Firemen of Three Towns Called Out For Grass Fires

Rockland, Thomaston and Lincolnville fire departments battled several fires Thursday afternoon that were attributed to the strong wind blowing the flames from incinerators.

A fire that started in the incinerator behind the house of Raymond Ellis at 59 Oliver street spread over six acres before it was stopped on Park street in Rockland Thursday afternoon, according to Fire Chief Wesley Knight.

A strong wind blew the fire from the incinerator over a dry pasture area, burning about the bases of towers carrying the 110,000 volt transmission lines of the Central Maine Power Company. The fire was finally stopped around the Compton appliance company building on Upper Park street after it had set fire to several fence posts.

Police Captain Maurice Benner spotted the blaze from the patrol car on Old County road and immediately radioed in to the police station which notified the fire department.

As the fire threatened to spread over Park street, Chief Knight stopped the loading of an old tank truck at the Calso distributing plant, owned by Fred Foley of Portland. Also in the area was another oil firm, the Maritime Oil Company and the Epps home decorations store.

The Thomaston Fire Department extinguished a grass fire shortly after noon Thursday behind the property of Hollis Gilchrist on Gleason street and another between the Bunker and Frost properties on Upper Beechwood street about two hours later. Chief Edwin Anderson attributed the fires to the strong wind blowing the flames from incinerators. On Thursday night, the Thomaston Fire Department extinguished the small fire in the basement of the unoccupied building on Creek Hill, owned by Atwood Brothers Lobster firm.

The fire chief remarked that the fire, which was started by youngsters, burned through the southeast corner of the building causing about $100 damage.

The Lincolnville Fire Department put out a small grass fire Thursday morning behind the Seamount Cabins at Lincolnville Beach. The fire was attributed to the flames from an incinerator.

Polio Foundation Kicks Off Drive

"Survival is not enough" will be the theme of the Knox County Chapter of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis drive that was started Thursday night with a banquet at the Odd Fellows Hall in Rockland.

Miss Ruth Rogers of Rockland, Knox County chairman, announced Friday that the third shot of Salk polio vaccine will be given free of charge. At the meeting Thursday night, Miss Rogers remarked that "somehow funds will be obtained for the polio shots". About $4,000 has already been spent by the county chapter toward the polio shots.

A movie entitled "Survival is Not Enough" was shown at the banquet which described the treatment given to people stricken with the disease.

Also present at the meeting were: Fred Perkins of Warren, Knox County chairman of the March of Dimes; Donald Groeger, state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; Mrs. Charles Mills, state advisor of women's activities in the drive; and Mrs. Lewis L. Black, Knox County chairman of women's activities.

Chairman of the individual communities in the county are: Robert Laite, Camden; Mrs.

Douglas Ladd, Rockport; Mrs. Esther Keating, Appleton; Mrs. Kendall Orr, Cushing; Mrs. Lester Black, Friendship; and Mrs. James McGrath, Hope.

Others are: Mrs. Edwin Ames, Matineus Island; Mrs. Frank Ross, Owls Head; Mrs. Allen Farrar, Rockland; Mrs. Charles Childs, South Hope; Mrs. Clayton Dennison, South Thomaston; Mrs. Carl Littlefield, Thomaston; Mrs. Walter Rich, Union; and Miss Edith Grimes, Vinalhaven.

Mrs. Richard Butler, Warren; Arthur Frieder, St. George; Mrs. Eva Sidelinger, Washington; and Mrs. Verner Curtis, North Haven. Chairmen for Isles Au Haute and Cribhaven had not been appointed.

One, Possibly Two, More Petitions In Circulation In Rockport As Tax And Valuation Controversy Livens

The current disturbance in Rockport over a petition by 90 voters of the community asking for a special town meeting may take another angle at the meeting of the selectmen Monday evening.

It is possible that a number of the original 90 signers may affix their names to a second petition which will ask that their names be stricken from the first petition. Sixty names were required to make the original petition effective. The Rockport Business Association, headed by Charles Jilison of Glen Cove, obtained 90 signatures, a high percentage of which were those of Glen Cove people.

The second petition originates in Glen Cove and is being circulated by Shirley Barbour, town school committee member, and Warren Barrows, an insurance salesman. Should they obtain 31 signatures of the original signers over the weekend, the first petition would then have one less signature than required.

Barbour's contention is that the original intent of the first petition is being accomplished as rapidly as the town office staff can work.

The petition asked a special town meeting at which a sum of money to finance the publishing of tax lists and valuations would be raised. Town Manager Archie Stevens has since announced that comparative tax and valuation lists for the community have been authorized by the selectmen and are being prepared.

On Friday, Stevens delivered approximately one half the list to a printer who has started the job. The remainder will be delivered as soon as compiled. Town officers hope to have the project completed and ready for distribution to all persons in the town this month.

The lists will show comparative valuations and assessments for the years 1956 and 1957, Stevens comments.

The new petition, which is addressed to the selectmen, reads:

"We the undersigned inhabitants of the Town of Rockport qualified by law to vote in town affairs, having signed a petition to your Board that was presented to said board November 25, 1957 requesting a special town meeting, hereby respectfully request that our names be stricken from said petition. Being convinced that the said Board of Selectmen are complying with our request for a complete list of 1956 and 1957 valuations without holding a special town meeting."

Also reported being circulated in Glen Cove Thursday evening, and in Rockport village Friday, was a third petition. This petition is reported to ask that selectmen of the town be called upon to answer as to why they have failed to call a special town meeting as requested in the original petition. The Rockport Business Association had previously announced that ways of taking legal steps to force the town meeting they requested would be taken.

Friday afternoon, the R. B. A. president, Charles Jilison, said he had not seen such a petition, but would sign it if it were presented to him.

Millions of people are dissatisfied with the world, but only a few are trying to do anything about it.

KINNEY'S CONTRACT EXTENDED BY ROCKLAND-ROCKPORT SCHOOL BOARD AND SALARY INCREASED

The joint school board of the school union embracing the Rockport and Rockland school systems met at the Rockport Elementary School Thursday evening for its annual session.

Mrs. Elvie Hudson of Rockport was elected chairman for the year and Harold Kaler of Rockland the secretary.

The Rockport School Board served a lobster stew supper prior to the meeting.

Superintendent of Schools Bruce Kinney was tendered a one year extension of his three year contract as head of the school union.

He was also voted an increase in salary by both boards.

Kinney, who has been selected as one of 35 superintendents across the nation to attend a three week summer course at Columbia University in New York next July, was voted his expenses for the course.

The joint board discussed the possibility of an area high school. The discussion was a continuation of a recent meeting at Rockland during which Dean Mark Shibles of the University of Maine explained the advantages of the Sinclair Bill and the Jacobs Report.

FARMHOUSE FIRE IN NORTH HOPE TUESDAY LEAVES FAMILY OF SIX IN NEED OF CLOTHING, BEDDING

The Knox County Chapter of the American Red Cross is requesting clothing for the Webber family who were left destitute as a result of a fire early Tuesday morning that destroyed their house in North Hope.

The family, Mrs. Edith Webber, her three children, Cleo, 13, Vance, 10, and Kathy, eight months old; and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Tuttle, need underwear, shoes, stockings, coats, outer apparel and mittens.

Mrs. Webber, who is alone in supporting her children, told the Red Cross representative that she is undecided at this time on whether she will set up house-keeping again in Hope and is not looking for any household items.

The fire was discovered about 2 a. m. Tuesday by the 10 year old Webber boy when he smelled smoke coming from the kitchen. Awakening his mother, the both of them opened the kitchen door and saw the smoke pouring from the door that led to the shed attached to the house.

Mrs. Webber then awakened the entire household and Mrs. Tuttle went to a neighbor's house, about a quarter of a mile away and notified the Hope fire department. The alarm also called in fire apparatus from Lincolnville.

The flames quickly spread to the rest of the one and one-half story house, destroying the furniture and appliances.

The family dog died in the burning house. Mrs. Webber managed to grab some bed covers and some clothing when they ran out of the house but most of the family's clothing was burned in the fire.

Hope Fire Department officials remarked that the origin of the fire is still undetermined.

At present, the family is staying with Mrs. Webber's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hall, in Union, until future plans are made.

Yarmouth Plant Of Central Maine Put In Service

In a simple, fast moving ceremony the largest single electric generating unit in the State of Maine was placed in service Friday at the new Yarmouth Steam Plant of Central Maine Power Company. The steam - powered General Electric turbine generator has a nameplate rating of 44,000 kilowatts and a capability of 50,000 kilowatts. This marks the completion of the first unit in the project. A second similar generator is scheduled to start operating next year.

The honor of putting the new station into operation was accorded CMP's Chief Dispatcher John A. Perry of Augusta who this month is celebrating his 46th service anniversary with the electric company.

Watching Perry operate the controls on the instrument-studded panels were a group of newspapermen, friends and company officials, including William F. Wyman, president of Central Maine Power Company. Throughout the equipment-packed 235-foot long building, however, the newly assembled and trained plant operating staff quietly and efficiently worked the controls and instruments to which they are assigned.

Everything clicked smoothly and rapidly. Within a matter of minutes this one generator added nearly five times as much electric power to Central Maine's network of lines as its entire system was producing when John Perry joined the Company in 1911.

A CHRISTMAS SONG

The oak is a strong and stalwart tree,
And it lifts its branches up,
And catches the dew right gallantly
In many a dainty cup;
And the world is brighter and better made
Because of the woodman's stroke,
Descending in sun, or falling in shade,
On the sturdy form of the oak.
But stronger, I ween, in apparel green,
And trappings so fair to see,
With its precious freight for small and great,
Is the beautiful Christmas Tree.

The elm is a kind and goodly tree,
With its branches bending low;
The heart is glad when its form we see,
And we list to the river's flow,
Ay, the heart is glad and the pulses bound,
And joy illumines the face,
Whenever a goodly elm is found,
Because of its beauty and grace.
But kinder, I ween, more goodly in mien,
With branches more drooping and free,
The tint of whose leaves fidelity weaves,
Is the beautiful Christmas Tree.

The maple is supple and lithe and strong,
And claimeth our love anew,
When the days are listless and quiet and long,
And the world is fair to view;
And later—as beauties and graces unfold—
A monarch right regally drest,
With streamers aflame, and pennons of gold,
It seemeth of all the best.
More lissom, I ween, the brightness and sheen,
And the coloring sunny and free,
And the banners soft that are held aloft,
By the beautiful Christmas Tree
Selected.

Eight Guardsmen Rated As Gunners

Major Ralph D. Brooks, Jr., second from left, pins a second class gunners medal on the chest of Sgt. Herbert J. Staples, Jr., of Rockland, as the commanding officer of Battery D, Capt. Winfield Chatto, left, looks on. Another sergeant who also received the medal, Sgt. Neil C. Colburn of Union admires the medal.

Eight enlisted men of Battery D, 703 Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion received second class gunners medals Tuesday night at their armory in Owls Head.

Prior to the presentation, the Battalion Commander, Major Ralph D. Brooks, Jr., inspected the troops in ranks.

Receiving the awards were: M/Sgt. George Little, Jr., of Thomaston, M/Sgt. Melvin A. Vinal of Rockland, Sgt. Neil C. Colburn of Union, Sgt. Herbert J. Staples, Jr., of Rockland, Cpl. Earl F. Widcombe of Rockland, Specialist Second Class Irving H. Shear of Rockland, PFC. Sherel T. Collamore of Waldoboro and Pvt. Ronald C. Dodd of Camden.

Also, 15 men were notified of their promotions which were effective December 1.

The following privates first class were promoted to the permanent rank of specialists third class: Ronald A. Barker of Union, Sherel T. Collamore of Waldoboro, James W. Favreau of Rockland, Robert

A. Kent of Rockland, Lawrence F. Nash of Appleton, Robert R. Pillsbury of Rockland, Ralph T. Pomroy of Rockland and Arthur M. Sprowl of Hope.

The following privates received promotion to privates first class: Donald P. Bryant of Lincolnville, Albert B. Dinsmore of Rockland, Clayton E. Lacombe of Lincolnville, Kenneth A. Noyes of Union, Kenneth E. Pendleton of Lincolnville, Raymond E. Snowdell of Lincolnville and Philip C. Tibbets of Lincolnville.

REIGN OF SOME OF VINALHAVEN'S VETERAN KEGLERS CHALLENGED BY YOUNG SPROUTS IN THE GAME

The Pirates showed they have what it takes when they took the Worms by 43 pins in the Monday night tussle of the Vinalhaven League. The Worms made a bid for it in the first two strings, but fell down in the third while the Pirates rolled their best string in their last effort and the Worms fell by the wayside. Constable Pendleton bowling as a substitute for Mitchell finally got on a winning team and at least in this once did not have to reach in his jeans for the price of the bowling. Bruce Johnson's 101 and 293 were the best single and total on the scoreboard for the evening, while Peterson and Haskell led for the opposition.

Score Pirates vs Worms

Pirates: Pendleton for Mitchell, 241; Olson, 265; Johnson, 293; Sanborn, 251; Shields, 290. Total, 1340.

Worms: Grimes, 228; Oakes for Bickford, 258; Peterson, 272; Haskell, 276; Wymie, 263. Total, 1297.

The Ducks walloped the Ganders in the Poultry Division of the Vinalhaven League in Wednesday evening's bout, with Capt. Poole finally getting his dynamite to explode and blasting out a 110 for high single and 301 for total.

Old Timer Drew, who is beginning to feel his bowling oaks, led the losers in their futile attempt to stem the tide, but with none too strong support from some of his teammates, was swamped in the avalanche of spares and strikes turned in by the Quakers. We do not wish to mention any names in connection with this match, but a certain A&P manager and a big man in uniform and badge, failed miserably to live up to their obligations as a Gander and as a result the Ganders are now in the cellar. In addition, there are signs of mutiny against Capt. Goose, whose bowling to date has been far below par, and whose leadership is in danger of being questioned at the next "big feed" coming off this week. Stimulated by a scallop stew, some of the Gander boys are liable to take things into their own hands and elect a new captain and see if they can't get started off on a new tack.

Score Ducks vs Ganders

Ducks: McDonald, 225; Oakes, 280; Nelson, 260; Smith, 267; Poole, 301. Total, 1333.

Ganders: Pendleton, 209; Drew, 275; Sutcliffe, 249; Peacock, 252; Goose, 264. Total, 1249.

SPRAY FLIES IN THE SALT WATER LEAGUE

The Dogtowners came through in fine style on Tuesday night when they finally won a match and five points from the Fishhaws, just to show they should not be counted out of the race entirely. The win for the Dogtowners was due in great measure to the bowling of Capt. Kendall Young whose three strings of 101, 107 and 100 topped all others for the night.

H. MacDonald got his slow ball working for him for the first time this season and his 277 total was a big help to the Dogtowners. It was a close match, with plenty of noise and excitement and the result in doubt right up to the last ball.

Score Dogtowners vs Fishhaws

Fishhaws: Norton, 263; White, 283; Smith, 246; Hildings, 263; J. Bickford, 252. Total, 1307.

Dogtowners: Ames, 241; Walker, 240; Thompson, 247; H. McDonald, 277; Young, 308. Total, 1313.

The Palefaces edged a little nearer the 1400 mark for which they have been shooting in their match with the luckless Blackfaced on Thanksgiving night. About the only thing the Blackfaced had to be thankful for was the fact that there were not many around to see their defeat.

Donnie Oakes was in fine fettle and like a true Paleface sharpshooter was getting his shots in where they would do the most good. His 111 for single and 311 for total was the best rolled in match competition this year. Ernie Conway, who last year was a star for the Blackfaced, has yet to produce a respectable total, but his last string in this match showed there is still some hope he may snap out of his slump and climb out of the cellar where he has been hibernating for so long. From the way the Palefaces are going at present it looks doubtful if they will lose a match all season, which is not a happy prospect for the other teams.

Score Palefaces vs Blackfaced

Palefaces: Davis, 261; Mills, 290; H. Conway, 247; D. Oakes, 311; Hildings for Littlefield, 272. Total, 1381.

Blackfaced: H. Chilles, 258; J. Chilles, 265; E. Conway, 231; Rosen, 248; Winslow, 245. Total, 1247.

NORTH HAVEN WANTS TO PAY OWN WAY

From the ferry battlefield on North Haven comes direct word from the fifth member of the North Haven Planning Board, Owen Grant, now returned from his travels, that he is definitely not with the other four signers of the Board communication to this newspaper. Mr. Grant wants better boat service between North Haven and the mainland, though with characteristic frankness, he states that he prefers a medium sized boat, say around one hundred feet, which can handle the traffic in comfort yet not be so large that it bankrupts the island community to operate it. "We never were an object of State charity and we prefer to pay our own way now," he said.

CHRISTMAS

As the Christmas season draws near, it has been brought to attention time and time again just how little the true meaning of Christmas has for us. For everywhere we turn, we are confronted with signs using an abbreviated term for the word Christmas. At different approaches we find in big lights the words, "Xmas" greetings. In store windows, and on signs throughout the city we continually see the word, "Xmas" in place of Christmas. Can it be that we have forgotten how we got our first Christmas? It's one thing to commercialize the Lord's birthday as has been done, but it's far worse to substitute for the name Christ a mere "X".

CIVIC AFFAIRS ATTAIN NEW HIGH!

It is evident from a glance at the first page of Thursday's Courier-Gazette that civic matters of one sort and another have attained an all time importance in the public mind.

Varied civic affairs rated multi-column headings, reflecting the sharply growing public interest in these matters. For example a sharply worded opposition to the so-far presented ideas of the island ferry matter was voiced by four of the five members of the North Haven Planning Board. The authors felt the public and boards concerned should see both sides of "the ferry question."

Another multi-column heading discussed the first meeting of the Maine Port Authority Trustees and the newly appointed Island Ferries Advisory Committee to be held in this City on Wednesday when some differences of opinion may possibly be voiced.

A real hassle is discussed in the demanded recount of votes for School Board membership when candidate Charles H. McIntosh challenges candidate William Karl, the listed winner of the contest by seven votes. This recount, desired by both contestants, will also take place Wednesday.

A further multi-headed article reflects the strong feelings now steaming in Rockport in these words "Rockport Business Association Terms Selectmen's Refusal of Special Meeting 'Illegal, High Handed'."

Certainly there's no lack of vigor and interest and sharply opposing views in civic affairs in this section and as an acutely interested spectator stated "You Ain't Seen Nothing Yet."

The truck, operated by Percy Wood, 35, of Jonesboro was passing through Camden enroute to Boston with the trees. Chief John Rainfrette reported. The broken wire swung over and smashed the second floor front window of Attorney Alex Gilmore causing about $17 in damages. The chief reported that the height of the truck was 14 feet, three inches above the ground, three inches over the maximum height allowed by law. Also, the wire at the point was a little low since it was supposed to have been 14 feet, six inches above the street. Rainfrette said that when Wood passed through Camden again about 6 p. m. STEAMBOAT YARNS of Ships and Men

John M. Richardson

A Most Unusual Yarn Of Side Wheel Operation Is Told By Captain Scott.

Steamer Portland, one of the largest side wheelers on the coast, is shown at India Wharf in Boston, emphasizing the extremely bulky work and almost flat bottom of such a ship. Note the huge size of the paddle wheels. Graham Marine photo

Dear Isle, Maine
December 1, 1957
Dear Steamboat Editor:

We have heretofore failed to mention one of the routine duties of a steamboat mans life during his apprenticeship as an ordinary roust-a-bout on the freight deck of all side wheel steamers. This duty was known as the, "Trim Watch", each and every roust-a-bout took his two hour turn whenever a side wheeler was underway. Its purpose was to keep the ship on even keel as much as possible, which was one very important precaution taken in the efficient operation of a side wheel steamboat.

There was what was known as a "tell tale", similar to the pendulum of a clock mounted on a board on a forward stanchion on the freight deck amidship. At the bottom of this board was a half circle marked off in degrees so that the swing of the tell tale from starboard to port or vice versa showed the number of degrees list to either side which the ship might be listed.

On the freight deck were four barrels filled with lead and cement, each weighing over a half a ton, these barrels always remained on the bilge ready to roll. Heavy Oak blockings or trigs, prevented them from rolling in seaway. There was a heavy rope mousing around the center of the bilge that made them easy to turn. Generally they were rolled against and held in place by the heavy oak knee that held the cross bar of the loading ganway.

There was a bell overhead on the freight deck connected with a bell pull in the wheel house. The officers on watch in the wheel house would ring one bell to trim to the port and two bells to the starboard. If three bells were rung, the watchman on the freight deck would answer through a tube to the wheel house to find out who or what was wanted. There was a board in the Fo'castle listing the names of the roust-a-bouts and the time for their turn on trim watch. This little chore might sound or seem unimportant, but it was one of the most important factors in the safe and efficient operation of a side wheeler. It was a must that side wheelers should be kept as much as possible on even keel for a side wheeler with her lofty superstructure and flat bottom was very sensitive to the slightest breeze of wind broadside. She must be kept on even keel so that the huge buckets of each paddle-wheel should dip at about the same depth to relieve an uneven strain on the wheel shafts. It also made a difference in her steering, as well as her speed, though there were times when the wind was broadside and the sea was rough a list to the leeward was necessary to prevent the sea from pounding the windward sponson too heavily.

The real headache for the roust-a-bouts on trim watch was when the wind was strong enough that the four trim barrels would not right her, then it was necessary to truck heavy freight from the leeward to the windward side to right her, this watch was known as the, "Muscle Buster".

Some captains and pilots were admired by the roust-a-bouts, while others were despised. Some pilots would not tolerate one degree list. They kept the bell ringing constantly. Profanity of those on watch made these sung quarters no place for a minister's son as sheathing watchman. The City of Bangor before she was rebuilt was a very easy boat to trim, but after extra rooms were added and her walking beam house lengthened she was very tender sided in a blow and she became a muscle buster. The Ransom B. Fuller was always so. The J. T. Morse was the easiest side wheeler I every saw to feel the weight of trim barrels. One barrel usually did the trick unless it was blowing real heavy when it might take three.

Engineers sometimes complained when they thought one paddle wheel was a little over worked. When you saw Chief Engineer Fox walking forward from the engine room with his glasses on the tip of his nose, you roust-a-bouts better get up off that empty egg case and start rolling trim barrels. That went for Chief Cole on the City of Rockland as well. Marsh Rogers, 2nd, assistant Engineer of the City of Bangor paid little attention to the rim of the ship, as long as his steam gauges were up and nothing disturbed him from the comforts of his leather cushioned chair. He just sat there and watched the buck bills chew off those passing moments of sublime comfort. After all that old treading walking beam was doing all the work, it did not complain why should Marsh Rogers?

"Trim Watch" another term we can now scratch off from the sayings of man, a daily chore that has no place or meaning in the future, the last side-wheeler took with her the code by which all men lived who guided her, those who are living who used that code will keep and cherish it, as a lasting memory.

Sincerely,
Capt. Walter E. Scott.

GRANGE NEWS OF KNOX-LINCOLN COUNTIES

By Henry Teague

I suppose there are a few poultrymen who are quite satisfied with their lot when eggs are returning a profit. As I am a poultryman and frequently associate with other poultrymen I have a pretty good idea what most of them are thinking about.

In the first place the poultryman aims at a high peak of egg production, reasonably good sustained production of high quality eggs and low mortality.

As for the poultryman's hopes. Of course he wants continuously profitable egg prices, better fowl prices and lower feed prices. But most poultrymen do a bit of dreaming too. Some of these dreams center about a poultry house where litter never cakes in winter, where waterers never flood and birds never smother. He is probably dreaming of another new poultry house too for poultry farmers seldom have all the space they need for their operation.

There are other things too. Many houses do not have concrete floors and insulation. Lack of these two items presents problems that can be very aggravating in the wintertime.

Not all the things named above are unattainable for the poultryman if he goes after them. He does not have much control of egg, fowl and feed prices. But he can improve on his lot there. The farmer with high producing birds is not hurt so badly when egg prices fall and feed prices rise. Today, if birds are not producing well, there are generally two reasons, disease or poor management. A combination of both can be deadly to the life of a poultry operation. Several flock diseases can be prevented by vaccination and others if spotted quickly enough can be stopped before they do much damage.

Ventilation is vital to the health and welfare of a flock of birds at all times of year, but the real problems are apt to come in cold weather. We have had some pretty sharp weather already, but I have noticed that poultry houses operated by some efficient poultrymen I know have some windows open at all times—more in the daytime, but none of the houses are closed up tight.

On the other hand, servicemen have told me about poultrymen who shut up their houses the minute they feel a cool breeze. The results inside are little short of cruel to the birds. First the litter gets slippery on top as the moisture accumulates. Then it gets downright soggy to the point where feet actually sink down with every step. A foul smelling fog hangs over the pen and the acrid fumes of ammonia sting the nose and throat.

In such a pen it is quite possible that the hens are gasping partly from a chronic respiratory disease and partly from the lack of good fresh air. Production is probably falling off and many of the eggs are dirty.

When a serviceman enters such a pen he knows that about the most essential thing to do is to give the birds clean air, but often times the poultryman expects a "miracle" drug will do the trick. If ventilation is mentioned, the poultryman says that he has to shut up the pen to keep the pipes from freezing, a pretty poor excuse in this day when you can buy electrical heating tapes that use little current and do a real job.

If a house is not insulated, proper ventilation may not keep the litter dry, but it certainly will not become soggy. There are numerous ways in which production can be improved, if housing conditions are good. Many poultrymen do not use pellets any more or at least not until the birds are nearing the end of the production year. One needs to be sure that there are plenty of feeders, waterers and nests. A check should be made quite frequently to see if any parasites are bothering the birds. These include, worms, lice and mites. For round worms Phenothiazine-nicotine or PN is often used generally right in the feed, but more and more poultrymen are using piperazine in the water as it is less toxic and generally has no adverse effect. A lot of poultrymen are now using a four per cent malathion dust for lice and mites. It is very simple to use and does a very good job. It can be obtained locally.

Fitting ration is not a new product, but one of the servicemen tells me that some poultrymen are using it successfully from time to time to build up feed consumption, the end result being improved egg production. Birds are very fond of fitting ration and it can be overdone.

It may not be within the power of a poultryman to eliminate all flooding of waterers, but he can certainly keep it down to where it is not much of a problem. If rubber hose is used, it should be changed from time to time. The hose should be protected so that birds cannot jump on it or roost there. Many floats need some attention. Those using tire valves need a periodic valve renewal. If float boxes are used covers should be tight. If screw-type fasteners are used on waterer legs, they should be checked as they can loosen. A simple guard can be put over most pen faucets. Some poultrymen use clocks on their pumps so the pumps are shut off at night and come on with the lights.

While the maot of mortality depends on a poultryman's management to some extent that is not the whole story. Some strains of birds live better than others. One can easily get information on strains from a serviceman or other poultrymen.

Those are a few of the things that a poultryman can do to im-

Home Demonstration Agent

Planning training classes are over and now each community group will be having a planning meeting so that next year's program will be made up before the Christmas holiday is upon us. At our Monday planning training class, Mrs. Doris Ladd, acting home demonstration agent leader, gave the leaders some helpful hints on how to make out a good program. Mrs. Gertrude Hupper, home economics chairman of the Knox-Lincoln County Extension Association, gave an eye opener at each of the four classes. This eye opener was on how to make a favor in the form of a Christmas corsage from hard candies. Other eye openers presented by me were handmade Christmas tree ornaments which were made by Mrs. Pat Huntley and her children. These attractive decorations were made of everything from clothespins to tin can covers.

The area meeting in home management is the next big item of interest. This will be held January 16 and should be a meeting that men as well as women would want to attend. Most everyone has to buy appliances and since they are often times such expensive items everyone is interested in getting the most for their money.

On of the most satisfying meals, which can be quickly prepared, is composed of a steaming bowl of tuna chowder, accompanied by crisp crackers, a tossed salad, and apple pie.

Canned tuna is a "natural" as the basic ingredient for a steaming chowder since it is a familiar item in almost every American home. It is also economical, excellent nutritionally, easy-to-prepare, and tasty.

The home economists of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, United States Department of Interior, suggests that you take advantage of the abundance of tuna on the market and serve a "Tuna Chowder" after the game.

Tuna Chowder
1 can (6½ or 7 ounces) tuna
1 cup diced potatoes
1 cup tomato juice
1 medium onion, sliced
½ teaspoon celery seed
1 cup boiling water
3 tablespoons butter or other fat
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk
Chopped parsley

Drain tuna. Break into large pieces. Combine potatoes, tomato juice, onion, celery seed, and boiling water. Cook for 15 to 20 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Add tuna. Melt butter; blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add to tuna mixture; heat. Garnish with parsley sprinkled over the top. Serves 6.

prove his lot. As for a new poultry house, one has to make sure that he is doing a good job with his present setup before expanding his venture.

There are ways in which a poultryman can expand without building if he is raising only one flock a year. Raising replacements more frequently can keep more laying birds on the farm at all times. The answer may be found in the purchase of started pullets. Harry Wheldon, Maine Extension poultry specialist discussed this problem at the Poultry Improvement Association meeting the other night. He felt that a poultryman could increase his income substantially by raising more than one replacement flock each year. He said that in California, they have found that four flocks a year is the optimum number.

Last Monday night I attended a meeting conducted by Allan Manchester, Extension economist, at the Warren Grange Hall. It was easily one of the most interesting meetings I have attended in a long while. Mr. Manchester has had long experience in farming as related to the government and cooperatives. He has a warmth of personality and skill in expressing himself that is outstanding and I always try to attend every meeting when he is to speak.

This was the first of five meetings that will be held during the winter and early spring with Mr. Manchester. The next will be held in the same place on Monday evening, Jan. 13. Gil Jaeger tells me that the number attending must be limited to about 30 as these will be discussion meetings. If you are interested, it will be well to get in touch with Mr. Jaeger soon before the quota is filled.

HOME SERVICE

It's time to start your Christmas baking—Here are two quick breads that are grand for gift giving:

Glazed Quick Apple Bread

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup finely chopped raw apples (do not peel)

¼ cup chopped nuts
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening, sugar, salt, and vanilla until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add milk, apples, and nuts. Beat. Stir in flour and baking powder. Blend. Pour batter into 9x5 inch loaf pan (bottom and sides rubbed lightly with shortening.) Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Cool. Remove bread from pan. Pour glaze over bread, letting it drip down the sides. Allow frosting to "set". Wrap tightly. For better flavor and easier slicing, make the bread the day before it is to be served.

GLAZE: Combine ¼ cup sifted powdered sugar with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine and 1 tablespoon water. Beat well.

Quick Orange Loaf

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup finely chopped or ground orange peel
2/3 cup orange juice
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup sugar

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut butter into dry ingredients until the consistency of coarse corn meal. Combine orange peel, juice, egg, and sugar. Add to dry ingredients, stirring just enough to moisten. Spread evenly in a loaf pan (9 by 5 inches) that has been rubbed with fat. Bake in a slow oven (325°) for 50 to 60 minutes. Cool.

Green Pastures Program Carried To the Winter

Snow may come and winds may blow but Maine dairymen will remember the sweet, soft and succulent feed which their cows ate last summer. And the same kind of feed will be available next summer. This is the kind of feed that produces milk most economically, says Ralph A. Corbett, Extension dairyman, University of Maine.

Every year most of the best type of feed diminishes with the first heavy frost, explains Corbett. For seven long months from October to May our milk-making machines, the cows, receive a quality of raw material which can be improved a great deal. This is just what the Green Pastures In Winter program is designed to do—improve the quality, quantity and utilization of the forage which the cows receive during the barn feeding period.

This Green Pastures In Winter program will be conducted throughout New England. Considerable thought has been devoted to the development by leading dairymen, county agents and Extension Service specialists during the past 12 months.

Farmer committees will study the winter forage program on those farms whose owners are interested in making improvement, announces Corbett. The best programs will be determined in each county, state and New England.

As a result of these farm visits, the owner will benefit directly in learning how to better evaluate his feeding program. Also, those in practices in harvesting, storing and feeding forages which appear to be giving the best results will be summarized and explained to all dairymen by the county agents before its time to begin cutting grass silage and hay next June.

The three dairymen in Maine having the best Green Pastures

Brown, Lecturer Sheila Hart, Steward Charles Griffin, Assistant Steward Clifton Fuller.

Chaplain Marguerite Griffin, Treasurer Joseph Moody, Secretary Hilda Stockbridge.

Ceres, Clara Wentworth; Pomona, Esther Moody; lady assistant steward, Helen Simpson. Executive committee for three years, Roland Gushue; two years, Frank Hart; one year, Inez Ames.

A joke Christmas tree will be the feature at the next meeting.

In Winter program will receive free trips to the Eastern States Exposition next September.

More information may be obtained from the county agent, says the Extension dairyman. Farm visits by the committees will be made during the week of Jan. 27, 1958. The state committee will visit the best program in each county during the week of Feb. 3.

NEPPCO To Again State Boston Poultry Show

Poultrymen of New England are laying plans for the four-day Boston Poultry Show and New England Poultrymen's Conference in Mechanics Building in Boston, Jan. 22 to 25.

This is the second year that the nation's most famous poultry show will be under the direction of the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council (NEPPCO). First held in 1947, the Boston event is now the last "big time" exposition of its kind in the country.

The Standard Bred and Pigeon shows, foundation of the get-together for more than a century, will again provide the mainstay in 1958. All over the country, fanciers are busy readying their birds for the show.

Nor are consumers being neglected. One of the big attractions at the show will be the "Poultry Pageant"—an event well calculated to have an appeal for urban families as well as commercial poultrymen. Under the leadership of Jack Hough, Robert Grover and Pierre Boucher of the Massachusetts Extension Service, this display will portray the pathways of quality eggs and poultry from the hatching egg right through to the packaging and marketing of the final end product.

Included in the display will be a model flock of 50 laying hens in an up-to-the-minute poultry house. There will be an egg grading and holding room, as well as a model retail salesroom.

Turkeys, too, will have their share of the limelight at Boston, with the first full-scale Northeastern Turkey Show. Taking the center of the stage will be a Ready-to-Cook Turkey Show, where New England's most succulent birds will fight it out for top honors. Divisions are also slated for live and New York dressed birds.

Some of the Northeast's finest breeders of egg and meat chickens will vie for championship honors in the Egg-to-Chick Show. In this event, each competitor ships eggs to a central point where they are hatched out—and the resulting chicks judged.

From displays of sample flocks of full-grown birds to tasty barbecued chicken—Boston Poultry Show will run the gamut of poultry interests and events in the biggest event of its kind that New England has ever seen.

F. H. A. Conference Held At Bangor

A state conference of all Farmers Home Administration personnel was held at the Bangor House, Wednesday and Thursday with C. Wilder Smith, state director, and the state staff in charge of the program.

New procedures and policies of the Farmers Home Administration were reviewed and changes explained.

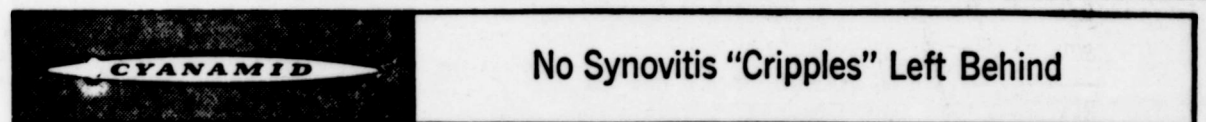

Representatives of the National office who took an active part in the discussions were Clayton Case of the Operating Loan Division and Sidney Aronson, division chief of the Internal Audit Division.

Congressman Clifford C. McIntire was also present at part of the session and was the main speaker at a banquet held in the honor of County Supervisor Leon S. McLaughlin, who reaches the retirement age on Jan. 1. Mr. McLaughlin has been in the employ of the Farmers Home Administration and its predecessor agencies since their inception in the late 1930's.

The State Farmers Home Advisory Committee was represented by Fred Nutter, former Commissioner of Agriculture for Maine and purebred holstein breeder, Earl Paouty, hatcheryman and poultry breeder of Pembroke, Harry Wheldon, Extension poultry specialist for Maine and Frank Reed, Extension poultry and egg marketing specialist for Maine took an active part in a panel representing the brooding and hatching phase of the poultry industry.

Larry Chatto of the administration office of the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service for Maine, explained some of the new changes in the soil bank program and how they will benefit the Maine farmers.

HELP PREVENT SYNOVITIS

with good broiler feeds containing

AUREOMYCIN®

Synovitis was bad news for broiler growers last year and it could be worse news this winter. Even in an average year, synovitis can cost you plenty through downgrading, death losses and cripples left behind.

Your best defense against synovitis is prevention. If it does break out, the quicker you control it, the smaller your loss. Either for prevention or control of synovitis, AUREOMYCIN is the antibiotic of choice.

AUREOMYCIN in good broiler feeds is just as effective against synovitis as it is against so many other poultry diseases—CRD, blue comb, nonspecific enteritis and subclinical infections. And it promotes feed efficiency and fast, healthy gains.

For all-around disease protection and growth stimulation, ask your feed manufacturer or feed dealer for a broiler feed containing AUREOMYCIN Chlortetracycline. Feed it continuously!

Don't let this happen again this winter!

BLUEPRINT FOR PEACE

Behind every structure, whether large or small, intricate or simple, there's a blueprint. And behind every blueprint there's a vision.

Someone has a dream. He explains it to an architect. Using the tools of his trade, the architect makes a blueprint—a plan to show workmen how to build what was first conceived in a dream.

Centuries upon centuries ago God had a vision. He made man in His image, then gave him the tools to fashion a blueprint. The Bible was the result—a blueprint for right-living for every man who breathes.

God is the Supreme Architect. Under Him today churches work to show man how to use the Bible as a blueprint for his own life. When that plan is followed, life is good. When it is ignored, confusion and disaster result.

Let the church of your choice show you and your family how to follow the blueprint for peaceful living.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

"REPENTANCE" AS VIEWED BY TWO ELDERS OF THE MORMON CHURCH

Repentance follows in natural sequence the first principle of the Gospel which is faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and the divinity of His mission as the Savior of the world. When the human mind has sufficient faith in God a natural desire to repent follows this principle based upon the realization that no unclean person is worthy to dwell with God. Hence following the teachings of the Apostle Peter on the day of Pentecost, the sin-convicted multitude cried out: "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" That Peter commanded them to repent as the first step following the manifestation of their faith in Christ and His atonement for their sins. (Acts 2:37)

The Holy Scriptures give us many accounts of the price that has been paid by various individuals and groups of people who have failed to abide by the requirements of the divine principle of repentance. The prophet Ezekiel made his plea to ancient Israel by stating, "Repent and turn yourselves from all your transgressions, so iniquity shall not be by your ruin." (Ezekiel 18:30)

Israel did not repent and as their sad history bears record, their iniquities were the cause for their ruin. Nothing is bought without a price, and the promises of eternal life or dependent upon the principle of repentance in each individual's life. The book of Romans informs us that, "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God." (Romans 3:23)

This being the case, men everywhere have a need for repentance which would include an expression of sorrow for all sin and a discontinuance of sinful practices in one's life. Christian men and women everywhere are encouraged to attend the church of their choice the coming Sunday, and learn more concerning the teachings of our Father in Heaven.

Members of B'nai Brith and Guests Hear Goldstein

Oscar Goldstein of the B'nai Brith organization in New York City discussed the work and progress of the group since its inception 114 years ago in this country to about 30 members and friends of the Rockland B'nai Brith lodge at the Thorndike Hotel in Rockland Thursday night.

He noted how the organization fights bigotry of all kinds through their Anti-Defamation League whether it be anti-semitism or racial prejudice.

The lodge official remarked the new headquarters of B'nai Brith in Washington, D. C., that was recently opened to the public, stands as a memorial to the Jews of this country who stood shoulder to shoulder with other Americans in fighting and building this country.

It was announced that the Maine B'nai Brith spring conference will be held in Rockland. At the recent fall conference of the group in Bangor, A. Alan Grossman of Rockland was appointed chairman of the conference.

Joy Agency 35 Years In Business

Clarence F. Joy, right, admires a plaque presented by the Travelers Insurance firm Wednesday. Holding the plaque is Mrs. Joy and John Asquith of Portland, a district casualty manager of the firm, who made the presentation at Joy's office.

The Clarence F. Joy insurance firm of Rockland celebrated its 35th anniversary Wednesday afternoon when one of its 14 affiliated insurance companies, the Travelers' Insurance Company, presented Joy with a plaque.

Starting from scratch, according to Joy, the agency has grown since it was founded in 1922 to a busy firm of general insurance brokers. The office has been in its present location on Main Street since 1924. Joy still remembers that the first contract he sold was a $15 accident policy. He remarked that many policyholders have grown in business over the years along with his firm and have become close friends.

The largest claim that the company has paid out was $22,000 for an automobile accident on Camden Street in Rockland in 1955.

In 1946, Joy took his son-in-law, Ted Newcombe, into the firm and in 1956, William Cummings of Glen Cove joined the agency.
