Clerk Suggests Way To Speed Casting Ballot

In looking over the ballot for the November 8 election, City Clerk Gerald U. Margeson came to the conclusion voters might find it a bit confusing by the time they reached the referendum questions on local liquor options so he offered the following suggestion.

"Study the referendum questions in the specimen ballot published in this issue of The Courier-Gazette. List the question numbers on a piece of paper with your choice of 'Yes' or 'No' beside each number. Take the paper with you when you go to vote. This will avoid a delay while you are inside the curtain of the voting machine trying to study each question."

Illness Forces Barde To Withdraw From Race For City Council Seat

Major Elmer E. Barde, one of five candidates for City Council in the December municipal elections, withdrew as a candidate Monday morning. He gave ill health which required hospitalization as his reason.

Barde, a retired Marine Corps officer with 35 years service before retiring and settling in Rockland shortly after World War II, entered the Veterans Facility Hospital at Togus Monday morning.

Remaining candidates for the two positions open in the municipal election of Dec. 5 are: Frederick Tripp, a former councilman and Council chairman; Galen LaGasse, an attorney; Richard Carey, a finance company local manager; and Ralph T. Clark, Jr., a painting contractor.

City Clerk Gerald U. Margeson said Monday that the closing date for filing of nomination papers for the municipal election is Saturday, Nov. 5.

Police Chief Asserts State Highway Commission Let Down Islanders By Lack Of Signs

NORTH HAVEN — The police chief of North Haven, Gordon Wotton, claims the State Highway Commission has let the islanders down by failing to erect proper signs on the various roads of the island. He said that the Commission was asked last June to place speed zone signs, and signs to warn of danger spots.

Chief Wotton's statement: "As Chief of Police of North Haven, and through the courtesy of your newspaper, I would like to make the following statement in the interest and safety of the motorists who travel daily on the island highways.

"With the new state ferry service to the island of North Haven this as you know brings more cars to the island than ever before.

"Although the roads on the island are in very good condition, there are a few 'danger spots' that should have been posted by the Maine State Highway Commission to warn the motorist as he approaches those danger zones, for the safety of themselves and others on our highways.

"This was brought to the attention of Maine State Highway Commission last June and as yet little or no action from that department has been seen to correct this situation. Someone is lax in our Maine State Highway Commission.

"It is only fair to the motorists of North Haven to have or receive the same benefits from the State Highway Commission as do the motorists on the mainland. The islanders pay the same registration and license fees.

"Such signs are needed as these: 'Yield To The Right Of Way', 'Slow', 'Curve', 'Intersection Ahead', 'School Zone - 15 M.P.H.', 'Blind Driveway', and speed limit signs of 25, 35 and 45.

"You cannot enforce the traffic laws of our State and summon the drivers of its motor vehicles into court, when they exceed the speed limits at these danger spots, if they are not warned by our State Highway Commission before they approach these danger spots on the island of North Haven.

"This is only fair to the motorist."

HOSPITAL BLOOD TYPING PROGRAM OVER 1,000 BUT MANY MORE DONORS NEEDED

More than 1000 persons have become blood donors and had their blood typed since June under a program being carried out by pathologist Dr. Albert Hunter, yet many more are needed in Rockland, the Knox County General Hospital has announced.

A team from the hospital has been engaged in blood typing work since June but to date most of it has been done outside Rockland. While many have been typed in Rockland itself, 1,000 should be the number, based on experience with other cities of comparable population.

Dr. Albert Hunter, who heads the blood typing program at the hospital, has a master card file of blood types available at the hospital, and one person in each of the towns where typing has taken place also has a local list in case of an emergency. It is emphasized that an adequate supply is necessary in case of a disaster such as an explosion or bus accident.

The following are the numbers typed in the various towns in the county, plus the Cement Plant: Camden and Rockport, 336; Waldoboro and Friendship, 203; Warren, 90; Dragon Cement, 140; Coast Guard base, 60; Owls Head, 60; Hope Health Council, 41; and Rockland Lions Club, 35.

Individuals or groups in Rockland interested in the program should contact Dr. Hunter at the hospital to make arrangements for typing.

Four Directors Are Elected To Local Chamber

A real estate broker, a merchant, a banker and a newspaper man were named directors of the Rockland Chamber of Commerce in recent mail balloting it was announced Monday by the election committee of the Chamber which just completed tabulating votes.

Water Off In Warren All Day Saturday

WARREN — Tree roots and a sidewalk slab putting pressure on a hydrant made it necessary to move the hydrant back from the street on the hill in front of Mrs. Anna Starrett's house in Warren Village Saturday. The project, normally a two hour affair, hit some snags and took all day. In the top photo, a Camden and Rockland Water Company crew helps the Warren Water Company crew place an elbow between the base of the hydrant and a valve. Warren Water Company co-owner Howard Norwood said it was necessary to shut off water to the whole town because a main valve would not operate permitting partial shut off. Only the west side of town was scheduled to be without water. In the lower photo David White and his son tend a tank from which White fed water to his 10,000 laying hens. Water was shut off about 7:30 a. m. and was off until 4 p. m. Carl Erickson had to haul water to some 6,000 laying hens housed on the farm of Henry Teague. Hens without water begin to molt. Norwood said the need for the change at the hydrant came up too fast to get a notice in the newspaper so some residents didn't get word. The Camden and Rockland Water Company occasionally helps the Warren utility with a major repair job. Photos by Campbell

"SHOWER" GIVEN RETIRING CAMDEN FIREMAN CHARLES (TABBY) COOMBS SATURDAY

CAMDEN — Charles "Tabby" Coombs was honored at a "shower" Saturday night in the Allen P. Payson Fire Station in Camden by members of the Firemen's Auxiliary. "Tabby" is retiring from his duties as deskman at the station this winter and will be taking up residence at his bachelor trailer quarters on Mechanic Street in Camden.

Mrs. Hazel Carr, chairman of the auxiliary, presented Coombs with gift wrapped sheets, blankets and towels to equip his new home. He has been a member of the fire department for 25 years living in the station full time. Thirty people were on hand to honor "Tabby".

Coombs was born in Camden and has been full time deskman for the fire department for 16 years. He said that he is very grateful for the friendships that he has made at his work and that he is looking forward to enjoying a "little play" on his retirement. He bought his new trailer this summer and has been equipping it to move in at the end of the year.

There is an average of 1.9 policemen for each 1,000 of our population.

Detroit was the capital of Michigan until 1847.

Just one vote gave statehood to California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas, and Washington . . . and today all the millions living in those five states are Americans by just one vote.

Deer Herd Described As In Good Condition For Coastal Hunting Season

The month-long deer hunting season starts this morning in the coastal district and wardens in the area feel that the season should be a good one as the herd appears to be in good shape and plentiful. The woods are liable to be noisy from fallen leaves as no heavy rain had fallen at this writing.

Warden Winfield Gordon of Warren said that the deer in this section are still in the low lying areas which are dry in comparison with most years. Cold weather later will send them to the ridges the wardens feel.

Inspection stations in the area are as follows: Waldoboro, Weston's Hardware and Perry Greene, Route 1; Cushing, Fales Store; Thomaston, Pietroski's Service Station; West Rockport, Perley Merrifield's; Owls Head, Smith's Sporting Goods; Warren, Vaughn's Filling Station; Tenants Harbor, Harris' Garage; Camden, Dougherty's Store; Hope, Saulsbury's Store; Appleton, Alice Hall; Union, Abbott's Garage; Washington, F. L. Ludwig's General Store; and Rockland, Knowlton's Station, Park Street.

In Waldo County the nearest stations are Harry Weymouth, Northport; W. R. Cole, South Liberty; Clayton E. Howes, Searsmont; Dean and Eugley Garage, Lincolnville Center; Malcolm Rankin, Lincolnville Beach; and Raymond Banks in Liberty.

OPEN MEETING ON PARKING PROBLEM
TONIGHT

There is a meeting coming up this evening which should be of interest to everyone who does business in or has occasion to shop in the Rockland business section. It is a discussion of the city's parking needs and is called for seven o'clock in the Tower Room of the Community Building by the Chamber of Commerce. One might well say that such meetings have been held and committees named in the past and little result shown for the effort. This may be true to an extent. Certainly, we haven't created any new parking lots this year. But, there has been a tremendous amount of work done toward this end the past months by a very small group of interested persons. The results of their labors and their suggestions will be brought up at the meeting. This group has scored a near miss on a parking lot on the site of the now abandoned Universalist Church on Union Street. Once the City Council moves on this project; titles are cleared and someone found who will raise the huge church structure for a reasonable figure, this lot may become a reality. The County Commissioners stand ready to cooperate in the purchase of the building if the City will pick up the ball from there. The meeting could be an interesting and sometimes peppery one. If you have a stake in the business section, either as a businessman or shopper, it would be to your advantage to be there.

ROCKLAND ENDS GRID SEASON
ON SHORT END OF 25-12 SCORE
IN TANGLE WITH FAIRFIELD

FAIRFIELD—The Lawrence High School Bulldogs took full advantage of Rockland fumbles and defeated the Tigers 25-12 Saturday at Fairfield to leave the Rockland seasonal mark at 2-6 as the season ends. The Tigers were able to defeat only John Baptist and Farmington over the route.

Rockland fumbled five times in the first half Saturday and the first two were turned into Lawrence touchdowns minutes later. A hard running halfback named Bob Richards scored three times for the home team, once on a 48 yard scamper through a broken field as at least six Tigers missed shots at him. The Tigers also had a recurrence of their trouble with end runs and two of the scores came on romps around the flanks.

The final home team score came in the fourth quarter after a pass was intercepted. Rockland scored their touchdowns in the final quarter by Butch Terrio and Wes Nichols.

The loss dropped the Tigers to an 0-4 mark in Kennebec Valley League competition. Charlie Finley went out with a dislocated finger and Clark Earl with a chest injury. A bright feature for the Tigers was the fine line play of Sandy Delano who played his best game.

League of Women Voters

Of Rockland

Proposed Constitutional Amendment — Shall the Constitution be amended as proposed by a resolution of the Legislature to provide continuity of government in case of enemy attack? This amendment, as passed by the 99th Legislature, will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot. Its purpose is to grant emergency authority for filling state and local offices and otherwise insure the continuity of governmental operations in the event of an emergency, such as a nuclear attack that might kill or disable a large number of officials. Twelve other states will simultaneously consider the amendment recommended by the Council of State Governments in connection with the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization.

Enactment of the legislation would permit only for temporary succession to offices. Its purpose is to:

Continue constitutional leadership and authority in executive, legislative and judicial positions. Minimize unlawful assumption of authority.

Preserve civil government and minimize need for martial law. Assure that government can function effectively in the emergency.

Re-establish normal governmental functions and services. The League of Women Voters welcomes any group of six or more people to borrow a demonstration model voting machine, instruction poster, specimen ballot, voters manual, etc., in order to be better prepared and better informed voters on Nov. 8.

A representative of the group — neighborhood, church, civic, or other — will be instructed when he or she picks up the material available from the Voters Service Committee. Many resources, some of which may be circulated, are available at the public library. Any questions of a non-partisan nature that are telephoned to the Voters Service Committee will be answered for the public. If not possible "on the spot", the answer will be found and relayed to the caller. Voters Service Committee, League of Women Voters of Rockland; Miss Madeline Philbrick, Mrs. Rupert Stratton and Mrs. Paul Moran, chairman.

Musical Notes

Hugh M. Benner

Sigurd Thordarson

The Icelandic Singers, appearing here at Community Building on Friday, Nov. 4, are an outstanding musical organization from one of the most musical countries in the world. The most famous of all Iceland's male choirs, the ensemble, called "Karlaokur Reykjavikur" is a national pride bearing the banners of a choral art which has flourished in the North since the days of the Vikings.

Founded in 1926 by Sigurdur Thordarson, the chorus of 36 has achieved an international reputation in the 34 years of its existence.

The Icelandic Singers made their American debut in 1946, performing in 55 cities of the U. S. and Canada.

The man behind the Icelandic Singers is one of the leading figures of his native land. Sigurdur Thordarson is his name. He was born April 8, 1895, in Dryafjordur in the northwestern part of Iceland. The son of a minister of the Lutheran Church of Iceland, he grew up in a musical atmosphere but did not, however, devote himself to serious study of music until he went to the capital city of Reykjavik. He continued his musical studies in Leipzig, Germany, where he lived for three years, attending classes at the Royal Conservatory.

Thordarson's Leipzig training gave him the broad musical background any good choral conductor needs.

The success of their first American tour in the 1946-47 season has led indirectly to their even more elaborately booked second tour, on which they are appearing for the first time under the auspices of the world's largest managers of serious music, Columbia Artists Management, Inc. Columbia takes pride in presenting a fresh point of view toward American music and musicians in the person of a talented conductor composer and his stirring vocal ensemble.

Vienna-born Fritz Weissstapel, official accompanist of the Icelandic Singers and chief pianist of the Icelandic State Broadcast Service, inherited his talents from a music professor-father and a singing mother. His work in accompanying the Icelandic Singers and innumerable performers at the Broadcast Service has made him the country's best-known accompanist. He is proud of the fact that he has been an Icelandic citizen for nearly a quarter of a century.

Highlights of the recent Worcester Festival: It was my good fortune to be able to attend the 101st year of the Music Festival Week. The Festival is held in the Worcester Memorial Auditorium which seats 3500, and was filled to capacity nearly every evening for the week. The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Paul Paray conducting, and The Worcester Festival Chorus, T. Charles Lee conducting, were the backbone of the Festival, each night a guest star was presented Monday evening's guest was 30 year-old Canadian pianist Glen Gould. Gould, noted for his personal eccentricities as well as for his undisputed artistry at the piano, presented two numbers, performed with the Detroit Orchestra: Beethoven's Concerto No. 2 in B flat and Richard Strauss' "Burlesque" for piano and orchestra.

On Tuesday evening the guest artist was Richard Tucker, who has been acclaimed as the world's greatest living tenor. Tenor Richard Tucker brought intense drama to five operatic arias that rely heavily on clear, convincing portrayer and vocal mastery. In response to a thunderous ovation, he sang an encore "E lucevan le Stelle" from Puccini's Tosca.

There being no concert on Wednesday evening, I drove on to New York, where I attended the Wednesday matinee of "Music Man" and the evening performance of "An Evening with Mike Nichols and Elaine May". This is the outstanding comedy now being presented in New York, and it is certainly an entertaining evening.

On Thursday I returned to Worcester for the remaining concerts of the Festival. Thursday evening's great artist was Isaac Stern, violinist, playing Brahms' "Concerto in D Major". This concert was also a triumph for the Festival Chorus, performing Ralph Vaughan Williams' "A Sea Symphony". Modest contributors to the performance were Margaret Kalil, soprano, and Edmond Karl-rud, bass-baritone.

Friday night which was "Artist's Night" at the Worcester Music Festival, presented the brilliant and beautiful coloratura soprano Roberta Peters. Miss Peters charmed the huge audience with her renditions of four varied and taxing arias: "Queen of the Night", Mozart's "Mia Speranza Adorata", Rossini's "Una voce poco fa" from the Barber of Seville, and the Mad Scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor". She sang the Rossini aria again as an encore in response to an almost deafening ovation from her audience.

Saturday evening saw the biggest sensation of the 101st Music Festival by Gina Bachauer, pianist, in Rachmaninoff's "Third Piano Concerto". Nine curtain calls resulted in an encore—"Great Gate at Kiev."

Mme. Bachauer was born in Greece, musically educated in France, and now a London resident. She is married to Alexander Sherman, former conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra. Mme. Bachauer's devotion to her music has made her a perfectionist. She was one of the greatest pianists I have ever heard, and certainly was the "highlight" of the entire Music Festival.
