Born in Brooklyn, New York, 1939.

Graduated ex Drew University, Madison, New Jersey.. Botany major, zoology minor.

Worked in various fields of the plant sciences, as well as in wildlife management.

Now a freelance photographer living on the Maine coast, he continues his interest in the life sciences through plant, animal and nature close-up photography.

Self-taught as a photographer, his major areas of specialization are advertising and commercial photography, freelance newspaper and magazine work, custom darkroom work and stock photos. He also lectures to area groups on nature themes.

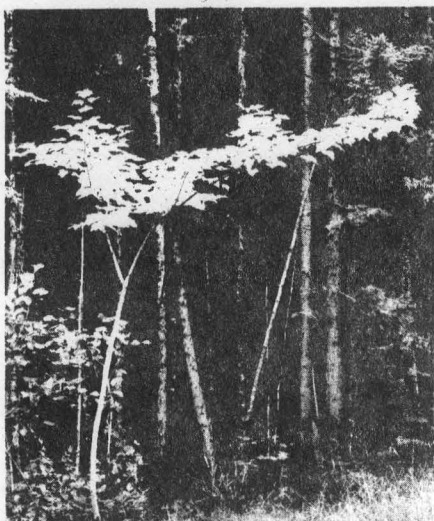

Widely published, his work has appeared in many national publications, including:

ALA, Away
Cape Cod Compass
Down East
Early American Life
Horticulture
Maine Sportsman
Natural History
Sea Frontiers

Yankee Guide to the New England
Countryside
Newsweek
Up Country Magazine
Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine
Smithsonian
News Day
Modern Maturity
Brooklyn Botanic Gardens Plants
and Gardens Handbooks

- as well as in numerous newspapers, textbooks and corporate reports.

His recent book: Gulf of Maine, a pictorial survey of coastal plant and animal life, has been well received.

Patrick W. Grace, professional photographer, naturalist and author offers the following illustrated nature slide programs for your group or organization.

BIRDING IN THE NORTHEAST - good birding areas from Maine to Delaware. Rare and unusual sightings.

FALL FANTASY - spectacular fall foliage and wild flowers. Fruits that provide food for migrating birds, e.g. edible mushrooms. A look at a number of habitats (coast, marsh, field and forest) at this time of year.

FOCUS ON THE SEACOAST - starting with the beach, a series of coastal environments are explored; the tide pools, salt marsh, estuaries, mudflats and back-beach areas. Plant and animal life of each.

HAWKS ALOFT - a look at raptors, including hawks and owls, their habits and habitats. Includes the famous Hawk Mountain Sanctuary in Pa., where Mr. Grace has lectured.

MAINE BIRDS - can be slanted towards season given (e.g., fall migration, winter feeding, spring and summer nesting, etc.).

NATURALISTS POT POURRI - emphasis on techniques for photographing plants and animals; films, equipment, setups and handling of subjects.

NORTHEASTERN WILDLIFE REFUGES - Moosehorn and Rachel Carson (Me.), Parker River (Mass.), Great Swamp (N.J.), and Bombay Hook (Del.), where Mr. Grace lived and worked prior to coming to Maine.

WANDERING THROUGH WINTER - nature asleep. Winter closeups. Birds that are attracted to home feeders, photographing snowflakes.

WILD FOODS - edible plants and animals, starting with the beach and exploring the field, pond and forest. Edible and poisonous mushrooms, algae and flowering plants. Maple syrup making in the back yard.
