Who Will Inherit the Camp?

by Esther J. Perne

Sell it, share it, divide it, destroy it. A dilemma accompanies almost every lakeshore property, and the solution isn't easy, because... How do you bequeath a dream?

How do you pass along those idyllic summer days, nights listening to the loons, inter-generational camaraderie, escape from less freeing lifestyles in less rustic places, and the internal peace and growth that lakeside dwellers experience? How do you leave a legacy of fishing in the gentle rain, being where people look each other in the eye and say hello, closing an agreement with a simple handshake?

How do you insert into a legal will those contented smiles of an infant kicking its bare legs in the warm summer sun, of a child splashing in the lake, of a pre-teen heading out of the cove in his first motor boat, of visitors arriving weary and tentative and leaving rested and encouraged?

And how, oh how, do you distribute fairly the legacy of the ever-increasing shorefront property tax??

Yes, consult with a lawyer, an estate planner, an accountant or a financial advisor, and any other professional with experience in inheritance. Talk with lakefront property owners who have been through the agonizing process, those who have handled it smoothly, and those who are struggling with it (there are many). And then? The solution isn't always the most astute professionals, adequate money - although that certainly is very necessary, a well written will, or even a poorly written will. According to financial specialists who also understand the intangibles of a lakeside camp, the solution is talking out the emotional side of the camp sooner rather than later, while good health still prevails, and finding out who among the potential heirs is really interested in what.

The solution is in recognizing that each subsequent generation dilutes the potential pool of owners and that multiple ownership is very difficult. The solution is in realistically foreseeing and averting a major inheritance controversy by selling out, or designating that the property be sold upon death, and distributing the profit among the heirs.

Other advice to consider regarding legacy properties includes getting the children and grandchildren and other relatives (the same ones who stop in, have a great time and leave) to start contributing financially now, maybe even share in that ever-increasing tax bill.

Finally, review and update plans as circumstances change. Many lakeside properties are on their third and fourth generations. A lot of grandchildren are involved and a lot of great grandchildren, and great-greats will be. Divorce and re-marriage, multiple families, step-relatives, and extended families all enter into the picture and with them financial inequities. Often those who want to keep the property in the family the most have the least of financial resources.

But back to the dreams. More often than not, since the turn of the 1900s when these lakes were first settled by seasonal vacationers, the cabin (or castle) by the lake was and still is the dream of the original owner. All the wonderful, rich intangibles of time spent on a lake are the greatest inheritance they can give - that and peace among their heirs.

Pass It On Features Consignment Wear

"I'm very happy with how it's going," says Jan Edelstein of her consignment shop adjacent to Antique Interiors on Main Street in Belgrade Lakes.

The idea of consignment clothing came to her in February; in June she opened Pass It On; on Thursday, August 11, 3-8 pm, there will be a Grand Opening celebration with 50% off summer clothes and all men's and children's clothes, 20% off all items over $20, and 20-50% off selected items in the antique shop.

Currently Pass It On offers a lot of designer items, a children's section, and a separate cottage with men's clothing and shoes. There is some vintage clothing in stock with a lot more on the way. Customers are welcome to just visit, to hang out - especially in the well-stocked antique shop - or to make an appointment to bring in clothing.

The hours for Pass It On are 10 am-5 pm, seven days a week. For more information call 495-3500.

Watershed Wisdom

Ancient Wisdom

by Peter Kallin

I have been discussing Mother Nature's watershed design and the importance of maintaining upland forests and vegetated wetland buffers to protect water quality. I have talked about the importance of responsible development to avoid excess stormwater runoff that can cause erosion and deplete groundwater supplies. These are not new ideas. Consider this observation from over 2000 years ago:

"There are mountains in Attica, which can now keep nothing but bees, but which were clothed, not so very long ago, with fine trees producing timber suitable for roofing the largest buildings....while the country produced boundless pasture for cattle. The annual supply of rainfall was not lost, as it is at present, through being allowed to flow over a denuded surface to the sea, but was received by the earth, in all its abundance, into her bosom where she stored it." Plato: Dialogue of Critias 360 B.C.E

Plato could just as easily be talking about modern day America. Cutting down forests in the uplands and clearing the native vegetation results in too much impervious surface, which in turn results in excess stormwater runoff. Instead of recharging the groundwater aquifers and filtering slowly into streams and lakes, this runoff flows quickly down the hills, resulting in flooding in the lowlands and excessive erosion and phosphorus-laden sediments flowing into our lakes.

The LakeSmart program I discussed a few weeks ago emphasizes the importance of maintaining native vegetated buffers along the shorelines of our lakes, rivers, and streams. Over 500 years ago, Leonardo da Vinci gave the same advice:

"The roots of the willows do not suffer the banks of the canals to be destroyed; and the branches of the willows, nourished during their passage through the thickness of the bank and then cut low, thicken every year and make shoots continually, and so you have a bank that has life and is of one substance." - Leonardo Da Vinci (1452-1519)

A few hundred years later, Henry David Thoreau built his home next to Walden Pond and observed:

"My house was on the side of a hill, immediately on the edge of the larger wood, in the midst of a young forest of pitch pines and hickories, and half a dozen rods from the pond, to which a narrow footpath led down the hill. In my front yard grew the strawberry, blackberry, and life-everlasting, johnswort and goldenrod, shrub oaks and sand cherry, blueberry and groundnut." - Henry David Thoreau (1817-1862)

Thoreau clearly understood the importance of diverse vegetation and a healthy vegetated buffer. Interestingly, even before the advent of shoreland zoning rules, he built his house a half dozen rods back from the water, almost exactly the 100 ft setback requirement of Maine's current law. With his narrow meandering footpath, I'm sure Thoreau would have qualified for a LakeSmart Award. He certainly understood the beauty of healthy lakes with forested shore-front areas:

"A lake is the landscape's most beautiful and expressive feature. It is earth's eye; looking into which the beholder measures the depth of his own nature. The fluviate trees next the shore are the slender eyelashes which fringe it, and the wooded hills and cliffs around are its overhanging brows."

We have discussed the importance of watersheds and managing our lakes on a watershed basis instead of arbitrary municipal boundaries. There are two places in Maine where this takes place- the Cobbossee Watershed District and the Penobscot Nation in the Penobscot River Watershed. It is no coincidence that Cobbossee Lake is the only major lake that has been taken off of the official DEP list of impaired waterbodies. Native Americans have long recognized the importance of taking care of our lakes and rivers. Chief Seattle (1786-1866) was not a Penobscot but I think they would agree with him:

"The rivers are our brothers. They quench our thirst. The rivers carry our canoes, and feed our children. If we sell you land, you must remember, and teach your children, that the rivers are our brothers and yours, and you must henceforth give the rivers the kindness you would give any brother."

More recently Luna Leopold (1915-2006), the son of the great 20th Century conservationist Aldo Leopold, who was the Chief Hydrologist of U.S. Geological Services (USGS) and a Professor at the University of

Friends of Messalonskee To Hold Milfoil Awareness Day/Annual Meeting 8/13

On Saturday, August 13, the Friends of Messalonskee will hold its second annual Milfoil Awareness Day to help everyone identify, understand and help to manage this menacing invasive water plant. The event will take place at the Oakland Boat Landing off Old Belgrade Avenue from 10 am-2 pm and will include boat rides to look at milfoil areas on the lake.

At 11 am there will be a short annual meeting which is open to all interested parties, followed by a lunch (finger sandwiches donated by Big G's) hosted by the Friends. Everyone is invited to join the fun, to enjoy the freebees, camaraderie, T-shirts and hats, and to learn more about milfoil.

Since milfoil is often spread from lake to lake by boaters, people from other Belgrade lakes are especially invited to come see what milfoil looks like and learn what the Friends of Messalonskee and state agencies are doing to manage it. Last summer Benthic barriers, which are underwater mats that block sunlight and kill milfoil, were placed at three key locations in the lake. Boats and divers were also used to manually pick the milfoil and to use a suction-harvesting machine. Milfoil grows quickly, can choke out other plants, and interferes with recreational activities such as swimming and boating. It has spread to much of Messalonskee Lake.

How much? Dr. Daniel Buckley, Chairman of the Biology Department at the University of Maine at Farmington mapped milfoil in Messalonskee Lake in 2010. This map will be on display at Milfoil Awareness Day.

Friends of Messalonskee was formerly the Snow Pond-Messalonskee Lake Association. The name change recognizes that the lake is used by all area people and the issues surrounding the lake affect everyone. The Friends of Messalonskee will continue to focus on the important issues that affect the preservation of the lake and its environs, including invasive plants, water quality, recreation, etc. Everyone is welcome to join the Friends.

Enjoy That Gypsy Jazz

On Sunday, August 14, the Riverside Farm Market in Oakland will host a Gypsy Jazz Festival featuring New England-based Mes Amis, Hot Club du Monde, and Ameranouche, plus a few guest artists. Gypsy jazz is distinctive in its absence of the drummer. It utilizes a technique referred to as "la pompe;" the rhythm guitarist drives the beat. The Riverside Festival will be held in a meadow in back of the Market overlooking Messalonskee Stream. Food and beverage concessions will be available; bring your own blanket or lawn chair. Admission is by advance sales only. Tickets are $15 - call Janna at 465-4439.

Scenic Otter Tours

The Otter II can be used for $75 per hour and comes with a Captain and Tour Guide! You can now book a cruise for up to 8 people at a time for:

- Guided Tours of Cobbossee Lake
- Sunset Cruises
- Moonlight Cruises
- Picnic and/or swimming Cruises
- Weddings
- Breakfast Cruises
- Etc.

The Friends of the Cobbossee Watershed will provide a Captain, Tour Guide, etc., who will take you on a great cruise on beautiful Cobbossee Lake or anywhere in the Watershed for that matter. They will make sure that your cruise is wonderful fun for everyone involved. These cruises are a great way to relax and forget about the stresses of the moment, and just enjoy the great weather, and even greater views along with the amiable companionship from the captain on duty! Relax and leave the driving to us!

The Otter II

The ever-popular Ice Cream Boat operates each summer from mid-May through mid-October.

The original OTTER (2002-2005) and current OTTER II (a 22' Avalon pontoon boat launched in 2006) moves around each week to one of eleven water bodies of the Cobbossee Watershed, "hosted" by residents who provide us with dock space and an electrical hook-up for our freezers. Since that first summer of 2002, the original OTTER and OTTER II have come in contact with tens of thousands of people, enlisted over 2,000 members and provided valuable information and advice to thousands more on what one can do to help protect the Cobbossee Watershed.

Clark Marine of Manchester, Maine continues to provide major support of the OTTER II, with Hershey Ice Cream supplying the delicious treats each summer!

Along with our mascot "Spotter the Otter", The OTTER II will be all over the watershed once again this summer – participating at numerous community events, fairs, parades and gatherings. Check the EVENT CALENDAR to find out where The OTTER II will be, or if you would like the OTTER II or Spotter to appear at your event or function, please contact our office.

Fall Classic Tour of Cobbossee Watershed

The Friends of the Cobbossee Watershed are starting a new event. It is a bicycle ride called the Fall Classic Tour of the Cobbossee Watershed. Each year it will feature a ride that tours a significant piece of our beautiful watershed. There will be mountains with views of streams and lakes, and roads that parallel the lakes and streams with birds-eye views of them throughout the ride. The ride will begin and end in the same place and there will be a celebration at the end probably including a barbecue and a band. There may even be a feed and bathroom stop along the way. We hope to feature a photographer as well, and you will see outrageous support because local bicycle shops have asked to be a part of this.

This year, the ride will take place on Sunday, September 11th starting and ending at the State YMCA Camp in East Winthrop. The ride will start at 9:30 and roll up route 135 toward Kent's Hill. It will then make it's way toward Wayne, and then over Mt. Pisgah, and through North and East Monmouth, and up along 135 again to the finish at the YMCA Camp. In Kent's Hill there are views of Torsey Pond, and many lakes not even in the Cobbossee Watershed in the Wayne and Fayette areas, as well as incredible views of Berry, Dexter, and Wilson Ponds as you go over Mt. Pisgah. The route will cover about 35 miles and you are welcome to ride it at a leisurely pace or you can blister it, whichever you choose.

There is a flat registration fee, and prizes for people that acquire pledges, and the prizes get higher in value as participants move up in the dollar amounts of their pledges. See the breakdown at BikeReg!

- Conservation Too -

I'm a little late for my composting article for 2011. But it is time when people are beginning to harvest more out of their own garden or buy more fresh produce from farmstands and markets. That raw produce generates a bit more "waste" that is a great addition for the compost pile. For some folks, the summer and fall is the best time to start thinking about composting. If you are still "just thinking about it"... IT IS TIME TO START! It is estimated that composting your household waste can cut the amount of your annual waste by nearly 80%.

To begin with the basics of composting - it is a mixture of nitrogen, carbon, oxygen and moisture. With the proper mix of these elements little critters will begin to digest all the material. They generate heat while they are at it. The end result is a marvelous material which gardeners refer to as "black gold". This compost is not only a precious soil amendment for gardeners and landscapers but it has been created by recycling materials that otherwise would have been in the waste stream. For technical guidance on making compost, and help with designs for a home made compost bin or compost pile we recommend checking the Maine cooperative extension service. ...Watershed Wisdom continued from page 5

California summed it all up when he said:

"Water is the most critical resource issue of our lifetime and our children's lifetimes. The health of our waters is the principal measure of how we live on the land."

Our new Maine Lakes Resource Center (MLRC) will shortly be working to make conservation a tradition in our watershed. We plan to implement some of the wisdom of past generations to preserve this special place for future generations. We need to take advantage of Mother Nature's built in systems and figure out ways to modify man-made systems to mimic natural systems. We have implemented many state-of-the-art best management practices into the design of our new center. Come visit and learn how to live lightly on the land for the sake of the lakes. We want our children and grandchildren to have memories like E.B. White:

Letters of E.B. White, Childhood memories, age 5:

So you may ask, "Where do I get nitrogen and carbon? Most of us can figure out how to get the oxygen and the moisture. An easy way to think of the nitrogen and carbon is to use a simple color code. Most green stuff has the nitrogen and most brown stuff has the carbon. For most people, the nitrogen comes from lawn clippings and food scraps. For your brown stuff focus on dry leaves, dead grass, stale bread products, paper napkins and the like. Avoid meat and oil laden foods unless you have become a bit more expert at your composting. Mix the nitrogen and carbon materials together. Most people use some sort of container or bin. But you can simply use a pile if that is all you have. Use more of the carbon material by volume. Keep the mixture stirred up so it has plenty of oxygen and keep it about as moist as a wrung out sponge. The compost mixture needs to be of sufficient size to begin its work. A good sized pile in a shady area will work. The compost bin or other container keeps the mixture together. Your compost pile needs to be of sufficient size for the "magic" to begin.

Sounds simple doesn't it? If you haven't done it before however, it takes some time to learn the method. Talk to a neighbor who composts. Don't over-think it? Don't be in a hurry! People may try to sell

"For me the golden time of year was summertime, when we all went for one month to a rented camp on the shore of Great Pond, one of the Belgrade Lakes in Maine. This Belgrade era began, I think, in 1904, when I was five years old. It was sheer enchantment. We Whites were city people—everything about Belgrade was a new experience: the big freshwater lake, the pines and spruces and birches, the pasture with its sweetfern and juniper, the farmhouse where we took our meals, the rough camp with its sparsely furnished bedrooms... the boating, the swimming, and the company of other campers along the shore. The month of August was four solid weeks of heaven...."

The delicious smells and sounds of Belgrade are still with me after these many years of separation. I spent much of my time in a canoe, exploring bogs and streams, netting turtles.... At Bean's store [in the Village] Father would treat us to a round of Moxie or birch beer, and we could feed the big bass that hung you something that will "make compost in a few weeks". While that may be possible, it is highly unlikely. The one item I suggest getting is a compost thermometer in order to keep track of how hot the compost is getting. It should be above 95-100° in order to be working. It can get much hotter. Turn the mixture weekly.

My system is a large compost bin that holds more than a cubic yard. I use lawn clippings and food scraps for my nitrogen. I use junk mail and a pile of last fall's leaves for my carbon. For the past two months my pile has been at 110-150°. Our regular rain showers have helped keep it moist. Sometimes household compost will not work that well but my pile is large enough to work very well. I've been making compost for years.

The Kennebec 2011 edition of the Kennebec County Ag Map is now hot off the press. Look for a copy to find local farm stands and Farmers' Markets and start eating food that was grown locally. Do your part to support local food production and all of its benefits.

around the wharf and then head back [in the launch] across the lake... (There was a new drink out called Coca-Cola, but Father assured us it was a cheap imitation of Moxie and without virtue.)"

Hot Summer Fishing

by Mike Guarino

Jim Savage and his son Hayden were visiting from Australia last week and caught some great fish. Northern pike largemouth and smallmouth bass and Hayden even caught a painted turtle in the net!

The chain pickerel doesn't get much press. He seldom graces the cover of BassMaster Magazine or Field & Stream and certainly isn't the topic of conversation at the Sunset Grille during Sunday morning breakfast. Let's face it, he's not the most glamorous fish in the lake, but he certainly has something to offer to summer anglers. So, let's pretend you are a pickerel. You sit perfectly still in your favorite weed bed: it's warm, weedy, and four of your best friends are hanging out with you. Your only concern is that darn osprey that's overhead or maybe a big, hungry northern pike. Despite quietly minding your own business, you are on "red alert" waiting for your favorite food to cruise by. A few sunfish fry round your weed bed and you rocket out and snatch one – yummy. Life is good. This is a good day to be a pickerel! Then you spot it, your arch enemy, your kryptonite – a black jitterbug is fluttering past, just out of reach. You tell yourself not to eat it, momma said stay away from those, don't do it . . . but in the end you simply can't help yourself! With two huge flicks of your tail, you rocket out of your comfy weed bed and crush the top water lure. Three minutes later, some kid is holding you up and you are getting your picture taken. It's tough to be you . . .

That's pickerel fishin'. That's the way it works for the fish and the angler. They are abundant, they are aggressive and they love black jitterbugs! Sometimes chain pickerel can save the day when the bass fishing is slow or the kids are getting restless. Pickerel also love 8-inch ribbon tail worms rigged Texas style with a 3/0 worm hook. On North Pond and East Pond where the pickerel are everywhere, a purple sparkle worm works excellent during the middle of the day.

This past week saw some quirky bass fishing, but there were few complaints about the size of the fish. The smallmouth bass were active early in the morning and were aggressively hitting top water lures. It seems we catch some of our bigger fish on top, but not as many numbers of smallies. That's a fair tradeoff if you ask me. You can always work the shoreline side of the rock piles or the docks and moored boats to catch a bunch of smaller bass. This past week we chucked a lot of Spooks and Sammy's before 8 a.m. Fish them aggressively and then stop the bait for about 3-5 seconds. The bass would swirl behind the lure – one subtle flick of the bait and PRESTO! He was on. You have to cover a lot of water with this technique because you are searching out the biggest bass in the area but the rewards are worth it. A good baitcaster with decent braided line and long casts seemed to up the odds. Depending on which lake you are fishing, you might catch a big northern pike with this method too.

Summer northern pike fishing has produced a few good fish this past week. The water temperatures are pretty warm for shallow pike, but they come in during the evening hours. Live bait is always a good choice this time of year, but big stick baits and spoons always catch a few. During the daylight hours the pike move off the weeds and into 15-25 feet of water so trolling might be your best option during the heat of the season. They seem to key on submerged alewives so imitating that bait fish with a Rapala or spoon is always a good idea.

Good luck this week!

What Is Parvo in Dogs?

In short, canine parvovirus is a viral infection that can seriously affect young and adolescent canines. It is very prevalent in our environment and can be highly contagious, yet many people have never heard of it unless they have known an animal affected by it. Even folks who are diligent about getting their dogs properly vaccinated may not realize that they are in fact protecting their dogs from it when they get a "Distemper" vaccine for them. For many years, canine vaccines have been administered as a combination shot including Canine Distemper, Canine Parvovirus, parainfluenza, Canine Hepatitis and sometimes others all in that simple "Distemper" vaccine.

The term "Parvovirus" actually includes a large group of viruses that can infect many mammal species (including humans). The version of the virus that affects each species is pretty species specific however; for example the dog parvovirus will not infect pigs, the cat parvovirus will not infect people, and so on. The canine parvovirus does affect most members of the dog family (wolves, coyotes, foxes etc.). While the parvoviruses of other species have been well known for decades, the canine parvovirus is a relative newcomer. The original canine parvovirus, discovered in 1967 and called CPV-1 did not pose much of a medical threat except to newborn puppies initially. However by 1978, a new variant, CPV-2 and in 1979 CPV-2b appeared in the U.S. These newer versions were suspected to be a mutation from the feline parvovirus (confusingly, parvovirus in cats is also known as the feline "distemper" virus).

Unfortunately this virus is shed in very large amounts by infected animals; it is also especially hardy in the environment and is difficult to destroy (common household cleaners and cold or sunlight cannot destroy it). So sadly, worldwide distribution of the virus rapidly occurred, and dogs as a species had no inherent immunity to it. Until effective vaccines were developed, many dogs died from parvo. Currently, the virus is considered to be present in EVERY ENVIRONMENT canines frequent. Attempting to shield a puppy from exposure is completely futile. Vaccination is the only way to protect your young dog. Mothers who have been vaccinated give their puppies some immunity for a short time after birth, but all puppies should start a series of vaccines at 7 weeks of age. Currently, available vaccines cover all variants of canine parvo including an even newer strain that has been discovered (CPV-2c).

The disease in dogs primarily consists of vomiting and diarrhea, often with frank blood. The virus attacks all rapidly dividing cells in the body, including the lining of the gut (hence the vomit and diarrhea) the bone marrow (where the red blood cells and immune cells are manufactured).

This combination of destruction of the immune cells, bleeding in the gut and invasion of bacteria from the gut to the bloodstream can be deadly. Some breeds are more susceptible to mortality than others, such as Dobermans and Pit Bulls. Very young puppies with no immunity seem to fade and die overnight; in these cases the virus has usually caused sudden damage to the heart muscle, or myocarditis. The incubation period once a dog is exposed to the virus is between 3 to 7 days; once they are sick they shed large numbers of virus in their stool and vomit, and continue to do so for weeks after they seem to recover. The virus can then live in the environment, even in your yard in Maine, for over a year.

Over thirty years have passed since parvo first had such a devastating effect on the canine population. Parvoviral infection must be considered as a possible diagnosis in any young dog with vomiting and/or diarrhea. There is a quick and accurate test your vet can do on the dog's feces right in the office to diagnose parvo. With proper treatment, often involving days of isolation in a hospital, survival rates now approach 80% or better. However, vaccinating young puppies appropriately is still paramount in protecting them from this deadly disease. Older, adolescent dogs may be less likely to die from this disease, but hospitalization for treatment is much more stressful and painful, and usually much more expensive.

Business

Invaluable Employee

"Lois is always pointing out that she came with the business, just like the equipment when we bought the store from my parents," says Diane Oliver, owner of Day's Store in Belgrade Lakes, in describing 25-year employee Lois Davis.

As area workers go, Lois is a true native, a lifetime Rome resident who graduated from Williams High School in Oakland, married Roger Davis who works at Hammond Lumber, and raised two daughters in Rome.

She started working at Day's 25 years ago for Joyce and Gary Day in the gift shop, following a brief stint at a factory in Skowhegan. Day's, plus cleaning and opening cabins for individuals and for Bear Spring Camps in Rome, have occupied all of Lois' work time.

From the gift shop, Lois has "done it all" at Day's - cash, deli, magazines, fishing licenses. She loves being the store photo taker and scrapbooker and has photos of customers, turkeys tagged, deer tagged, fish caught, etc. Thanks to Lois, after the pictures come off the wall at Day's, Lois puts them into scrapbooks, which answers the question a lot of people have about what happens to those pictures.

Lois Davis

In her away-from-the-store life, Lois likes country music, going to the gym, soap operas, facebook and computer games, and spending time with her daughters, Bobbie Jo Plaisted and Barbara Stevens and three grandchildren, Cody Stevens, Liza Plaisted, and O'brien Plaisted.

What does she hate? "Thunder storms are fun to be around Lois," says Diane. "She hates them and is very afraid of them. You'll always get a screech or jump out of Lois if the thunder booms and the lights go out."

"I think what Lois most loves about her job," says Diane, "is seeing all the returning people. She knows so many for so many years and loves to see them return (each season)."

As if to confirm that Lois is in the right place at the right time dealing with the seasonality of a lake resort area and the people who love it, the only movie she lists, appropriately, on facebook for liking is "On Golden Pond."

Lois is best known for her wit with the customers, especially some of the locals she loves to get going, including Carl, Alexi, Dave, Tom, Franny, and Mr. Elz.

"What we most want to say is how fortunate we are that we have Lois as a great employee," summarizes Diane. "It is because of her leadership along with our other employees that Kerry and I are able to leave for some time off. We feel very comfortable and appreciate all she has done for our family business over the last 25 years...and we look for more."

"This is not an end to a long relationship, simply a recognition of a good stretch of time together," Diane concludes.

After all, Lois Davis, came with the business, 25 years ago. Now that's an invaluable investment..
