Head-On Crash Kills One In Warren

WARREN — Mrs. Mabel V. Fairclough, 71, wife of William Fairclough of 125 Grove Street in Reading, Mass., was instantly killed in a head-on crash with a Maryland car on Route 1 in Warren near the location of the Northeast Ice Company about 5 p. m. Wednesday.

Injured and taken to Knox Hospital for emergency treatment was her 76 year old husband who State Police report was operator of the car. Also, Miss Irene Walker, 56, of Takoma Park, Md., who was driving the other car, and her passenger, Mrs. Lucille Cross 48, also of Takoma Park.

A Knox Hospital supervisor described Mr. Fairclough's condition as fair at press time Wednesday night. He had sustained lacerations and contusions and facial cuts. Mrs. Cross suffered lacerations and contusions and possible back and neck injuries. Mrs. Walker has possible chest injuries in addition to lacerations and contusions.

Trooper Lawrence Chapman of Troop D State Police at Thomaston quoted witnesses to the accident as having described that the Fairclough car, which was heading toward Rockland, swung into the path of the Maryland car as if to enter a driveway or road. None existed at that point. The section of road concerned is straight and affords a clear view for some distance.

Mr. Fairclough is reported by police in Reading to be an assessor of the community. The couple have one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Merrill of Reading.

As the picture shows, both cars were demolished in the front end. The Fairclough car in which the fatality occurred appeared to have sustained the lesser damage.

Mrs. Fairclough's body was removed to the Flanders Funeral Home in Waldoboro.

Moose Comes Off Second Best

WADOBORO — A 500 pound cow moose had to be shot Tuesday night after colliding with a pick-up truck on Route 220 between Waldoboro and Friendship shortly after 9 o'clock. The driver of the truck, Ronald Rackliffe, 22, of Spruce Head said the cow moose ran into the truck apparently blinded by the headlights, smashed the hood of the truck and rammed its head through the windshield.

Trooper Carey W. Thing of Waldoboro was called to the scene of the accident and he in turn summoned Game Warden Winfield Gordon of Warren to help hunt down the injured beast that had wandered off into the bush. They discovered the moose lying about 100 yards from the truck and Gordon shot it.

Vinalhaven Child In Critical Condition At Medical Center Following 60 Foot Fall Tuesday

Stephen Ames, two and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Ames of Vinalhaven, was given a better than even chance of recovery by doctors of the Maine Medical Center in Portland Wednesday following a fall of some 60 feet from a ledge into an abandoned quarry near his home in Vinalhaven Tuesday. He was reported as suffering from a depressed fracture of the skull, a fracture of the left arm, and some brain damage by officials at the Center.

The accident happened at about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when young Stephen wandered away from home and stumbled into the quarry which is about a fifth of a mile from his home. A young companion who was with him ran home calling for help telling Stephen's mother of the fall.

Stephen was conscious and crying for his mother when Dr. Ralph Earle arrived to examine him, and ordered that he be sent as fast as possible to the Knox County General Hospital.

The child was taken across the bay to Rockland in a new lobster boat owned by Morris Bickford which brought him into the dock in less than an hour following the accident.

At Knox Hospital, his injuries were of such a serious nature that it was decided to rush him to the Maine Medical Center in Portland by ambulance.

The father, Alton Ames, is in the Navy and is currently aboard a ship which has been on duty in the Mediterranean and due in Newport, R. I., this week.

POLICE URGE MOTORISTS TO ACCEPT THEIR SHARE OF RESPONSIBILITY ON THE ROAD

AUGUSTA—Governor John H. Reed and Col. Robert Marx, State Police chief issued a joint statement today, urging everyone to cooperate with the many official and non-official agencies which will be making an all-out effort to prevent highway crashes during the long Labor Day weekend.

"Enforcement organizations, at all levels, will be working around the clock in a concentrated effort to offset the dangers of this period of heavy travel", said Governor Reed. "Official safety groups and many non-official public support groups have been making every effort to alert the motoring public to the added danger of a long holiday weekend. Public informational media throughout the entire State are doing a tremendous job, as always, bringing about a public awareness of the absolute necessity for unusual care in traffic."

Governor Reed emphasized, however, that all this safety activity will prove to be of very little value if we, as individuals, refuse to accept our responsibilities in traffic.

"Our strict observance of the motor vehicle laws, and our courtesy, caution, and constant alertness, every moment we are driving or walking in traffic, are the factors which can make this a truly safe weekend," concluded Maine's Governor. "Please help us to save lives."

Col. Marx joined the Governor in urging everyone to comply voluntarily with traffic laws and to exercise exceptional care, and added:

"Whenever possible, traffic patrol will take precedence over all other State Police duties and responsibilities during this critical period. However, as always, the key to the situation will be the traffic conduct of each individual driver and pedestrian. Sober, careful, patient driving and walking will pay rich dividends in lives saved. Please give us your complete cooperation."

Brothers Apart 33 Years Visit On Vinalhaven

VINALHAVEN—August 17 was a happy day for David Duncan, Sr., as his brother, John, and wife arrived from Edinburgh, Scotland, by way of Canada. Mr. Duncan had not seen his brother since his last visit to Scotland, 33 years ago. They were accompanied by their son, Dr. David Duncan, who practices in Samia, Ontario.

Around the dinner table that evening were four David Duncans, as David Duncan, Jr., and his son, David Duncan, III, were also present. Other dinner guests were Mrs. David Duncan, Jr., and two daughters, Wendy and Barbara.

Dr. Duncan could only remain over one evening as his home is 1,000 miles from Vinalhaven and he had to return to his wife and two children, one of which is only eight weeks old.

Mr. and Mrs. John Duncan will visit in Vinalhaven for a few weeks.

HISTORICAL BUILDINGS SURVEY GROUP EXHIBITING THEIR WORK

Shown looking over drawings of the lighthouse of Saddleback Ledge are F. Blair Reeves, on the left, and Robert H. Swilley of the Historical American Building Survey. The H.A.B.S. held open house Wednesday featuring drawings and photographs of local housing which they have compiled this summer. Reeves, who is assistant professor of architecture and fine arts at the University of Florida headed a three man team in the study of architecture in the Lincoln, Knox and Waldo Counties this summer.

A display of the summer's work of a team of surveyors of historical buildings are on view currently at the Farnsworth Museum for the remainder of the week.

The head of the group, F. Blair Reeves, assistant professor of architecture of the University of Florida, announces that several drawings and photographs of interesting old houses of the area will be on display as well as samples of the work the group does in other areas.

One house the group inspected is the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cross in Warren which Reeves said was constructed in 1788. It is notable also because iron braces were used in construction of the barn which was very unusual for the era when iron was scarce. Also to be seen are drawings of the lighthouse on Saddleback Ledge of Vinalhaven.

Reeves said his team, consisting of three architectural students, had made complete drawings of 14 buildings from Belfast to Wiscasset, and photographed those and several more, as well as indexing over 100.

Professor Reeves expects to return to Maine next summer for more study of historical buildings.

UNION CHAMBER CONTINUING EFFORTS TO OBTAIN BANKING SERVICES IN THE COMMUNITY

UNION—Plans for a new bank for Union were discussed Tuesday night at a meeting of the Union Chamber of Commerce held in the Thompson Memorial Building. The bank would replace the Depositors Trust Co. which closed out Wednesday.

Harland Demuth, president of the Chamber of Commerce in Union, presided at the meeting and revealed results of a survey taken in the Union, Appleton and Washington districts. More than 800 letters were sent out to residents in these communities asking if they would support a new bank. From the 400 replies received it was indicated that the proposed bank would have to have $700,000 on deposit. The committee announced that it would make a drive to make up the $200,000 deficit by appealing to business establishments and individuals for their support.

There will be several thermometers placed in various stores in Union showing day by day results of the drive to obtain pledges for the necessary deposits to open the new bank, said Demuth.

REDLEGS TO PLAY POST SEASON SERIES WITH CHAMP TORPEDOES OF ST. GEORGE

WALDOBORO — The Damariscotta Redlegs defeated the Townies 8-5 here Sunday afternoon and thus won the right to meet the Twilight League champion St. George Torpedoes in a three game post-season series. The first game is scheduled for next Sunday at St. George.

Waldoboro pitchers kept themselves in almost constant trouble by their wildness, cutting loose with no less than six wild pitches during the game.

Neither starting pitcher was around at the finish, as Billy Chase was relieved by Travis Paine for Waldoboro in the third and Redleg starter Ken Rice was driven out in the second with a three run Waldoboro outburst. Red Lazarus replaced him and hurled strongly the rest of the way.

In the Waldoboro second, two walks, a Dana Verge double and Bobby Howe single were put together, along with a fielder's choice. Damariscotta tied it in the fifth, aided by a wild pitch, and went ahead to stay in the sixth without a hit as two errors, walk and sacrifice fly were good for two runs.

Score: Waldoboro 130 000 100-5-8-2 Damariscotta 102 012 11x-8-10-1 Chase, Paine (3), Lawson (6), Paine (7), and Hanna; Rice, Lazarus (2) and Burnham.

Season Set For Waterfowl On The Maine Coast

AUGUSTA — The U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has notified the Maine Fish and Game Department that the season for geese and brant during a recent Waterfowl Council meeting provides one day over the allowable total of 60. For this reason the season originally chosen by the waterfowl group will be changed from Oct. 7 through Dec. 6, to Oct. 7 through Dec. 5. The framework of waterfowl seasons is set by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and the states must choose seasons which comply with the specified number of days allowed.

Shooting hours on waterfowl will be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset except on opening day, including the first day of each split season, when shooting will start at 12 o'clock noon Eastern Standard Time. Species on the protected list this year include the canvasback and redhead duck. Following is a brief summary of Maine's waterfowl regulations:

Ducks — Oct. 7 to Oct. 22 and Nov. 19 to Dec. 10; daily limit, three; possession at one time, six.

Wood Duck — Oct. 7 to Oct. 22 and Nov. 19 to Dec. 10; daily limit, two; possession at one time, one.

Hooded Merganser — Oct. 7 to Oct. 22 and Nov. 19 to Dec. 10; daily limit, one; possession at one time, one.

The Maine Highway Safety Committee reminds us that as many as six people have been killed in Maine motor vehicle crashes during a Labor Day weekend. They urge us to do more than our share to prevent these tragedies.

Warren — Tuesday afternoon at 2:25, two cars collided on Route 90 near Warren as Mrs. Janice Overlock, 19, of Warren attempted to make a left hand turn into a driveway while heading south. Her car was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Beverly A. Mallet, 28, of Lubec who was going north on Route 90. Both women were treated at the scene of the accident for facial cuts by a Warren doctor. Damage was estimated at $350 to both cars by State Police who investigated the accident.

Union — Shortly after 1:30 Tuesday a parked car was propelled into the front of Cunningham's IGA Market on Union Common when another car struck it from the rear. State Police identified Mrs. Genevieve Watts, 38, of Union as the driver of the car that bumped the parked car belonging to Ray E. Dawson of Washington. Mrs. Watts told police that she swerved to avoid hitting a pedestrian and jammed her foot on the accelerator instead of the brake. The parked car shot across the sidewalk and broke a post at the entrance of the store. Police did not estimate the damage to the store, but said the Dawson vehicle sustained approximately $150 damage.

Rockland — At the Rotary Club luncheon at the Thorndike Hotel last Friday noon, members enjoyed a film, "Building Bridges for the Aid of the Handicapped Worker". The film emphasized the fact that in most cases a handicapped worker is better fitted for special position than those fortunate persons who suffer no impairment of their limbs and faculties.

Rockland — Speaker at the Monday meeting of the Kiwanis Club was James Pelletier who heads the Industrial Division of the Maine Department of Economic Development. He discussed Maine's industrial promotional program and then conducted a question and answer period.

SWEDISH U. N. CORRESPONDENT PICKS SPRUCE HEAD FOR SUMMERS

Mr. and Mrs. Sven Ahman look over their Swedish newspaper "Dagens Nyheter" on the porch of their cottage in Spruce Head. The Ahmans come to Spruce Head every summer on a vacation from the hustle and bustle of New York life. Ahman covers the United Nations for the "Dagens Nyheter" and is the only Swedish newspaper correspondent in the United States.

SPRUCE HEAD — Mr. and Mrs. Sven Ahman, who have been summering in Spruce Head since 1953, credit the saving of their summer vacation this year to their telephone. Ahman, who is the only newspaper correspondent from Sweden in the United States, has his headquarters in the United Nations in New York. From there he reports on international issues debated in the U. N. direct to his newspaper in Stockholm, Sweden.

This summer the Ahmans decided to take their vacation during a lull in U. N. activity. However, when they arrived at their cottage in Spruce Head an emergency meeting of the U. N. was called by Dag Hammarskjöld on the Congo crisis. By using his telephone to call New York and then relaying reports to Stockholm via the Trans Atlantic cable he was able to keep his paper abreast of happenings. If it hadn't been for their telephone the Ahmans' vacation would have been very short lived.

Ahman's newspaper "Dagen Nyheter," the translation of which is "The Daily News," is the largest paper in Sweden and has a daily circulation of 300,000.

ALA Points To Record of 25 and Under Drivers

BOSTON — A well known traffic statistic was further substantiated through a study made by the Automobile Legal Association recently. The study shows that drivers under the age of 25 are more accident prone than any other age group. Although drivers under 25 number only 18 percent of the total drivers in the United States, they accounted for 28 percent of the total number of accidents reported in 1959. This is almost double the rate for any other age group.

The Association's Safety Director, Alan F. Strong, said of the study, "The need for driver education courses, a more thorough license examination, and stricter law enforcement for this age group is definitely needed. The fact that there was a slight increase over the previous year's figures enforces the argument for closer supervision and control over drivers under 25."

If you plan to travel over the road during the Labor Day weekend, be sure that you allow more than enough time for your trip. Don't remain too long behind the wheel and don't try to cover too much ground in a short period of time. The State Police remind us that these errors have been responsible for many highway crashes.

Postal Patrons Can Turn Back Unwanted Mail

A question commonly asked of post offices is what can be done to prevent receipt of unsolicited and unwanted third class mail matter, especially advertising circulars.

According to Rockland Postmaster James Connellan, patrons may refuse unwanted circular matter by endorsing it "Refused" and handing it back to the carrier or placing it in a collection box. This would then cause the piece to be returned to the sender, provided the sender has placed a guarantee on the mail stating that return postage will be paid. If this guarantee is not shown on the envelope, then it would be useless to refuse this type of mail, as the post office destroys all undeliverable third class matter which does not carry assurance of return postage.

Those who wish to refuse third class matter should note whether or not the sender has agreed to pay return postage, which is indicated by one of the following endorsements on the left-hand side of the mailing piece:

Return Postage Guaranteed
Forwarding Postage Guaranteed
Form 3547 Requested

"Refusal to accept mail matter is not always an assurance that no more will be received," cautions Postmaster Connellan. "Even though you endorse unwanted pieces of third class mail 'Refused' and the sender has a guarantee to pay return postage, you may still be plagued with this type of mail until your name is removed from the sender's mailing list."

The most direct and most effective action toward stopping objectionable third class mail is to return the piece to the sender with the request that you be taken off his mailing list. Complaints to the postmaster are important when obscene materials are involved, but only the recipient can do anything to discourage or to eliminate receipt of matter which is not morally or legally offensive. All matter that enters the mails properly prepared and carrying adequate postage must be delivered.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

By Marjorie Mayo

Now that the gardens are producing all kinds of fresh fruits and vegetables, canning can be a delight to the housewife, because she can preserve them to serve her family in the cold winter months. Canning does not need to be an endless tiring process. By planning ahead, it is surprising how easy it is, and how rewarding to see shelves lined with jars of fruits and vegetables, when the cold wind is blowing around outside and the gardens are covered with drifts of snow.

Before starting the canning project the housewife will save time by checking her equipment and having it ready. In her working area she should have: shallow pans, a colander for straining, wire basket or cheesecloth for dipping, jar funnel, quart measure, measuring cup, ladle or dipper, measuring spoons, jar tongs to prevent burns, long-handled spoons, stainless steel paring knives, cutting knife and board, scissors, vegetable brush, jars, covers and rubbers, and a pressure cooker or water bath for processing.

If using glass jars and covers, be sure to check both for chips or cracks, discarding any that are damaged. Wash canner, jars and new rubbers thoroughly. Sterilize the jars and covers. During the processing period, place the jars, covers and rubbers in a pan of warm water and heat just below the boiling point, so that they will be ready to put the hot vegetables or fruit into.

Spoilage of canned food may be prevented and time saved by following these rules:

Can only freshly gathered foods. Bacteria multiplies quickly on food that stands piled up in the hot sun or in a warm kitchen.

Precook only enough food to fill a canner load of jars.

Have the water bath boiling or the pressure cooker ready when the jars are packed.

Cool the jars as quickly as possible after processing, but do not put them in a draft. Never crowd or stack them until they are thoroughly cooled.

Store in a cool place.

Use home or locally grown foods as they are less costly and have a better flavor.

Plan simple meals for canning day, preparing some dishes ahead.

Start early in the day and don't plan to can so much that you will be overtired at the end of the day.

Have a supply of freshly laundered (boiled) cloths ready. Don't use your regular supply of dish cloths and towels, as it ruins them.

Prepare fruits and vegetables over newspaper, wrap up and discard often to keep a clean, uncluttered working area.

Keep a kettle of fresh boiling water on hand, to add to boiling water bath, to precook foods, to fill jars of some kinds of vegetables and to make syrups for fruits.

Never use artificial preservatives, they are not necessary and may be harmful.

Place vegetables in a saucepan, cover with boiling water, and boil uncovered for about five minutes. Pack in hot jars within an inch of the top, add salt, a teaspoon to a quart jar and ½ teaspoon to a pint. Place in canner, cover with boiling water to within ½ inch of top of jar. Place cover on canner and process for the required time.

Process string beans in boiling water bath, pints, one hour 40 minutes; quarts, two hours. Precook shell beans three minutes, process pints, two hours 20 minutes and quarts, three hours.

BEETS

Sort beets according to size. Cut off the tops, leaving the root and an inch of stem. Wash beets. Boil until skins slip off easily, 15 or 20 minutes depending on the size, then skin and trim them. Leave baby beets whole. Cut medium or very large beets in one half inch slices; halve or quarter very large slices. Work quickly to prevent bleeding. Pack, all cooking liquid and process pints one hour and 40 minutes; quarts, two hours.

WHOLE KERNEL CORN
Husk corn and remove silk. Wash. Cut from cob at about two-thirds the depth of the kernel. Add half as much water as corn, enough to cover. Heat to boiling. Pack and process pints two hours 20 minutes and quarts, three hours.

CANNED PEACHES
First make a medium syrup as follows:
Measure 3 cups sugar and 4 cups water into a saucepan. Cook until sugar dissolves. Add 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid mixture per cup of syrup. This will prevent the fruit from turning brown. Keep syrup hot. Yield 5½ cups. Each quart of fruit will need 1 to 1½ cups of syrup.

Select firm ripe peaches. Dip them in boiling water to loosen skins, then plunge into cold water. Drain. Cut them in half; pit and peel. To prevent fruit from darkening during the preparation, drop the peeled halves into ascorbic acid mixture using 3 tablespoons to two quarts of water. Pack peach halves in jars, cavity-side down with layers overlapping. Leave 6 inch head space. Cover with hot syrup to cover peach halves if necessary. Adjust jar lids according to directions for specific type used. Wipe off jar. Process in a boiling water bath 25 to 30 minutes. If pressure cooker is used, follow directions for specific cooker. If water bath is used, stand filled jars on rack in hot water. Add enough water to cover jars at least one inch. Bring to a boil, start counting processing time when the water comes to a rolling boil. Remove containers immediately when processing time is finished. When cool, label and store.

The oldest known written text is the cuneiform record of a Sumerian speech, dated about 5,000 B. C.

Mrs. Saunders, A Collector's Collector

SHAKERS ANYONE? — Shown above are only a few of the 4,400 sets of salt and pepper shakers, all different, which Mrs. Marie Saunders has collected over a period of 20 years. The collection covers all available wall space of one large room and overflows into her front hall. The upper two shelves contain cat sets and the two below are birds.

Mrs. Marie Saunders of 54 Union Street, could, if she wished use a different set of salt and pepper shakers on her table every day for the next 12 years. However, it is unlikely that she will, as she is a collector who cherishes the 4,400 sets of shakers which she owns and which are all different. All available wall space in one of the rooms of her house is covered with shelves of shakers, plus both walls of the front hall.

Unlike most hobbyists who collect only one item, Mrs. Saunders doubles in the collection of post cards and she has some 80,000 of these, all catalogued and neatly stored along the entire wall space of an upstairs room.

She started the collection of salt and pepper shakers 20 years ago when she purchased a zebra set at a Rockland store and was bitten by the collecting bug.

She still has the original set, but it is all but lost in the sets of vegetables, cats, dogs, windmills, phonographs, teapots, birds, not to mention sets with the shape of each of 48 out of the 50 states. It would take a great deal of salt and pepper to fill them all.

Mrs. Saunders says her greatest interest was in collecting the first 500 sets; she feels that after that she became a "hoarder" instead of a collector. Her favorite subjects are cat sets and she had two shelves full of various color and type felines. Her late husband, Marshall, a railroad engineer, also took an active interest in her collection and contributed a number of shakers made of different kinds of wood to her collection as well as putting up the shelves on which they are displayed.

Mrs. Saunders' collection is far from being the largest in the country however. She personally knows of a California woman with whom she has correspondence who has a collection of more than 14,000 different sets, and she feels there are many more larger than her own.

Her post card collection is her present chief interest and she has through the years specialized in theatrical personalities and has a wide collection covering the important stage and screen personages of this century.

Another specialty with her has been covered bridges but she has yet to complete her collection in this field. However, she has picture cards of every courthouse building of every county in the United States. It took her nearly 15 years to complete her collection and many of the cards proved extremely elusive.

She also has a complete collection of cards picturing every breed of cat, as well as most of the dog breeds.

Collecting, she finds, has gone up in cost over the years like everything else. The time was when collectors could stock up in the five and ten cent stores but that day is long gone as only gift and variety shops now stock odd items. The same is true for post cards, which no longer may be obtained for a penny apiece.

You pay $1.10 tax on 10 gallons of gasoline

In Maine, car owners pay $1.10 tax on every 10 gallons of gasoline they buy.

Does a tax this high—on a basic commodity like gasoline—really make sense? Gasoline taxes in this state amount to a 50% sales tax—and that's over five times as high as the tax rate on luxuries like diamonds and mink coats.

How did gasoline taxes get so high? Well, since World War II, there have been three increases in the federal gasoline tax alone. This brought the Federal tax to 4 cents a gallon, in addition to the State tax of 7 cents a gallon.

Looking at it another way, in the last ten years gasoline taxes have skyrocketed 51%—yet the price of gasoline itself has risen only 5.5% during the same period.

$90 a year for gasoline taxes! Gallon by gallon, these taxes add up to a lot of money. Each year the average motor vehicle owner in this state pays $90 for gasoline taxes alone. That's just about as much as the average week's pay for most people!

Your gasoline retailer—who must collect these taxes from you—feels that gasoline taxes are much too high. More and more, thinking people are coming to agree. What do you think?

HIGHWAYS AND GASOLINE TAXES

Your gasoline retailer, naturally, favors construction of the roads that the motoring public needs. He believes in fair and reasonable taxation for this purpose but feels that taxes on gasoline have now reached unreasonably high levels. He also believes that all special taxes on the motorist should be used only for highway purposes. Yet last year, out of every automobile tax dollar collected by the Federal Government from highway users, more than 40 cents went for non-highway purposes. If these automotive tax revenues were dedicated for highway purposes, there would be no need for the latest increase in the federal gasoline tax.

half trillion dollars, which means that we are producing more goods and services than ever before. Total employment, which now stands close to 69 million, will continue to reach new record highs through 1960. Personal income, measured in terms of real purchasing power, is at an all-time high. Thirty-four million American families, or about 58 percent, own their own homes, the highest number in history.

Labor Day 1960 also finds more and more men and women — because of the steady improvement of their working conditions, and because of a growing premium on their skill and craftsmanship — taking increasing pride and satisfaction in their jobs.

Truly, Americans have reached a remarkable level of well-being. But we must strive harder to meet the challenges that still lie before us.

A small but important segment of our economy is still excluded from the general prosperity. The migrant farm worker makes on the average less than $1,000 a year or only about one-fifth the average of non-farm workers. If the migrant is to take his rightful place as a beneficiary of our wealthy society, he must be granted equal economic opportunity.

Discriminatory hiring practices are still depriving many older people, Negroes and other minority group workers, and women of jobs they are able and willing to do. Because equal opportunity is a fundamental right of every citizen, we must step up our efforts to eliminate such inequalities.

Although employment is at an all-time high, unemployment due to technological change, loss of markets, the exhaustion of resources in certain areas, or the movement of industrial plants from one region to another remains a problem in some parts of our country. We must continue to attack chronic and persistent unemployment on every front: locally, through the initiative of the communities in attracting new industry, and on the State and national levels, by the creation of constructive assistance programs.

Labor and management must devise — in an atmosphere of mutual understanding, and with the public welfare in mind — new ways for meeting the problems which are vital to their own interests as well as to the future of the economy — problems such as those dealing with the effects of technological change, uncoordinated work practices, the division of productivity gains, and the impact of foreign competition on American markets.

These are challenges worthy of the American people. They must be met with intelligent and workable solutions and with the help of all citizens working together. With such an approach, and with the help and support of a government dedicated to the freedom, dignity, and progress of its citizens, the American people will rise to new levels of strength and well-being.

Coffin Comments On Congress Special Session

This past special session of Congress has been widely referred to as a bob tail affair. To use language more apt for Maine readers, I would say that the session resembled more the neck of a clam than the tail of a lobster.

I had a feeling of unreality about it. Although I knew there were great issues being fought out with sharp intensity, the battlegrounds were hidden from view in the Senate or in the mysterious alcoves of the Capitol where conference committees were shaping the final form of legislation on minimum wages, medical care for the aged, and foreign aid appropriations.

What most people do not realize is the immense power lodged in these conference committees. These are small, select groups of senior House and Senate members, who decide what kind of a compromise shall finally emerge on major bills. When, as happened on Mutual Security appropriations, the overwhelming majority of the conference committee is unsympathetic, the results can be both surprising and disappointing.

Much of what happened, therefore, in the bob tail session, can be understood only if one understands the key role of the conference committee.

Medical Care For The Aged

After all the fireworks that threatened on the subject of providing for the medical needs of the elderly, the fuse sputtered and touched off only a small firecracker. The bill that passed has the distinction of not meeting the specifications of either Presidential candidate.

The principal provisions are: (1) A provision for health benefits for "medically needy" elderly persons—those receiving social security pensions but who are unable to meet doctor and hospital bills. The Federal government would pay up to 80 percent of the benefits and states would decide on the scope of benefits and on who is eligible for them. Medical care for those on public assistance would also be raised.

(2) Permissible earnings by those receiving social security retirement benefits was increased a little under a formula raising the earnings limit from $1200 to possibly $1300 a year.

The bill was more notable for the provisions that the Conference Committee knocked out of both the House and Senate bills, than for the parts it retained. The medical care for the elderly closely resembled the House bill, but other House and Senate amendments to the Social Security Law—lowering the age for help to the disabled, social security for doctors, a higher earnings limitation, and other worthwhile sections—were dropped.

One important amendment for Maine which I had urged the Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee to include was accepted. This provision extends for another year the time during which the State of Maine can treat teaching and non-teaching employees as being covered by separate retirement systems for purposes of extending to them Social Security old-age, survivors and disability insurance.

Have you noticed that as the Black-eyed Susans (which this season have bloomed all summer) start to wither and fade that other yellow flowering plants take over to keep the waning summer bright to the very end.

The Susans are the State flower of Maryland and there are 90 species over the U. S. A. countryside, all with golden yellow petals and dark centers.

Most common in Maine is the one with the beehive-like center and slightly drooping petals, also known as "Ox-eyed Daisy", growing in neglected and run-out pasture and grasslands, sometimes the patches being hid away in most remote and inaccessible areas far from one another, leaving us to wonder how the first seed came to be dropped there.

I never come across a stand of these brilliant flowers, often flourishing among thistle burrs and almost hopeless weed tangles, but I think of the title of

Rodeheavers inspiring hymn — "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

Yellow and orange colored wild flowers will predominate for the balance of the summer; mustard, jewel weed, hawk weed, evening primrose, mullens, butter-and-eggs and golden rod having little competition from white, blue and purple asters. Then—after all those have faded, comes the "crowning glory" of Mother Nature's 50,000 varieties, "The Fringed Gentians", which often unfolds its intricately fringed petals after repeated frosts have glazed its buds.

We have two "entirely new" names for Marsh Mary. These (thanks to Alena Pollock of South Thomaston) are Sea-Lavender and Moorwort, the former sounding strangely familiar as a name I've read somewhere which perfectly fits the little plant.

A Thomaston lady wishes I would print a picture of it growing. (Will try soon.)

Huge dog fish, (thousands of 'em) some up to four feet long, and a small band (or should I say "herd") of seals have bottled up a good sized school of stripers in the lower Weskeag River over this weekend, and from Scott's Moorings to Cushing's Point the area was turbulent with surface action on Saturday's ebb tide.

William Makinen and Fred Raye first discovered them on Thursday and took 10, the largest weighing four and a half pounds. Returning from a Saturday afternoon raspberrying trip I ran into them feeding in the shallows of the Stanton-Sharkey area followed by scores of screaming gulls.

The "pay-off" was my fastest fishing in 20 years of seeking stripers—I took 15 fish in an hour and a half, to bring my season's record out of an embarrassing slump.

My boys are down there fishing right now (9 a. m. Sunday) and I will report at the end of this column how they did.

For weeks I have attempted to get a good closeup picture of one of my favorite flowering vines of alder groves along the "Weskeag" where I pick most of my berries.

It bears buds, flowers and mature fruit on the same branch and its small lily shaped blossoms are both white and sapphire blue with exquisite yellow centers.

The vine, often attaining lengths up to 30 feet, is tenaciously twining and tough, but bears its foliage, flowers and fruit with the charming grace of a Japanese painted floral design.

Sorry to add that it is also poison (to me at least) and the rather foul smelling juice from its bruised leaves and bark afflicts me with a burning, spreading rash similar to poison ivy infection. It is the "Woody Nightshade". Maybe I'll get that picture yet.

"How do you keep away from hornets on your berrying trips?" asks a lady who loves to pick berries.

Dear Lady, I don't keep away from them—I get just as close to them as discretion will permit, and very frequently closer—for it's a rare summer that one or more of them don't puncture my "hide" in some place or other—(usually other), for most hornets' nest among berry bushes are built about "that high" and I am usually in retreat at the moment. Hornets and bees are a diligent class of creatures with the admirable "yen" of attending to their own business.

My rule is to listen for them. If there is but one buzzing around you, ignore it.

If there is two or three of the same species it is well enough to quit berry picking until you determine their point of interest near you.

If there's from four to several it's a good idea to make sure your feet aren't encumbered by bushes and undergrowth, and that there's an unobstructed path behind you for a quick get-away, if need be.

If you hear a constant deep buzz, can't see but a few high flyers and it is quit apparent that you have disturbed a hidden nest—just haul the back of your shirt down over your ears and "scram". (If you're a lady berry picker this rule is out except the "scram".)

But if you jump over a stone wall and find you have landed astride of a "yellow-jacket's" nest (same as I once did) you're on your own! With the consolation that each hornet can sting only once, and may that once be "gently" if a mad hornet is possessed of any such a considerate attribute.

The worst sting I ever got was from the white faced black wasp, a jet-speed flyer half as long as your little finger, whose nest I had disturbed while crawling over an old lumber pile.

The heavy wasp struck me as squarely between the eyes as a well placed "jacker's bullet" and with about the same velocity—for I went down as if shot.

Four hours later the swelling had buttoned up both of my eyes and drawn the skin so tight across my face that I couldn't get my lips together, so that I had the facial expression of an inebriated woodchuck.

P.S. Reporting on this morning's stripster junket—

My youngest son, using my boat, didn't get a strike. My oldest son in his own boat caught nine. William Makinen, who went early caught 12—and Fred Raye casting from the bank above "Weskeag" bridge caught three.

I think the best time to troll the lower river is from half tide ebb to the turn of the tide.

In 1914, a Stanley Steamer accelerated from 0 to 60 mpm in 10 seconds; a 310 hp can do it in about 12 seconds.

Washington

The summer is nearly over and the summer residents are leaving.

Medomak Boys' Camp and Med-o-Lark Girls' Camp on Medomak Lake closed last week for the season and many of those remaining will leave this week to begin their year's work soon after Labor Day.

Washington camp meeting began Aug. 20 and held over through Sunday, Aug. 28. Most of the cottages on the camp ground were open and occupied for the whole week and there was a very good attendance the last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Mitchell, Sr., of Roslindale, Mass., are staying at the Roughwood cottage, Medomak Lake, and are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. George Chenell, and family, Bruce and Trudilyn.

Miss Marilyn Turner is at home after teaching Vacation Bible Schools at Lubec in Maine and at Lakeville and Bristol in New Brunswick.

Mrs. Alice Ware has received word of the death last month in Middleboro, Mass., of Mrs. Sadie Hibbert Wentworth. Mrs. Wentworth was the daughter of Deacon Sam Cunningham and was born on the Mountain Road in Washington, Aug. 12, 1855. Had she lived until Aug. 12, this year, she would have been 105 years old. She married Stillman Hibbert for her first husband and they lived just above the Mountain Schoolhouse for many years. After his death she went away to live with her sister and later married Benjamin Wentworth. All of the older residents who remember her will be interested to know she lived to such a grand old age. Burial was in North Middleboro, Mass.

Rebecca Wheeler and Debby Garside of Augusta are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Boynton.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Witham of Pittston called on his cousin, Mrs. Grace Turner, who has been a surgical patient in Miles Memorial Hospital, Damariscotta.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Light were at their farm over the weekend from Bangor.

Trees harvested for use as Christmas decorations probably yield as much joy per pound or per tree as any forest product.

Thomaston Scrapbook Makes History Live

By F. L. S. Morse

Thomaston poor house, built in 1862. Now the property of Raymond Upham who for some years carried on a poultry farm here.

The Poor House

During the years of my boyhood the institution known as the poor house held a large place in the minds of the people in general. For some reason the institution meant to be an economical and human provision for the relief of the aged and infirm and needy including the widow and orphan, became an object of dread to those who by reason of illness or misfortune, feared the approaching time when they would need assistance. Occasionally there was one, who by drunkenness, idleness or waste brought poverty upon himself. Such a one might seem to deserve reproach but it was the height of cruelty and injustice to express contempt to or about the unfortunate.

An old man of my neighborhood was subject to attacks of the blues and would often express the belief that he and his family were going "right straight to the poor house", especially when one of the women of the family had bought a new dress or bonnet. As he was a very loud spoken man, all the neighbors knew about his apprehensions, even if they didn't sympathize. His fears proved to be groundless as we all knew they would.

In the town's earlier years, paupers were boarded out with neighbors, but in 1836, as was told in a recent issue, land was bought from the Dr. Dodge estate opposite the home of Capt. Charles Tilson on the Meadow and a fine two story house was erected as an almshouse, or house of correction.

After some 15 of 16 years this was sold and for the next 10 years the poor were again boarded out at the discretion of the selectmen. In 1862, 16 acres of land and a house were purchased from James Linscott, who had come here and married Nancy Butler, had a family and later moved away. The town officials, it seems sold the Linscott house with a small lot of land to John Henry, a cousin of James, and Henry lived there for a time but sold the land for enlarging the cemetery. I have been told that the house stood about where the Leighton monument is situated. Later, as the story is told, the house which had a large ell as shown on the 1855 map, was taken apart and moved away, one part being taken to Beechwoods where it was used as a dwelling by Fred and Richard Swift. I have been told that another part is now a part of the house owned and used as a home by Carl Stetson. I believe this to be the correct record of this house. In case it is not entirely correct, I would gladly receive and use the information.

After purchasing this Erin Street land the fine large house shown in this picture was erected with the outbuildings shown. This was maintained as a poor farm until 1932. The town hearse was kept in the smaller building. It was drawn by a horse from the poor farm stable. At one time a building from the Stimpson place on Main Street was placed as woodshed where theoretically the stronger of the inmates were to work up firewood, protected from the wind, rain, hail and snow. For years the poor house sheltered those who because of physical infirmities or mental defects were unable to support themselves.

Children grew up in the place where lived sick folks, idiots, drunks and sometimes unfortunate persons neither decent nor in any way fit to be with children.

The late Hiram Grant was the first keeper whom I knew and a most worthy man. My father told there once to call on good old Uncle Eben, not a relative but a neighbor whom all respected. He trembled with the palsy but seemed cheerful. I must have been small because Mr. Grant took me on his knee. Later I knew some of the inmates, old John, old Uncle Hyler, Helen the blind girl and other unfortunates. Old John knew how to drive a horse and once took Mrs. Grant and another lady somewhere in a buggy, John sitting between the two ladies, who could not be called slender. Johnny had no surplus room. As he expressed it, one on one side and one on one side fellow in the middle has a hard show.

After the town had been divided, Rockland built a poor house on the West Meadow Road just above Mossman's Mill, with fine large stables. I must tell a story here. Shep, my father's hired man met and admired a girl from the country who worked for a wealthy neighbor. One Sunday Shep hired a stable team (a horse and buggy) and took the girl on a ride. As they rode along Lake Avenue and looked down on the Rockland poor farm property, the girl exclaimed, "If I ever get married, I'd like to live on a farm like that". "Marry me and that's exactly where you'll live", replied Shep. This story has a sequel. Shep died years later at the Rockland poor house. The girl was disgusted when she learned that the subject of conversation was the almshouse.

Besides Mr. Grant, keepers were: Melzar Studley, Aaron Wincapaw, Darius (Dike) Rackliff, Herbert (Tute) Thomass, Sidney Leonard, Joe Prehen and Hollis D. Young. There may have been others. While Melzar Studley was keeper, he had two little sons and very cute little chaps they were. One fine little fellow died in childhood and the other still lives, Percy Studley, at the Westend, a good industrious man, the owner and trainer of fine bird dogs, a good citizen, deservedly well liked by all who know him.

All the keepers whom I knew were good men and true who performed their duties faithfully.

The day of the poor house is gone and I for one am glad. Aren't you?

John Henry was a cousin of James Henry. He had two sons who were sea captains of whom you will probably be told more in some future Scrap Book story.

Tiger Gridders Practice With Boothbay

The Rockland High School football Tigers went through a controlled scrimmage Wednesday afternoon at Boothbay Harbor against the Boothbay Region Seahawks. Plays were run off as in a regular game, except that the ball was taken back to the line of scrimmage after each play.

Coach Bob Morrill hoped to get a better line on his candidates in the contact session, notably the line which suffered heavily from graduation. Two tackles and two ends must be replaced on the frontier and one of the ends may be Billy Barbour, last year's first string center who has shown a certain amount of aptitude on the flank. Working out at center and showing well has been Charlie Wade.

Others whose line play will be watched with interest are Clark Earl, the transfer from Concord, N. H. High; Parker Glover, Bob Fowler, Mel Nevills and Bill Wiggins.

Backfield candidates who were given a good workout at Boothbay included Bernie Jackson, who may be used as a running back this year as well as a kicker; Billy Jackson, Wes Nichols and Francis Terrio.

As of now most of the positions are wide open on the starting eleven and probably will be up to the opening game, against Madison here on Sept. 10.

The beds of the Hudson, Delaware and Susquehanna rivers lie some 60 feet below the sea level for many miles—indicating the sea level must have risen considerably, since these beds were scoured out. All this moisture locked in continental ice sheets, perhaps?

THE THINGS OUR COASTAL FOLKS DO...

Just the right amount of this and that does the trick.

He isn't a sissy. He just likes to cook; and besides, some of the world's most famous bakers are men. The youngest, and on the way to becoming one of the best known followers of the art of putting good food before his fellow man locally is 15-year-old Richard Ross of Stones Point in Cushing.

The Thomaston High sophomore showed an interest in cooking about a year ago when his mother recruited him to knead bread dough for her. He watched the rest of the procedures which lead up to goodies on the table and decided to have at it. The first attempts were something less than outstanding. Passing days and discarded mixtures led to success and he found that he was better than a fair baker at the age of 13. Now that he has attained the dignity of his fourteenth year and a dozen or more months of experience, he is baking regularly for summer folks and keeping the family cookie jar supplied.

Decorating he likes, and he delights in doing a real fancy trimming job on what otherwise might have gone to the table as just a light and tasty frosted cake. Right now, he is looking forward to the day when some dainty bride-to-be asks him to make her an equally dainty, decorated wedding cake.

A restaurant uses his pies and cakes and summer folks in the Cushing area have taken to his bakery products first rate. On occasion, he turns out a special shape or design of cake for a special occasion of some

It makes little difference what the customer wants in the way of baked goods. Cakes, pies, cookies and bread roll out of the kitchen with equal speed and tastiness. You name it, Richard will come up with it, and enjoy doing it.
