"A Rat! A Rat!"—A few days since, our curiosity was excited by a motley group of good natured city, who blockaded the entrance to one of the dry goods stores, Cheap Side. On approaching the spot we recognized bank directors, eloquent counsellors, knights of the pestle and mortar, besides sundry learned and sage editors and spectacled matrons, who were examining all that remained of a Rat, viz.—his skin!

It appeared that the little rat, in his nocturnal visits to the cupboard and cheese press, was accidentally ensnared in a trap; when upon finding it impossible to escape with his coat on, he disengaged himself of that article, and escaped through his skin, which he left behind, to prove to his conqueror the inefficiency and futility of human invention. Since his departure, nothing has been heard from him, and it is feared, that by being exposed to the dampness of the cell, which his tribe inhabit, he may catch cold, and expire under the agonies of that most distressing and lingering disease, the consumption.

The following "Tragedy," written on the event, has been handed us by an esteemed correspondent, which will introduce our readers to all the circumstances of the affair, and picture to their feelings the agonies suffered, while in solitary confinement, by our hero—the Rat:

SKINNED ALIVE; A MYSTERY,
In 1 Act.

The curtain rises to slow music.—Scene, a vaulted apartment of rough stone resembling a dungeon. On one side, a tier of barrels; door, grated windows, &c. &c. Near the back scene, a huge steel-trap, baited with cheese.

The music ceases. A troop of rats and mice enter upon the stage in grand procession. Strange noises are heard at intervals, and they vanish in evident alarm.

(Enter a Rat cautiously.)
Solemnly.

"When night has thrown her mantle o'er creation,

"And half the world is wrapt in pitchy darkness;

Her Luna's orb has risen in the heavens,
Throwing its light thro' yonder aperture;
I love to range along these spacious halls;
And view the dwelling which we rats inhabit."

(Music. Distant noises are heard.—Drawing back of bolts, sound of voices and approaching footsteps.)

"Some one intrudes upon my meditations;
What cause is there, for this nocturnal clamour?

Hence, and play the spy upon their secret.

No. I'll display more magnanimity;
And face to face, will meet this bold intruder.

But hark! Again all's silent in the mansion;
Methinks my appetite is now increasing.
Rats are but mortal, and must feed on that
Which bounteous nature has spread out before them;

For mortals cannot live on mind alone,
And life were short indeed did we not seek
For grosser food."

(After a pause he retreats up the stage.)
"Hail! what is this? A prize is full before me.

Here is a dainty of the choicest kind;
And I will feast, now, like an Alderman."

(He touches the spring and the trap closes. Lights are seen approaching.)

"Fire! Treachery! Rats! Kinsmen! to the rescue!

Oh, curse on my voracious gormandizing,
Far sillier I, than was the Hebrew Esau,
Who sold his birth-right for a mess of pottage.

As there are means of freedom, O remains.

Would that I had the power of ancient Sampson,

Or of Mr. Perkins' improy'd steam engine;
I'd burst these bonds, and stand once more in freedom;

Or, (in the words of Johnny Philpot Curran.)

"Redeemed, regenerated, and disenthralled."

(He rises, draws a long breath, JUMPS OUT OF HIS SKIN, and the curtain falls.)

The New-York Rochester Telegraph appends the following comment to a sketch of the public services of JOHN Q. ADAMS:

In this course of public services, commencing long before his arrival at the age of manhood, and embracing a period of more than forty years, Mr. Adams has been equally distinguished for the purity of his morals, the ardor of his patriotism, and the strength of his intellect. Few men have lived a life more honourable to themselves or more useful to their country. His public services challenge the severest scrutiny. His private character is so far beyond the reach of detection, that malice has never dared to assail it. Where else can a man be found, who has been forty years in public life, without furnishing even a pretext for opposition?—Who is more independent in spirit, more inflexible in purpose, or more devoted to the constitution of his country, than John Quincy Adams? Who can detect a wrong in the long history of his official life, or point to a blemish upon his moral character?

When has he intrigued for office, or sacrificed principles for power? These are plain questions. Let his revilers answer them satirically before they ask the people to join them in opposing a man who has so many and such irresistible claims to their full confidence.

Instead of opposing the election of Mr. Adams, we should be grateful in possessing a man so eminently qualified to succeed the revolutionary worthies who have formed and established a government that promises to extend its blessing to many generations. What better evidence do we want, what stronger proof can we have, of Mr. Adams' patriotism and trustworthiness than the commendations of WASHINGTON, JEFFERSON, MADISON, and MONROE? He was appointed to an embassy by the immortal Washington.—The illustrious Jefferson selected him for a mission to Russia. Madison removed him to the court of Saint James, and Monroe called him to the Department of State. He has served with success and fidelity in all these responsible stations. His character and talents are respected by all foreign governments. He is honoured and beloved by his own countrymen. He retains the full confidence of the venerable surviving Presidents. And if it were possible to furnish more conclusive evidence of his exalted worth, we have it in the opposition of Binns, Noah, Leake, Van Buren and Spencer.

DESTRUCTION OF PIRATES!

Extract of a letter from an officer belonging to the U. S. Steam-galliot Sea-Gull, dated on board the piratical schooner Cataline, at Matanzas, July 9, to a merchant in N. York.

"We left here in the barge Gallinipper, in company with the barge Moschoe to and sch's Fox and Weasel, and parted with the sch's on or about the 1st of July, and proceeded inside the Keys in hopes of meeting pirates. On the 5th of July, in passing near the place where the brave Allen fell, we observed a schooner heaving out with three boats in tow; we immediately bore down upon her, and when within shot, she fired upon us, and made all sail before the wind. She at first had Spanish colors flying, but soon hauled them down. We chased her for about an hour, when she came to an anchor within one hundred yards of the shore, with springs on her cables.—When we got within musket shot, they commenced firing at us with nails, spikes, and other things; we returned their fire with a quickness that they were quite unused to, and they soon retreated to their boats, keeping up a constant fire. As we got near them they all jumped overboard and made for the shore, where but few of them ever arrived; for seeing the schooner deserted, Captain Watson passed her and followed them to the shore, where about half of them had landed; when we arrived here we had fair play at them, and they fell as fast as our cutlasses and balls could reach them. We have taken 10 prisoners, 4 of whom say they were passengers on board the schooner when taken by the pirates. None of our men were killed or wounded. Eighteen pirates have since floated ashore, and several were taken in the woods by the Spanish country people. This schooner mounted one long 9 pounder on a pivot, amidships, and two smaller guns, with about fifty men. This is a great blow to the pirates."

A letter from the same officer, dated Key West, 11th of July, says, "that they arrived there safe the day before, with the prize and prisoners."

It was reported at Turks Island, on the 14th ult. that a British sloop of war had captured off St Domingo, a piratical schooner with a crew of 60 men, together with $200,000 on board, in specie, and other valuable articles; the pirates were sent to Jamaica. The sloop of war was disguised as a merchantman, and went on, and boarded her with her boats.

A very singular fact occurred in Manchester a few days since. As Mr. Samuel Cheever was at work in his field, his attention was attracted at the sight of a number of dung hill larks, with heads erect and wings extended, standing in a circular manner.—On going near to ascertain the cause, he saw a large black snake of 5 feet in length, within the circle, and his squamous head 7 or 8 inches above the surface of the earth, while his posterior parts remained in a spiral form. And so complete was the fascination, that Mr. C. was under the necessity of getting a pole to disperse the larks, in order that he might kill the snake, in which he happily succeeded.

The Serpent, which had power over our mother Eve, hath power also over the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air.—Salem Register.

From the Rhode-Island American.

A SHARK.—One of the largest of this species of fish was taken a few days since, in a seine, by some fishermen, in Bristol harbor. In this state, and exhibited to a number of highly respectable gentlemen, &c. A Bristol correspondent has communicated the following notice of this extraordinary visitant in our waters:—

He measures ten feet three inches in length, and six feet in circumference. The lateral diameter of the mouth ten inches; and the transverse, eighteen, capable of taking in a full-sized man. The teeth are triangular, and very pointed and sharp, projecting nearly an inch in front, & within the mouth turned inwards, five deep, in regular rows, furnishing the animal a sure hold on whatever he seized on. His entrails being opened, were found to contain a sheep, a calf's head and feet, a marine animal called a Theropod, a large sea-fowl, and several other large substances. The calf's head and feet are entire; the head, neck, and legs of the sheep partly decomposed. The whole fish and sea-fowl appear to have been lately taken. Hundreds of men, women, and children, have paid the animal a visit.

SILLY REPORT.—A report was, yesterday, generally & industriously circulated throughout the city that I had been killed in a duel with Col. GARDNER. Some had it that I was wounded in the neck, some in the hip, and others in the jugular vein. Many were very sorry, some rather glad; all the anti-conscience men were pleased; and some did not care at all. Whoever originated this hoax might just as well have killed GARDNER as me; rather better because he would not have been so much missed. I hope the Col. did had no agency in the report, because I am ready to certify that he has no more idea of fighting than his neighbors. Seriously, I shall be guilty of no such folly as fighting duels. I hold the practice in contempt. It neither proves a man just nor brave. It proves nothing but his madness.

Consulate of the U. S. of America.
ANTIOCHA, 6th July, 1823.

SIR—I am authorized to inform you by the Collector of this port, that American vessels trading to the colony, will henceforward be permitted to bring invaluable goods, provided they enter them for exportation. As I conceive this information to be of material consequence to our ship owners and others, I lose no time in making it known to you, which I trust, through the medium of the papers, you will make public. I beg leave to inform you also, that American vessels coming to this island will meet with every despatch and attention from the public officers of government of every class, especially the Collector and Comptroller of the Customs, who, on all occasions, have acted on the most liberal principles; in instances, even when advantages might have been taken to the contrary.

I have the honor to be, with consideration and respect, your obedient servant.

ROBERT MONROE HARRISON.
To the Collector of the port of N. York.

On Wednesday last, a party of 150 gentlemen, principally merchants in extensive business, as a testimony of their high regard for the professional character and private worth of Capt. ISAAC HULL, gave him a sumptuous dinner at the Exchange Coffee House, on the occasion of his departure to relieve Capt. Steward in the command of the American naval forces in the Pacific Ocean. Among the guests were the Governor of the State—Mayor of the city—Judges of the U. S. States Courts—President of Harvard University, and several distinguished Naval Officers.

Singular Affair.—In May last Miss Wilson, a black woman, residing in Galesburg, was arrested on suspicion of murder. A trial about 10 years old had been living with her for some time past, and had been several times immorally beaten by her. Some time in April the lad suddenly disappeared, and has not since been heard of. Search was made, and his hat found on a piece of ice in the river. From several circumstances this woman was suspected of having murdered the child. No satisfactory evidence, however, was produced against her, at her examination, and she was dismissed. A few days since she was arrested a second time, together with one John Stockbridge, who has for some time made her house his home, and who was living with her about the time the boy disappeared. On examination Stockbridge confessed, that going home one day he found the boy dead in the house; that he proposed calling in the neighbors, but was ordered by his mistress to be silent, and throw the boy into the river; that accordingly he put the boy into a sack with some stones, rowed off from the shore, and threw it into the river, after which he placed his hat on a piece of ice, that it might be supposed the boy was drowned. They are both in prison to await their trial at the next session of the Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, JULY 25, 1823.

Monument to Elbridge Gerry.

The Monument voted by Congress to be erected to the memory of the late Vice-President GERRY is now finished. It is principally in the antique style. The pedestal is pyramidal, after the manner of the Egyptian tomb; the urn resembles a Grecian Vase; both ornamented with taste and richness. The Monument is of pure Massachusetts Marble, designed and executed by Messrs. W. and J. FRAZER, native artists of New York. It bears the following inscription (furnished by the Friends of the deceased):—

"THE TOMB OF ELBRIDGE GERRY, Vice-President of the United States, who died suddenly, in this City, November 23d, 1814, on his way to the Capitol, as President of the Senate aged 70. Thus, fulfilling his own memorable injunction—'It is the duty of every citizen, though he may have but one day to live, to devote that day to the good of his country.'"

AND ON THE REVERSE—
"Erected by order of the Congress of the United States, 1823."

FROM CUBA.—Havana accounts to the 14th July have been received. Events in Spain occasioned much anxiety and solicitude for their result. The Havana people, as elsewhere, appear to have been deceived by those who substitute wishes for facts.—They also appeared determined to adhere to the Constitution, even should it be abolished in Spain; and, in case of extremity to declare the island free and independent. This language was openly held at a meeting of the Municipality: who have fallen out with their new Governor General, whose liberalism they began to suspect, and who to a rude question put to him by the municipality, whether he would support the Constitution of 1812, replied, that he would be true to his oath. It is added, that at the last dates the guards were doubled, and the streets thronged with soldiers.

EASTPORT.

SATURDAY, AUG. 9, 1823.

Mr. Tolson,

Sir—I was much pleased with an Extract in your last paper from the Essex Register, recommended to the perusal of the Hon. Mr. Johnson. If it would answer for him by way of reproof I think it admirably fitted for the people by way of caution.

I for one have been astonished of late to see with what indifference many of our fellow citizens have exercised the right of suffrage. It would seem as if we had forgotten our birth-right, or was willing to part with it for a mess of pottage, for while we remember the cost of our privileges, and properly estimate them, we can never exercise them with indifference. This want of attention to one of our dearest rights has opened the door of office to many such characters as are described in the extract above alluded to.

We see many among us, who, until we were separated from Massachusetts and our State assumed politically a Republican character, were never known to drop a word in favour of Republican measures—but mark the change! no sooner does our State assume a new political character, than they meet at once with a wonderful change. Yesterday, they would swallow with a greedy appetite the whole grist of Massachusetts Federalism, Hartford Convention and all, to day they are staunch blazing Democrats—vilifying the very men and measures they yesterday supported. The approaching election for President has brought many of these political speculators into notice. Some of our political leaders at Washington, in order to redeem their pledge to a certain candidate for the next Presidency have ransacked the political shambles from Kittery to Concord, in search of such characters to suit their purposes; they know their mark, and have made selections accordingly. This course has brought before the public many who would otherwise never been thought of by the people. It is time the public were awake and put on their guard against the intrigues of such political bargainers.

We do not pretend to say that Mr. Johnson is such a character, but judging from his political course, the manner of his nomination and support, and his political creed we should guess it had a squinting that way. It is believed Mr. Printer, that we can find men enough among us to fill the offices within the gift of the people, who have uniformly followed one course and whose political principles have never been so corrupt, that it is necessary to proclaim to the world that they have met with a political change, in order to secure their votes. The times have become politically cool and we have reason to suspect a person who now comes forward and avows a change of that kind, has some other motive beside merely to convince his neighbors that he has altered his opinion.

Let us then, Fellow-Citizens, select men to fill the offices within our gift, of tried integrity, men who will not sacrifice every honest principle, and the interest of their constituents to their own aggrandizement.

Such a man we believe is Jeremiah O'Brien, Esq., you have trusted him and he has never deceived you—come forward then at the next election and say to the world that he is the people's choice to represent them in the next Congress.

A VOTER.

FOR THE SENTINEL.

The time is near at hand when the Freemen of Washington County will be called upon to unite in giving their suffrages for a suitable person to represent them in the Senate of Maine. The Hon. THOMAS VOSE, of Robbinston, is recommended as a gentleman fully qualified for that important office. He is well known to the electors of this County, as a man possessing general information, well acquainted with Legislation, of unsullied reputation, integrity unimpeached, a moderate politician, a firm republican, true to himself and Country; the best interest of this county, as also the State in general, is very familiar to him, he having been a resident in this State and County for more than twenty-five years—his moral and political character has been the admiration of all those who are capable of appreciating real worth. To lay before the public, the numerous claims and qualities of Mr. Vose is quite unnecessary for his obtaining a full vote for the office of Senator. As before said he is well and almost personally known to every voter of this County—let us then forget sectional and local feelings or interest and expand our views to the general good. Towns that would have their proportion of influence in our deliberative assemblies must not throw impediments in the way by imposing on the public candidates who have no claims and only serve to prevent elections and increase burthens and difficulties by causing the electors of a District or County to assemble and transact business, which creates much confusion and damage. Such towns justly forfeit all their influence as regards their private interest, for who would advocate the interest of those who have abused, disgraced, and insulted. They can have no claims further than their interest with the State at large. "Ask not a friend in him who has not a friend in you." We cannot believe that there will be any opposition to the honorable gentleman's election, unless a certain Crawfordite should take the field, who, fall of deadly personal revenge may attempt to prevent his election probably by offering the Hon. Judge Campbell as a candidate, who is justly esteemed by this county as the most suitable person to fill the office of Counsellor, and there can be no doubt but such will be the case, in being this county's turn to have the Counsellor this year. It is fully understood by the friends of the honorable gentleman that Mr. Campbell will be strongly recommended to the Legislature for the office before mentioned, and that Mr. Vose will be supported by all honorable means for the office of Senator, notwithstanding whatever may be urged to the contrary. Elector, be at your post on the second Monday of September, and signify your attachment for honesty and republicanism by giving the Hon. THOMAS VOSE your united support.

A REPUBLICAN.

Latest from England.

Our London files to the 19th June have come to hand.

The French army officials were to the 13th June. The four movable columns of the main army (including Mitor's corps) were advancing, almost unopposed, into the Spanish provinces which had not then been "liberated." Two of these columns, which were both unquestionably destined to the new capital of Spain to dissolve the Cortes and liberate the Spanish King, were both preceded by advanced guards composed of between 2 and 3000 royalist each. One of these guards it seems had encountered a Constitutional corps among the Sierras, and overthrew it, and were at Baylen on the 16th June, nearly half way between Madrid and Seville. The column penetrated into Leon, had advanced some miles beyond Astorga, towards Galicia, after what is called a "brilliant affair." The other columns were moved with equal celerity. It appeared from the French and Royalist accounts, at least, that the French troops had met with but very little more opposition after they passed the line of Madrid, than they did before they arrived at it—that they had been received as deliverers by the Spanish population; had not been charged with excesses; had fulfilled all their engagements; and had paid punctually in Fueros for all the supplies furnished them. It also appeared that the promised opposition of the Constitutionalists to their march had been adjoined without delay. Time will discover the truth or falsity of these appearances.

In Catalonia—Marshal Manceya's divisions were still traversing circles, "waiting their strength in strenuous idleness," and without the occurrence of even ordinary war events.

General Mina, with his 3000 guerillas, had left his position at Seo d'Urgel, and skirting the French border without entering it, had reached Camprodon, and was probably posting to Figueras, near the sea coast, which Morse tells us, was a strong and magnificent castle. At the last date the Marshal's H. Q. were at Cardener. His army is called the Army of Catalonia. It is likely so to remain, but the French papers apologize for it by saying, that many of its officers were veterans of the Armies of Condé and Napoleon, and must now be expected to have more prudence than activity.

The Regency of Madrid exercised sovereign power over a large portion of Spain—France, Russia, Prussia, and Austria had recognized it as the representative of Ferdinand, and had sent Ambassadors to it. England had not followed the example, and her Minister remained with the Cortes and King at Seville.

The advices from Seville in the French papers were but very few, and contradictory.—The only direct accounts from that capital have been received in Philadelphia—and these no later than the 1st June. The French accounts, that the marine regiment of the guards had discovered a disposition to prevent the removal of the King from Cadiz, was of the 3d. According to the Seville papers received above, the King appeared apparently satisfied with his situation, and resolved to execute the Constitution. They were filled with spirited debates of the Cortes—and despatches from Mina, Ballasteros, and other Constitutional Generals. These despatches do not differ from the French accounts of the same events, so much in the results as in the details. From the general tenor of the extracts from these papers, it appeared that no attempts at negotiation were making at Seville—that the Cortes did not hesitate to utter the most vehement denunciations of the "dastardly" conduct of the French Government, and of the Regency [Junta] at Madrid, nor to omit to announce their solemn determination to resist all their pretensions, or to fall with glory and honor. It was the opinion of their friends, and the wish of all who respect the Independence of Nations, that they would keep their ranks better than the Cortes of Portugal, who made similar declarations only two days before they dispersed.

Portugal.—The accounts received in the United States of recent events in Portugal, are later than this arrival—but these last apply some particulars of the early parts of the Counter-Revolution, by which it appears that the King at first protested against the measures he afterwards approved—and that the Cortes, two days before they dissolved, declared their session to be permanent.—The effect of those measures on Spain may be anticipated.

In England subscriptions of money, arms, &c. to the amount of $30,000, had been made in favor of the Spanish cause—but there was not the least prospect that the Government would deviate from its neutral position, and the Parliament was wholly engaged in measures for the amelioration of the great interests of the nation.

There were rumors of a detected conspiracy in Russia against the Emperor's life, but they were mere rumors.—Columbian Cent.

Notice to Mariners.

A vessel having two masts, with Lanterns on each, have been moored in an easterly direction, between six and seven miles from Sandy Hook Light House, in nine and one half fathoms water. Lights are placed in each lantern at sun set, and kept burning until sunrise. The vessel is provided with a large bell and clockwork, which in stormy and foggy weather will be kept tolling at the rate of one stroke per minute. Vessel from sea making the Light and steering due West, will avoid the shoals and come to anchor within Sandy Hook.

It is said that two of the pirates, recently captured and confined at Trinidad, Cuba, have confessed that they captured the brig Mechanic, Ray, of New York, murdered all her passengers, (one was Mr. L. De Forest, mer. of N. Y.) officers, and crew, plundered the vessel, and then burnt her!

The Ricaras Indians have attacked a party of 75 Americans, under Gen. Ashly, 2 or 300 miles above the Council Bluffs, killed 14 and wounded 9. Col. Leavenworth has marched with a body of troops to punish the aggressors.

IRON CHURCH.—St. George's Church is an object of considerable architectural interest for its taste, as having been nearly the first cast iron church erected in England. The whole of the frame work of the windows, doors, pillars, groins, roof, and pulpit, and ornamental enrichments, are of cast iron. The length of the church is 118 feet; the breadth 47. It is ornamented with a splendid cast window of stained glass.

The tower, raised to the height of 96 feet, and standing on a hill, the site of an ancient sea beacon, is elevated 345 feet above high water mark, and commands one of the finest views in the kingdom, comprehending the town and shipping of Liverpool, the estuary of the Mersey, the level surface of Lancashire, as far as the eye can trace the prospect, with the craggy hills of Wales towards the west, and towards the northeast, the distant mountains of Cumberland and Westmoreland. The contemplative Christian, viewing so many of our churches, thus characteristically situated, will be inclined to see in them an apt emblem of what the Ministers of Christ themselves should ever be, "guides and way marks in the path to bliss," or in a still more authoritative language "cities set upon a hill which cannot be hid."

On Wednesday Last WASHINGTON LODGE, at Lubec, was consecrated and its Officers installed in due form.—An address was delivered by brother DENNIS GARLAND, and the music on the occasion was excellent. The ceremonies being over a large number of the Fraternity partook of a splendid dinner prepared by Mr. STRANES.

CHEMICAL EMEROCATION

OR WHITEWELL'S LIQUID IMPROVED OPODELDOC.

THE article here enumerated must not be considered as adding one more number to the already extensive catalogue of advertised Medicines; it is in fact an important improvement only, to a well known composition.

The Embrocation contains three of the most valuable articles to be met with in the whole circle of Medicine, never before employed in any other Opoodeldoc, in addition to the other ingredients usually made use of in the hard kind, and will be found on experiment at least of three times its strength and effect. The money will be cheerfully refunded to those who, after having used one bottle, may think differently.

The Hon. Samuel L. Mitchell, M. D. LL. D. one of the first Medical Professors in the state of New-York, has given a certificate in its favour—such authority you will not dispute.

Certificates also from several respectable citizens are annexed to the directions, who have received the greatest benefit from the "Improved Liquid Opoodeldoc," when they had previously used the hard kind to no purpose whatever.

This article is asserted to be a sovereign remedy in Bruises, Sprains, Gout, Rheumatism, Cramp, Numbness, Stiffness, or Weakness of the Neck or Joints, Slight Burns, Scalds, Fresh wounds, Chilblains, &c.

"For the use of horses and cattle in these cases, it may be considered as inestimable."

"As the whole family of mankind are liable to these casualties, no prudent person should be without a bottle of it in their house."

It is prepared by J. P. WHITEWELL, whose name is impressed on each bottle, without which it is not genuine.

N. B. In cases of acute Gout and Rheumatism, a tea spoonful on going to bed, taken inwardly, in a wine glass of cold water, has in conjunction with the external application of it, performed some most extraordinary cures.

CAUTION.

Be on your guard against counterfeits, as spurious and servile imitations are in existence, manufactured by other people in their own names. Therefore be sure to ask for and receive "WHITEWELL'S LIQUID IMPROVED OPODELDOC" which words are stamped on each bottle—Or you assuredly will be imposed upon.

Also may be had, that valuable and popular article, AROMATIC SNUFF, recommended by Doctor Waterhouse, which snuff is so celebrated throughout the American continent, in cases of cough and head-ache, & which possesses that desirable property of sensibly stimulating the spirits without subsequent oppression.
