THE OLIO.

From the Fredericksburg Herald.

The Ship in a Storm.

As the wintry gale harder is blowing,
In gloom the sun sinking away;
As the wild billow darker is growing,
And brighter the flash of its spray—

See the ship, her reefed topsail descending,
The hoarse boatswain piping aloud,
While the seamen to furl them ascending,
Hang over the surge from the shroud!

List again to that proud boatswain piping!
The "mizen" is from him who controls;
And the mizzen, the toppling mizen,
To ease her aloft as she rolls.

But the waves howl in mountains around her,
As if their whole wrath they would rouse;
She is heavily pitching—she'll founder—
"Cut the guns overboard from the bows!"

Yet the storm still its fury increases:
She rolls gun-wale to, as it raves—
O! her mizen is shatter'd to pieces,
She drifts at the will of the waves!

Heavy toils have her crew been harassing;
Yet what are that crew's feelings now?
For the word fore and aft they are passing,
Of "Breakers, ho! broad on the bow!"

Then at once from a sight so appalling
The stoutest hearts shrink in dismay;
Some on one—some on others are calling—
The chaplain comes forward to pray.

And he says, "I would not be down hearted
My lads! though the wild billows rave;
It is true, from this world we are parted,
Yet He who can sink us—can save!"

"Set the Jab!" cries the chief—and then piping,
The boatswain blows proud as before;
While in hope is each bosom delighting—
The wind's blowing right from the shore!

Now the tempest lies dead on the ocean;
No more roll in mountains the waves;
And the mariner kneels in devotion,
To him who can sink—and who saves!

INTEMPERANCE.

Extracts from an Address delivered at Roxbury before the Roxbury Auxiliary Society for the Suppression of Intemperance, October 25, 1821—By Henry Warren.

The number of Deaths in the U. States, produced directly by Intemperance, was calculated many years ago to be about 4000 annually. But the number whom it destroys indirectly is very much greater, and upon a moderate estimation is made to be 1500 in Massachusetts; which would make about 30,000 in the whole country. In 1798 there was a pestilence on our coasts that filled the whole country with terror and dismay. The cities were deserted, and the country filled with trembling fugitives. That period is now remembered as an era in the medical history of our country.—That pestilence swept off, through the whole extent of our coast, perhaps 10 or 12,000 persons. We have a worse pestilence always with us: it carries off three times as many every year. Yet we exhibit no alarm; we testify no concern for those it takes away, nor for those it leaves destitute: we hardly take any measures to check its ravages. An English writer on this subject, after speaking of the quantity of ardent spirits used by American laborers, says, "It is well for America that she receives her population from the old continent; otherwise her peasantry must soon die out."

We have a striking picture of the destroying influence of ardent spirits in the fate of the original inhabitants of our country. Where now are the tribes who in stature resembled that image of Apollo, in which the genius of antiquity has embodied all that was deemed perfection in the human frame? Who traversed the forests as free as the winds of heaven, acknowledging no superior but the great spirit? Where now is the warrior whose arm was mighty in battle? whose spirit quailed not before any human eye? whose fortitude was beyond the reach of human power; from whom no human force could extract a groan, or a tear, or a sign of submission? He is gone; his nations have disappeared; their names are hardly known. Has he been exterminated by an irresistible foe, overwhelming him with countless numbers? No! he perished not on the field of battle; he fell not before the sword of an enemy: It is the love of ardent spirits that has been his destroyer. A wretched remnant of his race is left, but how fallen from their ancient dignity! In their degenerate bodies and debased minds you discern no traces of the majesty and spirit that animated their ancestors. You see them grovelling before the strangers who have taken their places; asking charity from those who hold the land where their fathers reigned as kings.

And will not the same cause produce the same effects upon us? If intemperance has laid waste whole nations of the aborigines, will it not diminish our numbers? We know that it will. It is true our nation has not disappeared like theirs, because the vice is not so universal among us as it was with them; but the actual number we have lost, has been greater than that of all their tribes.

Another of the mischiefs of intemperance is, the suffering it is the means of inflicting upon the innocent and virtuous. Go to the habitation of him who has become its prey.—Formerly, perhaps, it was a pleasant home. His family were as happy, had as many of the comforts of life, and stood as well in the world, as any of their neighbors. The demon of intemperance has taken possession, and it is no longer the abode of peace, but of unmingled wretchedness. He whose presence formerly shed joy about him, is now an object of terror and disgust. Instead of the robust frame he once possessed, you find him with a constitution broken down, and subject to a nameless variety of pains. At one time sunk into the lowest depression of hypochondria, at another exhibiting a more distressing hilarity; and happiest then when his consciousness had ceased and left him in total insensibility. See the brutal ferocity with which he treats those whose happiness was formerly the great object of his exertions; the harshness with which he repulses their kindest attentions. See their sufferings from hunger and want, and the deprivation of the comforts to which they were once accustomed.—With what feelings do his children, while any feeling is left to them; with what burning pangs do all who are connected with him, meet the gaze of the world, while they seem to read in every countenance the sentence, your father, or your brother, or your husband, is a drunkard!

Among all the wretched beings on earth is there one whose situation is more wretched than that of her who is condemned to share the afflictions, and suffer for the crimes of a drunkard? Were a sudden calamity to strip her of her earthly goods, while her husband retained a sound mind and sound body, their affairs might be retrieved. But united with one whose constitution and mind are ruined, there can be no hope of prosperity on earth. Were she to lose her children by disease, there would be a limit, an end to her grief; but to see them growing up the children of sorrow and affliction, heirs of immortality, is a grief that can have no bounds and no end. She married a being endued with a soul; having a portion of the divine intelligence; but now she is joined to a piece of earth, the living sepulchre of an immortal spirit.

There are several ways in which we may exert ourselves beneficially. By continually holding up to the view of the public, the magnitude of the evil, it is to be hoped that in time so general a feeling may be excited against it, that it will not be difficult to get the most effectual measures to contract it, adopted; and that the more respectable part of the community will unite in endeavoring to get the best laws passed, and in causing them to be obeyed, and giving assistance to those whose duty it is to carry them into execution. It is to be hoped that they will be able to withstand the clamors of the worse part of society. If these hopes are vain, if it is thought that no important good can be effected in this way, then we are in a worse situation than has been imagined; for then the majority of the community must be already ranged on the side of the intemperate, the dissolute, and the profligate; then must we exert ourselves speedily, lest we should be overwhelmed.

An important means of diminishing the evil may be by improving our modes of education. Excess in drinking arises from the want of that self-control which a due cultivation of the moral principle always gives. In proportion as that principle shall be strengthened among the poorer classes, intemperance will diminish. The evil might be diminished perhaps by the formation of social libraries, such as we believe are common in England where by the union of a number, the use of valuable books might be obtained cheaply. Many no doubt frequent the ale house in their vacant hours, from the mere want of occupation, who would gladly spend their time in acquiring information, were the means in their power.

Were I to allegorize the subject, I would represent a bright ethereal spirit floating on a rich cloud, glistening with the hues of the rainbow, decked with garlands of roses and vine leaves, and holding in one hand a sparkling goblet, hung with clusters of the purple grape, while with the other she points to a festive band in her train, who having laid aside their earthly cares, appear to be enjoying that unrestrained communion of soul in which superior beings delight. She presents the goblet and with a smile invites us to drink.—We drink, and join the happy train and are delighted by the flashes of their wit, and their radiant glow of imagination; another and another cup is offered and received. By and by, the countenances of our companions begin to change; the open smile contracts into a frown; rude noise and riot succeed to the genial flow of wit; the courteous demeanor vanishes, and their frames seem convulsed to all bad passions. And now the appearance of the echantress changes. The garlands and roses have withered; the delicate bush that lightened her cheek, is changed to a leathsome, livid hue; and in the bottom of her cup we perceive the relics of a subtle poison. With a malignant smile she waves her hand, and the cloud behind her opens and displays a group of attendant demons to whom she beckons to seize their victims. We see gout advancing and clenching his iron hand upon their joints, and tearing their sinews; dropsy, at whose poisonous touch, their bodies swell into huge bloated masses; on some, pinning atrophy pours her wasting breath, and their flesh dissolves into a dew; on others, palsy lays her withering hand, and their limbs drop lifeless.—We see dyspepsia inflicting upon her victims the pangs of hunger, then tempting them with rich viands which they dare not taste, lest they should add new agonies to those they suffer. And to all, melancholy offers her blackened chalice, whose contents are nameless horrors, self-accusing tortures, madness and despair. Over the group stands DEATH, with outstretched arms and a grim smile, exulting in the approach of his victims. Beyond him, is a black cloud, our eyes cannot penetrate. Well does an imaginary character say—"O! thou invisible spirit of wine, if thou hast no name to be known, let us call thee devil." Indeed it seems a chosen instrument of the father of evil, with which he tempts men on, as he first tempted our race, promising intellectual pleasure and divine intelligence, "ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil." Alas! it is the latter part of the promise only that is fulfilled; it is the knowledge of evil only that is given.

NATIONAL LEGISLATURE.

IN SENATE.

Wednesday, Dec. 19.—A resolution of the general assembly of the state of Illinois, requesting their senators and representatives in Congress to use their best endeavors to obtain the passage of a law to enable the state of Illinois to construct a canal to connect Michigan with Illinois River. Referred to the committee on roads and canals.

Mr. Morrill laid before the senate a preamble and undry resolutions passed by the legislature of New-Hampshire, declaring the right of all the states to grants of the public lands for the purpose of education, in just proportion to the grants made for that object to the new states—and requesting the efforts of the senators and representatives from that state in Congress to obtain the passage of an act for that purpose.—The document was read and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Dickenson, introduced his resolution proposing an amendment of the Constitution.

Mr. Plesants presented the memorial of sundry Agricultural Societies of Virginia, praying that all duties which amount to a partial or total prohibition be repealed, referred to the committee on Commerce and Manufactures.

Mr. Barbour's, concerning land and salt springs in Missouri passed to a second reading.

The resolution introduced by Mr. Barbour, to amend the constitution, by establishing a maximum number for the House of Representatives was read the second time, and then on motion of Mr. Barbour, postponed to the third Monday in January next.

The resolve of Mr. Dickerson, proposing an amendment to the constitution of the U. S. to declare that Electors and Representatives to Congress shall be chosen in the several states uniformly by districts, was then taken up for consideration as in committee of the whole. Postponed to the second Tuesday in January.

An Executive Message was received from the President of the United States, and the doors were closed to consider the same.

MONDAY, Dec. 24.—Mr. Knight communicated to the Senate sundry resolutions of the Legislature of Rhode-Island, approving of the Maryland proposition relating to the distribution of a portion of the public lands, for the promotion of education, to those States which have received no donation of that kind, equal to what has been granted to the new States.

Some bills from the other House also received a second reading; and several petitions were received and referred; and then

The Senate adjourned to Wednesday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Wednesday, Dec. 19.—Sundry petitions presented and referred. Sundry resolutions offered, Missouri lands bill passed to be engrossed.—This bill gives Missouri 3 per cent of the net proceeds of all U. S. lands within that state for the purpose of making public roads.

The engrossed resolution providing for the distribution of the documents, &c. appertaining to the Congress of the Revolution, printed under a former resolution of Congress, was read a third time passed, and sent to the Senate for concurrence.

A bill for the relief of purchasers of public lands giving a longer time for payment underwent discussion.

Thursday, Dec. 20.—Mr. Cushman laid on the table the following:—

Resolved, That the committee on Revolutionary Pensions be directed to inquire into the expediency of revising the pension law of March 13, 1818, or of so modifying it that, by lessening the quantum of bounty to individuals, its provisions may be extended to certain descriptions of revolutionary soldiers, in reduced and necessitous circumstances, and not absolutely dependant on public or private charity.

A motion of Mr. Nelson, of Mass. for a committee to report on the expediency of allowing letters and packages to and from the Secretary of the Board of Commissioners on Spanish Claims, to be free from postage, was negatived.

On motion of Mr. Tomlinson, the committee of Commerce was directed to report on the expediency of repealing the act of 1816, for allowing an additional compensation of 50 per cent. to the compensation of certain custom-house officers.

Sundry other resolutions offered. Certain bills passed stages.

Friday, Dec. 21.—Mr. Mallory submitted the following resolution:—

Resolved, That the committee on Naval Affairs be directed to inquire into the expediency of establishing one or more Naval Schools, for the purpose of promoting the instructions of such persons as may be intended for the naval service of the United States. The resolution was negatived.

Mr. Wood called for the consideration of a resolution submitted by him some days since, in relation to the mint establishment of the United States.

The house agreed to consider the same, which, by the assent of the mover, was so modified as to make it referable to a select committee, and to extend the subject-matter of the reference to foreign coins. It was then adopted.

The House adjourned to Monday.

Monday Dec 24.—After the usual routine of introductory business had been gone through with a great number of petitions were presented from various parts of the Union, and referred to the appropriate Committees.

Among them were petitions presented by Messrs. Gorham, Eddy, and Sawyer, from sundry inhabitants in the respective states of Massachusetts, Rhode-Island, and North Carolina, praying for the establishment of an uniform system of Bankruptcy, which were severally referred to the Committee of the whole, when on that subject.

Mr. Golden presented a petition from certain dealers of hardware in the city of New-York, praying for an additional duty of five per cent. on sales of hardware at auction.

Some other business was also done, after which the House adjourned to Wednesday.

Annual Treasury Report.

We do not think it expedient to present to our readers the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury in detail, but believe that a summary of the more important particulars will be more easily understood, and more acceptable than the whole.

1. Of the Revenue.

The nett Revenue during the year 1818, amounted to $26,095,200 65
During the year 1819, it amounted to 21,435,700 69
During the year 1820, it amounted to 15,984,345 29
During the present year, the receipts for the three first quarters, ending 30th Sept last, amounted to 16,219,137 70

And the receipts during the fourth quarter, are estimated at 3,595,278 14
Making the total amount estimated to be received into the Treasury during the year 1821, 19,814,475 84
The balance in the Treasury on the first of January last, was 1,198,461 21
Making the whole for 1821 21,012,937 05
The actual payments during the three first quarters, and the estimated payments for the fourth quarter of 1821, amount to 19,235,284 47
Leaving a balance in favor of the Treasury of 1,777,653 58

But, of the balances of appropriations for the year 1821, necessary to effect the object of those appropriations, there remains the sum of $2,268,611 28 yet to be paid from the Treasury, which exceeds the balance estimated to be in the Treasury on the 1st January next by $490,962 70; and to this amount, according to the estimate, the Revenue will be deficient.

2. Public Debt.

The public debt, on the 1st of Jan. 1821, was 91,294,461 51
On the 1st of Oct. 1821, estimated 93,686,095 74
On the 1st of Jan. 1822, it is estimated to amount to 93,428,605 73
To which sum should be added the estimated amount of the Treasury notes, $28,495 00
Awarded for the indemnification of claimants to lands in Mississippi, $105,124 83
Making the whole estimate debt 93,557,225 57

Estimates for 1822.

The receipts of the year 1822, are estimated at 16,110,000 00
The expenditures at 14,947,661 80
Balance 1,162,338 20
From which deduct the estimated balance against the Treasury on January 1822, and it will leave in the Treasury, on the 1st Jan. 1822, a balance estimated at 671,375 50

These statements and estimates are not so favorable as might be wished. The increase to our national debt, in time of profound peace, is so revolting to our feelings, that the public cannot view it with complacency; but when a loan of five millions was authorized by the last Congress, a greater increase of debt than the report exhibited was to have been anticipated. It is consolatory to learn that the diminution of the revenue, which created the necessity for the loan, "reached its lowest point of depression in the first quarter of the present year," and that the revenue has materially improved during the two last quarters, and is expected further to advance. It is most earnestly to be hoped that Congress will take effective measures, not merely to prevent the increase, but for the reduction of our national debt, so that the whole shall be paid as soon as it is redeemable by law. This the public expect and require, and they will cheerfully bear the burdeus necessary to effect it.

MAINE LEGISLATURE.

By Yesterday's Mail.

Wednesday, Jan. 2, 1822.—At half past 10 o'clock, the members of the Senate convened in the Senate chamber, and were called to order by the Hon. Daniel Rose of Bath.

George Bradbury, Esq. was appointed Chairman. A committee, appointed for the purpose waited on the officiating Governor and Council, and informed them that a quorum of the Senate had assembled, and were ready to receive the qualifications required by the constitution; whereupon the officiating Governor, accompanied by the Council and the Sheriff of Cumberland, came in and qualified the senate, by administering the customary oaths.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. Tallman, Bond and Ripley, was appointed to receive and count the votes for President, and having attended to that service, it appeared that the Hon. Daniel Rose was unanimously elected. He was accordingly conducted to the chair, and signified his acceptance by the following address:

GENTLEMEN,
With the greatest diffidence I undertake to perform the important duties of the honorable station to which your suffrages have elevated me. I should despair of executing the duties of the presiding officer at this board, to your acceptance and satisfaction, did I not calculate on the indulgence and assistance of every member of the Senate. I can testify my gratitude for the honor conferred on me, only by a punctual, faithful and impartial discharge of the duties devolving on me, according to the best of my abilities. I request, (what I am sensible I shall often need) your indulgence for errors and mistakes.

The Senate then proceeded to the choice of a Secretary.

On the first balloting there were eight or ten candidates, and no choice was effected. Wm. B. Sewall, Esq. had the highest number of votes, and on the second balloting was declared elected.

After the Senate was thus organized, the President observed, that the office of Governor being vacated, he conceived it his duty, according to the requisitions of the Constitution, to retire from the chair, and officiate as Governor, until a Governor should be declared elected. He accordingly retired; and George Bradbury, Esq. was elected President pro tem.—Adj. to 9 o'clock to-morrow.

Thursday, Jan. 3.—The report of the committee appointed yesterday to examine the votes for Senators, was read, accepted and sent down for concurrence.

A Convention of both Houses to meet at 3 o'clock, P. M. was proposed and agreed to, for the purpose of filling the vacancies in the Senate.—Adj.

A joint committee, consisting of messrs Tallman, Burnham, Pierce and Dennet, on the part of the Senate, and of messrs Sprague, Emery, Dunn, Lewis and Parsons, on the part of the House, was appointed to examine and declare the returns of votes for Governor.

Thursday, Jan. 3.—On motion of Mr. Mace,

Ordered, That the several ordained Ministers of Portland, be requested to officiate as Chaplains to this House in turns, according to the seniority, and that Mr. Mace, of Lisbon, Mr. Crowell, of Whitfield, and Mr. Cobb, of Durham, be a committee to wait on the several Clergymen, and notify them of this order.

Mr. Lewis, of Gorham, of the committee to report Rules and Orders, reported a code of regulations, which was accepted.

Ordered, That the Clerk procure 300 copies to be printed for the use of the members.

On motion of Mr. Hammond,

Ordered, That Mr. Hammond of Elliot, Adams of Cherryfield, and Riggs of Georgetown, be a committee to inquire and report what further assistant officers and attendants, it may be necessary for the House to appoint.

A report came from the Senate, upon the return of votes given in by the several towns and plantations in the State for Senators, by which it appears there is one vacancy in the county of York, and Josiah W. Seaver and Alexander Rice, are constitutional candidates—one in the county of Cumberland, and that Josiah W. Mitchell and William Buxton, are the constitutional candidates—one in the county of Somerset, and that Eleazer Coburn and Wintworth Tuttle, are the highest candidates—one in the county of Penobscot, and that Isaac Case and Simeon Stetson are the highest candidates.

A message came from the Senate, proposing a convention of both Houses this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, to fill the vacancies in the Senate.

The House concurred, and the clerk was charged with a message to inform the Senate thereof.

Agreeable to assignment the two branches of the Legislature met in Convention in the Representatives Chamber at 3 o'clock, P. M. when a Committee consisting of Messrs. Wheeler, Poor, Moody, Perley and Means, was raised to receive, sort and count the votes for Senator to fill the vacancy in the County of York—who reported the whole number to be 141—Necessary to a choice 71.—Josiah W. Seaver, had 115, and was declared elected.

A committee was also raised, consisting of Gen. McDonald, Mr. Burr, Mr. Witham, Com. Tucker, and Mr. Leach, to receive, sort and count the votes for Senator to fill the vacancy in the County of Cumberland—who reported the whole number to be 147; necessary to a choice 74; William Buxton had 90, and was declared elected.

The first committee instructed to receive votes for Senator in the County of Somerset; whole number 157; necessary to a choice 74; Wentworth Tuttle 93, and was declared elected.

The second committee, instructed to receive votes for Senators in the county of Penobscot, reported, that the whole number of votes was 133—necessary to a choice 67.—Isaac Case had 89, and was declared elected.

The Senate then withdrew.

A committee consisting of Mr. Hayes, Mr. Tucker and Mr. Elden, was appointed to ascertain the reason why the Laws of this State, printed by the authority thereof, have not been delivered to the Secretary of State, to be distributed to the Clerks of towns, &c. agreeably to Resolve of March 15, 1821.

A committee was raised to take into consideration the expediency of extending the time for the proprietors of Rumford Bridge to build the same.

Caution to the Public.

WHEREAS, WILLIAM SULLIVAN, a native of Ireland, having through an idea of getting some cash, knowing my Daughter was young & easy persuaded to leave her parents, with many fine promises, such as youth and vice are prone to make their elopement and married privately, and a parent finds there is no remedy after marriage takes place, I brought them into my house, to make them as easy as my circumstances would admit of, entrusting my Daughter with cash to the amount of 21 1/2 Doubloons. Her husband finding she had that sum in her possession, privately locked her in a room and made his elopement with the money, towering to Moose-Island, and from thence to the States, where he feels secure. As there are many honest and innocent in the States as well as in any other Country or Province, I feel it my duty to put the public on guard as it is not the first offence. He is now living with his first wife in Boston. He is in the dyeing business and tallow-chandlery, and has a fallow complexion, thin meager visage, dark hair, and is about 5 feet 4 1/2 inches high, somewhat lame and plays the Violin remarkably well. Any person giving information that should lead to his detection will ever oblige the father and also befriend the Public.

ECCLIASTICAL HISTORY OF MAINE.
A volume has just been published in Portsmouth, by Mr. Harrison Gray, entitled Sketches of the Ecclesiastical History of the State of Maine, by Jonathan Greenleaf, Pastor of a church in Wells, pages 362.

It contains thirty-one chapters giving an account of the establishment and present state of the several churches and religious societies in this state in a chronological order. Twenty-two chapters are devoted to the Congregationalists, and one to each of the following denominations, Episcopalians, Roman-Catholics, Calvinistic-Baptists, Quakers, German-Lutherans, Presbyterians, Freewill-Baptists, Methodists, and the Christian-Society—or as we believe them to be Unitarian-Baptists.

It appears that there are at present 131 Congregational churches in Maine; 62 of which have no settled Minister: 161 churches of Calvinistic-Baptists: 35 societies of Friends or Quakers: 27 circuits of Methodists, comprising 6192 members, and employing 102 Preachers. The Christian Society employ 18 ordained Elders, and have 23 churches.

This volume is neatly printed, tho' in a cheap manner, and contains much valuable information.—Port. Journal.

A daring attempt to commit a highway robbery was made on 30th Dec. on a young gentleman in Boston, by a fellow armed with a pistol, whose success was prevented by the spirited use of a sword cane by the person attacked.

sloop Hero, Stone, belonging to Portland, loaded with lumber, went ashore in Northern Harbour, Deer-Island, on Saturday night last, and has gone to pieces.
brig Three Partners, capt. Bonol, of St. John, bound to Africa, and brig Leopard, McLain, of do. for the W. Indies, were lost on Seal Islands a few days since. The capt. of the T. Partners and one man were lost.

The schooner Maria, Young, from Jamaica for St. John, belonging to Mr R. Robertson, was lately wrecked near Digby—one seaman perished—she had no cargo on board.—Star.

brig Eliza, arrived at St. John, 24 days from Jamaica, sailed in company with brig Indian Chief. The Durham, on shore at Cape Cod, lost a bag of money, the night she was wrecked, containing 50 odd dls. It was found in the sand on the 16th Dec. by Mr Wyer, and restored.
arr. at Norfolk, 24th. brig Mary-Ann-Louisa, from Jamaica for Halifax, having lost the capt. and all but 4 of the crew.
Boston, Jan. 1—Capt. Merren, of the Five Brothers, proceeded home from the Vineyard.

Left St. Eastport, Nov. 13, and 15 days out, lat 32 long. 68. spoke a brig, (understood to be the Fountain) 15 days from St. Thomas for N. Brunswick, having lost mainmast and part of her main-mast 36 hours before, and was going into Bermuda. [This vessel is undoubtedly the Fountain, capt. Howard, who sailed the 15th of Nov'r from St. Thomas, for Campo-Bello.]

The brig Mary Ann, at New Orleans, from Turks Island, was on the point of being boarded by a privateer or pirate, on the 2d Nov. on the south side of Cuba, when the Hornet came to her relief, and conveyed her nearly 100 miles along the coast.

Sch. Blazing Comet, Tilton, of Portsmouth, is frozen up, about two miles below Gardiner, and will probably have to remain there, with many others, in like situation, until next Spring—her cargo had been re-shipped at Wiscasset, on board of a sch. which would proceed to Eastport.

The Haytian sch. Great Lucia has sailed from Laguna for Curacao, filled with friars and royalists, banished from the Republic.

The English brig of war Nautilus arr. at Turks Island, 24 Dec. from a cruise, after having captured a piratical brig near Old Providence, after a chase of near 13 hours. She had 44 prisoners on board, and was bound to Old Providence to have them tried. The pirate was in the act of robbing an Am. ship when the Nautilus bore in sight.

Published by Richardson & Lord, Boston, and for sale by BENJAMIN FOLSOM.

MUCH has been done, and is still doing, by Societies, Teachers, and others, to improve the style of singing in our churches and congregations; but all the desired effects of their endeavours must be confined, and of little benefit, throughout the community at large, without the general introduction and use, of correct, chaste, and devotional music. That the contents of this book are of that character, the following respectable testimonies fully prove.

To the Compilers and Publishers of the Bridgewater Collection of Sacred Music.

GENTLEMEN—The Trustees of the Handel and Haydn Society, having seen the work entitled, "Songs of the Temple, or Bridgewater Collection of Sacred Music," could not refrain from expressing the satisfaction they derived from the examination of its pages. For beauty of style, justness of adaptation, and correctness of harmony, it is equalled by few, if any, and is excelled by none, of which they have any knowledge.

Much praise is due to the compilers for their great research and superior taste; and to the publishers for its handsome execution. The Trustees hope that its circulation may be as extensive as its merits. I am, gentlemen, with much respect, your obedient servant.

By order of the Board of Trustees of the Handel and Haydn Society.

M. S. PARKER, Secretary.

Letter from the President of the Handel and Haydn Society, New-York, to the Publishers, dated New-York, Aug. 27, 1819.

GENTLEMEN—Having lately examined a Collection of Sacred Music published by you, entitled "Songs of the Temple, or BRIDGEWATER COLLECTION OF SACRED MUSIC" I avail myself of this means of saying, I consider this Collection as being by far the best I have met with published in the United States; and I should be glad to find it generally used in our Churches, as a means of fostering an improved taste for this interesting part of Christian Worship.

I am respectfully, your humble servant,
BENJAMIN ARMITAGE.

To the publisher of the Templi Carmina.
GENTLEMEN—I do not hesitate in giving it as my opinion, that the "TEMPLI CARMINA" is the best selection of Sacred Music of its size, now extant. Respectfully, your Oht. Servt.

BY WILLIAM COLLIER, A. M.

FOR SALE AS ABOVE.

The following testimonials sufficiently evince the object of this work, and shew the estimation in which it is viewed by several judicious gentlemen and teachers who have examined it.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

From the Rev. Doctors Miller and Romeyn, of the City of New-York.

A judicious, well computed manual, for initiating Children and Young Persons into the Elements of Evangelical Truth, is certainly a most desirable addition to the numerous and excellent Books for the use of Schools, which modern times have produced. We consider Mr. COLLIER'S Evangelical Instructor, (so far as we have had an opportunity of examining it) as the best work of this kind that we have seen. It appears to be remarkably free from Sectarian peculiarities, and calculated to lead the youthful mind easily and unobtrusively to just views of Christian Doctrine, while at the same time, it is interspersed with much entertaining and instructive matter of other kinds. We heartily wish him success in introducing it into Schools; and believe, that if brought into general use, it may do much good.

SAMUEL MILLER,
JN. B. ROMEYN.

To this, may be added the commendation of Rev. Dr. Giffin, President of Williams College—Rev. Dr. Baldwin, and Rev. Wm. Jenks, of Boston, and several respectable teachers, in various parts of the country.

Recollections of a Bostonian.

In the war of the revolution I was detached from the regiment to which I belonged, as a part of the guard of the British prisoners which were taken at Bennington, who were all ordered to Boston. One morning very early, when on our march, two of the British officers with whom I was walking, one an Englishman, the other a Scotchman, proposed stopping at some farm house to obtain a drink of new milk. On entering the dwelling of a respectable farmer, we found the family at their morning devotions, and we stopped in the entry until they were ended. In the course of the prayer, the farmer most devoutly praised the Almighty for the success of our arms, alluding to the capture of those very officers and their companions, without knowing that any of them were present. After the prayer, the Scotchman said to his brother officer, "We can never conquer these people, God will be on their side." The Englishman looked very indignant and angry, and it evidently caused a coolness between them. I thought but little of the incident at the time, but it has often occurred to my recollection since, especially when I first read Burns' "Saturday Night." The Scotchman had no doubt frequently witnessed scenes of family devotion: it brought home to his remembrance, and served to enliven his feelings towards his rebel foes, as we were then styled by the British.—A BOSTONIAN.

Unfortunate Accident.—The mail stage coach from this town for New-York, was upset on Thursday last, in Stratford, (Conn.) having in it several gentlemen from this town. One of them was severely injured.—Bost. pa.
