40 Fathom Fish Plant & Shipyard Workers Agree To Continue Wage Contracts To Aid Co. Progress

Captain Henry Gallant, president of the Maine Fishermen's Association, and Arthur Thurston, general manager of 40 Fathom Fisheries at Rockland on Friday announced jointly the completion of negotiations for a new labor contract for employees in the company's fillet plant.

Gallant commented that in view of the efforts made by the firm which came to Rockland a little more than a year ago, the Association members had agreed to co-operate to the extent of continuing on the same contract basis as the past year.

The same wages and piece work scales will prevail until April 15, 1959. The schedule of seven paid holidays was continued. In the new contract, provision is made for the holiday to be given in a work week if the holiday should fall in a week in which the plant is idle. New Years was given as an example. On that day, the plant is idle as trawlers have not had time following the Christmas vacation to go to the banks and return with a catch. A paid holiday will be given later in the season to cover the agreement.

Mr. Thurston observed, "It is evident that the people want this plant to continue, and grow, as much as I do, and I greatly appreciate their going along with my thinking." In speaking, he included the machinists union at the 40 Fathom Shipyard which services trawlers for they too have agreed to continue their contract.

Capt. Gallant noted, "We are willing to go along with Mr. Thurston's plans and 40 Fathom and give everything we have to assure the company making a success of its Rockland venture. Their staying in the city assures continued work and resulting prosperity."

The past winter, the first time the plant has operated in several years, has seen more redfish landed in Rockland than in Gloucester. In Rockland, the landings, which have been five and one half million pounds since Jan. 1, have gone into one plant and the wages to one crew. In Gloucester, a smaller catch has been divided between 10 or more plants and crews. There are presently 150 people employed in the fillet plant; 60 or more on the trawlers and about 35 in the shipyard, Thurston reported. He expects a marked increase in plant workers as summer comes and added boats join the fleet.

Six company trawlers are now sailing as well as three which are privately owned. Two more are expected from the South shortly. In addition, four or five boats have been engaged for a whiting fishery operation which will open for the 10 to 12 week season in the summer.

Equipment of the Feyler Fish Company has been purchased and set up in the eastern end of the fillet plant to process the whiting, a new fishery location operation locally.

Thurston said that he could reasonably expect landings in 1958, 35 million pounds of redfish and from two to three million pounds of whiting.

MAURICE BENNER SWORN IN AS NEW ROCKLAND POLICE CHIEF

City Clerk Gerald U. Margeson gives the oath of office to the new chief of the Rockland Police Department, Maurice H. Benner, Friday morning.

Capt. Maurice H. Benner, 33, was sworn into office Friday morning as the new Rockland Police Chief by City Clerk Gerald U. Margeson in the Municipal Building.

Benner replaced Bernard Thompson, who recently tendered his resignation as chief at a special session of the Rockland City Council.

The new chief, who was accepted on the police force Oct. 25, 1947 as a patrolman, rose to the rank of sergeant March 17, 1955 after a competitive examination. He was appointed to the rank of captain Sept. 26, 1955.

Benner, who saw service in the Pacific and European Theaters of Operations in the Navy during World War II, was born in Waldoboro and attended Waldoboro High School.

The Benners, who reside at 96 South Main street, Rockland, have one son.

The City Clerk indicated that probably no action will be taken as to the post of Captain that Benner had vacated until the new City Manager, Charles A. Haynes of Guilford assumes his new post May 1.

DISTRICT SCHOOL ORGANIZATION TO GIVE IMPROVED CURRICULUM FOR GRADES SEVEN THROUGH 12

By Harvey Kelley

In the series of articles acquainting the public with plans to consider a school district organization for Rockland, Rockport, Owls Head and South Thomaston the curriculum of the proposed new high school has been mentioned a number of times and should perhaps be more fully explained.

The curriculum, or program of studies, which would seem to meet the needs of children in this area was worked out by a committee working with the joint committees of the four towns in the study. The program was planned to cover the last six years of school, from the seventh through the twelfth grade. The hope of the committee is that the seventh and eighth grades might be housed in one building, probably the present Rockland High School, and the last four years of the program in a new four year high school.

The program at the seventh and eighth grade levels would be operated in somewhat the same manner as the present eighth grade set-up at the Purchase Street School in Rockland. It would provide for grouping children according to their ability and for different instructors for different subjects. These two things would mean that pupils could study more intensively and more at their own speed. Quick learners would not be held back by slower pupils in their class and slow learners would not be overwhelmed by abler pupils.

The program at this level would mean that in the field of science, for example, students of high ability would probably by the end of grade eight have covered what is now thought of as freshman science work in high school. In other subjects the progress would be possible.

In the four year high school program planned by the committee there would be a continuance of the plan of giving pupils a chance to work in groups of their own ability. The high school plan recognizes that for some children high school is preparation for other higher school and for some is the end of their formal education. With that in mind the curriculum is planned to provide college preparation, commercial subjects, general education and vocational programs for both boys and girls.

An important feature of the school program would be the guidance program extending from the seventh grade on up. This program would help to determine the able pupils early in their school careers and help all pupils to decide the courses and plans best suited to their abilities.

The curriculum planned is not too different from the present outline of the program at Rockland High School. It does allow for more advanced work on the part of the college preparatory group. The Rockland curriculum was praised by the visiting accreditation committee this year although the committee stated that it was not possible to carry the program out effectively in the present physical plant.

Also considered in the plans of the curriculum committee was the fact that the combination of towns under consideration will give a high school size which is nearly ideal for effective use of facilities and staff.

Admiral King Superintendent Of Maine Maritime

Rear Admiral George J. King

Rear Admiral George J. King, USN (Ret.), has been appointed the new superintendent of the Maine Maritime Academy, President of the Academy Board of Trustees Ralph A. Leavitt announced Friday.

Admiral King, a native of Baltimore, Md., and a graduate of the United States Naval Academy in 1925, becomes the fifth superintendent of the Maine Maritime Academy.

"The Board of Trustees made an extensive search to find a new superintendent," Mr. Leavitt said. "We received more than 25 applications and interviewed over a dozen who expressed interest in the position," he added.

Mr. Leavitt stated that in Admiral King the Academy will have an officer with an outstanding record in the U. S. Navy. His background of service, interest in our merchant marine training program and experience in public relations will contribute much to the growth and future of the Academy, Mr. Leavitt said.

Admiral King will accept responsibilities as superintendent immediately following graduation at the Academy on June 7.

During his naval career, Admiral King served on various types of vessels, including battleships, destroyers, aircraft carriers and submarine tenders. His naval service also includes a tour of duty as instructor at the U. S. Naval Academy.

At the outbreak of World War II, Admiral King was in Manila and under orders, escaped and went on to serve aboard the USS West Virginia, participating in the Leyte invasion and the Mindoro, Lingayen and Iwo Jima engagements. He was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for action at Leyte.

He was chief of staff of a Battle Ship Division during the assault and capture of Okinawa. At the termination of the war, he became the Atlantic Fleet Personnel Officer until his voluntary retirement in 1948.

Subsequent to his retirement, he undertook various studies at the University of Baltimore, including public relations.

Since late 1950 Admiral King has been with the Bendix Radio Division of Bendix Aviation Corporation in Baltimore, maintaining liaison with various activities of the Department of Defense in Washington, D. C.

He is married and has five children. Admiral King and his family expect to take up residence in Castine in May.

Committee of the P.T.A. Council which is now making a study of rank cards.

After considering these two reports the school committee will make an extensive study of its own before making a final decision.

The toughest assignment in the world comes in trying to convince a self-made man that he has cheated himself.

School District Application Filed On Friday

The report of the school district study for Rockland, Rockport, Owls Head and South Thomaston was filed with the Maine School District Commission on Friday, according to a report from A. Alan Grossman, chairman of the committee.

The report was accompanied by the applications of the four towns to have the school district question brought before the voters in the near future. These applications were forwarded to the commission by Superintendent Bruce J. Kinney for the towns of Rockport and Rockland and by former Superintendent Keith Crockett for the towns of Owls Head and South Thomaston.

If the application is approved by the commission steps will be taken in the near future to bring the matter before the voters. The study group has expressed the hope that this could be done early in the summer.

ROCKLAND LAD'S SPRING FEVER GIVES LOCAL OFFICIALS BUSY DAY

In the picture, Patrolman Albert Smith, Fireman Harry Steele and Deputy Fire Chief Lewis Phillips are dragging the old reservoir on Rankin Street, in search of Roger Morang.

A 13 year old Rockland lad was the object of a two hour search Thursday in the old Rockland reservoir on Rankin street by the Rockland police and fire departments.

While members of both departments were dragging the pond, the youth, Roger Morang, 13, of 61 Rankin street, Rockland, was hitchhiking on Route 17 in the direction of Augusta.

A passenger in a car, driven by Mrs. Evelyn Munsey of 27 Chestnut street, Rockland, that was heading toward Rockland on Route 17, spotted the lad along the road, near the Payson Farm Machinery plant in Union and later notified Rockland police.

State police picked up Morang in Somerville a little after 1 p. m. and drove him to the Rockland police station. After a brief interrogation, Chief Maurice Benner released him in the custody of his parent, Mrs. Elsie Morang.

The dragging operations were started when Roger's bicycle was discovered on the banks of the old reservoir and a mongrel pup, belonging to John M. Wade of 36 Talbot avenue, Rockland, that follows him around on his daily paper route, sitting next to it.

A companion of the Morang boy, Myron Hastings, 11, of 68 Rankin street, spotted the bike and the dog shortly after 11 a. m. Thursday and told his mother, who notified the police and Mrs. Morang.

The search commenced as soon as a boat could be secured from private sources and the proper rescue equipment could be brought up to the old reservoir.

of Warren, Mrs. Virginia McElwee of Union and Charles Jilison of Rockport.

While patrolman Albert Smith and Fireman Harry Steele took turns in maneuvering the boat around the half an acre of water, Deputy Fire Chief Lewis Phillips used various rescue implements in his attempt to locate the boy's body under the water.

Unsuccessful attempts to locate the youth's body with a looking glass and grappling hooks for over an hour forced the rescue operations to come to a standstill.

The department next planned to use several pumps to drain out the water so that Roger could be found.

A spectator along the banks, John Clark of 20 Front street, Rockland, commented that he saw the bike and the dog about 8 a. m. that morning while enroute to work.

Police learned from Mrs. Morang that Roger left the house about 6:20 a. m. to deliver his papers and had not heard from him since. A check of the customers along the boy's route by the police revealed that Roger had delivered all his papers Thursday morning.

As the dragging operations were on during the day, many spectators began to doubt whether the Morang youth was actually in the water.

The reservoir, at its deepest point is only 12 feet deep, and Morang is five foot, six inches and an able swimmer.

Another spectator, Frank Gardner, who lives almost across from the reservoir at 204 Rankin street, remarked that he had seen a boy, answering to the Morang boy's description, several days before along the banks in search for polliwogs. Gardner had warned him to be careful because the banks were slippery. Shortly after noontime, Mrs.

JONES FREE UNDER $15,000 BAIL IN LINCOLNVILLE SHOOTING

Andrew Jones, 57, of Camden was freed in $15,000 bail for appearance at the October term of Waldo County Superior Court after a hearing in Belfast Municipal Court Friday morning.

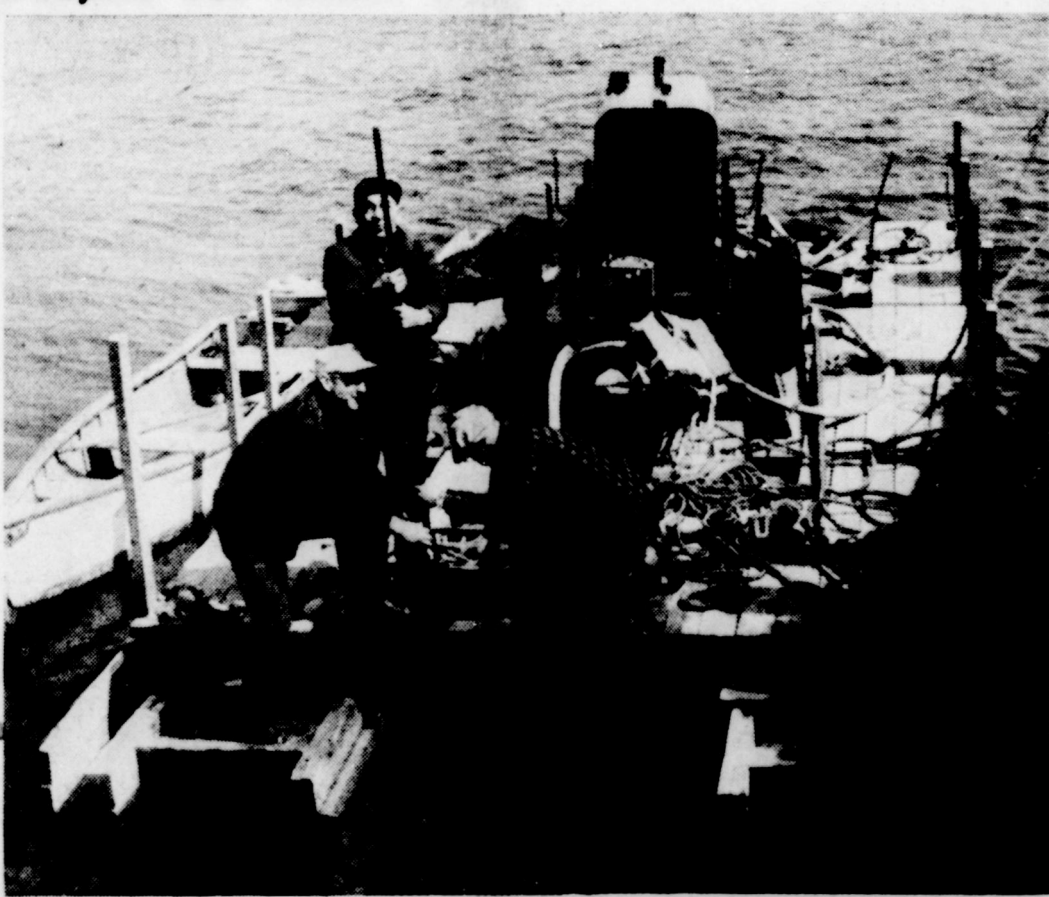

Jones pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill and murder which was lodged against him by Waldo county officials as the result of a shooting affray in Lincolnville Tuesday afternoon in which poultryman Ralph Hunt was seriously wounded. Jones appeared without counsel and waived hearing of the complaint. The court found probable cause and set bail at the $15,000 figure.

The Camden man, who was in ill health was hospitalized late Tuesday after questioning by police officers. He remained in the Waldo County General Hospital under guard until just before his arraignment Friday morning. Following the court session he was able to return to his home.

Hunt, prominent in Waldo County poultry circles, remains in the Camden Community Hospital,

Harbormaster Snow Initiates Sounding Project At South End

Carrying out an idea originated by Harbormaster Bertram Snow, two members of the Rockland Public Works Department, Snow, George Trafton, the city engineer, and Councilman Henry Marsh started on a harbor sounding project Thursday morning. The soundings will determine the depth of the harbor at certain points for any possibilities that the harbor may hold for future industry. The group has the generator and the sounding equipment on loan from the Rockland Fire Department and the raft from private sources. In the picture, Bertram Snow, standing, is assisting John Cavanaugh and Leland Seavey, two members of the City Public Works Department to connect the sounding equipment off the old Maine Central Railroad Wharf. George Trafton, the city engineer, was on the Standard Oil Company wharf lining up the trio in their work and Henry Marsh was on the MCR wharf supervising the operation when this picture was taken.

Knox Firemen Plan Lincolnville Field Day July 20

At a meeting of the Knox County Firemen's Association Tuesday night in Lincolnville, it was decided to hold the group's annual field day July 20 at Lincolnville.

About 45 members from Lincolnville, Rockland, Camden, Rockport, Thomaston, South Thomaston, Owls Head and Union, also voted on the events to be held.

Due to last year's opposition to events using the fire trucks, it was voted to eliminate them from this year's contest.

The field events will include dressing for a night alarm, dry and wet hose coupling, ladder climbing and a mystery contest.

Each chief will submit his choice for the mystery contest and a person, who is not a member of any department, will draw the slip naming the event.

Since the president of the Association, Chief Richard Butler of Warren, was not present, a meeting of the chiefs was called for 7 p. m. April 23 at the Thomaston Fire Station to discuss the mutual aid program.

Copies of standardized inventory sheets that will be eventually used by all departments in the association were explained. The sheets will contain information as to the number and type of fire apparatus in every fire station.

Spruce Head Cops City Bowling Title

On Tuesday night the Spruce Head bowling team captured the city championship by defeating the Central Maine Power Company team of the National League and the Jaycees 36 team of the International League.

The Spruce Head team, winners of the American League, gave handicaps of 21 to CMP and 35 to the Jaycees.

Capt. Walt Drinkwater took matters pretty much into his own hands as he rolled 458 for the four string match. Big Walt had 126 for high single and at the end of the first three had 368.

For the evening the Headers had 2009 compared to CMP with 1945 and Jaycees with 1916. These totals include the 84 and 140 pin handicaps.

Other leading bowlers for the evening were R. Kluwer who had 412 for Spruce Head, Mike McConchie who had 380 for high four on the Jaycees, and Bill Makinen with 396 for CMP.

The big string was the first when Spruce Head got the jump with a tremendous 560 total. CMP beat them the next three strings, but it was too late to overcome the big lead that had been built up in the first string.

The Jaycees only spark was the last string when they beat both the other teams with 512, but for them it was far too late as they floundered around the first three strings bowling way below their averages.

ROCKLAND FIREMEN STAGE ANNUAL BUSINESSMEN'S BANQUET

At the annual businessmen's banquet, sponsored by the Rockland Fire Department, Thursday night, Bertram Snow, Rockland harbor master, was presented an honorary assistant fire chief badge by Fire Chief Wesley Knight.

The featured speaker at the baked bean and brown bread dinner was Arnold McKinney, a former instructor at Rockland High School and now the head of the State-wide Firemen Training School. The firemen training is under the supervision of the Vocational Training Department of the State Department of Education.

Speaking to the nearly 200 guests, municipal officials and fire department officers, McKinney announced that two more teacher-training classes will be started July 7 for two weeks at the University of Maine.

The former Rockland High teacher explained to the people how this firemen training program had given the members of the depart-

SUGGESTS NEW LOCATION FOR TROUBLESOME CITY DUMP

April 18, 1958
Editor of The Courier-Gazette:

Once more I beseech your portal of free speech. In these few lines I would like to use the word politician as defined in Webster's Dictionary. "One skilled in Government." Thinking in these terms, it does not seem that the utmost has been accomplished by the politicians of Rockland and the politicians of the surrounding communities in allowing any form of city dump to exist at the present location, or will be accomplished in establishing a dump in the vicinity of neighborhood of Upper Park street or in the vicinity of neighborhood of Pleasant street because of the innumerable nuisances associated with public dumps.

Prevailing winds from the present city dump cause obnoxious odors to travel over Old County road, Lime-rock street, Pleasant street, and Upper Park street. Certainly, there can be only a repetition of this from any newly established dump to say nothing of the possible fire hazard.

It is a known fact that the "path of least resistance" is very enticing, but this path is not always the best way. Is it really asking a lot of you who are skilled in government to seek a new location for a sanitary dump that would accommodate the need of rubbish disposal by the citizens of Rockland and by the citizens of the surrounding communities, yet at the same time not infringe upon the happiness of others? Certainly, this should be given further consideration.

Thank you one and all.
Sincerely,
Mrs. Mildred Calder.

School Union 72 About To Select Superintendent

A new superintendent for School Union 72 is expected to be employed at a meeting of the school boards of the five communities in the Union by the end of this month, an official of the group announced Wednesday.

Allard Pierce of South Thomaston, chairman of the screening committee, commented Wednesday morning that the name of a new superintendent will be ready for final approval by April 30.

The post was left vacant March 10 when the superintendent of schools for the towns of South Thomaston, St. George, Owls Head, Cushing and Friendship, Keith Crockett of West Rockport, departed for his new position of school plant development director for the State Department of Education.

By the April 1 deadline, the screening committee received 14 applications for the position. The group met Wednesday night for their third session to continue the screening process.

At present, the five communities are engaged in study groups involving the possible formation of three different administrative school districts.

Owls Head and South Thomaston are in the procedure of forming such a district with Rockland and Rockport, Cushing and St. George are presently included in the study group that includes the towns of Thomaston and Warren. Friendship has indicated a desire to be part of the study group comprising the communities of Waldoboro, Jefferson and Bremen.

Pierce further explained that the desire of the school union is to sign a short term contract with a new superintendent, possibly one or two years.

Included on the screening committee are: Mrs. Margaret Knowlton of Owls Head, Amos Simmons of Friendship and Harold Dowling of St. George.

Among the guests present were town and fire department officials from Thomaston, Rockport, Owls Head, Camden and Lincolnville.

Sardine Season Officially Open, All Plants Idle

The 1958 Maine sardine packing season legally opened Wednesday but industry leaders do not expect to see any production until late May or early June.

The Maine Sardine Council's executive secretary, Richard Reed, said that the mid-April opening date had been nothing more than a legal definition for the past 10 years. Not only had the old time early runs of fish failed to show up but none of the plants were ready for operation so early.

He said that there was nothing to indicate whether there would be an abundance or scarcity of fish this season but if the trend since 1951 prevailed the latter situation might be the story.

Starting with 1951 when fish were very scarce all season the industry had alternate high and low production years until 1956 and 1957 which were two good fish years in a row. Unless the trend is broken the bugaboo of a shortage could crop up again.

Reed said that it was expected that several less plants would be in operation in 1958. Two plants have been dismantled and there are reports of others not planning to operate.

The industry is anxious to know just what effect recently promulgated State grading will have on the pack and the market picture, he stated.

OUR FAVORITE PRAYER

O God, merciful and compassionate, who is ever ready to hear the prayers of those who put their trust in thee, graciously harken to us who call upon thee and grant us they help in this our need.

HE KNOWS HIS BUSINESS

In the old days the municipal elections invariably brought forth the question "Will he be a good mayor or a poor one?"

The impending arrival of a successor to Lloyd Allen as City Manager for Rockland poses no such question for the manager is a man of proven ability in the city manager field and a man of mature years whose experiences will be of inestimable value to this city. It is far better to be able to procure a trained man to handle the affairs of the city than to select one who must spend his first year learning the ropes.

We warmly welcome the new City Manager, Charles A. Haynes.

THIS IS AN OLD STORY

Months ago an editorial appeared in this column brought about by a similar set of circumstances and carrying an identical lesson based on the saving of precious human lives.

Here is what came to pass on Thursday. A boy's bicycle, some personal articles and other things leading to his identification were found on the edge of the Old Rockland Water Company reservoir on Rankin Street, long abandoned and grown with weeds.

The fire department was called, with police along of course, but it was necessary to take the time to go to the waterfront, procure a small boat and prepare for transportation and transport it to the reservoir.

In this case there was no fatality and no boy in the water, but had it been the real thing instead of a most ill-considered false alarm, it could as well have been a real tragedy and the time consumed in procuring a boat and getting it rigged for transportation could easily have cost a human life.

We urged before that there be added to the equipment in our big, roomy Central Fire Station a moderate sized light boat, preferably aluminum for ease of handling and a boat trailer to fit it with an instantaneous hitch so that the second a drowning or water borne accident of any kind be reported to firemen or police, in seconds the boat and trailer be enroute to the rescue just as the big red wagons roll the instant the diaphone has blown around once so the source of a fire is known.

Such a boat and trailer might cost a thousand dollars. To our way of thinking the same should be provided either by the city or by private subscription.

SUPREME COURT—A BENIGN JUDICIAL DICTATORSHIP

Senator Hennings, of Missouri, was doubtless right in feeling that Congress ought to do a lot of thinking before adopting anything like Senator William Jenner's bill to restrict the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court over certain selected matters. However, it ought not to require too much study to convince Congress that some action is necessary if it is to retain its position as a supposedly equal partner in our tri-partite Federal system. The reason why congressional action to curb the court is even mentioned is that the court is setting itself up as a sort of third legislative chamber, and, as such, has felt free to impose its ideas upon the other branches of the Government.

Judge Learned Hand, formerly of the United States Court of Appeals, in his recent lectures at Harvard, declared that "if we do need a third chamber it should appear for what it is, and not as the interpreter of inscrutable principles." He added that for him "it would be most irksome to be ruled by a bevy of Platonic Guardians, even if I knew how to select them, which I assuredly do not. If they were in charge I should miss the stimulus of living in a society where I have, at least theoretically, some part in the direction of public affairs."

The Platonic Guardians have attempted to tell a committee of Congress how it may not interrogate a witness, a ruling which has seriously hampered necessary investigatory procedure. They have decreed that a state may not pass a law to deal with subversives because the Federal Government is presumed to have a monopoly in the field. According to them, a state must admit to the practice of law an applicant who refuses to tell the bar examiners whether or not he is or has been a member of a Communist conspiracy. And they have turned loose convicted Reds on narrow technical grounds.

Surely the legislature is bound to consider how to restore balance to the Federal system of "checks and balances." For, as Abraham Lincoln warned in his first inaugural address, "if the policy of the Government upon vital questions affecting the whole people is to be irrevocably fixed by decisions of the Supreme Court . . . the people will have ceased to be their own rulers."

To limit the court's jurisdiction may not be the way to restore Congress to its rightful and constitutional authority, but there can be no doubt of the right of Congress to do so if it pleases. The late Justice Owen Roberts many years ago raised the question: "What is there to prevent Congress taking away, bit by bit, all the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States? I can see nothing . . . in view of the language of the third article of the Constitution."

The third article of the Constitution defines the jurisdiction of the court, both original and appellate, and adds this very important qualification: "with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make." If any branch of the Government yearns for the role of Platonic Guardian, the Constitution says it should be Congress!

This is a constitutional question which should—but probably won't—be debated without reference to one's feelings about investigations or "civil rights." Judge Hand hesitates to prescribe a remedy for the trouble. He rightly dreads the confusion that would arise if a final decision on the constitutionality of statutes could not be made by anybody. But the learned judge, who might well be on the higher court himself, plainly regards the errors of lawmakers and of the people as less menacing than the rise of judicial dictatorship, however benign. BONNAR-VAWTER TO OPEN PLANT SUNDAY FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION

Pictured is one of the rotary presses in the Bonnar-Vawter plant with which the firm manufactures fanfold business forms. The plant is one of the largest in the business forms business.

The new Bonnar-Vawter, Inc., printing plant on New County road in Rockland will be opened for public inspection for the first time Sunday afternoon.

Manager Alfred Schrenk and supervisory personnel will be on hand from 2 to 5 p. m. to greet visitors, conduct them about the plant and answer questions as to the operation of the establishment generally.

The building was constructed by Knox Industries at a cost of $355,000 with local, state and insurance company financing. It was especially designed for Bonnar-Vawter to accommodate its presses and folding equipment necessary to the fanfold business forms business in which they engage.

Machinery with which the plant is equipped was moved from Cleveland, Ohio, as the company terminated its business there to open in Rockland. The process of moving took several months with the first presses arriving in June of 1956.

The plant is now in full operation and employs 104 persons on a two shift program.

Two other plants are operated by the firm, one in White Haven, Pa., and another, which produces printing plates for Rockland and White Haven, at Keene, N. H.

ROCK OF AGES

Darrell Spencer Named To Receive Naval Scholarship

Darrell Spencer

United States Senator Frederick Payne of Waldoboro sent word to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Spencer of 196 Limerock street, Rockland, that their son, Darrell Spencer, has been accepted into the four-year Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps program.

Darrell, who is salutatorian of the senior class at Rockland High School this year, is co-editor-in-chief of the annual school publication.

He plans to enter Tufts College at Medford, Mass., this fall under the four-year naval scholarship. Upon graduation from Tufts College in 1962, Spencer will attend a Naval officers' school and graduate as an Ensign.

guilty of driving a vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Camden police arrested the respondent April 13 on Elm street. His appeal to the May term of Knox Superior Court was noted and he was released on $200 bond which was furnished by his wife.

The complaint was continued from court Monday morning for the results of a blood test.

Three Rockland youths, ages 12, 13, and 16, were brought into Municipal Court Friday morning on the charge of breaking, entering and larceny.

The trio were charged with breaking into the Knox Distributing company plant at 15 Walnut street, Rockland, sometime during the night of April 14, and stealing 18 sixteen ounce bottles of ale.

Rockland police report that entry was gained by smashing a shutter in the cellar in the rear of the building and kicking up some floor boards in the garage. The bottles were removed from a truck in the garage.

The cartons, which the bottles were in, were later found in a brook, not far from the scene and several empty bottles were discovered in a boxcar in the adjoining railroad yard.

The police learned the names of the three when the mother of one of the boys brought her son into the Rockland police station a few days later after she found out that he was involved in the break.

After Judge Strout found the respondents guilty of juvenile delinquency, he sentenced the 12 year old youth to the State School for Boys and continued the charges against the others to May 20.

The 12 year old teen-ager was recently placed on probation by Judge Strout for the alleged larceny of a boat motor.

GRANGE NEWS OF KNOX-LINCOLN COUNTIES

By Henry Teague

That many poultrymen in the Knox-Lincoln area are interested in learning as much as possible about the egg laying and meat birds which bring them their livelihood was evidenced by the attendance of nearly 50 at the first session of the Extension Poultry School held Wednesday evening at the Meenahga Grange Hall in Waldo.

This school which will be held every Wednesday night for the next five or six weeks is still open to those who were unable to attend the first session. Anyone who wishes to attend next Wednesday should get in touch with the school director, County Agent Gilbert Jaeger.

At this first session Mr. Jaeger outlined the program for the school, the poultrymen then registered, after which Dr. J. F. Witter of Orono, head of the pathological laboratory at the University of Maine and Harry Whelden, Extension poultry specialist were introduced.

The meeting was held in two sessions with lunch by the Grange members served in between. During the first session, Dr. Witter discussed avian anatomy and after lunch his subject was the respiratory system.

Although Dr. Witter warned that his subject matter was somewhat dry, his students found this to be far from true, partly due to Dr. Witter's delightful method of interspersing his talks with humorous anecdotes and timely quips. Mr. Whelden showed slides from time to time to illustrate some of Dr. Witter's points.

Some of the poultrymen in the past have been heard to object to the amount of primary material furnished them in talks and printed material. They can rest assured that this school is far from primary in its subject matter. If it follows the pattern of the first meeting, the subjects while basic in content, at the same time will contain information highly important to every poultryman who wishes to increase his knowledge. While the material will be of college or university grade, its presentation will be in a form that can be clearly understood by the average poultryman who pays close attention. At the first session, it was evident that every poultryman present was deeply interested.

Next Wednesday night, the meeting will be held at the municipal building in Waldo. Lectures on the reproductive system will be given by Mr. Whelden. The school begins at 7:30 p. m. sharp and ends at 10 p. m.

The first poultryman to start building in the Warren area this spring is Carl Perry, well known broiler operator. Mr. Perry has plans for building a second broiler house of 15,000 bird capacity near his present house and he is also having ground broken for a new residence. The contractor is Earl Tolman of West Rockport who probably builds more poultry houses in this area than any other man. The reports are that Earl has at least nine new poultry buildings scheduled for this season.

Following the recent sharp drop of eggs during Easter week, fowl took a sharp dip. Fowl is now coming back in price and the predictions are that eggs will strengthen. Broilers which held up better than was expected are now weakening some.

4-H Members To Start 50 Bird Flocks In Contest

One hundred and sixty-six 4-H club members in Maine will be starting 8,300 chicks the last of this month in the 4-H Broiler Growing Contest, reports Harry C. Whelden, Extension Service poultry specialist.

With 50 chicks each, the 4-H club members will be striving for one of the 20 prizes being offered by the Maine Broiler Festival, sponsors of the contest.

Each club member will grow the chicks to 10 weeks of age when they will select 12 for an entry to be dressed and judged at the Penobscot Poultry Company in Belfast. If they wish, the company will buy their entire entry at 10 weeks making a market for the 8,300 birds.

Club members from throughout Maine, from York County to Aroostook County, are enrolled in the contest, says Whelden. Most of the entries, however, are from Oxford, Knox-Lincoln, Kennebec, Waldo and York Counties.

There are many who were in the 1957 contest that have enrolled in this year's contest. Last year there were 144 entries. Janet Thompson of Machias was the winner; Earl Jameson of Coston was second; and Robert Cook of Winthrop was third.

Donating the 8,300 chicks, which have a day-old value of over $1,000 are: Arbor Acres, Maine Division, Skowhegan; Clements Chicks, Inc., Winterport; Constable's Hatchery, Unity; Edgcomb's Hatchery, Steep Falls; Nichols Maine Division, Brunswick; Pinecrest Hatchery, Winslow; Two Rivers Hatchery, Steep Falls; and White's Hatchery, Skowhegan.

K-L Dairymen Organize, Thirty Members

On April 9 about 30 dairymen from Knox-Lincoln Counties met at the North Nobleboro Community Hall for the purpose of organizing the Knox-Lincoln Dairymen's Association. Ellis Moody of Nobleboro was chairman of the meeting and the discussion was led by Malcolm Little.

It was voted to organize and the following officers were elected: President, Malcolm Little, Nobleboro; vice president, Ellis Moody; secretary - treasurer, Frank Flagg, Jefferson; director, Willis Moody, Warren; Herbert Spear, Nobleboro; Elden Hunt, Newcastle; Roy Brown, Nobleboro; C. L. Cripps, Camden, and Harry Stewart, Union.

A set of bylaws were adopted and the association voted to petition the milk control board to hold a public hearing for the coastal area to restore the 2¢ per quart seasonal drop on July 1.

Maine Poultry Yearbook Now Being Distributed

Copies of the Maine Poultry Improvement Association's yearbook for 1958 are now being distributed, reports Frank D. Reed, Maine Extension Service poultry marketing specialist.

The 85-page yearbook and Maine poultry industry directory of the M.P.I.A. is available from Prof. J. Robert Smyth, secretary of the Association, care of the Poultry Department, University of Maine, Orono. There is no charge.

Featuring a color photograph of birds on range, the yearbook staff included Chester D. Bacheller, Limington, chairman; Oscar, Livermore; and Reed.

Contents include the list of M.P.I.A. officers and directors, a promotion program, the results of the 11th Maine production and broiler test, and an M.P.I.A. membership directory, of agencies serving the poultry industry, rat control hints, the M.P.I.A. scholarship, raising the meat-type male and female birds, the official list of Maine breeding flocks and hatcheries, and a list of Maine feed, egg and poultry prices.

We are looking forward to Home Demonstration Day which is to be Thursday, May 1. The H. D. Day tea is to be held at 1:30 p. m. at the Farnsworth Museum in Rockland. Some of the highlights of the afternoon activities will be a business meeting of the KLCWE with Mrs. Gertrude Hupper presiding and the honoring of leaders with the awards being made by Mrs. Loana Shibles, 4H Club agent. The featured speaker is to be announced later in the month.

Many of the groups will be holding special meetings or setting up exhibits in local store windows, for H. D. Week observances. H. D. Week is a time set aside to make the general public aware of what the Women of Extension are doing. With these exhibits and special meetings which are open to the public the women speak and make known some of the things they are learning.

The area meat meeting which was to be held the last week of April has been postponed until fall. All women members of the Extension Association will be sent a special notice of the meeting date in the fall.

Did I see your milk out on the steps in the sunlight? Do you realize what sunlight does to milk? The riboflavin (B-vitamin) in the milk is destroyed by that sunlight. If your milk is delivered in clear-glass bottles and can't be refrigerated promptly, it pays to have a receiving box for it so that the sun will not get at it.

Poultry Processor Describes Progress In The Industry

Arthur McLoughlin of the Penobscot Poultry Company of Belfast spoke to the Rockland Kiwanis Club Monday, taking as his subject the changes and progress in the poultry industry.

McLoughlin, who was for years with a feed manufacturing firm before joining Penobscot Poultry, noted that the poultry industry from the farm through the processing plant has had to streamline operations.

The efforts toward streamlining have not only resulted in lower costs of production and the resulting profit, but a more attractive and palatable product for the consumer.

He felt that the day of the New York dressed broiler was fast fading in fact of the present day, attractively packaged eviscerated poultry now found in most all store meat display cases.

The necessity for top quality in competition with red meats and fish created many chances, he said, one of which was the almost industry-wide change from strains of broilers having dark feathers to the white crosses. Dark pinfeathers accidentally left on the bird created an unsightly appearance and in turn created buyer resistance. A pinfeather left on a white cross is hardly noticeable. As the change to white birds was made, production stepped up in dressing plants from 500 to 1000 more birds per hour.

Commenting on poultry raising practices, he told his listeners that broilers on Maine farms today are enjoying a better balanced diet than most humans. In addition, birds are fed a constant low level of medication which holds disease at bay in an industry where disease can mean disaster to large segments of valuable flocks.

So precise is the study of poultry today to obtain the highest possible conversion of feed to meat that even types of waterers have been studied as to effect on eating habits. It has been found, he observed, that glass waterers will result in twice the water consumption by the birds as will metal units. The result of a higher water intake is higher feed consumption and as a result more meat on the birds. Going still further, his firm found that a red bottom in the glass waterers will attract more birds more frequently than plain glass, or any other color.

He cited the coming compulsory government inspection of all poultry meat at the point of processing next Jan. 1 as a major advance and one which would protect the buyer.

Several Maine firms, Penobscot included, now employ government inspectors at their own expense. He described the inspection as rigid and costly, but one which results in a superior product.

In closing, he informed the group that there is a difference between poultry labeled Oven Ready and Eviscerated. He explained that Oven Ready birds are not necessarily subjected to government inspection. On the other hand, those carrying the Eviscerated label have been passed by a government veterinarian who examines each bird as it goes through the processing line and passes it as top grade; down grades it if bruised; and condemns it if it fails to meet rigid food standards.

ered in clear-glass bottles and can't be refrigerated promptly, it pays to have a receiving box for it so that the sun will not get at it.

RUSSIA CAN'T GARBLE THIS MESSAGE

Behind the iron curtain is a powerful transmitter which tries to garble the messages which come from the free world.

We like to think that no one can garble the prayer of a little child to his God. But sometimes, right here in a free Christian land, we jam the wave-lengths of faith with examples of doubt and indifference. Even parents occasionally stifle the spiritual yearnings of their own children!

One of our freedoms is FREEDOM OF WORSHIP. In the sight of God, and before the eyes of a growing generation of free Americans, what shall we do with this freedom?

There has never been a day when Christian sincerity in the community, Christian example in the family, and Christian devotion in the individual were more essential for the preservation of our spiritual heritage to another generation!

Come to Church—join the Church—support the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a powerhouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

KNOX COUNTY POSTMASTERS MEET WITH LINCOLN COUNTY GROUP

Postmasters of Knox and Lincoln Counties met jointly at the Congregational Church vestry in Boothbay Harbor on Wednesday evening, April 16, with one of the largest gatherings of its kind ever recorded in that region, some 52 postmasters and guests being present, under the direction of Eleanor Foss, host postmaster of Boothbay Harbor.

After a supper of ham and chicken served by a committee of ladies connected with the church, President O. V. Drew of the Knox County unit opened the meeting for business.

Past State President Cyril Hopper of Lincolnville announced plans for the annual postmasters' dinner and meeting at the Beach Inn, Lincolnville Beach, which will take place on Sunday, May 4. All postmasters are invited and a large turnout is expected as the affair is to be a sort of testimonial dinner and farewell party to H. C. Mayo, District Manager at Portland, whose office will be discontinued at about that time, and Mr. Mayo will retire from the postal service.

State Secretary Bertha Borgerson gave a report on the latest news and developments concerning the State Convention which will be held at Presque Isle June 4-5-6.

After the Knox unit had concluded their business meeting, the Lincoln County postmasters elected a new board of officers, after appointing O. V. Drew to act as temporary chairman.

Officers elected were: Postmaster Eleanor Foss of Boothbay Harbor, president; Postmaster Carlton R. Barlow of East Boothbay, vice president; and Postmaster Harriett B. Orchard of West Southport as secretary-treasurer. A collection was made to provide funds for the newly organized Lincoln County group.

H. C. Mayo, District Manager, then told the assembled postmasters the latest developments in the re-organization plans of the department, which will close the district office in Portland and assign its personnel to different jobs throughout New England.

After Mr. Mayo's talk, Harry A. Gray of Boothbay Harbor, a telephone engineer, explained some very interesting pictures taken in and about the Arctic regions at a time when he was working on the so-called D.E.W. line, the radar enemy warning and defense line which serves Canada and the United States.

Mr. Gray spent some 18 months in this work and his pictures covered everything, from Arctic flowers to polar bears.

The meeting closed at a late hour with everybody congratulating Host Postmaster Eleanor Foss on the success of her first venture.

Those present included the following: Enid Monaghan of Port Clyde; Bertha L. Borgerson and Allan B. Borgerson of Ows Head; David Pollock and Helena Pollock of South Thomaston; O. V. Drew and Beulah M. Drew of Vinalhaven; Cyril Hopper and Gertrude Hopper of Lincolnville; Beatrice Rider and Hildred Rider of Rockport; Doris Salisbury of Hope.

Ruth Barrows of Glen Cove; Kemp Hawkins and Ena Hawkins of St. George; Howard Monaghan of Port Clyde; Eleanor H. Foss, Harry A. Gray and Robert H. Patton of Boothbay Harbor; Wendall M. Lewis of Boothbay; Carlton R.

HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER STEVENS SPEAKING BEFORE BPW 23D ON STATE HIGHWAY LEGISLATION

The Business and Professional Women's Club has invited David Stevens, head of the State Highway Commission, to speak at a public meeting April 23 at the Farnsworth Museum at 7.30 p. m. They have asked Mr. Stevens to talk on highway legislation, with particular reference to the Public Administration Service recommendations for modernizing our means of handling state highway obligations. The P. A. S. recommendations were the result of a study authorized by the Legislators at the request of Governor Muskie.

Ralph W. Bartlett, executive secretary of the Knox County Industrial and Development Association, who has long worked for improvement of Route 1, made the following comments:

"The Business and Professional Women's Club of Rockland is taking a constructive step towards solving the cause for the poor condition of Mid-Coast Route 1 and its feeder roads. They deserve the thanks of the Mid-Coast Route 1 Association for calling voter's attention to the fact that it is not enough just to get Route 1 some improvement after 20 years of neglect of its relative importance, both to Maine and to more efficient traffic patterns for our commerce."

"It is under Mr. Stevens' administration of highways that the long process of modernizing Mid-Coast Route 1 has begun. No one should known better than he, that the huge problem facing him (of salvaging the economy of the coastal area, while keeping up with present plans for state highway development) has a deeper cause than local or regional politics.

"Statesmen use poitices to establish legislative directives which prevent local and regional politics from interfering with the area thinking that alone can assure efficient administration of the entire public interests. Only an informed public can insist on statesmanship in our Legislature."

"When a condition exists on a vital artery of commerce, such as that revealed by the recent Highway Sufficiency Survey, then it is apparent that something is wrong with the legislative directives under which this condition was created. Public attention to this fact and the need for searching for corrective measures is over-due. Both the Commissioner and all of Maine can benefit by such public meetings as the B.P.W. has scheduled for all on the 23rd of April."

A man's intellect seems to have very little in common with his happiness.
