$\text{SPECIAL Notice}:\text{—For a short time only, I have decided to offer an entire new Code of Prices for all sizes of Photographie work. Cards, per doz. $3.00 Regular Cabinets per doz., $6.00. Larger Sizes correspondingly low. 10x12 Ink Photos., $6.00 to $8.00\text{—former prices $8.00 to $10.00. This style of work is adapted more especially to the enlargement of old pictures, in which it is only necessary that the original be a good likeness in order to insure a first-class result, with drapery, arrangement of hair, &c., modernized to suit the taste.

Crayon Portraits, \(\frac{1}{2} \) Life Size, $15.00; Life Size, $25.00.

All enlargements made by the Platinotype process and warranted absolutely permanent. The finishing will be done by one of Boston's celebrated artists, who has devoted a lifetime to his chosen profession and allows no work to leave his studio which is not perfect.

These prices are but little more than half what I have been charging for the same, but I have perfected arrangements whereby I can do the work at above rates for a few weeks, and I have resolved to give my patrons the benefit, and at the same time introduce a series of Crayons of a high order. The tendency of many of our citizens to waste their funds for Worthless Mechanical Productions by Amateurs, specimens of which may be seen on every hand, is the principal incentive which in duces me to place Legitimate Work at so low a figure.

AMPUTATION OF THE LEG.

The old Family Physician at Fault-Dr. David Kennedy the Successful Surgeon.

Money is the universal necessity, and none but a cynic or a fool will affect to despise it. Mr. Abram Elsworth, of Port Ewen, Ulster county, N. Y., had realized this truth. His disease involved the whole of his thigh-bone, and the suffering man looked forward, not without apparent reason, to death as his only deliverer. His family physician refused to amputate the limb—asserting that the operation would kill the patient on the spot. Dr. David KENNE-DY, of Rondout, N. Y., who was consulted, held a different opinion and amputated the limb. The Doctor then administered freely his great Blood-Specific FAVORITE REMEDY to afford tone and strength to the system prevent the return of the disease, and Mr. Elsworth remains to this day in the bloom of health. The gentleman's disease was the offspring of foul blood, and Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY purided the blood and restored to him the power once more to enjoy his life. Are you suffering from any disease traceable to the same cause?

A Question.

The latest murder in Maine, like most of those committed within the last decade, is in a quiet country town. In itself and all its circumstances it is the most horrible and repulsive crime which has been committed in New England within the memory of living men. In reading the story of the butchery one in very anger is disposed to take offense at Cowper's famous line, "God made the country but man made the town," and more women to be outraged and men to outrage them, in city than in village. The opportunities for concealment of crime may be greater in sparsely populated districts;

but the adoption of that excuse leads to the conclusion that the only reason why men do not sin is because they are afraid of being found out,-a conclusion we do not care to reach. The cause must be other than this

THE Syracuse Journal, noticing the prob able retirement of Senator Blaine from the Senate, says: Mr. Blaine has been a recognized leader of the Republican party ever since its formation. He has been at the head of the party's organization in Maine for upwards of twenty years. His name has old merchants, who have kept up to a great extent the former trade, should petition to Congress not to sanction the new Chinese treaties, and that they prefer that the Uni-good occupation of selling to China the mur-the old trade is not expressed in so many

How Members of the House of Commons Pass the Time.

[London World.] An "all-night sitting" at the House is not such a terrible penance to members as might the county clerk are from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., be thought by the uninitiated. Members can and that the office is closed at the latter hour, be very jolly under these circumstances. All I | to enable the clerk and his deputies to clear up know is I went down to the House on the first night of the great sederunt, and scarcely had I reached the members' lobby when I was button-holed by a member on hospitable thoughts intent. I must dine with him at 8 o'clock to meet his wife and some ladies in the hours, however, and descended upon the office new room provided for the purpose underground. Often as I had dined at the House before, never had I known the pleasure of meeting ladies in the very precincts that Guy Fawkes had made so historic. So I gladly accepted the invitation; and, after listening to Mr. Charles Russell's exordium in favor of his cepted the invitation; and, after listening to Mr. Charles Russell's exordium in favor of his new allies, I found my way, not without fear and trembling—for was there not an indescribable air of excitement and mystery prevale nt and about?—to the chamber where, in lieu of the gunpowder bags of bygone days, I found a board groaning under the latest efforts of the Commons' cuisine and magnums of champagne. Our little dinner was a pleasing relief after the damnable iteration and truculent eloquence of the Irish brigade.

Presently we escorted the ladies to Capt. Gosset's box, and ourselves adjourned to the members' smoking-room, where there was a curious medley of members. At midnight another adjournment was made for grilled bones, and so the night passed away in alternate sittings and "adjournments" of this kind, until morning dawned upon us and the House. At this juncture another adjournment was made, when I was introduced for the first time to what is known in the House as the Home Rule drink—the very backbone, I understand, of obstruction, for after a jorum of it one becomes imbued with staying power for any number of consecutive hours. This is the receipt: Beat up well two raw eggs, mix with a large glass of hot milk, and add a wine-glass of real Irish whiskey. This beats Mr. Gladstone's ostrum of sherry egg-flip into a cocked hat, to quote the expressive language of the House now, and is guaranteed to make the most silent member eloquent. I am ashamed to say how long I remained on at the House after this; suffice it that when I returned to the bosom of my family they scarcely seemed to know me. to believe that the devil is unseasonably takplace. But the sad truth is that of the conerate murder the majority, of late years, are born and bred without city limits, and have not been subjected to the temptations that are supposed to beset the inhabitants of great towns. And, for the most part, the In other offenses, like those of burglary, larceny, and disturbances of the peace, the cities lead. But murder, and rape, and arson are in great measure confined to the country. Why this should be it is not easy to say, There are certainly more men to kill and be killed, more houses to burn,

In Mrs. Burnett's "A Fair Barbarian," the heroine, a bright girl from Nevada, is set down for a time in the little English village of down for a time in the little English village of "Slowbridge," where she shocks the dowagers with her elegant dresses and diamonds, and wins the hearts of the young men. Lucia, a quiet little English girl who has won her friendship, attempts some advice as follows: (We quote from the March number of Scribner.)

"There is something—I think I would do if—if I were in your place," Lucia stammered. "A very little thing i med."

"Well?" remarked Octavia, anxiously.
Lucia lost her breath, caught it again, and proceeded cautiously, and with blushes at her own daring.

"If I were in your place," she said, "I think—that perhaps—only perhaps, you know—I would not wear—my hair—quite so low down—over my forehead."

Octavia sprang from her seat, and ran to the pier-glass over the mantel. She glanced at the reflection of her own startled, pretty face, and then, putting her hand up to the soft blonde "bang" which mether brows, turned to Lucia.

"Isn't it becoming?" she asked, breathless-ly, "Oh, yes!" Lucia answered. "Very." Octavia started.

"There why wouldn't you wear it?" she cried. "What do you mean?"

Lucia felt her position truly a delicate one. She locked her hands and baraced herself; but "Slowbridge," where she shocks the dowagers

She locked her hands and braced herself; but she blushed vividly.

"It may sound rather silly when I tell you why, Octavia," she said; "but I really do think it is a sort of reason. You know, in those absurd pictures of actresses, bangs always seem to be the principal feature. I saw some in the shop windows, went I went to Harriford with grandmamma. And they were such dreadful women—some of them—and had so very few clothes on, that I can't help thinking I shouldn't like to look like them, and—"

"Does it make me look like them?"

"Does it make me look like them?"

"Does it make me look like them?"

"Oh, very little!" answered Lucia; "very little indeed, of course; but—"

"But it's the same thing, after all," put in Octavia. "That's what you mean."

"It is so very little," faltered Lucia, "that—that perhaps it isn't a reason.

Octavia looked at herself in the glass again.

"It isn't a very good reason," she remarked, "but I suppose it will do."

She paused, and looked Lucia in the face.

"I don't think that's a little thing," she said. "To be told you look like an opera bouffe actress." will be a trusted and influential adviser of

"I did not mean to say so," cried Lucia, filled with the most poignant distress. "I beg your pardon, indeed—I—oh dear! I was afraid you wouldn't like it. I felt that it was taking a great liberty."

"I don't like it," answered 'Octavia: "but that can't be helped. I didn't exactly suppose I should. But I wasn't going to say anything about your hair when I began," glancing at poor Lucia's coiffure, "though I suppose I might."

"You might say a thousand things about it!" cried Lucia piteously. "I know that mine is not only in bad taste, but it is ugly and unbecoming."

not only in bad taste, but it is ugly and unbecoming."

"Yes," said Octavia cruelly, "it is."

"And yours is neither the one nor the other," protested Lucia. "You know I told you it was pretty, Octavia."

Octavia walked over to the table upon which stood Miss Belinda's work basket, and took therefrom a small and gleaming pair of scisors, returning to the mantle glass with them.

"How short shall I cut it?" she demanded.

"Oh!" exclaimed Lucia, "Don't—don't!"

For answer Octavia raised the scissors and gave a snip. It was a savage snip, and half the length and width of her love locks fell on the mantle; then she gave another snip and the other half fell.

Lucia scarcely dared to breathe.

For a moment Octavia stood gazing at her self with pale face and dilated eyes. Then suddenly the folly of the deed she had done seemed to reveal itself to her.

"Oh!" she cried out. "Oh, how diabolical it looks."

She turned upon Lucia.

"Why did you make me do it?" she exclaimed. "It's all your fault—every bit of it!" and flinging the scissors to the other end of the room, she flung herself into a chair and burst into tears.

Lucia's anguish of mind was almost-more than she could bear. For at least three minutes she felt herself a criminal of the deepest dye: after the three minutes had elapsed however, she began to reason, and called to mind the fact that she was failing as usual under her adding

Office Hours.

An Entertaining Little Scene in a County Clerk's Office.

It is generally known that the office hours of the day's business by 6 o'clock. The office hours named would seem to be long enough to give anybody who had business to transact with the county clerk, ample time. A well known business man was not suited with the yesterday with a venomous energy that was as offensive as it subsequently proved ludicrous. The county clerk and two of his deputies were busily engaged in posting books, entering and filing papers, etc., about 4.20 o'clock, when there came a knock at the door. As that sort of thing was not unusual, no attention was paid to it. The knock was soon followed by the jolliest kind of a fist tattoo, which also failed of its purpose. A moment of silence followed, interrupted by the hurried scratching of the clerks' pens and the sound of rustling papers The person outside was growing imatient, and in another moment had evidently raised one foot and both hands in sullen punishment of the unyielding wood. The noise became so turbulent that deputy Hosmer went to the door and uncatching it peeped out and asked what was the matter. There stood revealed a business man of the city, who is known to have business hours as unyielding as granite, and who would no more think of paying out a penny or receiving a deposit after 3 o'clock than he does of going to heaven to-

3 o'clock than he does of going to heaven today.

Business man.—"Why don't you let me in?
What do you mean? Is the county clerk here?
We elected him for our accommodation. What do you mean by locking your doors? What do you keep me standing outside for? Where's the county clerk?

Mr. Liggett. You seem to be excited, sir. I am the county clerk.

B. M.—"What do you mean, sir. We elected you to serve the people. What do you want of me?" brandisning the paper in his hand at the same moment. "Where's the county clerk?"
Mr. L.—'I am the county clerk."
B. M.—"Hey?"
Mr. L. repeats his statement. So does the
b. m. Then he breaks loose again:
"I have business to transact here. Why didn't you open your door? What are you locked in here for? What do you mean? We elected you.

Mr. Liggett had no opportunity to thank his visit of or securing his position for him. He will doubtless make, it a point to call on him.

is it? An alley opening notice?" and the genial smile expands.

A Post and Tribune reporter, who had entered the office before 4 o'clock and been occupied with the court record, at this point snickers audibly. The b. m. glares at him ferociously, and the reporter turns his back to chuckle at his ease. The good deputy's smile seems suddenly to have spread infectiously all round the office, and another snicker from the reporter is echoed from behind the desk in the further corner of the room. The obstreperous visitor, who had been standing on first one foot and then another like a cold-toed chicken, glares around the room again, and again unburdens himself.

"Well, suppose it is an alley opening notice.

giares around the room again, and again unburdens himself.

"Well, suppose it is an alley opening notice. Isn't this the county clerk's office? What do you mean? What do you want of me?"

The deputy's face immediately becomes as solemn as night, and with tears in his eyes and an unaffected tremor in his voice, he says quietly, "My dear friend, we don't want anything of you. We are so sorry, but we cannot do anything for you. This is the county clerk's office," (another reportorial snicker that threatens a guffaw,) "but we haven't anything to do with opening alleys. Perhaps you had better inquire of the city clerk. We are sorry to have you, you know, but it's the only thing you can do. Good-bye," he added, amid a loud laugh all around as the angered but humiliated business man rushed frantically from the office. Somehow a man never feels happy when he has made a jolly old idiot of himself

The Popular Vote for President

In your paper of this date you follow the Cincinnati Enquirer in giving to General Hancock a popular majority of 8,106. These figures give the totals:

.4,416,584 .4,424,690 .313,893 10,791 3,285 .9,169,213 Total.

Garfield's plurality.... Hancock that can be claimed for him, he is in a minority of over 8,000 votes.

Many of the errors in current tables have arisen from a failure to correct by the official returns from the more distant States (conspicuously Nevada, Tennessee, and Texas) and by failing to construct the tables upon the manifestly fair principle of awarding to each candidate the actual vote cast by his party in the respective States.

Very respectfully,

Scribner's for March is an excellent number and particularly strong in its illustrated articles. These are eight in number. The first, In London with Dickens, by B. E. Martin, is supplementary to the Dickens articles heretofore published in the Monthly, and deals chiefly with the scenes of Bleak House and Little Dorrit, giving pictures of the Marshalsea, Chancery Lane, Lincoln's Inn, and other famous localities. A paper of interest to sportsmen is Striped Bass, by Francis Endicott. Charles Barnard nescribes Ericsson's topedo boat, the Destroyer. Mr. Bacon's Glimpses of Parisian Art, affords an entertaining account of the work of some of the foremost French and Spanish artists now living in Paris. Mrs. M. B. Amory has a paper on her grandfather, John Singleton Copley, more instructive in illustration than in text. A short sketch of Charles and Mary Lamb is prefaced by portraits of the two, and Mrs. Piatt's poem is illustrated by Mary Hallock Foote. Schuyler's Peter the Great has many pictures and is as dull as ever. There is a second instalment of Mrs. Burnett's novelette, A Fair Barbarian: Rev. More Testimony Favorable to the Hospital.

THE LODGES KEPT SUFFICIENTLY WARM.

[Special Despatch to the Press.]

AUGUSTA, Feb. 28. Dr. Harlew was the first witness before the Insane Hospital committee this morning. He was asked by Mr. Baker to state the facts relative to the case of premature birth at the hospital which has been testified to. The patient, he said, was admitted in 1876, and the last of July he was called to her room by the attendant. He found a good deal of flowage and immediately sent for Miss Ham, who had a good deal of experience with lying-in women. He was in the room only a few minutes and made no examination of the body. It is not their custom to make examinations, he said, but to call in attendants from outside in utes and made no examination of the body. It is not their custom to make examinations, he said, but to call in attendants from outside in order to save reports. The woman was put to bed and delivered of a foctus. She was then removed to the sick room. There was nothing about her to indicate her condition previous to her confinement. He had no suspicion of her condition when he was called. After shelhad been in the sick room about four weeks it became necessary to put her back in the hall. She had been subject to paroxysms before her confinement. After that for some time it was thought that she was going to recover, but she confinement. After that for some time it was thought that she was going to recover, but she did not. Her husband came to see her in August and expressed no dissatisfaction at what had been done. She is still in a demented state. He did not think that he ever ordered the patient bandaged. Miss Ham told me what the matter was when she came after me after she had examined the patient. TESTIMONY OF MISS HAM.

Miss Ham testified she had been accustomed to see the patient in question every day and did not discover her condition till the day of her confinement when Dr. Harlow called her. She then discovered it and called the doctor. The patient's insanity was intermittent before confinement and afterwards. Subsequently it increased. She is now quiet. She did not think the increase of her mania was due to her being taken from the sick room to the ward. The child had been born when she got to the room. Her condition was then plain but a few moments before it might have required a personal examination to determine it.

Dr. Harlow was recalled and asked about the case of Mr. Peabody. He replied that he was ill at the time and was suffering from general paralysis. He was a very uncomfortable patient because of his uncleanliness. Dr. Harlow said that as he passed along his rounds he was accustomed to look into his coom. It is not true that he did not see him for two weeks. He was receiving some special treatment, but his case was received. Miss Ham testified she had been accu He was receiving some special treatment, but his case was regarded as incurable. DR. SANBORN'S TESTIMONY.

DR. SANBORN'S TESTIMONY.

Dr. Sanborn presented the case book containing the minutes of the case of premature birth. He was familiar with the case before the miscarriage. The woman was very insane, violent at times, and then very reticent. When she was confined, temporarily she became better. (Dr. Butler here stated that no claim was made that the woman was made more insane by being put back into the ward.) Dr. Sanborn read from the record showing that the woman was married and had three children. She was taken very suddenly in the night before she came to the hospital with convulsions, losing all consciousness, a month before the birth of her second child. The book showed that the patient had been troubled with diarrhœa before confinement, and he thought this was the cause of her miscarriage. There was nothing to indicate her condition, TESTIMONY OF DR. OAKES.

Dr. Oakes testified that flowage in the early stages of pregnancy was not necessarily evidence that a miscarriage was about to take place. An attack of diarrhea often causes miscarriage. If a case of the kind described had occurred in his practice he should have made an examination. He might haveltrusted it to an attendant if he knew the attendant was a good one. He said he was aware that it was the practice of the officers of the hospital not to make personal examinations. The trustees had not thought best to take any action in the matter. TESTIMONY OF A LADY WHO HAS A SON IN

By Mr. Baker-You heard the testimony of Yes, sir.

Was that case brought to your attention shortly after it occurred?
No, sir. He has always said to me that no more violence had been used toward him than was required, and he retains his care for the was required, and he retains his care for the truth. I came to the conclusion that some-times it was necessary to take him from the private and confine him in order to secure the afety of the other patients.

By Mr. Butler—How did you examine into he case? Who did you inquire of?

I asked what his mental condition was when I visited him, and was told by Drs. Harlow, Neal and Sanborn, and one of the attendants who had him in charge that he had sometimes been removed from the private as I have

CAPT. LAKIN'S TESTIMONY.

He is there now? Yes, sir. I think he is perfectly safe there. Yes, sir. I think he is perfectly safe there.

CAPT. LAKIN'S TESTIMONY.

By Mr. Baker—Will you state about the heating arrangements of the lodges?

The lodge rooms are located on the sides of the third wings, as we call them, at the northerly and easterly ends. The method of heating the wings and lodges is about the same, by indirect radiation mainly. This is the production of heated air at some point and conducting it to the place where it is to be used. The lodges are cut off from the wings by a partition. The several floors of the lodges communicate with the contiguous lodges. Each lodge is for the use of that floor. The system of heating and ventilation is distinct from any other part of the building. The coils that heat them are located directly under the floor of the basement. The coils are a little less than ano-half mile in length, and are constructed of one inch pipe passing under each of the lodges. The heat from this coil is conveyed up by flues in the wall of the room, and entest the hall between the lodges by little holes near the top of the hall. There has been no change except in putting in new pipes since I have been there. The present winter we have not run the fires as late as previously. It has been the custom after the steam is turned off from the rest of the building to continue it to the lodges. This winter a pipe has been put in to carry the steam from the boiler to the lodges while the engineer is away, so that now there is steam in the lodges, and the time. Sometimes we have put in small local coits in the end of the lower lodge hall on the male side. Ever since I have been there it has seemed to be a question whether there was heat enough in the lodges, and examinations have been made by the trustees to ascertain regarding the matter. The superintendent has always thought there was heat enough. The orders to put in that pipe this winter came from the trustees. A record has been kept this winter, as often as once in three hours, of the temperature in the halls. Thermometers have often b By Mr. Butler—Are there not patients who hardly know their condition and would not know whether they were warm enough or

Yes, sir, I think there are. Do you think the heating arrangement is ifficient to keep the hospital comfortably Yes, sir. We can drive them all out door with the heat. By keeping a record we are burning less coal and shall probably save 200 or 300 tons, notwithstanding the severity of what is the percentage charged on the goods furnished to patients?

It might be from 3 to 4 per cent. On boots and shoes and some other things we charge 10 per cent, as this includes the cost of going and buying them and getting them here. Fault has been found with our charges for clothing destroyed; for instance, bedding, but prices have been falling of late. Goods bought for clothing are charged to the sewing room at cost prices, and when made up are charged again with the addition of what the seamstress may think proper. It was the duty of the trustees to charge the price of bed clothing as the charge occurred in the price of the goods. How often are patients taken out to ride?

They are taken out as often as the superintendent directs, and sometimes a little oftener. It is a general rule that the team shall be employed for this purpose when it will do them any good, and the team is not otherwise used.

The credentials of William Mahone from Virginia were filed.

Mr. Windom stated that he would ask to Mr. Windom stated that he would ask to submit some remarks on the Isthmys canal later in the day.

Mr. Eston gave notice that he would then press the resolution to vote.

Mr. Conkling, from the Judiciary Committee, reported favorably without amendment the House bill to authorize the registration of trade mark and protect the same. He also reported back adversely the Senate bill on the subject, and it was immediately postponed.

Mr. Davis submitted a conference report on the legislative appropriation bill. Adopted.

The sundry civil bill was received from the House and referred.

The Senate considered the House bill providing a construction fund for the navy and other purposes.

After debate the bill was finally recom-nitted. Mr. Windom addressed the Senate upon a resolution on the table declaring that the Government of the United States will insist that ernment of the United States will insist that its consent is a necessary condition precedent to the construction of an Isthmus thoroughfare. He said it did not comport with our honor or our national traditions to stubbornly block the world's progress. Our mission was to lead, not obstruct, and we must be prepared to give to the commerce of the world the facilities to which it is entitled.

The Senate insisted upon its amendment to the river and harbor bill and conferees were appointed. At 6.40 the Senate adjourned HOUSE.

The House met at 10 o'clock in continuance of Saturday's session.

Mr. Clymer in a brief speech presented to the House a portrait of Frederick A. Muhlenburg, Speaker of the first and third Congresses, which will be placed in the lobby in the rear of the Speaker's desk.

Mr. Hawley offered a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the Speaker to inform the great grandchildren of Muhlenburg of the satisfaction with which the portait was received.

Mr. Wells presented the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill. Agreed to. The agreement restores the Indian commission, but strikes out the appropriation of $10,000 for expenses.

Mr. Reagan moved for non-concurrence in Senate amendments to the river and harbor appropriation bill and the appointment of a conference committe.

Mr. Warner raised the point of order that it would have to be referred to the committee of the whole.

Mr. Reagan changed his motion to a motion to suspend the rules and non-concur in the amendments.

to suspend the rules and non-concur in the amendments.

Mr. Sparks moved to dispense with the morning hour. Negatived. Republicans voting solidly against it.

Under call of States the following bills, etc., were introduced and referred:

By Mr. Morton calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to the occupancy of the old post office building in New York since the removal of the post office. Also as to whether there is any good reason why that property should not now be sold.

By Mr. Belford a resolution calling on the Attorney General and Commissioner of Internal Revenue for information as to what suits are now pending in the U, S. Circuit and U. S. District courts for the southern district of New York against several railroads.

The Republicans called for the reading of bills introduced for the purpose, presumably, of postponing the consideration of the funding bill which it was expected would be called up.

Mr. Ladd introduced a resolution of the Maine Legislature relative to the East River bridge.

House disagreed to Senate amendments to the river and harbor bill and a conference committee was appointed.

Conference report on the legislative bill was agreed to.

BOUND TO WASHINTON.

President-Elect Garfield Leaves Mentor.

Mentor, O., Feb. 28.—Gen. Garfield took his departure for Washington at 12.30 to-day on a special train made up by the Pennsylvania Company. The air was crisp and clear and the entire population of Mentor and neighboring villages, with many visitors from distant points, assembled to bid the Presidentelect "God speed." The Presidential party consisted of Gen. Garfield, wife and mother, Mrs. Eliza Garfield, two sons, Irvin and Abram, daughter, Miss Hattie, with four servants, Gen. D. G. Swatm, Col. L. A. Sheldon and wife, Capt. C. E. Henry, O. L. Judd and J. D. Brown, Secretary. After assisting the ladies on the train Gen. Garfield appeared on the platform and in response to a farewell address delivered by A. L. Tinker, of Parnesville, responded in a cordial and feeling speech, expressive of the friendly and confidential relations that existed between himself and his neighbors and constituents. A stop of fifteen minutes was made at Ashtabula, where the citizens gave an enthusiastic greeting and the military fired salutes. Here the President-elect also briefly addressed his fellow-citizens, after which the train rushed rapidly on.

Youngstown, O., Feb. 28.—Dinner was furnished Gen. Garfield and party just before the train reached Warren. No wine was served. Great Snow Blockade in Wisconsin.

A GENERAL FREEZE ALONG THE MIS-SISSIPPI RIVER.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 28.—The rain of Saturday changed into a fearful blow and heavy snow on Sunday. The ice moving cut of the river Sunday night broke three tugs and one vessel loose but they were recovered without much damage.. Railroad trains on all lines centering in Milwaukee are suspended by the heaviest snow blockade of the entire season. The water and snow combined with freezing makes it certain that the railroads will be c eared with the greatest difficulty. freezing makes it certain that the railroads will be c eared with the greatest difficulty.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 28.—Telegrams from many points report heavy rains for several hours, followed by a freeze over a territory east of the Mississippi river over three hundred miles wide and extending north and south nearly the whole length of the river. The change to freezing is principally north of the mouth of the Ohio river.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—The storm of wind and snow which began yesterday afternoon continues. Telegraph reports, which are badly interrupted, make it the severest of the season in Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. Minnesota and Western Iowa were only slightly visited by it. Trains on all the railroads centering at Chicago are delayed, and freight trains are not attempting to move out. Twenty-three mails are overdue.

The storm on Lake Michigan yesterday was the severest experienced for years. At the crib the wind blew 63\frac{1}{2} miles per hour and the ice surged past at the rate of seven miles per hour. There was great danger that the port holes might become obstructed with ice and cut off Chicago's water supply, but men working with water up to their waists managed to keep them clear. keep them clear.

Gentlemen from Clinton, Iowa, said the train passed through some sections of the prairies where little farm houses were almost half submerged by water, and that miles of railway tracks were submerged.

Irish Bishops' Advice to their Peo-THE LAND LEAGUE SAID TO BE DIS-

The Protection Bill in the House Lords.

Dublin, Feb. 28.—In their Lenten pastorals read on Sunday, several Roman Catholic bishops alluded to the state of Ireland. Dr. Dugan, bishop of Clonfert, forwards the Pope's letter to his clergymen, and ands: "It is needless to assure His Holiness that the Irish people will receive and obey his paternal wishes with that reverential love which is characteristic of their traditional fidelity to the Holy See. His Holiness may feel consoled by the assurance that in the present anxious condition of affairs, though some incidents have occurred to be regretted there is no danger of a departure on the part of the Irish people from the principles of equity add justice. In the meantime it is earnestly hoped that Parliament will soon, by wise, vigorous and incisive legislation, put an end forever to this burning agitation that will not cease to exercise the public mind until it is finally settled in conformity with the eternal laws of equity and justice."

Dr. Donnelly, Bishop of Clogher, says: "Our ountry presents at this moment to the gaze of the world a social upheaving which is calculated to inspire all with the greatest disquietude. After being rescued by the charity of the world from the jaws of a terrible famine, the people have risen from their lethargy, and joining together in lawful combination, have proclaimed that they shall no longer submit to conditions of life which keep the bulk of them in chronic abasement and misery, to be turned into the horrors of a national famine through the failure of a single esculent. Is it not time that such a state of things should end, and that Irishmen who are patterns of industry, thrift, loyalty and prosperity in every foreign land, should no longer be kept in perpetual struggle between life and death on this island which God has given for their support? While we asked the clergy to impress on their flocks the necessity of prudence, moderation and charity in the present agitation, and the need of keeping strictly within the laws of God and His church, and of civil laws as well, we call on priests and people to join with us at this supreme moment in making an earnest appeal to the Almighty God that He may move the hearts of our rulers and legislators to send at length a message of relief to a long suffering ration. If political organization, a hither-to legal expedient, comes to be suppressed by coercive measures, the clergy must redouble their vigilance lest the popular enthusiasm may turn itself into other channels and secret combinations and dark conspiracy take the place of open action and agitation. They should warn the people assiduously against all secret and illegal societies, equally imperiling their temporal and eternal interests."

It is understood the bulk of the Conservatives in the Commons will support a motion for urgency on the arms bill. Messages have been sent to Parnell and Dillon urging them to return to oppose the arms bill in the House. Many Liberals are much dissatisfied with the government's determination to proceed with the bill.

In the Commons this afternoon the Speaker declared that the bill for the better protection for person and property in Ireland having passed the House the state of public business was no longer urgent.

Meeting of the Land League. The usual weekly meeting of the Portland branch of the Irish National Land and Industrial League was held last evening in the hall of the Irish American Relief Association. In the absence of the secretary, Mr. Hugh F. McGowan was appointed secretary pro tem. The president announced that the collection of monthly dues was in order, after which the members came forward and paid their assessments. The list of members was increased by the addition of four new names. The Ladies' League held a meeting in the ante-room and at the close were invited to attend the meeting of the gentlemen. In Memory of Dr. Shailer Services in memory of the late Dr. Shailer were observed in the First Baptist church in Augusta, on Sunday. A large congregation was present. Rev. Dr. Ricker, and the pastor, Rev. H. W. Tilden conducted the exercises. Rev. Mr. Sargent, who was familiar with the early life of the deceased; was absent on account of sickness. After the singing of beautiful and appropriate pieces by the choir, the reading of scripture and prayer, an address was given by Dr. Ricker on the general work accomplished by Dr. Shailer, his judicial mind, excellent judgment and pure Christian character. He spoke of him as a man whose impulses were always held in abeyance by his impulses were always held in abeyance by his calm reasoning powers and excellent judment. He was methodical, having no time to indulge in visions or dreams. While he filled many important positions of trustgand responsibility, attaining to a position of commanding influence, it was personal religion that gloritied and crowned his life. Rev. Mr. Tilden gave a running sketch of the life of the deceased. He spoke as one to whom this grief has come as a personal sorrow; tenderly alluded to his baptism by Dr. Shailer when in camp at Portland, after he had entered the army; to his friendship, constant and enduring, and closed with a description of the last scenes on earth of one description of the last scenes on earth of one who had been to him so dear a friend. The exercises throughout were of a very interesting and impressive nature. There were present beside the usual congregation, representatives in the Legislature from the western part of the state, and quite a number of ladies and gentlemen from Hallowell.

The Worst Yet. Yesterday was about the worst day of the season. There were but few gutters cleared and the rushing waters, in the heavy rains, had full sweep of the streets. The crossings were horrible, and those pedestrians who had Young Men's Christian Association on Wednesno rubber boots were lucky if they escaped day evening, March 2d. The gospel meeting with dry feet. In the afternoon the rain | sually held on that evening will be held on changed to a drizzle, with a Scotch mist.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

HUMPTY DUMPTY. Nick Roberts' Humpty Dumpty troupe gave an admirable performance at Portland Theatre last night, and it is to be regretted that while there was a good audience present, every seat was not taken. This old familiar pantomime was brought out with new tricks, and all the old good ones, while the specialty or variety business was excellent. The bicycle riding of the Stark family was very graceful and wonderful, the little Cupid arousing a perfect storm of applause. The dancing, tricks and conch playing by the Miramichi, or Onofroi Brothers—it matters little what you call them —was as good of its kind as has ever been seen here, and Portland has eeen about as good as any other city. The Ashton Brothers proved themselves good acrobats, after one or two contretemps at the beginning of their act and their horizontal bar business, with Dick Reno, was first-rate. The three clowns made any amount of fun, Miss Grimaldi was a good Columbine and the other parts were well taken.

Mr. Dave Richards painted the scenery for the new City Hall at Saco, Me., and his artistic work is the subject of many compliments.

Lillian Spencer, Kate Denin, Genevieve Mills, Josie Wilmer, Charles Wheatleigh, William Raynor, J. G. Saville, John Wilson and E. L. Walton are members of the new "Hazel Kirk" company which enters upon the New England circuit this week.

Bartley Campbell's "Galley Slave" combination, which appears at New Portland Theatre soon, has among its members Gussie De Forrest, Signora Majeroni, Miss Nellie Barbour, Mrs. Clara Stoneall, Messrs. Frank Evans, Junius Brutus Booth, Thomas Burns and Edwin F. Knowles.

Personal. The Republicans of Auburn have nominated George S. Woodman for Mayor and the Prohibitionists George B. Barnum. Simon F. Walker, for several years City Marshal of Bangor, died in that city Sunday, at the age of 64 years. Capt. Allen Moore died in Yokohama, Japan, on the 13th of January. He was a native of Gouldsboro. During the war he was in the naval service and was sailing master of transports on the Mississippi and other Southern waters. He took part in the siege of Vicks-

Gen. J. Manchester Haynes, of Augusta, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Will Stockbridge and Philip L. Paine, of this city, are to go to Farmington this week to sing in Pinafore, the former taking the part of Ralph Rackstraw and the latter Capt. Corcoran. The other characters are assumed by amateurs from Farmington and North Anson. Three members of Chandler's Band accompany them as a part of the orchestra. The opera is said to be creating quite a sensation, being a new thing in that section.

Col. W. H. Waldron, who died in Lewiston Friday, was publisher of the Portland Advertiser when Hon. J. G. Blaine was its editor. Boston Herald, and in company with ex-Gov. Garcelon started the Lewiston Journal. He recruited a company for the 16th Maine during the war and went to the front as its captain. At Fredericksburg he was so severely wounded as to incapacitate him for further service. He was subsequently honored with the brevet rank of colonel. Up to the time of the Greeley campaign he was a Republican. In that campaign he supported Greeley and started the Lewiston Gazette, which has since been a Democratic newspaper and a good one.

Practical Electricity. The regular meeting of the Payson Literary Society was held at Army and Navy Hall last evening. President James E. Marrett was in the chair The society paper, The Oracle, was read by Mr. Charles R. Lewis. Then followed a "practical talk on galvanic or voltaic electricity" by Mr. Arthur B. Mor-

A historical sketch was given of the growth of the important truths pertaining to electricity, a knowwledge of which is essential for properly understanding its varied applications. In 1789 Galvani by experimenting with frogs discovered that when two different metals in contact connected two parts of a frog the muscles were forced to contract. This was the first noticed manifestation of galvanic electricty. Soon after Volta constructed his famous pile of alternating pairs of copper and zinc discs, by which he developed electricity, thus showing that animal tissues were not necessary $ to the production of this new form In 1819 Oersted discovered that a curren passing parallel to a suspended magnet causes it to assume a position across the direction of the current. Ampere soon after discovered that a current passing around a piece of soft iron makes a temporary magnet of it. In 1831 Farraday discovered the reverse of Ampere's truth, namely, that a magnet insert-ed inside of agoil produces an instantaneous current in the coil current in the coil.

The essential parts of a galvanic battery are The essential parts of a galvanic battery are two substances, generally metals, separated by moisture. One substance must be susceptible of being acted upon chemically by the moisture. Chemical action is the cause of galvanic electricity. There are many different forms of galvanic batteries, but the essential parts and principles are the same in them all. The application of the foregoing truths in the telegraph, fire alarms and telephone was explained and illustrated.

A Voltaic cup was shown, a galvanometer was ed and illustrated.

A Voltaic cup was shown, a galvanometer was tried, a powerful magnet was made, the fire alarm was struck, a telegraph signal was sent, an inductive coil was worked, a telephone apparatus was shown and explained. Every experiment was successfully performed. Funeral Services. The funeral of Mrs. Jane Stanley Warren wife of Dr. I. P. Warren, editor of the Christian Mirror, occurred at the family residence on Brackett street yesterday afternoon at halfpast two o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Clark, pastor of the Williston church. At the opening of the services a quartette, consisting of Miss Belle Bartlett, Mrs. Hawes, Messrs. Morgan and Shaw, sang a Ifa vorite hymn of the departed, "Whiter than Snow. After the reading of appropriate selections of Scripture, Mr. Clark in fitting words referred to the traits of character which the deceased so beautifully illustrated in her life-her fortitude, kindness, [cherfulness, in a word her thorough unselfishness. The prayer was followed by the duet "Thy Will be Done,"

and the remains were then borne to Evergreen

Sunday afternoon, about 6 o'clock, as Miss Bradbury, daughter of Hon. Bion Bradbury, turned to leave the guest chamber, located in the third story rear of Mr. Bradbury's house on Park street, she noticed that the curtain of one of the windows had taken fire from the gas jet and was blazing up. She gave the alarm and at the same time tried to extinguish the flames. Mr. Samuel Chadwick happened to see the fire and hastening to the house assisted the family in putting it out, Before that was accomplished the furniture and apartment had been damaged to the amount of about $300. The house and furniture were insured in the Etna with Dow, Coffin & Libby for $8500.

The citizens who have not yet procured tickets for the Inauguration Ball, and intend doing so, had better be about it at once. The band concert by Chandler's full military band will prove one of the taking features of the evening. We understand the ball will be a rival to the old Inauguration balls at the beginning and just

Scenes in Early English History. Despite the storm a good audience gathered at Plymouth church last evening to take a trip with Dr. Bolles through the early scenes of English history. It was a lecture worthy of this gentleman's fame in the lecture field, and was beautifully illustrated. All the places famous in Roman, Saxon and Norman times were exhibited, as promised in yesterday's PRESS, and when the audience left it was with the determination to attend the rest of the same nouse, and the mother's relations with her son were not pleasant. Previous to the tragedy he bore a very bad reputation, and had been arrested several times for straling. Last fall he voted the Greenback ticket, and, if he is worthy of credence, for this act, which his mother looked upon as a heinous crime, he was turned out of doors and teld to get his own living for the future. He went off in search of employment, but found none. After his father went to the woods his mother told him he might stay with her during the winter. He came back the first of February. Since then he and his mother have frequently quarrelled over the sale of farm produce, his mother accusing him of selling produce and putting the proceeds in his own pocket. On the day of the tragedy Charles drove his mother to the Mills in a pung. When they got back a quarrel over the sale of some potatoes took place, and it was while this was in progress that he seized the hammer and struck his mother two blows, the last of which proved fatal.

The day following the murder Mrs. Lilly, having occasion to go to the kitchen in the other part of the house, noticed that the windows and doors were open, and detected the stench of burning flesh. One of the stove doors was slightly broken and she saw through the chinks something that looked like a piece of meat sizzling on the ruddy coals. Her brother was down celler picking over potatoes. Mrs. Lilly called, "Charlie, what is that which smells so?" He replied that he was cleaning out the stove. She knew that he was accustomed, during his mother's absence, to throw all the cold meat into the fire, as he disliked warmed-over food, and she thought nothing further of the occurrence. The next morning she asked her brother what had become of her mother, and he replied that he guessed she had gone to visit several sick families who lived in remote parts of the town as she had put on her best clothing and left home the day before. The sister's anxiety was thus dispelled and she supposed that everything was all r

The finger of suspicion pointed toward the young man, Charles, whose nonchalance and apparent indifference at his mother's non-appearance were certainly peculiar. Saturday morning little groups of men gathered around the house. They talked together at first in whispers, and then out boldly that Charles Merrill was a murderer. About noon a squad of men, under the direction of Deputy Sheriff Percival, commenced a thorough search of the premises. Charles followed them around, with his hands in his pockets, as cool as if the result of the search did not mean life or death to him. Soon the men began to come upon traces of foul play. The snow near the stable door was in places stained with blood. There were prints of bloody fingers upon the wooden floor of the sitting room near the fire place, and the andirons were coated over with what looked and smelled like burned flesh of some kind. The hay in the barn was pitched about and the manure heap thoroughly thrown over. A few thrusts of the fork, and the strongest recoiled from the sickening sight. There, in that [manure, were charred chunks of human flesh, cut into small pleces, and evidently half burned. Near them were several forkfuls of straw saturated with blood. The chain of evidence was now so complete that the deputy shoriff arrested Charles, and at once dispatched a messenger to Augusta after Coroner Wm. H. Libby, asking him to come to China as soon as possible and hold an inquest over the remains. The man arrived at Mr. Libbys remised to start for China the first thing Sunday morning.

Sunday Coroner Libby arrived. The house was surrounded by crowds of country people in a state of intense excitement. New discoveries had been made since daybreak. A pile of ashes had been found in the rear of the ell, in which were fragments of the human skull, a few hairpins, a few buttons from a woman's dress, and a few slight ornaments. It he stable an axe had been found with its blade covered with blood. Men were constantly bringing into the house little things which went to A reminder of the war and its troublous times was last week presented to F. Shaw & Bro., tanners in Boston, in the shape of $1.05 worth of their own scrip, dated November 20, 1862, which was forwarded from Maine for redemption. The scrip was issued by the firm at their tanneries in Maine in order to make change, and some $2000 worth was issued in 5, 10, 15, 25 and 50 cent pieces. At the time it was issued great difficulty was experienced in making small change; postage stamps had been resorted to and found to be a costly nuisance, and so the firm in question issued their own signed scrip, handsomely engraved, with a green back, and it passed current in Maine readily, and the firm even have had it presented for redemption from far distant points. On Sunday, February 20th, a man giving the name of P. G. Franklin, and saying that he was in the employ of Shaw, Hammond & Carney, of this city, hired a horse and sleigh of Knights Brothers, of South Berwick, to go, he said, to Kittery. He promised to be back the following Wednesday, but nothing has been seen of him since. It is ascertained that no such man was ever in the employ of Shaw, Hammond & Carney. It is thought the team may have been sold in this city. Franklin was apparently about 35 years of age.

THE MERRILL MATRICIDE.

FURTHER DETAILS OF THE WEEKS

Further details of the tragedy at Weeks Mills only serve to emphasize the diabolical nature of the crime and stamp it as without parallel in the criminal annals of Maine. Charles Merrill, the murderer, is 23 years of age and lived with his mother, whose name was Deborah Merrill, and whose age was 54, in a low story and a half farm house about a mile north of the village of Weeks Mills. Mrs. Merrill and her son occupied one half of the house and Mrs. Merrill's daughter, Mrs. Lilly, the other. Mrs. Merrill's husband has been away all winter in the woods logging. The mother and her children have not got along happily. There was no intercourse between Mrs. Merrill and her daughter, though they lived in the same house, and the mother's relations with her son were not pleasant. Previous to the tragedy he bore a very bad reputation, and had

She feared that he had stolen some meat from a neighbor and taken this method of disposing of it. The next morning he washed the andirons.

Several days passed. A horrible foreboding that everything was not all right seized upon Mrs. Lilly. She questioned her brother closely about her mother's whereabouts, but could elicit nothing satisfactory. A neighbor dropped in, and Mrs. Lilly communicated her suspicions that foul play had been committed. This lady at once notified Deputy Sheriff Frank Percival of China, who visited the house and conversed with Mrs. Lilly. This was Friday. By this time whisper and intimations began to float through the neighborhood that Mrs. Merrill had been foully murdered. Steamer Falmouth, Hall, Boston for Eastport and St John, NB.

STAMPING. STAMPED GOODS. A Wonderful Wood.

[Virginia City (Nev.) Enterprise.] We have in this State a wonderful wood known as "mountain mahogany." The trees do not grow large. A tree with a trunk a foot in diameter is much above the average. When dry the wood is about as hard as box wood, and being of a very fine grain might, no doubt, be used for the same purposes. It is of a rich, red color and very heavy. When well easoned it would be a fine material for the wood carver. In the early days it was used in wood carver. In the early days it was used in making boxes for shafting, and in a few instances for shoes and dies in a quartz battery. Used as a fuel it creates intense heat. It burns with a blaze as leng as ordinary wood would last and is then found (almost unchanged in form) converted to a charcoal that lasts about twice as long as ordinary wood. For fuel it sells much higher than any kind of wood; indeed, a cord of it always brings the same price as a ton of coal. The only objection to it as a fuel is that it creates such an intense heat as to burn out stoves more rapidly than any kind to burn out stoves more rapidly than any kind of coal, however bad.

ul discovery for alleviating pain. For years he suffered from neuralgic pains, unable to find any remedy among the hundreds which he tried that would give him permanent ease. Finally he became con inced that he must become his own physician and seek, oy experiments, for the desired relief. He had taken all the well known sedatives, which gave only tempory relief, and produced nervousness, loss of appetite, &c. He now sought for a combination of such remedies as would, by outward application, cure nim of his distress and at the same time not be injurious to his system.

Trials and experiments followed this determination until he at last produced a compound which by application, entirely subdued all pain and allowed his system to recuperate, and throw off the To his discovery Prof. Edison gave the name

POLYFORM.

Gratified with the result upon himself, he tested as discovery upon others who suffered from nervous pain, and in every case the relief was perfect. The cures performed by his gifts of Polyfotm be-same so celebrated and the demand upon his time and attention so great, Prof Edison finally yielded to the solicitation of those who knew the merits of ais preparation and allowed a company to be formed for the manufacture and sale of Polyform under his upervision.

The number of remarkable cures, and the suffer

In this new combination we have blended toget are by DISTILLATION (which cannot be effectually done in any other way,) the Balsam Tolu, Rock Sandy, pure Old Rye Whiskey, and a VALUABLE TONIO, which preserves all the virtues of the ingredients, yielding valuable expectorant qualities and giving the article a fine flavor and an agreeable taste. Balsam Tolu has long been used by the medical profession for its soothing, healing and nourishing properties, in allaying any irritation of the throat, chest and lungs. Tolu Rock and kye is a diffusive stimulant, creating a healthy appetite and toning up the system generally. The emisent chemist Prof. G. A. Muriner of Chicago has analyzed and cheerfully recommends its use. The purity of the ingredients used makes it a pleas-nt, healthful tonic and appetizing beverage for all.

Portland Daily Press FOR 1881.

The Portland Daily Press is the largest and best daily newspaper in Maine, containing reading mat-ter in larger quantity and greater variety than any journal of its class in the State.

ITS NEWS DEPARTMENTS

are always filled with the latest information on current affairs both at home and abroad, received by telegraph and by mail. Special attention is paid to local and State matters, and its facilities for ob-taining prompt and reliable news from all parts of the State are unexcelled. During the coming session of the LEGISLATURE, it will be represented at Augusta by a capable special correspondent who will furnish full daily reports of the proceedings. The election of a United States Senator and the settlement of the State valuation, both of which will devolve upon the next Legislature, as well as the fact that that Legislature will be the last for two years will render the coming session one of great interest and importance. As a

the PRESS must commend itself to every citizen of Maine engaged in trade or commerce. It contains daily reports by telegraph of the condition of for-eign and domestic markets, while the importance of Portland as a distributing centre for the State makes its local market reports of great value. Its ship news is always full and accurate. In its EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT it is stronger than any daily journal in Maine. Its treatment of the current political topics of the day is prompt, able and discriminating, while its book reviews and literary criticisms are prepared with great care and are notable for their keen insight and pure and finished literary style. AS A POLITICAL JOURNAL.

the PRESS will be devoted as in the past to a dis-criminating support of the Republican party, and will stand through thick and thin for the equal rights of all citizens throughout the length and rights of all citizens throughout the length and breadth of the Republic. It will always speak out for education, good morals and just laws, believing that the safety of the nation depends upon these that the safety of the nation depends upon these things.

The events of the coming year at home and abroad bid fair to be of unusual interest. The development of the policy of the incoming national administration must attract great attention and be eagerly watched. Abroad the condition of affairs in Ireland is becoming more threatening, and the day may not be far distant when news from that quarter will be of absorbing interest. A daily journal with telegraph reports from all sections of our own country and other countries will therefore be a necessity to every citizen of Maine who takes an inelligent interest in affairs.

The Daily Press is offered to mail subscribers—postage paid—for $7 per year, $3.50 for six months or $1.75 for three months, if paid strictly in ad The DAILY PRESS will be furnished for the Legislative session for $1.50.

THE MAINE STATE PRESS is now the largest and best weekly paper in Maine. It is full of news and general matter—literary, scientific, agricultural and commercial. It has also full market reports and marine news. Terms §2 per year in advance, six months for $1 and three months for 50 cents.

No one en say too muchin praise of it, and no one can afford to do without it. All who investigate thor aghly, use it, and consider it invainable and indispensable. It is the safest, simplest, cheapest and most efficient medicine ever discovered. No claim is set up for it which is unscientific or impracticable.

Several.—It is the best of rest. It is perfectly safe. No harm ever came from its use. It strains no portion of the system. It directs the vital forces to the affected parts. By its use the health is easily maintained. The purchase of a Reactionary Lifter is the best kind of economy. The convenience of having one in the house is very great.

Mind and Brain.—It invigorates and strengthens the brain, and renders it more active and efficient in all its operations.

Sleep.—It is the simplest and safest narcotic. It is the most natural and probably the best means of inducing sound and refreshing sleep.

Nerves.—It is a wonderful tonic to the whole nervous system. It is a most efficacions remedy in paralysis, if taken in time.

Langs, Thront and Voice.—It gives special expansion and greater mobility to the chest; enlarges the lungs; increases the volume of respiration, and brings the voice more fully under control. As a preventive and cure of lung diseases it has no equal. Exercise.—It is the most perfect exercise for man or woman, furnishing the best form of physical culture and development in the safest, easiest, most thorough and expeditious manner. It is better than the gymnasium, and free from its dangers; cheaper than the saddle; less laborious than boating and infinitely better than drugs in a majority of chronic diseases. It rounds and hardens the muscles, and educates them into ever ready, faithful and efficient servants of the will.
