

HON. G. W. JOHNSON, Judge of the Municipal Court at Rumford Falls.

THE just judge, in his place, serves God as well as man;
 For he lives best of all, who lives the best he can.
 To cite a case in point—the court at Rumford Falls;
 Judge Johnson ably serves whenever service calls.
 He will not yield a hair to powers esteemed to be
 In prejudice of rights of human liberty;
 But faithfully has sought, in justice to preside
 And seeking only Truth, his cases to decide.
 He loves the meadow brooks where falls the fluttering fly,
 Or across the inland lake where “speckled beauties” lie,
 Or, with camera in hand, go where, in fair retreat,
 The landscape paints the scene, the picture would repeat.
 In short, a man whose aim is toward the higher thing
 To such a man may Fate YOUR litigations bring!
