ROUTE 17 PROJECT NECESSITATES TAKING OF PORTIONS OF LAND OF SEVERAL FARMS BORDERING ROAD

The State Highway Commission announced this week that certain portions of private property in West Rockport and Hope will be taken by the State for the purpose of relocating, altering, widening, constructing, changing the grade and changing the drainage of a section of Route 17.

The George Hall Construction Company of Rockland was awarded the construction job with their low bid of $215,169.25, out of a field of six bidders.

The new section of highway will run 1.491 miles from the junction of Route 17 and the Warren road in South Hope southeasterly to West Rockport and connect onto a new section of the road completed last year.

The job also included a major relocation in the Grassy Pond area for about a half a mile north to another new section of Route 17.

Owners of land that will be affected by this new construction include: Otto H. Umbreit, John C. Pushaw, Alton C. Ingraham, Thomas R. Winston, Earl F. Lewis, Russell Upham.

Lloyd and Winona Gould Brown, Joseph P. and Hazel E. Pushaw, Charles L. and Dorothy L. Childs, Joseph L. Moody, George A. and Edith W. Ludwig.

PRIZES OF LOBSTERS, SEA CHESTS OFFERED FOR BEST PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN DURING SEAFOODS FESTIVAL

Camera enthusiasts, both amateur and professional, will have an appetizing target to shoot at during the 12th annual Maine Seafoods Festival to be held Aug. 1, 2 and 3 at Rockland.

A new Festival Photo Contest will be held during the three-day event. Festival officials announced today. Prizes of live Maine lobsters and Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries sea chests will be awarded for the best black-and-white and color photographs taken during the Festival. Subject matter of the pictures can include any variety of Festival activity, so long as Maine lobster is included in the act.

A special category has also been announced. A. C. McLoon & Company of Rockland will give a special award of 12 pounds of live Maine lobsters for the best photograph of the Festival's giant lobster boiler in action.

Judges for the Festival Photo Contest are being selected by the committee this week. Already named are Robert Elliot, assistant director of recreation for the Department of Economic Development, and Sidney L. Cullen, city editor of the Rockland Courier-Gazette. In addition, the committee reports, they are inviting Kosti Ruohomaa, noted Rockland photographer whose work has appeared in many national publications, to serve as the third member, if his busy schedule permits.

According to the contest rules released by the committee, contestants may enter pictures in any or all of the three categories.

All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, Aug. 30. Each contestant agrees to give the Festival Committee the right to reproduce pictures submitted for Festival publicity purposes. Official entry blanks will be available at the Festival grounds.

Regularly scheduled Festival events, such as the three day lobster feast and the coronation of the 1958 Maine Sea Goddess by Maine's Governor Edmund S. Muskie at 9 p. m., Aug. 1, will give visiting photographers ample opportunities for pictures. In addition, however, there will be periods during the Festival when the Sea Goddess, her court of 24 Sea Princesses with their escorts from the Maine Maritime Academy, King Neptune and his colorful band of pirates, mermaids and sea creatures will be available for special shots.

Photographers will be able to make arrangements for pictures either at the Festival headquarters or at the special press headquarters on the Festival grounds.

Miller Awarded Cruiser Bid

Miller's Garage, Inc., was awarded the bid to furnish a new cruiser for the Rockland Police Department, City Manager Charles Haynes announced Thursday.

The firm's bid of $2,409, less $1,424 for the department's present 1957 cruiser, was the lowest of two bids submitted.

The specifications for the new car include a two door, black sedan, equipped with tubeless tires, a V-8 engine and standard shift. The new Plymouth cruiser will be delivered within five weeks from July 14, when the bids closed.

The present police cruiser, which had also come from Miller's Garage, has 43,000 miles registered on the speedometer.

Camden Airman Injured In Crash

Pictured above is the remains of a 1956 Chevrolet sedan which struck a tree shortly before 2 a. m. Thursday near the corner of Old County road and Lake avenue, Rockland.

Two servicemen from Dow Air Force Base were rushed to Knox Hospital about 2 a. m. Thursday when their vehicle collided with a tree in a field adjoining the intersection of Old County road and Lake avenue, Rockland.

The passenger in the front seat of the demolished vehicle, Leo J. Rivard, Jr., 21, of Camden, received a fractured right thigh and multiple contusions and the operator, John J. Moran, Jr., 21, of Mattapan, Mass., sustained extensive scalp lacerations and multiple contusions. Rivard, a 1953 graduate of Camden High School, is the son of Mrs. Arleigh Rivard. Both were treated at Knox Hospital and transferred to the hospital at Dow Air Force Base later in the day.

Rockland police said that the 1956 Chevrolet sedan failed to make the turn onto Old County road from Lake avenue and skidded 100 feet on the wet pavement from the corner to the adjoining field and struck a tree. The owner of the automobile was identified as Keven F. Cadigan of Belmont, Mass., also stationed at the air base.

Several neighbors in the area who had heard the collision notified the police about 1:48 a. m.

When the two occupants of the car were being carried to the Russell ambulance, they mentioned that they had just come from a dance in the Belfast area. Rivard, who was asleep at the time of the crash, said something about a third party in the car.

A thorough search of the surrounding area and underneath the wrecked vehicle by officers Albert Smith and Herbert Anderson failed to find anyone else. The police later discovered that this third person had left his friends earlier in the evening.

The accident is under investigation by Rockland police.

Rockport Road Construction Bids Due On Aug. 6

The State Highway Commission will open bids Aug. 6 for the construction of sections of highway in Rockport and Stockton Springs.

In Rockport, a section of U. S. Route 1 will be built to complete the highway program between Rockland and Camden. It will begin at the end of a project now under construction 500 feet south of the Drive-In Theater and extend in a northerly direction of 1.374 miles to join the present U. S. Route 1 south of Hoboken Square. About half of a mile will be built on new location to eliminate the Ballard Park curves. The completed road will have a 24-foot bituminous concrete pavement and 10-foot gravel shoulders.

In Stockton Springs, a section of U. S. Route 1-A will be rebuilt beginning a mile and a half from the junction of U. S. Route 1 and extending 2.883 miles into Prospect to the junction of Route 174. There will be one major relocation to correct a bad curve beginning a quarter-of-a-mile north of Carley Brook and extending approximately one-half mile to a point just south of the Stockton Springs-Prospect town line. The finished road will have a 24-foot pavement of bituminous concrete and 8-foot gravel shoulders.

Three Painters Fall 18 Feet As Scaffolding Fails

Three house painters, Clarence Barnes, 58, Leroy Wiggins, 64, and his son, Eugene Wiggins, 21, all of South Thomaston, fell an estimated 18 feet to the ground when a scaffolding on which they were working slipped and dropped one end about 8:40 Thursday morning.

Leroy Wiggins, elder of the group, is still a patient in Knox Hospital, having sustained back and chest injuries.

His son was treated for back injuries and allowed to go home during the day Thursday. Mr. Barnes was given treatment for similar injuries and a cut in his scalp and released to his home.

Lawrence Hamlin, whose home is across the street from the scene of the accident, the two and one half story Anderson house at 9 Warren street, was seated on his front steps at his home at 14 Warren street and saw the accident.

He said that the three painters had put up their rigging with the hooks holding the long ladder on the ropes being secured to a roof board hooked over the ridgepole.

As he watched, one of the roof boards pulled from the ridgepole and slid downward, letting the heavy iron hook holding the block and tackle slip off and drop the western end of the ladder.

As the trio tumbled to the lawn, he went to their aid, as others called police and an ambulance.

Former Warren Man Cited By Vermont Scouts

The following clipping, taken from the Bennington, Vt., "Evening Banner" of May 31, will be of interest to friends of Kendall F. Adams, son of Frank Adams, Main street, Thomaston. Mr. Adams formerly lived in South Warren, graduating from Warren High School, Class of 1933.

"One of scouting's highest honors was bestowed on a Benningtonian last Saturday when Kendall F. Adams, a Benhi teacher and local scoutmaster, was presented the Silver Beaver Award.

"With 31 years of scouting behind him, Adams was taken by complete surprise when the award was made at a Green Mountain Council banquet held in Rutland.

"The Silver Beaver Award is one of the highest scouting honors for adults, and is a rare tribute given only to individuals with a record of devotion in scout work. "Adams was cited as a 'successful teacher, veteran scoutmaster and a faithful community worker.'

"The Benhi industrial arts teacher started his scouting activity back in 1926 when he was a 'lone scout' in his home town of Solon, Maine.

"Being the only scout for miles around, Adams continued studying on his own, precepts of scouting, and the various skills scouts must have. Later he was a member of a scout troop in Warren, Maine.

"As an adult Adams has served as scoutmaster in Robinson and Wells Beach, Maine, and is now scoutmaster of Troop 53, sponsored by the Second Congregational Church.

"In his 31 years of scouting, Adams has also served as a troop committeeman, explorer advisor

TWILIGHT LEAGUE TIED UP; SUNDAY GAME AT THOMASTON WILL ADD TO ARNIE ROBINSON FUND

In Knox-Lincoln Twilight League play Wednesday and Thursday nights the Waldoboro Townies jumped into a first place deadlock with Damariscotta by defeating that team 5-2, and Thomaston moved to within one game of the leaders by downing St. George 7-5.

Wednesday night at Waldoboro, the visiting Damariscotta Redlegs dropped their fourth contest in succession as Johnny Crabtree picked up his second successive victory over them. The left handed hurling Crabtree limited Damariscotta to seven hits over eight innings in a game called because of darkness.

Jim Belknap, Redleg manager, put his team ahead with a solo homer in the second, but the Townies came back with two in their half of the frame on two errors, a Crabtree single, and a double by Stan Hanna.

Lannie Oliver then singled in the third and winning run in the next inning. Fred Burnham added two insurance runs with a fourth inning homer.

Belknap and Dean Shea of Damariscotta and Burnham, Hanna and Tinker Powell of Waldoboro, all had two hits in the game.

At Thomaston Thursday night, three runs in the bottom of the seventh frame did the trick for the home club. The victory left Thomaston with a 7-7 season record and moved the club to within one game of the league leaders.

The visiting St. Georges took a 4-2 lead in the top of the third when they scored three runs on successive singles by Drinkwater, Smith and Seastrom behind a base on balls.

The Clippers came back with two in the bottom of the frame to tie it up. Red Norwood got things started with a leadoff homer.

Then, in the bottom of the seventh, the Clippers sewed it up when Norwood walked, Hodgkins doubled him in, Enos Verge doubled Hodgkins in, Dick Turner walked, and Doug Miller singled home the third run.

Jim Halligan went the distance for the winners, giving up only seven hits.

Anderson had two hits for the visitors while Norwood, Miller, and Bob Tweedie all had two for the winners.

GIANT OF THE MUSHROOM FAMILY

Wesley Burge, 16, of Thomaston found what may be a champion for size in the field of mushrooms near his West Main street home this week. The object, which he is shown holding, measured 25 inches in circumference and weighed three and one-half pounds. He recalled that when he first spotted the mushroom in a wooded area heavy with brush from logging, he thought it was a white ball. A closer look gave him an idea as to what it might be and he harvested it then and there. Whether or not it was of an edible variety he could not learn and he decided to keep it as a curio rather than chance eating it.

Passing Thoughts

In the field of "passing thoughts," the Automobile Legal Association offers the following: "Do not pass near the crest of a hill." "Do not pass on curves." "Do not pass by weaving through traffic." "Do not pass at or near intersections." "Do not pass on the right." "Do not pass over a double line." "Do not pass while approaching a traffic light."

And remember, it's better to come to a dead stop than to come to a stop dead.

FAVORITE PRAYER FOR TODAY

Dear Lord, let me do something today that will be helpful, that will ease someone's troubled heart a little. Most of all, though, help me to find the way to do what You would like me to do, today and always.

GREAT GOOD TO A GREAT MANY

Few small public improvements have gained greater favor than the erection of the comfortable new plank benches on the area overlooking Rockland's beautiful Public Landing.

The City Council deserves congratulations for its consideration in replacing the rickety old worn out benches in this particular location and at this particular time.

Probably no spot in the City affords a lovelier view of the Public Landing, the harbor with its many boats, with Owls Head and the Samoset in the middle distance and across the bay the islands in all their beauty. The benches will afford enjoyment to hundreds of all ages. Then almost upon us is the Maine Seafoods Festival and these new benches will afford real grandstand seats for all the great Festival activities.

No great amount of money is involved in this improvement but it will afford pleasure and comfort to the many, hence our sincere thanks to the City Manager, the City Council and Commissioner Halligan and his efficient crew.

CARE IS NEEDED

Rockland is justly proud of its main thoroughfares with their fine smooth surfaces which makes the driving of an automobile a pleasure. Citizens are disturbed however by the fact that when, for any reason, sections of the streets are dug up, sometimes proper care is not taken in replacing the material and a most unpleasant hollow or hump is the result.

It seems highly important to us that the authorities see to it that the excavations be attended to with proper care. Whether the surface is disturbed by an individual, a utility or the city itself, all in the interest of public welfare.

THE COURIER-GAZETTE FAMILY GROWS

The sizeable group of men and women who make up The Courier-Gazette family is no ordinary group of employees. They are part and parcel with the newspaper, close to it in every way and not in the ordinary sense of employees. They just belong.

One of the customs established some ten years ago by the newspaper has to do with children born to those who are a part of this big family. The publisher felt that at that time extra heavy financial burdens fell on the family and that in all probability no heavier burden would ever come to them.

So the custom was established for the newspaper to present the mother of the new born babe a check for $25, the day following the big event.

This custom has been followed religiously, which was why Mrs. Theodore Sylvester, Jr., received her check Wednesday noon. Just by sheer chance the first year the custom was established three babies were born to The Courier-Gazette families. The publisher came in for a lot of good-natured joshing on the ground that he was starting a whole new extra generation. The fact must be admitted that only one addition was known to be in the offing when the tradition had its beginning.

TWO NEW SUPER-LINERS

Many readers interested in the sea, and their number is legion, will be interested in the fact that the United States is to build immediately two great liners, sisters to the present super-liner United States. These great ships will be sold to private interests, one in the Atlantic and one in the Pacific, both of course constructed to serve military needs most efficiently in the shortest space of time. These ships are scheduled to be ready for use in 1961 or '62 and we hope no pressing need arises for them in the military sense before that time—or after.

WE DON'T OWN THE ANSWER TO THIS ONE!

Once in a while we don't know just what we are talking about when we write for this column and this is just such a case.

We don't know for sure whether the large and heavily traveled area called Post Office Square is owned by the Federal Government, by the City of Rockland or by private individuals. We have a suspicion that all three share because since our boyhood it has always been a moot question.

Regardless of where the ownership rests, the host of automobile drivers who traverse Post Office Square daily are in for an adventure due to the many large holes worn over the years in the hard top surface. It could be that a group of public spirited citizens could chip a few dollars each to pay for filling the holes. Then again there comes the question as to who should make the repairs and whether or not the men doing the repairs might be trespassing.

Frankly, we don't know the answer but will be pleased to chip on the expense if that is the way it is. Somebody better informed on the subject than ourselves will probably come forward with the answer and suggest the appropriate action.

That we are for, and will cooperate.

The Bath All-Stars, winners over the Linnox "B" team last Saturday, will meet the Augusta team at 4 p. m. The two winners will meet Sunday at 2:30 to determine the state champion.

The champion will then play in the New England tournament to be held at Amherst, Mass.

The ALA reports that in the Central American country of San Salvador, a motorist who injures a person in an accident in which the driver is at fault must stay in jail until his victim recovers.

Minor damage was estimated when a truck, driven by Alfred L. Nickles of Thomaston street, Rockland, turned over on the Ballyhack road in South Thomaston about 4 p. m. A passing car hooked a chain onto the vehicle and helped Nickles turn it back on its wheels. Nickles was heading to Crockett's Beach at the time of the accident.

Apparently it just doesn't pay for some people to get up early in the morning. John Mitchell, 31, of Perry street in Rockland was up at 4.30 a. m. Friday. Walking around the house, he accidentally tripped over the family cat and fell down a flight of stairs. He was admitted to Knox Hospital Friday with neck injuries.

Sherwood Cook, Tenants Harbor lobsterman and Democratic candidate for representative to Legislature, is seen most everywhere these days. Added to his personal appearances in campaigning for office, a cigarette company has covered tobacco stores with colored posters advertising their product in which Cook and a pair of king size Maine lobsters appear. The picture for which Cook posed was taken by an advertising agency last summer and has previously appeared in cigarette advertising in national magazine.

Raymond D. Keating, 34, of Warren pleaded guilty in Municipal Court Thursday morning to the charge of forgery. Judge Alfred M. Strout found probable cause to hold him for the October term of Knox Superior Court and ordered that $1,000 sureties be posted before release. Keating was handed over to the Sheriff's Department following court when he was unable to post the bond.

Municipal Court

Thomaston Police Chief Alfred Teel charged Keating with forging a check for the sum of $40 which was made out to the Thomaston National Bank and signed Perley C. Campbell.

After cashing the check July 8, Teel continued, the Warren man hitchhiked to Portland and boarded a bus to New Bedford, Mass.

The New Bedford police arrested Keating July 12 for intoxication and discovered, through interrogation, that he was implicated in a forgery in Thomaston.

After he waived extradition, Teel returned the respondent Wednesday to answer to the charge in Municipal Court the following day.

Donald J. Richardson, 30, of Camden was fined $110 or 30 days in jail after he was found guilty on the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. Judge

Strout also suspended his operator's license. Camden police arrested Richardson July 19 on Elm street in Camden.

A plea of guilty was entered on a charge of possessing short clams July 20 by Frederick Campbell, 23, of Waldoboro. He was fined $10. Coastal Wardens found that 117 of the respondent's bushel of 527 clams were below the legal size.

A complaint of annoyance against Frank Winchenbach, 57, of 62 Cedar street, Rockland, was continued to Aug. 5 in Municipal Court Friday morning and he was released on $50 personal recognizance.

Mrs. Mary Eagan of 14 Pine street, Rockland, asserted that Winchenbach kept a large number of pigeons, ducks and geese in a pen, not far from her bedroom, which made a great deal of noise.

She also charged that the respondent failed to maintain a sanitary condition in the pen house and to keep it free from rodents, vermin and objectionable odor. Winchenbach entered a plea of not guilty.

Leland Harrington, 31, of 27 Fulton street, Rockland, was found guilty after he had entered a plea of nolo to the charge of driving a vehicle while under the influence of liquor July 22 on Main street in Rockland.

Judge Alfred M. Strout fined him $110 and suspended his driver's license. Rockland police were the complainants. The charge was continued from court Monday for the results of a blood test.

Another charge of operating a vehicle without registration on Main street that same date was filed.

Edward W. Webster, 34, of Belfast was found not guilty of drunken driving on Elm street in Rockland July 22. However, Webster entered a plea of guilty to the complaint of driving in a westerly direction on Elm street on that same date and was fined $20. Rockland police were the complainants.

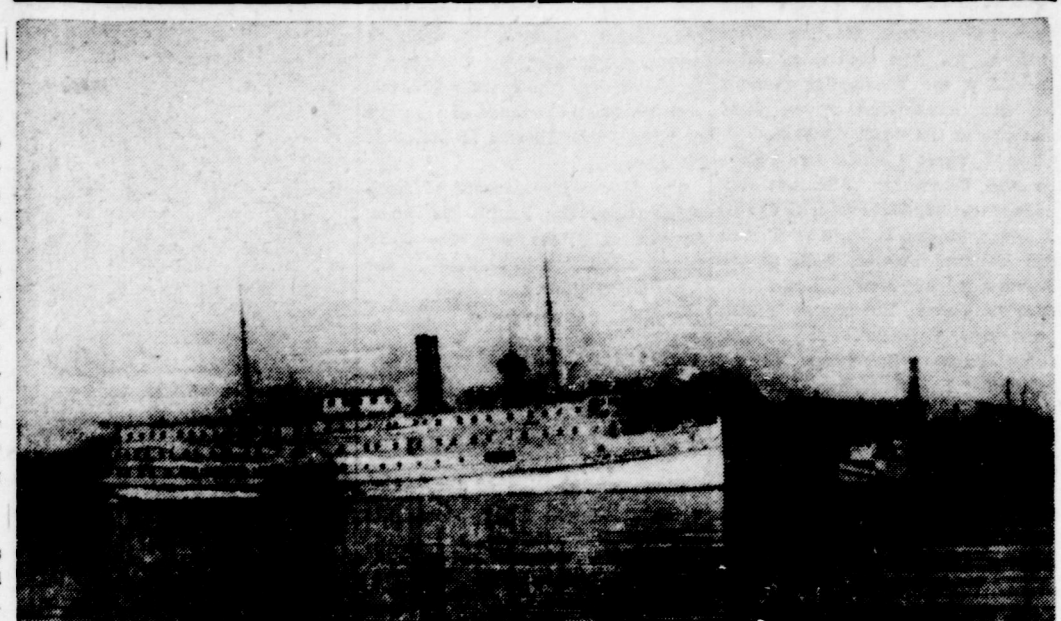

Both charges were continued without plea from July 22 pending results of a blood test.

STEAMBOAT YARNS of Ships and Men

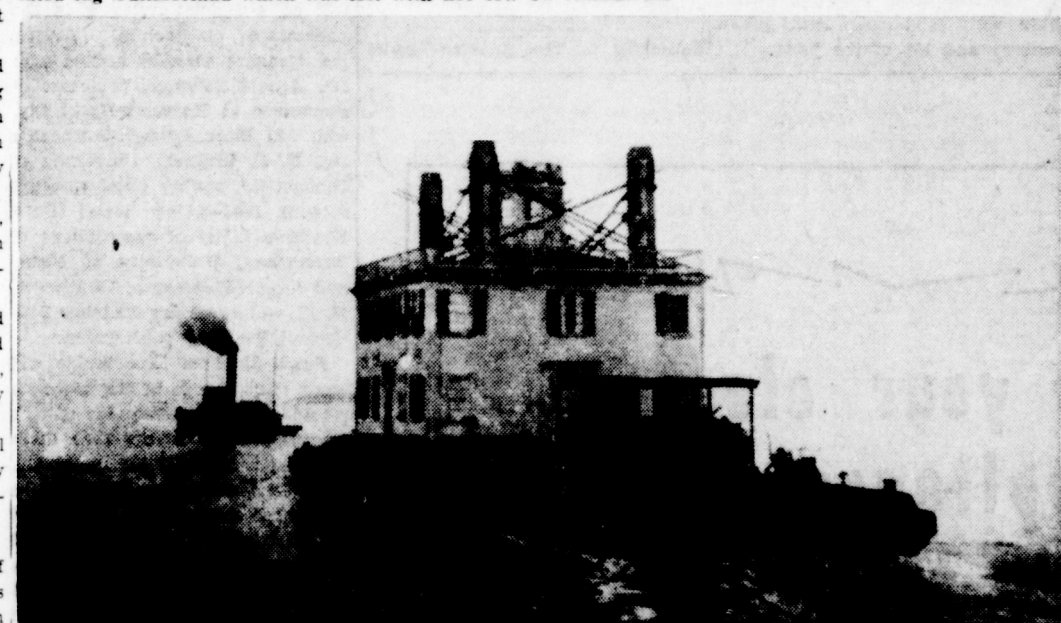

John M. Richardson

This is a brand new picture, to us anyhow, of the handsome twin stacked City of Bangor laying at the head of Tillson's Wharf. Under a glass the small white steamer lying in the northern berth appears to be the Catherine though just what she was doing over on that side of the dock we don't know. Those berths were usually reserved for the Eastern's Monhegan and Minola of the Portland run and the island steamers Vinal Haven, Gov. Bodwell and Sebena landed there between times. I fail to identify the building with the white gable and six windows astern of the Catherine and just where was the large brick chimney located which shows in the background?

Above appears a view of Rockland's past. The venerable John I. Snow tug John C. Morrison appears in the foreground. She was the former government tug Atlantic and her bones lay on the north side of the old Snow Shipyards wharf where she was laid up following a tragic accident. She was some 80 years old at the time, generally accepted as the oldest steam propelled craft on either coast. In the direct background is the former Messer kiln shed with its elevator and a Limerock Railroad locomotive may be seen on the trestlework. The white buildings showing forward of the tug's pilot house are a part of the A. C. McLoon Co. plant. The Sealoods plant and Green Island Packing Co. were not then in existence. The Morrison was first operated locally by M. B. & C. O. Perry along with the powerful but ill fated tug Cumberland which was lost with her tow on Vinalhaven.

One of the great thrills of our earlier years was the incredible stunt by the late Capt. John I. Snow of transporting the "Spite House" so called, from far down the Maine coast to Beachamp Point. It is now one of the show places in Rockport, generally called the Dodge House instead of by its earlier less pleasant name. Captain Snow moved the big structure aboard a huge railroad barge and towed it to Rockport where he moved it ashore to its present location. The Snow tug Sommers N. Smith is shown in the background with a big plume of smoke. It is one of the very few pictures I own of the Smith during the brief era that she wore two spars.

Strout also suspended his operator's license. Camden police arrested Richardson July 19 on Elm street in Camden.

A plea of guilty was entered on a charge of possessing short clams July 20 by Frederick Campbell, 23, of Waldoboro. He was fined $10. Coastal Wardens found that 117 of the respondent's bushel of 527 clams were below the legal size.

GRANGE NEWS OF KNOX-LINCOLN COUNTIES

STATE DAIRY SHOW AT WINDSOR FAIR GROUNDS TODAY HAS RECORD NUMBER OF ANIMALS ENTERED

Maine's annual State Dairy Show featuring more than 600 of its finest animals is underway today at Windsor Fairgrounds.

Norman R. Ness, Extension dairyman at the University of Maine, has reported that 53 exhibitors have entered 214 animals in the adult division of the Dairy Show. Miss Margaret F. Stevens, assistant state 4-H club leader for the Extension Service, has reported receiving 597 entries for the 4-H club division. This gives a total of 811 entries in the Show, the largest such dairy show in the Northeast.

Ness says that the number of adult exhibitors is nine larger than last year. The number of entries is down somewhat, but he has not counted animals to be shown in the group classes and 4-H animals that will be shown in the adult group classes. If these animals were included, the number of adult entries might exceed last year's entry list.

Adult entries include five Ayrshire exhibitors and 22 animals; one Brown Swiss exhibitor, six animals; 10 Guernsey exhibitors, 63 animals; 19 Holstein exhibitors, 68 animals; 11 Jersey exhibitors, 48 animals; and seven Milking Shorthorn exhibitors and seven animals. Outstanding type judges will place the animals, starting about 10:30 a. m. and continuing until about 3 p. m. Production records are also considered in the final placings in the adult division.

Type judges include Dr. Bruce Poulton, University of Maine; Rex LeParmentier, Wethersfield Farm, Danvers, Mass.; L. V. "Cy" Tirrell and Kenneth Fowler, both of the University of New Hampshire; Charles Howe, Howeacres Farm, Tunbridge, Vermont; Fred Roach, Folly Farms, Simsbury, Conn.; "Puck" LeMasurier, Butternut Brook Farm, Litchfield, Conn.; and Nelson Cande, Flintstone Farm, Dalton, Mass.

At 1 p. m. the presentation by the Maine Bankers Association of four registered dairy calves to deserving 4-H club boys will take place. Claude Clement of Belfast, chairman of the agricultural committee of the MBA, will be in charge. This is an annual highlight of the State Dairy Show. This year the 4-Hers will receive three Holsteins and one Jersey.

Three changes have been made for this year's Dairy Show. A new actual lifetime butterfat production class has been added to the adult division. A cow must have produced 2,500 or more pounds of butterfat to qualify. Production requirements for the highest (purple) ribbon award in the Excellent and Very Good groups have been increased by 50 pounds of butterfat. Finally, 4-H Club members can also show their animals with production records of 150 days or more in the classes in the adult division.

The Maine Department of Agriculture and the Maine Extension Service cooperate with the dairy breed associations in conducting the State Dairy Show.

Farm Accidents Reduced Sharply Past Three Years

Since organization of the Maine Farm and Home Safety Council in 1955, farm accident deaths in the Pine Tree State have been reduced from 46 to 22.

Frank R. Bailey of Augusta, chairman of the Farm Safety Council, today reported that farm fatalities from accidents amounted to 46 in 1955. The total was cut to 37 in 1956. In 1957, the farm accident death toll was down to 22.

"Perhaps the efforts of the Maine Farm and Home Safety Council to lower accidents on the farm are paying off," said Bailey. "We certainly hope that this downward trend in farm deaths can be continued."

Bailey urged continued observance of National Farm Safety Week, which ends today, throughout the year. "Safety on the farm and in the home must be practiced 365 days of the year," he added.

"More deaths occur each year in farming than in any other major industry," pointed out Bailey. "About one out of every four workers killed on the job dies doing farm work."

Farm accidents in the United States last year took 12,800 lives. In addition, more than one million farm residents were injured. In farm deaths outside the home, machinery is the number one killer, followed by drownings, firearms, and falls. Off the farm, the automobile claimed the lives of some 6,000 farm residents last year.

"When you work for safety, safety works for you," concluded Bailey.

LOBSTER BUOYS VISIT FISHERIES LAB AND RIDE RESEARCH BOAT

Eugene and Irving Bracy, Brian and Barry Cook, and Henry Benner, members of the Lobster Buys 4-H Club of Tenants Harbor, with Linwood Gamage, a member of Wawoonock Indians of Walpole, spent a day recently at the Boothbay Research Laboratory and Marine Aquarium, learning about fish of all kinds.

They had a chance to see much of the marine life of the Atlantic Ocean, and the studies being made of the same. Being lobster fishermen the boys were all much interested in the laboratory.

The boys were also given a trip to the new research boat Guardian where Captain Thurlow Farmer and Clifford Huskins explained charts, maps and instruments. Fish chowder for lunch aboard the boat was a real treat.

Mrs. Gertrude Hupper, leader of the Lobster Buys 4-H Club of Tenants Harbor, Mrs. Jennie Gamage of South Bristol, Miss Gene West, Knox-Lincoln home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Lona S. Shibles, Knox-Lincoln 4-H club agent accompanied the boys.

CORPSMEN RAISING FUNDS FOR NEW YORK TRIP

Two members of the Port O' Rockland Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, Katherine Henderson, left, and Katherine Bird, carry their load of empty bottles into the corps' hall Wednesday night during their collection day.

The Port O'Rockland Junior Drum and Bugle Corps opened their drive Wednesday night to raise $1,000 to finance the trip of its color guard to New York City next month to compete in the national drum and bugle competition.

Twelve corpsmen raised $78.40 Wednesday night as a result of their house to house solicitation and collection of bottles for resale. Ralph Clark, director of the group, said that a Tag Day will be held July 30. Also planned is an auction and party at the Corps' hall on Main street Monday night.

Clark commented that the Rockland corps will be the first unit from Maine to compete in national competition. As Northern New England champions, they will match their skill against 48 color guards from across the country at the national competition.

The corps will be sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post in Friendship. To mark the progress of the drive, a barometer, showing the funds collected, was placed in the window of Lloyd's Drug Store on Main street Wednesday afternoon.

Life Lines

THE RAINBOW BRIDGE

Richard Wagner's opera, "The Rhine-Gold," is not staged as often as it should be, at least in this country. For, entirely apart from the majesty of its music, it has a great message of hope, much needed in this time of despair.

In the closing scene, Wotan, King of the Gods, leads the other gods to the edge of a great abyss. To the accompaniment of shimmering music from the orchestra, the clouds begin to rise. Beyond, on the other side of the gorge, they see the gleaming towers of the city of Valhalla. There it is, beautiful in its perfection, but as out of reach as if it were a thousand miles away.

Then Donner, the thunder God, steps forward and swings his hammer in the air. There is a crash of thunder from the orchestra, and then a series of rising chords of hope. Out of the mist there gradually appears a rainbow bridge spanning the chasm. As the curtain falls, Wotan and the others march across this rainbow bridge to the city of Hope.

Life is like that. No matter how low the Prodigal Son may sink in the swinepen of the far country, he can never forget that there is a golden city, which should be his home.

The one purpose of religion in human life is to do just that. To build a bridge from the life that we know to the life that we know we should have, but cannot attain by our own strength.

May you, in your own chosen house of worship, this week find that Rainbow Bridge to Valhalla.

Book Review

C. Wilbert Snow, "Sonnets to Steve": Exposition Press, Inc., New York, 1957; pp. 55; $2.50.

Wilbert Snow's recent volume of poetry, "Sonnets to Steve", has one irrefutable quality which reflects itself in each line. This quality is poetic honesty. At no point does the reader suspect that the ingeniousness of an image, the delight of a clever rhyme scheme, or the sophistication of an unusual metrical pattern has been allowed to detract from the basic intent of the poem.

The collection is divided into two parts. The first consists of 17 sonnets written to his son, Stephen Snow, who died as a boy in 1943. Some of these poems recall the interests and qualities of the boy during his life. We move from descriptive passages enumerating the qualities of young Steve, virtues such as gaiety, humor, and thoughtfulness, to his stoicism at the end. Others are concerned with reactions of the poet to the bewildering, illogical pattern of death. The intent of each sonnet is clear, and sentiment is communicated to the reader without gloss.

The second part offers great variety in length, treatment, and subject matter. Some, like "November Interlude", are purely descriptive, catching the qualities of the New England seasons, landscapes, and seascapes. Others, like "Aunt Delia and the Alabama Claims," combine characterization, humor, and a broad implication concerning human nature. All are well rooted in the substance of reality; all have the hallmark of sincerity and poetic honesty.

In addition, the volume vividly illustrates Dr. Snow's view of what a poem should be. Of what a poet's role should be. Clearly every poet selects, either consciously or unconsciously, a point between two poles. At one extreme lies the style which communicates a complex cluster of feelings and thoughts to a necessarily small group of readers. At the other, the poet sacrifices breadth of statement for breadth of his following. Few poets select the extremes; most compromise. Wilbert Snow's compromise is in the general direction of the second approach.

The advantages of his style are clear. He avoids the danger of ambiguity and the charge of obscurity. When, in his second sonnet, he opens with the lines "Why should a cell go wrong within the brain? Of such an innocent and lovely lad?" there is no question as to the degree and cause of the poet's agony. And the direction of the poem is clearly implied. Again, when he begins his poem "Return to New England" with the lines "I love the old New England ways, / The vanishing New England speech", no reader can mumble that poetry is the language of a literary elite.

Only some of Snow's poems reach this level of extension. They stand out from the rest. In the second sonnet, for example, he not only concerns himself with the immediate situation, the tragic death of a child, but extends the statement to curse the very pattern of death. He reaches back in time to the Aztec priests who selected the finest of the tribe for sacrifice; he then moves to our own century and describes our own selection of the finest for sacrifice in modern war; and then in the final couplet he writes: "Earth plucks her roses soon, but lets her weeds / Bloom on and on and multiply their seeds." This is not just a lament for one boy; it is a strong cry against a brutally illogical pattern of man's behavior and, further, of nature herself. The poem stands out because of its poetic reverberations.

"Sonnets to Steve", then, has two great attributes: sincerity and clarity of intention. The only qualification would come from those who feel that the reverberations or overtones of poetry are as important as statement.

Girl Scout Day Camp Proves Popular

One of the arts and crafts projects of the Girl Scout Day Camp at Camden Hills State Park is making sit-upons from brightly colored oil cloth. The sit-upons serve a dual purpose of either providing a comfortable seat or a carrying case for the camper's equipment. In the picture above, several campers of the Pioneer group are sewing their sit-upons after lunch Thursday afternoon.

In the picture below, one of the Scouts in unit three, Donna Haskell, adjusts one of the leaves in the campcraft display board Thursday. The material for the display was collected and put up by the campers as part of their day camp activities.

For the first time in this area, the Rockland Girl Scout Council, headed by Mrs. Richard French, has established a day camp at the Camden Hills State Park.

The camp, which opened July 7 and will close Aug. 1, is expected to serve 100 girls from the 15 troops in Rockland and the troops in Thomaston.

The group of leaders, spearheaded by Mrs. Irving Smith, chairman of the day camp committee, and Mrs. Robert Daniels, general supervisor of the camp program, have contributed their time and efforts to put the camp in operation.

The area where the campsites are located was cleared by the State Park Commission, but the actual construction of the fireplaces and the pitching of the three squad size tents were done through the efforts of the camp committee and the counselors.

The camp structure is divided into four units to accommodate the age variances of the campers. The first unit, called the chipmunks, handle the Scouts in the third grade. In the second group, dubbed the Glens, are the eight and nine year old girls. The third segment, the Birches, include campers in the fifth grade; and the oldest unit, the Birch Barks or the Pioneers, are the girls of ages 12 and 13.

The camp day starts at 8.15 a. m. when the campers are picked up by bus in Rockland and Thomaston and end at 3 p. m. when they return home. At the campsite, each unit plans their own day's activities under the supervision of the counselors, assistant counselors and program aides.

The program ranges from camp craft, arts and crafts, games to singing. Several of the older girls have used their stay at camp to further their advancement in Scouting in such first class badges as campcraft, outdoor cooking, pioneering and adventure.

However, Mrs. Daniels remarked, the primary object of the camp is not climbing up the Scout ladder but learning to live and work together.

On Friday afternoon, the campers stage a special show, complete with costumes, props and elaborate planning for the benefit of their parents and friends.

Highlighting yesterday's entertainment was a puppet show which featured hand made dolls in colorful dress.

As an added attraction during the last week of camp, the State Forest Service will stage a one hour show starting shortly after noon Tuesday, featuring Smokey, the Bear, under the direction of Joel Marsh of Augusta. The life size mechanical bear will stress the importance of protecting the forests and wooded areas of the state.

As many as 40 of the campers from units three and four have attended each of the two overnight sessions at the camp and participated in the outdoor cookouts and campfire programs. At least one more overnight session is planned before the camp closes for the summer on the first day of next month.

Mrs. Daniels hopes that this will be the start of a yearly Girl Scout camp that could be expanded to handle all the Girl Scouts in the area.

Besides Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Donald Haskell, who is the food supervisor, the other counselors include: Mrs. Ralph Jackson of Thomaston, Mrs. George Johnson of Rockland, Mrs. John Lowe, Jr. of Rockland, Mrs. Irving McConchie of Rockland.

Mrs. Francis Orr and Mrs. Fred Reichel of Rockland, Mrs. Joseph Richards and Mrs. Ormond Staines of Thomaston, Mrs. Vernon Studley and Mrs. Mildred Thompson of Rockland.

The assistant counselors, who are 16 years of age and older are: Marie Gardner, Harriett Richardson, Judith Segal and Louise West, all from Rockland. The program aides are: Martha Grossman, Jackie Harjula, Elizabeth Munsey, Sandra Richards, Beverly Vanorse and Marilyn Wilbur, all from Rockland, and Susan Clark of Thomaston.

Lucy Skoog showed colored slides taken of the various clinics held by the Health Council and Island Community Medical Services.

ANTIQUE SHOW OPENING TUESDAY IN CAMDEN GYM FOR FOUR DAYS

Lovers of the old, the curious and the beautiful will be on hand in large numbers when the eighth annual Camden Antiques Show opens on July 29 in the school gymnasium on Knowlton street.

The feature of this Antiques Show are the flower arrangements entered by members of the Camden Garden Club. For several years these members of the Camden Garden Club have vied with each other to a point where it is almost impossible to pick out the best arrangement. But the visitors to the Show are given a ballot slip and asked to do just that—to vote as to which arrangement they think is the best in the display. The Garden Club members securing the largest number of votes are then awarded prizes.

Twenty-seven antique dealers from New England, New York and New Jersey will exhibit. The show continues through Friday, Aug. 1, and is open all four days from 11 a. m. until 10 p. m.

To be seen in the booths will be authentic antiques, including a large amount of early American furniture. The furniture will vie with a display of small objects of art, the type which grandmother kept in a glass case in the front parlor.

Traditional antiques, such as pattern glass, guns and swords, pewter, silver and china, brass, copper and fireplace equipment, children's iron toys, penny banks and tall case clocks will be seen as well as many unusual antiques ranging from weather vanes to hair curlers.
