Bequests In Will Of Dr. Tribou Total $196,800 With Churches, Schools And Hospitals Benefitting

A will, estimated to concern upwards of a quarter million dollars, of the late Dr. Howard A. Tribou, 74, of Rockport, was filed Thursday in the Knox County Register of Probate office by the attorney for the estate. Bequests in the document total $196,800.

The bulk of the estate of the former Navy surgeon has been left to several institutions of learning, two hospitals, two churches in Rockport and to two alumni associations.

Only one of his 13 first cousins who have been designated as heirs-at-law, benefited from the will. She is Mrs. Frances Tribou Tinsman of St. Petersburg, Fla., and 59 Elm street, Camden, daughter of the late David H. Tribou, who received $5,000. The other cousins, who reside in Rockport, Camden, Rockland, Greene and East Vassalboro, were not mentioned as beneficiaries.

The will, which was signed June 24 by Dr. Tribou and witnessed, will be handled during the Aug. 18 term of Knox Probate Court.

Dr. Tribou was found dead in the bathroom of his room at the junction of West street and Route 1 in Rockport at 9 a. m. Wednesday by one of the first cousins.

Ralph Buzzell of Rockport. After investigation by Sheriff P. Willard Pease, it was determined that the doctor had taken his own life by placing a 16 gauge shotgun muzzle next to his neck and discharging the weapon.

The sum of $25,000 was to be given to the First National Bank of Rockland to be held in trust, with the net income to be used by the Rockport Baptist Church for religious purposes. This amount is to be placed in memory of Dr. Tribou's mother, Mrs. Nancy J. Tribou, who was a long standing member of the church.

The First National Bank of Rockland is to hold another $25,000 in trust for the Home for Aged Women in Camden. If the home ceases to exist, then the net income from the fund is to be used by the Camden Community Hospital. The hospital also is mentioned in another article in the will to receive a gift of $25,000 for general operating expenses.

Another $25,000 trust fund was established in the will, to be held also by the First National Bank of Rockland, with the income to be used by the Rockport Alumni Association for scholarships.

A provision in the will calls for the transfer of this trust fund to the Camden High School Alumni Association for scholarships in an event that Rockport High School is merged with another high school; ceases to exist or does not graduate students at any time in future.

A sum of $30,000 was left to the president and trustees of Colby College in Waterville. One half of this amount shall be placed in endowment funds for operating expenses and the remainder to be used as scholarships for students who desire to enter Colby College.

A gift of $10,000 was willed to Delta Upsilon Fraternity at Colby College. Another $20,000 will be given to Hebron Academy to be placed in an endowment fund, with the income to be applied to general operating expenses.

The President and Fellows of Harvard College at Cambridge, Mass., were mentioned in the will to receive $20,000 for the Alumni Fund of Harvard Medical School. The Camden YMCA would benefit from the will in the sum of $10,000. The Rockport Methodist Church will receive $1,000 to be used for religious purposes.

The amount of $400 was set aside in the will to be used as a trust for the Town of Rockport for the perpetual care of the Job Washburn Ingraham lot at Amsbury Hill Cemetery. An identical sum was also set aside for a trust fund for the Town of Camden for the perpetual care of the Galen J. Tribou lot at Mountain View Cemetery.

Provisions were also made for the residue and remainder of the estate after expenses have been met and the doctor's property has been sold. This money will be placed in trust at the First National Bank of Rockland. One half of this net income to be used by the Camden Community Hospital for general purposes and the remainder to be used by the Knox Hospital.

Forty Fathom Fisheries had double troubles Thursday night and early Friday morning as two of their steel trawlers went aground in the shoal waters off the shipyard dock.

First, the 147 foot Tide making port shortly after 10 p. m. Thursday hit a mudbank off the shipyard dock and was held up an hour or more before she was floated by the tide. The craft was fully loaded from a trip to the Grand Banks under Capt. Oscar Gislason. She was later moved to the fish plant pier on Tillson Avenue and unloaded Friday.

About 4 a. m. Friday, the Ocean, a sister ship of the Tide, also inbound with a load of redfish struck a ledge off the shipyard dock and heeled over to port. Capt. Gudmundur Gunnlaugsson had brought her in from the Gulf of St. Lawrence with a $15,000 pound load.

Mate Richard Jellison said Friday morning that the approach to the docks was made in dense fog through which lights on the shipyard pier showed only dimly. The dock had been picked up on radar and the approach was apparently proper. The skipper swung the big trawler toward the dock, and then back down some to change his approach.

The stern struck the black buoyed ledge off the docks to hang up the vessel's skeg on the ledge. She heeled to port to the extent that the deck was awash on the port side, but no water got into the forecabin or to the hold through the hatches. Jellison laid the incident to distortion of the lights on the dock by the fog which gave the ship's officers the wrong impression of their position before they decided to back down to gain a better position for the approach.

As the tide receded, the Ocean fell farther to port and her stern, held by the ledge, towered far out of water.

In the pictures taken in the fog shrouded harbor about 10 a. m. Friday, the view at the right is from the bridge of the Ocean looking forward to the wharves. The angle at which she was heeled may be drawn from the stance of the man on the whaleback trying to hold his footing on the steeply canted craft. The center scene was taken from the upper dock at the after end of the house looking forward. Alongside is a scow moved in by Alton Prock. Its crane took a strain on the galleys frame of the trawler to hold her, and to help in the lift as the tide came in.

At the left, the stern of the Ocean is shown with her propeller and rudder out of water while she was partly under water amidstships.

The Ocean was floated at 3 p. m. Friday and moved to the fish dock under her own power to unload. She will be hauled on the marine railway Monday to determine damage, which is not thought to be great.

Five Towns Plan School Survey And Full Public Information On Move To Join With District Five

Representatives of the five communities seeking entry into Administrative School District 5 met Thursday evening in Watts Hall at Thomaston. With them were Superintendent Bruce Kinney and Chairman C. Maxwell Ames of District 5.

The decision of the group was that a person skilled in such work be employed at once to take the information at hand and bring it together in a full report as soon as possible. Available to him will be the school costs of Rockport, Thomaston, St. George, Cushing, and Warren, plus those of District 5 which includes South Thomaston, Rockland and Owls Head.

The five towns indicated last winter by straw votes that they wished to enter District 5. A bill in Legislature presented in their behalf was passed and became law on June 13.

The Maine School District Commission has strongly advised a thorough study of school costs in the five towns, and in District 5 to determine the financial responsibility which each will have to bear under an eight town school district. Also, the Commission advised fully acquainting the public with the costs, both of construction and operating, after a new school was built.

The group meeting at Thomaston felt that time was of the essence as District 5 has been forced to move ahead on building plans due to the delay of many months in the decisions of the applying communities.

Superintendent Orville J. Gup-till, Jr., of Thomaston, speaking for the group, said this week that efforts will be made to get a full report to the public in a period not to exceed six weeks.

Charles Kigel of Warren was named chairman of a steering committee with the officers of the several towns to name members prior to a meeting scheduled for the middle of the coming week.

LLOYD ALLEN PICKED BY CLAUSON AS DED COMMISSIONER; NOMINATION WAITS COUNCIL OKAY WEDNESDAY

Lloyd K. Allen

Lloyd K. Allen, city manager of Rockland from 1954 to 1958, was nominated late Wednesday by Governor Clinton A. Clauson for the post of commissioner of the Department of Economic Development. The nomination is due for consideration by the Executive Council next Wednesday.

The Governor and Council have been screening applicants for the job for several weeks since Fred A. Clough, Jr., commissioner the past two and one-half years, asked to be relieved. Clough is to go to Oxford Paper Company as an assistant public relations director.

Allen came to Rockland from Old Town where he served as manager. Previously, he had been manager at Stonington.

He resigned his Rockland position to take the post of manager of the Maine Industrial Building Authority at Augusta which he now holds. He and his family moved from Rockland to Readfield in the summer of 1958.

In Rockland, Allen was head of the Industrial Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and was active in the Rockland District Nursing Association. He took part in the formation of the Knox County Industrial and Development Association and was a strong supporter of the Maine Seafoods Festival and other civic projects.

The would-be reformer bases his sermons on text or pretext.

Most men figure they have influence to sell—the problem is to find a market for it.

THOMASTON STEEL WORKS WINS BID FOR TWO FLOATS TO BE MOORED AT PUBLIC LANDING

The City Council, meeting informally in the office of City Manager

Charles Haynes Thursday evening, awarded the Thomaston Steel Works the contract to construct new docking facilities for the Public Landing.

The firm's bid of $5,900 and detailed plan for the two 20x30 foot steel pontoon floats with wooden tops, were accepted by the Council out of the total of three proposals submitted.

Delivery is expected between three and six weeks from Friday when the order was officially placed by the Council.

Orrin Benner, head of the Thomaston Steel Works, notified the Council that he was in the position to secure the necessary steel for the floats, although a strike has shut down the steel mills throughout the country.

Townies Lose To Fast Moving Clipper Outfit

The visiting Thomaston Clippers came from behind Wednesday night to take the Waldoboro Townies 9 to 4 in Knox-Lincoln Twilight League action.

Waldoboro dropped in single runs in the first, second and third innings and Townie hurler Walter Boyce did not allow a hit during the early part of the game.

However, the Clippers came alive in the second half of the game and took advantage of four Waldoboro errors. They scored two runs in the top of the sixth, five in the seventh and two more in the next frame.

In the big seventh inning rally, five walks, two errors, a double by Bob Watts and singles by Gary Seavey and Ike Smith brought in the five runs.

Waldoboro scored another single run in the eighth to conclude their offensive push for the game. Willis Hallowell was top man at the plate with three hits. Gary Seavey of Thomaston had two hits.

Redlegs Take Two Point Edge Over Clippers

Damariscotta slipped past Thomaston 7 to 5 Thursday evening during a Knox-Lincoln Twilight League game at Thomaston.

The visiting Redlegs, who are currently in first place in the circuit, pounded out three runs in the second and four more in the sixth inning.

Damariscotta hurler Dave Gaw scattered eight hits and allowed single runs in the first and second frames and three more in the eighth.

In the second inning, Damariscotta took advantage of three errors, plus singles by Dave Gaw and Bob Rice to score three runs. Four more runs crossed the plate for the visitors in the sixth when Gaw doubled, Bob Rice, Don Bowman and Bob Latter singled, along with a hit batsman and a fielder's choice.

The Thomaston batting star was catcher George Alex with two doubles.

Dave Gaw was the leading hitter for the Redlegs with three safeties.

A GOOD MAN FOR A TOUGH JOB

Governor Clauson has made a good choice in nominating Lloyd K. Allen, former Rockland city manager for the post of commissioner of the Department of Economic Development. The Executive Council would do well to give prompt approval to the nomination when it meets July 29.

Lloyd served four years as manager of the City of Rockland, leaving last year to take up new duties as manager of the then newly formed Maine Industrial Building Authority.

Not only did the big, friendly fellow do an outstanding job in managing the affairs of the municipality, but he joined in community projects wholeheartedly and was a leader in the Chamber of Commerce and many other civic groups.

Rockland is better off for having had his services, both paid and voluntary, and for having known him and his family. The state as a whole can now benefit as did the city if the Council but gives the official nod next week. His confirmation seems a certainty for Lloyd emerges with the nomination after weeks of screening of applicants by the Governor and the Councilors.

We wish him every success.

BARGAINS THAT ARE NOT BARGAINS IN THE END

The area is being flooded with letters containing attractively printed brochures which offer merchandise catalogues in return for filling out and mailing a postal card.

The catalogues themselves offer merchandise of every description, most of it nationally advertised brands, at "lowest wholesale prices, and in every price range."

We have no particular fight with these firms, be they wholesale houses, discount houses or bargain houses; call them what you will. They have a right to do business.

However, we must point out that every dollar mailed out to them stays out of town forever. There is no way for it to return and re-circulate through the Coastal Area and help build the economy.

On the other hand, dollars spent with merchants in the area stay in the area to work over and over again to the benefit of the people of the area. They go into rent, payment for utilities, wages for clerks, taxes, contributions to civic projects, payments to workmen in many fields who perform services for the businessman in his store and home. Those people in turn put the dollars to work for them in much the same channels. Eventually, a portion of the dollar you spend in the area comes back in either wages, public improvements, schools, financial help for a civic project you are interested in and in many other ways.

If the offer appeals to your Yankee leanings toward a bargain, send for the catalogue. When you get it, go through it and pick out the items you like and want.

Then, take a trip to the business section of any of the communities in the Coastal Area. Compare prices on identical items between your catalogues and the actual item in the store. You will find they are very close together with the local price tag many, many times being lower.

Add to that bit of information the knowledge that the local businessman is going to be right there where you can talk with him if something goes wrong with the item. He is interested in you as both an individual and a customer. With him you are a great deal more than a number and an address on a sales slip in Chicago, New York or a half dozen other major cities which harbor the firms sending out catalogues and which never contribute one red penny to the local economy.

Should the prices in the catalogue be lower than that which the local merchant offers, and they seldom are, give thought to the fact that when you buy locally the dollars are going to be around a long time, working for the good of the area. The dollar mailed away stays away.

Lakewood Week Proclaimed By Two Communities

The town selectmen of Madison and Skowhegan have officially proclaimed the week of July 26 as "Lakewood Theatre Week". The announcement was made by Mrs. Marion F. Huggins and Harold L. Thurlow, town managers of Madison and Skowhegan, respectively.

The Lakewood Theatre is being honored upon reaching its 750th consecutive production, the musical comedy, "Say, Darling", which begins a week's run on Monday.

Lakewood is America's oldest summer theatre, and it has offered a record number of plays since it was founded in 1901 by the late Herbert L. Sweet.

Now in its 59th season, the Lakewood Theatre has long had a national reputation for its quality offerings. In addition to presenting many of the most established stars and best known plays, it has also been a vital showcase for promising young actors like Humphrey Bogart and Keenan Wynn and new plays like "Life With Father", which went on to become Broadway's longest running show.

In receiving the proclamations, Grant Mills, president and managing director of Lakewood, said, "We are very proud of this tribute from Madison and Skowhegan. Our sincerest hope is that every week of the summer will bring top quality entertainment to the residents of Maine and the visitors to our state."

Mr. Mills also announced that Governor Clinton Clauson and U. S. Senator Margaret Chase Smith have been invited to attend the opening night performance of "Say, Darling".

Elm Disease Found In Tree At Lincolnville Center

Mrs. Penelope Budd, president of the Camden Garden Club and secretary of the Camden Elm Tree Council, disclosed Friday that evidence of the Dutch Elm Disease has been found in Lincolnville Center.

She commented that samples taken from several trees were sent to the Maine Forest Service for laboratory analysis by arborist, Ernest Parker. This is the first known evidence of the disease in Knox and Waldo Counties, Mrs. Budd said. She urged everyone to protect the public and private elms by consulting local tree experts on the best methods of protection and to watch for any signs of decay in the upper branches of trees. Any elm trees suspected of having the disease should be reported to the respective municipal governments, she concluded.

It is the aim of most men to get ahead, but today a man is lucky if he catches up.

The second break in three weeks into the cottage of Rhama Philbrick near the Rockland Breakwater occurred sometime during the early part of this week, Rockland Police Chief Maurice Benner said Thursday. It was reported that the window on the east side of the cottage plus the garage door were smashed. The cottage was entered on July 3 when the window on the west side was broken.

Joseph Hughes, 11, of 29 James Street, Rockland, tumbled from his bicycle Thursday afternoon when the front wheel broke while he was riding along the gravel pit on Old County Road in Rockland. He was later treated at Knox Hospital for abrasions of the right elbow and below the right eye and released. Hospital spokesmen also noted that there was a question of fractured ribs. Francis Gardner of Rockland assisted the Rockland Police in transporting the boy to the hospital.

There's a Camden couple who are in a little bit of a quandry these days. It seems that they have a cottage in Spruce Head in addition to their town residence. In order to add to the family bank they decided to rent the cottage. Time went on and the summer was creeping away fast and still there were no takers for the cottage on the fog bound shore. The other day, Mama had a chance to rent the Camden home and did just that, figuring to move to the cottage. When Dad got home that night he was bubbling with news—he had rented the cottage. Yes, the rentals arranged were for the same three weeks. Right now, her tenants are enjoying the cottage and home and the couple and their small fry are occupying a rented cottage, hoping they will at least break even on the deal.

Rockland firemen were called to two alarms Friday. In the morning they answered a call for a flooded oil burner at 138 Union street at the home of Mrs. Fannie Holbrook. At 2:50 p. m., apparatus was sent to remove gasoline which had overflowed from an automobile tank on Main street in Rockland, in front of the Bicknell Block. The car is owned by Col. Frank G. Goguen of Brooklyn Heights, Thomaston. There was no damage in either incident.

Mrs. Charles Doughty and daughter Cheryl of Vinalhaven spent Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Benner, Limerock street.

George Hoche, 21, of Rockport was treated at Knox Hospital Friday for injuries to his left foot, sustained when a tank of bottled gas dropped on his foot.

GRANGE NEWS OF KNOX-LINCOLN COUNTIES

DAIRYMEN STUDY FORAGE CROPS

James Calderwood of Waldoboro and his son, William, view the alfalfa crop on the farm of Herbert Hawes in Union.

Twenty-one dairymen met at the farm of Herbert Hawes Tuesday evening. The first part of the meeting was devoted to a tour of the farm. Some excellent alfalfa was seen growing toward its second cutting. Both Narragansett and DuPuit varieties are grown on this farm. A field of Birdfoot Trefoil and some areas of grass were also looked at. During the tour, there was a discussion of fertilizing and seeding with special reference to the problems caused by the excessive amount of winter killing experienced last winter.

Extension Engineer Mardis Warner was introduced to the group by County Agent Gil Jaeger. Mr. Warner emphasized the need to store forage before the leaves started to shatter in the field. He believed and showed why he thinks that a barn hay drier is one of the first items a farmer should have. The time of field curing whether a hay drier or a conditioner is used, is about the same, yet hay can be put on the drier before leaves start to shatter. He also discussed speeding of field curing with the use of conditioners and said that the speed of field drying is fastest with a flail harvester, though this machine needs possible improvement by experiment stations on it as yet, next fastest with a crusher, and next with a crimper.

Mr. Warner also discussed systems of handling forage pointing out the number of steps and the amount of equipment needed with a baler. He felt that our best system available now would be the use of choppers for both hay and silage. He did indicate the potential in the use of flail harvesters if they work out.

The next meeting will be another twilight meeting on the third Tuesday of August at Round Top Farms in Damariscotta and possibly Eben hay drier or a conditioner is used, Haggett's in Damariscotta Mills.

High Survival Rate In Yule Tree Test Lot

County Agent Gil Jaeger with Extension Forester Lew Bissell and State Farm Forester Robert Umberger worked at the Extension Demonstration Christmas Tree Plantation area Thursday. A survival count was made and it was found that 81 per cent of the trees had survived including the high losses found, and which had been expected, among the red cedar planted to show trees used as Christmas trees in other areas. There was also some high losses in one variety of Scotch pine.

Calls were made on growers after the work at the plantation was finished.

Plans were made for a meeting of growers in early October to inspect the demonstration and to discuss the legal aspects of the licensing of dealers.

Hawes Farm Bull Cited As Proved Sire

A preliminary proved-sire record has been received of the bull Seven Tree Tutt Nudine owned by Herbert Hawes of Union.

This record was made possible by the use of Dairy Herd Improvement Registry work carried on by the Knox-County DHIA and in conjunction with breed and USDA groups, according to County Agent Gil Jaeger.

The summary shows five dams with an average production of 12 records of 1063 pounds of milk and 389 pounds of butterfat for a 3.8% test. Five daughters of these dams to make the necessary pairings have eight records showing 1063 pounds of milk and 412 pounds of butterfat for a 3.9% test.

The difference in these records is a plus 471 pounds of milk and plus 23 pounds of butterfat making for a plus 0.1% butterfat test.

Another daughter, though her dam is not eligible for comparison work, has two records averaging 1223 pounds of milk and 508 pounds of butterfat for a 4.1% test.

Always try to remember that the fellow with a scheme is not looking out for your interests.

The primary subject for the meeting will be a discussion and setting up of the 1960 Plan of Work for the county to be accomplished by the three agents, Gil Jaeger, Miss Gene West, and Mrs. Loana Shibbes, and the many volunteer leaders.

Economy Runs Fail In Giving True Gas Use

Are you dissatisfied with the gasoline mileage you are getting with your car after reading about the famous economy runs? Don't be.

Most automotive authorities agree that the average driver cannot hope to duplicate the mileage figures obtained by the experts who drive in the economy runs. The experts have had long training that enables them to gauge the best speed for maximum mileage under any conditions of road surface, grade or traffic.

Rules of economy tests require that their cars be "stock" models, but most economy runs permit such gas-saving tricks as tire pressures that are higher than standard, thinner lubricants than would be advisable for continuous use, and carburetor jets that provide gasoline mixtures that are leaner than usual.

Not only are their cars carefully tuned, timed and closely checked for any abnormal friction or drag, but they take full advantage of the small savings to be gained by devices like keeping the windows closed to reduce wind resistance and avoiding the use of the radio or cigarette lighter because these increase the load on the engine.

Though many of these refinements are not practical for general use, most drivers could get more miles per gallon by following other economy run procedures such as these:

Drive at moderate speeds—most of the experts stay close to the lowest permissible average speed, especially in traffic or when approaching traffic signals.

Avoid fast, full power acceleration and hard braking—quick stops and starts waste gasoline.

Be sure your tires are fully inflated—even a pound or two of under inflation will cause the car to use more fuel. Under-inflation also increases tire wear.

Maintain engine speed as nearly constant as possible—increasing or decreasing rpm's for hills, curves or any other reason increases gas consumption; the less frequently you vary engine speed, the better your mileage.

Keep your carburetor adjusted for the fuel you are using—higher test fuels usually give somewhat better mileage, but the car must be designated and adjusted for them.

Automatic transmissions, power steering, power brakes, air conditioning—these and other modern conveniences make driving easier and more comfortable, but they also draw power from the engine and thus reduce gasoline mileage. Laboratory tests indicate that 20 to 25 per cent of the energy produced in a large, fully equipped car may go to power such accessories. While you probably are like most motorists and would not want to do without these modern improvements, judicious use of them can save gas.

Few Aware of Full Benefits of Social Security

When asked why Social Security taxes were taken out of their pay envelopes many workers recently queried could not come up with the three main reasons, George Field, district manager of the Augusta Social Security office said today.

Most of them know about old-age benefits, but fewer were aware of survivors' benefits—payments to a worker's dependents in case of his death. Some did not know about disability insurance protection for the worker, and for disabled children.

"Every working person and his family should know that, through his Social Security tax payments, he is building three-way protection. He should realize that the modest deductions from his pay envelope can provide a monthly income if his earnings are cut off either by old-age, disability, or death," Field pointed out.

Social Security insurance payments are only a partial replacement of lost earnings. Because most working people are compelled by law to pay Social Security taxes the measure of protection afforded is greater than it would be if the system was on a voluntary basis—that is, a system in which he worker could "join up" and pay the tax, or stay out and pass up protection.

By joining with other workers in the Social Security insurance program and paying Social Security taxes, all workers share the risk and receive a greater measure of personal and family protection at less cost, Field declared.

Vets May Choose Manner In Which Insurance Paid

A World War II veteran holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) may choose from four options the manner in which the payment of his policy's proceeds will be made after his death.

M. L. Stoddard, manager, VA Center, Togus, who made the announcement today, listed the four options as:

Option 1—Lump sum payment.

Option 2—Equal monthly installments for 3 to 20 years in multiples of 1 year.

Option 3—Equal monthly installments for life of beneficiary, with 120 installments guaranteed.

Option 4—Equal monthly installments for life of beneficiary; total payments guaranteed to equal face amount of policy.

Stoddard pointed out that if the insured chooses Option 1, the beneficiary may elect any of the other options at time of settlement.

Stoddard said Options 3 and 4 are not available if certain types of beneficiaries, such as corporations or estates are named by the policyholder.

Complete information about the optional payment methods is available at any VA office, or from the VA district office which services the policy. Stoddard said.

The millennium will have arrived when a vacation plan is devised that will give the pocketbook one at the same time.

Judges Named For State Dairy Show At Windsor

Norman R. Ness, Extension dairyman, University of Maine, said today that the 742 animals entered included 540 in the 4-H club division and 202 owned by adults. Although this is down slightly from last year, the total number of animals actually shown could well equal the 611 of the 1958 Dairy Show.

The 540 entries in the 4-H division include 74 Ayrshires, nine Brown Swiss, 86 Guernseys, 239 Holsteins, 94 Jerseys, and 38 Milking Shorthorns.

There have been some "Pied Pipers" along the way who have had considerable influence with the farmer and helped lead him into his present predicament. Let's name a few such as feed companies aiming to increase tonnage sales each year; hatchery operators eager to sell every pullet chick possible, no matter what the outlook for the next season; federal loaning agencies; employees of state and federal agricultural units. A study of the situation shows that green lights showed down the road when actually the lights should have been yellow ever since 1954.

The poultrymen are not without blame. They have been all too eager to hurry along this road which certainly was leading toward destruction of the family farm. Now the yellow lights are beginning to show, but it is much too late for many a poultry farmer.

Let's take a look at the situation of many a farmer in our state at the present moment. His buildings are not exactly obsolete, but they sure need some repairs and changes. There are some insulated poultry buildings in Maine, but the vast majority of poultrymen have depended on various electrical devices such as heater tape to keep water from freezing. They are now told that it is uneconomical to produce eggs in cold houses, because it takes a lot more feed to keep a bird warm and that brings up the cost for several months a year. Once prices were good enough to absorb that cost—but no more. That insulation job on a good sized poultry house can run anywhere from several hundred to several thousand dollars. But that is not all. There is the question of ventilation. The "doghouse" type of ventilation which appears on many a roof has been found to be of doubtful value in many instances. We are now told that fans and flues are the best. Again we are talking about hundreds of dollars expense.

But that is only a start. From there we go to pit cleaners, stacked roosts and what amount to an almost complete rebuilding of many houses on the inside at a cost that may run into several thousand dollars for each building. We are supposed to get that all back by being able to double the number of birds in each house, thus doubling profits eventually.

Let's stop in our travels and look at some of these poultry houses built eight or 10 years ago. It's a pretty sad sight for that insulated siding that was thought to be the answer for outside walls has proved to be an abject failure. It would be bad enough if it were just the siding that had gone to pieces. But under the siding are many boards that are rotting and in some cases the rot has even begun to reach the studding. So it is that many of our fine big poultry houses are actually in a state of partial decay and you do not see too much being done about it for the simple reason that poultrymen owning these houses just haven't got the money to make the necessary repairs and they sure as "heck" are not interested in borrowing money, if they can, for such an expenditure.

Many of these buildings have been wholly or partially financed on long term mortgages ranging from 20 to 40 years. Unless something is done to these buildings in the near future, many of them will be in ruins long before the mortgages have run out.

Then we have the egg holding room problem which is now facing many poultrymen. The cry for better egg quality is louder now than ever before and the days of kitchen grading and packing are about over. That means a substantial investment in egg room rebuilding for many.

How is the egg market today—shaky at best. Over 6,000 cases of eggs from the south and west came into Boston last week, a record for the whole year. Prices are not good for this time of year and prospects for better prices in the near future do not appear bright. But the Pied Pipers are at work again. This time we hope that poultrymen by and large turn their deaf ears toward anyone singing a song of prosperity around the corner.

Incentive Wool Payments Made

Mrs. Joan L. Powell, local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager, announced today that wool subsidy payments on 1958 crop wool are being mailed this week.

Payments were based on 70.3 per cent of the net proceeds on shorn wool minus one cent per pound for the Wool Promotion Fund. Lamb payments were based on $1.02 per hundred pounds (live weight of unshorn lambs) less five cents per hundred for the promotion fund.

Knox County shorn wool payments were mailed to 46 farms totaling $1,900.34. Knox County lamb payments were mailed to eight farmers totaling $155.54. Lincoln County shorn wool payments went to 25 farmers totaling $1,170.36 and lamb payments to seven farmers totaling $76.90.

Mrs. Powell urges all persons who raise sheep to file sales slips for wool and lambs sold during the marketing year — April 1, 1959, through March 31, 1960, in order to be eligible for 1959 Crop Incentive Payments. Sales slips can be filed anytime after all sales for the marketing year have been completed. Application forms and full details are available at the ASC Office, Post Office building, second floor, Room 1, Rockland.

The great poultry building spree that has been going on in Maine over the past 10 years seems to be about over. Many millions of dollars have gone into buildings and equipment. I would like to report that Maine's poultry industry has at last become stabilized and that the poultrymen after plowing back their profits are now in position to roll happily along. Such is not the case, however. Instead, poultry has reached this more or less static phase due to low prices and a state of confusion over the future for the family farmer.

Last spring we had an extreme depression of prices. Today, the market is some better but the average poultryman is far from happy. There he stands viewing his once profitable enterprise and wondering why he had the courage to put all that money into structures that seem to be suited for just one kind of business.

It might be a good question, if we asked what caused all this poultry expansion in Maine. There was a time after the war which extended up until 1954 when it looked as though expansion was a good idea. The year 1954 should have been a warning, but it was merely thought to be a reaction from the very profitable year of 1953, and everyone seemed to think that everything would straighten out soon and we would go merrily on.

There have been some "Pied Pipers" along the way who have had considerable influence with the farmer and helped lead him into his present predicament. Let's name a few such as feed companies aiming to increase tonnage sales each year; hatchery operators eager to sell every pullet chick possible, no matter what the outlook for the next season; federal loaning agencies; employees of state and federal agricultural units. The effectiveness of healing based on spiritual law will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Truth".

Peter's healing of the "man lame from his mother's womb" will be featured in the Bible readings which include this passage: "Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk. And he took him by the right hand and lifted him up; and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength. And he leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God" (Acts 3:6-8).

Correlative selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include (183:26-29): "Truth casts out all evils and materialistic methods with the actual spiritual law, — the law which gives sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, voice to the dumb, feet to the lame."

Little League All Star Squads Competing For Tourney Spots

Little League tournament play along the coast opened Thursday when the Knox Suburban All-Stars downed the visiting Lincoln County squad at Thomaston and the traveling Waldo County squad trimmed the Camden All-Stars 8 to 3.

ban team were Buzzy Barrows with a single and a double and Al Leppanen, Jr., two singles. At Camden, Belfast chucker Buddy Loring held the locals to three unearned runs, while allowing no hits. The Belfast scoring was made on single tallies in the first three innings, three in the fourth and two more in the fifth.

Camden's three runs came in the bottom of the third when free trips to first were given to Robert Waterman and Thomas McFarland. After Neal Porter flied out and Don Heald struck out, Bill Dorr pushed one back to the Belfast pitcher, who fell down and threw the ball past the first baseman.

Another error was committed when the Belfast centerfielder dropped a ball hit by Wayne Berry. Dana Marriner struck out to end the inning.

The preliminary tournament of Little Leagues in this area Thursday afternoon saw the Knox Suburban All-Stars blast Waldoboro 16 to 0 and Belfast outscore the Camden All-Stars 8 to 3. The winners of the two games will play at 6 p. m. Monday at a site not yet designated. Last year, the Knox Suburban nine defeated Waldoboro and Belfast, but were eliminated in the finals by Gardiner.

At Thomaston, Al Leppanen, Jr., of St. George twirled a two hitter for the Knox Suburban All-Stars, struck out 16 and allowed only three walks.

The Knox team climbed all over Waldoboro hurler Dick Crabtree for three runs in the first, seven more in the second, two in the fourth and four in the fifth.

In the first inning, Jim Strong connected for a safety, Buzzy Barrows struck out and Strong stole second, third and home to score the first tally. Gary Woodcock received a free trip to first, Dan Bryant singled, Al Leppanen, Jr., walked, Ray Harper hit into a fielder's choice and a Waldoboro miscue brought in two more runs.

In the second frame, Bruce Woodward flied out to deep center field, Jim Strong walked, Buzzy Barrows fanned, Gary Woodcock walked, Al Leppanen singled, Ray Harper walked and singles by Robert Genevieve and Andrew Pendleton, plus several miscues tallied for seven runs.

The two Waldoboro hits were made by Peter Campbell, a leadoff single in the first, and Peter Genthner, a leadoff double in the fourth.

What Would You Add To Cars If You Had Chance?

If you could sit down with the engineers and designers who are responsible for the 1960 cars that will be making their appearance soon what would you like to have them include?

The boys gathered at the neighborhood filling station recently had a lot of ideas on this subject. They ranged from "Make 'em run on air or tap water, so we can cut the cost of operation", to "Cut away the corners of the windshield so we won't crack our chins every time we get into the front seat."

Here are a few of the suggestions from the boys, which the designers might consider while making new cars wider, longer, lower and more gleaming than ever before:

A plastic interior finish, to make it easier to scrub off the residue of candy, cookies and soda pop left after taking the kids for a Sunday afternoon drive.

Snap-on replaceable trim strips, for motorists whose wives find it impossible to miss the edge of the garage doors on the way in and out.

A removable hatch in the car roof above the driver's seat, so a tall man can sit upright behind the wheel of today's low cars.

A device attached to the front fender that would automatically feed nickels into a parking meter at appropriate intervals.

Built-in restraining harness for acrobatic small children relegated to the back seat.

A compartmentalized shelf or basket to hold the maps, tour-guides, sunglasses, cigarettes, cameras, thermos bottles, flashlight and the hundred and one other miscellaneous items that accumulate on the front seat during a long trip.

Built-in reflective strips or panels to make the car more visible under headlights and keep other drivers from piling into it when it is parked at night without lights.

A dial on the dash that automatically answers the question "How long before we get to the next town?" as often as it is asked by youngsters in the car.

A squeak and rattle detector to locate automatically the annoying noise that always disappears when you enter the repair shop to have it corrected.

A radar warning device that would signal whenever one of those hard-to-see small cars draws near from any direction.

Curtains for side windows that automatically snap into place as you pass a carnival or kiddie park.

A master gadget that would tell you when and how to use all of the other gadgets with which cars are now equipped.

TB Checkups Very Important

Mr. Smith was a man in his seventies who had always enjoyed good health. Yet he died in the hospital after only two days of illness. His wife was bewildered. What had her husband died of?

The Smith's family doctor said he did not know. The symptoms might mean any one of a number of diseases. Only an autopsy could tell which one.

Mrs. Smith had the usual feeling about an autopsy. But she consented. To the astonishment of herself and her children it was found that, although Mr. Smith had died of heart disease, he also had active tuberculosis! "How could a man with tuberculosis be so well all his life?" the widow asked.

But TB—especially early TB—often gives no warning; you don't feel sick. That is why doctors tell us to have a tuberculin skin test or chest x-ray. The tuberculin test reveals the presence of TB germs in the body; the x-ray shows if damage had been done to the lungs. Both help find TB early, when it is easiest to cure.

Fewer Americans are dying from TB every year, but they are still too many. Mr. Smith you may say, lived his three score years and ten and didn't suffer, so why worry? But Mr. Smith had a family and tuberculosis is an infectious disease.

You don't inherit TB. You aren't born with it. You catch it—from someone who has it—by breathing air with his germs in it, putting in your mouth something he has used that hasn't been sterilized, or kissing him.

When Mr. Smith's autopsy revealed TB, all the members of his family were given chest x-rays and tests for tubercle bacilli. Several were positive to the tuberculin test. His youngest grandchild was found to have active TB and he was treated and cured. Early detection spared the family from further tragedy.

Fire, falls, and falling objects caused about two-thirds of the farm accident deaths in Maine in 1958, reports the Maine Farm and Home Safety Council.

Here...
you'll find a Faith
to live by...

It's quiet inside. Quiet with the peace of centuries, for this is God's House.

Within these walls, the worries which loomed so large outside become less fearsome... for the first time perhaps you see them in their true perspective. If this alone were the reward of Faith, it would be enough. But there is more.

Faith is a source of strength, a reservoir of power that helps you meet the needs of every day. By worshiping with your family each week at your church or synagogue, you're giving them a measure of security no amount of money could buy. The Faith to hope... to grow... to live by.

Build a stronger, richer life...
Worship together every week

You And Your Driving

Pat Boone asks "Are you a safe driver?" Test yourself and the other drivers in your family. You'll find that, no matter how good you are, you can improve your safety practices. This quiz was prepared by driver education experts of the Esso Safety Foundation in cooperation with the "Slow Down and Live" campaign, in which Pat Boone is also participating. This campaign spells out the need for especially safe driving habits when U.S. highways are swelled with touring vacationists.

Passing is 80—but the goal for a really safe driver is 100. Score: 10 points for each correct answer.

YOUR DRIVING PRACTICES

(Underline Yes or No)

1. You are driving behind a bicyclist on a dry pavement. Suddenly he swerves directly in front of you. Should you apply your brakes hard? Yes No
2. When you wish to make a left turn, should you approach and start the turn from the right side of the roadway? Yes No
3. When approaching an intersection, should you yield the right of way to a car that has already entered the intersection from a cross street? Yes No
4. As you are driving down a steep hill on a wet pavement, a car suddenly backs out of a driveway into your lane. Should you apply your brakes hard? Yes No
5. Ordinarily, is it a safe practice to pass on the right? Yes No
6. Should you be prepared to yield the right of way to other drivers, even though they have made driving errors and are in the wrong? Yes No
7. Driving at 50 MPH, you approach an important intersection where there are no traffic lights or stop signs. Should you slow down? Yes No
8. In preparing to make a right turn on a four-lane road, is it a good practice to approach and start the turn from the right-hand lane? Yes No
9. When stuck in deep mud, snow, or sand, is it a good practice to rock your car back and forth to get out? Yes No
10. Should pedestrians be given the right of way when they are crossing against the lights? Yes No
