory for family parties, dinners, etc., there will be no session this week of either the Ladies' Aid Society or the Auxiliary Aid of the Universalist parish.

L. A. Gardner, Middle street, recently bought of Dr. C. E. Britto his Sylvan street stable, which Mr. Gardner will use as a garage and storehouse in connection with his hardware and furnishing business, corner Main and Sylvan streets.

Mrs. Samuel E. Rendell, West Main street, has sufficiently recovered from her recent ill turn to be occasionally on the street, although still looking thin and feeling very poorly. Mr. Rendell had not returned to Caribou at this writing, Monday.

Mrs. Richard Bennett, Sandpoint road, is suffering from pneumonia. Dr. G. A. Stevens is her medical attendant, and her daughter Mrs. Shannon, School street, is caring for her. Sympathy is extended to the invalid and to the anxious members of her family.

The steamer America arrived Monday morning at Cape Jellison piers to load paper for The Great Northern Paper Co. of Millinocket for New York. She is regularly engaged in this business, making as nearly as possible (wind and weather permitting) a round trip per week.

Mrs. George C. Fletcher, Church street, who was quite ill from tonsillitis last week, is now much improved under the care of Dr. G. A. Stevens. Her sister, Miss Percie Pendleton, was with her last week. Mr. Fletcher's business taking him away from home a portion of the time.

Frank W. Ball of Dover, clerk of courts of Piscataquis county, visited Stockton last week in the interest of his candidacy for Secretary of State, to be voted for by the legislature on the convening of that body in January. Our townsman Albert M. Ames, is a member-elect of the House of Representatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ginn, guests of her grandmother, Mrs. John C. Randall, Cross street, left the middle of last week to visit her aunt, Mrs. Wilson Randall, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Webster, in Belfast, before leaving for their home in Brooklyn, N. Y. Their many Stockton friends hope to see them again next summer.

Mrs. Wallace of Cutler, who has been with Mrs. W. H. Morrison, Church street, for the past two months left for home Monday to set her house in order preparatory to the return of her husband for the winter, he having been cooking on the Morrison fishing boat during the season just ending.

J. H. Gerrish, West Main street, left last Friday for Cape's Camp, Deer Island, Moosehead Lake, for his annual deer hunt, expecting to return Monday night. A message to his wife Monday informed her, that because of being unable to get down the Lake Sunday, his home-coming would be delayed until Tuesday morning.

Earle Trundy recently bought of Alfred Fayle the so-called Hamlin house on upper Mill street, which his family is now occupying. His two little daughters are having the whooping cough, the younger one in a very hard form. We hope for relief soon for these attractive children.

L. A. Gardner, our dealer in hardware, plumbing, etc., recently completed the installing of a steam heating apparatus for warming the staterooms of the steamer America, running regularly between Cape Jellison piers and New York. The work was done during the steamer's times of loading at our docks.

Mrs. Fred Eames, in the upper portion of the town, was operated on by Dr. E. D. Tapley at his private hospital in Belfast last Saturday morning, Dr. H. E. Small of this village, administering the ether. The operation was a very serious one and the patient at this writing, Monday, is still at the hospital. Sympathy is extended the lady and her anxious family.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Huniston, guests of their son, proprietor of The Stockton, for the past two months, left Monday by early train for their former home in Chicago, Ill., where they will spend the winter with their daughter and family. Stockton acquaintances hope they may have been sufficiently pleased with the village to again visit their son and family at our hotel.

Mrs. Ernest Partridge of the Narrows is quite sick. She is a patient of Dr. G. A. Stevens, Church street, who is also attending her little son, who is suffering from a severe case of whooping cough, having ruptured a blood vessel in coughing, which had quite seriously complicated the case. The little fellow is now improving.

Our postmaster, Rufus L. Mudgett, Sylvan street, enduring an attack of genuine whooping cough, which is preventing sleep through the night and rest through the day, confining him to the house almost constantly, he giving his attention only to the departure of the early morning mail, Mrs. Mudgett and the assistant, Miss Alice Hichborn, looking after postal matters later in the day.

We are glad to announce that favorable reports have been received regarding the health of Forrest H. Berry, who has been very seriously ill in a hospital in Baltimore from a bad case of appendicitis, for which a second operation was necessary. Much sympathy is extended to the patient and his invalid wife, Mrs. Miss Jessie Marden of this town, ill for several years at the home of her mother, Mrs. Frank Marden.

Miss Leora Partridge, Church street, one of the managing committee for the "Pie Supper" on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Universalist parish, met with quite an accident in the serving room, scalding the fingers of the right hand quite severely by spilling hot coffee upon them. At this writing, Monday, the hand is much improved, though the middle and third fingers still remain quite sore.

Mrs. Carrie A. Gardner, Middle street, is boarding for the present with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gardner, at their home opposite her place, formerly the residence of her father, the late Master A. P. Goodhue, which she has rented for the winter to Mr. and Mrs. David Dunbar of Castine, who have been living in town for some months.

Mr. Dunbar is the engineer-in-chief of the steamer America, engaged in the paper-carrying from Cape Jellison piers to New York. Mrs. Gardner will probably spend the latter part of the winter in Boston.

"The Pie Supper" served last Thursday night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Universalist parish in the banquet hall of Masonic block, proved a success, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather—a rain storm which began about 5 o'clock that afternoon, after a whole week, up to that date, of beautiful sunshine and fine autumn weather. However, quite a goodly number attended, the variety of pies, of all kinds, proving most palatable and attractive and the patronage netting more than ten dollars to the treasury of the association. This sum would have been much increased had the many people living some distance from the hall not been deterred from attending by the copious downpour, which continued throughout the night, removing every vestige of snow which fell a fortnight before.

Stockton Republicans, though deeply regretting the results of the recent National election, admire the attitude of Mr. Hughes regarding the re-counting of the California vote, however uncertain the apparent results may seem to the country generally. We gladly endorse the following editorial printed in the Boston Herald of Nov. 24th: "Hughes Not Badly Beaten. Charles E. Hughes will go down in history as one of the men who very narrowly missed the presidency—as Blaine did in 1884, as Tilden did in 1876, as Henry Clay did in 1844—rather than in the list of men who were 'wiped off the face of the earth'—like Horace Greeley and Alton B. Parker and Winfield Scott. To whatever consolation lies in this distinction Mr. Hughes and his friends are fully entitled. The Republican candidate carried his own State by a handsome plurality. He carried his opponent's home State of New Jersey. Hughes, besides, won the usually doubtful Indiana and Connecticut, and the imperial State of Illinois. In looking over the field he can see much that is highly complimentary to him. Nor is there anything in the returns to indicate that any other Republican candidate would have run any better. The situation within the Republican party calls for nothing sensational. It invites no radical overturn. The organization is in good fighting trim today, in apparent control of the newly elected House of Representatives, and narrowly missed the presidency. Its duty is to go forward on existing lines in the realization that it will not always have to make its battles against a Democracy saved from the effects of many of its own errors by a colossal struggle in arms on the other side the seas."

WINTERPORT.

For other Winterport items see 7th page.

The long heralded, much advertised, eagerly anticipated, but often postponed election was fully paid off at 7 o'clock last Saturday evening before a representative crowd of spectators, when Chester S. Curtis, Republican, wheeled John Cole, Democrat, in a wheelbarrow from his residence on Main street to the store of C. C. Moody and returned. The procession was accompanied by the tooting of horns, the blaring of trumpets, several small boys and interested citizens. The vehicle was gayly decorated with the national colors, and a large banner on which was inscribed "Wilson" had a prominent place. Mr. Cole occupied the seat of honor with dignity, bowing frequently to the delighted people. A large bonfire shed considerable light on the scene, which with the smiling faces of the Democrats was the only illumination. As Mr. Cole is a heavy-weight it took much strength and energy to wheel him, but Mr. Curtis never faltered, taking the hills on high gear, and steadily, carefully and powerfully wheeling his good natured human cargo over the prescribed route. This bet was made in the summer and had the election returns been reversed, Mr. Curtis would have been the passenger, Mr. Cole furnishing the motive power.
