Champion Blueberry Pie Baker of Maine To Be Chosen At Union Fair

Lloyd Anderson, marketing specialist with the Department of Agriculture in Augusta, stands before one of the many blueberry displays at the Union Fair. The blueberry trucks complete a circuit on an electrically operated track, and attract oldsters and youngsters alike who would like to take one home to play with. Above — The booth entered in competition by White Oak Grange of North Warren which emerged the winner in the Grange contest with a display of canning and homemaking.

UNION—Union Fair got under way with a bang Tuesday, even if the inclement weather in Rockland and other coastal communities kept some of the potential visitors away. The sun kept shining at the fair grounds and a light breeze helped to make the temperature more comfortable.

While most of the attention of the crowd was on the sulky races there were plenty who evidenced interest in the exhibits presented in the large exhibition hall. Granges and Extension clubs vied with each other, showing fruits, vegetables, flowers, needle work, dresses, braided rugs and other articles for which rural Maine is so famous. The judges were put hard to make their decisions as to who was best, second best, or even third. A list of prize winners will be published in The Courier-Gazette as soon as it is available.

The additional space in the large hall, the result of the new construction, was turned over to the Blueberry Industry, one of Knox County's most important, and arrangements were noticed for the cooking of the 3000 blueberries for the Fair on Wednesday

CAMDEN MANAGER STERLING MORRIS TENDERS RESIGNATION TO TAKE POSITION AT ST. ALBANS, VT.

CAMDEN — Sterling Morris, 35, Camden town manager for the past three years, submitted his resignation by phone Wednesday from St. Albans, Vt., where he has accepted a position as town manager. Chairman of the Camden Board of Selectmen Willis Hodsdor said that the resignation had been accepted.

St. Albans is the home town of Mrs. Morris, the former Justine Warren. It is a city of between 10,000 and 11,000 inhabitants and represents a considerable step up for Morris, who was town manager of Warren for a year and a half before coming to Camden.

Those concerned were unable to say Wednesday night when the resignation would take effect. The Morris family has two daughters.

YOUTH UNDER SENTENCE SKIPS COURTHOUSE, LEADS POLICE ON HOUR SEARCH OF THE SOUTHEAST

A 16 year old boy facing a charge of theft of an automobile was handed out a maximum juvenile sentence Tuesday morning after leading more than 30 police officers and state troopers on a hectic chase into Rockland's Southeast. The youngster broke away from the custody of an officer in the Knox County Court House, bolted down the front stairs and ran down School Street to Main Street.

He was reported to have entered a taxicab on Main Street, but when the driver beckoned to a police officer he jumped out and made a headlong dash to the Southeast. The area was combed for the escapee and he was finally spotted by a Rockland police officer who saw the youngster's feet sticking out from a bush behind Livingston's Blacksmith Shop on South Main Street. The boy was handcuffed and brought back to the Court House an hour after he had attempted his escape. Judge Christy Adams sentenced him to the Men's Reformatory.

AMES IN-CROSS "505"

Brown-Egg Hybrids

We believe the "505" is the best brown egg layer on the market today. This bird will peak over 80% and lay around 70% steady production for a long period. Early egg size is excellent. Many poultrymen report a good proportion of large eggs even in the first few cases they gather. The "505" is a multi-colored bird. Most hens are buff or dark barred, with occasional black or white hens. Feed conversion is very good as the "505" averages about 4 3/4 to 5 1/4 lbs. at maturity on most feeding programs.

NO COASTAL HIGH SCHOOLS MEET ACCREDITATION RULES ESTABLISHED BY THE STATE

The State Department of Education's top rating for secondary schools, called accreditation, has been earned by only 39 of the total of 240 schools on the high school level in Maine. None in the Knox County area have been certified as such, the nearest being Boothbay Regional High School.

Common obstacles to winning the accreditation stamp are inadequate library facilities, insufficient guidance, poorly equipped laboratories, etc. Superintendent Bruce Kinney of School Administrative District 5 says that Rockland High School is up to accreditation par in everything except a physical education program for girls and for junior and senior boys.

Leroy Barker, Superintendent of School Union 72, which includes Thomaston, Cushing, St. George, and Friendship, said that he had been too busy getting ready for the school year to go over the accreditation needs of the schools in his Union. However, the fact of Thomaston's known over crowded facilities would probably rule that school out at the start.

Ralph Smith, superintendent of Union 69, which includes Camden, Rockport, and Hope, said that the accreditation committee had inspected Camden High School and had recommended expanded library facilities which are in the process of being met, and also minor adjustments in the physical education program.

Rockport High appears to be ruled out of the accreditation picture by the fact that the gym is so far from the school that a balanced physical education program is difficult.

Harold Wiggin, superintendent of Union 75 which includes Union, Islesboro, and Lincolnville, said that Union High School was found deficient in science laboratory, vocational courses and guidance. He said that steps are being taken to improve the situation, but the enrollment of the school at the present time did not warrant the establishing of some courses required for accreditation.

New Styles Appear As Girls Head For School

With the beginning of school only three weeks away, the school crowd are planning their school clothes. Fashion experts predict vivid shock colors will win the vote of most teenagers with no-color neutrals coming in a close second. Pink, blue, violet, plum, red, gold and winter green will be chosen as favorite feminine colors. The girls will choose off-beat styles which include short "knee twinkler" skirts, topover over-blouses, culottes, knickers, bulky sweaters, jumpers, fake fur, lowered waists, fluid lines and the layered look.

In the collection of fall styles, fabrics such as corduroy and velveteen will give a new look to self belted overblosses and tunics. Jackets and coats will tie with matching cord sashes, and self-tied tunic sweaters which are often dyed to match tweed or boxy plaid skirts. Dresses will be of bright colors. Those made of soft wood jerseys will have relaxed or dropped waists and pleated or eased skirts. Berry tones of pink, red and violet brighten the rustling taffeta party dresses with covered bodices. Sweaters spotlight high-necked, sleeveless under-layered sweaters, worn with big bright and bulky over-sweaters. The over-sweaters feature wide cowl, boat or V-necks and come in brushed or ribbed textures.

Old World charm is denoted in the peasant-patterned fabric, rich colors, tiny waists, pinafores, pantaloons and lacings now displayed in all the fashion centers. Jumpers often have contrasting blouses and pantaloons and solid colored dresses are paired with print na-

CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS AT GLEN COVE TO OPEN THIRD YEAR IN HIGH SCHOOL AND BIBLE SUBJECTS

GLEN COVE—About to enter the third year of local activities are the Christian Schools, Inc., located at the former Warren Smith estate, Warrenton, at Glen Cove.

When school opens on Sept. 6 it is expected to have an enrollment of 75 students. Mrs. Avis Herick, a graduate of Bates, class of '25, will teach Latin, French and English. Science and history will be presented by John Beauregard, Gordon College '53 and Gordon Seminary, class of 1956.

Miss Mildred Copeland, in her first year here, teaches commercial subjects. She graduated with the class of '60 from Roberts Wesleyan College. Another graduate of Gordon College and Seminary, Orel Ward, teaches history and English.

John Sprague, a 1960 graduate of Machias State Normal School teaches mathematics.

Christian School offers high school studies in college preparation, commercial and general courses. As the name implies, the school emphasizes religious education also.

The Bible School has added a second year's course for this year and plans to add another year's study in that subject in 1961. One new teacher has joined the staff of the Bible School, the Rev. Al Troester, a graduate of the Philadelphia School of the Bible, the Eastern Baptist Seminary, and the Fuller Theological Seminary. He has served as pastor at various churches and comes to Glen Cove from Moncton, N. B. Rev. Medley Wry is doing deputational work for the school in the churches of New England.

Harold Duff is the principal of the Christian Schools, Inc. An elementary school at Canaan, Maine, is also an affiliate. Its enrollment is expected to be 15 students and Mrs. Arthur Davis is teaching there. This is the second year for that school.

Today there is $500 billions worth of life insurance in effect for the benefit of Americans. Each decline of only one cent in the value of the dollar robs us all of $5 billions of the value of our insurance.

SWING AND SWAY—A group of Rockland football Tigers swing from rung to rung of an overhead ladder set up by Coach Bob Morrill for the purpose of strengthening their arm and shoulder muscles. The device is new to Rockland this year but has been common for some time in college football circles.

Going through long practice sessions this week in 80 degree heat are some 30 candidates for the 1960 Rockland High School football team which two weeks from next Saturday opens the season on South Field against Madison. Considerable re-building will have to be done by Coach Bob Morrill and assistant John McGuire to match the break-even record of a year ago.

The offensive team, for example, has at least six positions up for grabs as graduation took a heavy toll of the line—two tackles and two ends leaving. Back at one guard spot is Sandy Delano while the other was filled much of the time last year by Bob Bradley.

The offensive backfield lost the hard charging Louie Alex and break away runner Larry Terrio. Both pose the coaches hard replacement problems. The defensive platoon did not suffer quite as heavily as Wes Nichols and Bill Karl return from last year, Karl in the line and Nichols as a hard tackling defensive back who can run well when necessary. However, the two heavy duty ends who went both ways—Aard Walker and Bob Huntley will be gone from the defensive crew.

Early practice sessions have stressed conditioning. One new gimmick added this year is the ladder run which consists of a ladder about eight feet off the ground and parallel to it. The candidates go along hand over hand the whole length. It is an exercise that is designed to strengthen the shoulder and arm muscles and should do just that. Similar gadgets have been in use in colleges for some time.

Other conditioning means being used by the Tigers are the time tested tire run in which the candidates run as fast as possible through a line of tires laid on the ground, stepping in each one as they go. This is designed to improve their agility and is stressed for the backfield squad especially. New this year is a somewhat similar gadget consisting of squares of rope into each of which the runner is expected to step while going at full speed; too slow footwork results in frequent spills and puts even more of a premium on agility.

While it is still too early to point out any promising players, it is certain that Sandy Delano, Billy Barbour, and Charlie Finley, tri-captains of the team, will see heavy duty. Delano is a hard driving guard, Barbour the center and a regular last year in his first crack at football, and Finley a hard running back with heart. Also seemingly slated for regular work is Bobby Walker, the smooth working quarterback of last year; Bernie "The Toe" Jackson, who, as a freshman last year, did all the Tiger kicking and won his letter; backs West Nichols and Francis Terrio, as well as John Stratton.

Rockland will obviously be light this year, thus placing a premium on speed in manipulating the classic single wing which will continue to be used. With ten lettermen back the Tiger cause seems far from hopeless.

Rain falling on north side of Triple Divide Peak, western Montana, winds up in Mackenzie River and Arctic Ocean; that falling on south side, in the Mississippi and Gulf; on the west side, in the Columbia and Pacific.

Home Location Decides School Pupils To Attend

At the close of school in June this year, each Rockland child was assigned to a building and class in September. Unless the child has moved to a different location, he should report to the building indicated on the rank card, except those assigned to the fifth grade at Tyler and they will attend the North School. There will be no fifth grade at Tyler this year. However, for the benefit of people who have moved, or are new in the city, the following general regulation shows the boundaries for pupils entering each building. Exceptions to these regulations will be made to adjust class sizes.

SOUTH SCHOOL

(Grades Sub-Primary through Grade 7)

All students living south of Park Street (including the south side of Park Street) will attend the South School.

Sub-Primary pupils living in this area with last names beginning A through L will attend the morning session. After nine weeks the afternoon session. After this nine weeks the morning session and vice versa.

Health Checkup Advisable Before School Opens

Little Billy is a bright boy, yet his report cards show he must be near the bottom of his class. Billy's playmate, eight-year-old Joan, can read like a whiz, but her school work is poor. What's wrong?

Well, Billy is anemic, he has no energy. And Joan's hearing isn't up to the mark. She misses a lot of what the teacher says. A child who is handicapped by poor general health, or defective sight or hearing could have a genius I.Q. but not a chance of doing well in school.

Before school starts, take your youngster to a doctor for a thorough physical check-up. Be sure to ask about a tuberculin test to detect hidden TB germs. Make certain your child gets booster shots to back up the protective vaccinations he had as a baby. Don't forget about the three polio shots he needs, with a fourth added if enough time has elapsed since he got the third one.

Take him to the dentist. Those first teeth need excellent care and perhaps some dental work if the second set is to come through in perfect condition. Hearing and sight must be tested.

UNION 75 AND DISTRICTS SEVEN AND EIGHT SHORT TEACHERS AS CLASSES DUE TO COMMENCE

Superintendent Harold A. Wiggin of School Union 75 and Administrative Districts 7 and 8 which are on North Haven and Vinalhaven respectively, has announced teacher assignments for the school year which is about to open.

Classes will start in the towns of Islesboro, Lincolnville, Union, North Haven and Vinalhaven on Sept. 7.

In all, six vacancies exist in the system and include: the combined job of English, social studies and athletic coach on Islesboro. Also, a commercial department vacancy in Union; another for English at North Haven; and social studies, mathematics and coach at Vinalhaven as well as music supervisor and grade four. Some of these positions may have been filled between the compiling of the teacher list and the publication of this edition.

Teachers assigned, their communities and specialties are listed below:

ISLESBORO

Yeaton D. Randlett, Principal, commercial; Frank H. Reed, Jr., mathematics, science; Ruby A. Rolerson, Grades six, seven and eight; Arline M. Pendleton, Grades three, four and five; Doro-

Property Owner Pays 65 Per Cent Of School Costs

Maine property tax payers contribute 65 per cent of the cost of schools. This compares with a national average of 54 per cent school support derived from the property tax. The National Education Association has estimated that to meet school costs expected in the next decade would require a 65 per cent increase in local taxes— if financing is from that source alone.

McLAIN SCHOOL

Grades Sub-Primary through Grade 6
 All pupils living north of Park Street (including the north side of Park Street); to Rankin Street (including the south side of Rankin Street), will attend the McLain School.

Sub-Primary pupils conveyed by bus in this area will attend the morning session. Pupils walking to school in this class with last names beginning A through C will also attend the morning session. All others will attend the afternoon session. After nine weeks the morning group will attend the afternoon session and vice versa.

Grade 7

Pupils living in the McLain area will attend the North School.

TYLER SCHOOL

SUB-PRIMARY: All students living north of Rankin Street (including the north side of Rankin Street) will attend the Tyler School.

Sub-Primary pupils conveyed by bus living in the outer Camden Street area will attend the morning session. Pupils in this grade walking to school with last names A through L will attend the morning session. All others will attend the afternoon session. After nine weeks the morning group will attend the afternoon session and vice versa.

Grades One through Four (There will be no fifth grade at Tyler)

All students living in the area bounded by North Main Street (including the east side of North Main Street); Main Street and Front Street to Washington Street and Maverick Street from North Main Street to Camden Street will attend the Tyler School.

NORTH SCHOOL

This includes pupils living on upper Limerock Street, upper Talbot Avenue, upper Rankin Street, Old County Road, Lake Avenue and West Meadow Road, also pupils living on Camden Street and adjacent roads leading into Camden Street north of Maverick Street.

PURCHASE STREET

Eighth grade pupils city wide will attend the Purchase Street School. Classes will be conducted on a departmental basis.

STAMP DAYS IN CITY SCHOOLS RESULTED IN PUPILS SAVING $6,455.75 LAST YEAR

Stamp Day is a looked-forward-to day every week in the Rockland schools and well it might be because Rockland children saved $6,455.75 last year through the School Savings Stamp Program of the U. S. Savings Bond Division of the Treasury Department. The program operated by volunteers from the Parent-Teacher organizations with the cooperation of school officials has started thousands of youngsters on the path of thrift over the years.

The stamps are sold in denominations of 10 and 25 cents and a PTA volunteer comes to each school once a week, usually on Friday. It operates in various ways. The Savings Stamp Agent, as the government calls them, sets up a booth in the corridor, goes to the class rooms, supervises a student salesman, or takes orders.

In most classrooms, teachers take advantage of Stamp Day to give a practical lesson in arithmetic, giving students a chance to make change or in determining how many stamps they will get for their money.

When stamps books are filled they are exchanged at a national bank for a U. S. Savings Bond.

The Stamp Agent idea was started by the Treasury Department two years ago. It released PTA funds for other projects by permitting Stamp Agents to sign-out stamps rather than purchase them. Each week, the agents go to the Rockland Post Office where Assistant Postmaster Paul Merriam has prepared packets of pre-determined amounts of stamps. After the stamp sale at the school, the agent turns in the cash and unsold stamps.

Last year's Stamp Agents in Rockland were: Leo C. Dostie of Tyler School, Mrs. James Economy and Mrs. Clarise Watson of South School, Mrs. W. T. Dean and Mrs. Russell Wolfertz of North School and Mrs. Evelyn E. McLellan of McLain School.

The number of dimes and quarters saved by the youngsters is amazing when it is considered that interest drops sharply in the fifth and sixth grades and to nothing in junior high school grades.

Of the $6,455.75 saved in Rockland last year, the division by schools went like this: North School, $2,741.45; McLain School, $1,686.50; Tyler School, $1,224.85; and South School, $802.95. Last year's city total was $346.70 higher than the previous year.

The Treasury Department describes the School Savings Stamp program this way:

"America's ability to keep the peace depends on maintaining our economic as well as our military strength. When students learn to practice self-reliance and thrift through a School Savings Program, they help build the economic strength which together with a strong defense provide our nation with the power to maintain the peace that we all strive for. Young Americans have a great stake in peace power because without it there may be no future for them or the world."

LIBRARIES CONSIDERED TO BE MOST IMPORTANT PART OF MODERN DAY HIGH SCHOOL

Youngsters facing today's sharp scholastic competition need the facilities of a good school library, according to Maine's Director of Secondary Education.

Dr. Joseph J. Devitt, of the State Department of Education said poor library facilities can hamper the good student who is striving for maximum achievement before he tackles college.

A good library brings the books and the kids together," Dr. Devitt said. "It is astonishing what a really adequate library will do." He cited the case of Dexter High School where the monthly circulation of books was increased from 300 to 1,200 in a period of three or four years.

The experience of Dexter is of interest now to many Maine communities where inadequate libraries are preventing high schools from receiving state accreditation.

Even though library shortcomings are a block to accreditation in many places, the state requirements are already out of date, according to the highest library authority—the American Library Association. But revised standards promulgated this year by the ALA are "so high that it would be unrealistic to expect schools to meet them for many years," Dr. Devitt said.

However, he sent out a bulletin advising secondary school principals to get a copy of the new standards because the recommendations will influence trends in the future.

As far as present requirements go, the substantially lower standards established by the ALA in 1945 are still the basis for State accreditation.

Here are some of them: a requirement of 2000 volumes for schools of up to 200 pupils; 5000 volumes for schools of up to 500 pupils; 700 volumes for schools of up to 1000 pupils.

Obviously titles are important as well as numbers. Dr. Devitt feels the collections should contain, "good, usable stuff. Please no 1890 orations or old sets of Tom Swift donated by the townspeople."

Current material is important. Small schools should subscribe to at least 10 or 15 magazines and newspapers; big schools to 25 or more.

The library should seat 10 percent of the student body or the largest English class, except that not even the largest school would be expected to seat more than 100.

The library should never be used as an assigned study hall.

The state accreditation teams expect to find one librarian on duty one period for every 100 pupils. In the really big schools there should be a full time librarian with a part time li-these buses will be the same as last year, except that they will run about five minutes ahead enabling the ninth grade pupils to reach the grade school in time to take the 8:10 bus to Union High School.

SCHOOL LUNCHES CALL FOR VARIETY OF NOURISHING FOODS WELL PREPARED

When school starts, mother will be faced with the problem of school lunches for her school age children. Taking the same food to school day after day can make any child's appetite lag. The following rules will make the difference between a child who loses interest in his noon lunch or one who looks forward each day to it. First of all plan ahead, not just for tomorrow, but for several days.

For a well balanced lunch see that the lunch boxes contain:

1. Meat, eggs, poultry, cheese or fish, in sandwiches, salad or main dish.
2. Vegetables, at least one, in sandwiches, salad, or main dish, or as raw relish.
3. Fruit, at least one, raw, cooked, frozen, or canned, as is or in a salad or dessert.
4. Breads, varied from day to day.
5. Milk, to fill out the day's quota, as is, as a milk drink, in soup or dessert. To pack in extra nourishment, add a beaten egg or tablespoon of nonfat dry milk or molasses to a milk drink.

Keep a list of box-lunch menus so that they can be rotated. Stock up on napkins, waxed paper, aluminum foil, saran, sandwich bags, paper or plastic containers, spoons and forks. Maybe a new lunch box would boost the luncher's morale. Many attractive types are available now and also boast a vacuum bottle. One of the wide mouthed vacuums can be used to carry soups, salads, baked beans and beverages.

When getting dinner it is well to prepare enough soup, main dish, bread or dessert to take care of the lunch box the next day. Make up, wrap, and refrigerate sandwiches the night before, pack at last possible moment.

Old reliable fillings for sandwiches are any cheese spread, processed cheese, applesauce, celery, cream cheese, green pepper, carrots or raisins, marmalade, apple butter, jelly or jam, nuts, peanut butter, pickled tongue and Thuringer-type dry sausages. Salad type sandwiches fillings of meat, chicken, fish and egg, should be handled carefully. Include them only when the lunch box can be refrigerated. Never let them stand at room temperature longer than four hours before eating. Sliced meat, turkey or chicken sandwiches should be handled in the same way.

UPGRADING OF MAINE TEACHER COLLEGES PROGRESSING RAPIDLY AS STUDY PATTERN BROADENED

Freshmen crowding into Maine's teachers' colleges this fall will find that acquiring a broad academic background is their first order of business.

Teachers professional schools, once characterized by acres of "methods" courses, have changed their ways and Maine's four teachers colleges have kept pace with the trend. The freshmen will find that they will approach professional work only in their junior and senior years after wide exposure to mathematics, science, literature and history.

They will study these basic subjects in greater "depth" than teachers college students in the immediate past. With appropriate choice of electives, approximately two-thirds of their time during the four years ahead will be spent in strictly academic study, as contrasted with less than half as recently as 1956.

The changeover represents an upgrading of the whole concept of the kind of training that makes a good teacher. "We are assuming," said Hayden Anderson, who handles teachers college affairs for the State Department of Education, "that teachers should be educated people. They must be able to hold their own with other college graduates. This is not losing sight for a minute of the fact that teachers colleges are professional schools and must necessarily teach professional subject matter that is not included in the curriculum of the liberal arts college."

At Farmington the new order has included the introduction of academic majors and minors, until recently a radical idea for a school preparing elementary teachers. The Farmington students will probably average about 70 percent academic study and 30 percent professional study in their four years. To qualify for a diploma a student must have 24 semester hours of credit in a history, science, or English major (the school will offer a major in geography soon) and a 15 hour minor which may be in mathematics. No matter what major he chooses, the graduate must have as a minimum not less than 13 hours of English, 15 hours of science and mathematics, 23 hours of social sciences, eight hours of fine arts.

At present foreign languages are not taught in the teachers colleges. What happens in the future depends on the Legislature. Requests for money for foreign language positions were turned down at the last session but the presidents will ask again in 1961.

Since the teachers colleges must produce not only educated men and women, but professionals, they will retain a large segment of time for the study of history, philosophy, and methods of education, psychology and child development. Sixteen semester hours are reserved for practice teaching.

President Scott feels that practice teaching accounts, in part, for "the strength of our people. After all, our aim is to produce a graduate who knows something about school teaching."

The faculties that are training these graduates are gradually improving their own academic preparation. Dr. Kenneth Brooks, the newly appointed president of Gorham State Teachers College has noted the "continual study for advanced degrees" on the part of the Gorham faculty.

President Scott said that in the last four years more than half his faculty has completed study beyond the master's degree. At the campus laboratory school 11 out of 20 teachers have the master's degree or better.

The college faculties played a large part in the change to a more academically oriented curriculum. It was developed by a committee that included representatives of Farmington, Gorham, Washington, and Aroostook State Teachers Colleges, Fort Kent State Normal School, and the State Department of Education. After a good deal of work spread over more than a year the committee recommended the changes that have now been adopted, with local variations, by all the colleges.

The committee has never been dismissed but has remained as a permanent watchdog of the teachers college curriculum. "We never think of the course of study as static," Hayden Anderson said. "It is always under scrutiny and we are always searching for improvement."

School Lunches To Start On 7th

Noon lunch in Rockland schools will start on Wednesday, Sept. 7, in each building. McLain School pupils will have lunch at the High School.

The price of noon lunch is 30 cents for high school students and 25 cents for elementary pupils, payable each day.

Happy and prosperous people seem to create their own opportunities, rather than wait for them.

New Coaches At Union, Rockport Schools In 60-61

Changes in the coaching staffs of the various high schools in the area are relatively few with only Union and Rockport High Schools making changes in boys' sports. Union basketball and baseball coach Vernon Hunter shifts this year to Rockport High School, of which he is a graduate, after three successful years at the helm of the Eagles, in the second of which they won the Western Maine Class S basketball championship.

Replacing Hunter at Union will be George Hilton of Waldoboro who was a graduate this year of Gorham State Teachers' College. He will coach basketball and baseball, and teach mathematics and science.

Another Waldoboro native, Mrs. Ernestine Connelly, will coach girls' basketball at Union and teach the seventh, eighth and ninth grades there. At Camden, girls' basketball coach Maxine Drinkwater will leave this year but no replacement has yet been named.

The popular Dick Knight, whom Hunter replaces at Rockport, has left the educational field for private employment. He was at Rockport four years and had good seasonal records with the Beavers.

Grinnel is a popular name in Glacier National Park—it labels a glacier, a mountain, a waterfall, a point, a lake, a type of red rock so common in that area—and all are derived from the name of George B. Grinnel, explorer and author, who explored this area some 60 years ago.
