First Freighter In Years Docks At Rockland With 1500 Tons Of Gypsum

The big shovel lifts some of the 1500 tons of gypsum from the Danish freighter Hadsund which docked at the Rockport-Rockland Lime Company's dock early Monday morning. When this picture was taken the freighter, which is the largest ship to dock at Rockland Harbor in some time, was resting on the bottom of the harbor at low tide. The Hadsund departed from Rockland Harbor shortly after 9 a. m. Wednesday morning to make its long trek back to Walton, Nova Scotia, for another load of gypsum.

More than 1500 tons of gypsum were hoisted in 36 hours from the hold of the Danish freighter Hadsund which tied up at the Rockland-Rockport Lime Company's dock at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. The shipment is destined for the Dragon Cement Company in Thomaston where it will be ground up with flaked lime to manufacture cement. It is the first of nine such shipments to be made from Walton, a port at the extreme eastern end of the Bay of Fundy, in Nova Scotia.

David Hoch, vice president of the Lime Company, said that the firm has been handling shipments of gypsum for Dragon Cement for several years, but in the past it has been brought in by barges rather than a self-propelled freighter.

The Hadsund is one of the largest freighters to dock in Rockland Harbor, measuring 232 feet from stem to stern and has a draft of 15 feet. It travels at a speed of 12 knots and takes 24 hours to ply its way between Walton and Rockland, a distance of approximately 400 miles. The ship was built in Germany in 1958 and is owned by the Hafnia Steamship Company of Copenhagen, Denmark.

Captain Thompson, skipper of the Hadsund, granted leave to his crew during this time to visit Rockland and surroundings.

Henry Young Is Bound Over

The charge of arson against Henry Young of Thomaston was bound over to the October term of Superior Court when probable cause was found at a session of Rockland Municipal Court earlier this week. Judge Christy Adams set bail at $1500 and put Young in the custody of Sheriff Willard Pease.

Young was apprehended after he allegedly set fires in the unoccupied home of Isaac Young of Thomaston. A mattress saturated with kerosene had been placed against the door of a second floor bedroom and ignited with a paper match. A fire had also been started with newspapers stuffed in a wastebasket on the ground floor. Both fires were quickly extinguished by the Thomaston Fire Department called to the scene Thursday morning, Aug. 11.

Prominent Local Woman Dies At Bangor Hospital

BANGOR—Mrs. Nina Beverage, 77, widow of Clarence Beverage, of 25 Talbot Avenue, Rockland, died at the Eastern Maine General Hospital, Bangor, Wednesday evening following a long illness. Her father was Obadiah Gardner, appointed to the U. S. Senate in 1911 by Governor Frederick G. Plaisted.

'Wild, Sweet, Juicy' Maine Blueberries To Be King Next Week At Union Fair

The Maine wild blueberry story—from picking to processing—will be graphically illustrated, Aug. 23-27, at Union Fair in a new series of blueberry displays now being developed by the Maine Department of Agriculture.

As an outstanding feature of the first Maine Blueberry Festival, to be held in connection with the Fair, the exhibit will occupy more than 50 feet of space in the newly constructed 45 x 60 foot addition to the Fair exhibition hall. It will feature three phases of the state's blueberry industry, under the slogan "Maine Blueberries . . . Wild, Sweet and Juicy!"

The first of the series, an action display, combines a huge map of Maine, indicating the major blueberry producing areas, with miniature trucks carrying berries to markets all over the nation.

Making up the second section is an old-fashioned produce peddler's cart piled high with packages of fresh and frozen berries bearing the familiar labels of Maine processors.

Against a scenic background of a typical Pine Tree State story—blueberry barren, the third section will feature canned, frozen, and packaged products, containing Maine blueberries, which are sold nationally by manufacturers of pie, cake and muffin mixes. These include: General Mills, Pet-Ritz, Farm House, Pepperidge Farms, and Table-Talk Pies.

The exhibit is being constructed by Department marketing specialists and exhibit technician John E. King, of Oakland.

For the past several months, members of the State department have been working with Union Fair officials and blueberry industry leaders in developing the Festival.

August 26 has been designated as Blueberry Festival Day. On Friday, all Fair visitors will receive a ticket entitling them to a free blueberry pie. Nearly 3,000 pies will be prepared, baked and distributed, in the exhibition hall under the direction of Maine home economist Mildred "Brownie" Schrumph of Orono.

Contract Signed For Survey Leading To Proposed Sewer System Revamping Program

City Manager Charles Haynes signed a contract Tuesday morning authorizing the engineering firm of Fay, Spofford and Thorndike to begin a preliminary survey of the city's sewage needs.

As soon as the contract has been approved by the Water Improvement Commission at Augusta, the Boston engineering firm will begin the survey which is to be completed in nine months.

The commission's approval will make $2500 available from the State toward the cost of the survey. This together with the non-interest bearing loan already granted the city from the federal government makes the total cost of the project $9500.

The survey will lay out plans for a sewage disposal plant plus the present and future sewage needs of the city. It will also lay out a trunk line through the center of the city from north to south.

A sewage disposal plant will probably be located in the South End of the city according to previous work done by Fay, Spofford and Thorndike in the city, said Haynes.

The new owners of Clark Island, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Nickerson of New York City, are building a new home on a secluded southern point. It is the first house to be built on the island in 50 years and will be occupied summers by the Nickersons who have four children. Mr. Nickerson is an oil company executive.

House Is Something New For Clark Island

CLARK ISLAND — This secluded island, once a beehive of activity in the days when the granite industry thrived, is now the scene of unaccustomed building activity as a new home for Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Nickerson nears completion on a tree covered southern point. The Nickersons are now the sole owners of the island and the structure they are building for summer occupancy is the first house to be erected here in 50 years.

Nickerson is an oil company executive and for several years has been cruising along the Maine coast looking for an island or other secluded spot where he could build a home. On one of the cruises, his eye was caught by this tree covered island with the remains of the once busy granite community spread over it. In 1957, he purchased it and since then he and Mrs. Nickerson, with their four children have been camping here while on vacation.

They are currently there with two of their children and will stay until after Labor Day. They will not occupy their new house until another summer. They plan to keep the entire island to themselves as a retreat from the hustle and bustle of city life.

SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS
NOT AUTOMATIC

Social Security, now in its twenty-fifth year, has become a big factor in the economy of the nation. Over the country, a total of thirteen and three-quarter million people are receiving monthly checks from the system. The total each year amounts to ten billion dollars.

Bringing the program down to Knox County with which we are most concerned, it amounts to the income of a sizeable local industry. In the county in 1959 there were 3871 persons receiving Social Security checks each month. The total paid to County residents under the program in 1959 totaled $225,268.00.

As the program starts its second quarter century there are local people who are entitled to benefits but who have never made application. Social Security benefits are not paid automatically. Application must be made and evidence of eligibility presented. In the past few years, the Social Security laws have changed to the point where a great many more people are covered by its provisions than at the start 25 years ago. Only an expert in the field can handle the situation. To further the cause of the public, the Social Security Administration state office sends a man to the Rockland Post Office each Monday. His task is to interview and assist applicants. Persons who believe they have even a remote chance of receiving Social Security should check with him. Today, benefits are paid not to retired workers alone, but to disabled workers, a wife or husband of a retired or disabled worker, a widow or widower of a covered worker, a mother with children, or children of a retired, deceased, or disabled worker. There is no way of determining eligibility for a certainty except through an interview with an agent of Social Security. The law provides that workers and employees contribute to the fund from which payments to those eligible are made. The same set of regulations provide for payments, but it is up to you to make the approach.

Townies Set Up Possible Tie For Top In Twi-Loop By Beating Torpedoes 8-0

ST. GEORGE — The Waldoboro Townies threw a roadblock in the way of the St. George Torpedoes' pennant drive Tuesday night as they shutout the home team 8-0 behind the two hit pitching of Billy Chase. The loss cut the St. George lead over the second place Damariscotta Redlegs to a half game and the Redlegs can now tie for the flag should they defeat Thomaston Thursday. It was an off night in general for the Torpedoes who started off on the wrong foot in the very first inning allowing two runs without a hit as they committed two errors, and a wild pitch and a walk completed the damage. Waldoboro hit Dave Lowell hard in the later innings and wound up with ten bingles, led by Lloyd Hodgkins and Buddy Lawson who had two apiece. Billy Chase fanned ten enroute to the win and Charlie Mahoney and Gary Hyvarinen had the only two hits. Should a play-off for the pennant be necessary, it will probably be held Sunday on a neutral field, possibly in Thomaston.

By R. WALDO TYLER

The photo and description of "Marsh Mary" in the Thursday, Aug. 11, issue of this column brought many replies, most of them declaring the delicately blue flowering little plant of tidewater habitat is not Marsh Mary by name.

One lady tells me it's a sort of nameless heather, another says it is a highly medicinal weed and is called "Toadflax", and Elmer Curtis of Ash Point sends word by his daughter, Mrs. Robert Nash, an ardent reader of this column for years, that he has always known it as Marsh "Rosemary".

Elmer, who has lived around tidewater long enough to vie with Father Neptune in an appetite test, has probably hit the bulls-eye with his title of the plant, which by reference with various dictionaries in my library (the plant is not found in any of my floral reference books) mentions both "rosemary" and "heather" as "evergreen shrubs", without further description.

From the "Golden Nature Guide" on American wild flowers, I do not see how it could be Toadflax, as it is described as a slender plant of dry, sandy soils of open fields and dry meadows—whereas our little controversial plant is round, bushy, and prospers best when frequently submerged in tideswaters which overrun much of its habitat.

Don't be misled by my former assertion that it "grows profusely at South Thomaston's Marsh"—it also is abundant along much of the Knox County shoreline and particularly the islands of the Mussel Ridges.

Raspberry picking has been, and still is, my "busy work" up to mid-August.

The early crop on the mainland cutoffs and burned over woodlots looked like a "fade-out", then along came the rains. My first trip to Ash Island around August first revealed acres upon acres of "ready to pick" fruit, with literally bushels of larger (green ones) hanging low in the shade of the foliage. These are the "cream of the crop" of the best raspberry picking season in a decade. Much of this late fruit equalling the size of cultivated berries. Blackberries are filling out and turning color in the old reliable patches of Ballyhack my custom to encumber myself with bathing togs.

I have bathed, dunked, splashed, floundered around, tipped, plunged and otherwise immersed myself in the sequestered cool waters of outdoor Maine for "close onto" sixty summers without need of a bathing suit—and the middle of West Penobscot bay at an August noonday was no place to expect a change in my "luck".

Tossing my "killik" on the shore of the sheltered island cove, I was soon capering around on tip-toe at the waters edge anticipating its first chilly shock—and I was (as one might imagine), totally dishabile.

O' that my phantasma of the morning—that lethargy of the mirages and unrealities of the trip across the shimmering bay—could they but suddenly becloud my now alert brain and magically clothe me in my usual raiment of shirt and pants—for, from the top of yonder bank (the very bank behind whose seclusion I had chosen to divest my last stitch) a ten year old lad appeared and shouted — "Mister, mamma wants to know if you've got a match?"

My agility was an inspiration to the powers of emergency. I executed a "swan dive" that would have been a credence to Esther Williams in the hey-day of her aquatic career.

While I was under I pondered — "Mamma—I'm sure he said mamma! — a woman on the two by four island—me fifty feet of unobscured visibility from my pants and the tide lowering by the minute".

I emerged (to the safe half of "partly") and directed the lad to my hastily discarded trousers on the beach where he pawed in every pocket but the right one until his mother (waiting just beyond the bank) started shouting, "Junior! Junior! — where are you?"

Finally "Junior" came up with a handful of coins, keys and what few matches I had with me. — "She only wants one", the lad explained, "we're having a fire to roast some 'dogs' and green corn and our matches all went out."

"Take 'em all", I yelled — "and there's a paper bag and some waxed paper 'round my sandwiches"—and get her a big pile of dry juniper"—and if you two can't start the fire in 10 minutes I'll bring over some motor fuel"—and good luck!"

The lad was soon gone. I was two-thirds frozen, and I don't expect there was ever a wet 68-year-old man who slid into shirt and pants in more haste than I did.

Oh! sweet security, thy name embraces uncounted trifles in the lives of man—even to a pair of tattered pants.

With "cloak and dagger" stealth and silence I loaded the "Killik", slid into my customary seat beside "little Evvie", and we were off again onto the restful calmness of the shimmering bay to finish the eventful (yes, almost disastrously eventful) cruise back home.

Only once did I look back towards Little Green, there to behold a thin column of smoke—the welcome product of my matches (no doubt). And on the shore shouting and jubilantly waving me "bon-vogaye" was the 10-year-old lad and his "mamma"—their gesture of good will enveloping my departure in a satisfying aura of a day well spent among the charms of Nature's vastness. But my hand that rested so gently on the "tiller" had two fingers crossed against that day when a bathing suit will need be part of my "standard equipment"—for today's excursion had taught me (quite unexpectedly)—"that my world of sequestered nature is becoming smaller day by day."

Health For All

Warm Weather Warning

The chicken salad smells delicious. Tastes wonderful, too. And it can put you in the hospital.

Because mother boiled the chicken in the morning and left the pot on the back of the stove to cool for three hours. Some "staph" got in—they're everywhere, just everywhere—found the food good and the temperature just right, settled down to multiply and produce their own particular poison. Then mother fished out the chicken, cut it up, added celery and onion and mayonnaise and put the result in the icebox.

An hour before dinner, out came the salad. It sat on the table for a couple of hours more, while the family took showers, had cooling drinks. The "staph" germs were delighted. If there's one thing they like better than chicken left at room temperature for several hours, it's mayonnaise. They remultiplied—the icebox had temporarily inhibited them—produced more poison. The poison has no taste or smell, so the unwary family ate up all the chicken salad. Two hours later they were all in the hospital, and not a bit consoled by assurances that they weren't going to die because they wished they could.

Any dish containing poultry, ham, cream, custard or mayonnaise should go straight from stove to icebox, and from icebox to table only when it is going to be eaten immediately.

Crackups Spice Stock Car Card At Unity Track

UNITY — Crackups and roll-overs marred the racing schedule at Unity Raceway last Sunday. In the first Bomber heat of the afternoon, veteran A. Robinson of Fairfield Center failed to make the number two turn and wound up 50 feet over the track bank. In the consolation race, Robinson again rolled on the number one turn and Ray Gay driving his number 89 crashed into Robinson's car, flipping completely over it. In the same race, popular Barry Lyons of Skowhegan failed to make the number two turn and rolled over twice. No drivers were hurt in the mishaps and both Robinson and Lyons were able to run in the feature race later.

Clint Fyler, driving the fastest Bomber seen at the track this summer captured first place in the Bomber Feature Race. Clint hails from Jefferson and has won for two weeks in a row. Barry Lyons managed to squeeze through for second and Wild Bill Carlton took third.

It was Ray Penfold who captured the honors in the Stock Car Class. The Gardiner driver also won the race a week ago. Old Mac Tillson of Augusta was second and Blackie Hilliard also from Augusta placed third. It was a close race all the way with Liberty's Keith Fuller very much in the running until he dropped back in the last few laps. Fuller finished fifth.

A Spectators race has been announced for next Sunday with fans entering their own cars right off the highway. Voting for the popular Bomber driver will also take place. The Governor's Trophy Race was announced for Aug. 28 with Gov. Reed expected to award the winning cup.

Tree Talk

"Don't give up on the American elm." This was the plea today of Dr. Philip L. Rusden, pathologist of a well known tree research laboratory and an expert on the Dutch elm disease.

"The elm," he said, "is not doomed to extinction. Only the faint hearted think so."

"It's true," he added, "that Dutch elm disease has taken a terrible toll of this, the most beautiful tree in America. And it has been severe this summer." "But," Dr. Rusden said, "even though there is no known cure, Nature seems to be finding a way — with the help of man — of sparing the American elm." The scientist said there is evidence that some elms are defending themselves against the disease-reaper. Some appear to be naturally resistant.

Where communities concerted to battle against the infection, many elms remain. This battle involves spraying to control elm bark beetles, which transmit the disease, as well as feeding, pruning and other factors in maintaining robust tree health. "Yet this is not enough," Dr. Rusden said. "We must plant elms — more and more of them, across the nation, on lawns, along streets, wherever trees grow. And we must take care of them." He said the "surest way of losing one species of tree is not to plant them."

PORTRAIT PHOTOGRAPHS—A NEW DECORATING TREND

We pretty up for them, have them taken—yet few of us know what to do with portrait photographs of our families. This year interior decorators are displaying professional photographs on the walls of halls, family rooms, living rooms and the most popular place of all, the bedroom—and they're doing it in fresh new ways. Ideas that put the tasteful homemaker in the same league with these fashionable decorators include hanging a direct color photograph of the man of the house over the fireplace—an idea copied from the days when only kings could afford a likeness of themselves. Or hanging large sepia-toned portrait photographs on wide ribbons suspended from a bedroom or family room wall. A series of photographs of a small child is stunning matted in blue checked gingham for little boys or pink for girls. So is a hall furnished in early American style with portrait photographs framed in maple. Or a whole wall covered with pegboard hung with sculpture, antique mirrors and family photographs of impressive size. The logical person to consult on matting and framing of portrait photographs is the neighborhood professional photographer. Frames can range from standard gilt models to ornamented antiques bought at auctions, and mats from silk shantung to pastel matboard.

Gals soon learn that the best time to go to the beach is when the tide and men are out.

Musical Notes

Hugh M. Benner

The Camden "Y" Concert
I have been asked to write a review of the "Y" Concert at the Camden Opera House Monday evening, so this I shall try to do.

First of all, I'm afraid the evening started off a bit on the wrong foot. Before either artist put in an appearance, the audience had to look on a most unattractive stage — what a pity, for it certainly took away from the artists—and in no way complimented them. I would suggest that some Camden group make for a project, raising funds to recurtain completely, before another season. Also a committee be appointed to see that curtains aren't being misused.

The concert presented Helen Rosengren, soprano, and William Harms, pianist.

Miss Rosengren was presented in the first half of the concert. Miss Rosengren is a young and most attractive artist. She was beautifully gowned and displayed a confident and dignified stage appearance. She opened her recital with "O Del Mio Amato Ben", followed by "Lovely Nymphs That Now Are in Your Prime", and "The Faithful Lover". These three were rendered with complete understanding, which she successfully imparted to her audience. She closed her first group with two Brahms numbers, "Maedchenlied" and "Der Schmied". In these two numbers Miss Rosengren displayed musicianship, and a natural vocal technique which is indeed secure.

In her second group, Miss Rosengren opened with Elsa's Traum from "Lohengrin" then "The Black Swan" from "The Medium" and closed with Vissi Darte from "Tosca". A very promising start was provided by her beautifully phrased and stylish singing of these three operatic arias.

In her final group, Miss Rosengren chose a group of four Gypsy songs by Dvorak, included in this group was "Songs

My Mother Taught Me", which was lovely, and brought back memories of our own Kitty MacLaughlin.

Miss Rosengren was called back for two encores, singing a selection from "The Mikado" and closing with the lovely "Were You There".

Elizabeth Westmoreland, musical director of the opera department at Curtis Institute was a warm, capable and perceptive accompanist.

William Harms

The second half of the concert presented William Harms, pianist. Harms chose an all Chopin program in commemoration of the sesquicentennial (1810-1960) of the composer's birth.

The artist—William Harms—a well known New York pianist, and teacher. He was an outstanding student with the late great master Josef Hofmann. Hofmann was one of the world's greatest interpreters of Chopin, and he imparted much of his skill in this direction to Harms who plays Chopin with deep understanding and beauty. His Chopin is brilliant, touched with fire, yet with its moments of delicacy and sheer loveliness.

Harms opened his concert with the familiar Polonaise (Millary), a very showy and colorful number. This followed with Prelude (Raindrop); then Mazurka. Harms chose the familiar Ballade as the final number of this Chopin group. It is well loved and always new and fresh with every hearing.

Mr. Harms next played Sonata in B flat minor, Opus 35. This sonata is one of the musical masterpieces of all ages.

Chords of ominous announcement lead at once into the agitated double time which forms the pulse-stirring material of the first movement.

The scherzo opens with powerful crescendo passages which might be likened to a storm—surely a storm of human emotions rather than a transcript of nature.

Three generation of constant use have not been able to tarnish the beauty and nobility of the great Funeral March.

The very short last movement has no parallel in all music, past or present. Rubinstein called its unearthly shuddering whispers, "night winds over the churchyard graves."

Called back over and over again, Harms generously added seven encores to the delight of the audience. Included in the encores was one of his favorites, Nocturne in C sharp minor, Opus 27, No. 1. This nocturne has "a greater variety of emotion and more dramatic spirit in four pages than many operas in four hundred", according to Finch. Another encore was "Three Scottish Dances". These gay and charming Scottish dances are souvenirs of a visit to Scotland which proved to be a gloomy and depressing experience to Chopin. It is believed that these pieces owe their happy quality to the fact that Chopin was back in Paris when he wrote them.

For those who revel in the piano works of Chopin — and they are legion—the all-Chopin program held many delights. Everything on the program had the ring of familiarity but in the exalted manner of Harms' playing, each note was unfolded fresh and clear.

More Than 70 Attend Reunion Of Hupper Clan

MARTINSVILLE — Wheelbarrow Farm at Martinsville, home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hupper, overflowed with members of the Hupper clan Sunday, when a family reunion was held. A picnic lunch was enjoyed with soda and coffee furnished by Mrs. Harold Hupper for more than 70 guests. An informal afternoon program was opened by Guy Hupper of Melrose, Mass., who presented the Family Tree. Miss Maud L. Hupper of Rockland showed pictures of Hupper ancestors, and Mrs. George Gee of Martinsville showed the deed of the first Hupper settler which bore the signature of Mrs. Henry Knox. Letters from absent members were read by Mrs. Harold Hupper.

Honors of being the oldest Hupper at the reunion went to Charles Hupper, 82, while the eldest Hupper-by-marriage was Mrs. Ella Marshall Hupper, 84. Two boys were the youngest members present at two and a half years of age. They were Gail, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hupper of New York City, and Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rochon of Union. Mr. Rochon is principal of Union High School. Coming from the greatest distance was John Hupper of New York.

Attending the reunion from outside the St. George area were: Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hupper and daughter, Mrs. Fay Hupper Snyder, of Melrose, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Balano and children, Jeff and Jimmy, of East Wareham, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hupper and Mrs. Hupper's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Shafer, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Marsh, all of Melrose.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. William Rochon and sons, Donald, James and Joseph, of Union; Miss Maud L. Hupper of Rockland; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hupper and sons, Gail and John, of New York City; Mrs. Gwen Vannah Morrill of Springfield, Mass.; Miss Mary Jeppesen of Brunswick; Mrs. Loana Shibles of Rockland; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Marshall of Stoneham, Mass.; and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Andrews and son Sam of South Portland and Tenants Harbor.

Hupper family members from the St. George area were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hupper, Mr. and Mrs. Alden Hupper, Mr. and Mrs. Montford Hupper, Mr. and Mrs. Colby Hupper and daughter Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hupper, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hupper, Mr. and Mrs. Asahel Hupper and children, Elaine and Dale, James Balano, III, and Michael Jane and Sally Ann Balano, Mr. and Mrs. George Gee, Mrs. Guy Vannah, Mr. and Mrs. Del Simmons, William Watts and daughter, Mrs. Marguerite Wood of Augusta, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Hupper, Mrs. Ella Hupper and Mrs. Eleanor Booth.

TWIN TWIN-PIANO TEAM — Probably the only genuine twin piano team in the world, Jeffrey and Ronald Marlowe, will offer their talents for a benefit concert for the Camden Community Hospital, Aug. 31, at the Camden High School gym. Students of Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenov, they are spending the summer in Rockport. They are shown on the patio of the Luboshutz-Nemenov home "Twin Keys". The boys are seniors at Temple University and have achieved national recognition as duo-pianists. Not only are they talented at the keyboards but they appear to have a way with a rod and reel. The boys were more interested in displaying a picture of an eight pound trout they caught earlier in the season at Alford Lake than they were in displaying press clippings.

Magazine Spread Revives Memories In County Area

WASHINGTON — A picture spread of a typical New England area in a national magazine (Coronet) is centered around the towns of Washington, Appleton and vicinity. The pictures were taken by Rockland photographer Kostu Ruohomaa and have brought nostalgic recollections to local people including Mrs. Clara S. Overlock of Washington who writes the following.

"There's the rugged coast, the granite quarry, the haying scene, and the country dance which brought back countless memories because my husband played for dances 66 years, however, the picture on page 139 probably gave me the biggest thrill for there before my very eyes were two of my neighbors — Allen Ripley and Stanley Powell, both of whom have since passed out of this life. These pictures were taken a long time ago and they did not live to see them in print, but how thrilled their families including the widows, the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren must be.

"I believe both were born in Appleton and Allen was hit and killed by an automobile as he was crossing the road, a few years ago.

"My picture taken at the same time at the telephone along with Mrs. Lollie Powell's appeared soon after in the magazine section of the Sunday paper under the title "On The Party Line".

"I have no idea where the picture of the contented cat lying by the black kitchen stove was taken but it sure is typical of this area a few years back, for many is the time I have heated whole corn in the oven to put in this type of winter rubbers to

Electrical Shock

Hazards Can Be Controlled

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With the ever-increasing mechanization of American industry, workers in numberless occupations find they can work better, easier, or more safely because of the assistance they get from the machine, power-tool, or other mechanical device.

There's a catch, though. Most of the machines and power tools used in U. S. industry today are run by electricity.

Thus, a rapidly growing number of workers in nearly every industry are becoming exposed to the hazard of electrical shock. Man's powerful servant often turns against its master with serious injury or death of the worker as a result. "Use of electricity for power, light, and processing operations is so universal that we accept it with only an occasional thought of its ability to harm or destroy," says the U. S. Department of Labor in a new bulletin on "Control of Electrical Shock Hazards", prepared by the Bureau of Labor Standards.

Shock danger from the ordinary 120-volt circuits — the so-called "low-voltage" found nearly everywhere in America — is the main concern of the Department's new publication, although high-voltage current and static electricity also are dangerous. Many people think that "low-voltage" means low hazard. This is not so, the bulletin points out, because voltage is only one of several factors that determine how dangerous electricity can be to humans.

"Low-voltage" current can be — and frequently is — a killer under certain conditions. The new bulletin (Number 216) is the first of a series to be issued dealing with physical and mechanical hazards in industry, but much of it can be used by the average householder and home workshop enthusiast who uses electrical equipment.

Chief topics covered by the publication include: How electricity acts; how shock occurs; typical electrical shock hazards; and methods for controlling hazards. Common unsafe physical conditions and unsafe acts of persons are outlined, together with suitable control measures.

'Sweet, Juicy'

On Friday afternoon, Governor John H. Reed will preside over a Junior pie-eating contest. Following the regular stage show in the evening, a State of Maine Blueberry Pie Baking Champion will be crowned by Agriculture Commissioner E. L. Newdick. He also will award the winner with the first prize of $100 and an engraved silver cup.

At the conclusion of the Festival, part of the exhibit is scheduled for the State of Maine building at the Eastern States Exposition at West Springfield, Mass., where, during the nine-day period of Sept. 11 to 23, blueberries will share the spotlight with Maine apples and apple products.

'South Pacific' To End Season At Brunswick

BRUNSWICK — There is still nothing like a dame . . . and to prove it, the Brunswick Summer Playhouse will wind-up its season with the ever popular "South Pacific". It will play for two weeks, from Aug. 22 to Sept. 3. Evening performances are at 8:30, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2:30, at the Brunswick Summer Playhouse on beautifully lighted Bowdoin Campus.

Lawrence Brooks, Maine's favorite son, will be back to play the gallant planter, Emile de Becque. The action takes place on two islands of the South Pacific and the time is a lull during the fighting in the war with Japan. The colorful characters are chiefly marines, seabees, sailors, and islanders.

The plot is formed of two romantic themes . . . the love affair between the charming and high-spirited nurse from Little Rock, Arkansas, Nellie Forbush, and the charming middle-aged French planter, Emile de Becque and the wistful romance of the likeable American Marine, Lieutenant Joseph Cable and the lovely Tonkinese girl, Liat. Their few moments of happiness are touchingly portrayed in "Younger Than Springtime" and "Happy Talk". "South Pacific" emphasizes the plight of the nurse and the marine who, like so many young Americans during World War II, found themselves in strange places, leading lives for which they had never been prepared. Surrounding them are such fascinating characters as "Bloody Mary", "Liat's" shrewd and avaricious mother and Luther Billis, a knowing and earthy seabe.

Nellie and de Becque's varying moods of affection are revealed in the songs "Gonna Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair" and the exquisite "Some Enchanted Evening".

The things this modern musical classic has to borrow from the Hammerstein lyrics, are "What there ain't no substitute for" in the musical theatre. "South Pacific" promises to be "another enchanted evening" at the Brunswick Summer Playhouse.

Rockland Furrier Also Is Skilled In Wood Carving

American Eagle, one of some 25 which have been carved by Lucien Green, Jr., of Rockland over the years as he indulges in his hobby of carving. This one was fashioned from a piece of mahogany wood.

Lucien Green, Jr., Rockland furrier whose hobby is wood carving, works on the model of an eagle during a spare moment. In addition to eagles, he has carved ship models, whales, dolphins, and other things having to do with the sea.

By Bob Mayo

By day he sells and makes up fur pieces for milady — evenings and in his other spare time he indulges in his hobby of carving. Lucien Green, Jr., 47 year old Rockland fur dealer, has a hobby by which he could make a living if necessary. His sculptured eagles are worth considerable sums, but he chooses to keep them, as well as wood carvings of boats, whales, dolphins and other nautical objects, for decorative purposes.

His skills go far beyond carving, as he has constructed five sail boats in his spare time, one of which an expert shipbuilder estimated could not be duplicated for less than $10,000. Green built it in three years. It is a 22 foot Muscongus Bay cutter and is now in use by the Samoset Hotel. Another, larger craft is presently owned by a New York City editor who uses it on Long Island Sound summers. It also has been to Bermuda and is still going strong 22 years after Green built it.

In the carving line, eagles are Green's favorite subjects and he has carved about 25 in all. Two were sold for good prices but the rest are hanging about the walls of his home and the Lucien K. Green and Son store on School Street. He could carve a three or four foot eagle in three weeks if necessary but, like all hobbies, carving is indulged in only at the whim of the hobbyist. Lucien says, "It's better than watching television winters and you have something to show for it."

Green, a veteran of the Air Force in the Second World War, spent a solid year as a pilot flying over the Hump into China. During that time he made 210 round trips in all kinds of weather. Three of his best friends died there, and he remembers one tragic night when 32 ships of the Command crashed in foul weather. He has the Distinguished Flying Cross and two Air Medals but has lost all interest in flying as the result of his war experiences.

Wood carving requires only about a half dozen simple tools, according to Green. His favorite is an inch wood gouge with which he could do practically everything necessary to forming a figure if he had to. The best wood for the purpose is sugar pine which comes from the Pacific Coast and has few knots. He has on occasion used native pine and has carved several mahogany pieces.

His next project is the carving of a ship's figure head such as was common to all sailing vessels in the last century and he is presently looking around for a model. He is interested in carving anything connected with the sea but will tackle anything in the line that interests him because, as he quotes the old saying "A carver carves only certain things, but a ship carver will carve anything."

Thunderbirds Coming To Dow During Air Fair

BANGOR — Next month, people from all over the State of Maine will be heading for Bangor and Dow Air Force Base as the Second Annual Downeast Air Fair, on Sept. 10 and 11, features the Air Force's famed Thunderbirds. Last year an estimated 50,000 persons witnessed the amazing demonstrations of flying aerobatics as the Thunderbirds made their first appearance in the State of Maine.

This year, because of their overwhelming acceptance, the Air Force's "Ambassadors of Goodwill" will make a return trip to this area as a tribute to Downeast Maine. The air show portion of the Downeast Air Fair will be held on September 10 and the Thunderbirds are expected to put on the same thrilling show with several added formations and maneuvers.

In speaking of the Thunderbirds most people remember the famous "Bomb-Burst" best of all. In this demonstration, the team streaks straight up in their F-100 Super Sabres in a diamond formation directly above the audience, then, with the roar from their afterburners, break away to the four points of the compass. Trailing white smoke like a bursting rocket, the planes dive to the ground and approach the field from the four different directions and cross over each other at speeds up to 700 miles per hour and only a few feet apart.

The Thunderbirds are not a group of stunt pilots or dare devils, but a group of professional officers and enlisted men, pilots and crews, dedicated to demonstrate to the American people, the United States Air Force's "power for peace".

Since their activities in 1953, the Thunderbirds have performed before more than 31,000,000 spectators throughout North and South America and into the vast reaches of the Far West. The team has logged nearly 2,000,000 air miles, the equivalent to more than 60 times around the world, all in support of our Government and its national objectives in promoting a better understanding and appreciation of air power.

Also, on this first day of the Air Fair, fly-overs by bombers, tankers, fighters and rescue aircraft will be featured including a simulated air refueling of one of Dow's own new B-52's by a KC-97 tanker, also from Dow. The internationally famous USAF Drum and Bugle Corps of Washington, D. C., will also perform on air show day.

Dow will open its gates to the public at 10 a. m. on September 10, and will remain open through the afternoon. Exact time for the air show will be announced later.

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

means that in heavy traffic every day the city driver is exposed to more accident possibilities.

Thus, when young women got lower insurance rates it was because the insurance firms figured they were less exposed to accidents than men, not that their driving was better.

The reasoning was that women are less likely to be driving during the most dangerous hours of late evening and early morning when driving is three times more hazardous than in the daytime. During these low-visibility hours, young men do most of the driving while young women ride as passengers.

Insurance firms, which operate on the basis of objective statistics, are among the leaders in promoting measures for safer night driving. Among the safety measures they support are: increased use of reflective warning signs to alert drivers to night-time dangers ahead.

"These trails would shake the cab off an ordinary truck...but not our Chevy"

Few trucks are subjected to the body-wracking beatings that are part of a day's work for this Chevrolet Series 60 pulpwood hauler. It's owned by J. E. Fox, North Carolina logging contractor. As Bobby Fox, a partner in the business says, "Loaded with pulpwood, we drive over stumps and potholes you'd think would tear the truck to pieces. These trails would shake the cab off an ordinary truck, but not our Chevy. We can average an extra load a day... make $45 to $50 a day more with this Chevy than we can with the others."

In every weight class these Chevies are doing more work at less expense than trucks have ever done before. Drive one at your Chevrolet dealer's. It's an experience that could pay you big dividends.

That 6-cylinder engine really performs," says Bobby Fox. "It's got the lugging power we need in the woods and walks right along with a full load on the highway."

Miss Booth To Make Her Debut At Lakewood

Shirley Booth

LAKEWOOD — Shirley Booth, one of the world's most acclaimed performers, makes her Lakewood debut in Sidney Howard's family comedy, "The Late Christopher Bean", Monday, Aug. 22, and plays through Saturday, Aug. 27. Miss Booth will be the second consecutive actress playing at America's oldest summer theatre who is a recipient of the coveted Hollywood Oscar.

The current star, Miss Joan Fontaine, who is appearing in the comedy "Susan and God", is also an Oscar winner, and will be at Lakewood through Saturday evening, Aug. 20. It was in the dramatic hit "Come Back Little Sheba" in which Miss Booth won every dramatic honor in sight, including the Academy Award, the New York Film Critics Award, the Perry, Donaldson and Barter Awards. Though "Come Back Little Sheba" won Shirley Booth her greatest international acclaim, it was by no means her first, nor her last. Broadway has boasted her talents in "Philadelphia Story", "Three Men on a Horse", "My Sister Eileen", "Tomorrow The World", "Good-bye My Fancy", the musical version of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn", "The Time of the Cuckoo", the musical "By The Beautiful Sea" and "The Desk Set". There are few stage actresses with such a record of hit shows, musical and dramatic.

On film, in addition to her Oscar performance, Miss Booth has been seen in "About Mrs. Leslie", "Hot Spell" and "The Matchmaker".

Miss Booth is surrounded by a fine Broadway cast, featuring Donald Hylan, Genevieve Frizell, Frank Milan, Joan Chambers, and Charles Robinson.

Elaine Perry, long a Lakewood favorite, has directed the production and Tom Jewett has created the set for the next to last presentation at Lakewood this year.

BY-PASS WELL UNDERWAY — The Union by-pass is fast reaching the final stages of the rough work. The four-mile stretch under contract by the Ross Construction Company will link with Route 17 at points about a mile above and below the village of Union. The photo above was taken north of the village and shows the extensive grading and filling being carried out at the present time. When completed, the through traveller on Route 17 will be able to miss going through Union village and around the Common. In the village, it will mean less congestion to permit a better opportunity for shoppers and those in town for other business.
