LATEST VICTORY

PERSHING'S BEST

In the capture of nearly all of the Argonne forest the American troops have effected one of the notable achievements of the world war, says a war correspondent. (The entire forest has now been cleared of Germans.) It is by far the biggest thing our troops have done yet. In a word they have taken what was regarded so long as an impregnable position and one for the possession of which hundreds of thousands of men have died in the last four years and two months.

The possession of the Argonne forest has vast potentialities. It is the strongest defence on the eastern wing of the great German salient from the sea to the Moselle. Perhaps it is the most important position of all to the Germans. Its loss is the most serious for the German command. To the allies it is a position no less vital.

Formed Deep Dent in Line

At a glance at a map showing the battle front of the last two weeks between Rheims and the Meuse river will indicate the deep dent that has existed in the forward moving allied line. That dent was because of the German stronghold in Argonne. The whole eastern half of Gen. Foch's move has been held up by the Argonne position. Now the Germans have been driven out of it by the first American army.

The Argonne forest is about 50 kilometres long extending from Grand Pre on the north to Thiaucourt on the south. Before our attack on Sept. 26, the line crossed the forest about 20 kilometres south of Grand Pre through Chatade wood. The Americans had been told that the Argonne forest could not be taken frontally, and so when our drive started, the plan was to advance up the Aire valley on the east and up the Aisne valley on the west of the forest, pinching it out.

The story of how they did it is one of the most stirring of the war. Across the forest, which hides a series of hills and ravines and dense jungles, ran the famed Hindenburg line, four kilometres deep with trenches by the hundred and with lines of wire at short intervals for a depth of 2½ miles. The rocks and trees and holes formed shelters for thousands of machine guns. The roads had been mined or blown up. Artillery could not be used with effect. The Germans were protected by uncounted pill boxes, and ready-made positions, running always to the southern side and the crests of hills, and on these hills most of our advance was made. The Germans had every cross-trail and road under the tils. The following is an outline of exact range of guns further back. It was a veritable hell through which the boys from New York were ordered to go, and they went.

Daily dispatches and communiques have told how slow and tortuous our progress was. Some days we gained a kilometre; some days nothing; some days more as the battle went on. Because of the exact machine gun aim our doughboys had to advance through the wire at night, cutting it with pliers and they were fired on by boche snipers and machine gunners when they made the slightest noise. There were practically no roads. What roads there had been four years ago had been neglected by the Germans, who used the railroads and the wagon roads had become filled with underbrush.

Cutting Path Through Wire

It was a case of cutting a path through the wire and filtering through single file. This gave the Germans a chance which they took advantage of a number of times to get around behind the Americans and engage in bitter hand to hand fighting. On and on our boys worked their way through Gruerie wood and into Apremont wood. This progress was made during the first two days. For eight days our progress was piecemeal until Sunday, 10 days after we had started, our real success began as the boche gave way before our never ceasing pressure.

After this success of the Americans the German line seemed not so strong. On Monday we took Cornay and the heights west of the village commanding the forest up to the Aire valley and Grand Pre. On Wednesday the French on the left moved up to Senus, while the Americans took the heights of Marq, joining the French at Launc. Winning the remaining salient presented then no great difficulty.

There is no strategic withdrawal business about the Germans getting out of the Argonne forest. Regarding it so long as safe, they had used it for years as a recreation place for jaded divisions, wearied by fighting on other parts of the front. It was the seat of handsome quarters built for German officers. Theatres, bowling alleys, clubs and big dining halls, all built of reinforced concrete, were found by scores on the hillsides. Millions of dollars must have been the cost of these playgrounds. But it was not for these the German command sent three of the seven Prussian guard divisions to hold the Argonne. It was because this thorn in the side of France was the key to the whole front from the vicinity of Rheims to the Meuse and the strongest protection to the Kriemhild system on which the German command thought to stop the Americans.

Incidentally, between the Argonne and the Meuse we are astride this line, having crashed through it in three places.

I repeat that it is the biggest victory that Gen. Pershing has yet won.

HOW TO SEND XMAS PACKAGES TO SOLDIERS AND SAILOR BOYS

Rules to Be Followed as Issued by the Army and Navy Departments

Washington. American soldiers in France can receive but one Christmas package each year and each package must weigh not more than three pounds, according to regulations announced by the war department. Boxes for men in the navy, however, may weigh 20 pounds.

The regulations governing Christmas packages for soldiers have just been completed after conferences between the war and post office departments and the American Red Cross.

"Relatives and friends," says the war department's announcement, "who are planning to make Christmas for the soldiers in the war zones as merry as conditions will permit, should bear in mind that each soldier is entitled to but one of these packages. The war department will not accept more than one parcel for each man. It is expected that approximately 2,000,000 of these packages will be sent abroad and the amount of shipping space provided for their transportation will not permit of any deviation from the one parcel a man rule."

Guard Against Duplicates

"The men themselves will decide who is to send these parcels. They are now receiving Christmas parcel labels with instructions to mail these labels to the person in this country from whom they wish to receive the holiday box. To avoid any chance of duplication, each soldier gets but one of these labels. Packages that do not bear these labels will not be accepted. In the event of this label being lost it cannot be replaced.

"No Christmas parcels will be accepted for shipment after November 20. The cardboard boxes or cartons to be provided for these parcels are three inches by four inches by nine inches in size. When packed, wrapped, and ready for mailing these boxes must not weigh more than three pounds."

How to Send Presents

The American Red Cross has agreed to provide these cardboard boxes and to supervise their distribution to relatives of the soldiers who present the proper Christmas parcel label credent the procedure to be followed by persons planning to send one of these parcels abroad:

On receiving one of these Christmas parcel labels it should be presented at the nearest chapter, branch or auxiliary headquarters of the Red Cross, where the holder will receive a carton. These labels are not expected to reach this country before November 1, but by that time each Red Cross branch will have its allotment of boxes, based on the number of soldiers in service overseas from that community.

Articles Prohibited

These boxes may be filled with any combination of prohibited articles, except those on the list barred by the postal officials. The articles prohibited are all intoxicating liquors, all inflammable materials, including friction matches, and any composition likely to ignite or explode (cigarette lighters come under this classification), liquids and fragile articles improperly packed. Under the regulations no note or message or written matter of any kind will be permitted to remain in the boxes.

In addition to the foregoing list of prohibited articles, relatives and friends are urged to bear these facts in mind:

Do not put anything in the package which will not keep fresh until Christmas.

Pack dried fruits and other food products in small tin or wooden boxes. Give preference to hard candy over chocolates, unless the latter are enclosed in heavy wrappers.

Do not put in articles packed in glass.

Gifts should be wrapped in khaki-colored handkerchiefs, 27 inches square.

Take Package to Red Cross

When the package has been packed it should be taken, unwrapped and unsealed, together with the label and sufficient stamps, to the nearest collection center designed by the Red Cross. After the package has passed the inspection of the Red Cross representatives the Christmas label bearing the address of the man for whom it is intended is placed on it. The person sending the package, in the presence of the Red Cross worker, is required to affix stamps sufficient to carry it to Hoboken, N. J.

In the navy department instructions for Christmas packages to sailors in home waters and abroad, it is provided that all boxes are limited to 20 pounds in weight and are forwarded in care of supply officer, fleet supply base, Twenty-ninth street, and Third avenue, South Brooklyn, N. Y.

Shipment of Christmas packages for naval vessels abroad should be made so as to reach New York not later than November 15.

TO PREPARE FOR

A SUDDEN PEACE

Declares Nation is Now Unprepared

At noon, the last day of September, Bulgaria ceased to be an enemy. Her withdrawal from the war came unexpectedly. Turkey, as a military power, has collapsed. Many of the closest students of affairs in Europe predict that Austria is about through. By these actions peace is being speeded.

None of this could have been predicted with any degree of confidence 30 days ago. It verifies and gives great emphasis to the remarks of Senator Weeks, Republican, of Massachusetts, who, in introducing a resolution in the United States Senate calling for the creation of a committee on reconstruction, said:

Week's Prophetic Words

"When the end of this great conflict does come, it will not give us any time for preparation; indeed, in one day the whole world-scene will change. Unless we take advantage of the present to provide for the future, we shall be caught in exactly the same condition as regards peace as we were when we declared war unprepared."

This is the list of problems included in the resolution introduced by Senator Weeks:

Labor, capital and credit, public utilities, demobilization of industrial resources, demobilization of army and military resources, foreign trade, continuation of existing industries, agricultural production and distribution, production and distribution of coal, gasoline and other fuels, questions of foreign credits, tariff, shipping, housing conditions, disposition of structures which have been erected by the government for war purposes and of materials which have been accumulated by the government for war purposes, repeal of legislation governing war activities and new legislation assisting in the transformation of war activities into peace activities; and all other problems which will result at the change of this nation and the world from a war to a peace basis.

No Preparation for Peace

In presenting this resolution, Senator Weeks called attention to the fact that this is the only country which has taken no action looking toward the demobilization of our military resources and changing our entire national life from the prosecution of war to the pursuits of peace.

Every other nation now engaged in war has been studying these problems for at least three years; this includes both the central powers and the allies.

For this nation to remain indifferent to the problems that must come when peace is restored is to invite a long period of distress and hard times affecting all classes of business and particularly the laboring classes.

By way of illustration: In event the other central powers should decide as quickly as Bulgaria did to stop the war, what would happen to the millions of American soldiers now in France? How would they get home and how soon? It is a known fact they have been transported to France only by the very liberal assistance of the transport systems of our allies, principally Great Britain. It is a matter of record that over 60 per cent. of the men we have sent to France have been transported on ships owned by our allies and loaned to us because of their dire need of our man power on the western front. Yet with 60 per cent. of our men being moved by foreign-owned ships it has taken a year to transport the men to France that we now have there.

What of the Boys Abroad?

When peace is restored it is not reasonable to suppose that our allies will continue to impoverish their own transport system in order to take care of our needs.

UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

for the home influence.

What is New England's share in this great undertaking?

It is indeed a large sum but one that will be forthcoming gladly—$15,439,373.

The quotas of the various states follows:

Massachusetts $9,048,435
Connecticut 3,000,000
Rhode Island 1,290,515
Maine 906,327
New Hampshire 722,391
Vermont 471,705

Some unthinking person may say—"Why is it necessary for the general public to support these organizations in their work—why doesn't the Government do it?"

Why doesn't the Government do it? Is the Government some superhuman thing that can do the impossible? At this very moment the Government of the United States is performing the most colossal task in all history. It is feeding, clothing and transporting the greatest army ever gathered together. Its duties are stupendously multifarious. It is striving mightily for the comfort of its men; the best that is possible. The emergency of war makes it a human impossibility for the United States Government to do more than it is doing.

This great United War Work Campaign is simply our own community work carried into the training camps and among the troops in the field. In a word it is a case of YOU contributing your bit to make the life of your own boy or somebody else's boy just a bit more comfortable during the stress of the mighty conflict which is being waged for the very safety and future peace of this great country of ours.

Let us follow one single soldier on the long road that leads from his front door to far away France, and see how these seven organizations that you are asked to aid as one join hands to form a great chain of helpfulness all the way.

He steps aboard a troop train that is to carry him to the cantonment. A long lonesome ride, full of homesick thoughts, but, perhaps, there is a hand furnished by the Jewish Welfare League or the War Camp Community service to speed him on his way, and on the train are friends whom he had not expected—a Y. M. C. A., or a K. of C. secretary—a big friendly fellow, who has traveled for months with other boys just like him, and knows how to help.

At the cantonment the evidence that the folks back home are thinking of him lies on every side. Here are 750 great honey huts of the K. of C., the Y. M. C. A., the Jewish Welfare Board and the Salvation Army, and in the adjoining towns are the club houses of the War Camp Community Service.

These huts are where he can write letters home, play games at night, witness motion picture shows, hear helpful lectures, attend church service, keep up with his studies under the direction of the best college professors and teachers in the country.

Here also are 85 hostess houses of the Y. W. C. A. where mother and sister and sweetheart may make their headquarters when they visit. In all these buildings are branch libraries provided by the American Library Association and filled with books and magazines. In 43 of the large camps and several hundred smaller ones are to library buildings besides, with trained librarians and comfortable reading rooms.

If your boy or mine happens to wander into a nearby big city on a short furlough the same wholesome influence follows him. At every station and certain points of the city War Camp Community workers are located. They tell the boy in uniform that he can eat and sleep, and in interesting places to go.

Fathers and mothers well remember the history of other wars concerning boys on a furlough. This influence has constant effect.

When the time comes for the soldier to leave for France secretaries of the above named organizations are aboard the train which carries him to his point of embarkation. Aboard the transport are other secretaries, and these men do nothing but cross and recross the ocean just to be of service to the boys. On shipboard they furnish writing material, organize games and give moving picture shows and other forms of entertainment.

On the other side the same work goes on. There are huts in the big cities and close to the firing line. The huts follow the soldiers and the influences go with them always. Even if your boy or mine is captured by the foe the work goes on just the same. In Switzerland the Y. M. C. A. and the K. of C. have established headquarters and from here the work of helpfulness is carried out even in the prison camps of Germany and Austria.

TO BE SURE $170,500,000 IS A LOT OF MONEY, BUT THINK OF THE INVESTMENT, FOLKS!

It means less than one dollar a week for each of the boys in our army and navy. And certainly no one in America will say that a dollar a week is too much for their cheer and entertainment.

Foch and Pershing have said that morale is the greatest factor in winning the war. The military army is fighting the foe on the field of battle.

You and I at home, no matter who you are, compose the great civilian army. Your fight is to keep the morale of the military army what it should be.

Get it? The military army is absolutely dependent on the civilian army.

MRS. STANWOOD WITHINGTON

The community was saddened last week when it was learned that Mrs. Mae Titcomb Withington had been taken ill with influenza, and passed away.

Mrs. Withington was born in Houlton, 37 years ago, the daughter of the late F. W. and Mrs. Titcomb, she graduated from R. C. I. and a few years after went to the Maine General Hospital where she graduated as a nurse, and a few years after practicing her profession, she married Stanwood Withington, of Buckfield.

At the time of her death she was living with her husband in Salem, and when the call came for volunteer nurses, she gladly gave her services to the relief of the sufferers in Salem Hospital, and soon after was taken down with the malady and did not recover.

Mrs. Withington had many friends who will miss her in the circle in which she lived, as well as many acquaintances in Houlton, and the sympathy of the community goes out to the husband as well as to her mother, her sister, Miss Ethel Titcomb and her brother, W. F. Titcomb, who survive.

The remains arrived here Saturday and the funeral took place from her former home on Elm street, Sunday afternoon, being largely attended.

HOULTON MEN ACT AS VOLUNTEER FIREMEN

The Messrs. Fox Bros. while visiting a friend in Amity Sunday, had an experience that for thrills would put a movie film on the run.

While at the table eating dinner the young son of their host, burst out "Oh, Papa, Mr. Estabrooke's house is all on fire!" and sure enough the entire roof was ablaze, with the occupants unaware of their peril. A quick call on the phone was made and a hurried mobilization of pails and a volunteer bucket brigade was formed, with Mr. Arthur Estabrooke, owner of the buildings, perched on the roof while the filled pails were hastily passed and soon the blaze was subdued and the all-out was sounded.

LEWIS L. WHITNEY

One of Norridgewock's Most Prominent Business Men

The town was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Lewis L. Whitney, which occurred at his home on Main street Saturday morning, Oct. 12, of typhoid pneumonia. Many of his friends had not learned of his illness as he was confined to the house but three days. He was one of the most prominent business men of the town. His leading occupation was buying and shipping potatoes and hay, and as a business man his passing will be a great loss to the town.

For a number of years he was in company with his father. For the past two or three years he had been in business for himself. He was of a social and generous disposition and always ready to help in anything for the interest of the town.

He was the son of William R. Whitney and the late Florence Stoddard Whitney and was born in Houlton 34 years ago. He was a member of DeMolay Commandery of Skowhegan and Eastern Star Chapter of Solon. He was married about two weeks ago to Miss Grace Knights of Oakland.

Besides his wife he leaves his father and one sister, Mrs. James Hilton. A private funeral was held Monday at 2 P. M. conducted by the Masons. The body was taken to Houlton for burial. — Kennebec Journal.
