CIVIL SUIT DECISION LAST ACTION OF FEBRUARY TERM OF SUPERIOR COURT WHICH ENDED THURSDAY

The February term of Knox Superior Court concluded Thursday with the disposition of a civil suit, which had been entered in the October, 1958, term.

Presiding Justice James P. Archibald awarded Angelo M. Escorsio of St. George the sum of $853 for damages sustained to his vehicle as a result of an accident Feb. 14, 1958 on Route 131 in St. George, about three miles from the South Thomaston town line.

Escorsio contended that his car, operated by Edward B. Thorbjornsen, was involved in an accident as a result of a car parked on the side of the road and an oncoming vehicle.

The plaintiff asserted that Jasper Lombardo of St. George parked his car partly on the pavement without lights, although it was 6.30 p. m., Edwin L. Robinson of St. George, was the operator of the oncoming car, which Escorsio contended was on the wrong side of the road. Escorsio asked for $1,600 damages.

Justice Archibald, in rendering his decision, stated that both Escorsio and one of the defendants, Edwin Robinson, were free of negligence, and ordered Lombardo to bear the entire cost of damages, $853.

Fred Carl, Jr., of Rockland and Edgar Fuller pleaded guilty to operating a vehicle while under the influence of liquor and each paid a fine of $125.

George Hall of 517 Old County road, Rockland paid a fine of $250 for permitting one of his trucks to be operated Dec. 8 on Route 17 in Union with a gross weight greater than the weight stated on the registration. The truck carried a load of 54,780 pounds, although the registration allowed for a limit of only 48,000 pounds.

JAYCEES TO EXPLORE POSSIBILITIES OF ESTABLISHING A UNITED FUND COVERING ALL OF KNOX COUNTY

The Rockland Junior Chamber of Commerce is undertaking a survey of city and town officials and club leaders all over the county in an effort to determine the public opinion on a United Giving Fund. Heading the survey committee of the Jaycees is Scott L. Wilson.

United Fund is operated successfully in thousands of communities in the country. It serves, principally, to eliminate the great number of fund drives conducted by organizations each year. Under the plan, organizations depending on public contributions for operating funds make known their needs to the United Fund committee and are assigned an amount to be given from the total fund raised in the area. The pooling of funds also leads to the pooling of workers and leaders in a single effort once each year.

While the Jaycees do not plan to undertake the operation of a United Fund, they appear as the group laying the pattern through letters sent out this week. Persons receiving the letters are asked to fill out an enclosed post card on which they will give their opinion as to whether or not United Fund would be a good thing for the county.

Under United Fund, such organizations as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, nursing associations, Salvation Army, Red Cross, hospitals, clinics and other groups are included.

Heating Oil and Equipment Men Form Association

A Coastal Area organization of heating oil and equipment dealers was formed at a dinner meeting held at the Thorndike Hotel Wednesday evening. Selected to head the group, which is to be given its name at a meeting next month, was Norman R. Kallach of Rockland.

Willard T. Wight of Camden was chosen vice president and Philip Lovelett of Rockland as executive secretary.

The organization was formed under the sponsorship of the Maine Oil and Heating Equipment Dealers Association of Portland. Donald McGovern, the state group's executive secretary, directed the formation of the coastal association.

Twenty dealers were present from over Knox County and Wadsworth in Lincoln County. They plan monthly meetings.

The man who says the right thing at the right time is headed for a diplomatic post.

Pellicani Cited By Kraft Foods

Nicholas Pellicani, manager of the Kraft Foods plant at South Portland, received the J. L. Kraft Jade Ring Award on January 27 in recognition of his outstanding service to the company.

The presentation was made at a production meeting held in Portland attended by Kraft executives from the East Coast area. Page Teichert, production manager of Kraft's eastern division, presented Mr. Pellicani with his jade ring, a certificate, and a personal letter of thanks from J. C. Loftis, president.

Pellicani was cited for his initiative and ingenuity in developing an improved method of processing one of the products made at the South Portland plant. His new method resulted in a 10 per cent increase in production without additional work.

The Pellicanis live on the Cape Cottage Branch of Surf Road, in South Portland. He took his B. S. degree from Bates College in chemistry, and has been with the Kraft Company, and manager of their South Portland plant, for several years.

Pellicani, a Rockland native, was associated with the Algin Corporation of America at Rockland prior to joining Kraft Foods as manager of its South Portland plant.

People are always willing to get together—the hitch comes when they try to work together.

Camden Junior High Speaking Winners

Principal Vincent Davis of the Camden Elementary Schools, center, presents trophies to Peter Strang and Brenda Chapin, the first and second place winners respectively in the Camden Junior High Public Speaking Contest.

Peter Strang, son of Dr. and Mrs. Water Strang, and Brenda Chapin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard C. Chapin, Jr., finished first and second respectively in the Camden Junior High School Public Speaking Contest Wednesday night at the Congregational Parish House.

The judges were Mrs. Ralph Wentworth of Hope, William Morris of Camden and Rev. Edward Manning of Camden. Vincent Davis, principal of the elementary schools in Camden, made the presentation of trophies to the two winners.

Finalists who received certificates were: Carol Chapman, Debby Buck, Pamela Dwinall, Mary Connell, Anne Sullivan, Cobble Blake, Rodney Lynch, Jeffrey Weymouth, Steve Boutelle and Jeffery Dailey.

These finalists were chosen in the preliminary contest which was held in the auditorium of the Mary E. Taylor Grade School last month, out of a field of 60 contestants.

Principal Davis noted Wednesday that he hopes to make this contest an annual event.

Presentations were: Stephen Boutelle, "Declaration of Independence"; Mary Connell, "Annie and Willie's Prayer"; Rodney Lynch, "Barb Wire Hill"; Pamela Dwinall, Vera Cheera's "Morning Sunshine"; Jeffery Dailey, "The Cremation of Sam Magee";

Anne Sullivan, "Boy Crazy"; Jeffrey Weymouth, "Abraham Lincoln"; Carol Chapman, "Size, Please"; Cobb Blake, "The Ballad of the Three Green Wives";

Vocal selections were given by Jane Duncan, Carol Chapman, Judith Hall, Deborah Buck, Nancy Burkett, Brenda Chapin, Charlotte Rival and Constance Richards, and included, "We Are Climbing Jacob's Ladder", "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands", "Tummy" and "When Poppies Close Their Eyes." Miss Cordelia Barnard was the accompanist.

Peter Strang presented, "Some Little Bug is Going to Find You Some Day" and "Foolish Questions." Miss Chapin's selection was "The Inventor's Wife."

Budget Committee In Camden Continues Economy Trend Set Last Year; School Costs Up

The town budget to be presented to the citizens of Camden at town meeting March 9 will total $392,267.28, according to Town Manager Sterling Morris.

The budget as presented in the town warrant shows an increase of approximately $22,000 over that of last year when an increase of $18,000 was shown over that of 1957.

The town is in the unique position of having a lone candidate for the office of town clerk who is not a resident of the community. Mrs. Rose Payson of Warren has been working as deputy clerk under Mrs. Evelyn Tewksbury who is to retire after 38 years in the town clerk's office as deputy and clerk.

Mrs. Payson has worked in the city clerk's office at Rockland and the town clerk's office in Warren and was deputized to serve in Camden last August during the illness of Mrs. Tewksbury.

Legal opinion has been given by Richard Sanborn of Augusta, an attorney for the Maine Municipal Association on the situation. No bar to Mrs. Payson being a candidate, or serving, has been found because she is a resident of another community.

A contest has developed for the single post to be open on the Board of Selectmen. The term of Robert Crabtree expires and he is a candidate for re-election. Opposing him will be Wallace Heald.

Town Treasurer Alton Green will be a candidate for re-election, as will John F. Mathews for the dual post of treasurer and tax collector.

The Budget Committee recommended the appointment of Harold S. Davis as trustee of the W. A. Pascale Fund for a three year term.

Efforts to hold the budget in line this year to carry out an economy program started last year are evident. A comparison of the lists of requested funds from the several departments and the budgets approved show it plainly. Some requests have been cut somewhat while others have been eliminated entirely. The Police Department, which was cut sharply last year, has been cut some $3,000 this year from what the department head asked.

The school budget recommended to the town for the coming year totals $183,063.00, an increase of approximately $23,000.

Increases Shown In District 5 Budget Explained By Kinney On Eve Of Budget Meeting Tuesday

Citizens of Administrative School District 5 attending the first annual budget hearing of the three community school establishment will be asked to approve a budget of $579,302.00. The session for the people of Rockland, Owls Head and South Thomaston will be held in the auditorium of Rockland High School Tuesday evening at 7.30.

This budget will exceed the combined school budgets of the three communities for last year by $66,884.00.

Superintendent Bruce Kinney, who heads the District, explained the increases in the new budget, noting that but a small portion can be charged directly to the formation of the District.

Added to overall budget in setting up the District establishment is an appropriation of $5,000 for interest on current loans; Social Security for janitors, $855; blanket fidelity bond for District employees, $347.

Boiler inspection and insurance, $60; nursing services, $93; increase of one music teacher from part time to full time, $800, an additional secretary in the office of the superintendent, $2,522. Auditing services, $50; District budget meeting expense, $50; salaries of District directors, $780. The total is $10,557.00.

Obligations in teacher salaries voted by school boards to cover the current year, and effective prior to the formation of the District, total $35,305.00.

Increases in the salaries of teachers, which will serve to pay them from the opening of school next September to the end of the District's fiscal year on Dec. 31 amount to $7,370. Both of the above figures include teachers in all three communities.

Other increases over the costs of last year in the three communities total $13,652. They break down as follows: janitor's salaries, $778; conveyance of pupils, $200; teaching supplies, $1,385; heating school buildings, $1,640; electricity, $2,325; telephone service, $180; janitor supplies, $650; tuition, $3,319; sick leave for teachers, $1,700; professional credit reimbursements, $1,040; home instruction of handicapped children, $1,085.

The tuition item above is explained by Kinney who pointed out that eight South Thomaston students who make their home on the Georges River road attend Thomaston High School. When the District was formed, their tuition costs were assumed for the current session, the directors not wishing to move them to Rockland in the middle of the year. They will attend the District high school next fall.

Also, part of the figure includes the transportation and tuition of a handicapped child attending special classes in Camden. The item for school directors salaries, which totals $780, allows the 13 directors $5 for one meeting each month, and does not compensate them for extra meetings, of which there have been many.

The budget originally given will be reduced by state subsidies of $159,690.00. Tuition, $7,920 and unexpended balances from the preceding year of $12,799.00. The net operating cost of the District's eight schools is to be presented as $398,893.00. Also to be considered is the debt service budget of $41,365.20. Under this comes the bond issue obligations of all three communities which were pooled at the forming of the District.

The total to be raised by taxation in the towns of Owls Head and South Thomaston and the City of Rockland this year will be $440,239.20, if all budget items are approved at Tuesday evening's budget hearing.

Black Comments That Deposits Of High Calcium Limestone May Lead To Operation Of Lime Plant Too

A recent statement by State Geologist John Rand in a publication of the Department of Economic Development that Maine imports five times the lime that it manufactures has brought a statement from Alfred S. Black of Rockland and Mississippi.

Mr. Black, who is working on the establishing of a second cement plant in this area, said Friday that his plans include the operation of a lime burning plant in conjunction with the proposed cement plant.

He also noted that surveys of available limestone in the Rockland area, made over the last two years, by engineers employed by him reveal large deposits of high calcium rock which is necessary to the burning of lime for the paper manufacturing industry.

Black has progressed with his plans for a cement plant, the cost of which is estimated at 22 million dollars, to the point where he has acquired land and options on mineral bearing lands in quantity at the Highlands and through to the shores of the harbor at the Northend.

In Providence, R. I., he holds a 20 year lease with a 20 year renewal option on the Municipal Wharf. At this point, he plans a distribution setup for cement which would be transported from the mill at Rockland by barges in either finished or clinker form.

He estimated that a lime mill would cost in the neighborhood of one million dollars. It could be put into service much earlier than the cement mill and would be of a modern type capable of producing lime products on a competitive basis with existing units in Massachusetts and Connecticut. Also, he commented that the freight differential to be gained by Maine burned lime over out of state products would be a distinct advantage.

Senator Carl M. Stipphen of Rockland has a bill in Legislature which would charter the R & T Cement Railroad. The charter includes not only a railroad, but conveyor lines and pipelines from mill to waterfront. The bill was presented in final form Thursday.

The Providence dock is leased at $10,000 for the first year; $14,860 next year and $27,180 in following years. At present, Black has subleased a portion of the deepwater pier to Providence Dock for a coal unloading and distribution operation.

Mr. Black, who heads the New England Portland Cement Company, said Friday that the problems of financing, planning and ultimate construction of the Rockland plant are drawing closer to realization daily. He could see possible operation in 1961.

CLARENCE PETERS ORDERED HELD FOR MAY TERM OF SUPERIOR COURT ON SIX SEPARATE CHARGES

Clarence Peters, 42, of 45 Warren street, Rockland, was arraigned in Municipal Court Thursday morning on five charges of breaking, entering and larceny and one complaint of breaking and entering.

Court Recorder Domenic Cucinello found probable cause and ordered that Peters be held for the May term of Knox Superior Court in $6,000 bail. The Rockland man entered a plea of not guilty to the six charges.

Specifically, Peters is charged with entering Moody's Diner, operated by Madeline Raye, on Tillson avenue, Tuesday night and removing $3.50 in change and cigarettes from a cigarette vend- (Continued on Page Two)

Ira Curtis New Member of Bay Ferry Advisors

Governor Clinton Clauson and the Executive Council approved Wednesday a contract with a Boston firm for construction for car handling facilities for the Penobscot Bay Ferry Service.

The Waghorne-Brown Company of 18 Cornhill Road, Boston, was awarded the contract for the construction of ramps and lifting equipment at terminals in Rockland, Vinalhaven, Lincolnville, Islesboro, McKinley and Swan's Island. The firm's bid of $314,948 was the lowest of six submitted in a second round of bidding. All first bids were rejected.

The Council also confirmed the governor's appointment of Ira C. Curtis of North Haven as a member of the advisory committee to the Maine Port Authority on the Penobscot Bay Ferry Service.

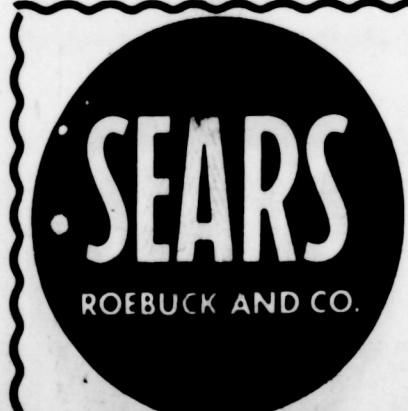

Wotton Not To Be Candidate In Owls Head Election

Charles Wotton, retired Rockland merchant who several days ago announced his candidacy for the position of first selectman of Owls Head, has withdrawn.

Mr. Wotton said Friday that circumstances beyond his control brought about the decision. He is currently third selectman of the community, and plans to step down from that position in March by not running for re-election.

Paul Seavey announced his candidacy for the third selectman's berth when Wotton announced for first. The decision of Capt. Frank Ross not to run again for first selectman brought Wotton's original announcement.

The annual town meeting in Owls Head is scheduled for the evening of Monday, March 2.

Municipal Court

Charles S. Hall, 54, of 21 Ocean Street, Rockland, was found not guilty in Municipal Court Friday morning of driving a vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Rockland Police arrested him on Ocean Street in Rockland February 4.

Court Recorder Domenic Cuccinello noted that he found Hall not guilty based on the testimony of the two police officers, who asserted that the respondent's car was weaving on Thomaston and Ocean Streets and a smell of liquor was on his breath.

Cuccinello remarked that the conditions of those streets at that time necessitated the weaving and that the smell of liquor does not mean a person is intoxicated.

Robert M. Gray, 26, of Camden paid a fine of $10 after pleading guilty to having no registration while operating a vehicle on Route 1 in Rockport February 17. State Police were the complainants.

Sherman C. Wright, 26, of Warren, entered a plea of guilty to passing a stop sign in Warren February 17. He was fined $10 to the complaint which was lodged by State Police.

Charles L. Payson, 62, of Upper Park Street, Rockland, was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $10 or 10 days in jail. Rockland Police charged that he caused a disturbance in the pool room on Main Street, Rockland, operated by Philip Slides, February 19.

In Municipal Court Thursday morning, Richard W. Wilbur, 17, of Camden, pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to yield the right of way on Mechanic Street in Camden Feb. 15 and was assessed a fine of $20. Camden Police were the complainants.

Edward M. Leighton, 20, of Portland was charged by State Police with operating a vehicle with inadequate brakes on Route 1 in Camden February 6. Cuccinello continued the charge.

Frederick R. Young, 28, of Camden was charged by Camden Police with imprudent driving on the Hosmer Pond road in Camden October 20. Police charged that Young's car failed to negotiate a curve, went into a field for a distance of 139 feet and turned over several times. The charge was continued after the respondent was found guilty.

Chicken Casserole

SKATERS sliding across the mirrorlike ice... take on a glow when they hear the clang of the dinner bell from across the pond. The menu was announced this morning so each is eager to get home!

After mugs of hot buttered tomato soup... in front of a warming fire... the hungry skaters will enjoy a flavorful combination of boned chicken and vegetables topped with buttered crisp toast. Served piping hot, from a colorful casserole, this is a dish which pleases the racer or fancy figure skater.

You make it like this:

Chicken Vegetable Casserole

2 medium potatoes, peeled and cut in 1-inch cubes (about 2 cups)
2 medium carrots, sliced (about 1 cup)
1 small onion, sliced and separated into rings
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 cup water
1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
Dash pepper
1/2 teaspoon whole rosemary, crushed
1/2 cup liquid (from vegetables)
2 cans (5 ounces each) boned chicken or turkey
2 slices buttered bread

In saucepan, combine potatoes, carrots, onion, green pepper, parsley, salt, and water. Cover; cook 10 to 15 minutes or until vegetables are just tender crisp. Drain, reserving 1/2 cup liquid. Combine soup, pepper, rosemary, and vegetable liquid in a buttered 1-quart casserole; blend. Fold in vegetables and chicken. Thin crusts from bread; cut each slice into 4 triangles. Place on top of chicken mixture. Bake, uncovered, in a hot oven (400° F.) about 20 minutes, or until bubbly. Makes 4 generous servings.

Cobb Discusses Railroad Taxes Before Rotary

Joseph H. Cobb, public relations consultant for the Maine Central Railroad, discussed the proposed reform of the present state tax on railroads before the Rockland Rotary Club Friday afternoon at the Thorndike Hotel.

Cobb explained that the present tax structure of three and one-quarter per cent per year is assessed on the gross revenue and is without due regard of the net rate of return on the investment, or the general financial condition of the railroad. This system of taxing the gross income has been in effect since 1890 in Maine when a five per cent levy was first put on the railroads.

He noted that if this tax is to continue, it will further curtail the activities of not only his company but also the four other railroads which serve the state, and effect the economy of Maine. The other companies include: Bangor and Aroostook, Boston and Maine, Canadian Pacific and Canadian National.

Cobb emphasized that the estimated loss of $1,125,000 per year would not grossly effect the overall State budget. He compared the tax in Maine with that of New Hampshire and Vermont. While the Maine Central Railroad paid $1,100 per mile a year in Maine, their tax in New Hampshire was $486 per mile and only $292 in Vermont.

A present revision to this tax bill, which is up for consideration by the Legislature, would key the tax directly to the rate of return on the investment, depending on the profit. This would guarantee the State the minimum of one per cent on the earnings of the railroads.

He also noted that the chief competitor of the railroads, the trucking industry, does not pay a comparable tax. The State pays for the construction of new highways and the only funds which is received from the truckers is from excise or gasoline tax, he observed.

The fact that all men are born equal is the thing that makes it so difficult for us to forgive the success of our friends.

MAKING SURE THE PUBLIC IS INFORMED

The most heartening element of the rapidly developing District 5 school situation in this area is the thoroughness with which every town involved is making a study of their situation and seeing to it that the public is informed.

Rockland, Owls Head and South Thomaston school boards and town officials set the pattern by going over the school positions in their towns before becoming the first three components of District Five. They worked closely with State school authorities and the commission, held numerous public meetings to explain to interested citizens what their studies had brought out and then published these findings in The Courier-Gazette for all to read.

Now the several other towns which have applied for membership in the District are following the same pattern. There can be no question that the school problem is presently the greatest, financially, to face any community. The District Commission authorities have cooperated consistently in this united effort to secure the best possible instruction for our children.

It is essential that the citizens and taxpayers concerned be fully informed on all facets of the District problem, present and future, and recognize the responsibilities entailed.

The school authorities have done and are still doing an admirable piece of work in disseminating all possible information. The ultimate decision will rest with the voting public of the communities concerned.

BILL COFFIELD STEPS AHEAD

This newspaper always notes with pleasure the success of any Rockland young man or young woman. The same holds true of success achieved by those former residents whose memory is still green. Such a one is William T. Coffield, Jr., former theatre manager in this city who attained a high degree of popularity during his years of residence here.

His progress in his new home, Portland, we have viewed with pride and his latest step forward has been appointment as head of the commercial development division of the Greater Portland Chamber of Commerce.

He is already manager of the important Retail Trade Board of the Chamber.

NEIGHBORLY VISIT

President Eisenhower's journeying to Mexico for a two-day visit with President Lopez Mateos is still another indication of United States determination to make clear its genuine interest in Latin America.

The Mexican talks follow the visit of President Frondizi of Argentina to the United States by only a few weeks and precede by three weeks a visit to Washington by President Lemus of El Salvador.

Both the Mexican and United States Governments have stated that the talks are to be informal and that no agenda has been prepared. But the fact that Mr. Eisenhower is accompanied by his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, who has written several reports on Latin America, and by Roy R. Rubottom, Jr., Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs, indicates that there will be more activity than fishing or viewing the vividly flowered Acapulco cliffs.

President Eisenhower can expect to hear the frankest of views expressed about United States import quotas on lead and zinc which have depressed the Mexican mining industry and about United States disposition of cotton surpluses.

Mexico just now is viewed by Guatemala as the big, bad "imperialist" nation in a fishing-boat shooting dispute between the two countries. So perhaps they appreciate the difficulty of the United States role in Latin America which consistently has been interpreted as interventionist even when not intervening.

The Mexican visit demonstrates the long way the United States has come since the mid-20's, when expropriation of United States and British oil properties roused such hostility in the States. It should promote more progress in neighborliness.

NEGLECTED CHALLENGE

The National Academy of Sciences has pointed up an important oversight in United States military and peacetime research planning. The challenge of the ocean frontier is as portentous as that of outer space and more immediately pressing. Yet the research effort to meet that challenge has been woefully inadequate.

The report of the NAS special study committee on oceanography is a timely warning. Its vigorous, though minimal, recommendations to strengthen American ocean science deserve top priority consideration by the appropriate government agencies.

The importance of such a program can hardly be overstressed. Submarine experts estimate that a mere dozen missile-packing submarines could wipe out 70 per cent of the American economy with one surprise blow. Today's means of detection and defense against this threat are still uncertain and inadequate. And basic problems of probing the sea with sound must be solved before a fully effective defense can be set up.

Also, the oceans offer an almost inexhaustible reservoir of minerals, to say nothing of the prospects for increasing marine food resources. Again, the first great need is for basic research to build the understanding that is necessary to exploit the vast ocean hinterland.

The NAS recommended program is modest enough. It would cost $651,410,000, spread over 10 years. Yet this would give the United States the tools, men, and money needed to begin doing a really effective research job. It would be one of the best investments of research money America could make.—Christian Science Monitor.

Peters Held

The next charge is the entry into the Sears Roebuck Store on Main street, also on Tuesday night, and taking stamps, clothing, tools, luggage, pencils and a flashlight, and change for a total value of $91.45.

The third and fourth complaints, which are dated Feb. 15, charge Peters with breaking, entering and removing $3.50 in cigarettes, change and beer from Eddie's Self Service Store in the Rankin Block, operated by Edward Turnbull and entering the M. B. & C. O. Perry coal office on Main street, with the intent to steal.

Another complaint names Peters as the alleged burglar who entered the United Home Supply Store on Main street, owned by Sherman H. Rubenstein, Feb. 10, and removed $2.50 in change.

The last charge against the Rockland man is for the entry into the office of the A. C. McLoon & Co. on McLoon Wharf Jan. 30, where $62.50 in change and cigarettes were removed.

Rockland Police and the Sheriff's Department arrested Peters at his home Wednesday morning before court. Sheriff P. Willard Pease noted at that time that the stolen goods from Sears Roebuck Store were found in the Peters house when the arrest was made.

A reputation for paying his bills is the most valuable asset any man can lay up for a rainy day.

Parents who go to sleep at the switch can expect their children to get off on the wrong track.

Rockland Lions Contract Circus Here In July

The Rockland Lions Club will sponsor the Clyde Beatty, Cole Brothers three ring circus July 9 at the South Field in Rockland.

The circus, which is reputed to be the largest tent show in the United States, will stage two performances that day. The matter was presented to the Lions Thursday night at the Thorndike Hotel, after the agreement was signed between the board of directors and the officials of the circus.

The Lions will send either $100 or equipment to aid in reestablishing the Island Community Medical Services center on Vinalhaven, which was destroyed by fire Monday morning. William E. Koster was delegated to contact Dr. Ralph P. Earle on the island to arrange for acceptance of the gift. The Lions will tour the New England Telephone building at the corner of Union and Limerock streets at 7 p. m. Feb. 26. The building which is costing over a million dollars, will house the new dial system for the exchanges of Rockland, Thomaston and Tenants Harbor.

Proposal Made To Stock Salmon In Alford Lake

The Knox County Fish and Game Association heard a report on the stocking of land locked salmon in Alford Lake in East Union Thursday night at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Rockland.

In making the report, Robert Royce, fishery biologist for the State Department of Inland Fish and Game, noted that the lake could accommodate the salmon and the Association discontinue their stocking program of brown trout. His plan calls for the stocking of 5,000 salmon over five years, which are six inches or longer.

Foye further recommended that a special act of the Legislature should be passed to remove the size and daily catch limit of bass and pickerel caught in Alford Lake. He thought that the bass and pickerel season could coincide with the open season of trout and salmon on April 1.

The Association endorsed the report and formulated plans to present the bill before the Legislature, if possible, at this session, although the deadline for submitting bills was Feb. 15.

The group also approved of a plan to put all residents and non-resident taxpayers of the Town of Hope on a special committee to investigate the possibility of securing a right of way to Alford Lake. At present, the only way the public can fish on Alford Lake is either by going on Association or private property.

The Association went on record as endorsing Roland Cobb for another term as Commissioner of the Inland Fish and Game Department and opposing the open season on moose and the re-zoning of the State into three districts for deer hunting.

A three vehicle collision on Route 1 in Waldoboro Wednesday night caused extensive property damage. A car, operated by Mrs. Lois Stackpole, of Thomaston, went into a skid due to the slippery conditions on the highway. A Central Maine Power Company truck, driven by John Spear, 29, of Thomaston, and a car, driven by Drury Rice, 34, of Nobleboro, which were following behind, unsuccessfully tried to stop in time to avoid the collision. The Rice car collided with five guard rails. There were no reported injuries. The accident is under investigation by Trooper Carey Thing and Waldoboro Police Chief Clarence Lee.

Rockland Police are investigating a hit and run incident which happened on Main street in Rockland Thursday. Two station wagons, parked on Main street, near the corner of Summer street, were struck by a vehicle. The owners of the cars are: Nancy Lamb of 100 Pleasant street, Rockland, and Ralph Post of 49 Crescent street, Rockland. A total of $350 damage was sustained to both station wagons.

Cars operated by Philip S. Eaton, 41, of Ellsworth and James R. Poland, 23, of Waldoboro collided on Route 1 near the Yattaw auto junkyard about 2:30 p. m. Friday. Trooper Leslie LeBlanc said that icy road conditions contributed to the skid which threw the Poland car out of control and into the path of the Eaton vehicle. He estimated damages to the Eaton car at $150 to $200 and to the Poland car at $350 to $400. There were no serious personal injuries to either driver or their passengers reported.

Coastmen Color Guard To Show In Portland

The Port O'Rockland Coastmen color guard goes to Portland Sunday for the "Flas On Parade" Northern New England circuit competition in the Stevens Avenue Armory.

Under the direction of Ralph T. Clark, the "old man of the drum and bugle corps business" here in Maine, the color guard will compete against seven others from Maine and New Hampshire.

Clark was one of the founders of the circuit back in 1956. It is open to all drum and bugle corps and color guards in the region, regardless of affiliation.

The local color guard is the first all-girl outfit in Maine. Clark says. It was eighth in the national VFW and Legion color guard contests last year and has won both the Legion and VFW Maine title several times.

This color guard represented Maine at the Lions Club International convention in 1954 and the Presidential Inaugural in 1957. Members will have a chance to see the 1958 Legion color guard champions, the Cambridge, Mass., Caballeros give an exhibition at the contest. And those attending will also see the host Harold T. Andrews Post Sabres Drum and Bugle Corps, 1958 Maine Legion champs, demonstrate their abilities.

MEMORY LANE

BAKING DAY

Mother always made a few tarts from the "scraps" after baking six loaves of bread, four pies and a coffee cake. The baked goods sold today sound and look delicious on the TV but for scrumptious eating there'll never be any to equal mother's. Yum! Yum! Remember?

STEAMBOAT YARNS of Ships and Men

John M. Richardson

Captain Scott Sings Swan Song Of His Beloved Steamer City Of Bangor

The City of Bangor has steamed her last mile. This is as she appeared in early 1934 at Federal Wharf, East Boston. Her hull may still be seen there at dead low water. Photo courtesy R. L. Graham.

79 Paprocki Avenue
West Islip, New York
January 31, 1959
Dear Steamboat Editor:

Over the years your steamboat column has quite thoroughly covered the life of the City of Bangor.

In my notes I still find an item perhaps we can say will write the concluding chapter in the life of this beautiful ship. Through her long years of service she had the distinction of having more of the old time greats in her middle window than any other side wheeler of that great white fleet.

Leaving Boston when new on her first trip to Bangor on June 18, 1894, she was in command of Capt. Otis Ingraham, who was her master for seven years.

In 1901, Capt. Marcus Pierce took command and ran her during that year. She was then commanded by Capt. Howard Arty who commanded her through 1902 and 1903. Then Capt. William Roix took command and ran her through 1904 and 1905, and Capt. Ezra Curtis was master through 1906.

Capt. Frank Brown then took charge as master and ran her until June 23, 1907, thus ending her career on the Bangor line.

On June 23, 1907, she made her initial trip on the Kennebec Line in command of Capt. Charles Colby who was in command through 1907-1909-1910-1911-1912. Capt. Charles

Blair took command in 1913 and she slowly settled to the muddy bottom of the waters over which she had sailed for exactly 40 years from the time her keel was laid within a stone's throw, in William McKee's yard at the Atlantic Works where she was born.

The Kennebec Line was a fitting example of what progress in land transportation did to water transportation. This along with demands for higher wages gradually made steamers prohibitive. The firemen, oilers, and water tenders strike of 1917 was the beginning that started all operational costs skyward.

Prior to the World War I, the City of Bangor could operate a full round trip from Boston to Gardiner for an average of $835. During the last years of the steamer's operation on the Kennebec Line the cost exceeded $1700 to operate a steamer a full round trip.

We now review the past and look back to the days of our childhood when the dollar was worth one hundred cents and it only took one of those dollars and an extra quarter to buy us a pair of copper toed leather boots. Now it costs three of our 50 cent dollars to buy a pair of carpet slippers. The end of the City of Bangor marked the end of that era of contentment and happiness and good will among men. (So ends my notes on the City of Bangor.)

Capt. Walter E. Scott.

COASTAL PEOPLE MOVING TO AID VINALHAVEN IN RE-ESTABLISHING MEDICAL CENTER AND SERVICES

Residents of the area are rallying to the aid of the Island Community Medical Services on Vinalhaven which lost its medical center by fire earlier in the week.

Mrs. Alice Soule, president of the Knox County General Hospital Auxiliary, reported Thursday evening that the group will lend immediate assistance. She said that all members will be contacted to supply pastries and breads for an all-day food sale to be held in Rockland in the near future. All proceeds will be donated to the KCMS rebuilding project.

The Rockland Lions Club the same evening voted $100 in cash, or an equal value in equipment, to be given to the island organization.

In Camden, Mrs. Dorothy Kent will receive donations from townspeople to be forwarded to the island and a collection box has been placed in the Boynton-McKay Drug Store. The weekly Camden Herald started the fund with a donation.

The Chamber of Commerce in Rockland, together with The Courier-Gazette, is starting a fund raising campaign. President Albert MacPhail of the Chamber is to appoint a canvassing committee at the meeting of the board of directors Wednesday to contact local business houses.

Contributions have been received from The Courier-Gazette, the Bettetane Shop and the Thorndike Hotel.

The ICMS, which serves the islands of Matineux, North Haven and Vinalhaven, raised funds to equip the medical center over a span of years with the aid of the Vinalhaven Health Council.

In settlements with insurance companies this week, they were allowed 75 per cent of building coverage and 50 per cent of coverage on the furnishings and equipment. However, neither the three story wooden building or its contents were insured for anywhere near their actual value, making the loss much greater than the insurance payment percentages would indicate.

Mrs. Lucy Skoog, president of ICMS, has received a check of $1000 from Alexander White of Oyster Bay, N. Y. He is the owner of Leadbetters Island and an honorary officer of ICMS.

It is understood also that the Fish Hawk Clubs, made up of former islanders in Maine and Massachusetts, are raising funds to aid in rebuilding.

Canners Open Sales Campaign For Maine Corn

Maine corn packers have started what John L. Baxter of Brunswick, chairman of the New England Cream Style Corn Committee, calls "a strong, consistent and powerful promotion to sell New England Cream Style Corn."

The advertising program, first in the history of the industry, has been set up by the Committee from funds raised voluntarily among the corn packers. It follows the lead of the state's apple, egg and poultry processing industries, which assess themselves for funds for promotional purposes, and the potato, milk, blueberry and dry bean industries, which conduct promotion and research programs through taxes imposed by the legislature at their request.

The Committee was appointed last year by the governors of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont as part of an emergency program to sell a cream-style corn surplus that threatened the future of the state's canning plants. A promotion program, conducted with the assistance of the area's informational media, retail food organizations and consumers helped solve the problem by moving 500,000 cases of corn. At that time, Baxter highly commended those involved for their assistance.

The new promotion is slated to be an annual affair and includes newspaper, radio and television advertising geared to reach 3,225,000 homes and 1,132,000 readers from Providence to Bangor.

The three-month, 120-ad newspaper campaign in nine cities, beginning immediately, will accent Lenten menu planning aids, special announcements, and prize-winning recipes.

Re-Tooling Poultry Houses

Pictured is a poultry house that might concern us if we plan to automate it. It seems as if there are four different buildings widths and three sections have floors at different levels plus a third floor in one building and some add "dormer" areas. Would it be profitable to completely automate this building? Some of the answers might be found in the Re-Tooling Poultry Houses articles.

We are back in business with our articles on automation after a week out to take care of some other work and to detail some future plans in this work on automating our farms. So let's get to work and consider how.

Equipment Determines House Width

"Why did you people plan a poultry house 35 feet wide?" we are asked. "My house is 40 feet wide and it works nicely," is a statement often heard. Similar statements are made concerning other size houses.

There are good thoughts to use when figuring how wide a house should be. Let's take a look at how we might figure this.

Let's start with a one foot cross section, or a one foot wide swath cut across the width of the building. As we want this building to be automated, we are going to have an eight foot wide manure pit in the middle of the building. We will have four feet of feeder space in this one foot section. This will be two single units going back and forth to make our four feet and "two double-decked units also going back and forth."

If we plan six birds to a running foot of feeder space, we find that we have feeders for 24 birds in this one foot cross section of the house. (Six birds per foot times four feet of feeder space in the one foot cross section.)

Now, how much room are we going to allow per bird. Penn State is down to one square foot per bird. Let's settle on one and one-half square feet for heavy birds in an automated poultry house.

With feeder space for 24 birds in this cross-sectional foot and each bird requiring 1 1/2 feet, we need a house 36 feet wide to make maximum use of the money we've invested in feeders. Our 35 foot house works out to 1.46 square feet and may have some savings in house construction.

In a 40 foot wide house, we would have 1.7 square feet per bird and would not be making maximum use of the floor space in which we have invested and may be reaching a point when ventilation problems are increased due to a lack of concentration of birds as well as pushing out the distance the birds must travel to reach feed, water and nests.

We cannot run one more feed trough to take care of the additional width of our building. We must have return section and this would increase our equipment cost per bird unnecessarily. House width is determined by the even number of feeders or we make inefficient use of feeder space. Our house probably should be either 35 or 36 feet wide or multiples thereof as 74 feet. The extra four feet here is to allow for an alleyway down the middle.

As you invest in equipment, make sure that it is the best suited to the poultry houses you now have. As you invest in new buildings, make sure they are best suited to the equipment we will be using in the future.

Guarding against colds and winter illnesses by wearing proper clothes, getting enough sleep, and eating a balanced diet were topics discussed. Also safety habits in and outdoors were also brought out.

This is important anytime, but especially at night. The headlights of most cars can illuminate an object about 350 feet away. That means if you are doing 60 at night and suddenly see something in the road ahead, you will be lucky if you stop before you get to it.

So - with dark coming earlier as winter sets in, and most of us doing more night driving, a little extra caution is in order. Here are some safety tips for driving after dark.

Watch your speed, especially on winding roads. Don't look at the lights of oncoming cars. Look more to the right of your own lane. Be sure your windshield is clean and your lights are aimed properly. If they are not, have them checked. Dim your lights for oncoming cars and for cars you overtake. Keep your reflexes sharp. Always have some ventilation. Never over-heat the car. Stop for coffee and a stretch if you feel tired. You'll be a safer driver if you're always ready to stop in time.

Patience is the main thing mother has to save for a rainy day.

Maine's potato history goes back more than 100 years. Greatest developments in the spud industry have occurred since 1870, and more particularly, in the past 15 years.

Notes of a poultryman

By Henry Teague

No one knows it better than the man on the poultry farm that prices for eggs and poultry meat has declined so much that there is some question as to where the industry is headed. Some of this price decline has been offset by nutritional and breeding advances, but it is a fact that per bird net revenue is much smaller today than it was a few years ago.

This trend in prices has given poultry writers a regular field day with their typewriters. Poultry magazines are filled with articles by prophets of doom and dewy-eyed Pollyannas. It seems as though everyone in the industry who thinks himself above the status of the ordinary poultryman feels that his two cents worth must appear in print.

Fortunately there is some intelligence among poultry farmers and most of them take a calm view of the situation despite the babel of words thrown at them from every corner. These poultrymen no longer dream of the lush days of a decade or more ago. Also, most of them feel that they will be in business for some time yet. They know that it is becoming increasingly difficult for a young man to start a poultry operation for the reason that one cannot start small any more.

They know that since the profit from the individual bird is smaller, they must run larger flocks. The move in this direction is very much in evidence right here in Maine and it will continue.

The egg industry is simply following a trend that has been developed in industry through the years. Many of us can remember when there were literally hundreds of makes of automobiles. This consolidation process began in the egg business the day some poultry farmer discovered that new poultry medicines would enable him to build larger poultry houses and put more birds on his farm. There was a time when four square feet was considered about right for a laying hen. Now they have invented ways and means of putting in a bird to each square foot. Even in many regular houses, poultrymen are putting heavies in two square feet and Leghorns in less than that.

When the egg farm began to look like a real business institution, changes began coming thick and fast. Some persons began figuring that if 5,000 birds could be handled on a farm, why not many times that number.

The ordinary farmer does not have that kind of money but in this country money is generally available where profit can be seen. Some of the holder farmers, with a little extra financial know-how started rapid expansion. An outstanding example in Maine is John Ernst of Sidney who now operates with over 200,000 layers according to reports here. There are other operators in Maine who are reaching out rapidly. In fact there are some in this immediate area.

But some of the biggest expansion has come from money not within the industry. Not only has it been in market eggs, but breeder farms and broiler operations. Million dollar enterprises are no longer uncommon and there will be more of them beyond a doubt.

But if the day should come when eggs and poultry are all produced on a few giant farms, it is in the dim distant future.

Poultry labor is highly specialized. This does not refer to the type of labor used for cleaning out, etc., but the labor that has the ability to keep birds healthy and laying at a high rate. On the smaller farms, the owner generally furnishes this type of labor and if he does hire labor, he has close supervision over his crew. On the really big farms, the time is certainly coming when labor will be unionized and that will mean far higher labor costs than are necessary on the smaller farm.

In the first place, the man who works in a henhouse must like hens or he cannot work at top efficiency. He must be able to cope with many different kinds of problems. He can make a mistake that will cause a drop in production. This error can evaporate all profit for that particular flock. He can be fired, but then comes the expense of break-in in a new man.

Any egg producer will tell you that a real hen man on his payroll is the indispensable man. And they will also tell you that they are as rare as can be.

Social Security Provides Added Dependent Aid

Many persons in this area who could be getting payments under recent changes in the Social Security law may not yet know about their new rights. George Field, district manager of the Augusta Social Security Office reported today. Four groups of people now eligible for payments were mentioned particularly by Field.

1. Dependents of disabled workers 50 or over, including:
 - a. Children under 18
 - b. Disabled children of any age if disabled before reaching 18
 - c. Wives age 62 or over
 - d. Wives of any age if caring for an eligible child (see a or b)

2. Dependent parents of a deceased worker are now eligible even if a widow or widower has been drawing on the deceased worker's account. A dependent mother is eligible at 62, father at 65.

3. Disabled grown up children of a retired or deceased worker can now draw payments at any age if such grown up child disabled before 18. In most cases support by the parent is not a necessary qualification.
4. Adopted children no longer have to wait three years to qualify for benefits based on an adopting parent's earnings record.

In death cases, the widow and adopted child can draw payments even if she was married less than a year. Also, a foster child adopted by the widow within two years of the foster father's death can usually qualify.

Anyone who might possibly meet any of these qualifications should immediately check with the Social Security office, Post Office Building, Augusta, or at the Rockland Post Office, second floor, each Monday.

Experience teaches that the world never stands still long enough to hear both sides of the story.

Motorists are urged by the All-state Safety Crusade to remove snow, ice or mud from their shoes as much as possible before using the foot pedals. Otherwise, feet might slip off the pedals suddenly which could throw the car out of control and cause an accident.

of the Maine Extension Association, said today that five counties have more members than a year ago. They're Franklin, Kennebec, Androscoggin - Sagadahoc, Washington and Knox-Lincoln.

Secretary Dolloff pointed out that the Extension Associations making the largest membership increases during the past month were Washington, Androscoggin-Sagadahoc, Penobscot, Hancock, Southern Aroostook, and Somerset Counties. All counties in Maine reported increases.

When the three sections of Aroostook County are added together, Aroostook leads Maine in Extension Association membership totals, with 1,774. The Extension Association membership total in Maine includes 5,984 men and 10,223 women. These members are supporting Extension educational work in agriculture, homemaking, 4-H clubs, and allied fields. Membership is open at nominal rates to everyone interested.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

Be Off Beat about Breakfast

The urge of teenagers to be off beat—yet not miss the beat—can lead them to choose a well-scored breakfast... one that does not drum out a set breakfast routine.

Teenagers who miss the beat at breakfast may be bored with routine breakfast fare. So say scientists who have studied reactions to the same food, served in the same way, day after day. This is why teenagers suddenly ban, at breakfast, foods liked since childhood.

Their rejection of these once-liked foods is sharpened by a growing capacity for independent action. When your teenager chooses an egg salad sandwich made with enriched bread, a bowl of tomato soup, and a wedge of cabbage, he may be unorthodox, but his breakfast contains the nutrients needed for good health. Or, maybe your teenager has a yen for a breakfast the Greeks enjoy: Bread and cheese with a whole tomato or fruit.

If your teenager is off beat about breakfast, he has the right beat as long as he is acting in the newer knowledge of nutrition. And his independent action is in harmony with the American way of trying the new, the different, the unorthodox.

Why not follow his lead? Recognize the fact that good nutrition is possible without set meal patterns. Nourish the urge to be off beat about meals, as long as you include these essential foods each day: Enriched or whole grain bread or cereal, fruits and vegetables, meat or an alternate, and milk.

Dairymen Set Records of Which They Can Be Proud

By H. J. Cook,
County Agent-at-Large

I feel that congratulations are due to the dairymen of Knox-Lincoln County for the work they are doing. You may well be proud of the records that you have made. Looking over the first calf heifer honor roll it appears that the future records will continue to rate merit.

It is well to note that more than 65 per cent of the herds enrolled in DHIA appear on the Herd Honor Roll. This may lead us to believe that the goals set in the past have become outmoded.

The high cow in fat production for the month is No. 186 from the State Prison Herd with 103 pounds of butterfat. In milk production conducted a mail ballot to name one man, with two alternates, to be designated "elected member" from each of the 463 current Eastern States distribution points. Each elected member, or an alternate, will attend the annual meeting with expenses paid by the organization.

Elected members from this area include: Ruth Erickson, Rockport; Grevis F. Payson, Union; Charles Randall, Liberty.

Attending in the role of a director of the organization, which he has held several years, will be Union dairyman and poultryman, and local agent for the Exchange, Herbert A. Hawes of Union.

the leading cow is Laura from the herd of Eben Haggitt with 2460 pounds of milk for the month.

If you have not become familiar with central processing it may be to your advantage to do so in the near future. It will cost you a few cents more per cow but the information gained will more than pay for it.

The dairy farm of today is becoming a large and complicated business. It takes better management to stay abreast of the progress. It is impossible to do a good job without knowing exactly what your herd is doing and having the necessary records at your finger tips. Central processing provides this service and is well worth your consideration.

P. I. A. Meeting Set For Tuesday

Knox-Lincoln poultrymen will meet at Weymouth Grange Hall, Thomaston, at 8 p. m. Tuesday for a regular meeting of the Knox-Lincoln County Poultry Improvement Association.

President Malcolm Tilton has announced that the speakers will be County Agent Gil Jaeger and Extension Poultry Marketing Specialist, Frank Reed. The subject for discussion will be, "Contracts and How to Evaluate Them." The subject was decided on due to more contract farming developing over the whole country as well as some intensifying of this type of business in Maine.

Money may talk, but most of us can't hang on to it long enough to hear what it says.

View of the Elk Grove Cemetery in Thomaston

I have before me the records of Elm Grove Cemetery Association from 1836 when it was founded to 1895.

These are in the handwriting of the several men who served as secretary in those years. These were Lucius H. Chandler, Christopher Prince, Edwin Walsh, Oliver Robinson and John C. Levensaler. The Association was incorporated by an Act of the Maine Legislature approved February 1836. Named in the act were Sullivan Dwight, John S. Abbott, Thomas A. Snow, Edward Robinson, William Singer, Ezekiah Prince, David Kellogg, Oliver Robins, Thomas McClellan, Jonathan Cilley, Rufus Counce, Oliver Jordan, Roland Jacobs, Jr.

Cilley, Prince and Dwight signed the notice for the first meeting which was held Oct. 14, 1836 at the home of Sullivan Dwight, which stood where the Lucette now stands. In fact I suspect that the small French roofed structures that stand in the rear of the larger house constituted the Dwight house. This is only a guess.

The by-laws were drawn up and attested by Ezekiah Prince, Sullivan Dwight was chosen president of the corporation, William Singer, treasurer and Lucius Chandler, secretary.

According to the agreement there were 58 lots, the price of each lot to be $25.

According to the agreement the proprietors paid Dwight $500 for the land, bounded on the North by the old Thomaston Burying Ground, on the East by a line nearly parallel to the Beechwoods Road (Erin Street), 200 feet distant from the same on the South by a line parallel with the northern bound and on the west by the Beechwoods Road.

By 1857 the 59 lots on the Northern side had been taken. In 1858 a group of 22 citizens agreed to pay $200 for the unoccupied land in the cemetery with a strip extending across to Dwight Street, belonging to the Dwight estate, and each of the proprietors were assessed $10 to defray expenses. Later the assessment was increased to $20 and still later to $26. The fence was repaired and other steps were taken for improvement of the yard.

During the years since, the Corporation have kept this truly beautiful yard, a source of pride to our town.

For years the late Robert Walsh was secretary. At present Richard Elliot is president and Frank D. Elliot is secretary and treasurer.

Meanwhile, our town cemetery has been extended and improved since General Knox interested himself in the matter, little realizing that his remains would lie in that cemetery.

There are many interesting monuments there. Perhaps the most pretentious is that of Edward C'Brien, the town's millionaire, and probably it's ablest citizen. Near the fence on the Erin street side is the Singer monument where are buried the remains of Isabella Fuller Singer, wife of Capt. Will John Singer. She died on the ship Alice Counce on passage from Melbourne to Callao Peru in 1861 and was brought home to be buried not far from where she had spent her life.

Here too is the monument of Jonathan Cilley, Thomaston's first congressman, who was killed in a duel in 1838 near Washington, D. C. Cilley was a classmate of Longfellow and Hawthorne and truly friendly with the latter, of whom we will tell in a future Scrap Book story.

The record book of which I have told you is accessible by the kindness of Mrs. Ava Bourdman Whitney, widow of the late Donald Whitney, great grandson of Christopher Prince and great grandson of Ezekiah, who was a leader in all enterprises for the betterment of our town.

Correction

In the Watson's Point story there was a misstatement. Our popular townsman Levi Clark never lived in the Everton house, but the late Oliver Hyler did and before him the old sail-maker William Hodgkins. I do not remember Lydia Webb and she never visited Morse's Corner in spite of what was printed in my story of Feb. 12. Apparently one of my notes was lost, strayed or stolen so it was omitted. It was James Wheaton's daughter whom I remember. I believe Lydia died before I was born and while very few folks would know the difference, Fanny Howard or Mary McPhail or some of the few historically minded might be shocked by such a barefaced perversion.

Citrus Send-Off for Family

Hearty breakfasts are not only welcome these chilly mornings, they are actually essential to health. Citrus fruit or juice is ideal to have first thing because its tart flavor is a good eye-opener and it is an excellent source of daily-needed vitamin C. Florida oranges and grapefruit are plentiful now.

Broiled grapefruit halves and Orange French Toast, served with crisp bacon, make a tempting breakfast.

Broiled Grapefruit

To prepare Florida grapefruit, cut fruit in half; remove core if desired. Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Do not cut around entire outer edge of fruit. Sprinkle each half with 1 tablespoon sugar and a dash of cinnamon, mace or nutmeg. Dot each half with 1 teaspoon butter. Place grapefruit on broiler rack 3 inches from heat. Broil slowly 15 to 20 minutes or until grapefruit is slightly brown and heated through. Grapefruit may also be baked in a moderately hot oven (400° F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Orange French Toast

1 egg
1/4 cup Florida orange juice
3 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons grated Florida orange rind
4 slices day old bread
1/4 cup butter or margarine
2 Florida oranges, sectioned
Confectioners' sugar
Beat egg with Florida orange juice in shallow dish. Add sugar and grated orange rind; mix thoroughly. Leave bread slices whole or cut in half, if desired. Dip bread in egg mixture. Brown on both sides in butter in skillet over low heat. Place orange sections on each slice of toast. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Serve immediately. YIELD: 4 servings.

6000 Hours of Prayer Spearheads Coastal Drive

The month of February has been designated as the month of prayer by Evangelist Richard Holbrook and pastors co-operating in the United Coastal Revival campaign. Believing that prayer is the key to revival, a variety of prayer efforts have been organized by the sponsoring churches.

Special united prayer meetings have been held in the past two weeks alternating nightly from church to church. Also special prayer groups have met in private homes. There have been as many as 25 in some of these cottage meetings.

Around the clock prayer by individuals has linked a continuous prayer chain along the coast. Each person participating prays one hour a day. Each church has set up one of these 24 prayer schedules.

This campaign will be held March 1 through March 8 at 7.30 p. m. in Watts Hall in Thomaston.

Maine homemakers are finding that baked stuffed potatoes with cheese, frozen and packed in Belfast, are a real taste treat. Also, for homemakers looking for a quick and easy way to serve potatoes, they're a ready answer.

Tabasco Peps Up Lenten Croquettes

Fine for the meatless days of Lent are croquettes made with canned tuna or salmon and served with a savory sauce. The breaded and fried seafood croquettes will be so popular you will want to make a variation using ham. Tabasco, the liquid red pepper seasoning so good with seafood, pep's up this popular Lenten dish.

Tabasco Croquettes

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
1 tablespoon minced parsley

1 tablespoon minced onion
2 cups canned flaked tuna, salmon or ground cooked ham
1 cup soft bread cubes
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons water

Melt butter; add flour and salt; stir to a smooth paste. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat; stir in lemon juice, Tabasco, parsley and onion. Measure 1 cup of the sauce; stir in fish or ham and bread cubes. Reserve remaining sauce to serve with cooked croquettes. Chill croquette mixture in refrigerator several hours or overnight. Shape mixture into 6 croquettes. Dip croquettes first in dry bread crumbs, then in egg and water mixture, then in bread crumbs again. Fry in deep fat, 390°F., about 2 minutes or until brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve with "Savory Sauce."

Savory Sauce

To the remaining sauce, add 1/4 cup mayonnaise, 1/4 cup milk and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Stir; heat to serving temperature. Serve with croquettes.

YIELD: 1 1/4 cups.
