Pressed Board Plant Sought For County

A charter member of the Knox County Industrial and Development Association was elected its president at its annual meeting in Rockland Tuesday night. Lawrence Whitney of Appleton also is a former selectman of that town. The new officers relax before the annual meeting. A pressed board plant for Knox County to make use of the area's now wasted wood products will be sought by the Knox County Industrial and Development Association, it was decided at that group's annual meeting, Tuesday night. The Association also will present displays of county-made products at the Maine Seafoods Festival and at Union Fair. Lawrence Whitney of Appleton was elected president of the association of which he has been a member since its formation. Other officers are Robert Heald of Union, first vice president; Archer Scribner of Thomaston, second vice president; and Sterling Morris of Camden, secretary and treasurer. It was pointed out at the meeting a pressed board plant could make use of slabs, bark, chips and types and sizes of pulp not marketable to paper mills. There is a great deal of

North Haven Is Hauled Out For Routine Check

A six months check a month early is being made on the island ferry North Haven. Acting manager Richard Spear of the Maine State Ferry Service said the craft was hauled out at 40-Fathom Fisheries yard Tuesday for a routine going over and paint job.

Spear explained if the service waited the full six months the check would come late in June, during a very busy period.

Several small maintenance jobs will be carried out and the hull will be repainted. If the weather holds, she should be back in service Friday or Saturday, Spear said. The Everett Libby is now handling both runs.

A hole in the wooden-planked dock area left when the terminal originally was built is being filled in. The section was not decked over to save construction costs. When the new slip was built some materials were left over and are being used by Oliver Curtis to finish the original job. It presented somewhat of a hazard, Spear said, despite a rail around it.

Inside the terminal building, the office has been enlarged to handle the business details of the complete ferry service. It was built to take care of only the old North Haven and Vinalhaven boats. A supply room for the service also has been set up in a portion of the freight shed.

Council Step To Halt School Bond Referendum Election Dropped After Flurry Of Special Meetings

A flat statement by the First National Bank of Boston that it would not handle any bonds for any Maine school district as long as litigation remained in the courts very nearly turned plans of School Administrative District 5 to hold a bond issue referendum upside down this week. A special meeting of the Rockland City Council, Monday, was ready to call off the election; a special meeting of the District 5 board, Tuesday, reaffirmed its call for an election; and finally, Wednesday, the council decided to let the whole thing blow over and let the election order stand.

It started on Monday when City Manager Charles Haynes telephoned the First National Bank of Boston to inquire about the status of the proposed $1,250,000 bond issue in regard to its possible saleability. The bank which is the fiscal agent for SAD 5 called back after conferring with its attorneys, the same firm that has been giving other bond agents opinions, that no district capital improvement bonds could be issued as long as litigation involving school districts remained in Maine courts.

The Town of Liberty has gone to the courts to try to withdraw from SAD 3. The case is before the State Supreme Court on a procedural issue. The council had scheduled a special meeting to consider a proposal to change ordinances governing licensing taxis so put the matter of whether or not to go through with the election on the agenda.

District 5 Board Chairman A. Alan Grossman and Superintendent Bruce Kinney asked the council to delay any such action until the school board could meet. They pointed out that if such was true they too did not want an election.

The council pointed out the election would cost $500 and would not be of any value if the bonds could not be sold. On Tuesday night the directors of District 5 voted to reaffirm their stand on calling for an election and decided to go to the completion of the recessed session on Wednesday. Council Chairman Charles E. Bicknell, II, said there seems to be some confusion on information and asked the school district what they had obtained Tuesday from the First National Bank of Boston.

District 5 Chairman Grossman brought a telegram from the bank which stated that the present state municipal bond market and possible favorable court action next month make it sensible to go ahead with plans of District 5.

Grossman pointed out it is within the province of the Supreme Court to issue a dictum and settle the whole matter at the June sitting. Pressures from all over the State make it reasonable to assume the court will take some action, he stated. The board chairman said he felt sure it would be favorable.

The question was raised if the council had the authority under law to refuse to call an election. Chairman Bicknell acknowledged that the law states municipal officers SHALL call a referendum within 30 days of being presented a warrant. When asked if the council had any choice, he responded that the council could refuse and force SAD 5 to seek a writ of mandamus, then appeal the writ to delay matters as long as possible. "Sometimes we don't agree with the law," he added.

The school board pointed out the delays that not holding a referendum could entail; in marketing bonds once the air is cleared; and in starting to build because final architects plans were not complete.

Seth Low, a former State Senator who was involved in the passage of the Sinclair Act, urged the council not to flaunt the law and create any further delay. "I feel so strongly in the need for improving our high school situation that if there is any chance to get these bonds marketed soon it is worth the $500 cost of the election," Low said. "It is the best sort of gamble," he added.

Marsh Heads Group Seeking Funds To Send Rockland High Debate Team To California

Henry Marsh is heading the fund raising campaign which has as its goal the sending of the championship Rockland High School debating team to national competition in San Diego, California, next month. A former city councilor and school board member, Marsh is currently the director of economic development for the City and has long been known for his interest in youth programs.

The championship debating team, under the direction of Mrs. George Trafton, not only took the Maine championship, but swept the regional debating competition at the University of New Hampshire.

Working closely with Marsh is the Toastmasters Club, the members of which are keenly interested in speech and debating. The club has arranged an exhibition debate at the high school auditorium the evening of May 31 to raise funds for the trip. Taking part will be the debating champions of Maine, Donald Gregory, David Gregory, Wayne Johnson and William Beale. All admissions will be contributed to the fund.

Marsh plans solicitation of the business and industrial establishments in the City for contributions toward the necessary $1,500 fund. High school students are believed ready to hold affairs, the income of which would go to the fund. The school committee of District 5 is to consider giving some assistance and it is possible that the State of Maine may be solicited for a contribution, as has been the case when musical groups from schools were to represent the State at national events.

The head of the committee urges the general public to participate through cash contributions. They may either be mailed to him—Henry Marsh, Post Office Box 446, Rockland, or mailed to or left at the office of The Courier-Gazette. Checks should be made out to the Rockland High School Debating Club.

Thirty-six schools across the nation have been selected to compete in the National Forensic League debates at the University of San Diego June 21 through 24. The other New England school is Lacombe High School in New Hampshire.

Arrangements for the trip are being made by the Charles Kalloch Travel Agency of Rockland.

Early contributions have been those of Mr. Marsh whose check for $10 started the fund and the gift of $50 from The Courier-Gazette. As funds are donated, they will be listed in following editions.

Warren Decides To Solve High School Crowding By Erecting New Building

WARREN—Voters of Warren decided to build a new high school building at a special town meeting held Monday evening. The first vote on the issue resulted in a 52-51 decision to build. Later, after the remainder of the articles had been passed on, a vote to reconsider passed by 33-29 and the vote to build a new school again passed, this time by a 36-33 margin. The smaller second vote was due to many voters having left the hall before it was taken.

The first article in the warrant resulted in the election of Albert E. MacPhail of Owls Head as moderator.

Voters then approved the proposal to discontinue the present ninth grade as of July 1; article three, which called for the Warren School Committee to enter into an agreement with the Union School Committee for the education of Warren's ninth graders was then approved.

Approval of article four gave the Warren School Committee the authorization to transport Warren's ninth grade pupils to Union and it was voted to raise and appropriate the sum of $3,000 for this purpose.

Named to a building committee were Howard Crockett, Carl Erickson, Walter Starrett, Earl Gammon, and Vernon Jordan. The sum of $5,000 was voted for their use to hire an architect, obtain plans and costs estimates, and recommend a site. Their findings are to be presented to some future town meeting.

The present school investigating committee was discontinued and articles seeking use of a room in the Baptist Church vestry for school use, and raising the sum of $3,000 for the use of the room were passed over.

Two New Stores To Open On Camden's Main Street During The Month of May

CAMDEN — Two new retail businesses will open their doors in Camden this month. One, a retail store for the J. A. Brewster Company, will hold its opening on Saturday. The other, a branch of the A & A Sporting Goods of Portland will open later in the month.

J. A. Brewster's which has been in the shirt and sportswear manufacturing business since 1933, will carry not only its own line of clothing for men, women and children but also will handle other lines to offer a complete sportswear selection at 5 Main Street on the Square.

A & A Sporting Goods will open its door a short distance up Main Street in the former Central Maine Power Company store which is now owned by the Smiling Cow. The firm, which handles a complete line of sporting goods, has obtained Joseph Talbot, Sr., as manager. Joe, as he is known throughout Knox County, was a Moosehead Lake guide for 17 years. He served four years as president of the Megunticook Fish and Game Association and is in his fifth year as secretary of that organization. Frank M. Cornell has joined

TWILIGHT LEAGUE SETS UP 120 GAME SCHEDULE TO OPEN ON MAY 29 AND TO END IN AUGUST

THOMASTON — The Knox-Lincoln Twilight League will play a 120 game schedule this summer with each team playing 30 games, it was decided at a league meeting at the Thomaston Legion Hall Monday evening. Games will be played on Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays and all postponed games must be made up before the play-offs start late in August. The schedule was made out by Clyde Sukforth.

Each team is to post a $25 entrance fee with league treasurer Chuck Begley before the first game on May 29. Visiting teams must be notified of unplayable conditions by the home team not later than 4:30 p. m. on the day that games are scheduled.

Each team will be allowed to carry a maximum of 25 on the roster and the roster must be in the hands of league officials prior to the opening of the season.

It was decided that the umpires would be paid $6 each this year and that three would be used for the play-off games for

Volunteers To Aid Lions Glaucoma

Hours Set For Open House At New YMCA Facilities And Hospital At Camden

CAMDEN—Open house at the renovated and enlarged Camden YMCA and the new Camden Community Hospital will be held in the afternoon and early evening of Sunday, June 5, it is announced by a joint committee.

The open house coordinating committee, consisting of Charles Lowe for the hospital, Richard Cox for the YMCA and Norman Cote for the Chamber of Commerce, announced that open house at both the YMCA and the hospital will be held from 12:30 p. m. to 7 p. m. The change to an afternoon and early evening open house was made to avoid interference or conflict with religious services in the community.

There will be guides at both places to conduct visitors through the buildings. The guides, as well as other persons stationed at key places, will explain and answer questions about the facilities built into the two modern structures. The coordinating committee feels that the guides will be most helpful if visitors will permit themselves to be conducted in groups of about six each.

Station wagons loaned by members of the staffs and friends of both the YMCA and the hospital will be available to take visitors from one building to the other. This will enable those who wish to do so to park in one place yet see both. Police Chief Rainfrette will be asked to provide assistance in traffic control. It is hoped that as many people as possible in this area will come to the open house at both the YMCA and the new Camden Community Hospital to see for themselves what their money and cooperative efforts have done.

Preceding the public open house on June 5 there will be a preliminary tour for officials and staff members of both the YMCA and the hospital as well as representatives of the press, radio and TV. This tour will begin at the new hospital building at 7 p. m. on Thursday, May 26. Following an inspection of the hospital building, the group will proceed to an inspection of the YMCA. The hospital and the YMCA will individually invite those of its own organization who should make this preliminary tour. The Chamber of Commerce will invite the press, radio and TV representatives as appropriate.

The paradise people look for is not a locality—it is merely a state of mind.

Emery Bound Over On Charge Of Stealing Car

Harold Emery, 20, of Rockland was bound over to the October term of the Knox County Superior Court by Judge Christy Adams who found probable cause after Emery had pleaded guilty in Rockland Municipal Court to the larceny of a car, and attempts to commit larceny of two other cars on May 15 in Rockland. Bail on each count was set at $1,000.

The car which Emery admitted taking is the property of John Drake, 6 Elm Street. It was recovered the following afternoon off Scott Street in the Southend after being taken sometime Saturday night from its parking place on Winter Street. The other two cars, whose vent windows were broken, were parked on the municipal parking lot off Tillson Avenue.

Boy Scout Troop 206 Holds Open House

Rockland Boy Scout Troop 206 held open house Monday at the Congregational Church with parents and friends as guests. Raymond Sikorski was voted to receive the Order of the Arrow at Camp Bonanza in July. Plans were discussed for the Camporee to be held in Wiscasset May 20-21-22. Recently purchased troop equipment made possible by the efforts of the Mothers' Auxiliary was on display. Scoutmaster Wilpas Sallinen appointed Gregory Boetsch, scribe, and Willard Pease, Jr., librarian. The meeting was closed with refreshments being served by the Mothers' Auxiliary. Shown above, from left to right, are: Scoutmaster Sallinen, Pease, Richard Sallinen, holding the flag, and Boetsch.

A LITTLE FROM EVERYBODY WILL DO THE TRICK

Members of the Toastmasters Club are rendering a real public service in taking the first step in the fund raising campaign which has as its purpose the sending of the Rockland High School championship debating team to the National Forensic League competition in San Diego in June. In the same category is Henry Marsh who is heading the fund committee. May we suggest that the general public and business and industrial establishments cooperate to the extent each feels proper in order to meet the expenses of the trip. When one considers that Rockland is one out of 36 schools selected to compete out of the thousands of debating clubs in schools across the nation the importance of the honor extended the RHS team is fully realized. The purchase of tickets to the exhibition debate through the Toastmasters, or contributions through Mr. Marsh or The Courier-Gazette office will serve to swell the fund and make the representation of Rockland High School at San Diego possible.

Opening Day Of MVL Finds Every School In County In Action On Diamonds

Thursday will find every school in the county with baseball action as the Medomak Valley Small school league starts operations for the year; the Knox - Lincoln League plays a full slate; and Rockland's Tigers also playing. In addition the Rockland track team sees action.

Rockland's baseball and track teams entertain Gardiner at South Field with action slated to start around 4 o'clock. In the Knox-Lincoln action Boothbay Region is at Thomaston; Wiscasset at Camden and Lincoln Academy at Waldoboro.

The Medomak games find Warren at Rockport, Appleton at St. George and Union at Bristol. Last year Bristol won the Medomak flag, defeating Rockport on the final day of the season in extra innings, and the Blue Blazes are given a good chance to repeat.

The Knox - Lincoln League finds Waldoboro leading both Camden and Lincoln Academy by a half game at this writing. Some nine games have been rained out to date, which is certain to jam up the schedule later and place a heavy premium on a deep pitching staff. All teams but Thomaston still have a shot at the flag. The Clippers, losers of five out of six, appear to be out of contention. They are the only league team which has played all games to date.

Rockland, 3-4 on the year and 1-1 in the Kennebec Valley Conference, will be seeking to even their seasonal mark and improve their league standing which is presently fourth in the five team Southern Division.

CAMDEN YMCA Inter-League Tourney

Eight teams drawn from the various Camden YMCA ten pin leagues advanced into the third round this week in a tournament made all the more interesting because of the American Bowling Congress handicaps imposed. The Giants, top dog club in the Men's League had to spot Central Maine Power 273 pins in their match and beat them by 276 pins. Marshall Foxwell's Knox II Old Pro outfit gave Bob Downing's Red Sox the business and their handicap of 27 pins per game was superfluous. Charley Merritt cracked out 561 for the Knox five, high series for the match. The Publishers took on the C. H. Thomas crew plus Leon Melvin, who out of sheer coincidence happens to be a top bowler, and bowed before Joe Rego and Company by 58 pins. Melvin's 501 and Rego's 503 were highs for this match and Joe's fine 210 game was the best produced. The Senators had to give Sutton Supply an early Fathers' Day gift in the form of 98 pins per game and the impost was too heavy as they lost to Joe's club by a match total of 24 pins.

One second round match between Tannery 1 and the big bad Bruins has to be rolled while in the quarter-final matches, the Giants oppose Knox II and Sutton's Supply jousts with C. H. Thomas.

"200" Club

Bowling head and head matches on a handicap basis, all bowlers who rolled 200 or better in league play at the Camden YMCA, paired off this past week in first round matches and there was some fine bowling ere the first round was completed.

Two of the best bowlers in the Y paired off and Harold Pritchard edged out Fran Perry 511 to 504. Wilson of the Rockland Commuters ousted Bishop of Coast Guard while Wally Heal fell before Jim Weare. Charley Merritt was just too hot to handle with a 553 series and Roland Marriner's fine 509 was to no avail. Joe Chuprevich won on a forfeit from Bill Brock while Bob MacNair's 428 was too much for Wallace Vinal's 400. Bob Downing's fine 509 series was just enough to top Leon Melvin's 494 as the closeness of the competition made things interesting right down to the final frames.

In matches rolled this past Tuesday night, True Spear's hot 215 and 487 downed Hardy while Fred Bickford's 435 took Lloyd MacFarland's 380. Coffin beat out Weeden while Heal and Mitchell took matches by forfeit. On the other lanes, Len Maliska's 410 triumphed over Dick Cox's 373, while Gus Wieners' 526 downed Bud Perry with 481. Claes beat Hale with a minimum of fuss as did the hot-handed Bob Monroe whose gaudy 544 was best series of the tournament to date and two much for George Kaele's 428. Robinson and Grey advanced by forfeit. Second and third round matches are due to be completed this week.

Mr. Gilchrist is survived by a sister, Mrs. Effie Tilton of Epping, N. H., and several nieces and nephews and will be remembered by older residents as a well known Thomaston barber.

The way to make this year a success is to have started right and keep right on going.

New Assistant Manager Of Sears Named

A new assistant manager at Sears' Rockland store has assumed his duties. Manager A. L. Welch announced this week. Lawrence A. Sellers of Bangor, left, comes to Rockland with nine years service with the firm. Also new is a Sears panel truck used by the company's servicemen in the area. Serviceman Fred Ross, center, receives a service order from Sellers under the scrutiny of Manager Welch. Sellers is a native of Springfield. He was graduated from Husson College and was a teacher-coach at Oakfield for four years. He also is a graduate of the University of Maine in 1951. He is married and the father of two boys and a girl. His wife and children will move to Rockland at the close of the school year.

Municipal Court

TUESDAY

Helen Myers of Rockland pleaded guilty to charges of imprudent driving and to driving without a license at Tuesday's session of Rockland Municipal Court. She paid fines of $20 on the imprudent driving charge and $10 on that of driving without a license. The offenses occurred on Park Street on May 16.

Judge Christy Adams fined Frank Peters of Rockland $50 and sentenced him to 60 days in jail after Peters pleaded guilty to a charge of procuring liquor for two minors at Rockland on May 9.

Judge Adams warned that all future offenders would be dealt with even more severely. He called the offense of buying liquor for minors "the worst that comes before this court and those found guilty will get no sympathy."

Rufus D. Butler, 18, of Rockland, pleaded guilty to illegal possession of beer at Thomaston on May 10. The car operated by him had left Buttermilk Lane and became bogged down on a lawn, and Thomaston Police Chief Alfred Teel testified that he found six 16-ounce bottles in the vehicle. Butler said that Peters had purchased the beer for he and another underage youth.

Butler paid a fine of $20. He was found innocent of a charge of failing to report an accident.

Carlton Brodie, Jr., 21, of Lubec, a Coast Guardsman attached to the Rockland station, paid a fine of $35 after pleading guilty to driving to endanger on Route 1 in Camden on April 24. State Police alleged that the car he was operating mowed down 24 guard rails and went down a 37 foot embankment on that date.

The case of Paul Edward Williams of Hollister, Calif., who was charged with driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor on Camden Street in Rockland on April 24, was taken under advisement by Judge Adams following a hearing and continued for sentence to May 21.

Ethel M. Urquhart pleaded not guilty to a charge of speeding 45 miles an hour in a zone posted for 30 on Route 90 in Warren on May 9. She was found not guilty.

WEDNESDAY

Norman J. LeGendre, 34, of Lewiston pleaded nolo to a charge of speeding at the rate of 70 miles an hour on Route in Warren on May 6 and was fined $35. The case was continued to May 24 for payment.

Alfred D. Tolman, 23, of East Union pleaded guilty to a charge of driving at the rate of 55 miles an hour on the Hatchet Mountain Road in East Union on May 16 and paid a fine of $20.

YMCA In Camden Notes 47th Year

CAMDEN—The Camden Young Men's Christian Association is celebrating its 47th anniversary, an occasion which marks one of the most memorable years in the history of this active YMCA organization. Heading the list of events commemorating the founding will be the opening of the new facilities at the completely renovated Chestnut Street building.

This modernization program, which includes the addition of a new wing housing a 20 x 60' swimming pool and four ten-pin bowling alleys equipped with the latest automatic pinsetters, gives the Camden YMCA one of the most up-to-date physical plants of any small YMCA in New England, and assures the local organization of adequate facilities to meet the needs of an expanding coastal area.

When the Camden YMCA was formed on May 6, 1913, by a group of dedicated citizens who wanted to provide "a clean, respectable place where young men and boys could go for wholesome, manly recreation," they had no idea what changes would be required within a short 50 years. The original Chestnut Street building was completed in April of 1916 at a cost of about $15,000 and, with only minor alterations, continued to serve adequately until the early 1950's.

Council Step

Low went on to say that he felt that the delays caused by litigation are not fair to other areas and that these delays are a "dirty shame". He too said he felt pressures were being brought to bear to clear the matter at the June sitting of the Law Court.

The council dropped that matter by voting to adjourn without any action. The referendum election order had been passed at an earlier meeting and the date of June 3 was set.

In remarks both before the council and at a meeting Tuesday of District 5 directors Chairman Grossman said he felt the action of the First National Bank of Boston in giving the City Manager information the board did not possess was unethical. "We hired the bank as our fiscal agent and it had no more business giving the city manager information without our knowledge than I would as an attorney in my business with a client."

The board also was distressed that the council was ready to withdraw the referendum without discussing the matter with the board.

"If we have not done the job properly in planning this high school, then now is the time to find out about it," Grossman replied. It would cause an even further delay, if later after litigation is settled, a referendum vote is negative and we had to start again at that date to revise our planning, he concluded.

He never comes too late.
Until He comes, rest
Nor grudge the hours that roll,
The feet that wait for God
Are soonest at the goal.
Are soonest at the goal.
That is not gained by speed,
Then hold thee still, my heart,
For I shall wait His lead.

POPPY DAY TO BE HELD IN ROCKLAND BY VFW POST ON THIS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

"To Honor the Dead By Helping The Living" is the ultimate purpose of the annual Buddy Poppy distribution or sale to be held in Rockland May 20-21, under the sponsorship of the Rockland Memorial Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The beneficiaries of this traditional Buddy Poppy campaign include disabled war veterans, dependents of veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans. The entire proceeds from this nationwide Buddy Poppy sale are used exclusively for the welfare and rehabilitation of disabled veterans and in providing for their dependents.

The disabled veterans in government hospitals are paid for their labor in fashioning the little red flowers and one cent for every poppy sold is contributed to the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich., where care and a normal home life is given to widows and children of deceased veterans. Commander Walter Dow of the Rockland Post explained.

The distribution of Buddy Poppies in Rockland is under the chairmanship of Charles E. Bicknell, II, chairman of the Rockland City Council. Members of this organization, each of whom has served in campaigns outside continental limits of the United States, and in many instances saw his buddies make the supreme sacrifice or become permanently disabled, are honoring those comrades-in-arms by aiding their dependents. They ask their fellowmen to bestow similar honors through the purchase of the VFW memorial flower, the Buddy Poppy.

terations, continued to serve adequately until the early 1950's.

By then, the building had begun to bulge at its worn seams as more and more people in the Camden-Rockport area became interested in Y activities. A bold expansion plan was proposed to meet this demand and three years ago a drive was undertaken to supply the funds for this project.

The new facilities will cost about $300,000 when completed, which will be a steep sum for a community as small as Camden, but the project has been an area effort, and money has come from surrounding communities, summer people and other interested persons as well as from local residents, who gave generously with the knowledge that the money would be well spent for their future benefit.

The results would appear to uphold their confidence. Careful thought, quality materials and the combined skills of local workmen have gone into the new Y in order that it can stand up under the long and rugged use it faces in the coming years.

In addition to the new swimming and bowling wing, the original building has been completely changed inside. The gymnasium has been refinished and modernized, an enlarged game room with new equipment has been installed, the lobby and upstairs meeting rooms have been rebuilt and furnished with new furniture, and a modern, fully equipped kitchen has been added. Complete shower and locker room facilities for both men and women are also included.

Within a few weeks, the Y will begin a membership effort, seeking support from families throughout the area. It is expected that within a few months, members and guests from many parts of Knox, Lincoln and Waldo counties will be considering the Camden YMCA as an important part of their recreational life.

portant part of their recreational life.

With their modern building ready for an expanded program and an enthusiastic membership from a number of communities assuring a steady growth, the new Camden Y will be able to recognize its goal of becoming a truly area organization.

Apologizes For Ad That Gave Maine Lobster Folk A Touch of Indigestion

AUGUSTA—Humble pie is a lot less digestible than good Maine lobster. At least, a manufacturer of a tablet designed to relieve acid indigestion has found it so.

Said manufacturer this week wrote a careful apology to Commissioner Green of the Maine Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries, regretting any aspersions his company may have appeared to cast on the digestibility of Maine lobster.

The advertisement in question carried a banner reading: "Out of the bounty of a rich land comes a malady typically American . . . acid indigestion!" This was superimposed on a photograph of various popular dishes—the most prominent of which was a splendid specimen of Homarus americanus, better known as Maine lobster.

Reacting to the advertisement—which also drew editorial fire from several Maine newspapers—Commissioner Green wrote the president of the company manufacturing the tablet. He pointed out that Maine lobster is neither rich nor indigestible and that it has, in fact, fewer calories than an ordinary serving of steak, than a single one-inch lamb chop, or a slice of boiled ham.

In his prompt reply, the president of the tablet firm said it was the intention of the advertisement to point out how fortunate the American public is to have such fine foods as Maine lobster. Apparently his firm's tablets are only for those who get carried away and over-eat.

In conclusion he wrote: "We certainly want you to believe that in no way were we disparaging the great Maine Lobsters."

This, Commissioner Green said, "indicates that the gentleman's heart is in the right place."

The splinters on the ladder of success really go to work when a man starts to slide down.

Scholarship Winner To Be Soloist At Lincoln County Spring Concert On Sunday

Linda Doell

James Keene

NEWCASTLE — The Lincoln County Orchestra with Ernest Lippmann as director, is presenting its annual Spring Concert Sunday, May 22, at the Congregational Church in Newcastle at 8:15 p. m. The two soloists to be presented, both winners of the Orchestra's scholarship award, are James Keene, violinist, a previous winner, and Miss Linda Doell, flutist, this year's winner.

Miss Doell has been a member of the Lincoln County Orchestra for two years, and won her scholarship by the unanimous vote of the judges. She is a pupil of Mrs. Frances Drinker, wife of the manager of the Portland Symphony Orchestra. She is graduating from Lincoln Academy this June and plans to study music at Colby College this fall.

Keene, at the age of 16, has just finished his third year as a scholarship student at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. A native of Newcastle, he began his studies at the age of six with Ernest Lippmann in Damariscotta, who immediately recognized his talent. He then studied with the noted Japanese violinist, Toshiya Eto. Those who heard "Jimmy" with the Portland Symphony Orchestra last February were impressed with the maturity and sensitivity of his playing. He has given performances in Philadelphia, New York and Central Maine.

Smith To Be Installed At St. George

ST. GEORGE — Dana Smith will be installed president of the St. George Parent-Teachers Association at a meeting to be held at the Elementary School Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m. Other officers installed will be: Robert Trembley, vice president; Mrs. Norma Lowell, secretary; and Mrs. Meta Mathews, treasurer.

The Junior Band, under the direction of Mrs. Claris Tweedie, music supervisor, will furnish the program. Following the program, refreshments will be served by Mrs. Winifred Percy and Mrs. Tweedie.

Interim Pastor Is Announced

CAMDEN — The Rev. Edward Dalglish, Ph.D., professor of Old Testament interpretation at Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, will serve as interim pastor of the Chestnut Street Baptist Church.

His first sermon will be on June 12 at the morning worship. This announcement was made by the chairman of the Pulpit Committee, Frank Leonard.

Announcement of the appointment of a pastor to replace Rev. Melvin Dorr, Jr., is expected to be made by the church in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Fuller have returned to their home at 240 Broadway, after spending the winter in Coral Gables, Fla.

Local Members To Participate In Fellowship Rally

The Lincoln Association Pilgrim Fellowship, high school groups in Congregational and Federated Churches from Camden to Bath, will hold its annual spring rally at Pilgrim Lodge on Lake Cobbescontee, West Gardiner, Sunday, May 22, beginning at 3 p. m.

Guest speaker of the evening program will be Rev. Wallace H. Harris, pastor of the First Congregational Church, South Portland, who was before that, pastor of the Federated Church in Lewiston. He will speak on "The Art of Living". Mr. and Mrs. Harris conducted the first Family Camp at Pilgrim Lodge, when a dozen lay families joined for a week of church camping.

The opening worship at 3:30 p. m. will be conducted by the Rockland Pilgrim Fellowship, and the closing worship will be conducted by the executive committee of Lincoln Association.

During the afternoon business session, new officers for the 1960-1961 season will be elected. Charles R. Monteith, Jr., will conduct the business session and the election. He was elected president a year ago, and has presided over the three rallies and the six executive committee meetings held in the past year.

Other highlights of the meeting will include inspection of the facilities and the story of Church Camping in word and picture, plus a picnic supper and free time for games. The sessions are scheduled to end by 7:30 p. m.

Miss Troup Wed At Warren Rites On Saturday

CAMDEN — Mr. and Mrs. James Troup of 13 Central Street, Camden, announce the marriage of their daughter Miss Margaret M. Troup, to Frank E. Hilton, son of Mrs. Lily Hilton of Ogunquit, and the late Erborn Hilton.

The couple were married Saturday, May 14, at the Congregational Church parsonage in Warren by Rev. Dean Lundstrom. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Camden.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton are employed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Larger Parish Honors Seniors From Section

APPLETON — The Waldo Larger Parish entertained the high school seniors of the parish at a turkey banquet at the Appleton Community Hall Friday night with the Appleton Baptist Church acting as host.

Rev. William Pantton, as toastmaster, introduced the girls' quartet from Gordon College, also the speaker, Grady Spies, professor at Gordon College. There were about 65 present including the pastors of the churches in the parish.

The supper was in charge of the Willing Workers with Mrs. Arlene Collins, president, as chairman.

District VFW Encampment Set At Northport

The District Encampment of Veterans of Foreign Wars Posts and Auxiliaries will be held at Northport Sunday, May 22, at 2 p. m., at which time new officers will be elected and installed. Delegates from the Rockland Auxiliary are Mrs. Dorothy O. Conway, Mrs. Dorothy N. Conway, Mrs. Mary Adams and Miss Mary Adams. The alternates are Mrs. Lillian Young, Mrs. Frances Gardner, Mrs. Dorothy Collins and Mrs. Dolores Knowlton.

The District consists of Posts and Auxiliaries from Rockland, Friendship, Washington, Northport and Belfast. Anyone from the Rockland organizations wishing transportation should call Lyric 4-4206. It is hoped that all the members from Rockland will plan to attend.

Kola Klub Picks New Officers

The Kola Klub of the Pratt Memorial Methodist Church dined at the House of 1800 in Glen Cove Tuesday evening. They then adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Calderwood, Talbot Avenue, to elect a new slate of officers as follows: Robert Gregory, president; Mrs. Louise Gregory, vice president; Mrs. Margaret Calderwood, secretary; and Mrs. Phyllis Knapp, treasurer.

The group presented Rev. and Mrs. Merle Conant a gift. It was planned to hold a family picnic, July 19. Those attending the dinner and meeting were: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Calderwood, Mrs. Corinne Hughes, Mrs. Carl Sulphen, Mrs. Donald Haskell, Mrs. Russell Abbott, Mrs. and Mrs. Norman Knapp, Mrs. Thelma Small, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregory, Rev. and Mrs. Merle Conant and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Carpenter.

Date Set To Register New Camden Pupils

CAMDEN — Registration day for children who will enter Camden schools for the first time in the fall will be held on May 31 in the Elm Street and Mary Taylor Schools, Superintendent Orville Guptill has announced.

To be eligible to enter the sub-primary in the fall, a child must be five years old on or before Oct. 15. At the time of registration, birth certificate and record of immunizations must be presented.

Each pupil should be brought to the school he expects to attend. Reassignment will be made where necessary to balance classes.

Mrs. Rhodes will be at the Elm Street School and Mrs. Manning at the Mary Taylor School from 9 to 12 and from 2 to 4 on May 31. Regular sub-primary classes will not be held on registration day.

Those bundled newspapers which serve a hundred useful purposes, are available, though in short supply, at The Courier-Gazette office. Six pound bundles of printed papers 25c per bundle. Six pound bundles of unprinted plain white newspapers, 50c per bundle.

Nineteen Girl Scouts of Troop 14 received the Curved Bar at a Court of Awards held at the Farnsworth Museum, Monday evening, under the direction of leaders, Mrs. Richard French, Mrs. Walter Gay, Mrs. B. J. Miller, Mrs. Theodore Sylvester, Mrs. Jalo Ranta and Mrs. George Staples. Following the opening flag ceremony presented by Sally Sylvester, Marcia Wasgatt, Rosalyn Gay, Jean Miller and Judith French, each Girl Scout gave her interpretation of the Girl Scout Promise and Laws, using the candlelight service with June Ranta as their director.

North School PTA Elects Mrs. Rollins

Mrs. Milton V. Rollins, Jr. was elected president of the North School PTA, Monday evening. It was reported that the project of installing backstops for the ball field is underway with William Brock in charge. Mrs. Russell Wolfert reported that pupils in the school saved $2,532.45 this year in Savings Stamps. The attendance banner was won by Mrs. Nelson Glidden's fourth grade. The new officers, from left to right, are: Mrs. Robert Hanscom, secretary; Mrs. Rollins; Mrs. Bernard Bergen, treasurer; and William Brock, vice president.

Beechwoods — East Side
To the rear of the meat market building that has stood there on the corner for over 120 years is a low posted red house used by Miss Clara Spear as a garage. This was formerly the property of Joseph Berry who owned the Knox Hotel and who had a small store next east of the market building on Main Street. This house was referred to in a deed of 1838 as the green house. Joseph Berry died in 1855 and his widow, Jane Coombs Berry, sold it to the Fullers who built the block now owned by the Spears. I have been told that a Getchell family lived there many years ago. The next house was long known as the Dow house because it was long the property of Captain George Dow, who lived there. Eaton wrote that Dow was the son of Captain James and Elizabeth Combs Dow.

The captain's first wife was Catherine Wade. Of her children, Catherine married Charles P. Redman and was the mother of George and Fred Redman, the well known Redman brothers. Another daughter married the late Winfield Scott Gilchrist of Green Street, while Mrs. Ella Watts of South Thomaston is a granddaughter. Captain Dow had a very eventful career. In 1850 on a trip to Peru he was thought to have perished, but wrecked on an island and lived among cannibals for some time. In his old age (he lived to be more than 90) he told his story to a granddaughter, Ella K. Gilchrist, then a lass and she wrote it in a book. These adventures may appear in the Scrapbook some day.

Emerson Watts stands next to Copeland. Will Simmons looks over Crawford's left shoulder. The handsome, mustached fireman behind the wagon may have been Fred Hewett but I am not certain.

Our friend Charles (Tip) Smith lived here with his mother, Mrs. Armando Smith, and brother, Aurelian, who died in childhood. Mrs. Smith worked for years at the Knox Hotel and was very much respected.

Among the owners through the years were the late Reuben Meservey, a Mrs. Carter and Fred Robinson. It is now the property of Raymond Upham who lives here with his wife, the former Elizabeth Sprowl, and children, Raymond, II, and Frederick, graduates of Thomaston High School, Patricia, a senior, Robert, Gary, Arnold and Paula attend elementary schools, while Nancy is a small child.

The 1855 map of Thomaston shows Crawford's foundry where the next three houses now stand, and the circus picture shows it as a dark barn-like structure with a lot of loose firewood outside.

death. In the early years of the present century it was used as a stable.

The small, square house, long used as an office by Allyne Peabody, a veterinarian and a good one, was formerly the waiting room of the Rockland, Thomaston and Camden Street Railway and stood on Main Street. It was moved to its present location by the late Adelbert (Dellie) Wotton who used it as a residence.

After Wotton's death Dr. Peabody bought it and for some time shared it with his stepson, Stephen Lavender, who was a graduate of our high school and one of our smart boys. He had an insurance agency here but has been in the teaching profession for some years. At present he is teaching in Japan. Lavender's oldest daughter, Stephanie, is now married and is an instructor in Bristol Girls School, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania. Even as a small child she was easily recognized as of outstanding intelligence and energy.

Of the three sons, Peter has attended Brown University, but at present gives lessons in flying and plans to enter an aeronautic engineering college in Inglewood, Calif.; Alan attends Barrington, R. I., High School while John, aged 12, is in the grades.

The house is now the property and residence of Floyd and Phyllis Winchenbach Carter and their two fine daughters, Linda, aged 10, and Leona, eight years old.

The next two houses were moved across the lot from Main Street where they stood next to the Hinch Building on what is now the lot of Mrs. Charlotte Gray. These were the office and stable of the late Edmund Wilson, the lawyer. When Capt. Harvey Mills, the grandfather of Mrs. Gray, bought the lot he moved these to the Beechwoods side before building his house. The first, formerly the home of the late Eva Burkett, was now occupied by Sherwood Butler and family and until recent weeks by Mrs. Myrtle Pullen, mother of Sherwood and sister of Mrs. Burkett.

These sisters were daughters of the late Otis and Lucy Spear Lord. The father was killed while working on a quarry bank in Rockland, leaving a wife, four daughters and an infant son, now Herbert Lord of Rockland.

Otis was a brother of General Herbert M. Lord of the United States Army and director of the National Budget. Otis Lord was a most estimable man and much the best singer of a singing family.

Sherwood is a member of the Thomaston Police Department, the son of Mrs. Pullen and the late Joseph Butler. Sherwood lives here with his wife and little son Michael. Mrs. Butler was Erna Annis of Rockport. Brenda, Audrey and Lawrence Smith, her children by a former marriage, live here in the home.

Butler has sons by a former marriage. A son, Nelson, lives in Rhode Island where a son, Bryant, was killed last fall in an auto accident.

Two of Butler's sons were in the Second World War and one received the Purple Heart. The next house is owned and occupied by Roy Emerson, an employee of the Maine State Prison. With him live his wife, Marguerite, and three children, Linda, Roy, Jr., and Carol. The Emersons have lived here since Mr. Emerson bought the property from Percival Pierpont and are very well liked by the many who know them.

Many years ago Capt. James A. Creighton sold a lot of land to Mrs. Celia Henry Talbot, the wife of one Charles Talbot, a native of Ireland.

Here a home was built and occupied by the family. While here there were two little daughters. The older was drowned when only two years old. For years Sam Reed lived in the Talbot house with his wife Cora and children, Mabel, who married Fred Reed, Mildred, the youngest, who married and moved away, and a son, Arel. This house changed hands several times and is now the residence of Dr. Allyne Peabody. Dr. Peabody married Mrs. Ruby

Spring Concert Is Set By Rockland Rubinstein Club

Mrs. Etta Ballands

Mrs. Etta Ballands, concert pianist and composer, who now makes her permanent home in Winthrop, will be guest artist at the Rubinstein Spring Concert to be held at the Farnsworth Museum Friday, at 7:45 p. m. She is a former member of the world famous Russian Opera Company and for 20 years was director of music schools in England and Canada. Mrs. Ballands has written many published compositions and continues to do so. She will play one of her latest in the concert Friday evening. She is included in the Maine Federation of Music Clubs' new publication, "Maine Composers And Their Music," by Dr. Francis Wiggin.

The Friday evening concert program is as follows: Piano Lavender and is now retired. Doc is a good man at his profession. In his youth he was a wonderful ball player and could run like a deer.

The next house now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watts, Sr., was originally the home of Boyd Simmons, backsmith and chief of police, and his wife, Annie Gray Simmons, and their son, William Simmons, the likable old gentleman who was a bachelor and died not long ago. Mrs. Watts, the daughter of George and Amanda Gray Mitchell and a niece of Mrs. Boyd Simmons, lived with her aunt as a child, and after her marriage to Robert Watts, the two made their home with Will Simmons. I believe Robert to be the last man in town who has driven a rock wagon. For years he has produced milk from his fine herd of cows, certainly one of the best hereabouts.

The oldest daughter, Wilhelmina, wife of Alden Watts, lives a few houses up the street with her husband and three children; Ida married Roscoe Lindsey; Robert, Jr., lives in the Bryant house; the son Bentley married Faith Norwood and has a daughter, Pamela; Annie, the youngest, is at home.

Anyone who has called on these fine friendly folk will agree with me that this is a grand family.

I thank Mrs. Watts for the use of the Eureka photograph.

Burkett's Paint Shop

Some of the older residents of the Beechwoods neighborhood will certainly hold it against me if I fail to mention the fact that for some years the lively stable or some part thereof was used by Isaac Burkett as a shop where he did carriage painting on the second floor. Sometimes duo—Sonata in E Minor, 3rd movement, by Etta Ballands, played by Ruth Sanborn and Kathleen Newman; vocal — Lullaby by Brahms and Lady Dressed in Blue by Marie and Invilliers, sung by Helen McAduff, accompanied by Kathleen Newman; trumpet solo—Moroccan de Concours, Opus 57 by G. Alary, played by John Parker; piano — Intermezzo by Brahms, played by Allan Hynd; vocal—Where're You Walk by Handel and I Love Thee by Grieg, sung by Fay Hynd; piano—Group Of Own Compositions, played by Etta Ballands; piano and organ—Reverie by Debussy and Blue Danube by Strauss, played by Dorothy Lawry and Nathalie Snow.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

The Thomaston Band held concerts or rehearsals there.

Isaac Burkett was an artist and a musician. He evolved harmonies in color and in sound. He resided somewhere at the upper corner and had several daughters. Jessie married Ralph Blackington and afterwards Ralph Tibbets. She had a daughter, Maerice, by Blackington, who for some time has worked at the V. A. Leach Store, and a son Huse, who I believe is a school teacher. Fanny Burkett married Ralph Wiley of Warren and Tillie married Ed Oxtan. An older daughter, Alice, was married and had a daughter.

Rockland High Registering New Students

Registration for all students who will be members of Rockland High School for the year 1960-61 is now in progress. Purchase Street School and South Thomaston Grade Eight pupils are having a formal registration on the evenings of May 17, 18, and 19. High school students are being registered during the school day, and this registration runs from May 18 to May 27. Parents of Grade Eight pupils are encouraged to accompany their child to the formal registration so that all persons concerned will be acquainted with the program that each student is to follow in High School.

Registration cards for high school pupils will be completed by the students at school, and then taken home so that parents may look over the program of study and sign their approval.

Initial Plans For Hospital Fair In Fall Discussed At Gathering In Thomaston

Plans for the seventh annual fall fair sponsored by the Knox County General Hospital Auxiliary were outlined by Mrs. Harold Richardson, general chairman, at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Nora Seaver in Thomaston.

The fair will be held at the Rockland Community Building on Oct. 6.

Named as members of the Advisory Board were Mrs. Lawrence Miller, Mrs. Roland Ware and Miss Nora Seaver. Serving as fair treasurers will be Mrs. Blanchard Smith and Mrs. Stuart Burgess. Mrs. J. E. Elliot of Thomaston will be in charge of decorations. Mrs. H. Ernest Keywood will serve as chairman of the prize booth and Mrs. Kennedy Crane, Jr., will be in charge of awards. A supervised play area will be under the direction of Mrs. Robert Morrill.

Town booths and their chairmen include: Mrs. LeRoy Miller and Mrs. Emory Howard, candy; Owls Head; Mrs. William Robinson and Mrs. Charles Watts, pastry corner, South Thomaston; Mrs. Fred Shumaker, preserves and local color, St. George, Tenants Harbor and Port Clyde; Miss Nora Seaver, toddler's booth, Thomaston; Mrs. Henry Teague and Mrs. Leroy Norwood, Finnish breads, Warren; Miss Edith Grimes and Mrs. Joseph Headley, parcel post, Vinalhaven; Mrs. Edward Morse, fall foliage, Camden.

A booth chairman has not yet been named for the Union preserves and Finnish breads booths.

Mrs. Aimo Sulin and Capt. Mary Emery will be co-chairmen of the cooked food booth sponsored by the Nurses' Alumnae.

Other booths and chairmen named were: Mrs. John Rapose and Mrs. Mario Grispi, aprons; Mrs. Wesley Wasgatt and Mrs. Gerald Black, grabs and popcorn; and Mrs. Nathan Berliawsky and Mrs. Frank Tirrell, Jr., white elephants. A chairman for the doll booth has not been named.

Restaurant chairmen include Mrs. Carl Reed, luncheon; Mrs. Ralph Post, snack bar; and Anthony Cevasco, supper.

Capt. Hartwell F. Dowling

A Rockland native Air Force officer has been assigned the post of commander of the 200th Airways and Air Communications Service unit at Richards-Gebour, Mo., near Kansas City. Captain Hartwell F. Dowling formerly was stationed at Whitman Air Force Base, Mo.

The primary mission of the 48 man unit is to maintain and operate aids to air navigation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Dowling of Rockland. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keller of West Rockport.

The new commander was a flight officer at Perrin Field, Sherman, Texas, during World War II. In 1946, he joined the reserves and in July of 1949 became an F-80 jet and P-47 prop pilot with the Maine Air National Guard.

After being called back to active duty in 1951, Captain Dowling was sent to the 36th Fighter Squadron of the 8th Fighter Group in Korea where he flew F-80s. Upon returning from Korea, he became an F-80 and F-86 gunnery instructor at Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada. Because of his gunnery excellence, Captain Dowling was sent to Japan to instruct in a gunnery school for the Japanese Air Force. He was assigned to Keesler Air Force Base later in 1953 with a subsequent assignment to Whitman that same year.

A senior pilot, Captain Dowling has attended Squadron Officers' School and has the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Air Medal with three clusters.

Real friends do not point out a man's weakness—they try to strengthen his weak points.

MRS. HAHN BEATS NEWS SERVICE IN REPORTING SEAMAN LOST OVERBOARD FROM CRUISE SHIP

April 12, 1960

Dear Friends:

We arrived at the deep water anchorage in Port Swettenham at 7:30 a. m. There was a string of ships as far up river as we could see. This river is a wide estuary with jungle on either side. We could only see what looked like two or three sheds with no sign of human habitation.

We learned that a seaman had jumped ship and another had been lost overboard. He was seen in his bunk at 7:10 p. m. When his watch came at midnight, he didn't show up. The ship was gone over from stern to stern and he was officially declared missing at 1 a. m. Later a wire came from the S.S. Maritima, a Liberian flag vessel, saying they picked him up at 4 a. m. and were taking him to San Francisco. What a lucky boy! I have seen plenty of sharks in these waters. Talking with a couple of deck hands, we got a different story. The boy was brought aboard, drunk, in Singapore, although, he too, intended to jump ship. They think he came to after the ship got underway and didn't realize we had left port. So he decided to leave after all. There was no chain across the gangway and he just walked off.

At 1:30 we (Mrs. M., Joe, and I) took a launch up river, feeling we were leaving the last shreds of civilization. It took one hour to reach port. There is talk of this port replacing Singapore as a world port. I'd say it would take some doing!

Just as we came in another launch was leaving. There was a great hubbub and wailing. We asked what was going on and were told a lady from India was returning home after visiting relatives here. They had all turned out to bid her farewell. It must have been a wealthy family as the amount of gold and silver and jewels displayed was fabulous. Even three-year-olds had jewels in each side of their noses. Earrings were big and heavy; jewels and gold in their hair; many chains of gold around their necks; bracelets on arms and ankles; rings on fingers and toes and gold on teeth.

Joe dickered with a tourist agency. They asked $25 Malayan apiece with lunch and tea at the Coq d'Or. We said we didn't want lunch and tea. So he took off a little. When he got down to $30 for all three, Joe said $20 (M) and walked out. Just as the door shut behind him, the man said "$25". "Ok," says Joe, "Hop in girls!" He told us he had learned to bargain in South America. We started for Kuala Lumpur.

Our driver was a huge Sikh, turban on rolled up hair, whiskers and all. He looked very fierce but was really laughing and merry. He spoke very little English but named places and buildings as we passed. It's 30 miles to Kuala Lumpur through jungle, rubber plantations, a few tapioca patches, oil-palm trees and new housing projects. The driver said a house would cost about $18,000 ($6,000 our money). I would have liked any one of them. Joe is getting material for an article on labor conditions and housing in this part of the world. He usually starts off for a day by himself and gets acquainted with men in factories who invite him to their homes where he learns more than any other 10 people.

In Singapore, he had shown us a new apartment building, three stories high. There was a little dark kitchen with a two-burner gas plate and a tub with a faucet; two other rooms, a bathroom with a hole in the floor, and a nice recessed porch with pipes along the railing for bamboo poles on which the washings are hung.

We didn't go in any of these new single houses in Kuala Lumpur but we wondered about the plumbing.

In the city, we first noticed the unusual architecture: spires and onion shaped domes—Moslem type. The City Hall and Railroad Station were very imposing. It was a great surprise to find a beautiful, modern city. We drove through a large park and up a hill to a Chinese restaurant where there was a fine view of the city. Next to it was the finest stadium I have seen, next to Manila.

At our request, we were taken through a Chinese cemetery. On the edge the markers were very simple, but up on the hill were most elaborate tombs carved from the rock in semi-circular shape, with all kinds of statuary and colored decorations—each serving one family. All around, above and below, were goats and cattle—the Brahmin type.

We came back into town and went into the well stocked shops, got some postcards which are always expensive and took pictures of the Mosque in the center of town.

On the way home, the girls were bringing in latex in two pails hung on a long pole over their shoulders. The school children were going home in their neat blue and white uniforms. Here, too, they have to have two sessions for different groups of children. We hadn't left civilization after all. We saw many signs of a high type of culture.

Wednesday, April 13: All of us went ashore and there, smiling and salaaming was our same Sikh, named Jackerosene as near as we could get it. With a fine-looking lad named Ahmed who spoke perfect English but with a strange accent. By and I took a tour to Kuala Lumpur, again with Mrs. M.

This time when we went through Klang, we stopped at the Mosque. It was cool and beautiful. One faithful Moslem was kneeling toward Mecca in a corner in the hall. I watched him for five minutes and still he kept on with his prayers. They truly must get something from their religion. They do not accept cigarettes nor do they drink.

We were taken to a coffee plantation where there were both berries and blossoms, fragrant as orange blossoms.

In a rubber factory were tanks of water where latex is poured and mixed with an acid before it is taken out and squeezed between rollers. It comes from the rollers a pure white sheet which is put in the smoke house until it is a crystal clear tan color. It is then packed in bales with talcum powder and sewed into burlap for exporting.

As we came into Kuala Lumpur, we passed the Jungle Park, left in its natural state, right in the city. We again went over the lovely big central park. I stopped at the post office and there we were taken to the Coq d'Or for lunch. It was a swanky Chinese hotel, run by an elderly Chinaman who looked like a Mandarin of old. The only trouble was that everyone was running around like a chicken with its head cut off, as Mrs. M said.

Girl Scout Leaders Elect Mrs. Hastings

Mrs. Nelouise Hastings was installed president of the Rockland Girl Scout Leaders' Association, Tuesday evening, at a banquet held in Damariscotta. Members gathered at the Rockland Congregational Church to make the trip in a group. The new officers are, from left to right: Mrs. Cynthia Packard, treasurer; Mrs. Leona Pierpont, vice president; Mrs. Hastings; and Mrs. Dorothy B. French, secretary. During the evening, a report of the Camporee held in Camden last weekend was given by Mrs. Walter Gay. A gift was presented to the outgoing president, Mrs. Robert Hanson, by Mrs. Mervyn Harriman, past vice president. The leaders were urged to turn in troop notebooks as soon as possible to Mrs. Alice West.

After lunch we went to the museum, small but interesting. Ahmed picked a large snail in a beautiful shell from the hibiscus hedge and asked if we'd ever seen one. We were delighted to have it to add to our shell collection. He went over and got us another. When we came down to the shops, I bought a hand-woven handbag and luncheon set at the Malayan Arts and Crafts Shop. Mrs. M wanted to stay longer so she and Jackerosene took the car and went up into the hills to the Batu caves. Ahmed telephoned back to Port Swettenham for a taxi from his company which took him and By and me back to the wharf for our long trip to the boat. Barbara and Cele couldn't resist the delicious-looking pineapple which a little boy was deftly cutting up and cutting out the eyes. He was doing this sitting on the wharf. Then he dipped it into a can of muddy water and laid it on a tray. They said it was delicious. I expected them to come down with something but they didn't.

Everywhere we went, new roads, dual highways and straightening out curves was going on. It made me think of home.

The tin mines around here have been abandoned as they are afraid the sides will cave in. They look like holes in the sand, filled with water. They dredge and get the tin from the sand. This tin is sent to the United States, then sent back in sheets.

Thursday, April 14: The Rover came up river near the wharf where we loaded rubber and unloaded tin all day. After lunch we went ashore where I mailed some cards and then went to the Mariner's Club where the others were swimming in their very fine pool. We expected to sail at 5 but didn't get off until 11, still loading rubber as the anchor was pulled up.

Friday, April 15: We anchored about 11 miles out from Belawan, early in the morning. There we sat all day—no customs, no immigration, no pilot, no radio response, not even the company agent. The next morning a ship came out and the pilot came over to us. At last we were at the pier and all the government agencies gave us a grilling. We were told we'd have to have special passes to go to Medan, the capital. No one on the ship would give them to us. The agent said, "No." Mr. Parker, Mrs. M and I went right to immigration headquarters to tell them we had visas and wanted to use them and see their capital. Would they please give us a pass? We had to go through customs who went through our bags to see if we had any American money. We didn't have a cent of any money. They showed us where immigration was—a couple of blocks further along the dusty road. He called a trishaw for us and seemed surprised when we told him again we had no money and would have to walk.

We walked the hot dusty road. Immigration officials talked and telephoned. We were getting hotter and hotter. Our clothes were wet through. One man asked us if we'd like a drink. Harry said "Yes." A boy ran across the street. I wondered what would be forthcoming. He came back with tall glasses filled with ice and water and a thick orange-colored juice in the bottom. When it was stirred, it made a sweet drink, insipid but cold. It was probably papaya juice. We were warned about drinking water ashore but at times you can't resist.

While we were enjoying that, a car came to take us to the man to whom they had telephoned we supposed, but no, it took us back to the ship. We were told to ask the captain and he could get passes from the agent. The captain was surprised and the agent said "No." Right back where we started. One of the crew told us to go if we wanted to. We could probably get through. Anyway, they could only send us back.

We got through the first road block by showing our passports, saw a trolley marked "Medan" and took it. It went back past the ship, turned and passed the ship and road block again. People kept getting on until it was overflowing. Luckily, a nice boy who spoke English sat next to Harry and kept him informed. The next road block we just waved our passports; the next one they couldn't even see us.

The trolley left us in a tough part of town. The shops were all closed and barred. On one street, clothes and food and textiles were displayed. There were some really good batiks. When we stopped to look, everyone rushed on us with things to sell. One girl whispered to me three times. What she said, I have no idea. Harry and Mary were examining a piece of batik. They were pushed along with the batik streaming behind them.

Harry paid for it and put the change of 150 rupiahs in his shirt pocket behind cigarettes. It disappeared. Mrs. M. got quite a whack in the back. We hurried into a large, quiet store which was open. There were many dark faces pressed against the window, watching us. Mary was on the verge of tears. She said if she ever got back to the ship, she'd never get cross again. Little did she know what was still to come.

There were no taxis around so we walked out of the most crowded street. Mrs. M. said in a loud voice, "Oh, if only someone could speak English!" A young man jumped off his bicycle and said, "I do, what do you want?" She said, "A good hotel." He said, "De Boer" and called a couple of trishaws. While he was talking to us someone tried to steal the light on his bike. Harry fell into the ditch and tore his shirt. When we got settled in our vehicles and were on the way to a good hotel, we felt better. We stuck close together and were soon in a quiet, lovely section of town, tree-lined streets, fine homes and stores, an open square and a very good-looking hotel. The man at the desk spoke English. We went into a large, cool room and had orange crush to steady our nerves. We asked for a taxi. The manager brought us an English newspaper and talked with us for a while. Finally he said he would take us back for 150 rupiahs (75 cents). It was no less than 25 miles, and he said we could get out in Belawan to look at batiks! Just then a younger man in a rather luxurious station wagon came. Our friend, the hotel man, and the four of us got in and were off for Belawan with lighter hearts. From him, we learned that we were the first foreigners in Medan in a year; that this was the Easter holiday that most of the people were Christian instead of Moslems; that all the little ponds, under and beside the homes were for goldfish which they ate and also sold; that the palms with the beautiful long fronds were used for thatching houses. The people still call the rupiah a gulder which the Dutch called it.

It was really a lovely ride and we saw much more than we did going into Medan when we were crowded in with so many people. He took us to a street where shops were open in Belawan and came with us to look at batiks. He knew if they were good and how much we should pay. I bought one for 500 rupiahs ($2.00). The others bought several. On our way back we got through the road blocks by waving our passports. We paid our driver 200 rupiahs ($1.00) and parted good friends. So here we were safe. Mary said, "That ship never looked so good. Our troubles are over."

We showed passports to the customs officer. "Let me see what you have," he said. "Batik," we answered. "You can't take it," Mrs. M. told him. "It was bought with Indonesian money." He waved Mary and me on as Harry had all her pieces and I only had one. They told us to come back to the ship and they'd stay and fight for their batiks. Mary began to think she should have stayed with Harry. Just as she was going back she saw them being taken off in a car. Then she did give up and started out to find them. At the customs booth she was told where they were and followed. Half an hour later, they came back without some of their batiks. They were told women were allowed two and men none. Now wouldn't you think they'd be happy to sell. The company agent should have told us but I think he was in on it. It's a game. Let people buy things. We'll take them and then they'll have to pay again to get them.

The agent came in looking hot and flustered and said he'd get them if we had some money. Mrs. M. and Harry put out what they had but he said he'd have to have at least 1000 rupiahs. Harry went up and got it and some boxes of cigarettes. The man hustled off again. He came back with them acting as if he'd fairly had to fight for them. What a racket!

Farwell Indonesia. I'm afraid you aren't long for this world!

Plane Crash At Sea Takes Life Of Lt. Johnson

Lt. John A. Johnson

The Navy has announced the death of Lt. John Arthur Johnson at sea while attached to Attack Squadron 86 aboard the aircraft carrier USS Independence May 9. The Navy report said that he was killed when his A4D jet attack plane crashed in the sea following a catapult take-off from the Independence. The body was not recovered.

Memorial Services were held for him at the Naval Air Station, Oceana on Saturday, May 14.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. William A. Johnson of Seaside, N. Y., who survive him as does his wife, the former Jean Korth of Seaside, and a son, Michael, age three.

Lt. Johnson was born in Rockland and is the grandson of Mrs. Hilma Johnson of Old County Road in Thomaston with whom he spent his summers until entering the Navy. Close relatives living in Maine include: an uncle, Vaino Johnson of Rockland and aunts, Mrs. John Peterson of Bog Road, Mrs. John Lundevall of Cushing and Mrs. Carl Kallio of Waterville.

New Pension Law Has Higher Top On Income

TOGUS—Veterans who have previously applied for pension only to be ruled ineligible because their income was too great may now be eligible under the new pension law effective July 1, Dr. J. S. Weltman, manager of the Togus Veterans Administration Center, said today.

He pointed out that the new law raises the income limitations from $1400 to $1800 annually for a single man and from $2700 to $3000 annually if the veteran is married or has a minor child. A sliding or graduated scale for various income levels below these limits is provided by the new pension law enabling a veteran to collect smaller pension payments if he is ineligible for maximum payment.

Full information as well as assistance in filing new claims or reopening old claims may be obtained at any VA office. Veterans Administration offices in Maine are located at Togus, 171 Middle Street, Portland, and 96 Harlow Street, Bangor.

Dr. Weltman suggested that prompt action now would avoid the rush of information seekers who are expected to visit VA offices in May or June, just prior to the effective date of the new law.

Interment in Village Cemetery, Thomaston.

It will pay you to remember that you can't go very far wrong if you travel the way of peace.

Fire Destroys Car On Route 97 At Thomaston

THOMASTON—The fire department was called to extinguish a fire in a burning car on Route 97 early this morning. The vehicle was totally destroyed before they arrived. It belonged to Ralph Simmons of Friendship.

He told Fire Chief Edwin Anderson that he had a can with turpentine in it on the front seat and when he switched on the car radio an explosion occurred, apparently caused by the turpentine fumes. He jumped out of the car after ditching it and was uninjured.

No estimate was given by Chief Anderson as to the amount of damage.

Theme of Month

My Sixth Sense
By Evelyn Rackliff
Every dog should own a girl.
For the dog it's very nice to see a well-behaved, intelligent, and comely girl around the house. I know from experience! My dog expects me to see that he has plenty of water to drink, tasty food to dine on, a nice clean bed to sleep on (I also have to tuck him in), and long scenic walks after supper.

I belong to a dog named Timmy. He got me when he was three months old. He has been training me ever since, but he still thinks I'm not well behaved.

It took two months to learn how to tug on his harness correctly. He began to get temperamental then. I guess that does come on with old age.

Of course dogs aren't always successful with the girls. I think Timmy chose me because I'm a healthy specimen—for a human being.

Whenever anyone comes to the door, Timmy always tells me. I suppose you might say Timmy is my sixth sense.

In well regulated communities there has always been a curfew law, ably enforced by parents.

ORIGINAL THREE-ACT PLAY TO BE PRESENTED AT NORTH SCHOOL

An original three-act play written by Miss Elizabeth V. Carr will be presented by students of the North School seventh grade at the school auditorium at 1:30 p. m. Friday.

The dramatic presentation by pupils will be held in conjunction with Parents' Day.

Each of the three branches of the Federal government will be explained as the one and one half hour production unfolds. A session of the U. S. Supreme Court will be held, with a joint session of Congress and a meeting of the President's cabinet also featured in the play.

ERRORS HURT ROCKLAND IN KVC LOSS TO CONY 8 TO 3

AUGUSTA—The Rockland Tigers dropped an 8-3 decision to the Cony Rams Tuesday at Augusta. Cony led throughout and salted the decision with two three run rallies in the late innings as errors at critical times hurt the Rockland cause.

The Tigers outhit the winners by a 7-5 margin but were unable to bunch them effectively. The Rockland JV's were more fortunate, winning 6-3.

The Rockland Kennebec Valley Conference record thus drops to 1-3 and they are now 3-4 over-all. Lack of practice obviously hurt the Tigers as they have had only one session in 10 days during the past wet spell.

Ronnie Hill started for Rockland and was relieved by Billy Barbour. Both were victims of loose defensive play. Larry Terrio and Buster Kennedy each had two hits to pace the losers at bat.

Rockland is scheduled to play Gardiner at South Field Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock and the Tiger track team also opposes Gardiner there at the same time.

CAMDEN THUMPS THOMASTON, LINCOLN SQUEEZES BY IN K-1

Camden defeated Thomaston 14-2 and Lincoln Academy nudged Wiscasset 2-1 in Knox-Lincoln M Baseball League action Monday. The Mustangs shifted their game to Thomaston, as their field was unplayable Monday. The wins by Lincoln and Camden created a temporary three way tie with Waldoboro for the league lead.

The Mustangs sent 13 men to the plate in the first inning at Thomaston and nine runs scored before the Clippers could retire three men. Walt Drinkwater was the star of the onslaught as he belted two hits in the frame and mates Ken Jones and Carleton Spirio also contributed hits.

Five bases on balls and two errors kept the rally alive.

Harlan Pierson held Thomaston to only two hits, by Art Ifemey and Pete Stone. He walked 11 but always tightened when threatened. Four Thomaston hurlers were rudely treated by the visitors during the proceedings.

At Newcastle the Lincoln Academy Eagles once more used the long ball for the win as Freddie Hatch cleared the barrier in left in the fourth inning to send in two and win it. It was the third game the Eagles have won with a circuit swat.

Bill Clark, on the mound for the winners, threw a three hitter at the Redskins and fanned nine while walking only three.

Waldoboro Moves Into League Lead

WALDOBORO — The Blue Jays of Waldoboro rallied with two runs in the seventh and final inning Tuesday to eke out a 7-6 win over the Boothbay Harbor Seahawks in an exciting game. Boothbay had gone ahead in the top of the seventh as Bob Lee-man belted a two run homer over the Waldoboro left field fence.

Allan Graffam was the hero of the day for the winners. It was his single that drove in the tying and winning runs, his fourth hit of the day. He also sparked in relief on the mound as he took over in the second with the bases full and none out. Two runs scored on him in that frame but no more until the circuit blast by Leeman in the last inning.

Ken Winchenbach also starred for the Blue Jays as he hit a solo homer in the fifth and had two doubles besides, one of which sparked the seventh inning rally.

The win boosted Waldoboro into sole possession of first place in the league as Camden and Lincoln Academy, with whom they had been tied, did not play their scheduled game due to illness of the Lincoln Academy coach. It has not been re-scheduled as yet. Waldoboro outlived the visitors by a wide 11-3 margin but were hard put to win it even so as most of their hits were wasted.

Many Summer Jobs Approved By Labor Dept.

"High school boys and girls looking for summertime employment will find that many jobs are open to them which are permitted under the Fair Labor Standards Act — or Federal Child-Labor Law," says Leo A. Gleason, New England Regional Director of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

Gleason pointed out that a youth of 16 or 17 years of age can work in any job which has not been declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. These jobs, which include hazardous occupations such as elevator operator, truck driver or driver's helper, logger or sawmill worker, require an 18 year age minimum.

Since Maine also has its own child-labor law, Gleason said that the higher standards must be observed if the State and Federal laws differ. Information about the Federal law may be obtained from the office of the Wage and Hour Division, located at 18 Oliver Street, Boston. Inquiries about the State law should be directed to the State Labor Department in Augusta.

The director said the best way for an employer to protect himself against hiring underage minors is to require an age certificate, which serves as proof of age for purposes of the Act. These certificates may be obtained from the Superintendent of Schools in the city or town in which the minor resides.

The Federal Act, which applies to employment in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce, contains several exemptions from its child-labor provisions. These include delivering newspapers to the consumer, acting or performing in an entertainment media, farm work outside of school hours, and work for the child's parents other than manufacturing, mining, or jobs declared hazardous.

Rockland High Registering New Students

Registration for all students who will be members of Rockland High School for the year 1960-61 is now in progress. Purchase Street School and South Thomaston Grade Eight pupils are having a formal registration on the evenings of May 17, 18 and 19. High school students are being registered during the school day, and this registration runs from May 18 to May 27.

Parents of Grade Eight pupils are encouraged to accompany their child to the formal registration so that all persons concerned will be acquainted with the program that each student is to follow in High School.

Registration cards for high school pupils will be completed by the students at school, and then taken home so that parents may look over the program of study and sign their approval. Parents of high school students who have any questions are encouraged to contact either Mr. Cameron or Mr. DiRenzo.

Jamaica Plain, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thurlow Gifford and family.

Cecil Prior went to Swans Island on Saturday. His wife has been a guest of Mrs. Lois P. Anderson there. They will return home here on Monday.

The spring poems are ready—they will be released as soon as the weather man gives the word.

Try the Extra Measure of a Wide-Track Drive!

Any tape measure will tell you this: Pontiac's stance (not the body) is wider than any other car. But driving a new Pontiac will tell you more. That's when you feel the extra measure of balance, control and sure-footed roadability of Wide-Track Wheels. The difference is so dramatic it's hard to imagine; yet it's easy to discover. Just ask for a Wide-Track Drive.

Tyler School News

Sub-primary — Mrs. Haskell
We are now reading in "Our Big Book".
Two new boys have joined our group. Donald Gordon from New York State and Daniel Hamlin from Ellsworth.
Alan Leo, Nancy Pierpont, Holly Hodgkins, Marcia Thurston, Carol Lagonegro, Sharon Benson, and Debbie Young sang at assembly last week.
Geraldine Clement, Bonita Spear and Debbie Fowles brought birthday treats and Michael McMahon and Holly Hodgkins brought recess treats.
We did so enjoy the beautiful egg tree that Alan Leo brought for Easter.
The class won the stamp banner again this week.
Our May and June birthday children are: Alan S. Dow, Leslie Eastman, Robert Lewis, Bradley Porter, Deborah Cole, Cynthia Dennison, Gail Eaton, Rebecca Estabrook, David Hamlin, Michael McMahon and Bonita Spear.

Grade I — Miss Webster
We were happy to have Joshua Wetherell join our class. He came here from Arizona.
Teresa Wren shared a birthday treat with us. Each boy and girl had a party hat to wear.
Those celebrating May birthdays are Nancy Clark, Lillian Lindsey, Philip Carpenter, James Peters and Debra Ames. Cheryl Teel, Cindy Winchenbach, Richard Eaton, Susan Hanscom and Charlie Lawry will have summer birthdays.
We liked the colored Easter eggs that Ellen Spring brought to school. Richard Proctor brought a shell and Richard Jackson some wonder shells.
Cheryl Teel and Richard Jackson brought surprise recess treats recently.

Miss Rankin Wins Award

CAMDEN—A highest honor trophy for scholastic achievement is held by Nancy Rankin of Camden High School. She received the award Saturday at Colby College in Waterville. She was among 60 high school seniors from all over the State honored by the Maine Teachers' Association for outstanding academic accomplishment. Miss Rankin's award was based on excellence in English.

Carolyn DiRenzo, Michele Harrington, Joan Huber, Mary Newhall, Anne Spear, Robert Rackliffe and William Murgita have read stories to the class. Others will have a turn before school closes.
Kathi Ball, Patricia McLellan, Linda Wadsworth, Clifford Hickey, Douglas Peters, Gary Porter and Harold Vanorse dramatized a story called "Five Pennies to Spend". We hope that everyone learned that it makes us happy to share with others.
Our class won the PTA banner this month.
We are sorry to have Paul Staples leave us. His father has accepted a pastorate in Kennebunk.
Sharon Robinson has been absent two weeks due to a tonsilectomy.
Grade II — Evelyn Wotton
In our spelling contest Sharon Mendall is leading with Richard Baker, Linda Copp and Edward Eaton in second place.
Elaine Ward leads in our arithmetic contest with Richard Baker and Edward Eaton tying for second place.
Linda Teel, Cynthia Ackley, Peter Eagen, and Jacquelyn Boothby brought records for listening time.
Alyce Peabody, Priscilla Randall and Kathryn Wadsworth have recently celebrated birthdays.
Debra Molino, Kathryn Wadsworth, Leroy Black, Rebecca Fowles and Susan LaGassey have been room helpers.
Gary Lewis, Joyce Hill, Darlene Steeves and Cindy Murgita have been in charge of errands.
Richard Baker, Sharon Mendall, Alyce Peabody and John Murgita have shared books with the class.
Alyce Peabody brought us some tadpoles to watch.
Beverly Foster, Catherine Stafford, Kathryn Wadsworth, Ruth Lawry and Alyce Peabody have brought flowers for the room.
Our farm mural was in charge of Philip Edwards and Bruce Fales. Beverly Foster and Debra Molino assisted them.
Richard Dostie brought a razor clam shell.
Richard Baker brought two kittens for a short visit to the class.
Grade III — Mrs. Boardman
Clean-Up Week was observed by discussion of the value of Clean-Up Week to our school, home, city, state and country. Several children brought rakes and cleaned up the school yard. Each child cleaned his own desk and committees worked on bookcases, cupboards, plant shelves and the library table.

In art class Mothers' Day cards were made and decorated. Spring flowers were brought by Vinson Staples, Nancy Hastings, Debra Rackliffe and Lynn Stevens.
In science class booklets entitled "All About the Stars" are being made and will be completed and taken home in June. A seed experiment is under way. We have beans in water showing that wet seeds will sprout.
Robert Peterson, Elwyn Chadbourne, Richard Kaler, Alton Hickey and Frank Bridges are playing baseball on the Little League teams this year.
Milton Dean brought a treat to school.
Grade Three will have charge of the assembly on Friday.
Grade IV — Mrs. Hill
A mural "Spaniards of Old California" was captured by Julie McConchie, Sally Baker, Jeffrey Thurston and Donald Harden.
"Barcarolle" was played on the flutophones at assembly by Joan Gordon, Brenda Smith, Rhonda Harrington, Julie McConchie, Heidi Hodgkins, Sue Reichel and Jeffrey Thurston.
A new fifty star flag hangs in the fourth grade room.
Janet Johnston brought her electric organ and demonstrated it to the class.
Numerous reports have been made as a result of the children perusing the new set of Golden Book Encyclopedias.
Rhonda Harrington, Janet Johnston, Milton Clark, Gary Eaton and Deborah Dunton have May birthdays.
Jeffrey Thurston and Joan Gordon brought their coin collections to show us.
Grade V — Mr. Seymour
Becky Deor who has been to Florida returned to our class recently. She brought many shells to show to the class. She gave her teacher a large pink shell for display.
Gail Nicholas went to Washington, D. C., during the April vacation. She brought in many pictures that she took of the sights.
Betty Cross went to Boston this past weekend with a church group.
Stephen Lombardo spent a weekend visiting relatives in Bristol, Conn.
We have had many Hawaiian newspapers to look at. Gail Nicholas' grandmother, Mrs. Edwards, loans them to us.
Richard Spring spoke to this class and showed his slides of Hawaii.

This class visited the museum recently to see the students' art exhibit. We have two social studies mural on exhibit.
Little League ball players from this room are Stephen Lombardo, Stephen Jackson, Stephen Brann, Alvin Dennison, Charles McMahon, James Learned, Donald Mansfield, Mark Young and Elmer Larrabee.
This is the time of year when some people get the most good out of next summer's garden.

Owls Head Central School

Grade I—Mrs. Carr

Interesting books for our "story time" were brought in by Kathy Gustin, Nancy Mathieson, Freddie Walker, Susan Wiley and Gerry Wilson.

Room helpers this month are Gerry Wilson, Vincent Ciavino, Freddie Walker, George Wood, Gail Lindsey, Kathy Gustin and Dicky Coffin.

Miss Riley chose our Dutch mural to be exhibited at the Farnsworth Museum.

Our room received the plaque this month for having the largest attendance of parents at the Improvement League meeting.

Vincent Ciavino, Kathy Gustin and Patty Painter brought their shell collections to show us. These shells came from Florida.

The children made some pretty May baskets out of wallpaper and colored construction paper.

We visited Mrs. Kelsey's sixth grade room to see their hobby show. It was a delightful experience.

Grade II—Mrs. Thurston

We visited the Farnsworth Museum on Thursday, May 12, to see the exhibit of art work by girls and boys in District 5. We were pleased to see our farm mural and some individual pictures on display.

James Dow is back to school but has a mending collar bone suffered in a bicycle mishap.

Colleen Morang is improving at

Knox Hospital.

Records and books have been brought in for our enjoyment by Alan Pulkkinen, James Dow, Deborah Orne, Rebecca Hary, Brenda Knowlton, Carolyn Meserve, Peter Oakes, Celia Bray and David Stanley.

Trillium, Mayflowers, snowdrops and dandelions have been added to our list of signs of spring.

Parents visited our display of school work at the last School Improvement League meeting.

Grade III—Miss Bartlett

The third grade children are very much interested in the tomato plants we are raising. The lack of sunshine is keeping us from having very gratifying results.

We have had many lovely spring flowers brought into the room including dogtooth, violets, trillium, arbutus and anemones.

Our trip to the Farnsworth Museum, to see the school art exhibit, was interesting and enjoyable. We are currently developing a language report about it.

We are indeed sorry to lose Gloria Myers from our class. She is moving back to Rockland and will return to South School.

Grade IV—Mrs. Whitten

The fourth grade held a fudge sale and we now have enough money to complete our set of The Golden Book Encyclopedia. We purchased two softball bats and a softball with the remaining funds.

The children made vitamin charts. We have ten charts in all. They are very colorful and also helpful to us.

Bobby Moore and Rodney Painter made a chart comparing the Navaho Indians with the Bedouins. The boys did a fine job illustrating their work.

Each child has made his own booklet of measures to help them with their fractions. They are helpful and fun to use.

My fourth grade presented me with a surprise birthday party on Thursday. Glenda Mason and Mary-Ann Ross made a delicious birthday cake. Mrs. Betty Mason, Mrs. Annie Ross, Glenda, Mary-Ann, Janet Hussey and Helen Perry were hostesses and served ice cream, cake and punch to all.

Grade V—Mrs. Gould

Charles Knight from this class visited Boston this weekend with the youth group from the First Baptist Church.

On a grab bag sale held last week, $2.85 was made for the class treasury.

In English the pupils are working on book reports.

For entertainment in our club last Friday a short play called "Joe's Art Pad" was presented. Also some jokes were told and several pieces were played on the piano by Teddy Knight.

Dan Sprague has recently left the Fifth Grade and moved to Rockland.

Each member of the class is doing a notebook on two of the states. When finished they will be shown to the rest of the class and discussed.

We observed Clean-Up Week by raking our section of the yard and picking up all waste.

We now have all sixteen of the Golden Book Encyclopedias. A short story is going to be picked out of stories written in English to send to the Portland Sunday Telegram. We hope that the one chosen will be published.

Grade VI—Mrs. Kelsey

The class had a hobby show two days last week which proved very interesting. The other grades in the building were invited to see the exhibits. Grade Three wrote us some very nice letters expressing their thanks for inviting them.

David Holsipple spent his vacation in Poughkeepsie, New York. Billy Philbrook visited in Lexington and Boston, Massachusetts. He visited the Science Museum, Longfellow's Inn, Munroe's Tavern where British soldiers were housed at the time of the Revolutionary War and marched in the Patriot's Day parade with a Scout troop. Both boys gave interesting reports of their trips.

Andrew Peterson has joined the class coming here from Florida. We were pleased to find so much of our work in the art exhibit at the Farnsworth Museum.

Donald Kallioch and John Walker are captains of the softball team. Donald's team is undefeated to date.

We sent Colleen Morang, who is still at Knox Hospital, a gift. She wrote us a very sweet note of thanks.

Grade VII—Mr. Cantara

In social studies we have been studying the Orient and each student in the class has prepared oral reports on two subjects on each Asiatic Country.

Last week the Junior American Citizens Club initiated 22 new members from Grade Six. The total membership is now 48. During initiation Betty Bray greeted and congratulated all new members as chairman of the Courtesy Committee.

Our softball league has started its spring lineup. The teams are named: Tinker's Blinkers, Walker's Salkers, Don's Horns, Sada's Tatas, and Ross' Hoss. Each team will play four games and a final tournament will determine the league champion.

Baseball practice has begun and the players hope they can at least play two games before the end of school. Warren and St. George are the only scheduled teams so far.

The class was sorry to lose Milton Sprague who has moved to Rockland. We were happy to greet Dorena Bowness upon her return from South Carolina where she went to school all winter.

During Clean-Up Week the seventh grade along with the whole school helped to clean up our playground. In the afternoon, "Sparky the Fire Dog" came down and answered questions on fire prevention and clean-up.

At least four professional areas are possible for home economics graduates of the university she noted.

In education they may find careers in teaching of home economics, in nursery, or elementary schools, in home demonstration or 4-H Club work.

In the social services home economists find openings as case workers for welfare agencies, or as leaders in such activities as Girl Scouts or YWCA.

In the field of health they find positions as hospital dietitians, in food service management for schools and colleges, in food and nutrition research or public demonstration agents.

"Liking cooking, sewing, or other home-making skills is not necessarily a reason to enter home economics," Dr. Sweetnam says. "The stress is not on training better homemakers, but on training leaders who will contribute to some phase of family living, whether professionally or as members of a community."

All students majoring in home economics complete a basic curriculum which includes courses in English and speech, social sciences, including psychology and modern society; natural sciences, including chemistry, physiology and bacteriology; child development and family relationships; clothing and design; foods and nutrition; home management and housing.

In addition, each student completes a professional sequence of at least 27 semester hours, and at least 13 additional hours of science and humanities.

Costumes Add Color To PTA Open House

At an open house held by North School for the May meeting of the PTA, Monday, students in several rooms dressed in costumes in keeping with room displays. Shown gathered in Miss Elizabeth V. Carr's seventh grade room are those in her group who represented the branches of the U. S. government with visitors from Mexico (Mrs. Simmons' fifth grade). From left to right they are: Lynn Russell as Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn; Kathryn Lagonegro of Mexico; Richard Cousins as President Eisenhower; Kevin McAuliffe from Mexico; Linda Winchenbach as Senator Margaret Chase Smith; and William Frost as Chief Justice Earle Warren.

HOME ECONOMICS CURRICULUM BRIDGE BETWEEN ACADEMIC AND EVERY DAY LIFE AT MAINE

21st I Series

ORONO — "Home economists want to know how people can build satisfying relationships with others, how they can create beauty and comfort in their surroundings, and how they can get what they really want in spending their time and money," reports Dr. Marion D. Sweetnam, director of the School of Home Economics at the University of Maine.

"The home economics curriculum is a bridge connecting the developments in the arts and sciences with the problems of every day life," the Maine educator said.

At least four professional areas are possible for home economics graduates of the university she noted.

"Liking cooking, sewing, or other home-making skills is not necessarily a reason to enter home economics," Dr. Sweetnam says. "The stress is not on training better homemakers, but on training leaders who will contribute to some phase of family living, whether professionally or as members of a community."

North Waldoboro

Francis Cross, Miss Patricia

Orff, Mrs. Ruel Orff and Miss Darlene Orff spent last weekend in Connecticut as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Orff and Mr. and Mrs. Arvine Orff and family.

The 4-H Club girls of North Waldoboro invited their mothers to dinner on Thursday night at men for both more general education in the arts and sciences and preparation for high-level earning. It provides an integrated curriculum with room for both.

"At the same time, it provides preparation for family living because this is the central core of the professions for which it trains.

"Many women find home economics professions particularly satisfying, because they usually involve some phase of family welfare, and their own family life experience adds to their professional competence, and vice versa."

"Spring Fever"

It's May and there's song and fragrance along the shores of the Weskeag, as spring expands its verdure and Nature casts its mantle of inspiring magic across the countryside.

Whenever it comes this time of year, since I first came to live near the river some 38 years ago, I start that annual stint of reconditioning my boat. It usually requires a bit of re-fastening, a patch here and there and a new coat of paint to cover the wear and tear of the previous season.

During foul weather or on chilly days the job goes along fine and my progress (as reported to Mrs. T. at the end of each day) seems to justify the time spent away from home and the many desperately needed repairs there, which (it is alleged) I neglect. And if you think there might be a boring sameness to boat "tinkering" year after year you are wrong, in this case, for I always start my boat repairs each year at a time when I know if I "dawdle" long enough I am sure to be overtaken by just such a day as there was two weeks ago and the several which closely followed; now identified as the first few really fine days of the current spring.

Such days as these are perhaps the reason why some folks repair their boats in winter. But if the delightfulness of spring's coming also brings along the contagion of "spring fever," let's become exposed early and linger long in its pleasantly debilitating affliction.

Some may ask—"really, what is Spring Fever?"

No two afflicted persons would give you the same answer. Its virulent germs infect young and old without warning and enter the human system in devious ways.—The symptoms may be a sudden sense of languor following the tremulous love song of the hermit thrush at twilight. Or one might be seized with a violent longing to close his hand over that of a loved one as he looks into the deceiving distance of a hazy purple sunset, alone. Others become afflicted by the subtle fragrance of wild flowers as they listen to small tumbling brooks or gaze into growing banks of fleecy white clouds against an azure sky. There is no end to the symptoms and they are likely to appear suddenly, as your eyes, ears and nose seeks every wonder of such days as these.

So far, science has never concocted or even tried to so much as "dally" with the idea of devising a preventative or cure for spring fever and it has no unpleasant after effects nor leaves any scars.

Most seriously afflicted are the dreamers and romantic souls who get up unsuspectingly on that fateful morning, full of serious good intentions for a busy day—and retire that night deep in the contagion of its overpowering virus. Resolute in the supreme aura of self satisfaction that—even though the spent day

Salty Sergeant From Vinalhaven Is Skipper Of Army Boat At Brooklyn

Plying the waters of New York harbor almost any day of the week is one of the more unusual craft in Uncle Sam's military service skippered by an unusually salty sergeant.

The boat belongs to the Army's navy based at the Brooklyn Army Terminal and its skipper is Sergeant Alvah M. Ames, formerly of Matinicus and Vinalhaven.

So far all this may seem pretty confusing, and it becomes more so as the background of Sergeant Ames unfolds.

At one time he was Seaman Ames of the U. S. Navy. After growing up in Vinalhaven, the son of the late Lavin S. and Mrs. Julia E. Ames, he joined the Navy in 1945. His knowledge of boats attained at the early age common to most islanders stood him in good stead and soon he was made an instructor at the Bainbridge, Md., Navigation School. Sea duty found him serving aboard the USS Toledo, USS Oregon City and the USS Randolph in the Atlantic and Caribbean areas.

Ames and the Navy parted company in 1947 after a two year hitch. Following a year at home around the islands, he joined the Army as hostilities broke out in Korea. Assigned to the 532nd Engineers, he served in Korea and in the Philippines and was discharged in 1952.

The islander took another vacation from the military but this time for two years. In 1954, Ames re-enlisted and after attending school at Fort Monmouth, N. J., he was assigned to the Brooklyn Transportation Terminal and the harbor boat.

The duty at Brooklyn is a story in itself.

Although volumes of military supplies come in by ship to the Port of New York, the facility is in some respects unlike a military post. The only quarters in the vast terminal are those occupied by Sergeant Ames and his family and Master Sergeant Todd C. Greene and his family.

In an article about the two families in the New York Sunday News this spring, the brick building in which they live is described as an oasis of warmth in the vast impersonal installation.

The difference is made by the presence of children. Sergeant and Mrs. Ames (she is the former Dorothea Woodcock of Vinalhaven) have one son, Michael. Master Sergeant and Mrs. Greene have two teen aged children and they care for two younger children of an Army buddy whose wife died in the winter.

Even when the children aren't playing outdoors, the swings, seesaw and portable pool let anyone passing by know that this building is a home.

The primary duty of the boat operated by Sergeant Ames is to carry officers to various sections of New York Harbor. Apparently he carries out his duties very well because he has earned the Commendation Ribbon Medal with Metal Pendant awarded for meritorious service from 1955 to 1959.
