Nobleboro Woman Killed Instantly As Car Runs Over Her After Hitting Pole At Creek Hill, Thomaston

THOMASTON — Mrs. Barbara Ball, 21, of Nobleboro was killed instantly early Wednesday morning, when the car she was driving went out of control at the foot of Creek Hill while proceeding towards Thomaston, struck a telephone pole and threw Mrs. Ball and a companion out. Mrs. Ball suffered a broken neck and she was pinned under the left rear wheel of the car when Thomaston Police Chief Alfred Teel arrived. Her companion, Mrs. Arlene A. Peck of Waldoboro suffered only scratches and bruises and was later released from Knox County

General Hospital where she had been taken for treatment. Teel said that the car skidded for a distance of 150 feet before striking the pole. The car was spun into the ditch at the corner of Fish Street and Route 1 and was headed toward Rockland. He said the motor and the radio were both going and the car was not damaged extensively. He blamed excessive speed for the mishap, and said it was the first fatal highway accident to take place in Thomaston in eight years. Mrs. Ball was born in Flushing, N. Y., on March 8, 1939, the daughter of the late John Lovell and Mrs. Harold T. Chapman of Damariscotta. She lived in South Jefferson for several years and graduated from Lincoln Academy in 1957. She was employed by the Sylvania Company of Waldoboro. She is survived by her husband, Joseph; by her mother and stepfather, and by a brother John, a Sergeant in the U. S. Air Force now stationed in Germany. Funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Damariscotta Baptist Church with Rev. Donald W. Harrington officiating.

Rockland Teacher Fractures Arms In Auto Crash

LINCOLNVILLE — A Rockland teacher, Mrs. Earl Erickson of 124 Rankin Street, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition, Wednesday afternoon, when the car her husband was driving crashed on Route 1 at the intersection of a dirt road just north of Duck Trap Stream. She suffered fractures of both upper arms and is a patient at Knox Hospital. Her husband and son escaped serious injury.

According to investigating officers the crash was spectacular and the Ericksons were fortunate to escape with as little harm as they did. Erickson told State Police, a front tire blew out as he was traveling southerly down hill. The car went out of control and into the ditch, striking the culvert at the dirt road intersection. The car flew and overturned. It was virtually demolished.

Mrs. Erickson was taken to Knox Hospital by Camden Fire Department ambulance. Her husband was treated at the scene for a laceration on the nose. Their 12-year-old son was unhurt.

Former Coastal Man Taken Into Pediatrics Group

Hill of 1700 Waterman Avenue, San Bernardino, Calif., a graduate of the University of Maine, and Tufts College, is one of almost 300 to be voted into membership at the American Academy of Pediatrics scientific meeting held recently in Atlantic City, N. J.

Dr. Hill met the academy's eligibility requirements, which include special training and experience, certification by the American Board of Pediatrics, high ethical and professional standing, clinical experience and productivity in pediatric activities.

He is married to the former Ina Anderson, a native of South Thomaston. They have two boys, Jeffrey, 9 years, and Charles, 7. Making her home with them is Mrs. Hill's mother, Mrs. Jennie Anderson, who was a former Courier-Gazette correspondent from Georges River Road. Mrs. Hill's brother Arthur Anderson and family live in Union.

will be used to buy a resuscitator and an air tank for use by the fire department.

Muskie, will run its full day's schedule, leaving Islesboro at 7, 8, 9:30, 11 a. m., 12:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30 and 6 p. m., returning to the island from Lincolnville Beach terminal one half hour later. Owls Head Planners Seek Way Of Keeping Lighthouse Reservation For Park Area

Preservation of two of the few fine beaches in the Coastal Area is the aim of the Owls Head Planning Board. In this aerial photo only a portion of the Coast Guard reservation including Owls Head light is shown. The board found the area, other than that on which the light and supporting buildings sit, could be leased from the Federal government on a provisional basis. In

OWLS HEAD—Acting on a plea from the Maine Department of Economic Development for Maine people to preserve part of the Maine coast for recreational purposes, members of the Owls Head Planning Board have been seeking a way to preserve the area occupied by the Owls Head Light. A move to have the State take over the area on a provisional basis from the Federal government was rebuffed this week. J. Owen Weeks, chairman of the town planning board, invited Lawrence Stuart, director of State Parks, Norman Manwell, park planner, to view the site with him and town selectmen. Following the trip, Stuart wrote to the group and State Senator Carl Stipphen of Rockland that he felt the Park Commission would not be interested in the area because of other parks to be developed, the size in relation to others, and the provisional aspect of a lease from the Federal government. The Owls Head group found that the area, except a section about 300 feet across could be leased from the Federal government providing the area could be taken by the government for emergency use at any time, that a security fence be erected around the lighthouse and supporting buildings, that government approval be given

The town fireworks display was held two years in a row up to last year.

Promptly at 9:30 p. m. Monday, a professional fireworks man will touch off an aerial bomb to signal the start of the display.

To help finance the fireworks, Scouts and members of the drum will hold a tag day. Donations have been coming in slowly for some time. Many stores have containers which Camden area residents have made contributions.

Debate Trip To San Diego Memorable Experience For Rockland Boys And Coach

Four Rockland young people and their teacher distinguished themselves, last week, by representing the State of Maine at the National Forensic League speaking competition at San Diego, Calif., in a manner unequalled by Maine students in many years. The team won an opening debate, David Gregory took seventh place in the nation in reading poetry, and Donald Gregory went into the semi-finals of radio delivery. The team was the only one from New England to win a debate.

The trip was made by debate coach Mrs. George Trafton, her husband, the Gregorys, Wayne Johnson and William Beale.

A MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE
By William Beale

On Saturday, June 18, we left Boston's Logan International Airport at 6:45 p. m. EST. Flying TWA's tourist class flight 527 via New York, St. Louis and Kansas City, we arrived at Los Angeles International Airport at 6:50 a. m. PST. After reconfirming our flight to San Diego the next day we travelled by bus into downtown Los Angeles, 15 miles from the Airport. We checked in at the Savoy Plaza Hotel in the heart of Los Angeles, and after a hectic time of pressing our clothes we went to church.

We attended the First Methodist Church, the second oldest church in Los Angeles and containing the second largest organ in the nation: 4600 pipes. The title of the sermon, "Do Now What You Dream", seemed to not only coincide with our thoughts and dreams, but also gave us a bit of spiritual uplifting that was most welcome that Sunday morning two days before our first contest.

After church and eating dinner we took a tour to Walt Disney's fabulous Disneyland. Fabulous is rather a poor adjective to describe it, as all the things we had read about in magazines and saw on TV we actually did. It was a (Continued on Page Seven)

Hat In Ring Contest Spurs Voter Interest

The delegates and would-be presidential candidates aren't the only ones getting steamed up about the coming political conventions these days. According to L. G. Lamplough, district manager for the Gulf Oil Corporation here in the Coastal Area, thousands of early returns in Gulf's "Hat In The Ring" contest show that it's getting hotter by the minute.

This contest, which ends on July 10, is believed to be the biggest in history from the standpoint of retail value of its prizes. It is being held in order to stimulate interest and increase voter understanding in the presidential election and is completely non-partisan. The main thing is to encourage every citizen to determine the qualities and abilities he thinks are most important for the man we'll choose to run this country to possess.

Lamplough pointed out today that there's still time for everyone to enter and qualify for the more than a half a million dollars worth of prizes that will go to the winners. Anyone can enter—there's no age limit. You merely pick up an entry blank at any Gulf Service Station—name the man you think is best qualified to be president—and write why you think he's the man for the job in 25 words or less.

Rockland Ruth Win Is Good For Third Place

WISCASSET — The Rockland Babe Ruth team clobbered Wiscasset 15-1 in a Linnox League game Tuesday evening and jumped over the losers into third place. The baby Tigers belted the offerings of Dick Pelletier for 17 hits, including seven doubles. Carleton Willis fanned 11 for Rockland and had four hits, three of which were doubles.

Rockland started fast with seven big runs in the first during which Mike McGuire, up twice, hit a single and double, along with doubles by Reed, Willis and Condon, a single by Madore, a walk and error.

Willis held the home team to seven hits and they were able to bunch them only in the third when they scored three.

Work Underway On Sprinklers

"Sure hope the boss doesn't see this picture of three of us putting up one little piece of pipe," commented a crew from the Eastern Fire Protection Company which is installing a sprinkler system in Rockland's McLain School. If the boss does see it, they were asked by the cameraman to get together for the shot. They are, from left to right, Daniel Gatz of Auburn, Lewis Tucker of Bangor, and Dennis Lavoie of Gardiner. The picture was taken in the sub-primary room.

A three-man crew is installing a sprinkler system in the McLain School in Rockland and will soon start installing such a system in the high school building. This project, long recommended by school officials, is one of many across the nation which resulted from a group of parochial school children in Chicago become martyrs to safety. A nationwide reevaluation of school safety measures following the fatal Chicago school fire reached into Rockland where a survey was made and the sprinkler systems were among the recommendations.

School Administrative District 5 immediately corrected a number of minor safety deficiencies and went to work on studying sprinkler systems. A contract was let to Eastern Fire Protection Company of Lewiston, one of two Maine firms in the field, and work started last week.

In McLain School the job will cost $6,200 plus installation of a new water service. Some 300 sprinkler heads will be installed in 16 rooms, plus corridors, boiler room, supply rooms, stairwells and shops.

Cost of the project will be returned to the school district over a period of seven or eight years in savings on fire insurance premiums.

After McLain School is completed, the crew will move next door to the high school building where a sprinkler system will be installed in 26 rooms, the gymnasium, auditorium, corridors, stairwells, kitchen, basements and storage rooms. The high school job will cost $10,375 plus water service. This too will be returned in fire insurance premiums.

WALDOBORO MOVES TO SECOND SLOT IN TWILIGHT LOOP WITH 7-2 VICTORY OVER ST. GEORGE

ST. GEORGE—The Waldoboro Townies took over sole possession of second place in the Knox-Lincoln Twilight League Tuesday night with a 7-2 win over the St. George Torpedoes. Bob Lawson, on the hill for Waldoboro, held the home team to three scattered hits and was given fine support by his mates.

Waldoboro settled the issue in the second inning when they scored five times on singles by Bob and Buddy Lawson, Tink Powell and Dana Verge, plus an error and a walk.

St. George finally broke into the scoring column in the fourth when Gary Hyvarinen singled two over after a walk and a fielder's choice that failed. The Lawson brothers and Dana Verge had two hits each for the winners.

LET'S CURB THE FOOL BEHIND THE WHEEL

Somebody has done some real thinking in an attempt to solve the ever increasing problem of major traffic violators whose disregard for the lives and safety of others on the highways has long since passed the serious stage and now approaches the criminal. A proposal has been made, and it is receiving very careful consideration, that a national clearing house for records of major traffic violations be established. It could be patterned after the FBI system, but completely apart from that agency which deals with the criminal element.

As things now stand, a serious violation, a crash which causes death, drunken driving and habitual speeding are dealt with in each individual state. The violator, if he is willing to lie as to his past record, and many of them are, can obtain a license in another state and keep on driving to kill or endanger again.

The proposed system would pass the information to the central bureau where a record would build against the habitual and his home state notified, regardless of where the violation took place. States with the point system would charge the points assessed in other states against the home state driver as if the violation had occurred at home. Drunken drivers would be refused a license in all states as well as the one in which the offense was committed. The unsafe driver would be uncovered by his record in the central bureau and he would soon be off the highway.

There is some interchange of records now between New England states with a marked degree of success. The same pattern on a national basis could go far in curbing the fool and the drunk on the highways. As a result many of those who might die in highway crashes would live out their normal lives.

Most of us would hate to face a man with a gun or a knife in his hand. However, we do face a hurtling thunderbolt of steel with a fool at the wheel as an everyday hazard of driving — until that day comes when we are among his victims. The sooner the reckless driver and the drunk are curbed everywhere the safer the highways will be.

MEETING THE BOSS

Spokesmen for retail trade enterprises are fond of saying that the consumer is king. That isn't just a felicitous phrase—it's one of the hard and inescapable facts of retail life in this intensely competitive world of ours.

If you don't believe that, an article in a national magazine of June 4 will prove enlightening. It is by the president of the nation's third-largest supermarket chain—an outfit that operates some 1400 large modern stores. He writes: "Within the last few months I have acquired an important new job. I ring doorbells and talk to housewives. This is, I believe, one of the most vital things I have ever done, although I am 60 years old, have had almost thirty years' experience in my business, and I am president of a company that will this year enjoy sales of almost $2,000,000,000."

Why does the top man in a huge organization ring doorbells? The answer is found in another paragraph of the article: "I should have taken up doorbell ringing long before I did. It is one of the best ways I know to meet my real boss—ring her doorbell and talk to her. She is the American housewife. The nearly $2,000,000,000 we receive in a year is her money. If she doesn't like me or my associates or our stores and products, she can and will destroy us."

It's no trouble at all for consumers to destroy a store, no matter how big. All they have to do is to walk past its door and take their trade to a competitor in the next street or the next town. Successful retailers, in all branches of the business, know that, and never forget it.

Incidentally, that huge grocery chain is one of the largest customers of Rockland's fishing industry and by its purchases contributes much to the economy of the area.

William K. Eaton

William K. Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Eaton, 24 Birch Street, who graduated from Rockland High School this June, has enlisted in the Air Force National Guard. He left Saturday for training at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

Rockport Moves Into Linnox Lead With Win

ST. GEORGE — The Rockport Babe Ruth team shutout St. George 8-0 in a Linnox League game Monday night to jump into a tie with Rockland for fourth place. It was the fourth straight loss for St. George.

Eight errors by the home team made the visitor's task easy as they also did some solid hitting, led by Skip Pound and Buzzy Barrows who had two each. Three runs in the first inning were enough to win it as Barrows doubled and a walk and two errors preceded a Pound single.

Score: Rockport 330 020 0-8-7-1 St. George 000 000 0-0-3-8 Talbot and Costa; Leppanen and Stewart.

TRAVELING BASEBALL CLOWNS TO APPEAR AT SOUTH FIELD JULY 11 FOR DRUM CORPS FUND

The baseball attraction of the year has been slated for Rockland's South Field on Monday evening, July 11, when the Globe-trotters of baseball, the Indianapolis Clowns, play the crack New York Royals. The game is to benefit the Port O'Rockland Drum and Bugle Corps, to help them in raising funds for their trip to Detroit later this summer where they will appear and compete with other corps at the Veterans of Foreign Wars national convention.

The Clowns are now in their 31st year of touring the U. S. and Canada. They daily face the top barnstorming teams, local semipro and all-star nines. This season they've scored 82 victories against only three defeats, to date, proving the Clowns have not only the funniest team ever to caper the diamond, but also one of the finest professional clubs in the country.

Of course, fun is the blood that runs through the veins of the Clowns, and there's everything from an ambidextrous switch-pitcher to a relief hurler, who is a contortionist. Perhaps the funniest item on the agenda for the game is the Clown's famous combination shadowball and rock 'n roll funshow.

To quote the Clown's sensational first sacker, Natureboy Williams, "We got that slow-motion shadowball down to an art. to include non-Shakespeare works in its repertory. In future seasons original verse plays will be performed."

The Camden Shakespeare Theater's 1960 season runs from July 26 to Aug. 27. Each production opens on succeeding Tuesday evenings and plays through Saturday evening. Whenever possible, Saturday matinees will be performed in an outdoor garden theater.

Curtains are 8 o'clock evenings and 2 p. m. for the matinee.

Knox Memorial Association Lays Plans For Annual Open House At Knox Mansion

THOMASTON—Plans for Open House at Montpelier on the anniversary of the birth of General Henry Knox, July 25, were made at a meeting of the Knox Memorial Association, last Thursday, at the home of President John Egerton. It also was noted new folders are ready to be distributed throughout New England.

Other members present were: Richard O. Elliott, bank treasurer; Miss Harriet Williams, local treasurer; Mrs. Katharine C. Derry, secretary; Dr. Lester Adams, librarian-historian; Mrs. J. Edward Elliot, registrar; Miss Dorothy W. Kent, third vice president; and Stuart C. Burgess, trustee.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Derry. Ambrose Cramer of Rockport, Merle James of Cushing and Arthur Richardson of Owls Head were elected to the board of trustees.

Egerton reported that two very generous contributions had been made to the Association by the American Foundation, through Judge Curtis Bok, and the Mary Louise Curtis Bok Foundation, through Mrs. Efram Zimbalist. This money was given specifically to re-roof Montpelier (which has been done) and to make badly needed interior repairs. On the interior repairs, Egerton and Miss Kent consulted with Ambrose Cramer, architect and a member of the New England Society for the Preservation of Antiquities, and under his supervision the fine old kitchen and small adjoining dining room were re-painted a warm, cheerful color, greatly enhancing its attraction. Cornice plaster work, painting and papering upstairs are very nearly completed.

The Association recently has been given three interesting personal possessions of General Knox: the great key to his safe, his water canteen and small rum barrel; also a clothes hamper from the original mansion.

Egerton told members that over 200 people had visited the Mansion since June 1, among them many Knox County school children. Two delightful letters of appreciation were read from children in the Camden Grade School.

Plans were discussed for the annual luncheon-meeting and Open House at Montpelier on July 25, the birthday of Henry Knox. Ladies of the Federated Church at Thomaston will serve the luncheon in the church vestry at 12 o'clock. Tickets are $1.50 for members and their friends. At 2 o'clock Open House will be held at the Mansion where there will be hostesses in costumes, under the direction of Mrs. J. Edward Marks, and members of the General Knox Chapter of the DAR will serve refreshments during the afternoon. Egerton invited Senator Margaret Chase Smith to be the speaker, and a letter of acceptance was read. Admission that day, including tea, will be fifty cents. The public is cordially invited.

Granddaughter Of Cranes Becomes Bride At Norway

NORWAY—At the Center Congregational Church in Norway, Miss Rebecca Elizabeth Crane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crane of Norway, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy Crane, Sr., of Rockland, became the bride of John Roger Rafferty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rafferty of Rochester, N. Y. Their marriage took place Saturday, June 25, at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. J. Nesbitt Lello officiating. Mrs. Parkin Briggs of Caribou, friend of the bride's family, was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess style gown of white silk taffeta, fashioned with a portrait neckline of imported Chantilly lace, elbow length sleeves, and a bouffant skirt terminating in a chapel train. She wore a mantilla of Chantilly lace and carried a bridal bouquet of stephanotis, baby's breath and philodendron.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Crane, sister of the bride, wore a mint green street length gown of mist taffeta and a straw picture hat. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white carnations.

The bridesmaids, Miss Louisa Chase of Brewster, Mass., Miss Ann Gerry of Brewer; Miss Judith Hagerman of Plymouth, N. H.; Miss Marcia Peterson of Wethersfield, Conn.; and Mrs. Sterling Seamens of Franklin, Mass., wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. Their bouquets were similar to that of the honor attendant.

Mark Ray Berberian of Englewood, N. J., acted as best man. The ushers were Robert Crane, Jr., Brunswick; Daniel, Bumstead of Westwood, N. J.; Fred Conrad, Donald Miller and Woodley Osborne, all of Englewood.

At the reception held at the Crane cottage in North Norway, Miss Nancy Crane and Miss Gertrude Crane, cousins of the bride, assisted in serving punch. Miss Martha Crane, also a cousin of the bride, was in charge of the gift table. The guest book was circulated by Miss Ann Andrews of Norway.

Mr. and Mrs. Rafferty will make their home at 40 Rockingham Street, Rochester, N. Y. The bride graduated from Dana Hall in Wellesley, Mass., in 1956, and is a recent graduate of Colby College in Waterville, where she was a member of Chi Omega Sorority. Her mother is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dunton. Mr. Dunton was the former agent for the Eastern Steamship Company in Rockland. Mrs. Rafferty has spent many summers in Rockland with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy Crane, Sr.

Vocal selections "My Own True Love" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Miss Sharon Leigh, twin sister of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Coral Gables Country Club, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Nassau, Bahamas.

The bride chose as her traveling ensemble a yellow and white checked linen suit with white accessories. On their return, they will reside at 5271 N. W. Second Terrace, Miami.

Mrs. Strothman was born in Rockland, where her father, Dr. Leigh, had his office until the family moved to Coral Gables in 1946. for the location and type of any buildings that might be erected, and roads be built with access to the lighthouse.

Most valuable from a recreational standpoint are two fine beaches which are not now available to the public. One faces Owls Head harbor and the other faces northeastward.

In Stuart's letter, he pointed out that the area could be taken, if declared surplus by the government, for half-value for recreational purposes and free if of true historic interest.

Although Stuart was not optimistic about the Park Commission being interested in the park under a lease set up, he said he felt there would be a good chance of the town or state taking it over if declared surplus.

Weeks stated the planning group has not given up. He said the proposed park is of value not only to Owls Head but to the entire area.

"With all the interest and publicity about preserving some of our coastline for the public, I certainly feel we can do something with this wonderful area," WWWeeks said.

The summer will be at 4 p. m., July 3, at the South Cushing Baptist Church with Rev. E. Story Hildreth the speaker. These services will be held through July and August.

Debate Trip Memorable Experience

little more commercialized than we had expected, but nevertheless the Walt Disney animated touch prevailed quite prominently throughout the four lands of adventure.

Leaving Disneyland we had our evening dinner in one of China-town's best Chinese restaurants—Tang's. The meal was exotic and the amount of food was more than the six of us could devour.

Talking with our Chinese waiter, we learned that they do not advertise the restaurant at all. We could easily see why; their satisfied customers do it for them.

Monday morning we shopped and hoped to have our first sampling of California orange juice which resulted in about the biggest laugh of the whole trip. A small glass cost 25c and to top it off it was frozen and canned.

That was about our last experience with California orange juice. Monday noon we took United Airlines first class flight to San Diego. We flew over Catalina Island and had a much more comfortable flight than the one we experienced the day before.

We met several other contestants on the plane who were going to the tournament also.

That afternoon we registered at the University of San Diego and learned that our lodgings for the tournament had been changed and that our group was to be split up. Donald and David Gregory were the only ones who stayed at the university, while Mr. and Mrs. Trafton, Wayne Johnson and myself stayed at the new St. James Hotel in downtown San Diego, five miles from the University. This made it a little more inconvenient as far as travelling was concerned to and from the college, but we managed quite well once we deciphered the bus schedule.

In the evening, we went on a boat ride around the harbor of San Diego sponsored by the tournament. There we got a chance to meet a lot more of the 300 contestants, viewed the Navy's varied assortment of warships, saw the tuna fishing fleets, and the night lights and skyline of San Diego.

Tuesday morning the contest got underway with the first round of practice debates. Also the first session of the National Congress convened, the ruling body of the National Forensic League, about which I will say more later.

Tuesday afternoon saw the first debate, the only one held that day. The results were withheld until the next day and until the qualifying debate for the semifinals had been completed.

In the evening a banquet was held at which over 500 people attended. The mayor of San Diego welcomed us to the city, the president of California - Western University gave a brief address on pursuing higher education, and entertainment was furnished by a singing group called the Dappers from San Diego State University.

After the entertainment Rockland was recognized as being the most travelled team in the tournament, having travelled over 3700 miles to attend. We stood up in acknowledgement of our recognition and after that we were pretty well known.

The second and third round of debates were held on Wednesday and brought an end to the debating end of the tournament as far as we were concerned. After being eliminated in debating we concentrated our efforts on Original Oratory, Dramatic Interpretation, Poetry Reading and Radio.

The first rounds of Original Oratory and Dramatic Interpretation came Wednesday afternoon. In the evening, the tournament held a picnic at the San Diego zoo, one of the world's largest.

In the brief four hours that we had at the zoo it was impossible to see everything, but we tried our best.

On Thursday, deciding we could do better than we were doing, we entered Poetry Reading and Radio. We got into the finals in Poetry Reading, David Gregory placing seventh in the nation in that event, one place shy of obtaining a bronze medal of distinction. We also made it to the semi-finals in Radio and we do not know as yet our exact position in that event.

That afternoon Donald and David Gregory, accompanied by the vice president of the National Forensic League, J. Edmund Meyer, went on a radio program representing the farthestest team in the tournament and as the only twins in the tournament. They also were invited to do a TV program, but due to the fact they were wearing Bermuda shorts at the time in preparation to attend a chicken barbecue at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gross, former residents of Rockland now living in San Diego, they thought it wise not to appear in that particular attire.

We went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gross Thursday evening to attend a chicken barbecue on our behalf. It was nice to meet someone from our own home town, being so far from it. We also met Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Gilly) Merriam who, throughout our entire stay, showed us all around San Diego and acquainted us around a good deal.

Friday noon ended the participating end of the tournament as far as we were concerned and we had a chance to relax a little during the remainder of our stay. Again the Merriams outdid themselves and took us to Tijuana, Mexico, where we bought several souvenirs and had a great deal of fun practicing our Yankee Trading ingenuity on the Mexicans.

Friday evening was spent at the awards banquet where the winners of the tournament in the different classes were announced. Though I am afraid we were rather light in the trophy department we still did better than the rest of our New England competitors.

Schreverbury, Mass., and Laconia, N. H., were eliminated during the first round in all the events they entered and we did manage to make the finals and semi-finals in two events. A New England team has never won the coveted national title, most of them going to the mid-West teams which seem to be the superior speakers.

This year, as an example, first place was won by Aurora, Ill., second by Independence, Mo., and third by Seminole, Okla., all mid-western teams.

We left San Diego at 8:45 a. m. Saturday morning to begin our 3700 mile trip back to Maine. We arrived in Los Angeles a little after 9 and spent the forenoon and part of the afternoon shopping and eating. We left for the airport at 3 p. m., said goodbye to the Gregorays who had a mid-night flight to Washington, D. C., and left Los Angeles at 4:15 p. m. PST. We cruised at 17,000 feet and our air speed was 275 m.p.h. Shortly after departure, we encountered a large forest fire that looked to be of tremendous size from 17,000 feet so you can well imagine how large it was on the ground. It was very rough flying over the fire due to the tremendous heat that rose from it and for nearly five minutes we flew through its smoke. The cloud then bore off to our right and continued with us for some time.

Later in the afternoon we flew over the southern rim of the Grand Canyon and around 6:30 we flew over the Continental Divide. Having flown at night on our way out we didn't get a chance to see it. There we also encountered another large fire. It again got rough and at about the same time we encountered the Rocky Mountains and together they gave us one wild ride for about an hour and a half. After that, all we saw was desert, desert, and more desert.

We took the same route home on TWA's tourist class flight via Kansas City, St. Louis and New York. Sleep was impossible on the trip as the hum of the four motors and the individual air conditioners over the seats didn't make it a particularly quiet ride.

If it hadn't been for the fact that we had a half hour stop at each of the different cities, not only would we have starved to death but our legs would have been so numb that I doubt if we could ever walked or heard anything again.

We landed at Boston's Logan International Airport at 8:59 p. m. EDT after our second 15-hour coast to coast flight. We were never so happy to see something green and something besides palm trees again as we were then. We all gave a large cheer when we crossed the border into Maine.

Disregarding the fact that we had a chance to see a lot of our nation, the biggest feature was the knowledge that we gained from our experience of representing our State in a national contest. The competition was the best and we knew every time we debated that our opponents were the champions of their states or districts. We gained a tremendous amount of knowledge about debating, speech, and the National Forensic League itself.

We learned that the NFL has its own student Congress comprised of people from all over the nation which make the rules and laws for the League. It is set up exactly like our United States government and is comprised of a House of Representatives and a Senate, the two convening on the final day to make a joint session which is the Congress. Many of the nation's leading politicians say it is one of the finest, well-run, best represented ruling bodies in the United States.

We met many different and interesting people, all tops in their respective fields. We talked with people from all over the nation and all over the world. We met the officers of the National Forensic League and invited the vice president, who escorted Donald and David Gregory to the radio show, J. Edmund Meyer, to the annual Seafoods Festival. He said he would try his best to make it and we certainly hope he can.

Mrs. Trafton, our debate coach, gained a tremendous amount of speaking knowledge through her judging of different contests and through her acquaintances with other coaches and people from the rest of the nation.

In closing this resume of our trip it was you, the people of Rockland, who made it possible. Through your generosity, through the hard work of many people, particularly Henry Marsh and through the unceasing publicity of this newspaper, the trip was possible. We are deeply grateful. It has been an experience that we will long remember and cherish. It has been one of the most knowledgeable and educational experiences of our lives.

For the members of the debating team, Donald Gregory, David Gregory, Wayne Johnson and myself, and from our debate coach, Mrs. Trafton, we want to thank you all very much and want you to know that we will never forget the kindness and generosity that our home town showed us in appreciation and recognition for our year of championship debating.

Veteran Employee Retires

If he had it to do over again, he would choose working for the State Highway Commission, Harvey E. Lunden of West Rockport told co-workers Friday noon on his retirement from 35 years employment with the highway commission. Things never got dull, he said, because there always was something to be done. For 25 years, he was a highway patrolman in the West Rockport area. For the past 10 years he has been a gang foreman on maintenance. Lunden accepts the gift of a large power drill from his co-workers from local supervisor Henry Foley. The Lundens have one daughter, Carole, who will graduate from the Maine Medical Center School of Nursing in the fall.

Governor Urges Unusual Care Over the Fourth

Governor John H. Reed and Col. Robert Marx, State Police chief, joined today in urging motorists and pedestrians to exercise unusual care during the 4th of July weekend.

"We know, from sad experience, that holiday weekends are exceptionally hazardous on the road," said Governor Reed. "Just two years ago, six people were killed during the 4th of July weekend. However, it is possible to get through these periods without wholesale death on the roads. Last year, with the 4th falling on Saturday, the State experienced one highway fatality. This year the holiday falls on Monday, making a long three-day holiday and, of course, increasing the accident risk."

In a plea for acceptance of individual responsibility on the road, the Governor continued:

"Safety on the streets and highways boils down to a question of compliance with the laws and the rules of common sense. The safety of everyone on the road depends upon our willingness to accept our responsibilities in traffic. Failure to do so, imperils our own safety and that of everyone else in the traffic stream. If each of us will accept his responsibilities, we can greatly reduce the number of accidents, prevent crippling injuries, and save lives. Please give us your complete cooperation."

Col. Marx announced an all-out effort by the State Police with every available man on traffic patrol.

"It is impossible to over-emphasize the need for extra caution," said the State Police chief. "Maine roads will be carrying a tremendous volume of vacation traffic. Failure to obey safe driving rules is always serious; at a time like this, such failure is almost certain to result in traffic tragedy. Comply with the law; don't attempt to drive after drinking; and be sure that patience, caution, and common sense are your constant companion behind the wheel."

SS Disability Payments Same As Retirement

AUGUSTA — Social Security disability payments at age 50 to age 65 are the same as those payable to retired workers 65 and over, according to George Field, manager of the Augusta office.

A disabled or retired worker's benefits range from at least $33 a month to about $120 a month, depending on the worker's average monthly earnings over the years. For example, if the average earnings are $200 per month, benefit to a disabled or retired worker would be $84 per month.

Wives and dependent children of disabled workers are eligible for monthly benefits the same as wives and dependent children of retired workers. These benefits are in addition to the benefits paid the disabled worker.

Field further states that disability benefits, like other Social Security benefits, are not automatic, but a formal application must be filed. Disability benefits are in most respects the same as those paid retired workers, except that they are payable as early as age 50. Anyone interested in more information about the disability provisions or any phase of the Social Security program should get in touch with the Social Security office in the Post Office Building, Augusta, for current and correct information.

Fourth Of July In Years Past Called For Big Celebrations Around County

A firemen's muster was one of the highlights of the Thomaston Fourth of July in 1870.

By F. L. S. Morse

The Glorious Fourth

The birthday of our nation has been generally observed for the last 184 years and often in our town as elsewhere with frequent public or community celebrations.

In my own early childhood in the "Gay Nineties" this was done sometimes with a public celebration, and well organized parade but always with music, feasting, fireworks and a lot of noise.

At Morse's Corner we were always awakened at dawn, or just before, by a terrific explosion out front in the road, attended by a noise that might be sufficient to awaken the dead, if noise could do it, and a vibration that rocked the buildings round about. It is my sincere belief that dynamite and giants stolen from the quarries were at the bottom of these blasts that so noisily greeted the morn.

Every boy and girl had fire crackers and torpedoes and cap pistols. As time passed these gadgets became too tame and blank cartridge revolvers were furnished all the girls and boys. As a youth I always went to the village on the night before the Fourth, and at the Corner or business section the boys would line the sidewalks on both sides of the street and blaze away for hours. What a din! My ears rang for a week, but I thought I was having a wonderful time.

Later the church bells were rung, generally before midnight if it could be done, and it often could, but always after midnight.

Nobody in those days could have dreamed that things could be so different in a few short years.

Cyrus Eaton in his History of Thomaston, Rockland and South Thomaston tells of parades, speeches and dinners.

In 1823 there were rival political factions which couldn't agree and so had two celebrations, one styled the Republican celebration was held at the Meadows. The oration was given in the little brick church on the eastern corner of Lime-rock Street and the Old County Road where now there is a deep quarry. Senator John Ruggles spoke and about 300 people marched to what we now call the old Greenhouse, which then stood some 400 or 500 feet from the church where now yawns another quarry. There is now a bunch of lilac bushes back of the wall and a stump shows where a juniper tree was cut in 1959. The house stood just back of that, but was moved by some 40 oxen and a crowd of men down to its present site many years ago. How the house accommodated the crowd in 1823 is not told. Probably the lawn was used for tables. The house was then the home of Jacob Ulmer.

The other celebration, the Federal, was held at the Old Church on the Hill. This feud was not a matter between parties. (Continued on Page Sixteen)

INCREASED INTEREST SHOWN IN MAJORING IN GEOLOGY AT UNIVERSITY OF MAINE

ORONO — Attracted by a career that combines several highly interesting features, a goodly number of Maine high school graduates are enrolling at the University of Maine each fall with geology as their major field of study.

According to Professor Joseph Trefethen, head of the State University's department of geology, most geologists:

1. Spend much of their lifetime working out-of-doors.
2. Travel a great deal, often to remote areas of the world.
3. Do considerable fascinating scientific research.
4. Earn excellent salaries.

University of Maine geology graduates are accepting jobs each year in a variety of fields, Professor Trefethen said.

"Many go to work for the government's federal geological survey, which is the biggest single unit in the world that hires geologists. Others work for the National Park Service, the Bureau of Mines, Department of State, and Corps of Engineers," he noted.

"Several go to work for private industry, accepting employment with oil companies, mining firms, contracting and engineering organizations, museums, equipment manufacturers of mining equipment and oil drilling machinery, and with aero service firms whose work has to do with photo interpretation and map making. In addition, some go into teaching on the high school or college level," he said.

"Geology is the study of the earth and its make-up," the Maine educator declared, "so you can see how geologists are in demand by any organization whose operations deal with the earth's surface."

"At the present time," he noted, "many of our graduates are going to graduate school before accepting jobs. This is because this year there is a surplus of oil and mineral production in the United States and the oil and mining companies do not need as many graduates with the bachelor's degree as in some years."

There are several specialized fields of study within the study of geology, Professor Trefethen pointed out, and the program at the University of Maine gives students a good, broad background without emphasis on any one of these various fields, which include:

1. Paleontology — the study of fossils.
2. Stratigraphy — the study of the sequence and significance of sedimentary layers.
3. Structural geology — the architecture of the earth.
4. Mineralogy — the study of minerals.
5. Petrography — the study of the components of rocks and their identities, proportions, and relations.
6. Economic geology — the study of things of value in the earth.
7. Geomorphology — the study of surface features.
8. Glacial geology — the study of glacial deposits, such as sands, gravels, etc.

Students who go on to do graduate work will concentrate in one of these fields at that time, Professor Trefethen said. He said that the University of Maine offers the program leading to the master's degree which results in several students remaining on campus for further study after receiving the bachelor's degree.

Students who enroll at the university to study geology are enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences where they take a program of courses during their freshman and sophomore years designed to give them a good broad background in liberal arts. These courses are in English, speech, the foreign languages, social sciences, natural sciences, and mathematics, humanities, and physical education.

Prior to the start of his junior year, the geology student sits down with Professor Trefethen and his courses in geology are planned for the junior and senior years. In addition to the regular geology courses, geology students must take basic courses in mathematics, physics, and chemistry.

A check of the university's catalog shows that typical geology courses include physical and historical principles of geology, common rocks and minerals, advanced general geology, introduction to regional geography, structural geology, economic geology, field geology, mineralogy, optical mineralogy, elements of petrology, glacial geology, photogeology, paleontology, sedimentology, geomorphology and geological exploration.

Field trips are common for Maine geology students and include visits to interesting geological earth features in Bar Harbor and Boothbay.

Health For All

Down, But Not Out
"Tuberculosis? I didn't think people got that any more. It's been wiped out, hasn't it?"

That's something we've heard a number of times and we wish it were true, but it isn't. Each year there are a few less deaths than the year before. Each year, fewer people come down with active TB than the year before. But...

Right now, 36 million Americans are infected with TB. Based on what is happening today, it is estimated that some 156,000 of these infected people will break down with active tuberculosis sometime during the next four or five years.

These are by no means all long-standing infections. People are picking up the germs today. There are, for instance, more than 2,000,000 young people under 25 among those infected. Nearly 20 per cent of all new active cases of TB each year are people under 25. Fortunately, with early detection and modern treatment, the death rate in this age group is comparatively low. But young people do still die of TB every year.

Tuberculosis is very much of a problem today, especially since it is an infectious disease. Any person who is infected with TB can break down with active disease at any time and become a source of new infections far into the future.

No, TB is not wiped out, yet. We hope it will be, in time. Meanwhile it's smart to get a TB check-up every year.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by: Maine TB and Health Association, 2 Bridge Street, Augusta.

City Shifts Into High On Improving Parking Facilities By Surfacing Lots

Tar crews had little trouble getting the sticky liquid to spread as the sun blazed down early Tuesday, on the Lindsey Street parking lot in Rockland. The tar truck is shown spreading tar on the southerly half of the two-section lot. Adjoining it are two private parking lots which were not surfaced.

Steps are being taken to improve existing Rockland parking facilities and to create at least one new parking area in the City. City Manager Charles Haynes announces that the section of the Lindsey Street parking lot belonging to the City was tarred Tuesday, as well as the small section behind the Bayview Hotel which adjoins the Sears Roebuck lot and which will provide facilities for a number of cars.

Mr. Haynes said that the lot between Winter Street and Tillson Avenue also will be tarred this week. Now being staked out is the section of Limerock Street between the Community Building and White Street which will be excavated and prepared for diagonal parking. No estimate was given as to the number of cars that this new strip will accommodate but it is believed that about 50 can be handled comfortably.

All the parking lots will be lined off as soon as possible. Manager Haynes said.

Parking was the number one area of improvement sought by the Merchants Committee of the Rockland Chamber of Commerce in a plan presented to the June meeting of the City Council. The lots were built several years ago but this week saw the first concrete action toward surfacing them. The City highway department has erected small signs on Union Street and Lindsey to direct attention to that lot which services the northern end of the main business district.

The Rankin Block area merchants also have asked for more work to be done on the lot behind the Northend block. This was set off as a parking lot sometime ago but because of the lack of a tar surface shows the wear of weather rapidly. It services people working in the

Miss Mary Jane Hallowell entertained a group of friends at her home Thursday at a cook-out and party. After the cooking duties in New York City, out, games were played, then they enjoyed swimming at Chickawaukie Lake. Those present were Carol Lammi and Rosemary Barrows of Rockport, Eileen Hare, Steven Merrill, David Moore and Terry Pinkham of Glen Cove and Richard Tolman and Gregory Boetsch of Rockville.

Miss Joyce Farmer motored to Manchester, N. H., last weekend, accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. Noyes Farmer, Sr. and aunt, Miss Dorothy Farmer, who returned home after visiting here.

Miss Joan Abbott, who is having a vacation from her teaching duties in New York City, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Abbott.

The delta of the Nile reached inland about 100 miles, and is triangular in shape, and is so-called because its shape resembles the Greek letter delta.

Big Program Set At Unity On the Fourth

UNITY—A capacity crowd jammed the stands at Unity Raceway last Sunday to see Augusta favorite Dave Darveau, on leave from the Army, drive his flashy Dodge coupe to victory in the feature stock car race. Darveau took the lead from Harold Wilcox of Bangor who finished second. Third was Mac Tillson of Augusta.

In the Bomber feature event Alvin Thayer of Hampden was first with Harvey Landry of Waterville second and veteran Irving Buzzell of Winthrop, third.

A gala weekend program is planned at Unity Raceway on July 3 and 4. Championship Races will be held in both the stock car and Bomber classes with an added attraction that promises some of the biggest thrills ever seen at the local track. The plus feature will be a crash and rollover contest among the drivers with a substantial cash prize going to the winner. It should be one of the most exciting presentations to date. Both days programs will start at 2:30 p. m.

Local Navy Man On World Cruise Aboard Canberra

John S. Sproul

A Rockland man is on an around the world cruise at the expense of Uncle Sam. John S. Sproul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Sproul of 4 Otis Street is not on a Congressional junket but is a member of the guided missile cruiser USS Canberra.

Sproul graduated from Rockland High School in the Class of 1956 and joined the Navy for four years the following September. He took his basic training at Bainbridge, Md. and then was sent to Norfolk, Va., for five months of temporary duty at the Naval Airforce Base. He then went to the Great Lakes Training School for advance training as a machinist.

He was stationed at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for two years doing duty in the shore patrol. After leaving Cuba, he was sent to Norfolk to join the USS Canberra for sea duty. The ship is now in Japan and will go on from there to Hong Kong.

The ship has stopped at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, through the Panama Canal to San Diego and Long Beach, Calif. It went to Hawaii and on to Sydney and Melbourne, Australia, Guam, and Japan.

Sproul says the foreign countries are nice, especially Australia, where the people welcomed the American boys into their homes. But Maine is still his favorite State.

West Waldoboro

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sheffield Viola Kuhn, Anna Stahl and Jennie Fowles were in Waterville last Tuesday.

Recent callers of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Genthner were Mr. and Mrs. James Barter of Boothbay, Mrs. Virginia Britto and son of Rockland and Mrs. Russell Cooney.

Mrs. Althea Winchenbach and Mrs. Isabel McGrath were in North Conway, N. H., last Monday.

The Wesley Society met with Mrs. Mabel Genthner last Thursday afternoon with 11 members present. During the business meeting plans were made to have the annual fair Aug. 4.

Mrs. Osier was in Portland last Friday.

Mrs. Florence Bidwell and Mrs. Catherine Waltz were in Rockland Tuesday.

George Crane, who has been spending his vacation with his grandfather, Hudson Egleby.

Mrs. Reuben McCourt and her mother, Mrs. Lena Kaler of Somerville, Mass., are spending the summer at their home here.

One cause of trouble may be in getting out of bed on the wrong side—another may be that of having spent too little time in it.

FOURTH TRADITION CONTINUES AT THOMASTON

A big parade in 1877 provided a thrill for Thomaston residents.

The fiftieth anniversary of American independence was ushered in by ringing of bells, and a grand national salute from artillery stationed beneath the Stars and Stripes, floating from a liberty pole on the hill in front of the bridge at Mill River. A procession was marshalled at 9 o'clock, from Mason's Hall (Later R. H. Counce Hall) to the Old Parish meetinghouse, which was tastefully adorned with oak trimming, mottoes and the names of Washington, Knox and other patriots, in white roses with that of Bolivar in red. The services were: Prayer by Rev. J. Washburn; original ode by C. Eaton; reading of the Declaration by H. Prince, Jr.; oration by J. Cilley and concluding prayer by Rev. T. Whiting. A dinner provided by Copeland and Piper for 400 guests at the rope walk and a display of fireworks, novel and splendid for those times, closed the day.

1831 From Eaton: "The Fourth of July was duly observed by a procession from the Knox Hotel, through Main and High Streets to the Mill River Church, where, with the usual services, an oration was delivered by Mr. Cilley, an original ode sung after which a repast at the hotel provided by J. Balch, was partaken with the usual sentiments. David Kalloch, Col. B. Burton and other Revolutionary soldiers were in the procession.

I have been told that Kalloch, who happened to be my grandmother's great uncle gave a toast as follows, "Here's to the States, and the brave general Gates, who fought in the army so fine, 'Twas in '77 with the favor of Heaven, that he flogged that old rascal Burgoyne." There can be little doubt that the old gentleman had been better as a soldier than a poet. At that time, being unable to walk, he was taken into the church in a chair. This may not be entirely correct, but it is as I recall it, having heard.

As the years rolled by firemen's musters became popular and were often held on Independence Day. These affairs gave life and color to many a celebration. One such muster was held July 4, 1870. We are presenting a photograph of the firemen gathered at the Upper Corner that day. I feel quite certain that I can identify one of the firemen by his position. Is not the man with his hand on his side the late John Tillson? He often stood in that position and was always an enthusiastic and efficient participant in the musters. I feel certain that it was he. He was young then but the man pictured seems to be one of the youngest there.

In 1877 the greatest celebration of all was held, a double celebration. It celebrated the centenary of the town of Thomaston and also the centenary of our nation which should have been observed the previous year but which had been postponed. There was a monster parade, speeches and music.

The float shown in the picture carried 13 beautiful girls of our town to represent the 13 original states.

In the background is shown the house of James Tarbox, the old potter, which stood on the lot at the corner of Green and Hyler Streets, across from the schoolhouse and not far from where the Edmonds house now stands. The home of Virgil Young may be seen clearly. This Tarbox place was well known and fondly remembered by Mrs. Strong in her letter to The Courier-Gazette in the 1930s where she lamented that the house was gone and that there was no photograph of it. Well, Richard Elliot found this somewhere and through his kindness it is shown with this story.

That was certainly a big celebration. The orations covered a whole page of the Rockland Gazette.

A copy of the invitation reads: "Thomaston was incorporated in 1877, one hundred years ago the present year. A Centennial Celebration in honor of that event will be held in Thomaston, July 4th, next, at which all natives and former residents of the old town are respectfully invited to be present and take part in the celebration. Your attendance is desired." The names of 18 male citizens, members of the Committee of Arrangements follow. This is dated June 1-1877.

In recent years Thomaston has had big celebrations that with their fireworks and parades and carnivals excel the older affairs. Many have enjoyed the horrors or fantasies as they were formerly called but I am sure that these were enjoyed most by those who participated in them and I know by experience.

As to carnivals and midways there are many opinions, some unfavorable. Most folks however do not object to merry go Remember the so-called pigger dodgers? Well, once members of a Rockland ball team paid the simpleton dodger generously to permit them to throw eggs instead of baseballs. He didn't enjoy the show for he had underated the accuracy of their pitching. The spectators enjoyed the performance tremendously.
