ity and how friendly American people have been to him since he has been in this country. City Council Chairman Charles Bicknell welcomed him to Rockland in behalf of the City. Those in the receiving line were: Superintendent Kinney, Sadoogh, City Council Chairman Bicknell, Mrs. Avarad Walker, vice chairman of the school directors and Mrs. Merrill. GROSSMAN TO SEEK REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR KNOX COUNTY JUDGE OF PROBATE IN PRIMARY

A. Alan Grossman

Rockland attorney, A. Alan Grossman, 47, became, Friday, the first person to announce intentions of seeking the position as Knox County Judge of Probate at the June Republican primaries.

Grossman, chairman of the board of directors of School Administrative District Five, served on the former Rockland School Board for several years and headed the school district study group. He is a graduate of Worcester, Mass., High School and Suffolk University Law School.

He is a member of the Rockland Kiwanis Club, Masons, Shrine and the Grange, and is president of Adas Yashuron Synagogue in Rockland.

He resides at 41 Willow Street with his wife and two daughters.

Charles T. Smalley, who was appointed to the probate judgeship in 1958 to fill the unexpired term of Charles Dwinah, has not indicated a desire to enter the primaries.

DISCUSSIONS START TO PLACE ROCKPORT IN SCHOOL UNION; MAY MEAN THOMASTON SWITCH

Discussions are underway to solve the problem of assignment of Rockport in a school union now that School Administrative District Five requires the full services of Bruce Kinney. The solution may eliminate an already split union by avoiding creation of a second such union. Deputy Commissioner of Education Kermit Nickerson, pointed out Friday.

A meeting of the joint committee of Union 69, which embraces Camden, Hope and Thomaston, and Nickerson will be held soon to discuss including Rockport and relinquishing Thomaston. The remnants of Union 72, which includes St. George and Cushing, and formerly Owls Head and South Thomaston, will discuss including Thomaston into that union.

However, it is not that simple. The matter of fiscal years comes into the picture and Nickerson offers the following as a possible solution:

That Kinney complete the fiscal year of Rockport and complete his duties on Jan. 31; That the superintendent of Union 69 serve as State Agent until July 1 at which time a change of Thomaston and Rockport into recommended unions could be effected.

Should Thomaston be assigned to Union 72 and Rockport to Union 69, it would mean two contiguous unions rather than two split unions.

At present, Union 72 with only two communities involved does not meet State requirements of a minimum of 35 teachers in a union.

State Engineers Visit Camden To Discuss Dump Area

Camden Town Manager Sterling Morris discussed the problem of the Town Dump with two state sanitary engineers, Wednesday. Residents of the area of the dump, located in Rockport, just over the town line have complained of the smoke and odor from the dump.

The dump, which is maintained by Camden, has been the source of complaints for some time, Morris said. He plans to submit recommendations to the Board of Selectmen very shortly to rectify the situation.

Sometimes a balanced budget is as great an aid to health as a balanced diet.

The only labor saving device that actually gets everything done is the almighty dollar.

Several Posts To Be Filled By Rockland Council

The resignation of Stuart C. Burgess from his post on the City Planning Commission was revealed Friday morning by City Manager Charles Haynes. The position and terms on other city boards, which have expired will be filled by the City Council, Monday evening.

Burgess left the seat on the commission, Haynes stated, because of his new duties as City Solicitor, which he assumed the first of the year due to the resignation of Jerome Burrows.

Other slots to be filled include the ones presently held by: William E. Koster on the Planning Commission; H. Elmer Montgomery, Board of Assessment Review; Frank Kaler, Personnel Examining Board; Christy Adams, Board of Zoning Appeals; Howe Glover, Alfred L. Nichols and Dr. Wesley N. Waggatt, Recreation Advisory Board; and William Glover, Community Building Board of Control.

During the City Council meeting, Monday evening, the final reading of an ordinance to make Masonic and Grace Streets through streets will be enacted upon.

Several orders are also listed on the agenda, authorizing the borrowing and giving temporary loan notes; authorize the transfer of school property to School Administrative District Five; and to write off the 1957 tax lien on the V. F. Studley property.

Appointments of members to various City boards will be handled by the Council.

Maine Sea Goddess Buffalos Panel On Television Show

Miss Nancy Arey, Maine Sea Goddess of 1959, flew to New York on Tuesday to appear on the CBS-TV panel show "To Tell The Truth". Her trip to New York was sponsored by an outboard motor firm.

The master of ceremonies on the show, Bud Collier, informed the panel which was made up of Don Ameche, Polly Bergen, Don Poston and Kitty Carlisle that they were to guess which of three girls was the girl from Maine who was a lobster fisherman. She informed the panel that she worked in the office of a lobster dealer in Rockland and that she was truly a lobsterman, as she went out in her boat from June to September to pull her traps like all other Maine lobstermen.

The panel was not able to pick her from the group and the girls won $1,000 dollars which will be divided among the three.

Committee Submits Proposed Budget Of $662,140 For Study By Directors of School District Five

A proposed gross operating budget for School Administrative District Five of $662,140.47 for 1960 was introduced by the budget committee at a meeting of the board of directors of the district, Thursday evening, in the office of Superintendent of Schools Bruce Kinney. The announcement of committee members and the release of the financial statement for 1959 was also made.

The budget will be discussed again, Jan. 14, by the board before it is submitted to a public hearing of the residents of the three communities in the district, Rockland, Owls Head and South Thomaston, Jan. 28, at Rockland High School, Kinney commented.

The net increase to the district, after the estimated revenue is taken into account would be about $25,000 over the 1959 budget. The increases in the proposed budget covers increased salaries to the teachers and janitors; higher debt service and insurance rates; and additional cost for maintenance to the buildings in the district.

The financial statement of 1959 shows a balance on hand of $19,061.23. The State subsidy amounted to $171,456 and the revenue received was $650,980.92.

Kinney explained the various sections in the proposed budget which would show a jump over the 1959 expenditures. In the administrative article, an additional $300 was added to cover the expense of auditing all the district's books and a new item of $200 was included for a high school student handbook. The items under this heading include salaries for the superintendent, board of directors, office expense and secretaries, for a sub-total of $17,815.

The biggest increase in the budget is sought for salaries, teaching supplies, library and visual aids and textbooks, with a sub total of almost $479,000 and an increase of about $33,000 over the 1959 budget.

The superintendent disclosed that a general pay hike has been recommended for all the teachers and janitors. In addition funds were proposed for facilities in Owls Head and South Thomaston to equalize the pay scale with the one used in the Rockland buildings. An added salary increase was also proposed for payment of professional credits earned during summer school.

An extra $1,000 was also suggested to be added to the library and visual aids provision for the purchase of books and reference material for the high school library as a step toward accreditation of the high school by the State. Increased costs for textbooks on the elementary and secondary level in 1959 caused about a $700 jump in that article, Kinney said.

Under plant maintenance, funds are sought to replace student desks in four rooms as part of a project plan for new and improved school equipment. Items were also placed in the budget to handle the increased rates for use of water and telephone service.

Dr. Russell Abbott, chairman of the study for comparison of figures of a three year as against a four year high school, submitted his report which included an addition of seven rooms onto the new high school for the four year plan. He was assisted by Lloyd Painter and Allard Pierce. Another report from the transportation committee, headed by William Karl, mentioned the problem of conveyance for children in the Pleasant Gardens area. In this group are Mrs. Elisabeth Walker, Melton Sturgess and Irving McConchie. Both reports were tabled for further study.

The directors approved a request of Franklin J. Skillings of Wiscasset to conduct a free 10-week course in navigation at the high school under the sponsorship of the United States Power Squadron.

Kinney added that articles will be included in the warrants of the town of Owls Head and South Thomaston at March Town Meeting time for funds for the hot lunch program in the schools in the respective towns.

A. Alan Grossman, head of the board, stated that a bill will be introduced in the special session of the Legislature to empower the district to take the six remaining lots of land on the site of the new high school by eminent domain, if the need should arise. The new site will be bounded by Broadway, Lawn Avenue and Cedar Street.

Members of the standing committees include: Building use, Chairman Mrs. Margaret Knowlton, Mrs. Elisabeth Walker, Mrs. Marion Colby and C. Maxwell Ames; building requirements, Chairman Mrs. Walker, Ames, Allard Pierce, Irving McConchie and William Karl; finance, chairman Ames, Lloyd Painter and Dr. Russell Abbott.

Also school policies, rules and regulations for the high school, Chairman Painter, McConchie, Dr. Robert Chisholm and Walter Loker; salaries, Chairman Pierce, Mrs. Walker, McConchie, Melton Sturgess, Mrs. Knowlton and Dr. Chisholm; site for the high school, Chairman, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Colby, Karl, Sturgess and McConchie.

Land negotiations, Chairman Karl, Dr. Abbott and Ames; hot lunch advisory group, Chairman Loker, Mrs. Colby, Mrs. Walker and Dr. Abbott; budget, Chairman McConchie, Painter and Pierce; and safety, Chairman Ames, McConchie, Karl and Dr. Abbott.

Response Good To Chamber Appeal Reports Huber

The voluntary contribution campaign designed to put the Rockland Chamber of Commerce back on its feet financially is meeting with good response. President Paul Huber noted Friday that nearly half of the members have contributed and that several others have indicated they will.

The chamber is far from being out of business, Huber observed, and an intensive search is underway to find just the right man to serve as executive secretary. Meanwhile, the chamber is open with the office staff member who served with the former executive secretary caring for the needs of members and the public.

The directors have held five meetings in the past eight weeks and are planning a sound financial and operating basis on which to build the spring and summer activities.

Principals' Group Favors Validating School District

Owls Head Central School was host to Knox County Elementary Principal's Association on Thursday evening, Jan. 7. A discussion of legislative matters was led by President Richard Seymour. The group went on record as recommending that their legislative representatives vote in favor of the validations of the School Administrative District. Principal Harvey Kelley of South School reported to the group the results of the recent representative assembly meeting of Maine Teachers Association which was held in Augusta.

ROCKLAND SAFETY RECORD GOOD

Sgt. Albert Smith of the Rockland Police Department starts the new year in keeping records of accidents by removing pins from a huge city map in the police station which shows the location of accidents and how extensive each one was in relation to property loss and personal injury.

The property damage accrued from motor vehicle accidents in the City of Rockland edged slightly lower in 1959 over the previous year by about $400. Chief Maurice Benner of the Rockland Police Department disclosed Wednesday evening. The municipality went through the 12th year without a pedestrian fatality and the second consecutive year without a fatal aftermath of a motor vehicle collision.

The total property damage of $57,500.70 resulted from 100 accidents, which had a $100 or more loss, and 166 collisions in the less than $100 damage category. Main Street, between Elm and Limerock Streets, was considered the most hazardous section of the city since the most accidents occurred in that space of two blocks.

Eighteen pedestrians were struck by vehicles and 39 occupants of vehicles suffered injuries, ranging from cuts and bruises to fractures, during 1959. The age group which experienced the largest number of pedestrian accidents was the 5 to 14 level with eight. Eleven males and seven females were hit by vehicles, with 14 coming in the daytime and four at night.

Police statistics also revealed a total of 24 hit and run incidents which went from a mere bumper scrap to extensive property damage. The number of accidents also showed a seasonally rise and fall in 1959, with the month of March holding the highest number of 38 and May, the lowest, with 12.

A novel idea was introduced when the municipal offices were relocated at the former Maine Central Railroad Station at Union and Pleasant Streets to keep a constant tag on the growing number of accidents in the city. A map of Rockland, drawn on one inch to 200 feet scale by City Engineer George Traflet, was placed on an eight by four foot support and hung in the hallway in the police station.

The location of the accidents were recorded by different colored pins with red noting pedestrian accident; blue, personal injury; black, accident over $100 damage; and yellow, under $100 damage.

Blue Fins Plan Diving Under Ice On Sunday

Four divers in wet exposure suits of the Knox County Blue Fin Club will attempt to crack the ice and swim under water at Chickawaukie Lake, Sunday afternoon, for the first time in the history of the group.

The club, which boasts a membership of 20 divers, may be called upon for rescue work. Other members of the club will serve as tenders during the demonstration. The four divers will attempt to go either 18 or 20 feet below the surface.

The public is invited to view the exhibition, near the public beach at the Lake area.

SCHOOL BUDGET TIME FOR THREE COMMUNITIES

It's school budget time again with the officials of District 5 preparing for a public hearing at Rockland High School on the evening of January 28. A preliminary discussion has been held by the directors and another is set for January 14 to bring the document to the final stage for public presentation. The gross budget is $662,140.47. It contains increases over last year, which was the first year District 5 operated, totalling some $25,000. District 5 includes Rockland, Owls Head and South Thomaston.

The citizens of the three communities involved are reminded that the budget hearing held by District 5 is open to all citizens of those communities. The vote that night is final and binds each community to pay its proportionate share. There will be no discussion of school budgets in town meetings in Owls Head or South Thomaston. Likewise, there will be no public hearing on school budget through the channels of a Rockland City Council hearing. What is done the evening of January 28 is what we live with for the next year as far as school financing goes. There is not the slightest shred of doubt but what the budget is correct in every way and that the best efforts of the thirteen directors of District 5 have gone into it. We simply remind the people that the days of battling out a budget in town meeting and City Council hearings is gone. District Five's budget hearing covers all three communities.

THREE JOBS GOING BEGGING

The directors of School Administrative District 5 have issued an appeal for police officers to protect the most dangerous crossings over which grade school students have to pass going to and from sessions. A spokesman for the board of directors commented Friday that neither they nor Police Chief Maurice Benner have been able to recruit part time officers after several months of trying.

The job is a part time one and requires about one hour of duty in the morning, at the noon recess, and again as schools let out in mid-afternoon. The pay is three dollars per five days each week for a total of $15 weekly. The locations where control of students crossing the street junctions and control of traffic for their safety include: North School at Broadway, South School at the junction of Holmes Street and Broadway and South Main Street at Holmes Street. Still another, which is not listed by the school directors, could be on Union Street at the junction of Lindsey and Grove Streets where an officer has been on duty in the past. This post has not been filled this year.

Somewhere in the city there are retired men who could fill the posts and serve the city and the youngsters well. The posts are also open to women who have spare time on their hands. Other communities have used women in school traffic control positions with marked success. It could be done as easily here. Those who are interested may contact Police Chief Maurice Benner for full details. The job includes uniforms and storm clothing as well as salary.

Rotary Club News
There was a full turnout of members last Tuesday to hear Dr. Crockett tell about how he "Saw An Eva Pass". It was the era of luxury yachting that ended around 1925 when there were thousands of huge luxurious yachts ranging from 100 feet upwards to 250 feet in length. Many of these yachts used to come into Camden Harbor and Fred had pictures and statistics about them all. Fred's talk and his many pictures provided a nostalgic glimpse into the past.

Guests of the club were Andrew Sides of Rockville and three Camden High seniors, Ray Drinkwater, John Knight and Ralph Grant.

The Camden Rotary Club welcomed into its membership William R. Hardy of Hope and Robert McNair of Chestnut Street, Camden. Robert McNair moved recently to Camden with his family. He is with the New England Telephone Company and before long will probably be well known to many Camden area people. William Hardy, Bill to most people, is the Camden, Appleton and Hope Representative to the Maine Legislature. He is also interested in blueberries, Christmas trees and other agricultural enterprises.

The club expressed its appreciation for the great help Camden High boys were during the last Rotary Club paper drive to raise money for scholarships for Camden students in college. The boys, who rallied around and took much of the strain off aching aging backs were: Steven Thomas, Gilbert Leadbetter, Elmer Heald, David Ames, Jimmy Small, Ralph Stone, John Shaw, Frank Carr, Roland Curtis, Walter Drinkwater, Bill Drinkwater and Bob Lincoln.

Lions Club Notes
Program Chairman Leon Richard Ayers presented a colored movie film entitled "Kruger National Park", which showed the wildlife in the game refuge of Union of South Africa. This was quite a thrilling show and the only difference between the refuge and a zoo was that the animals were free to wander around and the people were instructed to stay in their cars while watching the animals in their natural habitat.

A directors meeting was held after the regular meeting and a new project was discussed.

When money talks to the average man it is at the other end of a long distance phone.

GRANGE NEWS OF KNOX-LINCOLN COUNTIES

By Henry Teague

There was a time within my memory when eggs had two general grades, eatable or rotten. In those days any egg that still had a yolk and white was considered fit to eat. I will admit that the older eggs were used in cooking because they developed odors which did not make them palatable when served as is. Since hens took long rests between laying periods, it was common practice to "put eggs down" in water glass for future use.

Water glass was an every day expression then. It actually was a solution of sodium or potassium silicate and water. This solution formed a glass like coating on eggs which preserved them for several months.

Today the flow of eggs is so steady that very few persons consider the possibility of preserving them. Incidentally there was a second reason for saving eggs in that era. At certain periods of the year eggs were very low in price and at other times very high. Not only did housewives avoid the high prices by the use of water-glass, but farmers were very apt to have several crocks filled with eggs stored away ready to bring out when prices skyrocketed.

I don't think that folks really understood why water-glass preserved the eggs, but today we know that egg shells are filled with tiny pores and inside carbon dioxide gas is a part of the egg and fills the small empty space at the small end of the egg. Warm, dry conditions tend to allow this gas to escape and as this gas escapes the quality of the egg is lowered. For years now the candling process has been used to determine the quality by measurement of this aircell. Water glass sealed the pores and acted as a preservative.

In some areas distant from the eastern markets, eggs are still sealed to hold their quality. The sealer used is an oil sprayed on the eggs. This very light transparent coating of oil is not very noticeable and it does serve the purpose. However, oiled eggs that are older than eggs from nearby points do not come up to the quality of nearby fresh eggs.

Poultrymen in the New England areas have now brought the quality of their eggs up to a point where candling of every egg should not be imperative. However, it is necessary to check the eggs for "blood" and shell defects. We now have an in-plant grading and sizing system at the Hood plant in Waldoboro. The lines of eggs going into the grader pass over bright lights which show up defective eggs which are picked out by an operator on each side of the grader.

To me it is a fast and efficient way to handle eggs. It costs the poultrymen half a cent per dozen for grading, but I am certain that that is less than eggs can be sized on the farm. At the same time it is safe to assume that eggs can be candled at less cost than by the former method of holding eggs up to a light by hand.

I know that some poultrymen like it better while others feel that they would like to have that half cent back on the farm. No matter how some of the farmers feel, it is a progressive step and the practice of in-plant grading is spreading rapidly throughout the East.

Large eggs were supposed to strengthen a little after the first of the year according to predictions. This week large eggs, both brown and white, have reached the lowest point since last May. At 29 cents, they are only three cents above that May record.

Under ordinary conditions, one might predict that the extremely low price of eggs with the current very good price for fowl, might take enough eggs off the market so that we would get a little better egg price. But these are not ordinary conditions and many of us are not quite sure that there is a great big surplus any more.

A good part of the farmers are really backed up to the wall this time. This fact must be well known by egg handlers and many consumers. But it is evident now that nothing is going to push that market up until eggs get so scarce that egg buyers really have to start bidding for them. This is not the answer, but it would help an awful lot right now.

All the average egg farmer wants is prices that are stable enough to give him a living year after year. That is what he is seeking when he favors marketing orders which should control production to some extent.

I have a letter at hand from Professor J. R. Smyth of Orono, secretary-treasurer of the Maine Poultry Improvement Association, naming the committee appointments for that organization. Those from this section receiving appointments are: Charles Kigel, Warren, member of Poultry Day committee; Carl Erickson, Warren, member of Legislative committee; Henry Teague, Warren, member of reorganization committee.

According to the USDA statistical department the poultry industry received $400,000,000 less income in 1959 than in 1958. It is expected that the industry will gain back about $200,000,000 in 1960. This means to the average poultryman that he will not be able to recoup his 1959 losses this year. Not so operator on each side of the grader.

Marketing Expert Speaker At Egg Meeting Tuesday

Howard Whelan

Howard Whelan, manager, egg marketing department, Eastern States Farmers' Exchange, West Springfield, Mass., will be the featured speaker at meetings in Corinna and Union next week.

The Union meeting will be held at Seven Tree Grange Hall at 7:30 Tuesday. The location had to be changed from Thomaston because of a conflict. There will be no supper.

Whelan will discuss the egg marketing program Eastern States offers Maine egg producers. The newly created department is now handling eggs for poultrymen in Southern and Central New England. It has definite plans for operating in Maine.

Dr. Winston E. Pullen of Orono, secretary-treasurer of the Maine Cooperative Council, is arranging the meetings on behalf of the Council. Dr. Pullen is professor of agriculture economics at the University of Maine. Everyone's welcome, he says.

Before going to the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange recently, Whelan served for 20 years as general manager of the Brockton Cooperative Poultry Processors, Inc., at Avon, Mass. The Brockton Co-op had an egg department, poultry processing plant, and farm supply department.

Previously, Whelan had been in charge of poultry work with the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Pullen says that Whelan's many years of experience makes him unusually well equipped to handle the development of an egg marketing program to serve farmers. Cost-price pressures of the last few months have caused grave concern among Maine poultrymen and have forced them to seek ways to cut costs and to increase returns on eggs. These goals may possibly be reached through cooperative effort, points out Dr. Pullen.

Form 1099 Must Be Filed With IRS By Farm Employers

Many Maine farmers evidently don't realize that they may be required to file "information returns" with the Internal Revenue Service.

Lewis E. Clark, Extension Service farm management specialist, University of Maine, today reminded Maine farmers of this requirement. Any farmer who, in the course of his business, pays $600 or more to an individual for wages, interest, or rent during the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1959, is required to file the returns. He must file Internal Revenue Form 1099 for each such individual.

The Extension specialist said that one copy must be filed and one copy furnished to each person receiving payments. In addition, Form 1096, which is a summary sheet, is used to transmit the Forms 1099 to the address shown in the instructions received with the forms.

Deadline for the Internal Revenue Service to receive these completed forms is Feb. 28, 1960, added Clark.

OCEAN VIEW GRANGE By Nancy Link

Ocean View Grange of Martinsville held its first meeting of 1960 on Jan. 4 with Past Master George Fay, Sr., in the chair. Plans were made for conferring the first and second degrees on a class of candidates at the next meeting, Jan. 11. Mrs. Phyllis Chadwick Ceres, announced the refreshment committee for this meeting, consisting of Mrs. June Watts, Miss Marilyn Wiley and Mrs. Virginia Wall. Mrs. Virginia Fay, lecturer, listed program plans for January and February, and it was decided to hold a jewelry party during the lecturer's hour later this month. A card was signed and sent to Mrs. Rachel Routledge who is ill.

LOUDVILLE

On Monday afternoon, Lettie Prior enjoyed a visit from Mrs. Kenneth Gifford.

The winter term of school began here on Dec. 28.

On New Year's Eve, a party of friends gathered at the home of Kenneth Gifford to watch television and to see the old year out and the new year in. Promptly at 12 midnight, they called up Mrs. Viola Poland at Marsh Island. Some who called were her daughters and wished her a Happy New Year.

Mrs. Cecil Prior is still a patient at Miles Memorial Hospital. Her friends hope that she may be

Poultry Income Down 10 Million Extension Reports

Maine's poultry income was down about 10 million dollars in 1959, according to preliminary estimates, reported today Frank D. Reed, poultry marketing specialist of the Extension Service, University of Maine.

Poultry products for the past several years have led all Maine farm products in value of farm marketings. They'll return about 69 million dollars to Maine in 1959, compared to 79 million in 1958.

The cut in income is due almost entirely to the disastrous prices experienced during the past year, said Reed. Egg prices were 10 cents a dozen below the previous year, and broiler prices nearly two cents a pound lower.

Volume of broilers produced in Maine in 1959 is estimated at nearly 58 million birds—up 24 per cent from 1958. However, the lower price received resulted in about 24 million dollars less total income.

Maine's egg production decreased slightly in 1959—down 1.4 per cent, Reed said. This cut in volume, combined with the price decrease, meant a reduction of about $6,600,000 in egg income.

Fowl, farm chicken, and turkeys also show a reduction in receipts, bringing the total poultry income to 10 million dollars below 1958.

Maine producers hope for a more favorable price situation in 1960. While egg prices are at the lowest level for this time of year since World War II, they're expected to edge higher in the next few months. This is because of the seven per cent reduction in pullets raised this past spring and summer. Hatching egg prices have already advanced substantially and broiler prices currently are favorable.

Because of the disastrous price situation, many egg producers find themselves in a position where there's no money available to raise a new crop of pullets this spring. This may result in a curtailment in the hatch of replacement pullets this year. This also should help eventually to improve egg prices, said the Extension specialist.

On Friday, when Winfield Carter and Charles Poland were hauling their traps they saw an animal jump in the bushes on Bar Island, so they went ashore as they thought it might be a pet cat that had gotten astray but they soon discovered that it was not a cat but a fox. After much effort they got him cornered near the rocks, and he soon took to the water and they shot him.

Walking has been very hard here since the snow storm. Travel has been mostly on snowshoes but on Saturday afternoon Lettie Prior had a surprise visit from Mrs. Dorothy Murphy, Mrs. Evelyn Gifford, Mrs. Yolanda Elwell and Mrs. Priscilla Poland. They knew that Mrs. Prior was alone and probably lonely. This visit from these young friends was much enjoyed and appreciated by Mrs. Prior.

A Bright Christmas

'Twas the night before Christmas when the lights of the square. Were finally turned on, lighting the four trees there.

They twinkled and sparkled like stars through the night. And their dazzling brilliance was a beautiful sight.

The houses nearby were filled with laughter and cheer. For the children all knew, Santa soon would be here.

'Twas the work of the boys of 4-H Club - "Pine Tree". Who made this possible for all to see.

To these lads and their leader, by rhyme and reason, Many thanks are due this holiday season.

At midnight Thursday, the lights were still bright and clear. To wish one and all - A Happy New Year!

Now, they'll come down and be packed away. And await a whole year for the next Christmas Day.

invitation of the bells

America is a land of bells!

Wedding bells, door bells, dinner bells, school bells, sleigh bells... all speak of a country where Freedom from tyranny exists.

Radio chimes keynote freedom of speech as commentators broadcast the news. Typewriter bells ring out freedom of the press. And church bells, whether they be the musical chimes from a cathedral's spire, or the ding dong from the steeple of a village chapel, typify freedom of religion.

Churches throughout the land are open to all. Inside their doors, we cast aside the fetters of worry that shackle our hearts in this atomic age. We find strength and courage to face the unknown future. Our faith, hope and trust in God, who says, "Fear not; for I am with thee," is renewed and peace fills our anxious souls.

Let us accept the invitation of the bells to "Come and worship," and go to church regularly.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

It's Your Move

By Edward L. Moffitt

The purpose of this column is to bring the world of chess a little closer to the enthusiasts of the game in this area.

Recently, I talked with the Camden YMCA and they told me that it will probably be another month and a half or two months before they can resume their chess club activities.

There appears to be no organized chess club in Thomaston though there are a number of loose players, that is, players who outside of the one or two people they usually play with have no contact with other players. What happened to the chess club that was around a few years ago in the Thomaston area?

In Rockland, there is some activity, scattered, but still it is there. During the early part of this year there was a club at the high school. They haven't played as a group recently but the organization still exists.

Following is an exposition on chess notation. In reading and understanding the games to appear in this column, and as far as that goes in reading almost any book on chess, you will find it extremely valuable to know.

How To Read It And Write It

Descriptive Chess Notation

The notation system is used to permanently record the moves of a game of chess, so as to make them available for future reference and study.

The chess board is composed of 64 alternately light and dark squares; when playing remember there has to be a white square in the right hand corner of your side of the board.

The rows of squares which run vertically are called files and the rows of squares which run horizontally are called ranks.

Now, count over from either side of the board four files and you will find the center vertical line of the board. On the square to the left of the line is the queen, so the four files on that side of the board are termed the queen's side. On the square to the right of the center line is the king, so the four files on the right are called the king's side of the board.

Going to the left from the center line you find in order of their appearance the queen (Q), the queen's bishop (QB), the queen's knight (QN), and the queen's rook (QR). Going to the right of the center line you find in the order of their appearance the king (K), the king's bishop (KB), the king's knight (KN), and the king's rook (KR). The pawn is named from the piece it sits in front of at the start of the game or the square it sits on later in the game.

The eight ranks are numbered from one to eight, counting from white's first rank in white's case and from black's first rank in black's case.

Here is a brief sample of how chess notation is used:

1. P-K4 white and P-K4 black

This means white has moved the pawn in front of his king to the fourth square of his king's file. The (P) in the notation needs no further explanation because there is no other pawn that could go to the king's fourth square. Black makes a similar first move.

2. B-QB4

White has only one bishop that can be moved at this stage in the game so he takes that bishop and moves diagonally across the board to the fourth square in the queen's bishop's file. Remember you are doing all your counting from your side of the board.

The sign for moving to a certain square is (=)

The sign for a capture is (x)

Check is (ch) and checkmate (mate)

The following is an elementary game:

The purely for illustration:

1. P-K4 white and P-K4 black

2. B-QB4 white and N-QB3 black

3. Q-KB3 white and P-Q3 black

4. QxP mate white

Alien Reporting

Forms Are Due,
Doughty Reminds

C. C. Doughty, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, today urged all aliens in Maine who have not yet filled out alien address report forms, to do so before Jan. 31 at the nearest Immigration Service office or local post office.

The Immigration official pointed out that the law requires all non-citizens, except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to certain international organizations, such as the United Nations, and aliens here temporarily as agricultural contract laborers, to report their address to the government each January.

Doughty added: "The parent or legal guardian of an alien child under 14 years of age must fill out the address report form for such a child in order to comply with the law."

He declared: "We have tried to make it as convenient as possible for non-citizens to meet the address report requirements; and, in view of serious penalties for willful violation, all persons subject to the address report law are urged to fulfill this obligation before the end of January."

Doughty advised: "It is easy for an alien to meet this requirement. He just goes to the nearest Immigration Service office or post office, fills out the address report form, and returns it to the clerk. Any noncitizen who is ill may send a friend or relative to obtain the card for him, and return it to the clerk after it has been completed by the alien."

The Immigration official said "13,000 aliens in Maine already have filled out address reports." He estimated that 19,000 such reports will be submitted before Jan. 31.

Martinsville

Christmas is over and everyone has settled down again to the daily routine of a more normal existence.

At the Ridge Church a beautiful Cantata was put on the Sunday evening before Christmas. About 25 members of the Ridge Church and Christian Advent Church choir took part. Mrs. William Reinhardt did a wonderful piece of work as director in training the group in the various selections. The choir members wore black choir robes and stood on the platform in the front of the church. The front of the platform was decorated with lovely greens and poinsettias. At the rear of the platform, a tall floor lamp with white shade was placed in each corner. It was a beautiful setting for the music.

Pictures illustrating the different selections were projected on the side front wall. The organ, a little to one side, was banked with small trees. The program was preceded by a pot luck supper in the dining room of the church. Members from both congregations attended.

The Tuesday evening following the Cantata, a program was given by the children of the church. Santa appeared at the proper time and caused much excitement among the children. Some of the smallest ones were very anxious to go outside to see the reindeer. After the gifts were taken from Santa's pack and the tree, refreshments were served downstairs in the dining room. It was an occasion enjoyed by young and old.

Mrs. Florence Cook, who has been a patient at Knox Hospital and York's Nursing Home in Rockland, has returned home and will be with Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Cook during her convalescence. It is hoped that she will have a speedy recovery.

Rockland Firemen Establish Welfare Fund

The captain of the call division of the Rockland Fire Department, Earl G. Simmons, center, explains the operation of apparatus to the department's aerial truck to the other officers of the division, Monday evening, following the annual meeting. They are from left to right: Bertram Snow, secretary-treasurer; Harold Widdecombe, second lieutenant; Robert Widdecombe, first lieutenant; and James Thomas, third lieutenant.

The annual meeting of the Rockland Fire Department, Monday evening, saw the adoption of a new welfare fund and the election of officers for the call division.

The new welfare fund was established to afford relief to members of either the permanent or call divisions at any time they sustain injuries in the discharge of their duties, or to their families in the event of their decease.

Appointed by Chief Wesley Knight to head the call division again was Captain Earl G. Simmons. Elected by the department were: Bertram Snow, secretary-treasurer; Robert Widdecombe, first lieutenant; Harold Widdecombe, second lieutenant; and James Thomas, third lieutenant.

The officers of the welfare fund are: James Thomas, president; Bertram Snow, secretary-treasurer; and Deputy Chief Lewis Phillips, Assistant Chief James York, Ronald Thurston, the officers and Chief Wesley Knight as members of the board of management. Phillips was named chairman of the board.

Provisions in the charter for the new fund state that disbursements shall not be made until the balance available exceeds $3,000 at which time only the interest received from investments shall be used as an operating fund.

Drafts for funds, which shall be signed by two members of the board of management, shall not exceed $25, with no member eligible for compensation in any one year exceeding $100, unless prior authorization is made by a vote of three-fourths majority of members present. The heirs of a member who has died in the line of duty shall also be entitled to receive $100.

Money to build the fund will come from monthly dues and penalties accrued when members of the call division fail to report for drill, Chief Knight said.

Chief Knight also added that the call division is presently accepting applications for four more firemen, to bring the division's strength up to 26 men.

special investigator for the Attorney General. He had previously been employed by the Vickers. He came here with his wife and four oldest children in 1935. Mrs. Bell was the former Jessie Wilson of Gardiner.

The Bells have five children, Nathalie, wife of Roland Hahn, and Charles who is married and lives in Tokyo, Japan, where he is employed at an Air Base. Roy, 2nd is married and has four children, Martin, Marie, Michael, and Mathew. His wife was Miss Lorraine Baker and they live in Lynnwood, near Whitesville, Mass. James married Miss Margaret Donnelly, and lives in Manchester, Conn., as does Jack the youngest of the family, who is single.

Roy, Sr., has been very active in Republican activities since he arrived here. He has served as chairman of the town committee. Mrs. Bell is employed in the Senter-Crane Store in Rockland. Both parents and children of the Bell family are very popular. Roy, Sr., has been commander of the Williams-Brasier Post, American Legion.

The next house, as one ascends the hill, is what we call the Cliff Clark house, but which was called the Metcalf house for the first 25 or 30 years of its existence.

Metcalf was the son of William and Sarah Day Metcalf of Nobleboro, and he married Mary Wormell, whose family lived above the prison in what we think of as the Young house, east of the State Highway offices. This William was the father of the William who built the Fred Burnham house. And by the way, this house was long the property of George Frisbee before Burnham bought it.

Mrs. Strong's story in The Courier-Gazette in 1936 tells of a Clarissa Metcalf, daughter of the Metcalf who lived in the Clark house around 1880 whom she calls "Class" and says that she kept house for her father and took shipyard workers for boarders. Mrs. Strong wrote that Class was noted for her wit, sociability and good cooking. An item in The Courier-Gazette during 1887 told of Clarissa celebrating her 55th birthday so she must be the Martha C. referred to by Eaton, born in 1832. All of these are long since deceased.

Some time in the 1880's Clifford Clark bought this place and came here to live. He was twice married, first to Miss Ida Robinson of South Warren who was the mother of his older children, Merritt, who married a Miss Smalley and lived in Tenants Harbor and died there, Edna who died in infancy, Geneva (Mrs. Eck) who died in 1942, and Miss Lella Clark, of whom we told in the Scrapbook of Dec. 22.

His second wife was Lucy Watts Clark, who died not long ago. Lucy's mother, Marion Allen Watts lived to be well along in her 90's and had a brother, Albion Allen of Hope, who was nearly if not quite 101 years old when he died.

When the Knox and Lincoln Railroad was put through town, there was a trestle that crossed Green Street so near the house that Cousin Lucy could reach out from her chamber window and touch the trestle. Wrote Mrs. Strong, "At the North of this house, and close to it, trains thunder by on the track, which is on a trestlework over the street and to the south of the Willard property (the Irving Condon place). That trestle was out of fun for the boys and the girls of tomlorow age."

By his second wife Lucy, Cliff Clark had two children, Leslie, who died in 1923 and Mrs. Helen Pottle of Needham, Mass. Cliff Clark was well known and very much liked. He had horses and did a rock teaming business. There was, during his life, a large barn on the place, which like so many of our New England barns has disappeared.

The next house, that on the corner of Green and Cross Streets, and now the home of Mrs. Ruth McLain, was built by the late Frank Hunter, who lived here for years during the last two decades of the last century. His oldest daughter, Aggie, had a class in the Methodist Sunday School and married Benjamin Copeland, the youth who used to ride about town on an old fashioned bicycle with the front wheel some four or five feet high and the rear wheel about one foot high. The seat was above the front wheel. I have been told by my father, who had one of the contraptions in his youth, that a "header" from one of those wheels was something to remember. In my boyhood the bicycles such as are used now, were called safety bicycles.

Well, Ben and Aggie had a church wedding and moved away to Massachusetts, I believe, and had a little boy who died while still a little fellow. Frank Hunter, 2nd, about my age, was a friend of mine and he moved away when the Hunter family left town.

He visited town a few years ago and looked up familiar places and wherever he could find of his old acquaintances. There were two younger sisters, rather good looking brunettes, as I remember.

After the Hunters left town, the late Charles Brackett, long an employee of the Maine Central Railroad, bought the place and moved here from the tenement over the station.

He raised a good family, of whom only two are now living, Mrs. Elizabeth Moody of Cedar Street, Rockland, and Percy, who lives on Thomaston Street of that city. More details of this family were presented in the Scrap Book of Aug. 15, 1959.

After the death of Charles and Edith Brackett, their son Winfield, a druggist, and one of our town's best boys, came here to live. He married Ruth, daughter of Charles and Lizzie Welt Robinson of South Warren. Winfield had been a partner in the Whitney and Brackett Drug Store, which business was started in the Telegraph Block in 1857. After Ralph Whitney's death, the store became known as Brackett's, by which name it is still designated. Winfield died in 1942.

Mrs. Ruth Brackett later married Capt. Charles McLain of New Harbor, who died in 1952, after years of illness following a stroke.

Mrs. McLain taught for many years in Thomaston, and had taught some time out of the State. She was known to be a teacher of ability. After her retirement from the teaching profession she kept a gift shop for years, first in Knox Hotel and later in the Jordan Block.

This house must be some 75 years old, not nearly so old as some on the street.

F. L. S. Morse

P.S. It should have been stated in the story of Lella Clark's home in the Jameson house on Green Street, as told in the Scrap Book of Dec. 22, that Isaac Jameson had a daughter, Clara May, who married Wallace Smalley and died in Worcester, Mass., in 1942.

The Christmas holiday has been an exciting time here. Beautiful concerts and Christmas celebrations have been held in all the churches. The Cantata at the Ridge Church was the "big affair"; 20 or more taking part in the event. Beautifully costumed and meticulously handled—everyone is hoping to see another. It has been many a year since such an elaborate event was presented and many of us "old timers" thought they were a thing of the past in this community.

Santa Claus was ever knowing as he presented gifts to the little ones at the Ridge Church. He must have centered a lot of his time in this area, for listening posts, long before Christmas for he knew all the children.

Billy Anderson was home on leave for the Christmas holidays. Jimmy Rand and his bride spent a few days of their honeymoon here with his mother, Mrs. George Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoness Harford and children, Andrea and Wendy, spent Christmas with their aunt, Mrs. William Heal, bringing home their grandmother, Mrs. Rosa Seavey, who had spent a month with them at Bayside, Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Percy and children, Lynn, Michael and Shane, spent Christmas with Rev. and Mrs. Sawyer, who were leaving for Florida the next day.

The weather, dekre wise, hasn't been too bad, but the winds! I am minus a dormer window and storm door, and the house looks like a child who has lost its front teeth. I am pinning my hopes on Jimmy Chadwick who says he will repair it soon. Sunday we had another gale with rain (more rain!) Had it been snow, I wouldn't have had to worry about windows—we would have been buried to the roof tops.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Marshall visited friends last weekend—drove "down" from Boston that beautiful Sunday—awaiting Monday to see a blinding snowstorm. We were happy to have them with us the extra day.

Sunday was the first day I have seen Howard Monaghan to speak with since the fire. Howard says everything is coming along fine—the building is larger and arranged more conveniently for his customers. Certainly a "good neighbor spirit" in the community—everyone chipped in and cleared the way for the new building. The St. George Fire Department did well to hold that fire to a small one—gale winds sent spinning embers everywhere.

School started Monday and again we have that strange quietness in the village which reminds me of the first day my son started school—oh, the silence—I could hardly wait for him to get home and make some noise, the noise I was forever rushing a few days before.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Chadwick and family of East Hartford, Conn., are spending a few days with Mrs. Vera Powell.

The Public Says . . .

CHIDES

ROCKPORT NEIGHBORS

Rockland, Maine

To The Editor:

I cannot blame the Rockport School Board for resigning. I do not feel that their logic was defeated in the school election, the town merely postponed the logic of better overall schooling for a year or two and then force of circumstances will again bring up the issue. The vote was a sort of cutting off ones nose to spite ones face. Nobody likes to lose individuality but one cannot individually maintain the higher standard of schooling which is obtainable by overall community groups pooling resources to make available to all what no one can individually afford. There seems to have been the opinion in Rockport that combined schooling is a mass production machine which will make of their children numbered units devoid of personality or individual character. This is an old wives tale which can easily be disproved. One has a far greater chance being a notable individual character if one has the benefits of the greater and more varied education which a big machine can bring about, and which a small one cycle engine cannot inject.

There is no doubt but that one good teacher to every ten pupils would be ideal, but there are few people in Knox County or the nation for that matter who can afford highly skilled private schooling. It may be that Rockport can afford this. Could be that they may have 5 millionaires with big estates living there which they can tax heavily or maybe they have a giant steel plant there which can be taxed heavily. Could be that I am getting blind and hard of hearing for I have not noticed any such highly taxable property around. I best drive up this afternoon and look around some of those back roads. Could be they are hidden in the woods some place. If I find such to be true I will become a Rockport citizen at once and vote against joint schooling from now until doomsday or at least as long as a rich income from taxes was obtainable. I have a vague fear that my search will not discover such a gold mine, so I will remain a Rockland voter and vote that we pool our pennies hoping to make an intellectual buck as a result.

I don't know why I should heckle my Rockport friends, but then, why not as long as they asked for it. This is no longer that wonderful age when one could sit around the pot bellied stove in Lottie Ewell's Rockville store. That has gone along with the horse collar. We are in the age of atomized power. This energy is a highly volatile. To learn how to use it and control it needs all the education we can possibly afford. It needs the use of every skill, talent and culture which can be brought about by joint dispensation of greater knowledge. We are no longer an isolated country, we are a close unit to the rest of the globe. We need more time to educate ourselves to know how to live and trade in this vast complexity. We cannot ask for more time to remedy past faults of neglected education, we can only barter for time and try to learn as efficiently and well as possible by group concentrated effort now, not yesterday. Yesterday was fine but you cannot go back to the one room school, the horse collar or the pot bellied stove. If you want to go back to those ways of life you are dreaming, but if you want to reminisce I will send you a picture to dream by, but don't think for a second it is ever coming back.

While I am on the education subject which I think of as a vital necessity to global relations culturally as well as in trade and diplomatic relations, I want to add one more point. The teaching of languages has been neglected in public schools, for that matter it is not of existence to any degree of worth. To deal with the world in business, diplomacy or simply as a tourist one is 300 per cent ahead of the game by knowing at least a rough basic of the language of the country one is dealing with. In most European schools English is compulsory, in fact many Europeans speak better English than we do at home. Yet we are so self confident and snobbish as to completely ignore world languages. We would like to do business with other countries but we think it unnecessary to learn their languages or cultures. Rather naive if not outright stupid. German, Japanese and South America business men come to America on business missions, invariably they all speak the English language at least well enough to be understood. Americans travel the globe looking for business and everywhere they go they have to hire an interpreter to talk for them. A helluva way to do business, when one doesn't even know how to talk to the guy you're trying to sell a yind of goods to. I cannot imagine Senter-Crane's hiring a sales girl who didn't know one word of English, yet we send salesmen and diplomats out to the world who are mutes as far as tongue of a foreign country is concerned.

Young children pick up languages as easy as rolling off a log. Foreign tongues should be started in primary school when they are easy to learn at least phonetically, the cultural use comes later, but the need is to ease ones tongue into foreign phrasing and this young children can do ten or a hundred times easier than mature adults. We cannot afford competent foreign instructors but we can afford language records which give a rough basic use of the language.

THOMASTON SCRAP BOOK MAKES HISTORY LIVE AS EDITED BY LEE MORSE

By F. L. S. Morse

Green Street incidents

In the Thomaston stories of the past two months the western side of Green Street from Main Street to Water Street has been described. Before the eastern is covered, let us consider two episodes that took place on the steep part of the hill at the lower part of the street. This part of the street is truly precipitous. Automobiles are gently eased down over the last few rods by careful, or we might say, timid motorists.

Some years ago, the late William W. Gilchrist with Verne Beckett left their automobile by the side of the road near the Coogan house, where Gilchrist lived. In the car was one Lloyd Beckett. Yes, the same buoyant, brown eyed person who sells stamps and money orders in the Thomaston Post Office, only many years younger. Nobody would have believed that so young a child would have the strength, sagacity or courage to release the brakes.

Lloyd, however, never lacked any one of these qualities so essential to success. So the brakes were released, and the car started on its frightful dash for the undertomb. It zig-zagged in its course, breaking down the walks over the ditches, hitting the culverts, cutting off the iron post near Tip Smith's house, giving a flying leap across Water Street, its left wheels landing on the plank walk to the sail loft, then tipping into the hole beside the sail loft, the plank walk and the bank to the west, the car rested on its nose. Lloyd was uninjured.

Some writers, at this point, might try to be funny with flippancy comment, unkind but perhaps not uncalled for.

I understand that he has been a reasonably careful driver but he certainly made a wild start. So when he greets us in his breezy manner, think for a moment when he could have won the prize as the youngest dare-devil motorist on record.

The other episode was when the late Billy Winspaw was driving down the hill in the horse and buggy days. The breeching broke and the vehicle ran against the horse, accelerating his swift and desperate course over the steepest part of the hill so much faster than driver or beast would have chosen to travel. Unable to stop at Water Street, the whole rig piled up on the shore near the sail loft. Neither driver nor horse were badly injured, as I heard it told, but it is almost unbelievable.

Green Street—East Side

The Thomaston map of 1855 shows only six houses from Water Street to Lowell Street, now called Hyler Street. These were owned by Mrs. Nathan Hatch, William Metcalf, Charles C. Morton, Charles Leimond, Joseph Norris and Charles Dorkendoff. The 1875 map showed two houses below Cross Street and these still stand and are occupied.

The house now owned by Roy Bell was probably built for Nathan Hatch, who was the son of Nathan and Jane Stetson Hatch of Robinson in Washington County.

Jane was the daughter of Caleb Stetson and granddaughter of William Stetson, first of the name to come to Thomaston, well before 1800. Jane's sister Mary married Seth Gerry, who built ships near the foot of Knox Street. Hatch married Nancy Starnes. He was very prominent in the Methodist Church and with Nathaniel Moody bought the land where the Methodist Church was built in the 1850's. He died in 1854, aged 35, and four years later his wife died, aged 31. The place was sold to settle the estate in 1859.

Rufus C. Sumner, who bought the Hatch place, was the son of Capt. Seth Sumner of Warren. He married Mary Jordan in December of 1850. She was the daughter of William and Sarah Bucklin Jordan.

The Sumners had a daughter, Sadie, a very good and very charming woman who married Fred Hinkley, a stone cutter, who died shortly before the birth of his only child, Fred Hinkley, whom we know as Bud.

Fred (Bud) Hinkley grew up in our town and was educated in our schools and was very popular, as he well deserved to be. For many winter seasons he worked in hotels in Bermuda, but is now employed by the celebrated Parker House in Boston, where I believe, he has an important supervisory position in the accounting department. Fred married a Miss McIntyre. I believe her name is Mary, and they have two daughters.

When Rufus Sumner was an old man, he kept a sort of neighborhood store in the home, where he sold tobacco and candy and such things so necessary for old men and small children. He was fond of children, and had a sort of mechanical toy with which he entertained his young friends. In his more active days he had been a clerk.

I have been told that at times the Sumners rented a part of the house and that Capt. Leander Whitmore lived here at one time. The present owner and occupant of the house is Roy Bell, hospital supervisor at the Maine State Prison. Bell was born in Whitman, Maine, but came here from Augusta, where he had been
